The healths of "The Lay Members" and "The Host" were then given and responded to by Bros. Treadwell and Joynt, and, after some excellent songs and a recitation by Bro. Joyce, the brethren and ladies returned to town highly delighted. We must not forget to mention that the respected Bro. Carpenter brought the harmony of the evening to a close with his favourite song of "Twelve Bottles More."

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Gresham Lodge, No. 869.—This lodge held their usual meeting as the Four Swans Hotel, Waltham Cross, on Saturday, July 9th. Bro. R. Bruce, W.M., was supported by all the officers, and there was a good attendance of brethren. Bro. Henry Muggeridge, P.M. 192, was the only visiting brother, and he expressed his satisfaction at the perfect manner in which the W.M. had discharged his duties, which consisted of raising Bros. Stephens and Pottle. As is usual at this season of the year there was a good attendance of ladies, the wives and friends of the brethren; and at the conclusion of the business of the lodge, all adjourned to a sumptuous and well-laid banquet, where they thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and interchanged those friendly courtesies which tend so much to cement friendship and increase the interest of the fair ones in the cause of Masonry. The only toasts on this occasion were those of "The Queen and the Craft," "The Ladies," and "The W.M." The toast of "The Ladies" was responded to by the gallant Bro. Capt. Barnes in a very amusing and complimentary manner. The evening was enlivened by several capital songs. Bro. W. H. Ethrington sang a new song he had recently set to music, entitled "Happy to Meet," which, not only as a Masonic song, but as one particularly appropriate for this occasion, gave great satisfaction. The brethren and friends then adjourned into the beautiful gardens, where the dessert was laid, during which the band of the 41st Middlesex Rifles V.C., conducted by Bro. Ethrington, played some excellent selections and dance music, thus concluding a most enjoyable day. The brethren returned to town much pleased with their reunion meeting.

Perfect Ashlar, No. 1178.—At the Gregorian Arms Tavern, 95, Jamaica-road, Bermondsey, this lodge met on Thursday, July 7th. Bro. J. W. Avery, W.M., presided. He passed Bro. Baker, and raised Bro. Collins. There were present: Bros. J. Green, S.W.; H. Bartlett, J.W.; Dr. Dixon, P.M.; Treas.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; D. Rose, P.M.; S.D.; G. J. Grace, J.D.; J. W. Dudley, I.G.; F. H. Elsworth, P.M., &c. Visitors: Lazarus, P.M.; Swass, &c. Banquet was also served.

PROVINCIAL.

WARRINGTON.—Gilbert Greenall Lodge, No. 1250.—The regular monthly meeting of the lodge was held on Monday evening last, at the Masonic Rooms. The W.M. Bro. W. Mossop was supported by Bros. W. Richardson, J.W., as S.W.; P. J. Edelsten, as J.W.; John Bowes, P.M., Past Prov. G. Reg., as P.M.; W. S. Hawkins, S.D.; W. Pollitt, J.D.; J. Parry, Peter Leigh, I. H. Potter, John Wood, Thomas Pierpoint, Henry Hoult, R. Brierly, Thomas Auckland, and James Hannah, Tyler. Visitor: Bro. William Smith, W.M. No. 148. The lodge was opened in form with prayer, when the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bros. Pierpoint, Wood, and Potter claimed preferment, and having sustained their claim, were entrusted. On readmission they were raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the W.M. being assisted by Bro. Bowes. The lodge was closed down, and nothing further being proposed for the good of Masonry in general or of No. 1250 in particular, it was closed with the usual solemnities.

SCOTLAND.

GLASGOW.—Lodge of Glasgow St. John, No. 3 bis.—The meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 5th inst., at the usual hour. In the absence of the Master, the chair was filled by Bro. Craig, P.M.; Bro. Fletcher acting S.W.; and Bro. M'Aulay acting J.W. The lodge was duly opened, after which a candidate was initiated by Bro. Bamber, Sec. The R.W.M. thereafter entered and took the chair, upon which the minutes were read, and, after some comments, passed. The Sub-M. then proposed that a committee of the Office Bearers of the lodge should be appointed to wait upon the editor of the Glasgow Herald in order to get, if possible, the name of the individual who was writing concerning the lodge under the signature of "Masonicus," so that, if possible, legal proceedings should be taken against him for his remarks. This motion was seconded by the Treasurer, and agreed to. The lodge was shortly afterwards closed in due form.

ROYAL ARCH.

Caveau Chapter, No. 176.—The election meeting of this chapter was held at Radley's Hotel, Blackfriars, on Thursday, July 7th; Companions J. Lacey, M.E.Z.; F. Walters, P.Z., as H.; P. Browne, J., presided. The elections were unanimous in favour of Companions P. A. Nairne, as Z.; P. Browne, H.; M. Scott, J.; F. Walters, P.Z., Treasurer (re-elected); R. S. Foreman, S.E.; A. Williams, S.N.; T. Quihampton, P.S. It was unanimously agreed that a five-guinea P.Z.'s Jewel be given to Comp. J. Lacey, M.E.Z., for his valuable services during his year of office. Banquet followed. Visitors: J. Hart, Givilt, &c.

SCOTLAND.

Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire.—A meeting of this chapter was convened on Friday, 1st inst., by order of the S.G.R.A. Chapter, for the purpose of recommending a companion to the office of P.G. Superintendent. The chapter was opened by M.E.P.Z.'s Crabb, Taylor, and Campbell, &c., &c. The notice having been read calling the meeting, a motion was proposed by Comp. Wallace (79), seconded by Comp. Balfour (73), that a Superintendent be recommended for this Province. Comp. Campbell (69) proposed an amendment, seconded by Comp. Park (122) that we remain as we are at present, under the superintendence of the S.G.R.A. Chapter, as we have been for the last six years, and that we request a deputation of the S.G.R.A. Chapter to visit the Province as often as convenient, to inquire into the working of Royal Arch Masonry. The motion and amendment having been put to the meeting, five voted for the motion and eight for the amendment. Comp. Wallace's motion was lost by a majority of three.

MARK MASONRY.

SHEFFIELD.—Britannia M.M. Lodge, No. 53.—The brethren of this Mark Masters' Lodge held their annual meeting in the Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield, on Thursday, the 7th inst., when Bro. E. Drury, W.M., assisted by his officers, very ably and impressively advanced to this honourable degree Bro. Ashberry, J.W. No. 1239, and Bro. Scargill, J.D. No. 1239. The W.M.-elect, Bro. H. Matthews, W.M. of the Wentworth Lodge, No. 1239, was then presented by Bro. Brittain, W.M. 139, to the retiring W.M., Bro. E. Drury, P.M., P.Z. of 296, and P. Prov. G.S.B. of West Yorkshire, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation, which ceremony he performed in that able and impressive manner which has gained for him the esteem and applause of the whole of the Craft in Sheffield. After the brethren had saluted the newly-installed W.M., he appointed Bro. Brittain W.M. 139 and P.M. of 296, as S.W.; Bro. H. J. Garnett, P.M. of this lodge, P.M. 139 and 1239, also P.Z. 296, as J.W.; and after duly investing them and the rest of the officers, the lodge was closed in due and ancient form. The whole of the brethren then retired from the lodge-room to the banquet, presided over by Bro. Matthews, W.M., who gave the customary loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. P. M. Drury then rose to propose the toast of the evening, "The Health of the W.M.," and said it was with feelings of intense pleasure that he had that evening the honour of installing as his successor in the chair of Adoniram such a good, zealous, and hard-working Mason as Bro. Matthews; and from the efficient manner in which Bro. Matthews discharged all the duties he undertook in the various degrees of Masonry, he felt quite confident that under his rule and guidance the Britannia Mark Masters Lodge, No. 53, could not fail being prosperous. The toast was enthusiastically received, and with musical honours. After the W.M. had responded to the toast in appropriate terms, he proposed "The Health of the Officers of the Lodge," to which Bro. Brittain, S.W., responded. "The Health of the Installing Officer (Bro. P. M. Drury), 'The newly-advanced Brethren,'" and several other toasts, having been given and duly acknowledged, the brethren separated at an early hour, after spending a very enjoyable evening.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

RED CROSS OF ROME & CONSTANTINE.

St. George's Conclave, No. 18.—A meeting of this conclave was held at the Palmerston Arms, Grosvenor Park, Camberwell, on the 7th inst. The chair was occupied by Sir Knt. Henry Thompson, M.P.S., who was supported by Sir Knts. W. H. Hubbard, G.T., as V.E.; H. J. Wright, S.G.; C. L. Marshall, Treas.; E. Shaughnessy, R.; T. Wingham, Prefect; T. Wingham, jun., Org.; R. Wentworth Little, G.R.; J. Ashwell, S.; G. Catherwood, &c. A notice of motion was given to discontinue the meetings of the conclave during the summer months, and the M.P.S. ordered a special assembly to be convened in September for the purpose of considering the proposition. After rehearsing the ceremony, the conclave was closed, and the knights spent the evening together under the genial presidency of their esteemed M.P.S., who excellent working in Craft Masonry is so highly esteemed and appreciated.

FUNERAL of R.W. BRO. STEPHEN BLAIR, P.G.M. E. LANCASHIRE.

The remains of the late Stephen Blair, Esq., of Mill Hill House, were interred at the Bolton Cemetery, on Saturday, July 9th, amidst the profoundest manifestations of respect. Although the unobtrusive character of the deceased gentleman naturally induced within him a desire that his funeral should be conducted as privately as possible, yet in obedience to the very general wish which had been expressed by the workpeople at Mill Hill Bleach Works, as well as by the members of the Order of Freemasons, amongst whom Mr. Blair occupied so honourable and distinguished a position, to pay a last tribute of respect to his remains, his relatives and friends were eventually led to relax somewhat their original intention, and as the mournful cortège wended its way slowly through the town it presented a very imposing spectacle. It left the stately mansion of Peel Hall, in Little Hulton, the residence of the late Harrison Blair, Esq., at twenty minutes before twelve, and proceeded via Buckley-lane, Albert-road, Egerton-street, and Granville-street to Manchester. The workpeople of the departed gentleman, the whole of whom were neatly dressed in black, assembled shortly after eleven o'clock in George Green-lane, Great Lever, and on the arrival of the long line of mourning coaches and carriages, they marshalled in line on Manchester-road, and preceded the cortège through Burnden, and down Bridgeman-street to the Bath Assembly Rooms. Here a large number of the brethren of the Masonic Order, in white ties and white gloves, headed the entire procession, which afterwards walked along Bradford-street and Bury New-road to the Cemetery, the order at this point being as follows:—

The Freemasons, about 350 in number, walking four abreast, amongst them being the following: Provincial Grand Officers: Robert Hopwood Hutchinson, P.S.G.W.; William Birch, J.G.W.; Charles Tiplady, G.T.; Richard Radcliffe, S.G.D.; James Spencer, G.D.C.; William Gouldthorp, G.O.; John Smith, G.P.; R. Geoghegan, John Clough, R. C. J. Duckworth, and Amos Armistead, G.Stewards; William Dawson, G.T. Past Provincial Grand Officers: Le G. N. Starkie, P.P.S.G.W.; J. L. Hine, P.P.S.G.W.; Samuel D. Lees, M.D., P.P.S.G.W.; William Henry Wright, P.P.J.G.W.; Wm. P. Pickup, P.P.J.G.W.; George Mellor, P.P.J.G.W.; Thos. G. Parker, P.P.J.G.W.; Rev. P. C. Nicholson; P.P.G.C.; Rev. J. B. Phillips, M.A., P.P.G.C.; Rev. J. L. Figgins, P.P.G.C.; John Barker, P.P.G.T.; Joseph Dobson Kennedy, P.P.G.T.; George Brett, P.P.G.R.; James Frederick Tweedale, P.P.G.R.; Jas. R. Wolfenden, P.P.G.S.; James Booth, P.P.S.G.D.; Thomas Croxton, P.P.S.G.D.; William Henry Prince, P.P.S.G.D.; Charles Affleck, P.P.J.G.D.; John Duffield, P.P.G. Superintendent of Works; Austin Sheldard, P.P.G. Director of Ceremonies; Samuel Titmas, P.P.G. Director of Ceremonies; Christopher M. Jones, P.A.P.G. Director of Ceremonies; Reuben Mitchel, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; Edmund Wrigley, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; Frederick Anderton, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; Henry Maiden, P.P.G. Sword Bearer; John S. Redfern, P.P.G. Pursuivant; William Roberts, P.P.G. Pursuivant; Uriah Nichols, P.P.G. Pursuivant.

Members of the same lodge as the deceased (No. 37): C. H. Bayley, W.M.; F. Bayley, J.W.; P.M.'s J. Robinson, S. Isherwood, R. H. Barrett, G. P. Brockbank, and R. Harwood; W. Slater, R. W. Knowles, J. Pilkington, H. Veevers, F. F. Ommannay, J. Watkins, C. Hopwood, C. Whowell, J. Walker, and N. Routledge.

Schofield, P.M., William Walker, S.W., Mark Holt, P.M., and Amos Stott, P.M. C. R. N. Beswick Royds, P.P.G.S.B. for Worcester; M. Burgess, S.D., Herfordshire; John Harrison Blair, S.W., Cambridge, United States.

The workpeople of Mill-hill bleachworks, 110 in number, also walking four abreast, headed by Mr. Robert Glaister, agent and book-keeper, who had been in the employ of Mr. Blair eighteen years; Mr. Edward Quinn, foreman, thirty-four years; and Mr. James Heywood, foreman millwright, twenty-three years—these three wearing hatbands.

The following private carriages attended:—

1st. Containing the Rev. Canon Powell, vicar of Bolton; the Rev. T. Doughty, of St. John's Parsonage, Little Hulton; and Dr. W. Y. Martin, of Buckley House, Little Hulton.

2nd. Thomas Lever Rushton, Esq., Moor Platt, Horwich; Charles Wolfenden, Esq., The Height; and Thomas Glaister, Esq., of Mill-hill (who, with Mrs. H. Blair, are the executors and executrix of the deceased gentleman); and also Christopher Briggs, Esq., of the Lees, Sharples, family solicitor.

3rd. Mr. J. Tunnah, of Manchester-road, Provincial Grand Secretary of the Order of Freemasons; and Mr. W. Nicholson, of Mill-hill Blackworks.

The hearse, drawn by four black horses, richly caparisoned.

Mourning coaches:—

1st. Containing Thomas G. Horridge, Esq., of the Raikes; and Thomas Horridge, Esq., of Bolton-road, Farnworth.

2nd. A. Macdonald Blair, Esq., Vivian-terrace,

Greenheys, Manchester; H. F. Blair, Esq., of Marlborough-terrace, Rusholme, Manchester; and James Knowles, Esq., Eagley Bank.

3rd. S. M. Diggles, Esq., Prestwich Hills, near Manchester; W. J. Rideout, Esq., of Charles-street, Berkeley-square, London; and R. J. Wood, Esq., Dtspatch office, Fleet-street, London.

4th. Edmund H. Sykes, Esq., jun., Edgeley Cottage, Stockport; James Searle, Esq., Walton Cottage, Whalley Range, Manchester; and Christopher Haworth, Esq., Wallsuches, Horwich.

9th. Richard Sykes, Esq., Edgeley, Stockport.

10th. Thomas Lever Rushton, Esq., Moor Platt.

11th. Thomas Walmsley, Esq., the Mayor, Brooklyn, Great Lever.

12th. Frank Hardcastle, Esq., Firwood.

13th. James Ormrod, Esq., Halliwell Lodge.

14th. Robert Cross, Esq., of Mortfield House.

The following had also been invited to the funeral, but were unable from various causes, attend:—John Hick, Esq., M.P., Hill Top, Sharples; W. T. Mann, Esq., Bowmere Lodge, Taporley; R. Andsell, Esq., R.A., Lytham-House, St. Alban's-road, Kensington; D. Whitehead, Esq., Saddleworth; Edward Rodgett, Esq., Higher Walton, near Preston; Peter Ormrod, Esq., Halliwell Hall; and W. Hargreaves, Esq., Darley Hall.

Large crowds of people assembled at various points along the route of the procession; and on Manchester-road, Bradford-street, and Bury-road, the blinds were almost universally drawn. The remains of the deceased gentleman were interred in the family vault, beside those of his brother, Mr. Harrison Blair, in the Church of England portion of the cemetery. They were enclosed in three coffins—shell, lead, and oak—the latter being covered with black cloth, richly studded with black and brass nails, containing brass handles, of a most massive character. On the lid was a brass shield on which was the following inscription:—"Stephen Blair, died 4th July, 1870, aged 66 years," while on the pall was a magnificent immortelle, composed of white roses, fuchsias, and geraniums. The body was read into the church by the Rev. Canon Powell, who also conducted the service at the grave, while the Rev. T. Doughty read the lessons. A large number of persons were assembled at the cemetery, prominent amongst them being the workpeople of the late Mr. Harrison Blair, of the Kersley Chemical Works.

The whole of the funeral arrangements were entrusted to the establishment of the late Mr. G. J. French, of the Manchester-road, and were carried out under the personal superintendence of Mr. Walter E. Brown, the mourning coaches being supplied by Messrs. E. Holden and Co.—Bolton Chronicle.

STORMS IN THE SUN.—Professor J. D. Steele says the result of observations now being taken shows that storms rage upon the sun with a violence of which we can form no conception. Hurricanes sweep over its surface with terrific violence. Vast cyclones wrap its fires into whirlpools, at the bottom of which our earth could lie like a boulder in a volcano. Huge flames dart out to enormous distances, and fly over the sun with a speed greater than that of the earth itself through space. At one time a cone of fire shot out 80,000 miles, and then died away, all in ten minutes' time. There is nothing in these phenomena to alarm us. They have, in all probability, happened constantly for ages past. That we have now means of investigating their nature and measuring their height and velocity furnishes no cause of anxiety.

Reports of the Lily Lodge, No. 820, of the Rosicrucian Society of England, &c., are unavoidably deferred till our next issue.

IS FREEMASONRY SECTARIAN?

The following letter appeared in the Suffolk Chronicle of the 9th inst.

(To the Editor of the Suffolk Chronicle.)

Sir,—I am induced to ask the above question through having listened to the sermon preached before the Provincial Grand Lodge, at Aldborough, on Monday last, and I shall be glad if you will publish this letter in your next number.

If, as I have hitherto believed, Freemasonry is unsectarian, if it welcomes Churchman and Dissenter, Protestant and Roman Catholic, High or Low, and Broad Church, Orthodox and Unorthodox, and, in fact, asks no questions as to the religious belief or theological opinions of those who seek to enrol themselves in its ranks, is it not reasonable to expect that any one of the Craft who may be selected to deliver a sermon to the brethren should be as broad and catholic in his discourse as in the Order to which both he and his hearers belong?

I cannot but believe that the preacher of last Monday would himself say this is a reasonable expectation, and that it was not of set purpose, but inconsiderately, that he disappointed it. I cannot suppose that he deliberately intended to set forth doctrines which must in all probability be unacceptable, if not offensive, to some of his audience; or that in preaching from the text, "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly," he wilfully acted the unfriendly part towards his brother Masons of assuming that of all the numerous varieties of religious belief those present might hold, only such as coincided with his own views could be correct.

Yet, in these days of advanced and liberal opinions, when even the Established Church itself very various opinions are held as to the "inspiration" of the Bible, and many, if not a majority, repudiate the theory of "verbal inspiration," our preacher laid it down that the words of Solomon in the Book of Proverbs were to be considered as the inspired words of God.

And whereas his text ran "and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother," he was not content to speak of this friend as God, but said that it was "God the Father, and his Son Jesus Christ, and their Holy Spirit," and repeatedly used the plurals "they" and "them" as the pronouns agreeing with the singular "a friend," whilst in another part of the discourse there was a disparaging mention of the theory of Papal infallibility, which must have been anything but agreeable to any Mason present who might have been a believer in that theory.

Now, surely the sermon would have been none the worse if the lessons to be drawn from the text had been enforced without exciting a feeling of dissatisfaction or opposition in those of the preacher's brother Masons present, who might either believe the words of Solomon not to be inspired, or at least not feel certain that they are so.

And surely the discourse would not merely have been none the worse, but very much the better, if the preacher had remembered that Masons are not bound (unless I am mistaken) to believe either in the doctrine of the Trinity, or in the infallibility of the Pope, and that it could not be otherwise than distasteful to any brother whose views differed from the preacher's on either of those points to hear them treated in the way I have mentioned.

There was one other part of the sermon which illustrates, though in a more pardonable manner, this tendency to forget that the preacher was a brother addressing brothers of different creeds and denominations, on an occasion when the beliefs of all and their preferences for their own associations ought to be respected; and this was where the fact that the text was taken from the Church Lesson for the day was made the occasion for a digression in praise of the Church Lectionary. Singular that this should be done just now when Ritual Commissioners have reported in favour of a revision of that Lectionary, and a bill to give effect to their report is before Parliament!

And now, sir, for the practical object of these remarks.

I believe it is not unusual for a sermon preached before a Provincial Grand Lodge to be printed, and my hope is that if that course is to be taken with regard to the discourse in question, the preacher (having the subject thus brought to his notice) will justify my belief that he would not intentionally offend any of his brother Masons, by striking out or altering the objectionable parts, and putting on the title page "Revised for the press by the Author."

Yours obediently,

A FREEMASON.

July 6th, 1870.

CONSECRATION OF THE FERMOR LODGE, No 1313.

During the last eighteen months there has been a considerable accession of brethren, in very respectable circumstances, to the Lodge of Unity, No. 613, formed in the flourishing watering-place of Southport seventeen years since, and it has been thought advisable, with the full concurrence of the officers of Provincial Grand Lodge of West Lancashire, to form a second Lodge, and the preliminaries having been completed, the solemn and beautiful ceremony of consecration was performed, in the presence of a large number of brethren, under the presidency of Bro. Thos. Wylie, Prov. G. Reg., &c., at the Masonic Hall, Southport.

The Presiding Officer nominated as his Wardens, Bros. Robert Wylie, Prov. G. D.C., and Robert Jeffries, P.M., Lodge of Unity, 613. Bro. Thos. Marsh, Prov. G. A. D.C., officiated as D.C., and most ably discharged his duties. The other Worshipful Brethren taking part in the ceremony were Bros. the Rev. H. G. Vernon, M.A., Prov. G. Chaplain; assisted by the Rev. C. R. Hyde, LL.D., 105; H. S. Alpass, Prov. G.S.; Thos. Armstrong, P. Prov. G. J.D., Director of Musical Services; and Joseph Skeaf, Prov. G.O., who presided at the organ and was assisted by an efficient choir.

After the lodge had been duly opened in three degrees, prayer was offered, and the Presiding Officer delivered a brief address, stating the nature of the meeting. The petition to the M.W.G.M. of England and Wales, and the warrant constituting the lodge were then read by Bro. Alpass, Prov. G.S., and the petitioning brethren having signified their approval of the officers named in the warrant, the Prov. G.C. delivered an oration on the principles of the Craft, showing its excellencies and its thorough harmony with science and religion. The grand anthem, "Behold how good and joyful a thing it is, brethren, to dwell together in unity!" was then finely rendered by the choir, and the consecration prayer was offered. Then followed the interesting and imposing ceremonial of carrying corn, wine, oil and salt three times round the lodge, during which Bro. the Rev. Dr. Hyde most impressively read selected portions of Scripture. The anthem, "Glory be to God on high," was then sung, and the Prov. G. Chap. carried incense three times round the lodge. Another anthem was sung, and the Presiding Officer solemnly dedicated and constituted the lodge, pointing out to the brethren the duty which thus devolved upon them, to cultivate brotherly love and benevolence, and to walk in the paths of virtue and science. The closing prayer was then offered, the Hallelujah Chorus was sung, and the sublime ceremony was concluded.

The installation of Bro. James Platt, P.M., of Lodge of Unity, 613, as the first Master of the Fermor Lodge, was then conducted with due solemnity by Bro. Thomas Wylie; and the W.M. invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Daniel Elias, M.D., S.W.; James Wilkinson, J.W.; W. Dodd, Treas.; Benjamin I. Green, Sec.; J. A. Thompson, S.D.; Richard Sharrock, J.D.; and J. Hartley, Tyler.

The lodge having been closed, an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. F. Herrman, of the Albert Hotel, followed, the W.M. presiding, supported by most of the brethren who had taken part in the consecration ceremony, and several others.

When the cloth was drawn, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were most felicitously given and heartily responded to. In proposing the health of "Sir Thomas G. Fermor Hesketh, M.P., Prov. G.M., West Lancashire, and the rest of the P.G. Officers," the W.M. specially referred to the services rendered to Freemasonry, and especially to the brethren interested in the formation of the Fermor Lodge, by Bro. Alpass, the Prov. G. Sec.

Bro. ALPASS, in responding, expressed the pleasure which he was sure would be felt by Sir Thomas Fermor Hesketh at the establishment of this new lodge. Freemasonry was now better understood and more highly approved, by thinking men; that was the case, and throughout the province a higher tone prevailed. If the brethren generally are careful to admit only worthy and true men, the Craft will flourish, and the officers will be gentlemen who will do credit to the fraternity. When consulted with reference to the proposal to form a second lodge in Southport, he cordially approved of it, and hoped that the two lodges would work together in harmony, and that the principles of love and goodwill would ever characterize their proceedings.

In proposing the health of Bro. Wylie, Pro. G. Reg., the W.M. stated that in the Tyler's book of Lodge of Unity, 613, he found that Bro. Wylie was the only Prov. Grand Officer, then present, who had taken part in the consecration, and that to him they were indebted for having suggested the name their new lodge bore.

Bro. WYLIE, in responding, spoke of the remembrances which naturally came before him in thinking of the consecration of Lodge 613, fifteen or sixteen years ago, and he specially referred to the fact that many of their brethren had, during that time, been transferred to the Grand Lodge above. He had often thought that if every Mason would only act up to the grand principles they professed, how happy would the world be, for all would then act together in hearty fellowship for the promotion of brotherly love, relief and truth. The foundation of all our actions is to do all to the praise and glory of the Great Architect of the Universe, and to diffuse the holy and brotherly principles of that book on which Freemasonry is founded. An experience of thirty years in the Craft had taught him much, and he was rejoiced to bear his testimony to the hearty feelings of fraternal regard which in times of need were so promptly and generously exhibited on every hand. He had known many instances in which true Masonic conduct had been displayed for the assistance of those on whom it had pleased the Great Architect to lay His afflictive hand. Such were the principles on which Freemasonry was established and carried out, and let Eccumenical Councils say what they pleased and send out whatever Bull they choose, the pure and exalted principles of Freemasonry would continue to flourish throughout the whole world. Most heartily did he wish great success to Fermor Lodge, and that the W.M. and his officers would have much happiness in the performance of their duties.

The health of Bro. James Hamer, Prov. G. Treasurer, who was unavoidably absent, in consequence of having to instal a W.M. at a lodge in Liverpool was then heartily given, and was followed by the healths of the G. Chaplain, and Rev. Dr. Hyde, both of whom responded in suitable terms.

Bro. JEFFRIES, P.M. 613, then proposed "The health of Bro. Platt, the newly-installed W.M. of 1313," and referred to his long acquaintance with him, and his high esteem for him both in and out of lodge.

Bro. PLATT, W.M., responded, and expressed his intention of doing his utmost for the prosperity of Fermor Lodge, 1313, and for the general interests of Freemasonry.

The remaining toasts were "The newly-invested Officers," to which Bro. Green replied; "The W.M. of Lodge 613," who was unavoidably absent. "The Wardens and Officers of Lodge, 613, to which Bro. Dodd, S.W. 613, replied; "Our Visiting Brethren," which was responded to by Bros. W. Howells, P.P.S.G.W., P.M. 347 and 449; Stocker, P.M. 613; S. Baylis, 1, St. Mary's Chapel, Edinburgh; and Jeffries, P.M. 613.

The evening was most pleasantly spent, and its enjoyment was considerably increased by the able manner in which Bros. Armstrong, P.P.G.J.D., West Lancashire; C. Haswell, 203; W. Jones, P.M. 216; and Thomas J. Hughes, 216, sang several glees and songs, most of which were accompanied on the pianoforte by Bro. Skeaf, P.G.O. West Lancashire, who, we ought not to omit to mention, is the composer of the music to which the anthems, &c., at the consecration were sung.

A MONUMENT in memory of Ugo Foscolo, the poet, is shortly to be inaugurated in the Church of Santa-Croce, at Florence. The city of Milan also is about to place, in the square of the Scala, a statue of Leonardo da Vinci, the work of the well-known Italian sculptor, Mogini.

A COPY of Macklin's splendid edition of the Bible, profusely illustrated with about 11,000 engravings and drawings, comprising specimens of every school and styles were sold last week by Messrs. Puttick and Simpson, of Leicester-square, for £165. This valuable collection of pictorial art was formed by the late Mr. John Grey Bell, of Manchester, and was handsomely bound in sixty-three folio volumes.

THE Belgian Academy offers prizes, to be awarded in 1871, for investigations on any of the following subjects:—The integration of certain equations, inductive currents, the position in the vegetable kingdom of Lycopodium and four other genera, the reproduction of eels, and the composition and relation to one another of albuminous substances.

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c., &c., on Mayar's Semolina. "I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London." Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Puddings, Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar's Semolina.

THE University of Vienna has decided to admit women to all the advantages of its medical school, and two female students have already availed themselves of the privilege.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

A GLANCE AROUND.

SUMMER is come, and visions of the cool sea-shore, with its golden waves dancing before the refreshing breeze, begin to haunt the languid souls of our pent-up citizens. There are days when it is almost torture to think of leafy bowers, and verdurous glades, with rivulets twinkling in the distance, and zephyrs breathing through the murmuring trees.

There are days when the burden of ordinary life seems more than usually intolerable; when cares seem duller and more dismal, because the physical frame is overborne with a sense of unutterable weariness, and yearns for shady quietude and renovating rest. At this period of the year Masonic meetings in England are usually suspended, but there is a growing tendency on the part of London brethren to have a little outing to some rural spot, where the blue skies and green fields can be seen and enjoyed. In some cases the presence of ladies makes an agreeable change in the somewhat monotonous proceedings of the summer festival, and the Grand Mark Lodge especially deserves credit for the highly successful manner in which the sisters and brethren were entertained under its auspices last summer, at the far-famed Mitre, at Hampton Court. This week a similar festive meeting was held at Richmond, and proved a great and merited success.

In reviewing the Masonic events of the past season, we may safely congratulate the English Craft upon the noble efforts which they have made on behalf of our several charities; our royal brother the Prince of Wales has also shown his high appreciation of the Order, and he is now publicly identified with its interests. The normal increase in the number of lodges during the last six months has been fully sustained, and there is no reason to doubt that the heads of the Fraternity have exercised a wise discretion in thus supplying means for the further extension of the Craft. Our late Grand Master, Lord Zetland, has retired from his high post with the affection and esteem of every brother, but it will be seen that he is still as active as ever in assisting by his presence and advice the deliberative assemblies of the Order, and in promoting the general good and welfare of Freemasonry. His successor, the Earl de Grey and Ripon, is a statesman of eminence, and his time is necessarily much occupied in the discharge of official duties, but his heart is so thoroughly in the Masonic cause that none but weighty reasons will ever detain him from his place in Grand Lodge. In Scotland, the Earl of Dalhousie, a vigorous and enlightened chief, wields the sceptre of Solomon, and we trust that before he leaves the Masonic throne in that country, our Scottish brethren will have made a rapid stride in the right direction, by the organization of charitable institutions similar to those which now flourish in England and Ireland. The Grand Lodge of Ireland is, we are led to believe, in a very healthy condition, but information as to the progress of Freemasonry in Ireland is so scantily supplied by the authorities, that we are forced to rely upon accounts which are occasionally given by the secular press when anything very special in connection with Irish Masonry takes place. More prominence should be given to the doings of our Irish brethren, many of whom we know to be good men and true. Our neighbours in France have changed their Grand Master, General Mellinet having retired in consequence of the state of his health and the infirmities of old age, but we believe that Bro. Babaud Larivière, who succeeds the General, has his heart in the work, and will make an efficient ruler of the Craft. In Germany, where there are many Grand Lodges, and where diversities of opinion as to what is really Masonry prevail, there is yet a most encouraging prospect for Freemasonry. Liberal ideas are permeating the lodges, and even in priest-ridden Austria, a lodge has been recently established. In Hungary, a Grand Lodge has been actually formed, Bro. Franz Pulszky being the first Grand Master, while every month new lodges are being added to this already important jurisdiction. In Spain, Freemasonry is spreading far and near, and the number of brethren now at work in that country almost exceeds belief. We are assured by recent advices that there is scarcely a second-rate town in Spain without a lodge, and in many large towns there are two or more. Portugal has also embraced the tenets of Freemasonry with enthusiasm, and a perfect fusion of the recently conflicting Lusitanian Jurisdictions having been happily effected, there is great hope for the entire Iberian peninsula. Italy is still divided Masonically, and until our Italian brethren learn the value of unity, they cannot expect to command the respect of the Craft universal. Of Switzerland, Holland and Belgium, we have little to record, and if the saying be true, "happy is the nation which has no history," it may be safely assumed that in each of these countries our Order is making steady, but imperceptible progress. In the north of Europe, Freemasonry flourishes exceedingly, especially in Sweden, where the King is a zealous patron of the Craft, and we hope shortly to give a more lengthened detail of the Swedish degrees. By the consolidation of English Masonry in Turkey, under the rule of R.W. Bro. Brown, as District Grand Master, we anticipate a great future for the Order in the East, while the happy reconciliation which has been affected between Halim Pasha, the District Grand Master for Egypt, and the Khedive of that prosperous province, promises equally happy results for the Egyptian lodges.

If we look beyond the Atlantic, an immense Masonic vista opens. The United States alone can muster some four hundred and eighty thousand members of our mystic brotherhood; and in the Southern republics and the Empire of Brazil, Freemasonry is popular and respected. It is to be regretted that the Masons of Canada are not working with that love and harmony which should ever distinguish Freemasons, but we are strongly of opinion that the two Grand Lodges now in operation in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec will speedily arrive at an amicable solution of their present unhappy differences.

In all the colonies and dependencies of the British Crown the Order is also rapidly extending, and we may anticipate at no distant period the formation of independent Grand Lodges in Australia, where a vast number of lodges now exist under conflicting jurisdictions.

It will thus be seen that the mustard-seed of Speculative Freemasonry has become a great and mighty tree, under whose shadow men of every nation are gathering; and let us hope that the time is rapidly approaching, when the influence of so vast a peaceful confederation will be powerful enough to preclude the possibility of war between civilised peoples, and that science, knowledge and virtue, combined, will eventually sway the destinies of the world.

Multum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

In the famous Masonic manuscript, alledged to be in the handwriting of King Henry VI., and discovered in the Bodleian library; it is said that Masons are possessed of the "Faculty of Abrac," (vide "Hutcheson's Spirit of Masonry," Preston's "Illustrations," &c.)

The meaning of these words has been surmised upon by various authors, and by some the authenticity of the document disputed. However, as I have not yet seen the following in any of the works of our Masonic authors, I send you the extract entire and without comment, as it may be interesting to some, and amusing to many, of your readers.

"Abracadabra," a mysterious word, to which the superstitious in former times attributed a magical power to expel diseases, especially the Tertian Ague, worn about their neck in this manner:—

ABRACADABRA

Some think that Basilides, the inventor, intends the name of God by it. The method of the cure was prescribed in these verses:—

Inscribes Chartæ quod dicitur Abracadabra
Scopius, & subterreptes, sed detrahe summam
Et magis atque magis desint elementa figuris
Singula quæ semper capies & cætera figes
Donec in Agustum redigatur Litera Conum
His lino nexis collum redimire memento
Talia Languentis conducent Vincula Calla
Lethalesque abigent (miranda potentia) morbos.

"Abracax," the name given to God by Basilides the heretick, in the second century, who, he said, was the author of 365, meaning the 365 days in a year. To which number the letters of Abracadabra above-mentioned amount.

A translation of the above verses, into English, by any of your learned readers, would be "thankfully received and faithfully acknowledged." W. G. DORIC.

LODGE ETIQUETTE.

In the absence of the Junior Warden of a Craft Lodge, is it the privilege of a past J.W. of that lodge to take his place; or who is the proper party to do so? JUSTICE.

THE 1717 THEORY CONFIRMED (page 331).

The alteration given by Bro. Bacon at page 332 is an improvement, and does anything but hurt either its authenticity or its adaptation to the 1717 theory. It shows that Dr. Stukeley was seemingly taken in by the ideas intentionally promulgated that the proceedings of 1717 were a "revival" of an old society which had fallen away for "many years," whereas the real truth was that the proceedings of 1717 were the institution of a new society. I beg to thank Bro. Bacon for the interest he has taken in the matter. W. P. BUCHAN.

"BRO. HUGHAN ON THE ORIGIN OF OPERATIVE FREEMASONRY" (page 319).

There is surely some lapis penna in the above heading as given at page 319. I have no intention of going into the subject of the origin of "Operative Masonry," as that might force me to prove that operative carpentry is older than Operative Masonry, and that the latter copied many things from the former. As may be seen at page 270, what I challenged Bro. Hughan on was the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, which he asserted was derived from the "Operative Masonic Body," but which I denied. I shall await Bro. Hughan's own time with pleasure, more especially as it would hardly be fair to interfere with Bro. C. I. Paton's "The 1717 Theory Exploded." Let Bro. Paton get all the glory he possibly can from his grand explosion, which I am afraid will only end in smoke—a puff of powder minus the ball. I expect to see Sir C. I. Paton of the 19th century sharing the fate of Sir Henry de Bohun of the 14th. LEO.

THE 1717 THEORY ABSURD.

Bro. "Leo" informs us, at page 331, that "Bro. W. P. Buchan never pretended to be the 'originator' of the 1717 theory, although he may, perhaps, with propriety be called the champion." No such term is he entitled to. When an individual has gained a victory in a fair field with opponents which he may have to compete with, and overcomes them, he is then entitled to the title of champion; but Bro. W. P. Buchan has only come forward and proclaimed that 1717 is the date of Freemasonry, without a single proof to warrant his statement except his own tall talk. He has not yet overthrown myself in the challenge which I have accepted, and it is somewhat unfair to write and say anything until he has disposed of my arguments on proof satisfactory to all readers. CHALMERS I. PATON.

SOMETHING WRONG IN THE PROVINCE OF Ayrshire, SCOTLAND.

The Secretary of the Lodge Seltcoats and Ardrossan, No. 320, informs the readers of THE FREEMASON of "Something Wrong." It seems as if there was "something wrong" on both sides. Why is the matter not brought up before the Provincial Grand Lodge of the district, and if a satisfactory discussion is not arrived at, then appeal to Grand Lodge; but do not blame Grand Lodge for a matter which ought to be settled in the district. Although I quite agree with the remarks of Bro. D. Wilkie in regard to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, "that matters deeply affecting the welfare of the Craft are systematically overlooked," it seems to me not now to be a necessary requisite in the Grand Lodge of Scotland "to be a peaceable subject, and to cheerfully conform to the laws of the land in which you reside." CHALMERS I. PATON.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA IN SCOTLAND.

There is a body in active operation styling themselves "the Grand Parent Black Encampment of the Universe" at present in full swing in many places in the West of Scotland, where the degrees are conferred on aspirants for the sum of five shillings. Members of this Order in England should be careful whom they admit. CHALMERS I. PATON.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Grateful acknowledgment.—Nothing can be more gratifying to the discoverer of these universal remedies than the thousands of testimonials of their efficacy which pour in from all quarters. No harm can possibly result from their use. The printed directions rolled round each packet will be a sufficient guide for the successful treatment of most diseases, whether they are attacking the surface or afflicting internal organs. These medicines are especially commended by nurses and others having charge of children, for whose many ailments they are specifics. The purity of these medicaments, their careful preparation and harmless nature, daily augment the approbation bestowed upon them throughout the globe for more than a third of a century.—[Adv't.]

PROVINCIAL GRAND K.T. CONCLAVE OF LANCASHIRE.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Conclave of Knights Templar of Lancashire was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton, on Thursday, the 3rd June.

The St. James of Jerusalem Encampment was opened at half-past twelve o'clock by Sir Knight J. H. Winder, E.C. of the Encampment and P.G. Sword-Bearer, assisted by Sir Knight Thomas Morris, 1st Captain, Sir Knight John Fletcher, 2nd Captain, and other officers.

The Officers of the Prov. Grand Conclave entered in procession at one o'clock, and were received under the arch of steel, being marshalled by Sir Knight Thomas Croxton, P.G. Director of Ceremonies, and took their seats according to their respective rank.

In the absence of Sir Knight A. H. Royds, V.E.P.G. Commander, the Provincial Grand Conclave was opened by Sir Knight W. H. Wright, V.E.D.P.G. Commander, who read a letter from the P.G. Commander regretting his absence from illness, and expressing his good wishes to the Knights present.

The following Prov. G. Officers also attended the conclave: Sir Knights Edward Pierpoint, Sub-Prior; Rev. T. Radley, Prelate; J. L. Figgins, Assistant Prelate; Thomas Berry, 1st Captain; William Birch, Registrar; Thomas Croxton, Director of Ceremonies; J. F. Tweedale, Assistant do.; J. S. Veevers, Supt. of Works; A. W. Creeke, Almoner; James Gaskell, 2nd Expert; Thomas Bertwisle, 1st Standard-Bearer; W. H. Pratt, Warden of Regalia; James J. Hall, 1st Aide-de-Camp; W. H. Prince, 2nd do.; W. H. Hopkins, 2nd Herald; Thomas Law, Organist; T. H. Winder, Sword-Bearer; J. H. Sutcliffe, Banner-Bearer; and several Past Provincial Grand Officers, including Sir Knights Col. Birchall, Stephen Smith, H. S. Alpass, S. D. Lees, W. Roberts, George Barlow, Richard Radcliffe.

The minutes of the proceedings of the last Provincial Grand Conclave, held on Tuesday, the 10th June, 1869, were read and confirmed.

The muster roll of the encampments within the province was called over by the P.G. Registrar, and every encampment was represented, except the William de la More, Manchester.

The roll of Provincial Grand Officers was called over, and no valid excuse for non-attendance having been given, several of the officers were fined one guinea each.

The Treasurer's accounts were presented, and a report read by Sir Knight J. H. Winder, who had been appointed to audit the same along with Sir Knight W. H. Pratt, and the same being satisfactory were duly passed and allowed.

Sir Knight James A. Birch, of the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester, was appointed Treasurer for the ensuing year, and a vote of thanks accorded to Sir Knight J. M. Wike, the retiring Treasurer, for his valuable services during his tenure of office.

Frater William Dawson was re-elected Equerry. The Deputy P.G. Commander proceeded to appoint and invest the following Sir Knights as officers for the ensuing year:—

Sir Kt. T. G. Parker...	... Prior.
" Geo. Galloway Sub do.
" Rev. T. Radley Prelate.
" Rev. J. L. Figgins Asst. do.
" J. S. Veevers, 1st Captain.
" A. B. Creeke, 2nd do.
" G. P. Brockbank Chancellor.
" J. H. Winder Vice do.
" W. Birch Registrar.
" J. A. Birch Treasurer.
" W. H. Pratt Chamberlain.
" James Gaskell Hospitaller.
" J. F. Tweedale Dir. of Cers.
" Beckett Bradbury Asst. do.
" T. Bertwisle Supt. of Works.
" J. Watson Almoner.
" J. Turner Hall 1st Expert.
" W. H. Prince 2nd do.
" James Worsley 1st Standard Bearer.
" Henry Bulley 2nd do.
" Thomas Morris Warden of Reg.
" W. J. Fowler 1st Aid-de-Camp.
" W. H. Hopkins 2nd do.
" John Fletcher 1st Expert.
" J. H. Sutcliffe 2nd do.
" C. H. Bailey 1st Herald.
" E. L. Waddington 2nd do.
" Thomas Law Organist.
" T. R. Williams Sword-Bearer.
" Robert Crossley Banner-Bearer.
" William Dawson Equerry.

The Committee for General Purposes was appointed:—Sir Knights S. Smith, J. M. Wike, H. S. Alpass, Gaskell, Pierpoint, Col. Birchall, Croxton, Winder and Galloway. Ex Officio, the P.G.C. A. H. Royds, D.P.G.C. W. H. Wright, G. P. Brockbank, Chancellor; W. Birch, Registrar; J. A. Birch, Treasurer.

Sir Knt. Watson collected the alms, amounting to £2 12s. 10d.

It was resolved that the sum of £5 from the Almoner's funds be granted for the relief of Sir Kt. Ledward, an old Mason of fifty years' standing, and the oldest Templar in the Province.

A committee consisting of E.C.'s, P.E.C.'s, and 1st Captains of Encampments, was appointed to frame by-laws of the P.G. Conclave.

It was resolved that the next meeting of the Prov. Grand Conclave be held at Manchester under the auspices of the Jerusalem Encampment.

The D.P.G. Commander, in the name and on behalf of the V.E. P.G. Commander, presented to the E.C. of the Plans of Tabor Encampment, Colne, (Sir Knt. T. G. Parker), a complete set of books, handsomely bound, consisting of Minute Book, Subscribing Members' Book, Cash Books, Declaration Book, Equerry's Book, Muster Roll, Register and Receipt Book. Sir Knt. Parker accepted the gift of the P.G.C. with many thanks on behalf of the encampment, and expressed his hope that the generous donor might speedily be restored to perfect health.

A circular letter from the Grand Vice Chancellor, announcing that the Grand Conclave had at its meeting in May last made sundry alterations in the fees payable in respect of registry and certificates from Grand Conclave, and also in the annual fees payable thereto. An animated discussion ensued thereupon, and the legality of the notice convening the meeting was questioned, but it was finally resolved to refer the whole subject to the General Purposes' Committee to take such action in the matter as might be desirable.

It was resolved, "That the fact of the Banner and Abacus of our last P.G.C. being in the P.G. Conclave be inserted on the minutes of proceedings."

The D.P.G.C. was instructed to convey to the V.E.P.G. Commander, Sir Knt. A. H. Royds, the deep regret of the members of the P.G. Conclave, at his inability to take his accustomed place therein, and their earnest wishes for his speedy recovery.

The 2nd Captain of the St. James of Jerusalem Encampment, presented to that encampment as a souvenir of his visit to the Holy Land, a beautifully finished table with marble top, on which, under a glass case, was the stone alluded to in the inscription which was written thereon:—

"This stone was brought from Jerusalem by Sir Knt. John Fletcher, in May 1869, it was the quoin stone in the doorway of the Hospital Chapel (at present in ruins) built by the Knights Templar, situate near the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. Presented to the St. James of Jerusalem Encampment, Bolton, June, A.L. 5874, A.D. 1870, A.D. 752, by Sir Knt. John Fletcher."

Sir Knt. Fletcher explained the circumstances under which he became possessed of the relic, and detailed his difficulties in transit to this country.

Sir Knt. T. H. Winder, E.C. of the St. James of Jerusalem Encampment, accepted the valuable present to the Encampment, and thanked Sir Knt. Fletcher for his addition to the furniture of this already well-equipped Encampment.

The Prov. Grand Conclave was closed at 4.30, and the P.G. Officers having retired, the St. James of Jerusalem Encampment was forthwith closed.

The banquet was celebrated in the school-room, which was decorated with banners of Knights Templar. Sir Knt. Wright presided, and the customary toasts were proposed and responded to, and the meeting dispersed by 8 o'clock.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING IN SHEFFIELD.

The marriage of Miss Felice Lucy Hall, eldest daughter of Dr. J. C. Hall, Sheffield, to William Roddewig, Esq., of Lowfield, Sheffield, took place on Thursday, the 7th inst., in the Parish Church. Long before the hour appointed for the ceremony a large concourse of persons assembled in Arundel-street and around the Parish Church, awaiting the arrival of the bridal party. Shortly before ten o'clock the carriages were at the church gates. The bride was beautifully attired in a robe of white satin, with a wreath of orange blossom and a long Honiton lace fall. The bridesmaids were three in number—viz., Miss M. G. Hall (sister of the bride), Miss M. Neville, of Langham, Surrey; and Miss Edith Robinson, St. John's Wood, London (cousins of the bride). Each was attired in a white dress, with wreath of pink and white flowers and lace falls. The groomsmen were Mr. R. J. Hall (eldest brother to the bride), Mr. F. Stephenson, and Mr. Ralph Neville (cousins). The matrimonial service was impressively performed by the Rev. J. E. Johnston, M.A., Vicar of St. Jude's, Moorsfields, of whose congregation the bride was a member. In the absence of Mr. Smith, Mr. Kirk, organist of St. Jude's, presided at the organ. The bride was given away by her father, Dr. J. C. Hall. After the conclusion of the service the bridal party were joined by numerous friends, among whom was the Rev. Canon Sale, who returned to Surrey House, the residence of Dr. Hall, and partook of the wedding breakfast. Later in the day the newly-married couple departed from Sheffield for the Rhine, where they intend to spend the honeymoon.

STORM BEATEN.

A storm-beat ship was out at sea,
Her ropes and sails were torn to shreds,
Her sailors clung amidst the wreck,
And in despair hung down their heads.

In vain they'd toiled all the day,
Until dread night had hastened on;
They saw no aid appearing nigh,
Lo! even lingering hope had gone.

The captain's heart was sore and sad,
For he would fain have saved his crew;
But helm adrift and boatless, too,
Alas! alas! what could he do?

No raft would float in such a gale,
If e'en he could establish one,
So he knelt down and prayed to God
For mercy when life's sands were run.

Fast flying on before the storm,
The ship came nigh a rocky shore;
The dismal moaning of the waves
Commingled with the breakers' roar.

A few short hours passed away,
And then a score of souls had sped;
The ship had dashed upon a rock,
And all the weary men were dead.

Had there have been a lifeboat nigh,
Manned by a crew of daring men,
The ship, perchance, might have been saved,
The crew have reached their homes again.

To help such shipwrecked sailors, then,
Oh! let our lifeboat kiss the wave;
And, Brothers, we shall blessings win
From all she snatches from the grave.

OH! YE WHO ARE BOUND BY OUR MYSTICAL TIE.

Sung at the banquet after the installation of Bro. George E. Hawkes, W.M., Union Lodge, Margate. Words by Bro. ATHELSTAN HARVEY BOYS, P.M., P.G.R. Kent.

Oh! ye who are bound by our Mystical tie,
Come join me in drinking a toast,
And confess that all over the Globe we descry,
The name of our Craft—a proud boast.
The Mason may cruise to the East from the West,
And yet be with all hand and glove,
If his principles will but evince a good test—
The test of our Brotherly Love.

Though the world's outer circle may laugh at our Rites,
And hold up our Symbols to scorn,
We can easily point to our Charity's sights,
Which our tenets Masonic adorn.

Though our Customs be held up to ridicule's view,
For approval we look up above,
His Word is our Guide in whatever we do,
While our motto is Brotherly Love.

So Masonry, based on Morality's source,
Us teaches to act on the Square;
While Equality's Emblem, uprightness our course,
The Level and Plumb-rule declare.
Then, Freemasons, let each one do well as he lives,
That when summoned to Grand Lodge above,
We may reap the reward the Great Architect gives—
The reward of our Brotherly Love.

THE FREEMASONS' LIFE BOAT.

The Committee met at Bro. Foster's, London-street, E.C., on Thursday, the 7th inst. There were present: Bros. A. E. Harris (in the chair), S. Davis, Gottheill, T. Mortlock, and C. C. Taylor.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Several propositions tending to further the interests of the movement were proposed and carried.

The financial position stands as follows:—Acknowledged in THE FREEMASON of June 11th, £126 6s. 6d. Since received: Gosport Lodge (903), £1 1s.; Bro. Mallett, 5s. The meeting was adjourned to Thursday, 4th August next, at 8 p.m.

[In the list of subscriptions published last month the name of Bro. Frost (1306), 10s., was omitted.]

DEFECTS OF ENGLISH BREAD.—Without entering on the discussion of the question, as to what the effects of the habitual use of alumed bread on the digestive organs may be, it is sufficient for our present purpose to note the fact that, as a rule, our English bread has too much yeast introduced into it, undergoes too little kneading, and that, by the aid of a mineral substance, inferior, or even damaged flour, may be made to do duty in bread-making as if it had been sound and of prime quality.—Food Journal.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS.

We are informed that the following brethren have been appointed members of the Committee to arrange the terms of a treaty between the Grand Mark Lodge and the Grand Red Cross Council:—

Rev. G. Raymond Portal, M.A., G.M.M.; W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M.M.;
The Right Hon. the Earl of Limerick.
Major A. S. Adair, 33°;
R. A. Benson,
F. Binckes,
T. Meggy, and
H. C. Levander.

The combined Committee met on Friday, the 15th instant.

The Reading Mercury of July 2nd, in its report of the proceedings connected with H.R.H. the Prince of Wales' visit to Reading on the 1st inst., states the following:—

"The representative of a Masonic publication having, without authority, taken to London the list of Masons present, we are unable to publish a complete list of the names."

In justice to the representatives of THE FREEMASON, we think it right to state that we have received official information from the Prov. G. Sec. of Berks and Bucks, that this unwarrantable act was perpetrated by one W. Smith, who is connected with our contemporary in Salisbury-street, Strand.

BRO. BUCHAN AGAIN.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It would be very amusing, if it were not painful, to see how eagerly Bro. Buchan (p. 331) snatches an error in the punctuation of Bro. Bacon's extract to support his utterly baseless 1717 theory, which, in fact, proves the exact contrary to what Bro. Buchan supposed, inasmuch as it states that "Masons were made in London many years before that date," a fact which no Mason ought to doubt, unless he believes with Bro. Buchan that our predecessors were all either knaves or fools.

It is an old saying, "That it is a dirty bird which fouls its own nest," but what can we think of a Mason who does all in his power to pick holes in the Masonic mantle which covers him? Bro. Buchan's constant allusion to the worthy and learned brethren of the last century, as "Desaguliers & Co.," is extremely offensive, as well as the manner in which he invariably speaks of them as if they were charlatans and impostors. I sincerely trust Bro. Buchan will see the advisability of expressing his opinions more moderately, and of paying a little of that proper deference which, as a Mason, he owes to the history and traditions of the Craft.

Yours fraternally,

VIATOR.

LETTER FROM A BROTHER IN LONDON TO AN EDINBURGH BROTHER, WITH SUGGESTIONS FOR IMPROVEMENT IN THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

One of the most fruitful sources of injustice in the Grand Lodge of Scotland is the manner in which proxies (Masters and Wardens) are appointed. Lodges beyond the metropolitan district, who may not care to be represented in the Supreme Body by their Worshipful Masters and Wardens, appoint upon their annual election, in addition to their ordinary Office Bearers, Proxy Masters, who again in turn appoint two Wardens. These Proxy Masters are expected, not only to attend to all affairs which arise affecting the Grand Lodge, but also to take charge of any matters coming up from the lodge which they represent.

These proxies are, to be legal, signed upon the day of election, and are returnable for approval by the Grand Lodge upon the quarterly communication following the date of their signature. Like every law of Grand Lodge, when it suits the purpose of a certain faction, this law is systematically broken; but, on the other hand, most rigidly enforced whenever it endangers the plans of the factionists, and gains their opponents a vote. Very few proxy commissions are signed upon the day they purport to bear, and many are signed only when it is necessary to defeat a motion—not by justice, but by votes.

Now, every commission should be returnable within fourteen days of the date of granting, the Proxy Master at the same time should be obliged to give in the names of his Wardens, and the fees of the three should be paid at the same time. No alteration should be permitted to take place in these officers during the date of the signing of the commission and the granting of a new one. In the event of the death of a Proxy Master during that period, the lodge should be entitled to elect a new one; and in the event of the death of a Proxy Warden, the Proxy Master should supply the vacancy with another brother. But the annual circular ought to contain a complete list of the members of Grand Lodge for the year following its issue. No new member should be admitted with the exception of those filling vacancies caused by death, and the representatives of foreign lodges, whose commissions may not have arrived in time to be submitted to Grand Lodge on its first meeting after the date of signing for approval.

Moreover, no brother should be permitted to hold a proxy commission who has not been at least two years a Master Mason, for there are many instances where brethren upon taking their Master's degree have become members of Grand Lodge, and voted upon questions affecting the Craft, of which they had no knowledge, nor could have. At different periods lodges have made it a point to have every new Master Mason in Grand Lodge, and thereby, for the time, secured a preponderating influence to the sacrifice of every principle of Freemasonry, of honour, and of justice.

What is the present system of Grand Lodge in the case of an important question coming up before it for decision? We will take an election, for example, where there are two candidates, both heavily supported by the brethren. Heaven and earth are moved for proxies; brethren are offered a seat in Grand Lodge; their expenses, both of commission fees and of eating and drinking, paid if they will vote one way or the other.

A hotel is at once fixed upon for head-quarters, an open table is kept, cabs fly about in all directions, innumerable circulars go through the post, meeting upon meeting, followed by resolution upon resolution succeeds, till one would think a general election instead of a paltry jewellery or Provincial Mastership was in hand. What is the result? The Grand Lodge is turned into a bear garden; a dozen fiery but ungrammatical orators, full of zeal and spirit, take the floor, speak against each other, against time; yes, and against common sense. Speak they will; while other brethren howl out "Vote! Vote! Spoke!" who have only come as silent Members to record their votes. How can there be justice done in such a court whose judges are there bought and sold like so many sheep? The country with a strong unflinching hand has put down bribery at Parliamentary and municipal meetings; but we poor Masons, Sons of Light (what a blasphemy!) only consider a cause just, which gives us the largest bribe. As an esteemed member of Grand Lodge once said, and truly, "There are brethren whose adherence you can secure at the small expense of a glass of beer." And this is the justice of Grand Lodge. How can the affairs of Grand Lodge succeed under such auspices? How can it ever shake off the load of debt which hangs like a millstone round its neck? Only by the thorough reformation of its existing abuses; by introducing a law which will wipe away all incentive to malpractice, and which will heavily punish any one guilty of abuse.

I maintain that the Grand Lodge of Scotland is an unfit tribunal of justice as presently constituted; that root and branch are rotten and unsound; its whole system is founded upon error, and requires reform, not a partial reform, but one that will place it on a firm basis, and which will indicate a return to honest principles and pure Masonic practice. But so long as G.L. can be packed, so long as questions of importance cannot be discussed, and so long as a few windy and unscrupulous spouters form a clique to tyrannise over the brethren, an incubus will lie upon Grand Lodge, will paralyse the hands of Freemasons, and in the end will make the name of Mason so abhorrent, that the world will view it with feelings of suspicion and dislike. This will happen simply on account of our having mismanagement and disingenuousness in high places. I defy any one to contravert these facts. They are patent to every brother who will consider them for a moment, and they call for immediate and sharp redress.

But there is another and a greater evil than even the present system of Grand Lodge—the Grand Committee, with whom lies the real executive of Grand Lodge. All questions come before it for consideration, and it is seldom that any discussion arises upon one of its findings. Now, let us see how the Grand Committee comes into existence. The Masters of lodges in the Edinburgh district, with certain Proxy Masters, form this committee; but a reference to past annual circulars will show that there are many members of Grand Committee who have sat on it for twelve and sixteen years. The Grand Committee is the head-quarters of the clique. If any brother attempts to interfere with their decisions, he is at once roared and voted down. They mutually propose each other for re-election annually, and although a division may take place among the other members, they manage to present their list for approval to Grand Lodge. The sub-committees upon important questions are always composed of their number, and thus the affairs of Grand Lodge are systematically misguided and misconducted. These brethren have no regard for decency, and they are so accustomed to hookwink Grand Lodge that they do not observe even a semblance of law or order. In 1865, when the question of "revision of the ritual," upon the motion of Bro. Adam Thomson, R.W.M. St. John's, Galashiels, was remitted to Grand Committee for report, they committed it to a sub-committee, which never met; and a brother verbally reported against the motion, and this was the weight given by the Grand Committee to a remit of Grand Lodge upon a most vital question. But, then, what do the Grand Committee care? The most important questions may be shelved; the affairs of Grand Lodge may get into irretrievable confusion. They laugh; and some of them, we know, would not object to see the day when she will become bankrupt—if they get the charge of seeing her through the Bankruptcy Court. It is not so many years ago since the Scottish Freemason's Magazine let a flood of light upon the doings of the clique which struck terror into their mean and sordid souls, and caused them to shriek out. The magazine was threatened with all pains and penalties, the article denounced untrue, but though that article branded them with fraud, conspiracy and dishonour, all the Grand Committee could say of it was, that it was injudicious. Yes! Injudicious to tell the truth and defend honest men? No! but to reveal the secret plans of those men to their Masonic vows, in the face of God and man.

Now for all this there is only one remedy. It has been already proposed and a strong effort should be made to have it carried into force, so as to destroy the destroying element in Grand Lodge. This can only be done by abolishing Grand Committee and remodelling Grand Committee. This could be done in the following way.

First. Abolish Proxy Commissions, and permit every Right Worshipful Master and every Past Master, who pays an annual fee to be a member of Grand Lodge. The annual fee to be paid by the 1st February in every year. By this means we would have not only a better class of brethren in Grand Lodge, but better fitted to deal with questions coming before it.

Second. Let there be monthly meets of Grand Lodge.

By these means every question would have a better chance of being maturely and properly considered, and the present system be altered to one which will take the Grand Lodge from the shoals of bankruptcy, and make Scots Freemasonry respected both at home and abroad, for it cannot be denied that our system is at present the laughing stock of the world.

That the Grand Committee is an absurd institution, I will give one instance, when the present Duke of Hamilton came of age, the members directed the Grand Secretary to write to him and ask him to become an office bearer. The Duke wrote back with an apology, and with quiet irony stated, that he was not aware that he was a member of the Craft!!!

ANTIQUITY OF FREEMASONRY. (To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—On having the paragraph pointed out to me, which I now only learn from Bro. W. P. Buchan's letter in your paper was inserted in the various newspapers, without his knowledge, I replied to it, that the public might know that every Freemason did not believe in the unsupported statements set forth in such a manner, by the challenge which Bro. W. P. Buchan had made. In reply to the letter which appeared in the Glasgow Evening Star, and now (somewhat altered) appearing in THE FREEMASON, page 322, I gave the following reply:—

ANTIQUITY OF FREEMASONRY. To the Editor of The Star.

SIR,—Your paper of 12th May, 1870, contains a letter from Bro. W. P. Buchan, apparently intended as in reply to my letter on the Antiquity of Freemasonry, which appeared on 5th May, 1870. I cannot regard it as really a reply to my letter, for it consists of mere assertions, unwarranted by any exhibition of proof. Bro. W. P. Buchan says my letter is "full of mistakes;" but he does not even condescend to point out these mistakes. He seems to think that it will satisfy his readers for him merely to say that I have made them. I confess that it does not satisfy me; and I do not see why it should. Had an attempt been made point out any mistakes committed by me, I would have investigated every point with care; and I hope I would have been found as ready frankly to acknowledge an error as to maintain what I still found reason to believe to be the truth. Bro. W. P. Buchan also speaks of me as "good at retailing dreams and exploded notions." However, I ask, what are these dreams and exploded notions? If

Bro. W. P. Buchan means to refer to the notion of the existence of Masonry before the year 1717, which he assumes as the date of its origin, I reply that this notion is far from being exploded, and is not to be hastily dismissed as a "dream." The question is one to be tried by the adducement of evidence, and it is ridiculous for any one to come forward and merely make the assertion that our Freemasonry had its origin in 1717, without producing any proof to that effect. Not a vestige of proof has Bro. W. P. Buchan produced. He says, indeed, that in the Freemasons' Magazine last summer he asserted that Freemasonry and Speculative Masonry was only 152 years old; but he surely cannot imagine that this assertion is to be accepted as deciding the question. "He has ever since," he adds, "been carrying on the war continually against all and sundry the supporters of the 'ancient antiquity' of Freemasonry, and he has never met one who could produce any substantial proof that our Freemasonry existed before 1717." In this style he runs on, apparently quite contented with himself, and is in expectation that every one should unhesitatingly accept his views, but showing no reason why they should be accepted.

Bro. W. P. Buchan, who so emphatically condemns my letter as "full of mistakes," might have been expected to have kept clear of mistakes himself. But this is far from being the case. He speaks of the "Earls of Roslin in the seventeenth century," asserting that I am altogether wrong as to their relation to the Masons of Scotland, and that they were mere "patrons and judges" in trade disputes, not hereditary Grand Masters. But there was no Earl of Roslin in the seventeenth century! Yet again, Bro. W. P. Buchan says, "While the Earl of Roslin is chosen or appointed, with express consent and assent of William Shaw, Master of Works to our sovereign lord, judge or referee for a certain district, with continuation to his heirs, he became no more 'Grand Master' or 'hereditary Grand Master' thereby than I did." Without discussing the question whether or not the St. Clair of Roslin who was, with consent and assent above-mentioned, chosen or appointed by the Masons of Scotland to hold high authority among them, was their Grand Master or not, it is sufficient at present to point out the gross mistake of calling him Earl of Roslin, and this may well throw doubt upon all the opinions in connection with the subject of this office which Bro. W. P. Buchan so confidently asserts. Such a display of gross ignorance and carelessness on one point makes his authority very questionable on every other point connected with the subject. With reference, also, to the charters granted by the Masons of Scotland to the St. Clairs of Roslin, in the beginning of the seventeenth century—which charters are preserved in the Advocates' Library, Edinburgh—Bro. W. P. Buchan says, "The dates of these charters are A.D. 1600 and A.D. 1628." Now, the second of these charters is of date A.D. 1630, and the first bears no date, although there is sufficient evidence that it belongs to the early part of the seventeenth century, and to the reign of James VI. of Scotland, after his accession to the English throne. One who makes such mistakes as Bro. W. P. Buchan has made on points so easy of examination, is surely not entitled to censure another for mistakes without adducing evidence of them, nor to much regard for the opinions which he may assert as to the subject under consideration. I hope he will perceive that I have convicted him of mistakes.

His reference to his communication to The Freemasons' Magazine, is not much to the purpose. He may have "carried on the war," as his phrase is, in the pages of that periodical with great satisfaction to himself, and yet without making much impression on others. There are over two hundred thousand Freemasons in Britain who never see it, and there are some who, whatever they might see in it, would not take the trouble to reply. I am one of these. For anything I have yet done in the cause of Freemasonry I have received nothing but abuse; and it is not to be wondered at if I do not reply to articles which are not in themselves very deserving of notice, and in which I am not personally assailed.

Bro. W. P. Buchan called in question the initiation of Charles II. and William III. as Freemasons, often asserted as a historic fact by Masonic writers. He asks "In what lodge were these great kings made?" The question does not demand an exact and positive answer. We may have reason to believe, on good historic evidence, that these Kings were made Masons without being able to say in what lodge it was done, on at what particular date. A reference to the Seventh Landmark will at once explain the possibility of their being made Masons in an occasional lodge. And thus, in fact, persons of very high rank have generally been made Masons. The present Prince of Wales was not made a Mason in any regular lodge in Britain, but in an occasional lodge, which is perfectly competent for such a purpose.

I am almost at a loss what to say as to the following passage of Bro. W. P. Buchan's letter—"More, while the Earls of Roslin were referees or judges for the Masons in one part of the kingdom, we perceive a Royal grant made by James VI., in 1590, to Patrick Copland, of Udaucht, and his heirs, giving him full powers as Warden and Justice within the 'haill thrie sherriffdomes of Aberdene, Banff, and Kincarne.'" I ask, was he another hereditary Grand Master? Bro. W. P. Buchan ought surely to know that a Warden is neither a Master nor a Grand Master. The Kings of Scotland appointed the Office Bearers of the Masons, at least when they chose to do so, as the Kings of England also did, no one disputing their authority; and thus the Earl of Orkney and Caithness was appointed by James II. to his high office, thereafter hereditary in the family of his descendants, the St. Clairs of Roslin; and thus also Patrick Copland, of Udaucht, was appointed Warden for the Northern Shires already named. But there is a great difference between the office of a Warden and that of a Master; and therefore the question of Bro. W. P. Buchan, "Was he another hereditary Grand Master?" can only be regarded as ridiculous. The Laird of Roslin might well be Grand Master of the Masons of Scotland, and the Laird of Udaucht, Warden in a certain district.

I beg leave to call attention a little further to the charters granted by the Masons of Scotland in the beginning of the seventeenth century to the St. Clairs of Roslin. I prefer to quote from the second charter, that of 1630, because it is fuller and more explicit than the older one. It begins with a statement that "from age to age it has been observed amongst us and our predecessors that the Laids of Roslin have ever been patrons and protectors of us and our privileges." I modernise the spelling, but quote the exact words. Then follows the statement that the writs of the Laids of Roslin, which had been granted to them by the Kings of Scotland, and in virtue of which they exercised authority over the Masons, had been consumed by a fire in the Castle of Roslin, so that there was danger of detriment to the Masons, and also that the Laids of Roslin would "lie out of their just rights." I ask what meaning can be assigned to these words if the Laids of Roslin are to be supposed to have been "patrons" of a Craft of Operative Masons, and judges or "referees," as Bro. W. P. Buchan says, in "trade disputes"? Of what value could such a right be to them? The words which I have quoted become intelligible only on the supposition that the Masons of Scotland were something more than a mere Operative Craft, so that it was held a high honour to be connected with them and to preside over them.

Again, in the same charter, the Masons of Scotland speak of their "having full experience of the old good skill and judgment" which Sir William St. Clair of Roslin has in their "Craft and vocation." Is this language easily to be explained on the supposition that there was nothing in that Craft and vocation beyond mere Operative Masonry? I leave Bro. W. P. Buchan to crack these nuts at his leisure, and when he has done so I will excuse him, even although he should again speak of me as "good at retailing dreams and exploded notions."

It is not easy to deal with an assertion so general as that contained in the following sentence of Bro. W. P. Buchan's letter: "All sorts of forgeries have been manufactured, and innumerable lies told and written to support them, in order to prove that our system of Freemasonry is older than last century; but wherever said documents have been examined by competent parties they have been easily shown to be mere trash." It would be comparatively easy to investigate any particular question, and I am willing both to enter into such investigation, as to make known the result, if the question proposed is one at all affecting the controversy as to the antiquity of Freemasonry.

I am aware that the notion of the recent origin of Freemasonry has received acceptance with some on the imaginary ground that the term Freemason and Freemasonry are altogether of modern use. The real question, however, is whether or not that which is now known as Freemasonry existed before the year 1717? The introduction of a new term is common enough in all languages, and many instances of this kind as to the English language might be adduced.

Does Bro. W. P. Buchan regard the often republished letter of the celebrated John Locke to the Earl of Pembroke as a forgery? It is genuine, and until evidence is produced to the contrary I must believe it. It affords conclusive proof that Masonry in England in the end of the seventeenth century (A.D. 1696) was something very different from a mere Operative Craft. How inconsistent with such a supposition is the statement made in this letter that Lady Masham "is become so fond of Masonry as to say that she now more than ever wishes herself a man, that she might be capable of admission into the fraternity."

The MS. in the Bodleian Library to which Locke's letter refers, if not an absolute forgery, fabricated since the year 1717, shows Masonry in England, in the time of Henry VI., or thereby, to have been very different from a mere Operative Craft. I could make this evident by quotations, if it were not that they would occupy too much space, and that it does not seem to be necessary that the MS. is in the handwriting of Henry VI., as has been supposed. This MS. exists, and I am not aware that its genuineness has ever been denied, or the accuracy of the copies which have been published; it is enough of itself to refute the 1717 theory and to explode it altogether. Locke's letter, however, may again be quoted as showing that in 1696, that is twenty-one years before the date, when according to Bro. W. P. Buchan, Freemasonry was brought forth, it was reported, erroneously or not, that King Henry VI. "entered himself as one of the Brotherhood of Masons." And as far as the 1717 theory is concerned, this is conclusive enough.

Evidence is to be found in the diary of the celebrated Elias Ashmole, founder of the Museum at Oxford, which still bears his name. In his diary he says, "I was made a Freemason at Warrington, Lancashire, with Colonel Henry Mainwaring, of Herthlingham, in Cheshire, by Mr. Richard Penhet, the Warden, and the Fellow Crafts, on the sixteenth of October, 1646." One would think this was conclusive, and it is to be observed that we have here the term Freemason employed before the middle of the seventeenth century.

The article on Freemasonry ("Masonry Free") in "Chambers' Encyclopædia has evidently been written by one who does not believe in the antiquity of our system, but his theory of its origin is not the 1717 theory. He says it dates from the seventeenth century, and that its real founders were Elias Ashmole and some of his literary friends, who amused themselves by devising a set of symbols borrowed in part from the Knights Templar, and in part from the Rosicrucians. He states as an unquestioned and unquestionable fact that Charles II. and William III. were Masons, and adds that "the appearance of a connection with Operative Masons was kept up by the appointment of Sir Christopher Wren to the office of Grand Master." It is not necessary, at present, to examine very closely the grounds of this theory. That it has been put forward, and in a work of such a character as "Chambers' Encyclopædia," is enough to show that the advocates of the 1717 theory have not all their own way even with those who agree with them in rejecting the claims of Freemasonry to a high antiquity. In the article just referred to, we are told that the epithet Free was applied to the Craft of Masons in consequence of their being exempted by several Papal bulls from the laws which regulated common labourers, and exonerated from various burdens thrown on the working classes at large, both in England and on the Continent.

In conclusion, I would only now ask the question, how, either on the theory that our modern system of Freemasonry was invented by Desaguliers, Anderson, and others in 1717, or on that of its invention by Ashmole and his literary associates, in the previous century, its immediate adoption and rapid extension can be explained? The letters are still extant by which the four lodges which had existed for a long period previous to 1717, and then existing in London, invited their brethren throughout England to unite with them in 1717 to form the Grand Lodge of England; and certainly they do not accord with the notion of the perfect novelty of the system. But if it was then newly devised, how did its framers succeed in winning for it such general approbation? How did they succeed in getting the Grand Lodge founded at all, and in getting noblemen of the highest rank to join them, and to accept office as their Grand Masters? To me this seems utterly incredible; and nothing more, I think, is requisite to show the 1717 theory to be utterly baseless. A similar argument is applicable to the theory of the invention of the system of Freemasonry in the 17th century by Elias Ashmole and his friends. The only possible solution, it seems to me, of the difficulty which presents itself is that of supposing Freemasonry to be of ancient origin, and to have grown to greater and greater perfection through the lapse of ages, holding a high place in the estimation of men, so that kings and nobles were willing to be enrolled amongst the members of the Order. The probability of this supposition appears, at least, to be much greater than that of any other; and it behoves those who maintain those opinions to show clearly what ground they have for them. A mere arbitrary assumption of a particular date or authorship is of no value.

I have no doubt that both Ashmole, Desaguliers, and Anderson contributed much to the improvement of the system of Freemasonry. But so have others since, and improvement is not to be confounded with invention. Moreover—and this, I think, is an important consideration—none of them were at all likely to set up a system of imposture. For it comes to this, on the theory that either the one party or the other invented the system of Freemasonry, whatever it may be in itself, either party invented it, and they must have been guilty of palming it upon the world as what they knew that it was not. Now, Ashmole, Desaguliers, and Anderson were men of high character, and men of high scientific attainments. Were they likely, let me ask, to employ themselves in framing a system founded on imposture, and asking others to join them in it? There are few things that appear to me more incredible.

Although Bro. W. P. Buchan has attempted to throw cold water upon Dr. Anderson, a native of Edinburgh by birth, and for many years Chaplain to the Grand Lodge of England, the Parliament of Scotland gave him a vote of thanks for a work of his production, considering him a man of a high order of literary talent. This is sufficient, I think, to satisfy the world of his abilities.

In my letter I mentioned that I was busy with several Masonic works, and on their being finished I would take up the whole question. I mentioned it for the sole reason that it is quite impossible for any one to enter into a controversy about the history of Freemasonry without occupying a very great deal of time, and such I have not to spare at present.

I shall not again reply to anything from Bro. W. P. Buchan, except through what I consider the proper channel, The Freemason, and I trust to him doing the same.

I remain, Sir, yours obediently,
CHALMERS I. PATON.

The Tower, Portobello, 21st May, 1870.

Bro. W. P. Buchan says, in his introduction at page 322, "Perhaps you will be so kind as to give me a portion of your valuable space to show the answers which I gave." Although it is quite true that he did give answers to my letters, they were not given in the same words as now appearing in THE FREEMASON. There is a portion of one letter inserted in the other, and also a portion of one of them left out. It would have been more truthful just to have given his letter as it appeared in the newspaper. That is what I would call, to use a familiar phrase of his own, "raising a little smoke, so that all will not see his mistake." The mistake I mean is the putting down of Dr. Anderson's works as "displaying little judgment." I am of opinion that Bro. W. P. Buchan feels a little ashamed of this, and now withdraws it. This I feel pleased to see he has done, and for which I give him credit. If Bro. W. P. Buchan would give us a series of articles in THE FREEMASON to support his 1717 theory, he might expect some support if he can prove his statement, which, I believe, he is unable to do. Till then we can only believe what is written in history.

It is my intention to send to THE FREEMASON a series of articles on "The Origin of Freemasonry: the 1717 Theory Exploded." In which I will say all that I intend saying, and thus end the controversy.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

CONSECRATION OF A MASONIC HALL IN AUSTRALIA.

A new Freemasons' Hall was consecrated at Flinders-street, Adelaide, on Tuesday, the 22nd of March, 1870. Seats were provided for close on 200 persons, and the right of entrée was strictly confined to Master Masons.

Soon after seven o'clock, every seat being occupied, the D.G. Master (Bro. Arthur Hardy, J.P.) entered the hall, accompanied by the Provincial G.M. Irish Constitution (Bro. the Hon. John Tuthill Bagot, M.L.C., Chief Secretary), and attended by the D.D.G. Master (Bro. His Honour Henry E. Downer, Commissioner of Insolvency and S.M.), the P.D.D.G. Master (Bro. Dr. Whittell, J.P.), the D.G. Senior Warden (Bro. His Honour Judge Gwynne), the D.G. Junior Warden (Bro. C. R. Darton), the D.G. Chaplain (Bro. Rev. Canon Farr, M.A.), the D.G.R. (Bro. J. R. Gurner), the D.G. Treas. (Bro. F. J. Botting), the D.G. Sec. (Bro. R. E. Lucy), D.G. Sup. Works (Bro. Hon. Thomas English), and the other officers of the District Grand Lodge. There were also present the D.P.G.M. Irish Constitution (Bro. W. Fiveash), and the Substitute P.G.M. Scotch Constitution (Bro. Wills), besides several officers of the Irish and Scotch Grand Lodges. The usual forms were observed, and on the District Grand Lodge being declared open, the following ode was sung by an efficient choir, accompanied on the organ by Bro. H. L. Durieu (D.G. Organist):—

TUNE—"God Save the Queen."

Hail! Universal Lord,
By heaven and earth adored;
All hail! great God!

Before Thy name we bend,
To us thy grace extend,
And to thy prayer attend,
All hail! great God!

The imposing ceremony of consecration was then gone through. But the grand feature of the evening, valuable both for its originality and its intrinsic beauty—the oration of the Rev. Canon Farr, D.G. Chaplain, following the ceremony of consecration, was as follows:—"Among other thoughts imprinted on our minds as Masons, we are especially led to consider that our time is not our own; that it is a great and solemn trust committed to our care by the Great Architect of the Universe—not for our own enjoyment only, but for the use of all around us. In consonance with this teaching we have been this day dedicating to the service and to the use of our brethren a hall in which our meetings may be held, and in which the brethren may receive that instruction which will enable them to rear up for the services of the Almighty no mere material temple, but a house not madewith hands, a spiritual temple, in which each artificer duly labouring will find his place. Of that spiritual temple we have the figure here. If the corner stone be well and truly laid; if the walls be carefully tested by the plumb-line, are upright and stable; if the cement is firm and binding, years and years may roll on, and our work will still be standing. How many generations of men may assemble within these walls! How often will the words that have come down to us through long ages be here repeated in hushed solemnity to those who will be our successors! Perchance this hall, where we now assemble in the vigour of health, may witness another gathering when we have been called away, and our brethren are summoned to follow that which remains of us to the tomb; for, like the bells, our hall has a changeable voice—it speaks of sorrow as well as of joy—of the evening's labour and its refreshment—of life's labour and its rest. How many generations indeed—for of the end of Freemasonry who shall speak? Its foundations are so deeply sunk that man cannot reach them with certainty; they are at least so wide and so strong that the building raised upon them may grow to the world's end. Wide as the world itself, we know no distinction of colour or of country. We acknowledge the brotherhood of all who are of Adam's race. We close our doors to no free man whose faith rests in the Great Creator; and surely in a system such as ours, where each symbol has its significance, each word its hidden meaning, 'free' is a word of more than ordinary import. For he is not free who is a bondsman to his passions; he is not free who is a servant to uncleanness; he is not free who is the slave of avarice; he is not free whose Lord is 'his appetites'; but he is free who, by God's grace, is himself his own master, who can still in his breast the tumultuous uprisings of anger; who can control and subdue the wildness of desire; who can see with unenvying contentment the prosperity of those around him, and, if God has blessed him with worldly means, can pour forth from the fountain of his wealth an ever-flowing stream of benevolence. Nor is he free whose mind is in the toils of superstition. Freemasonry does not concern itself with political questions. It teaches those who belong to the brotherhood to be obedient to the laws of the land wherein they live. Superstition alone recognises a toe in Freemasonry, and in so doing she condemns herself. Seeking to keep her children in the darkness of the neophyte, she dares not draw off the bandage that binds their eyes and give them light. Yet, if she will not remove it with her own hands, Time, the healer as well as the destroyer, will fret it away, and the true light be seen in all its bright effulgence. Bound as we are by our laws to abstain from all persuasion to induce men to join our craft, in what way can we fill up our ranks? The answer is an easy one. Our lights must be kept burning, not only within the walls of the lodge, but in the busy places of the world. Men will judge us by our works. Hitherto in South Australia there has been little room for the exercise of our special duties. The great charitable institutions which reflect honour on our Order in the mother country have as yet found no place here. They have not, indeed, been needed. The help given to our benevolent fund is almost unnoticed. To the world without, therefore, we seem to have no work in view commensurate to our power and our professions. Let us acknowledge that this state of things must soon pass away. As death carries away one or other of our brethren, there are those left behind who are objects of special solicitude to the Craft. His widow, his children, those for whom he cared in life, are, in a measure, become objects of our care now. Let us make our preparations that we may be ready when the time comes to render them the help they need. As in England they have their schools for children of the craft, their homes for their aged members, so let us at least endeavour to lay the foundation of a system of benevolence which may eventually enable us in South Australia to extend to those who need it that help for which a Freemason should never be asked in vain. I rejoice to think that this has been already a subject of your thoughts. I am impressed with the conviction that a wide system of benevolence would tend almost more than anything else to strengthen our body. If our funds were temporarily diminished by an expenditure of this kind they would surely be replenished by the accession of brethren to our Order, and many a brother whose interest in the Craft is weak, mainly perhaps because he cannot see that we are busy in the work of benevolence, would feel his interest reawakened and his pleasure renewed in aiding and in stimulating our charitable endeavours. I have an earnest confidence that our possession of this hall for Masonic purposes will lead to such a movement for benevolent purposes as will call forth the energies and rouse the sympathies of all the brotherhood in South Australia. The corn of nourishment, the wine of refreshment, the oil of gladness, each has taught us its lessons of God's bounty and providence for us, His creatures dwelling on this earth. Let us further remember that there is a world beyond this, and that we must so live that we may be prepared to die. It may be that our researches into God's hidden mysteries may never lead us beyond darkness visible. As we advance our horizon may recede; and each step forward serve but to show us the more plainly that the wisdom of the Almighty is infinite, His ways past finding out. Of one thing at least we shall be convinced—of His love for man, His care for all created beings. Let, then, the lines of our lives be traced in accordance with this rule of love. By so living we shall become most like Him while we remain on earth, and most ready to pass through that dark valley where One alone can be our companion, and to go through that great change which will enable us to know even as also we are known."

Another oration, equally interesting to the members of the Craft, was delivered by P.D.D.G.M. Whittell, but it was of a purely Masonic character, and not appropriate for publication.

After this the anthem, psalm cxxxiii., "Behold how pleasant and how good," was sung, and the lodge was closed, the choir giving as a finale the "Song of Australia":—

There is a land where summer skies
Are gleaming with a thousand dyes,
Blending in witching harmonies;
And grassy knoll and forest height
Are flushing in the rosy light,
And all above is azure bright—
Australia.

There is a land where honey flows,
Where laughing corn luxuriant grows,
Land of the myrtle and the rose;
On hill and plain the clust'ring vine
Is gushing out with purple wine,
And cups are quaffed to thee and thine—
Australia.

There is a land where floating free,
From mountain top to girdling sea,
A proud flag waves exultingly;
And freedom's sons the banner bear,
No shackled slave can breathe the air,
Fairest of Britain's daughters fair—
Australia.

It was mentioned in the course of the evening by Bro. Letchford, one of the Stewards and a Trustee of the Masonic Hall, that the cost of the land, building, furnishing, &c., was £5,100. The annual liability is at present £344 (interest to mortgagee, £240; Secretary, £104), and the estimated income is £401 (rent, £156; three lodges, £120; chapter, £30; D.G. Lodge, £25; other lodges, £20; banquet room, £50). Several contributions were received after the ceremony of consecration, and others are confidently expected towards reducing the liabilities of the trustees. The architect (Bro. the Hon. Thomas English, M.L.C.) most liberally declared his intention of returning for the benefit of the fund one-half of the amount of his commission.

The brethren re-assembled in the banquetting-room below, the R.W.D.G.M. presiding, supported by the Prov. G.M. (Irish Constitution), the Present and Past Deputy D.G. Masters, the D.G. Chaplain, &c.; the Senior and Junior Wardens being in their places, and the "dark corner" properly filled.

Host Bungert set a repast before his guests which would have done credit to any Boniface in Adelaide, and of his wines it may truly be said that they were plentiful and excellent. Full justice was done to the banquet, and, the cloth having been removed, the various toasts which royalty to the Crown and to the Order prescribe were duly honoured, not forgetting that which gallantry inspires in the heart of every true brother of the Craft.

Notings from Masonic Journals.

WE are authorised to state that the Right Hon. the Lord Lindsay, 31st, and the Rev. Charles J. Martyn, (Grand Chaplain of Grand Lodge of England), who were recently elected members of the Senate of the Red Cross Order, have accepted the positions of Grand Examiner, and Grand Sub-Prelate respectively, to which those distinguished brethren were nominated by Lord Kenlis, the Grand Sovereign of the Order.

GLOCESTER CATHEDRAL.—Some months ago the Freemasons of Gloucestershire expressed a wish to undertake the restoration of some distinct portion of the Gloucester Cathedral, and it was suggested that they should provide the new reredos, at a cost then estimated at £600. A committee was appointed by the Provincial Grand Lodge, the £600 was raised, and at a recent meeting it was ordered that a communication should be made to the Dean to the effect that "the Freemasons are prepared with the £600, the amount which they were led to believe the restoration of the reredos would cost, and are most anxious to undertake that work; but that the committee do not believe it to be possible to obtain a larger subscription." The cost of the reredos, as designed by Mr. Gilbert Scott, is expected to be about £2,000.—Times.

CULTIVATION OF TREE-CARNATIONS.—It requires a considerable amount of care and judgment to grow these delightfully-fragrant flowers satisfactorily. The cuttings should be struck in February, March, and April. Take cuttings of two or three joints in length, remove the lowest leaves only, put them into pots or pans in sand alone, and place the pots in a brisk moist heat—like that afforded by a melon or cucumber frame, for instance. When well furnished with roots, put them into thumb-pots, and then shift them from thumb-pots to three-inch size, and so on, always observing that they should not be shifted till they really need it, nor be allowed to become pot-bound for want of a shift. As soon as they have recovered from the first shift, nip out the growing points, and stop no more. Continue to shift as required till the middle of July, when they may be in either eight or ten-inch pots, as both are good sizes in which to flower them. After the plants are established in thumb-pots, they should be grown with as little artificial heat as possible, and after they have had their last shift put them out of doors in an open situation, and stand the pots upon a bed of coal-ashes not less than six inches in thickness. When the pots are well filled with roots, water with very weak liquid manure. The pots must be drained efficiently, and the compost should consist of good turfy loam quite free from wire-worm, with about a third of its bulk of old cow-manure, and a liberal proportion of sharp silver-sand. House from the 21st of September to the 7th of October, regulating the exact date by the time they are wanted in flower and by the weather. Keep them near the glass in a cool airy house for a fortnight; then transfer them to a warm greenhouse, where they will begin to bloom towards the end of November, and, by judicious management, continue in flower throughout the winter.—Gardener's Magazine.

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or, in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, supplies the extra nutrition to the blood and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested and the ailment disappears—man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army; and Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also for Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment, each in boxes 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution: Get thered and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—[Advt.]

REMEMBER.—It is not what people eat, but what they digest, that makes them strong. It is not what they gain, but what they save, that makes them rich. It is not what they read, but what they remember, that makes them learned. It is not what they profess, but what they practice, that makes them righteous.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.

Wholesale at MAYAR'S, 36, MARK LANE, LONDON, E.C.

FIELD'S WALNUT CRINTINCTU.—Under the patronage of Royalty and the Aristocracy throughout Europe this preparation warranted perfectly harmless, dyes the hair permanently and with little trouble, in light, dark brown, and black shades. E. FIELD, constantly using it on ladies' hair in every shade required, can recommend it as invaluable for whiskers and moustache, producing perfectly natural colours—No better Hair Dye obtainable. It is also one of the finest tonics for the Hair ever used. 5s., 10s., and 20s.—State shade required.

FIELD'S QUININE BALSAM and FIELD'S DIAMOND TOILETTE FLUID are articles expressly prepared to accompany the Crintinctu, 2s. 6d. and 4s.

The above Articles can be sent per Rail, or had through all respectable Chemists. Please observe Trade Mark "THE WALNUT," Name and Address as none other is genuine.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.
 COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.
 Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

THE BEST PUDDING. MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

24 PRIZE MEDALS.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY of MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained

in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina. As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.

Wholesale at MAYAR'S, 36, MARK LANE, LONDON, E.C.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

YOUNG'S ARNICATED CORN AND BUNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists.

Observe the trade mark—HY—without which none are genuine. Be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place for all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody: clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification.

Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

FREEMASONRY IN ENGLAND.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

BEFORE THE SCHISM.

Under the false appellation of the York banner the new G. Lodge gained the countenance of the Scotch and Irish Masons, who, placing implicit confidence in the representations made to them, heartily joined in condemning the measures of the regular lodges in London, as tending, in their opinion, to introduce novelties into the Society, and to subvert the original plan of the institution. The irregular Masons in London having thus acquired a nominal establishment, noblemen of both kingdoms, unacquainted with the origin of the separation, honoured them with their patronage, and some respectable names and lodges were added to their list.

During the presidency of Lord Raymond no considerable addition was made to the list of lodges, nor were the communications often honoured with the company of the nobility. His lordship granted only one deputation for a Provincial Grand Master during his presidency: viz, for Savoy and Piedmont.

The Earl of Kintore succeeded Lord Raymond in April, 1740; and, in imitation of his predecessor, continued to discourage irregularities. His lordship appointed several Provincials, particularly one for Russia, one for Hamburgh and the Circle of Lower Saxony, one for the Vest Riding of York (in the room of William Horto, Esq., deceased), and one for the island of Barbadoes.

The Earl of Morton was elected on the 19th of March following, and installed with great solemnity the same day at Habrdashers' Hall, in presence of a respectable company of the nobility, foreign ambassadors, and others. Several seasonable laws were passed during his lordship's Mastership, and some regulations made concerning processions and other ceremonies. His lordship presented a staff of office to the Treasurer of neat workmanship, blue and tipped with gold; and the Grand Lodge resolved that this officer should be annually elected, and, with the Secretary and word-bearer, be permitted to rank in future as a member of the Grand Lodge. A large cornelian seal, with the arms of Masonry set in gold, was presented to the Society at this time by Bro. William Vaughn, the Senior Grand Warden, who was appointed by his lordship Provincial Grand Master for North Wales.

Lord Ward succeeded the Earl of Morton in April, 1742. His lordship, being well acquainted with the nature and government of the Society, having served every office from the Secretary in a private lodge to that of Grand Master, lost no time in applying effectual remedies to reconcile the animosities which prevailed. He recommended to his officers vigilance and care in their different departments, and by his conduct set a noble example how the dignity of the Society ought to be supported. Many lodges which were in a declining state, by his advice coalesced with others in better circumstances; some which had been negligent in their attendance on the Communications, after proper admonitions, were restored to favours, and others which persevered in their contumacy were erased from the list. Thus his lordship manifested a sincere regard for the interests of the Society, while his lenity and forbearance were universally admired.

The unanimity and harmony of the lodges seemed to be perfectly restored under his lordship's administration. The Freemasons at Antigua built a large hall in that island for their meetings, and applied to the Grand Lodge for liberty to be styled the Great Lodge of St. John's in Antigua, which favour was granted to them in April, 1744.

Lord Ward continued two years at the head of the Fraternity, during which time he constituted many lodges, and appointed several Provincial Grand Masters—viz, one for Lancaster, one for North America, and three for the island of Jamaica. He was succeeded by the Earl of Strathmore, during whose administration, he being absent the whole time, the care and management of the Society devolved on the other Grand Officers, who carefully studied the general good of the Fraternity. His lordship appointed a Provincial Grand Master for the island of Bermuda.

Lord Cranston was elected Grand Master in April, 1745, and presided over the Fraternity with great reputation two years. Under his auspices Masonry flourished, several new lodges were constituted, and one Provincial Grand Master was appointed for Cape Breton and Louisbourg. By a resolution of the Grand Lodge at this time it was ordered that public processions on feast days should be discontinued—occasioned by some mock processions which a few disgusted brethren had formed in order to burlesque those public appearances.

Lord Byron succeeded Lord Cranston, and was installed at Drapers' Hall on the 30th of April, 1747. The laws of the Committee of Charity were, by his lordship's order, revised, printed, and distributed among the lodges, and a handsome contribution to the general charity was received from the lodge at Gibraltar. During five years that his lordship presided over the Fraternity, no diligence was spared to preserve the privileges of the Order inviolate, to redress grievances, and to relieve distress. When business required his lordship's attendance in the country, Fotherly Baker, Esq., his Deputy, and Secretary Fisher were particularly attentive to the business of the Society. The former was distinguished by his knowledge of the laws and regulations; the latter, by his long and faithful services. Under the auspices of Lord Byron, provincial patents were issued for Denmark and Norway, Pennsylvania, Minorca, and New York.

On the 20th of March, 1752, Lord Carysfort accepted the office of Grand Master. The good effects of his lordship's application to the real interests of the Fraternity soon became visible by the great increase of the public fund. No Grand Officer ever took more pains to preserve, or was more attentive to recommend, order and decorum. He was ready on every occasion to visit the lodges in person, and to promote harmony among the members. Dr. Manningham, his Deputy, was no less vigilant in the execution of his duty. He constantly visited the lodges in his lordship's absence, and used every endeavour to cement union among the brethren. The whole proceedings of this active officer was conducted with prudence, and his candour and affability gained him universal esteem. The Grand Master's attachment to the Society was so obvious that the brethren, in testimony of gratitude for his lordship's great services, re-elected him on the 3rd of April, 1753, and during his presidency provincial patents were issued for Gibraltar, the Bahama Islands, New York, Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, and Mann; also for Cornwall and the counties of Worcester, Gloucester, Salop, Monmouth, and Hereford.

At this time the Society in Scotland appears to have been in a very flourishing state. Under the auspices of George Drummond, Esq., the Grand Master of the Masons in that kingdom, the lodges had considerably increased in numbers. This gentleman had thrice served the office of Lord Provost of Edinburgh; and being at the head of the senate in that city, he was anxious to promote every scheme which could add to the consequence and splendour of the metropolis of his native country. With this view he planned and afterwards completed that elegant range of buildings called the New Exchange of Edinburgh, the foundation stone of which he laid on the 13th of September, 1753, as Grand Master. An event so remarkable in the annals of Masonry justly merits attention, and cannot fail to render an account of a ceremony so splendid and conducted with so much regularity interesting to every brother who has the honour of the Society at heart.

Early in the morning of the day appointed for the celebration of this ceremony a magnificent triumphal arch in the true Augustan style was opened to public view. It was erected at the entrance leading towards the place where the foundation stone of the intended building was to be laid. In the niches between the columns on each side of the entrance were two figures representing Geometry and Architecture, each as large as life. On the frieze of the entablature, which was of the Corinthian order, were the following words: "Quod felix faustumque sit;" "That it may be happy and prosperous." On the middle panel of the attic base, placed over the entablature, was represented the Genius of Edinburgh in a curule chair under a canopy. On her right hand stood a group of figures representing the Lord Provost, magistrates, and council in their robes; on her left was another group representing the noblemen and gentlemen employed in the direction of the intended structure. In front was placed the Grand Master offering a plan of the Exchange, attended by several of his brethren properly clothed. The whole was decorated with laurels, bays, and other evergreens, interspersed with festoons of flowers.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the several lodges, with their Masters at their heads, met at Mary's Chapel in Niddry's Wind, and at half-past three the procession began to move from the chapel in the following order, the city guard covering the rear:

1. Operative Masons not belonging to any lodge present.
2. A band of French horns.
3. The lodges present, arranged as follows:—
The Military Lodge belonging to General Johnson's Regiment.
The Thistle Lodge.
The Scots' Lodge in Canongate.
Holyrood House Lodge.
Vernon Kilwinning Lodge.
Canongate from Leith Lodge.
Dalkeith Lodge.
Lodge of Journeymen Masons.
Canongate and Leith, Leith and Canongate Lodge.
Leith Kilwinning Lodge.
Canongate Kilwinning Lodge.
Mary's Chapel Lodge.
- All the brethren properly clothed, and the Masters and Wardens in the jewels of their respective lodges, with their badges of dignity, formed the last rank of each lodge.
4. Gentlemen Masons belonging to foreign lodges.
5. A band of Hautboys.
6. The Golden Compasses, carried by an operative Mason.
7. Three Grand Stewards with rods.
8. The Grand Secretary, Grand Treasurer, and Grand Clerk.
9. Three Grand Stewards, with rods.
10. The Golden Square, Level, and Plumb, carried by three operative Masons.
11. A band of French horns.
12. Three Grand Stewards, with rods.
13. The Grand Wardens.
14. The Cornucopia and Golden Mallet, carried by an officer of the Grand Lodge and an Operative Mason.
15. The Grand Master, supported by a Past Grand Master and the present Substitute.

The procession was closed by a body of Operative Masons, and the whole brethren, amounting exactly to 672, walked uncovered.

At the head of Niddry's Wind the cavalcade was received by 150 of the military and a company of grenadiers, drawn up in two lines, under arms, who escorted the procession—one half of the grenadiers marching in front, and the other half in the rear, with bayonets fixed. As the procession passed the city guard, a company was drawn out, with the proper officers at their head, who saluted the Grand Master with military honours, drums beating and music playing. When the procession reached the Parliament Close, the troops formed a line, as did also the Masons within that line. The Grand Master and the officers of the Grand Lodge then made a stop at the north-west corner of the Close, and dispatched a message to the Council-house to acquaint the magistrates that the brethren were ready to receive them. On which the Lord Provost, magistrates, and council, in their robes, preceded by the city officers with the sword and mace, accompanied by several of the gentlemen in the direction of the intended buildings, proceeded through the lines formed by the soldiers and the Masons, when the Grand Master, properly supported as before, preceded by his officers, and having his jewels borne before him, marched to the place where the ceremony was to be performed, and passed through the triumphal arch erected for the occasion, the lodges following according to seniority. On the west side of the place where the stone was to be laid was erected a theatre, covered with tapestry and decked with flowers, for the Lord Provost, magistrates, council, and attendants. On the east was erected another theatre for the Grand Master and his officers, on which was set a chair for the Grand Master. Before the chair was a table covered with tapestry, on which were placed two silver vessels filled with wine and oil, the golden jewels and the cornucopia, which had been carried in the procession. The Masters, Wardens, and brethren of the several lodges were then arranged in galleries properly fitted up for the occasion.

The ceremony of laying the stone now commenced. By order of the Substitute Grand Master the stone was slung into a tackle, and, after three regular stops, let down gradually to the ground, during which the Masonic anthem was sung, accompanied by the music, all the brethren joining in the chorus. The Grand Master, supported as before, preceded by his officers and the Operative Masons carrying the jewels, then descended from the theatre to the spot where the stone lay, and passed through a line formed by the officers of the Grand Lodge. The Substitute Grand Master deposited in the stone, in cavities made for the purpose, three medals with the following devices: On one side was the effigies of the Grand Master in profile, vested with the ribbon officially worn by him, and in front a view of the Royal Infirmary, with the following inscription:

G. Drummond, Architect. Scot.
Svmmvs Magis Edin. ter Cos.

George Drummond, of the Society of Freemasons in Scotland, Grand Master, thrice Provost of Edinburgh. On the reverse was a perspective view of the Exchange, on which was inscribed in the circle, Verbi exornande civimque commodiati—For adorning the city, and the convenience of its inhabitants; and underneath,

Excudi jussit, xiii. Septembris 1753.

The first stone of the New Exchange of Edinburgh being laid, the brotherhood of Masons through Scotland ordered this to be struck, 13th September, 1753.

The other medals contained the effigies as above, and on the reverse the Masons' Arms, inclosed within the collar of St. Andrew, with the following inscription: "In the Lord is all our trust." The former Grand Master and the Substitute retiring, two Operative Masons came in their place, and assisted the Grand Master to turn over the stone and lay it in its proper bed, with the inscription undermost.

The Grand Master then taking his station at the east of the stone, with the Substitute on the left and his Wardens in the West, the Operative who carried the square delivered it to the Substitute, who presented it to the Grand Master, and he having applied it to that part of the stone which was square, returned it back to the Operative. The Operative who carried the plumb then delivered it to the Substitute, who presented it also to the Grand Master, and he having applied it to the edges of the stone, holding it upright, delivered it back to the Operative. In like manner the Operative who carried the level delivered it to the Substitute, and he presented it to the Grand Master, who applied it above the stone in several positions, and returned it back to the Operative. The mallet was then presented to the Grand Master, who gave three knocks upon the stone, which was followed by three huzzas from the brethren. An anthem was then sung, accompanied by the music, during which the cornucopia and the two silver vessels containing the wine and oil were brought down to the stone. The cornucopia was delivered to the Substitute, and the vessels to the Wardens. The anthem being concluded, the Substitute presented the cornucopia to the Grand Master, who turned out the ears of corn upon the stone. The silver vessels were then delivered by the Wardens to the Substitute, and by him presented to the Grand Master, who poured the contents upon the stone, saying, "May the bountiful hand of heaven supply this city with abundance of corn, wine, oil, and all the other conveniences of life!" This was succeeded by three huzzas, after which an anthem was sung. The Grand Master then repeated these words; "As we have now laid this foundation-stone, may the Great Architect of the Universe, of His kind providence, enable us to carry on and finish the work which we have now begun. May He be a guard to this place and the city in general, and may He preserve it from decay and ruin to the latest posterity." The ceremony was concluded with a short prayer for the sovereign, the senate of the city, the Fraternity of Masons, and all the people. The music was resumed, and the Grand Master returned to his chair amid the plaudits of the brethren.

The Grand Master then addressed the Lord Provost, magistrates, and council in an appropriate speech, in which he thanked them for the honour which they had done him in witnessing the act of laying the foundation-stone of the intended structure, and expressed his earnest wish that they and their successors might be happy instruments to forward the great and good work which was now begun, and offered so fair a prospect of success; and he sincerely hoped that it might add, not only to the ornament and advantage of the city of Edinburgh, but be the means of insuring to them lasting honour and transmitting their memories to the latest posterity. He next addressed the undertakers of the work on the importance of the trust reposed in them, and recommended diligence and industry to all the workmen who might be employed under them.

The magistrates then took their leave, and the brethren resumed the procession to the palace of Holyrood House, escorted by the military as before, amidst an immense crowd of spectators. On arriving at the palace the Grand Master, in the name of himself and brethren, returned his most grateful acknowledgments to the commanding officer of the troops for the assistance which he had given. The brethren then entered the inner court of the palace, and formed a square to receive the Grand Master and his officers with all due honour, who, followed by the lodges according to seniority, proceeded to the great gallery, where an elegant entertainment was provided, and the greatest harmony prevailed. At nine o'clock in the evening the company broke up.

Such was the regularity observed throughout the ceremony of the day that, notwithstanding the crowds of people who were collected on the occasion, the whole was concluded without a single accident.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS.

BENEVOLENT FUND FESTIVAL.

The second annual festival in behalf of this fund was held on Thursday, 14th inst., at the Talbot Hotel, Richmond, under the presidency of the Earl Percy, M.P., R.W. Dep. Grand Mark Master Mason, supported on his right by the M.W. Grand Mark Master Mason Bro. Rev. G. R. Portal, and on his left by Bro. Sir John Conroy, Bart., R.W. Past Grand Warden. Nearly fifty ladies and brethren were present, and amongst the latter we noticed: Bros. Rev. D. Shaboe, P.G. Chap.; Thomas Meggy, P.G.W.; Frederick Binckes, G. Sec.; W. Mann, P.G. Reg.; S. Rosenthal, P.G. Steward; R. Spencer, P.G.S.B.; George King, jun., P.G. Steward; J. H. Wynne, P.G.S.B.; Dyer, Henley, Mortlock, &c. The musical arrangements were conducted by Bro. W. Ganz, all engaged therein having most generously offered their valuable assistance gratuitously. Miss Alice Fairman, Madame Thaddeus Wells, Chev. de Kontski, Herr Deck, Bro. Ganz, Bros. Wallworth and Dyson, vocally and instrumentally, largely added to the pleasures of the evening, which passed off most successfully and agreeably, the fund benefitting to the extent of seventy guineas. The dinner and wines reflected great credit on the new proprietor, Bro. Grünhold.

PROV. GRAND CHAPTER OF ROYAL ARCH MASONS, YORKSHIRE.

A Provincial Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the North and East Ridings of Yorkshire, was holden by special appointment, in the Britannia Chapter, Whitby, on Wednesday, 6th July.

Present:—M.E. Comps. John Pearson Bell, M.D., Grand Superintendent of the North and East Ridings of Yorkshire, Z.; John N. Lawson (312), P.G.H.; W. T. Farthing (200), P.G.J.; Michael Charles Peck (250), P.G. Scribe E.; George Hardy (250), P.G. Scribe N.; H. A. Williamson (200), P.G. Prin. Soj.; William Wood (312), P.G. First Ass. Soj.; Thomas N. Marwood (312), as P.G. Second Ass. Soj.; W. Cowling (236), as P.G. Treas.; William Lawton (236), P.G. Reg.; Wm. Tesseymann (57), P.G. Standard-bearer; D. R. Ramsay (312), P.G. Dir. of Cer.; Geo. Balmford (236), P.G. Org.; Comp. John Ward (236), P.G. I.J.; Comp. Wm. Johnson (57), P.G. Outer Janitor. Prov. Grand Stewards: Comps. W. H. Bee (57), Geo. H. Walshaw (200), J. H. Emes (250), and G. Buchanan (312). Together with the following Principals and Past Principals of the various Chapters in the province, viz.:—E. Comps. W. T. Farthing, Z.; H. A. Williamson, H.; W. Peacock, J.; J. F. Spurr, P.Z.; W. F. Rooke, M.D., P.Z., of the Old Globe Chapter, 200, Scarborough; W. Lawton, P.Z., Z.; Thos. Cooper, P.Z., J.; W. Cowling, P.Z.; Rev. J. E. Mayne Young, M.A., P.Z., of the Zetland Chapter, 236, York; G. Hardy, H.; C. Foster, P.Z.; M. C. Peck, P.Z., of the Minerva Chapter, 250, Hull; J. C. Miller, Z.; W. H. Marwood, H.; W. T. Clarkson, J.; J. N. Lawson, P.Z.; John Green, P.Z.; M. L. Simpson, P.Z.; S. Reed, P.Z.; T. Turnbull, P.Z.; W. Stonehouse, P.Z.; W. Falkingbridge, P.Z., of the Britannia Chapter, 312, Whitby; A. Farmer, J., of the Marwood Chapter, 602, Middlesborough; J. Marshall, J., of the King Edwin Chapter, 660, Malton, W. Wood, P.Z. Visitor: E. Comp. C. E. Lucas, P.Z., Province of Lincolnshire, &c., &c.

The Provincial Grand Chapter having been opened in ancient and solemn form, the Minutes of the last Provincial Grand Chapter, held 19th May 1869, were read and confirmed.

The M.E. GRAND SUPERINTENDENT said that although the uniformity of ritual desired was not yet attained, he believed the great attention given to the subject would be productive of much good. He was happy to inform the Companions that the subscriptions to the "Zetland Commemoration Fund" from this Province had reached the handsome sum of £236.

Comp. COWLING read the Treasurer's balance-sheet, but stated that the account was not quite complete, owing to the Prov. Grand Treasurer's illness, and consequent absence from home. The balance-sheet, having been audited and found correct, was adopted.

The various Chapters then made their returns; the Humber, Constitutional, and Dundas Chapters were, however, not represented, and the Prov. Grand Scribe E. was requested to communicate with them.

The M.E. GRAND SUPERINTENDENT then appointed the following Provincial Grand Officers, (with the exception of the Prov. Grand Treasurer, who was re-elected by the Prov. Grand Chapter):—E. Comps.

Christopher Foster (250) ...	P.G. H.
W. F. Rooke, M.D. (200) ...	P.G. J.
M. C. Peck (250) ...	P.G. Scribe E.
Jas. C. Miller (312) ...	P.G. Scribe N.
Mark L. Simpson (312) ...	P.G. Prin. Soj.
Andrew Farmer (602) ...	P.G. 1st Ass. Soj.
J. Marshall (660) ...	P.G. 2nd Ass. Soj.
W. Lawton (236) ...	P.G. Registrar.
J. H. Emes (250) ...	P.G. Sword Bearer.
W. Peacock (200) ...	P.G. Stand. Bearer.
Thos. Turnbull (312) ...	P.G. Dir. of Cer.
T. S. Camidge (236) ...	P.G. Organist.
Comps. John Ward (236) ...	P.G. Inner Janitor.
Wm. Johnson (57) ...	P.G. Outer Janitor.

The M.E. GRAND SUPERINTENDENT directed that the nine Chapters in the Province should each nominate a Prov. Grand Steward.

The M.E. GRAND SUPERINTENDENT, after expressing his regret at the absence, caused by severe illness, of the Prov. Grand Treasurer, then read a very interesting and masterly paper upon the Royal Arch Degree, illustrated by several beautiful photographs of ancient Jerusalem, published by the Palestine Exploration Committee, which was received by the Comps. with respectful attention and hearty applause.

At the conclusion of which, Comp. Lucas, on behalf of the visitors, legged to express the pleasure he had felt it being present and offered hearty good wishes for the success of the Chapters in the Province.

The M.E. GRAND SUPERINTENDENT then thanked the Companions for their numerous attendance, and suggested that each Chapter should obtain the Tracing Boards of this Order for the instruction of its members.

The Provincial Grand Chapter was then closed in ancient form and with solemn prayer.

A banquet was held at the Angel Hotel the same evening, at which the M.E. Grand Superintendent presided. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and a most agreeable evening passed.

WE understand that the late Bro. Stephen Blair, of Mill-hill House, Bolton, formerly member for that borough, and Provincial Grand Master of the Order of Freemasons of the Province of East Lancashire, who was interred on Saturday, the 9th inst., has bequeathed the princely sum of £2,000 to build and furnish a hospital for sick persons of any domicile, on condition that a sight within the area of the Bolton union be provided within a period of three years. Bro. Blair not being able legally to leave money to purchase land for the site, he leaves that sum to trustees, who are empowered to build the hospital, and are instructed to provide nurses to tend the patient in the night. He also leaves to the same trustees a sum of £10,000 to be invested, so that the income may form an endowment for the hospital, and desires that it may be called "The Blair Hospital."—Liverpool Mercury.

MARKET REQUIREMENTS.—It is really marvelous that the great metropolis market in Covent Garden should possess far less accommodation than the markets of many a provincial town in our own or foreign countries; not to make obvious comparison with splendid markets such as those, for example, of Paris. London notoriously requires more commodious markets than it possesses, and nowhere is the great want so keenly felt by all concerned as in Bedfordshire.—Food Journal.

BALZAC.—Leon Curmer, the publisher, who died the other day in Paris, used to tell an amusing story of the famous Balzac. At one time Curmer resolved to bring out an illustrated weekly journal, a thing then unknown in France. It was to be called Les Français peints par eux mêmes, and Balzac was to contribute a series of humorous sketches of the various trades and professions. At first Balzac was in rapture at the idea, and fairly dazzled poor Curmer with the brilliancy of his suggestions. A week passed and Balzac's enthusiasm had grown cold. Curmer was unable to get anything from him. The new journal, however, had been announced everywhere, and it was quite impossible to recede. On the eve of publication, the printer messenger was sent to Balzac's lodgings, with strict orders not to come back empty-handed. He returned with three or four slips of paper, on which a few lines had been hastily scribbled. Curmer, however, knew his man. The manuscript was speedily in type, and the proof was sent back to the author. Again it returned, double its former size, with erasures, corrections, and addition crossing each other between the lines in inextricable confusion. Eight times was the process repeated, and at last the admirable monograph entitled Nos Epicuriens was the result. "The corrections of that proof," Curmer used to say, "cost me 1,000f.; but I sold 20,000 copies of the first number."—Globe.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Lodge of Tranquillity, No. 185.—At the Lodge-room, Radley's Hotel (Bro. J. Hart's), the highly-respected Master, the W. Bro. Hermann Beigel, held a meeting of emergency on Monday last for the initiation of Mr. Simeon Lazarus (who is leaving England). The W.M. was supported by several P.M.'s, his Officers, and numerous visitors, and in his usual impressive manner admitted the candidate into our mysteries. The beauties of the ceremonies at this lodge are much enhanced by the great taste with which music is introduced by the worthy Organist, Bro. Knappe.

Lily Lodge of Richmond, No. 820.—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Greyhound Hotel, Richmond, on the 13th inst., and derived additional interest from the fact that it was the last Masonic occasion on which the respected host, Bro. G. T. Noyce, appeared in his capacity as the hotel proprietor. Bro. R. Fenner, W.M., presided, and was supported by Bros. Joshua Nunn, P.M., P.G.S.B.; J. Cottrell, P.M.; J. Cockburn, P.M. and Sec.; T. F. Giles, P.M. and Treasurer; J. Jones, P.M.; W. V. Cooper, P.M.; T. J. Carless, P.M.; G. Townsend, P.M.; F. D. Kennedy, S.W.; F. W. Koch, S.D.; E. Perkins, I.G.; and a large number of brethren and visitors. Among the latter were the popular P.G.M. of Middlesex, Colonel Burdett; the Treasurer and Secretary of the Province, Bros. Buss and Little; H. Potter, P.M. 11; Dray, P.M. Kentucky Lodge; John Dyer, 22; &c. In the course of the evening Bro. Pewtress was raised, Bro. Hamblin passed, and Messrs. J. S. Reed and T. Palmer were initiated. The last-named gentleman is to be Bro. Noyce's successor in the business, and from the experience he has acquired, there is no doubt that the hotel will continue to flourish under his management and maintain the high prestige which it now enjoys. The lodge having been closed, the brethren sat down to a banquet in which Bro. Noyce seemed to have surpassed even his former efforts, and the viands and wines gave the utmost satisfaction. When the cloth had been cleared, her Majesty's health was given with musical honours, Bro. Dyer (a talented amateur) leading the loyal effusions of the brethren. The health of the Masonic monarch, Earl de Grey and Ripon, G.M., followed, and was enthusiastically received. An equally cordial reception was offered to the next toast, Lord Carnarvon, D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, coupled with the names of Colonel Burdett, P.S.G. Warden, Eng., &c., &c., and J. Nunn, P.G.S.B. Eng.—Colonel Burdett acknowledged the compliment in eloquent terms, referring especially to the kind manner in which he had ever been received amongst English Masons, and by the members of the Lily Lodge in particular.—The health of the worthy W.M. was then proposed, and Bro. Fenner made an exceedingly neat speech in reply.—The "Initiates" were then toasted, and Bro. Palmer responded.—For the visitors, the American brother and several others present expressed thanks and tendered their congratulations to the lodge.—The P.M.'s followed; then the Treasurer and Secretary, when Bro. Dyer, with the W.M.'s permission, proposed health and happiness to Brother Noyce in his retirement from the cares and active duties of his avocations. (Cheers.) Bro. Dyer said he had had the pleasure of Bro. Noyce's acquaintance for a considerable period, and he valued his friendship as that of a truly honourable man, whose acts had ever been upon the square, and who carried out to the fullest extent the great precepts taught in Freemasonry. The manner in which he discharged the ceremonial duties of the Craft was best known to the lodge over which Bro. Noyce presided as W.M. at the present time, but all in this room could testify to his uniform courtesy, urbanity, and genuine kinness of heart. He (Bro. Dyer) was well assured that by Bro. Palmer, who had entered the Order that evening, the brethren of the Lily Lodge would have all their comforts studied and their wishes fulfilled the same as by his worthy predecessor; but they met Bro. Noyce as an old friend—(applause)—and as such he called upon them to drink the toast in the warmest and heartiest manner.—Bro. Noyce in very feeling and expressive language enunciated his thanks for the cordial reception of his name, and said he felt convinced that Bro. Palmer would feel it a pride to consult the interests of the Lily Lodge in every respect.—After the Tyler's toast, the brethren separated, highly gratified with the proceedings of this truly festive meeting.

PROVINCIAL.

LIVERPOOL.—Mariners' Lodge, No. 249.—This large and important lodge held its annual installation meeting at the Masonic Temple, 22, Hope-street, on Thursday, the 8th inst., at 1 p.m., Bro. Philip Pinnington, W.M., occupied the chair, Bros. Dr. Jos. Kellett Smith, P.M. 1094, and W.M.-elect, acting S.W.; E. Hughes, J.W.; G. De la Perrelle, I.P.M.; Pearson, Treas.; Roberts, Sec.; with the usual officers, and supported by large gathering of other members and visitors. We recognised the following amongst the number:—Bros. Hamer (P.M. 249, P.G. Treas. W. L.), Jones (P.M. 249), J. Healing (P.M. 249 and 1264), W. Cane (P.M. 249 and W.M. 1299), Pemberton (W.M. 1264), C. Hill (W.M. 1276), J. W. Ashmore (P.M. 823), Dr. R. H. D. Johnson (P.M. 249 and 1049), E. M. Sheldon (P.M. 1094), Leedham (P.M. 220), Martin (1094), Washington (1094), Clark (673), Mawson (1013), and Kelly (594). The minutes of the former regular and emergency meetings having been read and confirmed, and the ballot taken for Messrs. Jas. and Geo. Quale, Jas. Hughes and G. Yates, for initiation, Bro. A. T. Lee Melville for joining, all being declared duly elected, the W.M.-elect took the chair and proceeded to initiate three of the candidates into the mysteries and privileges of the Order in that clear and impressive manner so well-known to the brethren in this province. The lodge was then opened in the second and third degrees, when Bro. Hamer, by desire of the W.M., took the chair. Bros. Pinnington, W.M., and G. De la Perrelle, I.P.M., presented to him Bro. Dr. Jos. Kellett Smith, W.M.-elect, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation. The usual charges having been read by the Sec., the brethren below the chair were requested to retire, when a Board of Installed Masters was formed, the ceremony being rendered in a very able manner by our highly esteemed Bro. Hamer, who had (in years past) occupied the same chair as W.M. for three years in succession, the third year by dispensation. The Board having been closed the brethren were admitted, when Jos. Kellett Smith was proclaimed and saluted in all the degrees, as W.M. of the Mariners' Lodge, 249 on the Register of the G.L. of England. At the conclusion, (previous to investing his officers) the W.M. said he had proposed calling his intended officers together, in order to have a clear and distinct promise, that every brother appointed to office would consider it an obligation to be punctual in his attendance as he fully intended to himself; he therefore hoped no brother would allow himself to be invested unless he saw his way clear to attend. The W.M. now appointed his officers as follows: the late worthy Treas., Bro. H. Pearson, S.W. On calling upon Bro. E. Hughes to take the J.W. chair, Bro. Hughes very gracefully begged to decline that high honour, it having been intimated to him that it was desirable for various reasons that Bro. Ball (P.G. Tyler), should be appointed; Under these circumstances, he hoped the W.M. would allow him to retire in favour of Bro. Ball. After a slight pause, the W.M. said he certainly had heard for several years past, that it was Bro. Ball's desire to take the J.W. chair in this lodge, in order to enable him to take the chair in another lodge, not wishing to go any further than J.W. in 249. After paying high compliments to Bro. Hughes, he drew the attention of the newly-invested S.W. to this day twelve months, and hoped he would not forget the generous sacrifice Bro. Hughes had made. The W.M. then invested Bros. P. Ball, J.W.; E. Hughes, S.D.; Hide, J.D.; Dixon, I.G.; W. Crane, Dir. of Cer. The various charges being given by Bro. Hamer, several gentlemen were proposed for initiation, and Bro. R. R. Martin, 1094, for joining. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet at Bro. Houlston's Stanley Arms Hotel, Roby, at which about eighty brethren were present. After dinner, the W.M. proposed in happy terms the loyal toasts, which were received with true Masonic enthusiasm. "The Earl De Grey and Ripon, M.W.G.M., and Earl Carnarvon, R.W.D.G.M.," was the next toast on the programme, proposed by the W.M., and elicited the enthusiasm which the names of the principals of Masonry always secure. The W.M. next proposed "Sir T. G. Fermor-Hesketh, Bart., M.P., R.W. Prov. G.M., Lord Skelmersdale, W.D., Prov. G.M., and the Officers of the Prov. G.L.," which was responded to by Bro. Hamer, Prov. G.T. In the course of a few appropriate remarks he alluded to the affability and kindness of the subjects of the toast. The toast of "The West Lancashire Masonic Institution for the Education, &c., of Children of Deceased and Distressed Masons," proposed in becoming terms by the W.M. was responded to by Bro. R. H. D. Johnson, one of the Life Governors, who referred to the very great benefits which had been conferred during its many years' existence, and spoke in high terms of the advantages the institution had derived from the late Joshua Walmesley, than whom a kinder-hearted man and better Mason never existed. (Hear, hear.) He (Bro. Johnson) said that the institution was one of the brightest gems of Freemasonry, and called upon all the brethren to give it their hearty and liberal support. "The G. Masters of the adjoining Provinces," introduced by the W.M., was responded to by Bro. Hill, who alluded in feeling terms to the late Bro. Stephen Blair, one of the stars of Masonry, whose munificent charities made him a bright example to Masons throughout the universe. He also paid a high compliment to Bro. Lord de Tabley, R.W.P.G.M., Cheshire, whose courtesy and homeliness had recommended him to every Mason.—Bro. Philip Pinnington, the Immediate P.M. of Lodge No. 249, next proposed "The Worshipful Master," and in doing so said he could conscientiously affirm that in Bro. J. K. Smith, as W.M., they had the "right man in the right place." (Hear, hear.) He had been known amongst them for some time, and during that acquaintance he had well earned the honour of being considered a perfect specimen of an English gentleman. (Cheers.) In all his (Bro. Pinnington's) dealings with the W.M. he had found him straightforward, and he therefore had much pleasure in proposing the toast.—The brethren present received it with much enthusiasm and Masonic honours.—Bro. Smith, W.M., in responding, thanked the brethren very heartily for the honour conferred upon him, and assured them that in selecting his officers for the current year he had had in view the furtherance of the interests of the lodge, hoping that at the end of the year he would merit their good opinion. (Applause.)—"The Installing Master" was responded to by Bro. Hamer, who expressed his willingness to do everything in his power for the furtherance of the interests of the lodge.—The W.M. then proposed the toast of the "W.P.M.'s of Lodge 249," and in the course of an excellent speech referred to the highly efficient manner in which Bro. Pinnington had performed the duties of W.M. during the past year. It was also his (Bro. Smith's) pleasant duty to present Bro. Pinnington with a Masonic jewel, subscribed for by the members of the Mariners' Lodge—an honour and distinction which all P.M.'s did not receive—as an indication of the feeling with which they looked upon his services. (Cheers.) The jewel bore the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. Pinnington, P.M., at the expiration of his year of office as W.M., by the brethren of the Mariners' Lodge, No. 249, of Free and Accepted Masons, Liverpool, 7th July, 1870."—The toast was received and drank with enthusiasm.—Bro. Pinnington, P.M., in responding, referred to the position of the lodge, thanked the brethren for their handsome testimonial, and said he should always look upon it as a sincere mark of the esteem and regard of the brethren of the lodge.—"The Officers of Lodge 249" (responded to by Bro. Pearson, S.W.), "Visiting Brethren" (acknowledged by Bro. Sheldon, P.M.), and "Poor and Distressed Brethren" were the remaining toasts on the list. The enjoyment of the evening was greatly enhanced by the vocal efforts of Bros. Ashmore, Washington, &c., and the brethren separated at an early hour, after spending a very pleasant evening.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude, No. 281.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic-rooms, Athenæum, on Wednesday evening, July 13th. Present: W. Bro. John Hatch, W.M.; Bros. E. Storey, I.P.M.; Hartley, S.W.; John Barrow, J.W.; E. Simpson, P.M. Sec.; W. J. Sly, as S.D.; Bell, J.D.; Taylor, I.G.; Whimpray, P.M.; Dr. Moore, P.M., Prov. G. Supt. of Works; Masbader, Beesley, Watson, and Beoley. The usual business having been transacted, Bro. Dr. Moore read a reply he had received from Mr. W. Bramwell Smith to the vote of sympathy and condolence from the lodge. The W.M. stated that it was his duty to cause the bye-laws of the lodge to be read at least once during his year of office; fortunately for the prosperity of the lodge this was the first evening since his installation when they had not been fully occupied, he therefore took this, the earliest opportunity, of calling upon Bro. P.M. Simpson, the Secretary, to read them. There being no other business before the lodge, it was closed in due form.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Victoria Lodge, No. 1013.—The brethren of this lodge met on Wednesday, the 6th inst., to celebrate the festival of St. John. The lodge was opened at the appointed time by Bro. J. B. Robinson, W.M., when the minutes of the previous regular meeting, and also those of the emergency of the 22nd ult., were read and confirmed. A ballot was then taken for Mr. Thomas Chuck, who was duly elected, and accordingly initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry by the W.M. The W.M.-elect, Bro. Thomas Archer Lowe, S.W., was presented to the W.M. by Bros. Past Masters Friend and Hughes, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation, when the W.M. proceeded to instal him according to ancient custom in that fluent and impressive manner which has so distinguished his working in the chair, and drew forth from the brethren assembled universal expressions of delight and astonishment, and thus closed the most successful year in the history of this lodge. The brethren having greeted the new Master according to their rank, he proceeded to invest the officers for the ensuing year as follows: viz., Bros. T. H. Gawith, S.W.; R. W. Crowe, J.W.; Simon Lewis, Treas.; W. B. Henley, Sec.; J. Kenyon, S.D.; Moses Mawson, J.D.; Samuel Payne, I.G.; T. K. Hughes, P.M., D.C.; M. S. Machin, P.M., Org.; J. Thompson and George Stokes, Stewards; and Peter Ball, Tyler. The I.P.M. then delivered addresses to the W.M.'s, Wardens, and brethren, and took his seat at the left of the W.M. The ordinary business of the lodge being disposed of, the brethren were called from labour to refreshment, and sat down to an excellent banquet provided by Bro. Ball, House Steward, in his well-known style. After the cloth was drawn the usual list of toasts was gone through. Those of "The Queen," "The Prince and the Craft," "Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal family," being most warmly received. "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers" was proposed by the S.W., Bro. Gawith, and responded to by Captain Mott, R.A.R., in a very able speech. Bro. Hughes, 1st L.R.V., also responded in a short speech. "Our Masonic Rulers, Supreme and Subordinate," was responded to by Bro. Armstrong, P.M., P. Prov. J.G.D., in which he referred in brief terms to the death of Bro. Stephen Blair, Prov. G.M. of East Lancashire—a melancholy fact which he was sure would be deeply deplored by every brother with whom he had come in contact.—In proposing the toast of "Our Masonic Charities," Bro. S. Lewis, Treasurer, made an appeal on behalf of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution with good effect, as a substantial amount was at once freely subscribed by the brethren present. Bro. Mott, P.M., Prov. S.G.D., Secretary of the W.L.M.E. Institution, said there were now thirty-two children deriving benefit from this institution, and that he had received many pleasing testimonials from those who had been recipients of this charity, but were now in a fair way to do battle with the world, who, but for this good and benevolent provision, must have only added to the already large number of street Arabs and beggars of this and other large towns within the province.—"The Health of the W.M." was next proposed by Bro. Robinson, I.P.M., who said that it had been a very pleasing duty for him to instal Bro. Lowe as Master of this lodge, for, from the intimacy which had existed between them for some time past, he was in a position to state that Bro. Lowe had qualified himself to discharge the duties of the high and important office to which the brethren of the lodge had unanimously elected him, and who in a short time would prove to the brethren that he was able to employ and instruct them in Freemasonry. The toast was then drunk with the usual honours.—The W.M., in reply, said he appreciated the flattering manner in which his health had been received, but he feared he should find it a most difficult task to follow so excellent and efficient a Master as his predecessor. He therefore hoped that all would look with leniency on any shortcomings that might arise, and concluded by saying that from what he knew of the officers he had selected, he felt that he should be most ably assisted in his endeavours, which should be unremitting to please. He had now a toast to propose which, to him, would always be one of very great pleasure—it was that of “The Visitors.” The brethren of this lodge were always glad to receive visitors, and trusted that those present would favour him with their company as frequently as possible.—The W.M. of the Everton Lodge (823) and the W.M. of the Rock Lodge (1289) responded.—“The Health of the I.P.M. Bro. Robinson” was given by the Worshipful Master, who said he should not dilate upon his many excellencies, as they were well known to those around him, but simply state that the ceremony he had performed that day had been pronounced by the Past Masters present to be such as had seldom been their lot to witness, and to have been a happy termination to his successful year of office. The W.M. further stated that he had been deputed by the brethren of the lodge to present to Bro. Robinson a Past Master’s gold jewel, bearing the following inscription:—“Presented to Bro. Joseph B. Robinson, P.M., by the Royal Victoria Lodge, No. 1013 (England), in testimony of the efficient manner in which he discharged the duties of W.M. Sixth of July, 1870.” He trusted that Bro. Robinson would long live to wear it. (The toast was then enthusiastically received.)—The I.P.M., in responding, said he must first express his gratitude to the G.A.O.T.U. for having enabled him to be present at every meeting of the lodge during the past year. Secondly, he returned his heartfelt thanks to the brethren of the lodge for the courtesy and uniform kindness he had experienced at their hands during the time he had acted in the capacity of Master; also for the very cordial manner in which the last toast had been received. And, thirdly, he sincerely thanked the brethren of the Royal Victoria Lodge for the very beautiful and valuable jewel with which he had been decorated, and assured them that he should always look upon it with pleasure, as a token of their kind regard.—“The Health of the Officers” was then drunk, and each responded in appropriate terms. There then followed “The Health of the Newly-initiated.”—Bro. Chuck said that he as yet knew but little of Freemasonry, but would endeavour to carry out those grand principles to which his attention had been so forcibly directed, and thanked the W.M. and brethren for the very kind manner in which he had been received.—Bro. Wilson then responded on behalf of the brethren of the lodge.—“To all poor, &c.,” having been drunk, the brethren were recalled from refreshment to labour, when nothing further appearing for the good of Masonry in general or this lodge in particular, the lodge was closed in due form and perfect harmony, and the brethren separated at an early hour. Before closing this report we should add that the pleasures of the evening were greatly enhanced by the vocal and instrumental efforts of Bros. Armstrong, P.M.; Machin, P.M.; Gawith, S.W.; Henley, Sec.; Chuck, &c.

THE SUMMER BANQUET of the TEMPLE LODGE. No. 101.

The summer fête of the above well-known lodge took place on Wednesday, the 13th inst., at the Royal Hotel, Purfleet, under the presidency of the W.M. Bro. Frederick J. Cox.

Most of the visitors assembled at one o’clock, and after partaking of luncheon the party enjoyed a stroll through “Botany” and thoroughly appreciated the splendid panorama of river, wood, and landscape scenery, which extends from beneath the cliffs in this romantic ground.

With sharpened appetites at half-past three o’clock, both ladies and gentlemen sat down to a banquet equal in every respect to those for which this well-known house is justly celebrated.

After the cloth had been removed, the W.M., who was supported by Bros. S. Grimby, S.W., and H. Youle, J.W., briefly proposed the usual loyal toasts, which having been duly honoured, Bro. S. May, P.M., rose to propose a toast especially welcome to the Temple Lodge, and that was “The health of the W.M.,” which he called on them to receive with musical honours.—The W.M. in reply stated, that it was gratifying to know that his efforts to enhance their comfort, had met with approval; the wisest and best of us were not able to command success, but he was fortunate in having (by the assistance of the brethren generally) attained it. If the sentiments enunciated by Bro. May were an index of the general feeling of the lodge, he was thoroughly repaid for what time or trouble he had devoted to their service; ever bearing in mind, that next to being happy ourselves it is our duty to be the means of communicating happiness to others. “Success to the Temple Lodge, coupled with the name of the Past Master,” was next proposed by the W.M., who reminded the brethren that their thanks were especially due to Bro. Tanner, P.M., Secretary, and therefore intimately engaged in the arrangements that had been carried out for their day’s enjoyment.—This toast was heartily received and responded to by Bros. S. May and Tanner. “The health of the Ladies” was then proposed by the W.M., and responded to by Bro. Nicholson, shortly after which the separated, and in due time the day’s proceedings were brought to a satisfactory termination.

METROPOLITAN LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.—The ceremony of consecration and installation will be performed by Bro. James Brett, at 7 o’clock on Friday, July 22nd, 1870.

PERPETUAL MOTION.—In “Pickwick Papers,” Dickens says:—“A bill, by the way, is the most extraordinary locomotive engine that the genius of man ever produced. It would keep on running during the longest life-time without ever once stopping of its own accord.”

CONSECRATION OF LEBANON LODGE, No. 1326.

On Saturday, July 16th, at the Lion Hotel, Lion-square, Thames-street, Hampton, Middlesex, this, the twelfth lodge in that province, was consecrated.

Bro. Col. F. Burdett, P.G.M. of Middlesex, having been received with all due honours, appointed as his officers to perform the ceremony of consecration: Bro. R. W. Little, P.G.S. of Middlesex, as the W.M.; Bro. J. Hervey, G.S., as the S.W.; S. Rosenthal, P.M., as the J.W.; H. G. Buss, P.G.T. of Middlesex, as the D.C.; J. Terry, P.G.S.B., as the chaplain, and other officers.

The ceremony of the consecration was ably and impressively done. Bro. F. Walters, W.M. 1309, then installed Bro. John Thomas Moss, W.M. 169, as the W.M., and the following brethren were appointed as the officers for the ensuing year: Bros. R. W. Little, as I.P.M.; S. Wickens, S.W.; W. Harvey, J.W.; D. D. Beck, Treas.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; R. Bowman, S.D.; J. F. Woodley, J.D.; G. Banks, I.G.; C. I. B. Plestow, D.C.; J. Baven, Tyler.

A vote of thanks was given unanimously to Bro. R. W. Little for his services in consecrating the lodge, and the same was ordered to be entered upon the lodge minute book. He was also unanimously elected an honorary member of the lodge. Both these compliments were duly acknowledged by Bro. R. W. Little in a suitable speech.

Votes of thanks, and the same to be entered on the lodge minute book, were given to Bro. J. Hervey, G.S., and all the other brethren who had kindly assisted as officers of the lodge during the ceremony of the consecration.

Bro. J. Hervey, G.S., made an excellent speech in reply to this compliment.

Bro. F. Walters, P.M. and Secretary, proposed, and it was carried unanimously, that these brethren be elected to serve as Stewards to represent this lodge at the forthcoming festivals of the Masonic charities for the ensuing year, viz., Bro. John Thomas Moss, W.M., for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons; William Harvey, J.W., for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; John Frederick Woodley, J.D., for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

Twelve names of gentlemen who were anxious to be initiated into Masonry, also six names of brethren who were ready to become joining members, were given into the Secretary. It was decided to hold an emergency meeting of the lodge on Saturday, July 30th, at four o’clock, p.m.

The business being completed, the lodge was closed. The only mar to the pleasures of the consecration was the announcement of the death of Bro. George England, jun., I.G. 33, who, with his father, was one of the founders of this lodge. He was so universally respected that his death caused a gloom wherever he was known.

The Secretary read a long list of letters of apology from several brethren holding distinguished positions in Grand Lodge, and also in the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex, expressing regret at their inability to attend the consecration.

A good banquet was served. The wines were excellent. All the usual toasts were given and received. After a few hours most agreeably spent, the brethren separated and returned home to enjoy “tired nature’s sweet repose, balmy sleep.”

There were present besides those named: Bros. W. Hammond, P.M.; R. T. Elsam, P.M.; G. J. Loe, and many others. The visitors were: Bros. F. Burdett, P.G.M. of Middlesex; Bro. J. Hervey, P.G.D., G.S.; S. Rosenthal, P.M. 92; H. Potter, P.M. 11; H. G. Buss, P.G.T. Middlesex; G. J. Hillstead (169), J. T. H. Moss (169), F. Holmes (169), W. Mann, W.M. 1306; J. Terry, W.M. 1278; G. Haines (216), J. E. H. Ross (230), and some others whose names we were unable to learn.

ON Saturday last Bro. Kenning, of Little Britain, entertained the whole of his employees, nearly fifty, and a few friends, to a very delightful trip in private omnibuses prepared for the occasion through the country as far as the Four Swans, Waltham Cross, where they all partook of a sumptuous dinner, to which ample justice was done. After the cloth was removed the usual loyal and friendly toasts were given and drank with much enthusiasm, THE FREEMASON being especially congratulated on its continued prosperity. After numerous songs, the last being “Auld lang syne,” the company adjourned to the grounds, where they enjoyed themselves to their hearts’ content with dancing and other amusements, and returned to town congratulating themselves on the happy day they had spent.

AMONG the new names by which the Committee of the Palestine Exploration Fund has been strengthened are those of Lord Lawrence, the Bishops of London and Chester, the Suffragan Bishop of Nottingham, Archdeacon Bickersteth, Mr. Emanuel Deutsch, Professor Donaldson, and Dr. Keith Johnson. A book on the recent work of the Fund is being prepared for publication. Among the contributors, as at present arranged, are Capt. Wilson and Capt. Warren, who will take the main subject, that of Jerusalem; Lieut. Anderson, Mr. Deutsch, Prof. Donaldson, Rev. F. W. Holland (on Sinai), and Mr. W. S. W. Vaux, F.R.S. Dean Stanley will contribute the preface. It will be published by Mr. Bentley and it is hoped the work will be brought out early in the autumn.

SCOTLAND.

CONSECRATION OF ST. JOHNSTOUN R.A. CHAPTER, 134, AT PERTH.

On Friday, July 8th, a deputation from the Supreme Grand Chapter of Scotland visited the fair city, in order to consecrate a new chapter. In former years, within the memory of living brethren, the Royal Arch Lodge, No. 122, worked the Holy Royal Arch Degree in Perth, but a time came when Masonic Light in Perth grew dim, and eventually R.A. Masonry became extinct there.

This state of things lasted till the appointment of Bro. George Hutton (one of our Northern Lights), to the office of R.W.M. of the Perth Royal Arch Lodge. Very soon after taking office, Bro. Hutton at a lodge meeting deplored the entire lapse of Royal Arch Masonry in Perth, and proposed that a petition should be sent to the Grand Chapter craving them to grant a charter to enable them to work the degree. This was unanimously agreed to, and Friday saw a sure foundation laid and some blocks added to the building.

A week or two ago some Companions from Dundee kindly visited Perth, and exalted as many of the Perth brethren as would be required for office-bearers in the new Chapter.

A number of candidates having offered themselves for exaltation being anxious to witness the consecration ceremonies, the different degrees were given them on Friday night by Comps. Mackersy and Hay, from Grand Chapter, and Comp. Savage from Aberdeen. All being then Royal Arch Masons, and the different office-bearers having assumed their robes, Grand Scribe E. read the charter, which was received with honours. The Acting G. Principal Z. then gave a short address on the objects and Constitution of the Chapter, after which the elected office-bearers were duly sworn, and installed into office; afterwards there were the usual ceremonies of prayer and praise, and the Chapter was closed.

Supper was afterwards partaken of in the Royal George Hotel, Comp. Hutton in the chair. After the usual loyal toasts, success was drunk to the new chapter. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the visiting Companions for their presence, especially to the Companions of the Rock Chapter, Stirling, who true to their colours came in large numbers and rendered willing and welcome assistance at the ceremony, also to Comps. Savage and Pickering from Aberdeen, who came a very long distance solely from the promptings of Masonry, and who shone, as only the pure and polished blocks from that northern city can.

WEST LANCASHIRE MASONIC RELIEF COMMITTEE.

We have been requested to insert the following annual report of the above committee:—

“The committee, in issuing their eleventh annual report, congratulate the lodges, chapters, &c., on the decrease of doubtful cases brought before the committee. The result has been achieved by the continued interchange of reports between Manchester, Birmingham, &c.

“Example of Cases.

“H——G——n, of 17, New York, relieved by the Liverpool committee with 20s. to go to London to meet his mother, instead of going to London, went to Manchester, where he stated he had come direct from Glasgow by rail, and had never been relieved in England. He was furnished with Liverpool report of 20s., and then admitted having been relieved by us in Liverpool. The Manchester committee retained his Grand Lodge certificate, and sent him empty away.

“Jacques L——, Paris. This was a Frenchman. He came before the Liverpool committee for means to go home. We sent him to the Distressed Foreigners’ Society. They granted him a passage home, and we granted him 20s. also. Instead of going home he went to Manchester, and when asked if he had not had his passage paid, he said he had not, and denied having been in Liverpool. This case was afterwards put in the hands of the Distressed Foreigners’ Society to deal with. He must be a great impostor.

“The above are two of many cases coming before us. The committee would draw the attention of all lodges to these facts, and urgently impress upon them the desirability of referring every applicant for relief to this committee, and thus be the means of ridding a class amongst us who live wholly upon the proceeds of unblushing and systematic imposition. The committee have no desire to monopolise the relief of all, still less to check the flow of private benevolence. On the contrary, they wish to see charity widely exercised, but on just objects only, and not upon impostors. The lodges and chapters are informed that the annual grant is now due and can be paid any Friday at six o’clock.

On behalf of the committee,
THOMAS MARSH, W.M. 1094,
P.G.A.D.C. W.L., Hon. Sec.”

THE Fifteen Sections will be worked at the Star Lodge of Instruction, No 1275, Marquis of Granby, New Cross-road, on Saturday, at 7 o’clock.

UNION BETWEEN THE UN- RECOGNISED DECREES.

A meeting of the combined committees of the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, and the Masonic Red Cross Order, was held at 2, Red Lion-square, on the 15th inst.

Bro. W. W. Bramston Beach, M.P., Past G.M.M., was in the chair, supported by Bros. T. Meggy, F. Binckes, and H. C. Levander, M.A., on the side of the Mark, and by Col. Burdett, J. Hervey, Lord Lindsay, W. H. Hubbard, R. W. Little, W. J. Hughan, J. G. Marsh, and R. W. Stuart, as representatives of the Red Cross Order.

The clauses of a mutual treaty of alliance and support were agreed to, and a second meeting for formally signing the deed was arranged. The committee then separated.

FRATERS ROSICRUCIANÆ SOCIE- TATIS IN ANGLIA.

The quarterly meeting of the Rosicrucians was held at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, on the 14th inst., under the presidency of the S.M., Fra. R. Wentworth Little; W. J. Hughan, S.S.M.; and W. Hubbard, J.S.M.; Col. Burdett, Hon. V.P.; Angelo J. Lewis, M.A., G. Kenning, Dr. Woodman, S.G.; W. B. Hambly, J. Weaver, M. Edwards, J. R. Foulger, G. Butler, and others were present. Bro. John Hervey, G. Secretary, was formally received into the brotherhood, after which the Right Hon. Edward Bulwer Lord Lytton, was unanimously elected Grand Patron, and the rank of Hon. Member was conferred upon Bro. Hargrave Jennings, author of "The Rosicrucians, their Rites and Mysteries."

The Fraters then separated after the usual solemnities.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The usual monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday evening, Bro. John Savage, P.G.D., as W.M.; Bro. Joseph Smith, S.W.; and Bro. James Brett, J.W.; supported by Bros. Hemsworth (P.M. 190), Heckell (P.M. 831), Weaver (P.M. 862), Middlemist (W.M. 5), Fowler (W.M. 1185), Cook (P.M. 197), J. Nunn (G.S.B.), Cottebrune (P.M. 733), Sheen (P.M. 201), W. Ougi (P.G.P.), J. E. Saunders (P.M. 1), and several other brethren. There were eleven petitioners, being an unusually small number, nine of whom were relieved to the extent of £180.

THE Metropolitan Lodge and Chapter of Instruction, held at The George in Aldermanbury since their commencement, are to be removed to the Portugal Hotel, Fleet-street, next door to Anderson's, where so many London lodges now meet; and we augur increased prosperity to both these Masonic schools, as Comp. Brett will still be found there, as he has been hitherto at The George.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.—The following gentlemen have been admitted to fellowships:—W. S. Bambridge, of Marlborough College; Edward Bunnett, of Norwich Cathedral, Mus. Doc.; F. E. Gladstone, of Chichester Cathedral; John Stainer, of Magdalen College, Oxford, Mus. Doc.; and E. H. Turpin, of London.

STEPHEN BLAIR.

[From the Manchester Free Lance.]

Death has been unusually busy during the portion of the year 1870 which has already elapsed. Great men have been summoned from time into eternity; good men have entered on their reward, and those who are left, while they try to imitate their noble example, mourn the loss of some of the best of England's sons. To the names that have recently been entered on the roll of Death must be added that of the kindly, genial, and good-hearted Englishman whose well-known designation stands at the head of this column. Somehow nobody ever thought of speaking of Mr. Blair; even that small amount of ceremonial commonplace was felt to be foreign to the simplicity of his character. His own aversion to anything like fuss probably led to the respectful familiarity with which his name was dissociated from all approach to formality, and the genuine regard felt for him by all who had the happiness to know him was more than sufficient to prevent undue advances.

Stephen Blair was a man of mark in the county. A successful business man, he devoted his wealth very much to the improvement of the district in which he gained it, and otherwise to the promotion of similar good objects in other parts of the kingdom. He was the reverse of ambitious, and although selected to represent the borough of Bolton in Parliament, a very short experience of political life was sufficient to gratify his legislative desires. When about six-and-twenty years of age he associated himself with the Freemasons, being admitted into the Order at a lodge held in a town in Cumberland. The high regard paid by the statutes of Freemasonry to the exercise of that greatest of all moral virtues—charity, could not fail to find a ready response in the naturally warm heart of Stephen Blair. He entered thoroughly into the various Masonic degrees, and became ardently attached to the order. It is in the character of a Freemason, indeed, that he has rendered himself so thoroughly well known and appreciated throughout Lancashire, and it is in that character that he set an example of open-handed liberality which it is more easy to admire than to imitate.

Joining a lodge in the Masonic Province of East Lancashire, the natural urbanity of his manner, and his enthusiasm as a member of the Order, soon found their reward in his appointment to certain high official positions. He was selected in 1840 to fill a post of distinction in the Grand Lodge of the Province of East Lancashire, and six years afterwards he was selected by the late Earl of Ellesmere, then Grand Master of the Province, to be his deputy. For ten years he fulfilled the duties of this office in a manner that gained for him the respect and esteem of the members of the society, and in 1856 he reaped the reward of his devotion to Freemasonry by being appointed Provincial Grand Master in succession to the Earl of Ellesmere, who died in that year. From that period until the day of his own decease he continued to manifest even increased interest in the welfare of the Order. Always of active habits, he never permitted considerations of personal inconvenience or fatigue to interfere with the discharge of any of the multifarious duties attached to his official position. Being under an engagement, a few years since, to assist in the "consecration" of a lodge at Levenshulme, he started from his shooting-box in the North of Scotland to fulfil his appointment. He arrived at the railway station too late for the train, and nothing remained but that he should forego his engagement altogether, or take advantage of a heavy, rumbling goods train, which was then due. Most men would have preferred their own ease to so uncomfortable a journey. Not so Stephen Blair. He submitted to the jolting and discomfort of a goods wagon, and arrived at his destination grimy and fatigued, but otherwise fully prepared to exercise the functions devolving upon him.

The native liberality of Stephen Blair found full scope in his support of the various Masonic Charities. Now the School for Girls partook of his bounty, and now the Asylum for Aged Freemasons and their Widows. His support of the Boys' School was even more warm, for he founded a presentation by which one boy may be presented annually as of right by the Grand Master of the Province of East Lancashire, for ever. This he effected on payment of a thousand guineas. Nor was his generosity confined within the pale of Freemasonry. By his will he has set apart the munificent sum of thirty thousand pounds to found and endow an hospital for the poor of Bolton, upon a site which will readily be supplied by the town, or by some good man anxious to imitate a noble example.

It is not too much to say of Stephen Blair that the esteem in which he was held by the Freemasons of his province amounted to strong affection. His handsome and expressive countenance, beaming with good humour and kindly consideration, was familiar to thousands within this county, and will long be remembered as the incarnation of health and manly dignity. It was not until within a short period of his death that his usually clear complexion assumed a darker hue, which told of his coming end; but to the last his snow-white hair was a "crown of rejoicing" to all who could estimate the depth of his substantial, though unostentatious, goodness. Such unsophisticated natures are rare, and can ill be spared. Their influence on the hardness of the world is palpable and yet inestimable, and when combined with those higher qualities that will render the name of Stephen Blair an object of affectionate respect in bosoms yet unborn, they can scarcely be replaced.

In that quiet cemetery at Bolton rests as good a man as ever brought happiness into a household, or reflected honour on the land of his birth. His works do follow him. Requiescat in pace.

MASONIC PICNIC.

The Freemasons of Sunderland had their third annual picnic on Wednesday, July 13th, when a party of from 260 to 270 persons proceeded by special train to Gilsland, the locality fixed. The gentlemen comprising the party were all brethren—one of the regulations being that no gentleman not a member of the Craft, or a stranger, at the time the guest of a Mason, should join the party. The committee have, for the three years they have had these pleasant reunions, found this rule have a decided tendency in keeping up the character of the company. There was a large muster of the fairer portion of humanity—this pleasant outing every year increasing in favour with the ladies, a sure sign of success. The special train was despatched punctually from Monkwearmouth station at 7.30 a.m., and reached its destination after a pleasant run of two hours and a half, the greater portion of the journey being through the beautiful scenery of the Valley of the Tyne. Arrived at Gilsland, the party proceeded to visit the Spa well (noted in Sir Walter Scott's "Guy Mannering" as the place where Meg Merrilies had the interview with Lady Bertram), the Popping Stone (on which Sir Walter is said to have put the momentous question), and other interesting and romantic places in the neighbourhood. At twelve o'clock luncheon was spread under an avenue of trees adjoining the bowling-green attached to the Shaws' Hotel (a large establishment capable of accommodating at one time over 250 visitors)—the principal table being over fifty yards in length, and laid for over 220 people. The remainder were seated at a second table placed parallel to the principal one. After luncheon an excellent photographic group was obtained by Bro. Paul Stabler, of Sunderland. A portion then proceeded to visit the remains of the Roman camp and wall at Birdoswald, and other more distant places of note. By far the largest section, however, remained on the bowling-green, where bowls and other games were indulged in, and dancing was kept up with great spirit to the strains of a quadrille band. Bros. E. H. Crookes (P.G.S. Durham, and P.M. 80, St. John's, Sunderland), and John Tillman (P.G.S. of W. Durham, and P.M. 989, Williamson, Sunderland), officiating as M.C.'s, with their usual courtesy and affability. At five an adjournment was made for tea, after which dancing was resumed till seven o'clock, when a move was made for the station, and the train started on its return journey at 7.45 p.m., and making the run home in less time than the outward, reached Sunderland at 10.5 p.m. In each carriage was heard the sound of merriment, the song and the tale enlivened the way, and after evincing their loyalty by an almost instantaneous and unpremeditated outburst of the National Anthem as they stepped upon the platform, each wended his or her way to their respective homes, many a one, more especially the fair ones, expressing a wish that the next Masonic picnic was a little nearer hand.

The annual gatherings have become an institution in Sunderland, and decidedly popular among the ladies and the members of the Craft. More of them in this and other parts of the country cannot but have the effect of rendering life more pleasant. Each of these occasions stands but as an oasis in the desert, times when the ladies can join our gatherings, opportunities which they have but too seldom. The luncheon and tea which were both good, substantial, and satisfactory, were supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Gelderd, of the Shaws Hotel, Gilsland.

The arrangements for the pic-nic were made, and the carrying out of them superintended by a committee, consisting of the W.M.'s and Wardens of the four lodges in Sunderland and the S.D. of 949, of which Bros. M. Allison (W.M. Palatine, No. 97), was chairman, and R. Dixon (W.M. St. John's, No. 80), vice-chairman, and Bros. R. Hudson (W.M. Williamson, 949), and J. H. Coates (S.D. Williamson, 949), again filling the respective post of Treasurer and Honorary Secretary.

THERE is something more than ordinarily pleasant in the prospect of a Life of Barham, the author of "Ingoldsby," by his son.

THE sources of the old Saxon poem of the "Heliand" (the Saviour) have been lately tracked by Mr. Windisch, and separately by Dr. Grein. Both critics agree that the chief source was the "Harmony of the Gospels," attributed to Tatian; while others were the Commentaries of Bede, and, according to Mr. Windisch, those of Rabanus Morus and Alcuin, or, according to Dr. Grein, those of Augustine and Jerome, and the Homilies of Gregory the Great.—Athenæum.

SWEDISH MASONRY.

THE initiation of the Prince of Wales into a lodge over which the King of Sweden presides, and in which the Crown Prince officiates as Deacon or Expert, naturally excited much interest in the minds of English Masons as to the Swedish Masonic system. It is probably known to most of our readers that the Swedish Rite differs from all others, and offers some remarkable peculiarities to the intelligent student who undertakes the labour of investigating the origin and progress of the Craft in various nations. Swedish Freemasonry has passed through many phases, and retains visible traces of all. Founded, in the first instance, upon the broad basis of the symbolic grades, and adhering strictly to the regulations of the Grand Lodge of England, we find that the latter body nominated the Count de Scheffer as Provincial Grand Master over the Swedish lodges in 1735.

But in twenty years a change came over the aspect of affairs. Germany, the cradle of mysticism, poured forth her legions of Masonic dreamers; philosophical enigmas and cabalistic utterances usurped the place and scorned the simplicity of the ancient Craft; theories and subtleties were interwoven into the fine old system of the Craft. The result being the obliteration for a time on the Continent of Europe of the true and genuine principles of Speculative Freemasonry. The ancient ceremony of initiation was merged in strange and horrible tests, dismal chambers, glimmering lamps, gliding phantoms—all were employed by the innovators to deepen, while in reality they destroyed, the moral impression made upon the candidates.

In France the Rite of Perfection arose, but from Germany proceeded the Rite of Strict Observance, which gave birth to many clumsy imitations of Freemasonry. Baron Hund is believed to have originated the degrees of the Strict Observance, and they appear to have been based upon the theory that the ancient Knights Templar were the only true Freemasons—a very plausible supposition; and one which commended itself especially to the noble and high-descended.

In the writings of Werner we obtain more than a glimpse of the dramatic doings of the German Templars—initiations in cemeteries, where colossal skeletons and ghastly skulls appal the neophyte; where weird voices are heard and horrid shapes flit around, casting a momentary phosphoric glare over the darkness of the scene. Such were the main concomitants of the new system, and it spread rapidly through Europe.

Sweden embraced the rite of Strict Observance with ardour; but this was afterwards modified by Count Zinnendorf, who incorporated in its ceremonies several of the mystical lectures of the celebrated Swedenborg. The degrees have been scarcely altered since his time, and are now conferred in the following order:—First, the three grades of symbolic or St. John's Masonry, the fourth grade being elect-Master or Fellow Craft of St. Andrew. Then the Scottish Master of St. Andrew, which entitles its members to civil rank in the kingdom. The sixth is the Knight of the East, in which the New Jerusalem and its twelve gates are represented. The next in order is the Knight of the West, or the True Templar-Master of the Key; the jewel of this grade is a triangular key with five red rosettes, which refer to the five wounds of the Saviour. The Knight of the South, also known as "Favourite Brother of St. John," is the eighth degree; the jewel is a red cross, attached to a white ribbon, on which is embroidered the initial letters of the words, Venite vesum. The ceremonies of this grade resemble those used by the Alchemists or early Rosicrucians. The ninth degree is called the "Favourite Brother of St. Andrew," and clearly shows the derivation of the whole system from the soi-disant Scottish degrees, promulgated so freely throughout the world during the eighteenth century. The three highest degrees are those of the "Brethren of the Red Cross," who are divided into three classes, thus: Member of the Chapter, Dignitary of the Chapter, Reigning Grand Master—a dignity enjoyed only by the King himself, who is also styled the "Vicar of Solomon." The members of these three classes compose what is termed the "Illuminated Chapter," and no one can be admitted a grand dignitary unless he can show four quarters of nobility.

On the 27th May, 1811, King Charles XIII. instituted the Order which bears his name, and decreed that its decorations and privileges should be restricted to Freemasons. In the original statutes, the King said: "To give to the Masonic Society an evidence of our gracious sentiments towards it, we will and ordain that its first dignitaries, to the number which we may determine, shall in future be decorated with the most intimate proof of our confidence, and which shall be for them a distinctive mark of the highest dignity."

Of this illustrious Order, the King of Sweden is perpetual Grand Master, and the number of knights is limited to thirty—three being ecclesiastics. The badge is a cross of four points—ruby red, with a golden border, surmounted by the regal crown, and it is worn pendant to a red-watered ribbon. The heir-apparent to the British Throne was admitted a member of this select body in the beginning of 1869.

From the rapid sketch which we have thus given, it will be seen that Freemasonry in Sweden, although it differs considerably from the system recognised by the Grand Lodge of England, is entitled to our warmest consideration and respect, and if a closer assimilation in the ritual of the two grand bodies could be obtained, it would cement a permanent union between English and Swedish brethren. His Majesty, the present King, we are informed on high authority, is anxious to effect this desirable consummation, and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is also greatly interested in promoting a rapprochement, not only between the two Grand Lodges, but between the Illuminated Chapter and the governing bodies of certain English high grades. A deputation from the Supreme Grand Council 33° is charged with an important mission upon this subject to Stockholm, and we trust their labours will result in the spread of the genuine principles of the Ancient and Accepted Rite in the Swedish Kingdom. In any case, we are glad to hail the interchange of fraternal courtesies between English Masons and their brethren in Sweden, whose ceremonies and practices have hitherto been but little studied or understood.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

Some of your readers will be pleased to hear that in Glasgow the activity of "Knight Templars" in its integrity is well illustrated by a conclave working under a "Deuchar Warrant" at 22, Struthers-street; it is exceedingly prosperous, and is likely to continue so, even without the patronage of Bro. Hughan.

The "Glasgow Priory" is dormant. It is hibernating through the season of its discontent, we hope, to be aroused to its "glorious summer" by the prosperity of the conclave abovenamed.

What has become of the other K.T. working under about forty warrants granted by Deuchar are they to be found at the "Chapter General of the Temple, Edinburgh"?—A SUBSCRIBER.

REMEMBER.

It has been truly said: "It is not what they possess, but what they practice, that makes them righteous." Let Freemasons ever remember this. If we possess morality, relief, truth, and brotherly love and do not practice them, then we lie, and the truth is not in us. What will the world say if we do not remember the teachings of our own symbols? I say, again, look at the symbol of a point within a circle, embroidered by two perpendicular parallel lines, and, remember!

ST. JOHN'S GATE, CLERKENWELL.

It is well known to numerous persons who have visited St. John's Gate with an antiquarian appetite, that the late Mr. Benjamin Foster, who was for many years landlord of the tavern, began the restoration of the old edifice to something like its original character. So many have been the vicissitudes of this once famous entrance to the richest priory in Christendom, and so careless of preservation were the successive proprietors, ranging from kings to publicans, that the expensive task was commenced cautiously, although what was attempted was thoroughly executed. Mr. S. Wickens, the present proprietor, has entered earnestly into the work his father-in-law began. The restoration, in the time of Mr. Foster, commenced at the eastern side, where, entering by the Gothic doorway, and passing through the quaint mediæval bar, we pass up the staircase, which has been recently decorated in the Elizabethan style, and enter the dining room. This room now boasts Dr. Johnson's celebrated chair, and the walls are covered with curious old prints, some rare specimens of which have lately been added. Thence, a storey higher, into the armoury, hung "with pikes and guns, and bows," where ghastly skeletons of armour, with tall lances resting in their lifeless hands, look down on you. The busts of Locke and Bacon, with grimy wigs of dust on their marble pates, severely criticise you, and huge antlers project menacingly from the walls. The atmosphere is chilly, and the murky light, struggling through the small closely-latticed windows, tends towards making you feel as though you were in the long-used vault of some feudal ruin. Glad to grasp a living hand and see once more modern daylight, as the door closes, you pass on into "Ye Grete Halle," which rests on the arch spanning the roadway. Here the restoration, though not completed, is rapidly progressing. We enter by a Gothic doorway, and are in the room where David Garrick, when a young man, fresh from the country, and with possibly but a bare vision of his after fame, made his first essay as an actor before the printer Cave, and a few of his journeymen. Here, too, came Samuel Johnson, Goldsmith, Savage, Lander, and many of the wits of the last century—writing, reading, and talking over the contents of the new number of the "Gentlemen's Magazine." Here, also, at the present time meet many of those hardworking, thoughtful men, who contribute so much to our intellectual enjoyment. Under the title of the "Urban Club," numbering some sixty members, many well-known literary, artistic, histrionic, and scientific gentlemen hold their fortnightly gatherings. The host has recently provided, for the special use of this club, a solid oaken bookcase, which occupies the niche under the southern window. The shelves are gradually becoming filled with rare editions of Shakespeare. Ben Jonson, &c., presented by members, as well as presentation copies of the works of the members themselves. This "hall" is a large and lofty room, handsomely carpeted, and fitted with tall-backed Elizabethan chairs, covered with crimson velvet. Busts and portraits of Shakespeare, Samuel Johnson, Goldsmith, and other worthies, whose connection with the old gate deserve a record, are placed in prominent positions. A brilliant sunlight burner illumines the room, which brings out the harmony of the decorations.

The eastern portion of St. John's Gate has still more recently been under a similar process of restoration. Until within a short time back, a sort of dirty store-house for lumber and extra stock-in-trade, this portion of the building now figures as a gay and inviting luncheon-bar. The floor has been lowered fourteen inches, the ceiling cleaned, and its carved oak rafters varnished. The walls have been half-pannelled, which, with the front side of the counter, has been dadoed and chamfered in the Elizabethan style, corresponding with the staircase, &c., on the eastern side. The new wood has been stained a rich brown colour, to assimilate with the old oak rafters. The top of the counter is of polished oak, and the silvered handles of the engine show to advantage with this dark groundwork. The window frames and doors have been remodelled, and Burnett and Co.'s revolving shutters have replaced the lumbering wooden structures previously used. The old Gothic door at the north-west entrance has been raised three feet. By the position of the old hinges of the old door it is ascertained that the pavement in this spot must have been, in times past, at least that distance lower than at present. This door was the entrance to the old circular staircase, of solid oak, which leads to the top of the west tower. Some years ago, the lower part of this staircase was removed, and a more modern style introduced; but this part of the staircase has now been restored to its original character, and forms a very interesting feature.

The whole of these restorations were under the superintendence of W. P. Griffith, Esq. F.S.A., of Guildford-street. The builder to whom the carrying out of these instructions was entrusted has certainly executed his part in a most satisfactory manner.

It may be a matter of interest to know that the foundation walls of this old structure are ten feet seven inches in thickness, and many of the upper walls are more than four feet. The cellerage occupies an area of 1,800 superficial feet.—City Press.

ANNUAL FETE of the MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The annual summer fête of the above institution was held in the school ground and buildings, Wood-green, Tottenham, on Friday, the 8th inst., under the presidency of Bro. Col. Francis Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex.

A variety of amusements were provided in the grounds, but owing to the excessive heat of the weather they did not attract any of the guests till the evening, and from the same cause, no doubt, the athletic sports by the boys were also deferred.

All seemed to prefer examining the interior arrangements of the building, every part of which was deliciously cool. During the morning a selection of airs was played by the band kindly provided by Bro. Capt. G. Plucknett, V.P.

The cheerful, cleanly, and well-conditioned appearance of the boys was the theme of universal admiration, their happy and contented mien contrasting strongly with the usual appearance of the inmates of charitable institutions.

The first part of the programme consisted of an overture and a march on the organ in the dining-hall.

Bro. BINCKES, Secretary, said he hoped it would not be considered out of place if he made a few introductory remarks. He expressed the great gratification they felt at the large number of ladies and gentlemen who were there on the present occasion. Coming year after year, they feared that the monotony, to a certain extent inseparable from such affairs, would cause a considerable diminution in the numbers attending, and it had been a subject of considerable anxiety to the committee how to vary their arrangement. However, the brilliant gathering, they witnessed was a gratifying proof to them that their exertions were not entirely unappreciated. Their young friends were now about to separate, and proceed to their homes in various parts of the country; some of them for the last time, and it was to be hoped that the benefits they had received while in the institution would have an enduring and beneficial effect upon their future career. It was the object of the institution to provide a sound education for the sons of brethren who had died, or whose circumstances rendered them unable to provide it from their own means. It was a source of gratification to the committee, as it must be to the brethren and subscribers generally, to witness the steady progress made by the pupils. This progress, he said, was a convincing proof of the efficiency of the present staff of the school, and they could not do less than express a sense of gratitude to the head master and assistants. Last year, he said, they were, through sickness and other untoward circumstances, only able to send three boys to the Cambridge local examination. Out of these one passed with honours, and the other two met with the commendation of the examiners. This year they had adopted the bold course of submitting to the Oxford local examination the whole of the first-class boys, nineteen in number, out of which no less than fourteen passed with honours, a clear evidence that the "cramming" system had not been resorted to, whereby the larger portion of the pupils are neglected in order to make a brilliant show in one or two instances. Bro. Binckes felt it necessary to make some apology for his constant appearance before the Craft for the past nine years. It was, he felt, his duty to constantly pursue one point, and to persistently dilate upon one theme. He had but one subject to speak upon—that was to provide the means wherewith to render this school efficient. The want was urgent, and the glorious result he believed could never have been accomplished if he had not been persistent; and both himself, the committee of the institution, and the brethren generally, might join in mutual congratulations at the success which had attended their endeavours.

Bro. Binckes then presented the boys entitled to receive the prizes awarded in the classical department, which were presented to each recipient by the chairman, Col. Francis Burdett, with a few appropriate words of commendation and advice in each instance.

In the upper form prizes of the value of 21s. each were awarded for classics to G. W. Martin; mathematics, to W. Rumbow. G. W. Martin also took the prizes for modern languages and English.

In the first class, three prizes value 15s. each, were awarded to W. B. Redgrave for classics, mathematics, and modern languages; and to A. F. Wallbridge for English.

In the second class, J. Spicer carried off prizes for classics and modern languages, while E. E. Earle took those for mathematics and English.

Bro. Binckes then announced that to relieve the monotony of the proceedings, Madame Thaddeus Wells (who had generously given her services) and others would sing.

Bro. Binckes then announced that the prizes in the commercial department would be distributed. He proceeded to explain the reason which induced the committee to separate the school into divisions. This course was adopted to meet the views of different brethren, and also to give the boys an opportunity of improving themselves in those branches of education for which by their natural talents, they were best adapted. The prizes in the commercial department were distributed as follows:—

First Class.—Prizes 10s. each. Those for arithmetic and writing both fell to C. F. H. Palmer; while two prizes for history, geography, and another for English were awarded to O. Smith.

Second class.—Prizes value 7s. 6d. To J. Marjason fell that for arithmetic; to A. M. Barnes, two prizes for history, geography, and English; and to J. E. Stead for writing.

In the Preparatory Class, A. J. Walkington took the prize of 5s. for general proficiency; and F. Treleven the silver medal for good conduct (presented at the Anniversary Festival in March last by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales). The prize for efficiency as monitor, of the value of one guinea, was gained by W. B. Redgrave.

Bro. Chevalier de Kontski then delighted the audience with one of his truly wonderful performances on the piano, giving an "Andante" variation of Beethoven.

Bro. Braid, S.W. of Urban Lodge, No. 1196, sang the "Death of Nelson," accompanying himself on the piano.

E. P. Jones gave a recitation in German, "Ritter Paris."

Bro. Chevalier de Kontski again seated himself at the piano, and with Bro. Edersheim, P.M., No. 957, on the violin, gave a most charming duet.

In introducing the recipients of the special prizes, presented by private donors, Bro. Binckes introduced H. Powell, who had gained the "Canonbury Gold Medal," value £4 4s., the gift of Bro. Rev. Dr. Cox (presented at the festival). It is awarded by the boys themselves as a token of their respect and admiration of their fellow pupils, the election being entirely unbiassed. It was gained by the present recipient by a large number of votes.

E. P. Jones then came forward to receive the prize of £5 5s., given by Bro. W. Winn, V.P., to the pupil who passed with the greatest credit at the Oxford local examination in June, 1870. The same pupil also returned to receive Bro. Cox's prize of 21s. for proficiency in German, and also two more prizes given by Dr. Goodwin for Latin and French respectively, value 21s. each. The repeated approach of this youth to the chairman's table was greeted with cheers and applause both from the audience and from his fellow-pupils. The prizes for drawing, appropriately consisting of two boxes of colours and a case of drawing instruments, of the value of 21s. each, were awarded to R. Tippetts Richardson for painting, G. W. Martin for shading, and W. Dawson for architectural drawing.

Bro. BINCKES drew attention to the specimens of the skill of the pupils with which the dining hall and school rooms were decorated. When it is taken into consideration that but two years have elapsed since drawing was first taught in the school, and also that only two or three hours weekly are devoted to instruction in this branch of education, the whole of the specimens were creditable alike to master and pupils. Bro. Silvester, the drawing master, had informed Bro. Binckes that during the whole of his experience he had never met with more apt pupils, and it was worthy of notice that the drawing master himself gave these prizes. Among the water-colour drawings the most noticeable were views of the schools, copied from chromo-lithographs published by Bro. Lewis and M. Mason, by Hamson, Dawson, and Parker. A sea piece by Dawson also attracted favourable notice. Some floral sketches were very well executed, as were some appropriate and tasteful mottoes and devices, to which the names of Graham, Isborn, Jones, and Hanham were appended.

The prizes for writing, it was explained, were usually two in number, of the value of 21s. and 10s. 6d. respectively, but on this occasion, so diligent had been many of the pupils, that the master was unable to select the best from as many as six specimens. Finding himself in this difficulty he felt it would be better to refer to the committee, who were equally unable to make any award. It was, therefore, deemed that the only equitable way to get out of the difficulty was to award prizes of 21s. each to the whole of the six candidates whose specimens were selected. This sum was accordingly awarded to E. C. Isborn, C. F. H. Palmer, W. R. Gondre, E. E. Earle, G. W. Martin, and W. B. Redgrave.

E. P. Jones took the first prize of 21s., for dictation; the second (10s. 6d.) falling to the share of E. C. Isborn. In history, A. T. Wallbridge took first prize, and E. P. Jones second. Geography and mapping, George Martin took first prize, and E. P. Jones second. Attention to studies, W. A. Glass took first prize, and J. R. Martin second. For general proficiency, E. P. Jones took the prize, and also first prize for mental arithmetic; the second being awarded to G. H. Denton. Two prizes were given for proficiency in drill, which were awarded to J. R. Martin and O. Smith.

The selection of the various prizes reflected the greatest credit upon the taste and judgment of the committee, and being spread out on the table for the inspection of the visitors, elicited the admiration of all.

After the prizes (except that for elocution) had been distributed, Claudius J. Jones and W. R. Glass gave a recitation from Julius Cæsar, act i., sc. 2, the former taking the part of Brutus and the latter that of Cassius.

The prize for elocution, value £2 2s., presented by Bro. Captain Wordsworth, V.P., was then awarded. The selection of the winner was left to Bro. Binckes, who announced the name of Percy Banks, which was received with considerable signs of approbation.

At the conclusion of the distribution, Bro. Binckes remarked that amongst the list of prize-takers there was one name more prominent than all the others—that of E. P. Jones—who was just about to leave the institution. Although his young friend had taken so many prizes, he felt assured that his success had excited no feeling of envy amongst his fellow-pupils. The fact was he might have won many more; but, with a manly spirit, he had withdrawn from competition in several subjects—considering it scarcely fair to others who were not equally qualified. He had acted with a noble spirit, which, he was happy to say, prevailed in the school, and which he hoped ever would. Although he had gained so many prizes, the committee could not do otherwise than award him the prize for general efficiency in every branch of his studies. He hoped the encouragement he had that day received would excite this talented youth to still greater exertion in whatever position in life he may be placed.

Bro. Col. BURDETT then thanked the committee for having placed him in the position of chairman on the present happy occasion, although he would have preferred that some one more competent than himself had undertaken the important duties which had devolved upon him. He stated that, although the institution was not new to him in name, this was the first time he had visited it. He had examined carefully into the interior economy of the institution; he had visited the dormitory, the kitchen, the laundry, and had found the greatest order throughout all, and so far as consistent with the comfort of the pupils, the strictest economy in all the details of the management. He considered that great credit was due to the committee. He was also pleased to see the excellent discipline observed, without which, he said, so large an establishment could not be successfully conducted with order and regularity. He was pleased to see the progress the pupils had made in their studies, and particularly so with the excellent writing of the pupils—a branch of education which he considered most important. They had, he observed, been instructed on what he considered the correct principle. They were first taught to write legibly, and then afterwards rapidly and beautifully. Their religious instruction, he was pleased to see, had not been neglected. Education was nothing without moral training, and sometimes education without religion proved a curse instead of a blessing. He could not conclude his remarks without expressing his thanks to the musical brethren, and to Madame Thaddeus Wells. Their services, so kindly and freely given, had added much to the pleasure of the day. Although his time was much occupied by his magisterial and other duties, he intended to frequently repeat his visits to the institution, in which, from this time, he should ever take a special interest.

Bro. HEAD, V.P., proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, which was seconded by Bro. the Rev. Dr. Cox, and carried by acclamation. A vote of thanks was also accorded to Dr. Goodwin for the interest he had taken in the school.

The Rev. Dr. GOODWIN thanked the ladies and gentlemen present for their kind approval.

Bro. HEAD proposed a vote of thanks to the master, Bro. Furriar, and his staff of assistants.

Bro. FURRIAR replied on behalf of himself and his assistants. He had worked hard to promote the efficiency of the school, and he had been rewarded with success. On behalf of himself and his staff of assistants he returned thanks.

Bro. RAYNHAM W. STEWART proposed that the thanks of the company be presented to the matron, Miss Hall. He had seen so much of the kindness of Miss Hall to those under her charge that he had no hesitation in proposing a vote of thanks to that lady for the efficient manner in which she had looked after the welfare of the children.

Bro. the Rev. Dr. Cox, in proposing a vote of thanks to Bro. F. Binckes, said that brother had performed his duties on the present occasion as he always did—energetically. His exertions to remove the incubus of debt under which the institution laboured were such that it would be a gross dereliction of duty on his part if he did not tender his best thanks to Bro. Binckes for his great perseverance.

Bro. Binckes briefly replied.

The company then adjourned to an elegant cold collation which had been tastefully set out in the gymnasium, and which included every delicacy of the season—in proof of which it is only necessary to say that it was served by Bro. Gosden, of the Masons' Hall Tavern.

On the removal of the cloth, the chairman proposed "The Queen and the Craft."

He then proposed "Bro. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family." His Royal Highness, he said, was not only one of the Craft, but he supported it by his presence at the various institutions.

The toast was cordially drunk.

Bro. RAYNHAM W. STEWART rose to propose "The Health of the Chairman, Bro. Col. F. Burdett." He was proud to see him in the position of chairman to this distinguished assembly. He considered that Bro. Col. Burdett could not have done a wiser thing, as Provincial Grand Master of the important province of Middlesex, than identify himself with this noble institution by taking the chair on the present occasion—the more so as the institution was situated within his province. He considered the Grand Master had made no mistake in placing the brother who occupied the chair that day to preside over so important a province as Middlesex. He was assured that he would conduct the affairs of the province upon the right principle. He knew that it was his intention to request the lodges within his province to be careful as to whom they admitted into the Order. By so doing there would be less distress amongst Masons, and they would then be enabled to give relief whenever called upon.

The CHAIRMAN, whose rising was the signal for hearty and continued cheering, returned thanks for the kind manner in which they had received the toast of his health.

Bro. the Rev. Dr. Cox proposed "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys." In doing so, he hailed with delight the appearance, amongst them of the Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex. He fully endorsed the good wishes of that worthy brother for the welfare of the children of the school, and he desired to see them fitted to take that position in life to which they would have been entitled had their parents been spared, or had not fallen into indigent circumstances. He had long taken a deep interest in the school, and he was happy to say that early in the career of the institution he saw the necessity for improvement, and the desirability of gathering together the pupils under one roof. They had many obstacles and difficulties to contend with. He had the pleasure of witnessing the laying the foundation stone of the present noble pile of buildings. Great, however, as had been the success of the institution, he was not yet satisfied with what had been done. They had incurred a heavy debt, but he hoped that in a very short time they should be in a position to declare themselves free from every obligation, except that which every Mason in his heart had sworn to fulfil. They had seen to-day that some of their pupils were gifted with talent in no ordinary degree, and it was his wish that they should have the same scope for their abilities which their former position in life would have afforded them. He would, he said, give no rest to his eye-lids, nor to the soles of his feet, until funds had been raised to found exhibitions to the two Universities, and thus give a practical exemplification of the fact that there is something more in Masonry than a mere name, and that it is based upon the volume of the Sacred Law, and that the foundations of its principles are brotherly love, relief, and truth. He would couple with the toast the name of Bro. Binckes, the Secretary of this praiseworthy and excellent institution.

Bro. BINCKES said that as he had, during the proceedings in the dining-hall, when his name had been mentioned, promised to treat them gently and make his remarks brief on that occasion, that promise might be held out as a threat. But his feelings had been since considerably mollified, and he would try to be gentle now. After all said and done this annual gathering was a source of joy and gratification. He was pleased to hear his good friend Bro. Cox in his speech full of suggestions as to the well-being of the institution. He disclaimed any intention of diverting funds from the sister institution, and he firmly believed that his exertions, large as had been the result, would have no prejudicial effect upon the support given to the other Masonic institutions. On the contrary, he believed that the prosperity of one institution added to that of the other. He could cordially agree with the suggestions that had been thrown out as to the indiscriminate admission of candidates into the Order. They could not reject cases which were fully qualified for candidature by the laws of the institution; but it behoved the Masters of Lodges to be more careful as to the admission of candidates for initiation. The candidates for relief would thus be rendered less numerous, and they might then be in the position to afford relief to every worthy applicant. The institution had enjoyed great prosperity for several years. In 1869 they had subscriptions amounting to no less than £12,200, while again, in 1870, under Royal patronage, the amount released was not quite so large, but it nearly reached £11,000. He was already looking forward to the next year. He would not relax his exertions—he should never be satisfied until the institution was entirely clear of debt, nor until two exhibitions at the Universities should be founded. He was pleased at the success of his young friend and protégé, the pupil who had carried off so many prizes that day, and he was convinced that in the future no year would pass without some boys being qualified for honours at the Universities. He hoped to be spared to see a boy educated in this school occupy the exalted position of Lord Chancellor or the bishop of a diocese. He was pleased to see so many friends present, and although many were absent whom they might have expected to see, he was sure it was from no lack of interest. He had appeared so often before them, that he might be blamed for his frequent appeals; but he found that, notwithstanding his constant demands, his appearance was as warmly welcomed as when, nine years ago, he first commenced his crusade. He might be considered too persistent; but would rather that ninety-nine should blame him for his persistence than that one should say that the institution lacked funds through his want of perseverance. He was grateful to them all for their kindness and indulgence, and he returned thanks, he could assure them all, never more sincerely than on the present occasion.

Bro. RAYNHAM W. STEWART gave the toast of "The Ladies."

Bro. A. O. BROWN, D. Prov. G.M. for Leicestershire and Rutland, being called upon to reply, said he did not know upon what principle he was called upon—that duty generally devolved upon a bachelor. Having taken to himself a wife, he did not know why he was required to reply, unless it was for the reason that he now knew more of them and their good qualities. The ladies of his province, he could assert, took great interest in the institution, and on their behalf, and that of the ladies generally, he acknowledged the toast.

The company then rose from the table and adjourned to the grounds, where they thoroughly enjoyed the sports prepared for them.

In the cool of the evening an al fresco ball was organised, (Bro. Chancellor volunteering to act of M.C.), which was kept up with considerable spirit. The light dresses of the ladies contrasting with the sombre tone of the newly-mown field rendered the scene most charming.

Amongst the brethren present we noticed Bros. J. G. Chancellor, Head, Raynham W. Stewart, G. Brown, D. Prov. G.M. Leicester; G. St. Clair, S. May, W. Paas, C. Moutrie, S. Rosenthal, W. Roebuck, Wilson, A. Day, E. J. Cox, E. Farthing, Farthing, jun., Clarke, Munday, T. T. B. Lemaitre, Dr. Pettifor, Bray, Hill, Edwards, Brodie, Seaborn, Hinks, H. Hodges, Currie, Paisley, Robins, Tanner, Captain Kane, Adlard, Cubitt, J. P. Wolpert, Buehl, and Gosden.

THE promoters of the completion of St. Paul's have received several subscriptions of £1,000 each, and one of £2,000 from the Grocers' Company, contingent on the raising of £100,000.

A BELIEF IN GOD AND A FUTURE RESURRECTION, &c.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I observed a letter under the above heading in THE FREEMASON, No. 66, page 286, in which a serious and grave charge is made against Brother James Wallace, P.J.G.D. of Glasgow. Having waited patiently for an answer from Bro. Wallace denying those charges, and none appearing, I and the readers of THE FREEMASON must therefore consider the charge to be correct.

And this Masonry in Scotland, alas! There have been a good many strange things said of Bro. Wallace, but this seems to me to be the oddest of all.

Yours truly and fraternally,
M. M.

"IS FREEMASONRY SECTARIAN?"

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In last week's FREEMASON you inserted a letter which appeared in the Suffolk Chronicle of the 9th ult., and as I happen to be the preacher referred to, permit me to offer a few words of comment. I would say then:—First. That though Freemasonry is decidedly unsectarian, "though it welcomes Churchman and Dissenter, Protestant and Roman Catholic, High or Low, or Broad Church, Orthodox or Unorthodox," (and to this list might be added Jew or Mahomedan), "and asks no questions as to the religious belief or theological opinions," (any more than it does to the political opinions), "of those who enrol themselves in its ranks," still I must think that if the brethren when assembled in Provincial Grand Lodge, leave the lodge-room and deliberately proceed to attend, and take part in, the service at a Church of England church, they must not be surprised if the preacher, himself a clergyman of the Church of England, and addressing himself to a large congregation, more than half of whom are not Freemasons, and all of whom he may fairly presume, by their presence in that sacred building, to be members of the Church of England, or at all events, not strongly opposed to her doctrines, should select his text from some portion of the scriptures appointed by our Church for the service of the day, and which had been lately read as the first lesson in the earlier portion of the service, more especially when that appointed lesson happened to be taken from the book of the Proverbs of Solomon, whom all Masons regard with more or less of reverence. Secondly. I would observe that if "A Freemason," or indeed any Freemason, is not a believer in the inspiration of the Scriptures, much of the beautiful wording of our Masonic Ritual must be very unmeaning and offensive to him, and especially those parts of it which so highly exalt "the volume of the Sacred Law," (in common parlance the Bible), and which speak of it "as derived from God to man in general," "the rule and guide of our faith," and as "derived from God himself, because the Almighty has been pleased to reveal to man more of His divine will in that Holy Book, than he has by any other means." And I would further remark, that unless Masons do believe in the Bible as inspired, it is useless to have it always open in the lodge-room, and useless as the medium whereby a solemn promise is converted into a pledge of fidelity, and rendered binding as long as the newly obligated candidate shall live. Thirdly. I should have thought that the mention of the Holy Trinity as three persons and yet one God, could hardly offend any brother, certainly no brother who is a Royal Arch Mason. And lastly, I would remark that "the disparaging mention of the theory of Papal Infallibility," which my censor imagines may have offended some brother who was a believer in that theory, was, to the best of my remembrance, simply comprised in two lines, and that the sentence was to the effect that if Freemasonry be so thoroughly scriptural in its tenets as we confess it to be, and if it be productive of all the good results we claim for it, it cannot be the unholy association worthy of anathema which an infallible Pope would have the world believe. Whether this letter of mine call forth a reply or not, is to me immaterial. I certainly shall not again trespass on your space; but even at the risk of being thought egotistical, I must add, that the Prov. Grand Master expressed himself in open lodge on our return from church, as being highly pleased with the sermon, and that the brethren present, to judge by their manner then, and by the really extraordinary number who came up to me and thanked me for it afterwards, appeared to be the same. That I was thankful for this I will not attempt to deny, but whether the sermon had pleased them or not, I cannot help thinking that it is the duty of a Christian clergyman, more especially of one holding the high position in the Craft, which I have the honour to occupy, to state as plainly as he can, what he believes to be truth, and what he believes to be for the good, not only of his Masonic brethren, but also of the other members of the congregation he is addressing, and thus promoting as far as he is able, the honour of our God, and the interests of our glorious institution.

I have the honour to be, yours

Faithfully and fraternally,
CHARLES JOHN MARTYN,
Grand Chaplain of England.

Long Melford Rectory, Suffolk, July 19th.

[We entirely agree with our Rev. Brother, and thank him for his able reply to our correspondent.—ED. F.]

THE RECENT ROYAL VISIT TO READING.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—Having been the victims of an unfortunate but inadvertent error in the accounts of the above memorable event reported in the several metropolitan and provincial newspapers (two journals excepted), we should esteem it a great favour if you would allow us, as brethren of the Craft and as artists, to place the matter right before your readers.

Your contemporaries, after eulogising the artistic excellence and beauty of the Masonic Arch and its decorations (erected at the station gates, Friar-street), attribute its construction to Messrs. Defries, of London.

Now, as this arch, with its emblazoned banners and other designs and decorations, is an entire novelty, and has been pronounced the chef d'œuvre of Masonic architecture by many distinguished artists, architects, and connoisseurs, and has also received the unqualified approval of the chief dignitaries of the Masonic fraternity, it would be very injurious to our interests and reputation if we permitted the error to pass unnoticed. We beg therefore, to inform your readers that the said arch and all its belongings was entirely produced, designed, and constructed by Messrs. Alfred Mills and Son, artists and decorators, 66, Amelia-street, Walworth.

By the insertion of this you will enable us to obtain what little credit may accrue from the performance of a work of which we naturally feel proud—without derogating from the professional eminence deservedly attained by Messrs. Defries, who, we are assured, would be the last to desire to appropriate the praise due to a brother artist and a Mason.

We remain, yours, &c.,

A. MILLS & SON.

ARDROSSAN NEPTUNE KILWINNING AND ITS DETRACTORS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—The attention of the Lodge "Neptune Kilwinning, Ardrossan, No. 442," having been directed to two letters that have appeared in recent numbers of THE FREEMASON—the one signed "John Taylor," the other "Duncan Wilkie, Secretary"—the lodge, at a special general meeting held on the 11th of July current, unanimously instructed its Secretary to send the following statement to the editor of the forenamed magazine:—

John Taylor, plumber, was initiated in Neptune Kilwinning, February 7, 1870 (not in January, as is stated by him), was passed on the 21st February, and raised on the 28th February. On presenting himself for initiation, he borrowed of the Secretary of the lodge 23s. of the 32s. 6d. that in terms of the byelaws required to be paid prior to a candidate's admission. He also paid 6d. for a copy of the byelaws. In the interval between his initiation and the date at which he applied for his diploma, he appears from his own showing to have been refused admission into the other Ardrossan lodge. Bro. Taylor's delaying to refund the Secretary for the advance he had made in respect to his initiation fees, taken in connection with certain expressions he had used in reference to repudiation of the debt in question, raised a suspicion in the Secretary's mind that it was Taylor's intention to defraud him—and under the circumstances he refused to give Taylor his diploma until he paid him the money which he (the Secretary) had lent. As already explained, on the 20th June Taylor was invited to attend a meeting of the lodge on that night, in order to receive his diploma. His refusal to attend this meeting was communicated in a letter which he addressed to the Treasurer (June 20th), in which he says: "As I have been already refused my diploma by Bro. Robertson, Secretary, oftener than once, I do not consider I am entitled to put myself to the trouble of calling for it; indeed, I am at present arranging an action for recovery of 33s. paid for certain privileges which I have been denied. I understand that Bro. Robertson asserts that I am due him a private debt, but this I emphatically deny, and challenge him to prove."

Accepting the challenge, and still retaining possession of the diploma, the Secretary took legal steps to recover the debt which the challenger owed him. Taylor's "emphatic" denial proved to be an emphatic lie. This is shown in the decision of the Court before which the case was tried, and which is thus reported:—

"Robertson v. Taylor.—At the Justice of Peace Court, Saltcoats, on the 1st July current, John Robertson, mason, sued John Taylor, plumber, Ardrossan, for 23s. of lent money. Mr. Robertson explained that he is secretary of Neptune Kilwinning Lodge of Freemasons, No. 442; that Taylor had long been intimate with him, and had frequently expressed a desire to be initiated a Freemason in the said lodge, but that he had not enough of money to pay the fees, all the money he had on coming to be initiated being 10s.; and that he had asked him (Robertson) for the loan of 23s. to make up the amount required, and that he (Robertson) had lent him the same.—Taylor denied receiving the money; but the Court, after hearing the evidence, gave decret against him for the amount and costs.—I certify the above to be a true report,

"THOMAS KIRKHOPE, Solicitor, Ardrossan."

Two of the justices before whom this case was tried are brethren, viz., J. G. Halket, Esq., Past Master of Lodge No. 320, and S.P.G.M. of Ayrshire, and William Lockhart, Esq., of Mayfield, Past Master of Lodge No. 169.

The effrontery of Taylor in obtruding himself before the readers of a Masonic journal circulating in all parts of the globe, will be thus apparent, to every unprejudiced brother. In his letter to THE FREEMASON, Taylor justifies his refusal to pay his yearly subscription to the lodge, by stating that 1s. 6d. of the amount charged, (2s. 6d.) was "an illegal demand." The Bye-laws of the lodges, which are sanctioned by the Grand Lodge, and of which Taylor got a copy, ordain "the brethren to pay the sum of 2s. 6d. annually, and payment of the said sum shall constitute membership." So much then for Taylor's second deliberate mis-statement. In his attempted justification of his dishonourable conduct, Taylor allows himself to be made the cat's-paw of a coterie of bilious brethren, whose chronic envy at the prosperity of Neptune Kilwinning has more than once prompted them to the commission of acts the unmasonic character of which has greatly affected the usefulness of the Lodge No. 320. The letter signed "Duncan Wilkie, Secretary," is but an echo of the one bearing the signature "John Taylor." The unmanly insinuations which these letters contain, and both issue from the same polluted source, have long ago been repelled by the Lodge Neptune, Kilwinning, and the present R.W. Master, Senior Warden, and Secretary, against whom the insinuations are directed possess the unqualified confidence of the brethren, and are held in the highest esteem not only by members of their own lodge, but also by many worthy brethren of No. 320, and other lodges is this province.

The best proof of the groundlessness of Duncan Wilkie and Co.'s insinuations, now of several years standing, against Neptune Kilwinning or any of its office-bearers, lies in the fact that neither the Grand Lodge nor the Provincial Grand Lodge have ever yet deemed them worth consideration.

If the Lodge No. 320 should anew give its pretended "complaint" an airing at the expense of others, Neptune Kilwinning must also be heard in the case, though it must be admitted, the affair is devoid of interest to the Craft in general.

By order of the Lodge No. 442,
JOHN ROBERTSON, Sec.
Ardrossan, July 11th, 1870.

HENRY PRICE ONCE MORE.
(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your readers may probably remember two of my letters on the question whether Henry Price was ever appointed Provincial G.M. of America, printed in your valuable journal in February last. In the letter published February 5th, I pointed out, that whereas, Price claimed of having himself paid three guineas to Deputy Grand Master Bisson, on or before April 13th, 1733, for his deputation. Though the name of Price may by accident have been omitted from the record, yet the three guineas ought to be found on the cash account of the G.L. of England. To this question, the R.W. Bro. John Hervey was kind to reply as follows:—"I have searched the cash accounts in Grand Lodge books for the years 1733-4-5, and do not find the mention of Bro. Price's name in connection with any payment, or mentioned in any way whatever."

"With regard to fees for deputation I cannot find any trace of their having been paid at all at that period."

"There is a deputation set out at full length to Bro. Daniel Cox, as P.G.M. of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, dated 5th June, 1730, but no fee appears to have been paid." This answer will necessitate further inquiry, for if it can be proved that no fee was demanded in 1733 for a Provincial Grand Master's deputation, Bro. Price's assertion of having paid the three guineas will prove more than he imagined or desired.

The second letter, which was published about three weeks after the first, had reference to Price's claim of having received an extension of his authority from the Earl of Crauford. Benjamin Franklin's letter dated Nov. 28th, 1734, which was embodied in my second communication, fixed the date of the second deputation to August preceding. Franklin wrote: "We have seen in the Boston prints an article of news from London, importing that at a Grand Lodge held there in August last, Mr. Price's deputation and power was extended over all America."

We must now repeat that Dr. Winslow Lewis not only maintains positively the genuineness of Franklin's letter, but also assures me that it even had a post mark on it. We must therefore believe that Ben. Franklin "saw in the Boston prints the article of London news," and we therefore imagined that Henry Price's name ought to appear in the English G.L. Record of the said August meeting. We therefore asked the question, whether the G.L. of England held a meeting in August, 1734?

To this question Bro. Hervey replied:—"Our Minute-book shows that no Grand Lodge meeting was held between 30th March, 1734, when Lord Crauford was installed Grand Master, and the 24th February, 1735, when he apologised for not having called the brethren together, consequently no Grand Lodge was held in August 1734."

Here then is positive evidence of a fraud; a fraud which so far imposed on Benj. Franklin, as to call forth his letter of Nov. 28th, 1834; and can any one doubt, that Henry Price was the author of that fraud? Who but Price could have originated the said "article of London news," into the Boston prints? and if guilty of one imposition, why may he not be equally guilty of lying with regard to his 1733 deputation?

I have again troubled the R.W. Bro. Hervey to ascertain and inform me, the precise date, when a fee was first charged for a Provincial Deputation; but in the meantime if any of your numerous correspondents are in possession of the information I am seeking, I hope they will communicate it through the pages of THE FREEMASON.

I may here add, that the controversy, whether Viscount Montague or Montacute was Grand Master in 1732-3 is at last in a fair way of settlement. I am informed that Dr. Lewis received from Bro. T. Heard, P.G.M. of Massachusetts, who is now in England, a copy of the inscription taken from the tomb-stone of the Viscount, also an attested extract from the original Patent of Phillip and Mary, 1554, creating Anthony Brown "Viscount Montague" or "Mountague," but certainly not "Montacute," so at last the name of Montacute, together with the fancy crest painted in our Masonic Temple, will have to be brushed over. The "Montacute Lodge" will have to change its name, but whether its future name shall be "Montague Lodge," must depend on the decision of some future committee, whether Henry Price did, or did not hold a deputation from the said Viscount Montague.

Fraternally and respectfully yours

JACOB NORTON.

Boston, U.S., July 7th, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—The appointment of our worthy Bro. N. Le Gendre Starkie, Esq., as the Grand Master of the Province of East Lancashire, is one which commands itself to the respect of our brethren. The appointment seems to have given the bulk of the Masonic brethren great satisfaction, and is hailed with delight by the majority of the province.

Now, sir, I write to enter my protest to the underhand work which seems to be going on amongst a few of those who consider themselves of some importance (?) in this large and influential province. I strongly object to a brother calling meetings at his private house, or even at his private office, for the purpose of taking into consideration "a certain recent appointment." It is not respectful to the M.W.G.M. to call into question the appointment, neither is it right towards the newly-appointed Provincial Master. It is anything but gentlemanly, or unmanly, and very much beneath the dignity of a true Mason. If there are to be any meetings, let them be held above-board, at the proper time, and in the proper place. We have a Masonic Hall, why not use that? Let the meeting, if necessary, be called by the proper person, and let no man assume a position that he has no right to do, especially when the voice of the people is against him. I don't believe in any man trying to make himself popular by taking steps quite at variance with common courtesy. It is an outrage on the common sense of the province, and I hope, sir, our brethren will stop such unwarrantable proceedings.

What necessity is there for any meeting? The appointment is virtually, if not actually made, and why this storm in a tea-pot? Let the malcontents go over to some neighbouring province where their whims may possibly be better appreciated than here. The Prov. G.M. Designate is well-known as a county gentleman, well suited in every respect for the important position he is about to occupy, having been not only Prov. S.G.W. (E.L.), higher than that, he has actually been S.G.W. England, and High Sheriff of Lancashire. Surely a gentleman who has had the approbation of His Majesty as well as of the M.W. the G.M. of England is not to be treated in such a style by who appears to me to be a few upstarts.

Yours fraternally,
A BROTHER

"PRINCE" RHODOCANAKIS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I regret to find that the person who calls himself "His Imperial Highness Prince Rhodocanakis," has again appeared on the scene.

When the absurd pretensions of the "Prince" were first put forward, I sought at once to arrive at the value. Knowing Sir Bernard Burke, Ulster King-of-Arms, to be universally recognised as the highest living authority on "Orders of Knighthood," I wrote to that gentleman respecting the so-called "Prince" and Sir Bernard in reply disavowed all knowledge of "His Imperial Highness."

The correspondence between myself and Sir Bernard Burke was placed in the hands of the Editor of the Freemasons' Magazine some months ago, and I regret very much that it was not then made public.

As the Editor of the Magazine has exercised his discretion in refusing to insert the correspondence, I am at length compelled to address you on the matter. I therefore submit this simple proposition. If Mr. Rhodocanakis is a "Prince" let him substantiate his claim to the title to Sir Bernard Burke's satisfaction, and I and many others will then acknowledge its validity, but until that is done the "Prince" had better retire into private life.

Yours fraternally,
London, July 16th, 1870. J. A. H.

A clever and genial writer in the Michigan Freeman gives the following graphic sketch of an incident occurring during a Masonic excursion on the Mississippi, which cool and chivalrous Knights Templarship alone saved from proving fatal disastrous:—

It was a magnificent sight to see our immense boat, accompanied by the Lady Gay and the Belle of Altoona, their decks crowded with fair ladies and Knights Templar, bands of music, distinguished citizens, and invited guests, as they steamed up the Mississippi, then down to Jefferson Barracks, where we all went on shore to spend a pleasant hour, after which we again went on board and steamed merrily up the river.

I was standing near the captain. The commander of the Templars came and leaned wearily on the capstan. I turned to Reuben Mitton, and whispered in his ear these words: "That man was born to command." He had the form of a Hercules, the head of an Apollo, and the eye of an eagle, and, as circumstances afterwards demonstrated, the heart of a lion. Although not so very large, he appeared larger than he really was; he was full and athletic, and still every proportion was a symmetry and every movement a grace.

While he was still leaning silently on the capstan, and while I was yet analysing his fine countenance, the captain of the steamer, with pale lips and blanched cheeks, approached the young Templar, and in a low tone and trembling voice, said:

"Great God! sir, we are sinking. We are snagged in the bottom, and nothing can save us."

"How long can you keep her afloat?" carelessly inquired the young Templar.

"She may go down in five minutes; she cannot keep afloat more than fifteen," replied the captain.

"Do not make your situation known to anyone except your crew, or we will have a panic, and then all will be lost. Signal the Lady Gay to lean to; none will notice or understand the signal of distress. Get your crew and hands ready to move, I will manage the rest."

"Blow, Warbler, blow," said the young Templar, speaking to his ensign, who stood near him, at the same time leaping upon the capstan. Every one was startled by a shrill blast from the Warbler's trumpet. A hundred Templars' swords leaped from their scabbards at the blast.

"Attention, Sir Knights," shouted the young commander. "The next ceremony in the programme is for the Sir Knights, ladies and gentlemen on this boat, to make a visit to our friends on board the Lady Gay. As the steamers are rapidly approaching each other, and cannot be kept but a minute or two together, the movement must be a rapid one. You will form procession at once, and, as the boats come together, pass over the gangway under an arch of steel, to the lower deck of the Lady Gay. Forward, Sir Knights, to the gangway. Music in front. The band will play 'The Knights Templar Quick-step.'"

In obedience to these orders, the knights formed a double line to the gangway, facing round, with swords crossed above the heads of those forming the procession. In less than eight minutes the whole precious cargo of human life had passed from the Mississippi to the Lady Gay, even to the coloured cook, except the two files of Templars, when the young commander ordered: "From the rear, right and left inward wheel, march;" and filing inward, the Templars rapidly passed over the gangway to the Lady Gay, the young commander being the last to leave. One minute more and the Mississippi steamer sank to the bottom.

THE GIFT LIFEBOATS of the NATIONAL LIFEBOAT INSTITUTION.

The following article is taken from the National Lifeboat Association's last Report, and we hope the Society will soon be enabled to add to its noble fleet a "Masonic Lifeboat."

Fourteen years since a movement commenced of an altogether novel character in the lifeboat work, and which is without precedent in this or in any other country. At that period a benevolent lady presented the National Lifeboat Institution with the cost of a new lifeboat, to be stationed at a part of the coast where one was needed. Another lifeboat soon followed from a gentleman. A third was presented by a Yacht Club; and a fourth was given by a lady, as a thankoffering after a providential preservation from drowning. Rapidly the generous spark was fanned into a flame, and new boats, as fast as they were required on the various coasts of the United Kingdom, were presented to the society.

Many of these noble gifts assumed the shape of memorials to departed relatives or friends, the first of which was given by two surviving sisters, in memory of a third to whom they had bid a last farewell, and which boat bears the affecting and affectionate name of The Sisters' Memorial. Next came inland towns—Ipswich being the first—some of the inhabitants of which, feeling a desire that their own communities should be represented on the coast as performing their share of the national duty of affording protection to shipwrecked persons, in the only manner in which they could do so, appealed to their fellow-townsmen, and soon many of such inland places were represented by their own boats. Our chief manufacturing towns and cities being conspicuous amongst the number.

Again, various public bodies of men, such as the great mutual benefit societies, the Civil Service, the Universities, Yacht Clubs, Commercial Travellers, Sunday Schools, the subscribers to public journals, the Society of Friends, &c.; and, lastly, standing by itself in kind, the noble gift of £2,000 for the provision and endowment of a lifeboat station by a firm of Parsee merchants, Messrs. Cama and Co., on retiring from business in London, as an acknowledgement of, or thankoffering for, their success, and in testimony of their appreciation of the kind reception they had uniformly met with from the inhabitants of London.

In this manner it has come to pass that, as a great and enduring monument of the benevolent feeling and voluntary duty, if we may use the term, of the people of this country, the grand fleet of splendid and perfectly-equipped lifeboats which belongs to the Lifeboat Institution now encircles our coasts. That fleet, at the present, consists of no less than 220 boats; and of that large number 212 have been special gifts, or, as in the case of a very few of them, have been adopted by payment of their existing value.

Through the means of this splendid support, and more than generous appreciation of the usefulness of the Institution, and of the labours of its managing body, the committee who conduct its affairs are now in that proud position that they can look on the work they had set themselves to do as complete, so far as the placing of lifeboats at all, or nearly all, suitable and available positions on the coasts of the United Kingdom is concerned; and can feel that it will only, or at least chiefly, now devolve on them to maintain their existing lifeboat establishments in a state of completeness and efficiency. To enable them to do which, however, they will still—considering that the National Lifeboat Institution is solely dependent on voluntary support—continually need the encouraging sympathy and interest, and the generous pecuniary aid of their fellow-countrymen, who have so generously supported them during the past.

THE MASONIC LIFEBOAT FUND.—We are requested to acknowledge the following further subscriptions to this praiseworthy object:—Per Bro. H. M. Levy, P.M. 188. Bro. the Rev. T. C. Martyn, Grand Chaplain of England, £2 2s.; sundry other donations, 7s. 6d.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond, says: "I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says: "I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles."—For all skin diseases, or purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy. In bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in boxes, 2s. 2d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries' Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—Advt.

A GERMAN LEGEND.

The sweet warm sunlight of an Autumn day
Had with the changeful hours dreamed away
And died; and when the tender twilight came
The sun-begotten and imprisoned flame
Of ruddy fruit burned softer, and the trees
Whispered and kissed together, as the breeze;
Amorous odours full of subtle thought
From the dew-cherished sleepy flowers brought,
And fair became all things that had not been
So fair beneath the yellow midday sheen.

Ev'n then a woman leaned against a stile,
Waking yet sighing with sad dreams the while,
For she had verily the right to mourn—
Her little girl was dead, her only-born,
A wavelet on the shore of time-to-be
Had rippled back into eternity,
Leaving the mother but the hurtful sweet
That lurks in weeping o'er a winding sheet.

Her tears fell fast as to her vision rose
Dim pictures of the world-consenting woes
That childless widowhood alone must bear:
She knew that she no more upon the stair
Would heed the pattering of tiny shoes,
No pout would vex, no ready laugh amuse;
Nor morning kiss, nor baby-like "Good-night"
Would ever make her heavy burthen light;
And as she thought of these her eyes again
Gave misty outlines of the things most plain.

But in the gloaming suddenly there seemed,
Soft-shadowed midst uncertain haze that gleamed,
Like close-drawn clouds around the full-faced moon,

A pale still image of the child, and soon,
Startling the mother, as a trembling doe
Crouching and listening for an unseen foe
Is startled at the lightest leaflet fall,
A murmuring voice came gently: "Weep not all
These tears for me, dear mother, for behold
Within my hand this cup of chasen gold—Wondrously wrought with carved pictures—see,
'Tis full of tears which thou hast wept for me,
And if thou weepest more 'twill overflow
Adown the perfect side, and sadly show
Stains on the brightness, and the powerful peace
Which now is mine will then for ever cease;
So shall I have no rest by day or night,
Nor any longer dwelling in delight."

Thus spake the child, and as the songlike words,

Died in the evening twittering of birds
And love-calls to their mates, the mother stood
A moment silently as though she would Pass to the vision and therewith be one,
And fade away like vapour in the sun—
Then stayed her sorrow, drove away her fears,
And for her child's sweet sake, kept back her tears.

COMPRESSED GUN-COTTON.—While the application of gun-cotton as an explosive agent has been steadily advancing, Messrs. Prentice and Co., of Stowmarket, the manufacturers of this material, have carefully watched the results of its mechanical work, as well as the chemical investigation to which it has been subjected. We have now pleasure in calling attention to their recent improvements, in which, applying the system of Professor Abel, Chemist to the War Department, they are enabled to carry out a plan of compression which their experience has led them to see is of value in the use of this material. The principle thus introduced insures the most perfect attainment of the points essential for the safety and stability of the material, and, it is stated, renders it non-explosive in the open air, at the same time securing the highest effective power. In preparing this material the cotton is first made explosive in the usual manner, then taken to the pulping mill under Professor Abel's system. After thorough separation of the fibre and admixture of the pulp, it is compressed by hydraulic machinery until the cotton of any given diameter is equal to 6in. of powder. It is in a most portable and convenient form, and the advantages to the miner of having the whole of his explosive force confined at the bottom of the hole cannot be over-estimated. This new process of manufacture will no doubt give results which will materially lessen the work of miners, quarrymen, and contractors.—Mechanics' Magazine.

Mr. E. W. F. FRAILING, of the Daily News Office, writes, Feb. 20, 1869.—"I had the misfortune to sprain my foot badly last August. After trying all sorts of remedies for it without benefit, I was at last induced to use your Vegetable Pain Killer, which in a few days entirely cured it. I have since constantly kept it in my house as a family medicine, and have great confidence in it.—To P. D. & Son."

TREE-MIGNONETTE.—Tree-Mignonette is produced by growing a single plant in a pot and nipping out all the side-shoots as fast as they make their appearance until the desired height of stem is obtained. Use a compost consisting of good turfy loam two parts, thoroughly-decomposed cow-dung one part, and about a fourth part of silver sand. The loam should be chopped up rather roughly, and the manure and sand then incorporated with it. When the stem is of the requisite height, nip out the top, and then stop the three or four side-shoots that are emitted from near the top, and have a ring of wire fixed up on a strong upright to train them to. The plants must not be allowed to suffer for the want of water in any stage of growth, and after they are well established in their blooming pots, water alternately with weak liquid manure. Sow two or three seeds in three-inch pots, then thin down to one, leaving the strongest, and when the pots are well filled with roots re-pot into either six or eight inch size. Syringe the foliage frequently and adopt other rededical measures to keep green-fly and other pests in subjection. A genial growing temperature will be necessary during the winter to keep them growing steadily during that season, but they may be placed in the open air for a few months in the middle of the summer. When in the open air, stand the pots upon a bed of coal-ashes, and attend to them regularly.—Gardener's Magazine.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Prevention before Cure.—The summer advancing with its increasing temperature, green vegetables and unripe fruit will bring it many disorders little prevailing in winter. The chest and digestive organs generally are inconvenienced at this season. All invalids should know that in Holloway's preparations they will find a preventive against approaching ailments, and a speedy remedy for established diseases. To them all may look with certain hope of benefit, be their ailments many or few, light or agonising; whether of a temporary or permanent character. The whole range of vegetable productions can exhibit no other curative so constantly successful as Holloway's. Neither Pills nor Ointment contain a grain of any mineral or other noxious substance.—[Advt.]

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lie at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough. *Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Advt.]

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package.

6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.
 Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.
 Wholesale at MAYAR'S, 36, MARK LANE, LONDON, E.C.
 A Wholesale Agent wanted in every Town.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, it is the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place
 For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of tone, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

The Wimbledon Annual. Clarke, Pater-noster-row.

At the present juncture, when the two great military powers—France and Prussia—are about to submit their rival claims for supremacy to the dread arbitrement of the Zündnadel and Chassepot, everything which relates to our own gallant army of "Defence, not defiance" acquires additional interest. At the Wimbledon meeting which has just closed, our volunteers have proved their wondrous proficiency as marksmen, and it may be safely said that no other country in the world can now produce—man for man—such a body of reliable sharpshooters as the picked riflemen of Great Britain. As a souvenir of this great yearly gathering of our citizen soldiery, the Wimbledon Annual was projected some three years ago, and each successive issue has proved a greater favourite than its predecessor. The popularity of the publication may be confidently gauged by the number of advertisements now bound up with the work, it being a well-ascertained fact that advertisements, in nine cases out of ten, are the truest of circulation. Besides giving the fullest information as to the competition for the various prizes in the rifle contests, and thus becoming a pleasing source of prospective and retrospective intelligence, we find that the Annual presents in a literary aspect many other attractions. Mr. F. Montgomery contributes the piece de resistance of the book, "A Triangular Story," which will amply repay perusal. "Who Won Miss Macfadgen's Rupees" is the title of an amusing brochure by Ronald M. Smith.

Barney Maglone—a nom de guerre, we presume—is the author of a poem entitled "The Silent Land," which, although it proves that he possesses the divine afflatus, is not at all to our taste, and can scarcely be said to enhance the value of the Annual. Let "Barney" try a good cheery rifleman's song next time, and give us a rattling chorus. He has the stuff in him, if he likes to try, and will leave off extracting fun out of such dismal subjects as "church-yard rats" and "blood-gorged worms." The talented editor, Mr. Charles Clarke, supplies "A Post-Prandial Paper," in which he shows us a variety of panoramic views, introducing episodes in the careers of Wellington, Napoleon III., Sir Fitzroy Kelly, Garibaldi, the late Prince Consort, and allusions to the Crimean war, the Exhibition of 1862, the entrance of the Princess of Wales into London, and the literary success of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," whose unworthy authoress has since be-muddled her fair fame by raking up atrocious calumnies against the illustrious dead. "Tennyson Topsy-Turvy" is, as its name implies, a humorous inversion of one of our poet's best known works, "Enoch Arden." We can confidently commend the Annual to our Volunteer readers as an interesting souvenir of the Wimbledon camp and its surroundings.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

THE SCHISM.

The Marquis of Carnarvon (afterwards Duke of Chandos) succeeded Lord Carysfort in the office of Grand Master of England in March 1754. He began his administration by ordering the Book of Constitutions to be reprinted, under the inspection of a committee, consisting of the Grand Officers and some other respectable brethren. The Grand Master's zeal and attention to the true interests of the society were shown on every occasion. He presented to the Grand Lodge a large silver jewel, gilt, for the use of the Treasurer, being cross keys in a knot, enamelled with blue; and gave several other proofs of his attachment.

Soon after the election of the Marquis of Carnarvon, the Grand Lodge took into consideration a complaint against certain brethren for assembling without any legal authority, under the denomination of Ancient Masons; and who, as such, considered themselves independent of the society, and not subject to the laws of the Grand Lodge, or to the control of the Grand Master. Dr. Manningham, the Deputy Grand Master, pointed out the necessity of discouraging such meetings, as being contrary to the laws of the society, and openly subversive of the allegiance due to the Grand Master. On this representation the Grand Lodge resolved, that the meeting of any brethren under the denomination of Masons, other than as brethren of the Ancient and Honourable Society of Free and Accepted Masons, established upon the universal system, is inconsistent with the honour and interest of the Craft, and a high insult on the Grand Master and the whole body of Masons. In consequence of this resolution, fourteen brethren, who were members of a lodge held at the Ben Jonson's Head, in Pelham-street, Spitalfields, were expelled from the Society, and that lodge was ordered to be erased from the list.

No preceding Grand Master granted so many provincial deputations as the Marquis of Carnarvon. On the 7th of October, 1755, his lordship appointed a Provincial Grand Master for Durham, and soon after a very respectable lodge was constituted at Sunderland under his lordship's auspices. In less than two years the following patents were issued by his lordship: 1, for South Carolina; 2, for South Wales; 3, for Antigua; 4, for all North America, where no former provincial deputation was appointed; 5, for Barbadoes, and all other his Majesty's islands, to the windward of Guadaloupe; 6, for St. Eustatius, Cuba, and St. Martin's Dutch Caribbee Islands in America; 7, for Sicily, and the adjacent islands; 8, for all His Majesty's dominions in Germany, with the power to choose their successors; and 9, for the County Palatine of Chester, and the City and County of Chester. The greater part of these appointments appear to have been mere honorary grants in favour of individuals, few of them having been attended with any real advantage to the society.

The Marquis of Carnarvon continued to preside over the Fraternity till the 18th of May, 1757, when he was succeeded by Lord Aberdour; during whose Mastership the Grand Lodge voted, among other charities, the sum of fifty pounds to be sent to Germany, to be distributed among such of the soldiers as were Masons in Prince Ferdinand's army, whether English, Hanoverians, or Hessians; and this sum was soon after remitted to General Kingsley for the intended purpose.

These were the principal proceedings of the Fraternity during the reign of George II., who, on the 5th of October, 1760, expired at his Palace at Kensington, in the 77th year of his age, and the 34th of his reign.

This period seems to have been the golden era of Masonry in England; the sciences were cultivated and improved, the royal art was diligently propagated, and true architecture clearly understood; the Fraternity were honoured and esteemed; the lodges patronised by exalted characters; and charity, humanity, and benevolence, appeared to be the distinguishing characteristics of Masons.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Freemasonry, we are taught, is no respecter of persons; but that eminence is only to be acquired by the just and perfect man, and by him alone. Upon entering the lodge the trappings of state and rank are said to be laid aside; peasant, peer, and prince meet upon the same level, and the only qualification for position amongst us is that derived from the gift bestowed upon us by the Great Creator. All meet as brethren, free and equal; and the only rivalry which can exist, is in the laudable ambition of each to press onward in the paths of science and virtue. This, truly, is the pronounced doctrine of our Order; but like many other pronounced doctrines, it dies in the expression.

It is very true that crowns and stars and garters, with guns, swords, boomerangs, and Colt's revolvers are not permitted to be worn in lodge; but the king does not cease to be king, the peer to be noble, or the rich man to have the advantage of his wealth; while the poor brother finds his own level in the assemblies of the Craft, just as readily as he finds it in the outer world. As surely as cynicism, by its morbid hatred of luxury, imposed upon the Ancients, so has the brotherly love of the Freemason imposed upon the Moderns—with this difference, that the Cynics tried to follow out their doctrines, while the Freemasons write theirs upon tablets of stone, without often caring for putting precept into practice. The common saying, "That it dearly loves a lord," holds true in a lodge.

Now, we have no objections to a lord; on the contrary, we have the greatest respect for the title when borne by a gentleman of honour, sense, learning, and fidelity. On the other hand, we have a hearty contempt for the title when its possessor lacks these qualities. In this we differ from the Freemason who cares not what are the antecedents of a man so long as he has a title.

We do not, then, object to a lord or man of position in our body so long as he is of sterling character, and we would as leave have him as a Grand Officer as not.

Now, if Freemasonry really was the society it pretends to be; if brethren were chosen to office not for the extraneous advantages of rank and fortune, but by reason of their mental qualities and zeal for the Craft, it would command greater esteem and respect. All know how a late earl was first pitch-forked into a lodge, and from there to the Deputy Grand Mastership without having received the slightest training, or showing the least symptoms of fitness for the post. Undoubtedly he was liked, for he was a good-natured, genial man, but we regret to believe he was rather out of place in his position of Deputy Grand Master, from which the Earl of Roslyn, who had for several years filled the chair of Substitute, and than whom a more intelligent and painstaking brother never sat in Grand Lodge was excluded. We insist that only brethren who have filled the various offices in a subordinate lodge should be eligible for office in Grand Lodge, and that no noble should be placed in a prominent position who has not in a proper manner shown his ability for it in a subordinate post. On the other hand, brethren who have shown marked ability and zeal in propagating the principles of the Order, who have distinguished themselves in literature, science, or art, should be chosen if they could be persuaded to take rank in Grand Lodge. By this means alone will Freemasonry hold its standing in the world, and the coming in of men of ability in place of brainless somebodies, will be the first step in the direction which leads to usefulness and truth.

We do not blame the unfortunate somebodies for their errors, but we do blame those who place them in so false a position for their own purposes. It is actually painful to hear the ignorance of Masonry displayed by Grand Officers, who seem to be unaware that there is a Book of Constitutions for the government of the Order, besides the unwritten law. Even on points of etiquette they are woefully deficient, and the bare ceremony of opening and closing is fraught with ignorance and confusion, through which the luckless office-bearer flounders by the aid of half a dozen prompters and no end of shame.

We all know the danger of men assuming duties which they cannot perform, lacking the brains to understand them, and the ability to enforce them, even if they could. This we shall more particularly notice in reference to Provincial Grand Lodges, where neither honour nor decency can make brethren sensible of their shortcomings, and through whom Freemasonry sinks into great insignificance, if it does not become tainted with false doctrine and impurity; for it is notorious that our lodges have corrupt rituals, and the pure principles of the Order are misunderstood.

"FOR a year and a half I suffered so much with rheumatism in my arm as to deprive me of all rest, and as I could get no relief from the medical faculty, my daughter persuaded me to try your Pain Killer. One bottle convinced me that it would restore the use of my arm as well as relieve the pain, and before I had finished the second I had got the long-sought cure.—ELIZA MARKS, Milksham, Oct. 20, 1868.—To Perry Davis & Son, London, W.C."

A NEW LIFEBOAT.—Lady Bouchier has presented to the National Lifeboat Institution a fine lifeboat, thoroughly equipped in every way, including transporting carriage, to be stationed at Chapel, midway between its Sutton and Skegnes lifeboat establishments on the coast of Lincolnshire. The new boat, which left for its station on Monday last, possesses in perfection the usual characteristics of the society's lifeboats, in respect of stability, self-righting, and self-ejecting of water shipped. Like many of the lifeboats of the institution, this is a memorial boat, as will be seen from the following inscription, which has been engraved on a brass tablet to be permanently attached to the lifeboat: "As a memorial to Captain Sir Thomas Bouchier, K.C.B., an officer of the highest character, and the warm and true friend of sailors, Jane Bouchier, his widow, daughter of Admiral Sir Edward Codrington, has given this lifeboat, in hope that by God's blessing on the efforts of a brave crew it may help them to save many shipwrecked sailors." The Chapel lifeboat station was publicly inaugurated on Friday, the 22nd inst.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Pimples, boils, carbuncles, abscesses are always vexatious complaints, sometimes even attended with danger. These maladies arise from some obstruction to the free circulation of the blood through the blood vessels or capillaries, and the only rational mode of cure consists in removing the local impediment, at the same time that any impurity engendered by the stoppage should be filtered from the blood. Holloway's Ointment applied to the parts effects the former—his Pills accomplish the latter object. The inflamed skin derives softness, coolness, and ease from the application of this unguent, which gradually penetrates to the affected tissues, soon restores the circulation and its channels to a healthy condition, and saves the sufferer from most serious diseases.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CORNWALL.

The annual meeting and festival of the Masonic Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall was held on Tuesday, the 19th July, at Truro. The streets throughout the town were crowded with holiday folks to witness the public proceedings of the festival, and at various points along the principal thoroughfares long lines of flags and banners proclaimed it a general gala day to the townspeople, as well as the mystic brethren. The Masons assembled at ten a.m. in the handsome concert hall of the new Public Rooms, improvised as a lodge room for the meeting. A fine collection of plants from the nursery of Mr. Mitchinson, florist, Truro, flanked the organ right and left in the orchestra, and added much to the beauty of the room, while the walls were gaily draped with the banners and insignia of the Order. A dais was raised beneath the front of the gallery for the accommodation of the principal officers of the province, and the usual lodge furniture was laid out in the room with excellent taste.

R.W. Bro. Augustus Smith, P.G.M., presided, supported by R.W. Bros. Reginald Rogers, P.D.G.M.; Sir F. M. Williams, Bart., M.P., P.S.G.W., and J.G.W. of England; Dr. James Mudge, P.J.G.W.; E. T. Carlyon, P.P.S.G.W.; and the following other officers of the P.G. Lodge: W. Bros. the Rev. J. D. Hawksley, and the Rev. F. B. Paul, G. Chaplains; the Rev. Dr. J. Bannister, P.P.G. Chaplain; W. Tweedy, G. Treas.; W. T. Sobey, G. Register; W. J. Hughan, G. Sec.; W. F. Newman, S.G.D.; I. Levin, J.G.D.; S. Jacobs, G.S.O.W.; R. John, A.G.D.C.; Lieut. G. Eustace, G.S.B.; T. Taylor, G.O.; S. Harvey, G. Purs.; T. N. Curry, F. Harvey, P. Roberts, J. Hall, W. H. Dunstan, W. Tregay, G. Stews.; W. Rooks, S. Trebilcock, G. Tylers. Altogether nearly three hundred of the brethren of the province were present, among whom, in addition to the above officers, were: W. Bros. J. W. Mason, P.P.S.G.W.; C. J. Pearce, P.P.J.G.D.; Captain H. J. Colwill, P.P.J.G.W.; T. Solomon, P.P.S.G.W.; T. Geach, P.P.G.J.W.; J. P. Smith, P.P.S.G.D.; S. Holloway, P.P.G.D.; J. G. Richards, P.P.G.S.; Colonel J. W. were R.W. Bro. the Rev. J. Huyshe, M.A., P.G. Chaplain and P.G.M. of Devon, who was warmly received by the brethren with the honours due to his rank, and I. Latimer, P.P.G. Sec. Devon.

The lodge having been opened in due form, the GRAND TREASURER read his annual report, which, after the payment of the expenses of the year, showed a balance in hand of £94 9s. 11d.

The GRAND SECRETARY reported that during the year 1868-9 there were 825 subscribing members returned for the province, and in 1869-70, 834. In the last year there had been a great many removals of brethren from the province, and this deduction had been met by 89 initiations and 24 members joining lodges in the province. At present there were 172 subscribing P.M.'s in the province. Bro. Hughan also stated that during the past year the province had been very fortunate in its recommendations to the Masonic charities. It had given its votes to the Girls' School in aid of an application from the province of Devon, which had been successful. For the Boys' School there had not been any candidate from either Cornwall or Devon, and the province had contributed its votes to an application from the province of Leicestershire, which had proved successful. For the Widows' Institution there had been an application from Cornwall, which had also proved successful. For the Aged and Decayed Masons' Institution the votes of the province had been given in aid of a brother that applied from Liverpool, who, however, had not been successful this time. Thus, out of four applications supported by the province of Cornwall, three had been successful. A boy that had been entered on the foundation of the Boys' School had just completed his education, and the committee of the school had secured him an excellent situation.

The committee of the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund reported that, with a balance in hand from the previous year of £14 14s. 11d., £5 18s. 6d. interest, and the receipt of £125 13s. 6d. from the lodges that had contributed this year, the committee had been enabled to purchase £150 more stock, so that now their income from funded property amounted to £52 19s. per annum.

R.W. Bro. REGINALD ROGERS regretted that some of the lodges had not contributed anything this year, and hoped they would make up for this omission during the coming year.

The Committee of Petitions for Relief had received but one application, and that was from the widow of a deceased brother.

After a discussion on this application, the lodge voted £5 to the applicant's relief. Twenty pounds were voted to the Masonic Widows' Institution, £20 to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund, £10 to the Girls' School, and £10 to the Boys' School.

The P.G. SECRETARY said he had received a letter from Bro. Binckes, the Secretary of the Boys' School, which stated that there was yet a mortgage of £5,000 upon that institution, but that the committee hoped brethren would aid them to pay that off by next November.

Bros. Reginald Rogers and T. Chirgwin were re-elected Treasurer and Secretary for the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund, and Bros. Mayne and Solomon the Auditors.

On the proposition of Bro. REGINALD ROGERS, P.D.P.G.M., it was made a bye-law of the province that for the future "no person resident in any town or place where a lodge is established shall be balloted for into any lodge held elsewhere within this province, unless the Master of the lodge wherein he so seeks admission shall previously make inquiry, in writing, of the Master of every lodge of the town, or nearest the place where the candidate resides, touching the fitness of such candidate," and "the brother of whom such inquiry is made shall make prompt reply thereto in writing, and it shall be incumbent on the Master to read the reply to the members of the lodge before the ballot is taken."

At this stage of the business the lodge adjourned in procession with regalia and banners, accompanied by two bands, through the principal streets to St. Mary's Church to attend Divine service. The brethren occupied the body of the church, the galleries and aisles being crowded by others. Bro. the Rev. H. B. Bullocke, the rector, read the prayers; Bros. the Rev. J. D. Hawksley, vicar of Par, read the first lesson; the Rev. Dr. Bannister, vicar of St. Day, the second lesson; and Bro. the Rev. F. B. Paul, vicar of St. Blazey, preached from First St. John, iv. chap., 16th verse. A collection was made for the charities.

At the close of the service the brethren reformed into procession and returned to the Public Rooms, where the R.W. Bro. Augustus Smith dedicated in ancient form the Masonic Hall to the purposes of Freemasonry. He then appointed the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year: Reginald Rogers, P.D.G.M.; J. O. Mayne, P.G.S.W.; G. Kerswill, P.G.J.W.; the Revs. F. B. Paul, H. B. Bullocke, P.G. Chaplains; W. Tweedy, P.G. Treas.; P. G. Hill, P.G. Reg.; W. J. Hughan, P.G. Sec.; P. Taylor, P.G.S.D.; J. G. Richards, P.G.J.D.; F. Harvey, P.G.S.O.W.; R. John, P.G.D.C.; W. Mitchell, Assist. do.; A. Williams, P.G.S.B.; J. Hele, P.G.O.; S. Harvey, P.G. Purs.; W. Veale, W. C. Oake, E. D. Anderton, J. Coombe, W. H. Christoe, W. Lake, Stewards; W. Rooks, I.G.; J. Langdon, Tyler. Bros. W. J. Johns and R. Jacob were elected the Auditors, and Bros. E. P. Carlyon, W. Tweedy, and W. H. Jenkins, the Committee of Petitions.

The amount received at the collection at church was announced to amount to £11 13s. 2d. One-fifth of this was directed to be given to the clergyman of the parish for distribution in charity, two-fifths to the county infirmary in the town, and the remaining two-fifths to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund.

This concluding the business, the lodge was closed. Over 250 of the brethren subsequently dined together in the concert hall at the Public Rooms. R.W. Bro. Augustus Smith presided, supported by his officers, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and drank.

There are now twenty-four lodges in the province.—Plymouth Western Morning News.

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF DEVON.

A Provincial Grand Lodge and General Communication of Masons of the Province of Devon was held on Thursday, 21st July, at the Masonic Hall, at Tiverton, for the dedication of the New Hall of St. Peter's, and for the transaction of other important business. There were about 200 Freemasons present, assembled from all parts of the province, and especially from the lodges of the Three Towns, one question, that of the increase of the dues payable to the Provincial Grand Lodge, for charitable purposes, having excited not only a great amount of interest, but also some little opposition. The opposition, however, after the malcontents had let off the steam, ended happily, we are glad to say, by the opponents allowing the proposal to pass unanimously, none of them voting against a resolution which met with such general support.

The following were among the brethren present: The Rev. John Huyshe, P.G.C., Provincial Grand Master; L. P. Metham, P.J.G.D., D.P.G.M.; Wm. Denis Moore, P.P.G. Sec., D.P.G.M.; J. Tanner Davy, 421, S.G.W.; Major Yates, 1138, J.G.W.; Rev. J. Dickenson, 1125; Rev. W. Langley Pope, D.D., 797, G. Chaplains; T. S. Bayley, 189, G. Treas.; Captain T. Levett Prinsep, 797, G. Reg.; W. G. Rogers, 112, G. Sec.; W. H. Geachias, 39, S.G.D.; J. J. Hambly, 70, J.G.D.; James Hawton, 954, G.D.C.; George Warren, 159, Assist. G.D.C.; Josiah Austin, 1099, G. Organist; W. Cotton, 112, G. The lodge was opened in due form, after which the Grand Master proceeded to dedicate the new lodge in the ancient and customary form. This was done with great solemnity by the Grand Master, assisted by the D.P.G. Master, Bro. Metham; Captain Tanner Davy, G.S.W.; Major Yates, G.J.W.; and the Rev. J. Dickenson, G. Ch. The organ was presided over by Bro. H. Norrish, and the musical responses were joined in most heartily by the whole of the brethren. The lodge is most elegantly fitted up, and much expense must have been incurred in its internal decorations. The throne and the adjacent canopies were amongst the most effective for their elegance of style of anything that we have seen in the way of lodge decoration. The walls were adorned with suitable drawings, and several mottoes in different parts of Lodge gave expression to the principles which influence Masonic thought.

After the dedication of the lodge, the Grand Lodge, which had been opened in the first degree, proceeded to the transaction of the ordinary and special business for which it had been convened. The minutes of the two preceding meetings of the Grand Lodge, held in May, 1869, and May, 1870, were read by the P.G. Secretary and confirmed.

Some discussion arose upon a question as to whether fees due from lodges should be paid by the quarter or for the whole year.

The G. MASTER said that unquestionably by the Constitutions the payments should be made by the quarter, but he put it to the lodges whether they would act in so objectionable a manner as to return only a portion of a year's fees for any member. The question having been briefly ventilated, the members of the two objecting lodges said they were satisfied, and the fees of the year should be paid.

The P.G. Treasurer, Bro. T. S. BAYLEY, brought up his report of the state of the finances. This showed a balance brought forward from last year of £115 5s. 7d.; to dues from 39 lodges, £121 12s. 6d.; fees of honour, £38 6s. 6d.; another return, £12 19s.; interest, £3 2s. 6d.; total, £291 6s. 1d. Payments, £110 5s. 2d., leaving a balance of £181 0s. 11d.

On the motion of Bro. DENNIS MOORE, P.D.P.G.M., the accounts were approved and carried; but Bro. GOWER having objected to the accounts being brought up and carried without being audited, the G. MASTER said that auditors could not be appointed without previous notice being given for the passing of such a law.

Bro. LATIMER said he had seen systems of an audit work well elsewhere, and he would give notice of a motion to be brought before the next meeting of the Grand Lodge, for the appointment of two auditors to audit the next year's accounts.

The GRAND MASTER said that he had attended the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Cornwall, at Truro, on Tuesday, with Bro. Latimer, and they saw there that the accounts were audited and signed by the auditors, whose names were printed with the accounts. It was an excellent plan.

Bro. METHAM, D.P.G.M., read the report of the committee of petitions, which congratulated them on the success of their movement, as they had succeeded in carrying their two candidates in the Aged Freemasons' Institution and the Girls' School. The report urged the lodges to decided union, as the voting papers of 16 lodges had not been received; if they had it would have saved them from borrowing 100 votes. It also stated that they had granted £5 to the late Bro. Foot; and recommended the Grand Lodge to give £10 to the crippled daughter of another late brother.

The report was then received, and unanimously agreed to, and the committee requested to continue their services till the next Grand Lodge.

Bro. DENIS MOORE then stated that this province had received great assistance from the Masonic Benevolent Institution, and from the Widows' Fund, and he should therefore move that 20 guineas be voted to each of those institutions.

Bro. CODD, P.M., seconded the motion, and it was carried unanimously.

On the motion of Bro. DENIS MOORE, Bro. John Sharland, the W. Master of the new lodge (No. 1125) at Tiverton, was elected the Grand Treasurer for the year ensuing.

A proposal to elect one of the members of the southern lodges failed, because it was shown that, out of ten Treasurers elected, seven of them had come from the Three Towns.

The P. GRAND MASTER then brought forward the following proposed new bye-law, of which he had given notice at the Grand Lodge at Topsham, on the 31st of May last: "Every lodge in this province shall pay to the funds of the Provincial Grand Lodge, for and on behalf of each member thereof, the sum of sixpence per quarter, or two shillings annually; such payment to commence from the 1st day of January, 1870." In moving this law, the R.W. speaker said he believed the Province of Devon was the only province in England where only one shilling is paid to the Prov. Grand Lodge. In Cornwall, West York, North and East York, and Herefordshire, they each paid two shillings yearly, and in the last province they paid an extra shilling. In East Lancashire, Warwickshire, Leicestershire, Bristol, and Somerset, two shillings was paid, but in Devon only one shilling. He had not returns from all the provinces in England, but far as returns went, Devon stood at the very bottom of the list. This explained to him why so many taunts were thrown at him in London about their province. They stood very well in their payments to the Benevolent Fund, but taking the Masonic Charities in general, they were at the bottom of the list. When at the Grand Lodge at Truro on Tuesday he found that they never paid less than two shillings; and many contemplated contributing shilling more. They say that Masonry is a charitable institution—an institution based on charity. (Cheers.) The R.W. brother, after some further arguments in favour of his motion, read an excellent letter which he had received from Bro. W. J. Hughan, the Grand Secretary of Cornwall, who stated that all the provinces with which he was acquainted paid two shillings a year for charitable purposes to their provincial lodges, and he was surprised to find that Devon should only pay half that sum. The Grand Master concluded by moving the resolution.

Bro. Captain TANNER DAVY seconded the motion.

A discussion ensued, and the proposition was opposed by Bros. Watts and Gover, who stated that the lodges contributed large sums for charitable purposes, besides the subscription to the Grand Lodge. The discussion was continued by other brethren, all of whom spoke in favour of the motion, and the feeling of the lodge was demonstrated in favour of the motion in a very decided manner.

The D.P.G. MASTER (Bro. Metham) then supported the motion in an eloquent and able speech, in which he adduced a number of statistics to prove how necessary it is that Devon should bear a better proportion of the burden which ought to attach to it in respect to the maintenance of the Masonic Institutions. He said: "There is one fact which cannot be contradicted, that our province does not subscribe as it ought to the great Masonic Charities. We have had fourteen annuitants on the funds of the Aged Freemasons' Institution during the last ten years, to whose support the entire province has not contributed a year and a half's pay. To the Boys' School we have, as a province, given nothing, although we have always had boys there. During the last ten years, we had for four years three boys, for three years four boys, and for the remaining three years two boys, costing the Charity in ten years £1,600, to which the lodges and individual members contributed only £450—little more than a quarter. In the Girls' School we have only seven votes, although we have had six girls there during the last ten years, the contributions being less than to the Boys' School. Scarcely more than a third of the lodges subscribe to either charity. There is but one annual subscriber to the Aged Institution recorded in the last report, eight or ten to the Boys' School, and only three or four to the Girls' School. The proposed resolution suggests an easy way of making up this great deficiency. It is but a very trifling sum to pay, and it is necessitated by the ever-increasing list of candidates, which must increase instead of diminishing, owing to the indiscriminate admission made during the last few years by many of our lodges. Men without means have been admitted without question, and, for years to come, they, their widows and orphans, will come to us for relief, and we must admit their claims. I believe, he added in conclusion, you will carry this resolution by an immense majority for the vindication and advancement of Masonic principles. I do believe that we have too much pride to shirk the responsibility on to the shoulders of our neighbours of maintaining our aged and distressed brethren, who are our brothers by a double tie, their widows and their orphans. I believe you will not, like the Pharisee and the Publican, pass by those of our unhappy brethren who, less fortunate than ourselves, have laid them down to die by the roadside of life; that you will not leave it to strangers to bind up their wounds and to pour in oil and wine, but that you will yourselves minister to their comforts and their wants. I believe that in the dark hour of a brother's need you will raise them foot to foot, and heart to heart, to a re-union with the former companions of their toils, and if their hour has come to them, as it must come to all—that still darker hour when they must pass through the gloomy portals of death—I know you will not leave them then; that you will not content yourselves with crying, "Alas! my brother, alas! my brother," but that you will whisper into the dying ear, "Leave thy fatherless children to me, I will protect them alive, and let your widows trust in me." (Cheers.)

The motion was then put to the lodge and carried unanimously, amidst much applause.

Bro. METHAM, D.P.G.M., next moved that twenty guineas be voted for the Boys' School and twenty guineas for the Girls' School.

Bro. JOHN WAY seconded the motion, and it was carried unanimously.

Bro. SAMUEL JONES moved that twenty guineas be voted to the Fortescue Annuity Fund.

This was also agreed to, and some matters relating to the relief of indigent Masons were left to be treated by the committee, who would have authority to deal with them according to their discretion.

The following brethren were appointed Grand Officers of the province for the year ensuing:—Bros. Major Yates, S.G.W.; Capt. Prinsep, J.G.W.; the Rev. Dr. Pope and Rev. Maitland, G. Chaplains; John Sharland, G. Treas.; Wm. Harris, G. Reg.; W. G. Rogers, G. Sec.; Dr. Owen, G.S.D.; C. G. Gibson, G.J.D.; William Easton, G.S. of Works; C. Willshire, G.D.C.; W. Mitchell, G.A.D.C.; F. Codd, G.O.; Capt. Clerke, G.S.B.; John Brown, G. Purst.; William Oram, S. Jones, J. H. Snell, Price, Hiffley, and J. Way, G. Stewards; J. Gregory, G. Tyler; J. Rogers, A.G. Tyler.

It being now two o'clock the brethren formed in order, and went in procession to church. There were thousands of people to witness the ceremony, and the brethren were headed by the band of the 14th Devon Rifle Volunteers. At church the services were read by the Rev. Michael Thorne, and a sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Pope, the Grand Chaplain, founded on the 22nd Rev. 1st to the 15th verses. A collection was made at the close of the sermon, which was handed over to the infirmary.

The brethren then returned to the lodge, which was shortly afterwards duly closed.

The banquet was held in the Athenæum, under the able presidency of the R.W. the Prov. Grand Master, and a very pleasant afternoon was passed by those who were able to stay for the dinner.

There are now thirty-nine lodges actively working in the Province of Devon, and about 2,000 subscribing members.—Western Daily Mercury.

WE have very great pleasure in directing the special attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Rev. Dr. Goodwin's school at Croom's-hill, Blackheath. The excellence of the education imparted by our worthy brother may be estimated by a reference to the division lists of the last eight years at the Oxford Local Examinations. Thus: "In 1861 it passed 13 candidates; in 1862, 12; in 1863, 16; in 1864, 13; in 1865, 13; in 1866, 12; in 1867, 14; in 1868, 12; in 1869, 15. Many of these candidates in each year, it may be seen on reference to the division lists published by the delegates, and obtainable at Messrs. Parkers', booksellers, West Strand; obtained the highest honours awarded; thus, a candidate from this school, sixteen years old, at midsummer, 1867, gained the distinguished position of having been placed fifth in the first class of seniors, thereby entitling himself to one of the five exhibitions of £52 10s. per annum, tenable for four years, as offered by Balliol College, Oxford, for open competition to the first five candidates from all England." The school, we may add, is highly recommended by the parents and guardians of present and former pupils.

AN excellent Italian version of Charles Dickens's "The Cricket on the Hearth" has been written by Signora Grazia Mancini Pierantoni.

MASONIC PRESENTATION TO BRO. W. CRESWICK.

On Friday evening last week the brethren of Urban Lodge, No. 1196, through their Worshipful Master, Bro. W. Sawyer, presented Bro. Creswick with a valedictory address, on vellum, in token of their esteem and regard.

The W.M. in presenting it, said: I have asked you, brethren, to meet for a few minutes this evening, because one of our most attached and beloved brothers—one of the ornaments of the lodge over which I have the honour of presiding, is about, as you know, to leave these shores for the United States. And I have thought, and the other brethren of the lodge agree with me—indeed, I am happy to say that in our lodge we act in unison and accord only—that on this occasion it would be gratifying to us to present him with some mark of our regard and esteem. Bro. Creswick, you know that among the principles which actuate us none is stronger than that which calls on us on all occasions to extend the hand of brotherhood to all who need it. But in the Urban Lodge even a higher feeling prevails, and that is, that the fact of a man being our brother is sufficient for us not only to sympathise with him in his afflictions, but also to extend that sympathy to all that affects his welfare and prosperity. (Hear, hear.) We rejoice with him when he rejoices; mourn with him when he mourns; are interested in all that interests him—in a word, when we extend the right hand of fellowship to him, we do so with all our hearts and souls. (Applause.) You, Bro. Creswick, are about to go from these shores. Let us hope it will be for a short time; that you will succeed in the object which draws you away, and will speedily return to us. It is not the first time you have visited the United States. You are going among old friends, and you will also meet with new faces, which, by the magic of your genius—above all, by the magic of that kindness of heart which is your chief characteristic—you will convert into old friends. (Applause.) I present this address to you as simply and honestly expressive of what is here set down:—

"To WILLIAM CRESWICK, Tragedian, on the eve of his leaving England for the United States, his brethren the members of the Urban Lodge, No. 1196, desire to express their admiration of his genius as an actor, their high respect and esteem for him as a man, and the affectionate regard in which they hold him as a brother. (Signed), William Sawyer, W.M.; Henry Marston, P.M.; J. E. Carpenter, P.M.; Charles Braid, S.W.; J. Redding Ware, J.W.; J. Crawford Wilson, S.D.; J. Callingham, J.D.; James Terry, P.M., Sec.; Henry Johnson, Treas.; E. L. Blanchard, James Henderson, G. Wharton Simpson.

I will only add that whatever fortune may befall you—whether you succeed as your merits deserve, or whether depressing influences may act upon you as they have acted upon other men of genius—you will always, I trust, find comfort in recollecting that you leave behind you a little knot of men devoted to your interests, and who will never hear your name mentioned, or give a thought to you, without having in their hearts the most ardent wishes for your welfare. (Applause.)

Bro. WILLIAM CRESWICK, in returning thanks, said: Worshipful Master and brethren of the Urban Lodge, I am too poor in words to thank you, but my gratitude, though not expressed, is engrafted in the inmost recesses of my heart. I shall esteem this rich gift to its fullest extent, if that be possible. That I, as a new member of the Urban Lodge, should carry away with me a testimonial like this, has made an impression upon me—an impression not to be effaced. (Hear, hear.) The great fact that you will remember me when I am afar off will ever be engraven on my memory—locked in my heart of hearts—and "you yourselves shall keep the key of it." (Applause.) I shall say to myself, "There are men in the Old World who have a regard for me, and an affection and esteem for me above casual acquaintanceship;" and that reflection will give me hope, and strength, and encouragement. (Applause.) I have no words in which to acknowledge these things, and you must give me credit for much more than I can possibly express. I thank you for the great honour you have done me. (Cheers.)

This concluded the proceedings.

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW CONCLAVE AT PONTYPOOL.

On the 22nd inst., the Gwent Conclave, No. 23, was opened at Pontypool, by Major General Sir Knight Gore Munbee, Past Sovereign of the Rose and Lily Conclave, Weston-super-Mare, and Inspector General of Somersetshire.

There were present, Illustrious Sir Knight J. C. Pigott, High Prelate; and from the Rose of Sharon Conclave, Birmingham, the following Knights: Eminent and Perfect Sir Knt. Thomas Partridge, M.D., M.P.S., No. 19; Sir Knts. J. L. Kennedy, V.E.; A. Horrocks, V.E.; W. T. Belcher, V.E.; Henry Sanderson, and W. Moody.

The Conclave having been opened by the Eminent and Perfect Sovereign, Sir Knt. Gore Munbee, the warrant constituting No. 23 was read by the Acting Recorder, Sir Knt. Horrocks, in which Sir Knt. William Williams, jun., was appointed Prince Sovereign, and Sir Knt. W. E. Jones, Viceroy Eusebius. The Gwent Conclave was then declared duly established.

The Installing Sovereign, Sir Knt. Gore Munbee, opened a Grand College of Priest Masons and Viceroy of the Order, and consecrated Illustrious Sir Knt. W. Williams, jun., as a Priest Mason and Eusebius.

A Grand Senate of Prince Masons and Sovereigns of the Order was then opened by the Most Ex. and Per. Sov. Sir Knt. Gore Munbee, who enthroned the Em. Sir Knt. W. Williams, jun., as a Sovereign of the Order, and placed him in the chair of Constantine.

The Ex. and Per. Sov., Sir Knt. William Williams, jun., then installed the following brethren as Knts. of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, viz.:—Bros. T. Waite, J. C. Sladen, W. H. Lloyd, E. D. J. Tapson, C. B. Williams, W. Sandbrook, and J. Green.

Sir Knt. W. Sandbrook was then chosen Treas. of the Conclave, and the Prince Sov. Ill. Sir Knt. W. Williams, jun., then invested the officers with the collars and badges of their respective offices.

After all the business of the Conclave had been completed, the Em. and Per. Sir Knt. Gore Munbee (in the unavoidable absence of Sir Knt. J. C. Pigott, H.P.), recited the historical oration of the Order, and after solemn prayer the Conclave was closed in faith, unity, and zeal.

Sir Knt. W. T. Belcher, Mus. Bac. Oxon., during the ceremony played the beautiful music composed by him for the Rose of Sharon Conclave.

The Sir Knights, fifteen in number, then adjourned to a sumptuous banquet provided by the proprietor of the Clarence Hotel. After the cloth was drawn, the M.P.S., Sir Knt. W. Williams, jun., gave the first toast, "The memory of Constantine and Eusebius," which was drank in solemn silence.

"Her Majesty the Queen, and the Christian Orders in Masonry" followed, and was received with enthusiasm, the National Anthem being sung by Sir Knt. Kennedy, Sir Knt. Belcher playing the accompaniment.

The next toast "The health of Lord Kenlis, the Most Ill. Grand Sovereign, and the rest of the Grand Council," was proposed by the M.P.S., and received most enthusiastically.

"The Grand Senate and the Inspector-General of Division" was also heartily responded to.

Major-General MUNBEE responded in a most eloquent speech, and thanked the Sir Knights for the kind manner in which his health had been proposed and its hearty reception.

The M.P.S. then proposed "The Health of the Newly-Installed Companions-in-Arms," coupling with it the names of the Senior and Junior Generals, High Prelate, and rest of the officers.

Sir Knights TAPSON, LLOYD, and WAITE responded, promising to render every assistance in their power to make the newly-inaugurated conclave efficient and prosperous.

Em. and Per. Sir Knt. THOMAS PARTRIDGE, M.P.S. No. 19, then proposed "The Health of the M.P.S.," and congratulated him on the impressive manner he had performed the ceremony of installing the candidates, and the completeness of the arrangements for the establishment of a conclave, reminding him that its success depended mainly on the perseverance, efficiency, and harmonious working of the officers.

The M.P.S. replied in a vigorous and telling speech.

"The Health of the Visitors" was the next toast proposed by the M.P.S., who thanked them most heartily for their attendance and support that evening.

Ill. Sir Knt. THOMAS PARTRIDGE responded, thanking the Sir Knts. for their kindness and hospitality, cordially wishing the Gwent Conclave every success.

After a most pleasant evening, enlivened by the musical abilities of Sir Knts. Tapson, Waite, Sladen, Kennedy, and Belcher, the Sentinel's toast brought the meeting to a close, and the Sir Knts. separated in perfect harmony.

The fittings, jewels, &c., manufactured by Kennedy & Co., of Birmingham, were highly appreciated, as was also the tunic designed by the above firm and adopted by this and the Rose of Sharon Conclave.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

PROVINCIAL.

SCARBOROUGH.—Old Globe Lodge, No. 200.—This lodge held its regular meeting at the Masonic Hall, Globe-street, on Wednesday, the 20th inst., when the following officers and members were present:—Bros. R. H. Peacock, W.M.; W. F. Rooke, J.P., P.M.; P.P.G.J.W.; J. F. Spurr, P.M.; W. Peacock, I.P.M.; D. Fletcher, S.W.; G. H. Walshaw, J.W.; H. C. Martin, P.M.; P.P.G.D. of Cers., Hon. Sec.; H. Grover, S.D.; H. McKinley, J.D.; W. Milner, I.G.; J. Ash, Tyler; H. W. Garnett, J. Groves, W. Wilson, A. Allen, J. Hervey, G. Symmons, C. Graves, T. J. Denton, M.D., J. E. Jones, and J. A. Chapman. Visitors:—W. Bro. C. E. Lucas, (P.M. 712, Prov. G.S. Lincolnshire, and three or four others. The lodge was opened in the first degree at 8 p.m. The minutes were read and confirmed. Bros. J. E. Jones and J. T. Denton, passed an examination in the first degree and retired, and were re-admitted and passed to the second degree. Bro. Coopland passed an examination in the second degree and retired, and was re-admitted and raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The lodge was now worked down to the first degree and closed with prayer at 9.30 p.m., and the brethren spent a pleasant hour at the refreshment board.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—North York Lodge, No. 602.—At the last monthly meeting of this lodge, Mr. Fidler was duly initiated into Masonry, the ceremony being performed by the W.M., Bro. John Jones, assisted by Bro. Farmer, I.P.M. Bro. Peterson was then examined, and afterwards passed to the second degree, Bro. Thompson, P.M., performing the ceremony. Bros. Lewand and Bell were raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the ceremony being performed by Bro. Mannors, P.M., and the W.M. respectively. It was announced that an invitation had been sent to the P.G. Lodge to hold their meeting at Middlesbrough in 1871.—In the following week a Lodge of Emergency was held, when Bro. Bell, D.P.G.M. North and East Ridings, attended, and delivered an elaborate and interesting address upon "Freemasonry, Past and Present." There was a good attendance of brethren present from the North York Lodge; also visiting brethren from Lodge of Philanthropy and Tees Lodge, Stockton; Marwood Lodge, Sedcar; Restoration Lodge, Darlington; and from lodges in Sunderland and Brecon. The best thanks of the lodge were unanimously given to Bro. Bell for his kindness in giving the address.—The members of the North York Lodge have recently had their annual excursion. This year they visited Ripon and Fountain's Abbey, the property of the M.W.G.M. Earl de Grey and Ripon, when a very pleasant day was spent. We understand that Bro. Bell, who is a most enthusiastic Mason, has recently been visiting the lodges at Burlington, Scarborough, Whitby, Redcar, and Middlesbrough.

DARTMOOR.—Lodge Benevolence, No. 666.—The festival of this lodge took place on Wednesday week, at Princetown, Bro. J. H. Westlake was duly installed as W.M., for the ensuing year. The newly-made W.M. then appointed the following officers:—Bros. G. E. Alexander, S.W.; Gilbert, J.W.; Andrews, S.D.; Evans, J.D.; and Hammett, I.G.; Caunter was elected Treas., Methevell, Sec., and W. Rowe, Tyler. The brethren afterwards adjourned to the Duchy Hotel, where they dined and passed a most agreeable evening.

LIVERPOOL.—Everton Lodge, No. 823.—The members of this flourishing lodge assembled at the Masonic Temple, 22, Hope-street, on Wednesday, 20th inst., at 5 o'clock p.m. Bro. John Jackson presided, assisted by his officers. The newly-elected W.M. was installed in an exceedingly impressive and effective manner by Bro. John Jackson, the retiring W.M., assisted by Bro. Thomas Ashmore, P.M. The following brethren were chosen to fill the different offices during 1870-1: Bros. John Jackson, P.M.; Thomas D. Pierce, S.W.; Joseph Holland, J.W.; W. J. Lunt, P.M., Treas.; William Boltoun, Sec.; William Bird, S.D.; Joseph Sharpe, J.D.; William Cottrell, I.G.; William Wilson and Thomas Shaw, Stewards; John Jackson, P.M., Organist; Henry Ashmore, Choir Master; Thomas Ashmore, P.M., D.C. During the past year this lodge has fully maintained its position amongst other lodges in respect to prosperity and progress, and the Treasurer's yearly account, closing on the 30th ult., showed a considerable balance in favour of the lodge. When the installation proceedings were finished, and the lodge closed in due form, the brethren present banqueted in the lodge room. After doing ample justice to the repast, the W.M. proposed the usual loyal toasts, which were received with great enthusiasm. After the toast of the M.W.G.M. (received with true Masonic cordiality), the immediate P.M. (Bro. Jackson) proposed the health of "The W.M.," and in doing so said he was very glad that the weight of office had been taken from his (Bro. Jackson's) shoulders and placed upon one who was so well able to bear it and do credit to the lodge. (Hear, hear.) He felt proud in being able to say that every office in that lodge during the past year had been filled in a manner which must have been satisfactory to every brother, and he was sure that in the coming year the same efficiency would be shown. After the toast had been drunk with much heartiness and musical honours, the W.M. said it was exceedingly gratifying to him to occupy the office into which he had just been installed, and he asked them to look forward to some hard work during his year with true devotion and attention to Masonry. Whatever time he had devoted to Masonry had been given with pleasure—a pleasure which must be felt by every hard-working Mason, and he hoped the coming year would be productive of good as well as a prosperous one. He would remind the brethren, however, that the prosperity of that or any other lodge did not rest with the Master alone, but with the members generally. They might have a good Master, but if the brethren were indifferent, he could not make it prosperous. (Hear, hear.) He hoped better things of the Everton Lodge, however, and was sure that good sense and diligence would prevail, so that the present year might be made one of happiness and prosperity. (Hear, hear, and applause.) The next toast was "The Health of Bro. Jackson, P.M.," and in proposing it, the W.M. alluded in terms of high praise to the manner in which he had performed the duties of that chair during his term of office. He had one rare qualification, and that was he made no enemies—an example which was worthy of being followed by every one. In these circumstances, he (the W.M.) had more than ordinary pleasure in presenting him, in the name of the lodge, with a P.M.'s jewel, as a mark of their esteem. He (the W.M.) trusted Bro. Jackson would have many pleasant recollections of the year he had passed in the lodge chair. (Cheers.)—In acknowledging the toast and testimonial, the P.M. alluded to the efficient help he had received from all his officers, the pleasure and harmony which had prevailed; and counselled the brethren so to act in the future, as to show the world that there was something in Masonry to which they were strangers. With respect to the jewel which had been presented, he assured the brethren that he would wear it as one of the brightest ornaments that could be on his breast. (Applause.)—"The Visiting Brethren," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by the W.M. and P.M. of No. 1013.—The P.M. then proposed "The Health of the Treasurer, Bro. W. J. Lunt, P.M.," and referred in flattering terms to his efficiency in that office to which he had been elected the second time.—Bro. Lunt said he was very happy to be present on that occasion as the oldest member of the lodge, to which he felt an honour to belong. He also referred to the position of the lodge, and said he would like to see it, not only contributing largely to the West Lancashire Masonic Institution, but also to London Charities. (Hear, hear.) The toast of "The Officers of the Everton Lodge," (given by the W.M.) was responded to by all the brethren in the list. "The Brethren of Everton Lodge" (responded to by Bro. Wyld) and "All Distressed Masons" were the remaining toasts.—As a pleasant sequel to these interesting proceedings the brethren of Everton Lodge, with their wives, sweethearts, and daughters, started early the following morning on a picnic excursion to Gresford. The sky looked threatening at the start, but on reaching the scene of the day's festivities, shortly after eleven o'clock, doubts were agreeably dispelled. Charming weather, admirable arrangements, picturesque scenery, and a social company, made the "out" one of the most pleasant which has yet been given in connection with the lodge. The tent was pitched on the hill immediately behind the station, and from its summit one of the most pleasing and thoroughly pastoral landscapes—made up of hill, vale, and luxuriant foliage—could be seen, which the "outers" apparently never wearied in admiring. A visit to the fine old church of Gresford was an appropriate opening to the day's proceedings. This building, erected in the fourteenth century, has an interior of rare beauty, and its carvings, mural monuments, and busts would form a pleasant day's study to even the most matured antiquarian. After singing, with fine effect, the glorious strains of the "Old Hundredth," the company—which now numbered about 120—returned to the tent on the hill-top and sat down to dinner, which was both liberal and substantial. The gentlemen who acted as stewards deserve especial credit for their attention and diligence, and every one on the ground expressed satisfaction with the admirable arrangements. During the afternoon the company chose their several modes of enjoyments, a number finding it in dancing, others in games, some in pleasant strolls through the woods, and the remainder by quietly sitting on the grass and witnessing the proceedings. After a substantial tea, a number of the village children were regaled with "good things." Perhaps the most interesting feature of this part of the proceedings, however, was to see four old female villagers—all above eighty years of age—armed jauntily to the tea table by as many gentlemen, amidst the enthusiastic cheers of the onlookers. The old ladies seemed thoroughly to enjoy the honour, and three of them afterwards astonished the "foreigners" by "tripping it" on the grass with marvellous agility. Strolls, dancing, and games served to make the time pass pleasantly until the hour of departure, when three cheers were given for the ladies. After an enjoyable journey, the company arrived in Liverpool shortly after ten o'clock. Music formed not the least pleasant item in a pleasant day's programme, and the unprecedented number of times the National Anthem was sung showed that Masons are the most loyal of her Majesty's loyal subjects. Very much credit is due to all connected with the arrangements for the picnic, and their best reward must be in the universally expressed opinion, that a more happy day's "out" had not been previously enjoyed.

SCARBOROUGH.—Denison Lodge, No. 1248.—This lodge held its regular meeting on Thursday, the 12th inst., at the Grand Hotel, when the following officers and members were present:—Bro. S. H. Armitage, W.M.; J. Groves, S.W.; J. Donner, J.W.; A. Fricour, S.D.; H. W. Garnett, J.D.; J. E. Green, Hon. Sec.; J. Kitchin, Treas.; J. S. Cook, I.G.; J. Verity, Tyler; and a goodly number of members. Visitors:—W. Bro. C. E. Lucas, P.M. 712, Prov. G.S. Lincolnshire, and three or four others. The lodge was opened in the first degree at 8 p.m. The minutes were read and confirmed. J. H. Sharpin, Esq., J.P., was balloted for, and unanimously elected, and being present he was admitted, and initiated by the W.M. in a very impressive manner. A committee was chosen to make arrangements for the annual Masonic ball in aid of the charities, which will take place in the hotel about the end or latter part of August. One gentleman was proposed for initiation at the next meeting. The lodge was then closed with prayer, and the brethren spent a very pleasant evening at the refreshment board.

INSTRUCTION.

Charterhouse Club of Instruction.—This flourishing club met as usual on Friday, the 22nd inst., at the Hat and Feathers Tavern, Goswell-road, when Bro. Terry, P.M. (of several lodges) and P.G.S.B. Herts, in his effective and impressive manner, worked the ceremonies of consecration and installation, the solemnity of which was much enhanced by the very efficient style in the W. Bro. Bilby, P.M., and Organist of the Lodge of Finsbury presided at the harmonium. Votes of thanks to Bros. Terry and Bilby were proposed, seconded, and carried nem. con. Amongst those present we noticed:—Bros. Purdy (P.M. 861), Mather (P.M. 65), Nicholls (W.M. 861), Forbes (S.W. 65), Hames (J.D. 917), Franks (S.W. 212), Hart (S.W. 861), Dr. Harle (65), Woodcock (374), Leins (65), Webb (382), Edwards (65), Williams (106), Gent (65), and Simpson, the highly respected host. The numerous brethren present appeared thoroughly to appreciate the proceedings in which instruction, harmony, and goodwill, were so happily blended on this most interesting and instructive occasion. We confidently recommend this club to the notice of all aspirants to the honours of office.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am sorry to inform you that the Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire has requested members of the Fraternity not to report the proceedings of Masonic meetings in any Masonic paper, some member of the Craft in a village in Warwickshire having complained of it. I do not wish to act so unreasonably as to charge any brother with jealousy, and not having any business of his own to report, does not like to see others do so; but it certainly looks very much as if that was the feeling he is actuated by to those who devote some time to Masonic work. It is very interesting to see the reports of meetings in different provinces, and learn what their brethren in Masonry may be doing. If the objecting brother has but a limited Masonic connection, surely he will not object to those who have a large one informing each other of their proceedings through the medium of your paper. I quite agree with him that Masonic reports should not be inserted in local papers, but I cannot see what objection there is to their appearing in a Masonic journal.

Yours fraternally,
CYGNUS.

A late number of the Western Morning News contains the following opportune remarks:—

The Masonic Provincial Grand Lodges of Cornwall and Devon are holding their annual festivals this week. The interest and importance of these Masonic gatherings are indicated by the number of gentlemen attending them who are accustomed to set a high value on their time and services, and by the number of towns represented. So far as the uninitiated are permitted to be informed of the doings of these organizations, their chief work seems to be in connection with benevolent and brotherly ministrations. An infallible Pope will surely remove the ban now attaching to so charitable an institution.

Answers to Correspondents.

OBSERVER.—We cannot afford the space for the long correspondence relative to the misunderstanding between the Grand Lodge of Scotland and the St. John Operative Lodge of Glasgow. Besides which, it cannot possibly interest the majority of our readers.

WE are requested to state that two errors occurred in our report of the Summer Fête of the Boys' School. In the first place, Bro. Albert Brown, P. Prov. G.W. of Leicester and Rutlandshire, was erroneously described as Deputy Prov. Grand Master; and the second error assigned to the Rev. D. Cox the credit of bestowing the annual "Canonbury Medal," a prize which is the gift of that very active Mason, Bro. Edward Cox, P.M. of the Canonbury Lodge.

D. STOLZ.—We fear your letter touches rather too closely the confines of "prohibited matter," and you will readily agree with us that our care must be to prevent the insertion of information which might convey too much knowledge to the prying minds of cowans.

W A R.

A SAD and bitter commentary on our boasted march of intellect, a keen and comprehensive satire upon the vaunted influence of modern civilisation is now being enacted amid the pleasant places of the Rhine. Legion after legion of armed men, the flower of the French and German nations—a mighty host on either side—await but the signal to devastate and to destroy. From the peaceful pursuits of commerce, from the centres of trade, from the busy hives of industry, a million men have been hastily summoned to shed the blood of their fellow-men, and to exchange their former rivalry in the arts that serve mankind, for the dreadful contentions, and sanguinary struggles of war.

The resources of science and the most potent efforts of genius are again being employed in the ignoble effort to produce ruin, destruction, and death. Like an angel of darkness, desolation sits brooding over the fair fields and smiling vineyards of central Europe, for the husbandman has buckled on his armour, and the fruits of the earth are doomed to perish and decay.

Now we are far from denying that eventualities may arise in which it becomes the sacred duty of every citizen to repel attacks upon the dignity or independence of his country. We know how firmly the love of our homes and altars is implanted in the breasts of Englishmen. We appreciate to its fullest extent those noble sentiments of patriotism which have made England what it is our pride to call her, "the inviolate island of the sage and free." And we are equally convinced that should the unhappy occasion arise—should our soil be threatened, or our feebleness appeal to us for succour—the patriot flame would burn as brightly as of yore, to the confusion and dismay of the rash aggressor. We cannot, and moreover it would be manifestly out of place in these columns to pronounce an opinion upon the merits of the present war in Europe. We are not partisans of either one side or the other, but it is, nevertheless, our solemn duty to protest, in the name of humanity, against the encouragement of that exterminating war-spirit which gloats over carnage and revels in deeds of blood. If war must be, let its miseries be alleviated as much as possible, and its horrors circumscribed within the circle of the combatants. The work of sacking villages and burning cities is too monstrous for ought but a troop of demons to undertake. It is, surely, sad enough for men of the sword to kill and be killed, without inflicting such terrible evils upon the weak and helpless of the population. The records of war are, however, unhappily fertile in instances of wanton outrages upon defenceless women, and innocent children. Let us hope that the present contest between Prussia and France will not be conducted in so senseless and savage a spirit. Let us hope that the humanitarianism of which we have heard so much in these latter days, will bear abundant fruit, even in the field of battle, and that malignant passions, and inhuman instincts will not be allowed to stifle the pleadings of mercy. It is true that glory blinds the eyes and dazzles the senses of the soldier, but the heart of a man is still there, and will assert itself even amidst the roar of cannon, and the shout of victory, and it may be confidently advanced that there is no grander page in the history of Freemasonry, no brighter ray of comfort in the troublous drama of warfare, than the relation of those deeds of kindness to the wounded and the captive, which have ever been cheerfully rendered by the brethren of the ancient Craft.

In many a fiercely-contested combat a simple sign has often turned aside the death-dealing sword and has converted the foeman into the friend. Whether amongst the American Indians, as in the case of Brant, or in the old Napoleonic wars, or, to come down to our own times, during the recent American conflict, in each and all we find that Masonry has been the means of preserving life and of mitigating by its presence the ghastly realities of martial strife. A word rapidly uttered, or a signal hastily exhibited, can effect this great result; and if the true principles of the Brotherhood were more widely diffused, might we not hope that the necessity for using these saving signs at all would be for ever averted?

Our brethren in France have already energetically protested against the present war, and we earnestly echo their denunciation of the military madness which has taken possession of Europe. A Fraternity which preaches peace and good-will to all mankind cannot but view with regret and detestation such a wilful waste of blood and treasure. An Association which seeks to enfold within its circle the good, the wise, and the true of all nations cannot but contemplate with horror and dismay the wreck of all social and international ideas, and the rending asunder of those ties which bind the civilised man to his fellow.

A carnival of death on the one hand, and the phantasmagoria of Papal superstition on the other, such are the bewildering elements of European enlightenment at the present moment, after all the efforts of statesmen and scholars, aided by the teachings of religion, to elevate our race to a perception of higher and nobler objects.

But we must not despair, although the horizon is fearfully overcast and the clouds and darkness of fatal delusions and wicked strife are gathering around us. The Masonic Order can still silently, but actively, pursue its sublime mission by promoting the spread of education and inculcating the blessings of peace and progress. Let us persevere in this path, and may our brethren who are now in the ranks of the belligerent Powers ever remember that, though kings and princes quarrel and nations are involved in war, the obligations which we have entered into with each other as Freemasons must not on that account be disregarded or despised. Rather let the superior virtue of our vows be seen in a firm and steadfast recognition of the duties we owe to the household of the faithful; let no brother have to plead in vain for tenderness or compassion, whether he confront us in the field or in the more peaceful engagements of ordinary life.

Freemasonry knows no political boundaries, entertains no theories of dynastic sway, cherishes no dreams of territorial aggrandisement. Her march is not over the bodies of men, her triumphs are not heralded by the groans of the dying; yet, even in the battlefield her emblems have often proved, like the serpent in the wilderness, symbols of life to the vanquished and the despairing. These are our moral victories, and to these every Freemason can point with pride, but we none the less fervently reiterate the hope that the day will soon dawn when the sword shall be turned into the reaping-hook, and when those vast machines which are now used for destruction may exert their ponderous strength in the blessed cause of unity, peace, and concord throughout the nations of the earth.

FREEMASONRY, AND THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

I have been much pleased with the history, so far, by "The Son of Salathiel," and hope that after he has finished Freemasonry in England to the "Schism," he will favour us with as good a sketch of the "Ancients," as I fancy their character is not generally known, neither have their crooked ways seen the light.

W. J. HUGHAN.

LOOSE SYSTEM OF CONDUCTING FREEMASONRY IN SCOTLAND.

A circular has been issued by a brother residing in Glasgow, to members of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, in which he says:—"It is a fact beyond dispute that Masons hailing from the Scottish Constitution are, by members of the Craft in the sister countries, viewed with suspicion and distrust; and, as I believe, this arises chiefly from the loose system of admitting candidates to our Order." What a confession! The truth however is sometimes spoken even by those who perhaps are most careless in whom they would admit. Parties in bringing forward, or in seconding motions, should first question themselves if by the whole of their Masonic lives they have done everything which they now wish their brethren to adopt. But apart from this, if the Craft in Scotland would adopt the system as in England, Freemasonry would improve in Scotland.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

"THE ST. CLAIR CHARTERS," AND "BROS. D. MURRAY LYON" AND "C. I. PATON" (p. 331.)

I have read with some surprise Bro. D. Murray Lyon's remarks at page 331 of THE FREEMASON, on the celebrated St. Clair Charters, defending Bro. W. P. Buchan against the charge of inaccuracy in his statement as to the dates of these charters, in confidently assigning the year 1600 as the date of the one, and 1628 as the date of the other. He tells us that he has examined the originals of these charters, and that both are without date, and adds that "though the copy of the second charter, which is preserved in the Advocates' Library, is dated 1630, there is good ground for believing that the deed was executed two years prior to that date." I frankly admit that I was not aware that the originals of these charters were known to be still in existence, and I would feel greatly obliged to Bro. D. M. Lyon or any one else for information where they are to be found, as I would be glad to take the first possible opportunity of examining them. The copies made by the industrious Father Augustine May, and now to be found in one of the volumes of MSS. in the Advocates' Library, alone seem to have been known to the historians of Freemasonry and other writers on the subject to the present time.

I very much desire to compare the originals of the charters with the charters as published from the May MSS. in the histories of Freemasonry. If Father Augustine May has taken the extraordinary and unwarrantable liberty of inserting a date in his transcript of the second charter which is not in the original, what other liberties may he not have taken? There may be interesting discoveries to be made in these valuable old documents. I again ask, therefore, where they are.

It occurs to me, also, to ask if any reason can be suggested for what in itself I must say I deem a most unlikely thing—Father May's falsification of his transcript by the insertion of a date? The transcript was made before the year 1700, or at all events not later than that year, for the volume which contains it bears that date, and I have never heard that a doubt has been expressed as to the real date of the volume, although it has been examined by many a learned antiquary. It cannot have been from any desire to advance the interests of Freemasonry that this date was interpolated; at least I cannot see how this can be supposed on any of the theories concerning the origin of Freemasonry. It is easy to see, however, that those who advocate the 1717 theory, can derive no advantage from any conclusion that may be reached as to anything done by Father Augustine May on or before 1700.

As to the date of the first of the St. Clair Charters, it has been only conjecturally assigned to a period shortly after the accession of James VI. of Scotland to the English throne; and if Bro. D. Murray Lyon is right in his statement that the William Shaw, Master of Wark, who is named in it died in 1602, then it must of course be referred to a somewhat earlier date—probably, as he says, to 1600-1. But Bro. D. Murray Lyon fails to observe that the charge of inaccuracy made against Bro. W. P. Buchan was for assigning a date to a charter which bears no date, and the date of which even Bro. D. Murray Lyon does not now venture to state with similar confidence.

I repeat again: Where are the original charters? and wait for an answer through the columns of THE FREEMASON for a reply.

I am busily engaged, and in a very short time hope to give proofs showing how absurd it is for any one to suppose that our Freemasonry was invented in 1717, but cannot refrain from taking notice of a quotation from the National Freemason, (now extinct,) which I have observed, saying: "How was it that in 1429 lodges were holden under the patronage of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the names of W.M.'s, Wardens, Fellow Crafts, and E.A.'s given? The actual minutes of the lodges may be seen by consulting the MS. register of the Prior of Canterbury for 1429." I did not intend saying anything until I had sent my articles to THE FREEMASON, on "The 1717 theory exploded." But did not like to lose an opportunity.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

THE 1717 THEORY AND ITS CHAMPION.

Bro. Chalmers I. Paton, at page 343, is at his old work again, viz., making mistakes. He finds fault with me for designating Bro. Buchan the "champion" of the 1717 theory, because he (Bro. Buchan) has not, as Bro. Paton tells us, yet got the victory. Now, that notion of a man requiring to be a conqueror before he can become a champion is simply absurd. My dictionary says, "Champion, a single combatant;" that is, a man who is fighting, or who is prepared to fight—ergo, Bro. Buchan is a champion, and when he "has gained the victory," then he will be more, viz., a victor, or conqueror.

Bro. Paton also mentions the word "proof." Now, although he takes up the affirmative, and should, therefore, be prepared to lead proof, as yet he has proved himself quite unable to do so. I refrain from saying more at present, not wish to interfere between Bros. Buchan and Paton in their present discussion.

LEO.

THE HENRY VI. MANUSCRIPT, p. 343.

At page 343, Bro. W. G. Doric alludes to this pretended Royal MS. as being "discovered in the Bodleian library." Will Bro. Doric say when it was "discovered," and who found it? Mr. J. O. Halliwell, F.R.S., made a long search in the Bodleian library for the original of this pretended MS, but could not find it! and he considers the pretension a forgery.

MASONIC POETRY.

I am glad to perceive, by the pages of THE FREEMASON, that Masonic poetry is improving. I bought a "History of Freemasonry" lately, and the poetry in it was a collection of the merest trash, a "thread of blue" occasionally appearing here and there. We look with hope for better things in the future.

LEO.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF A NEW CHURCH AT DRUMBO, ONTARIO, CANADA.

On the 24th ult., being St. John's Day, this imposing ceremony took place. The brethren of the mystic tie began to arrive from all directions, by rail and in carriages, about 11 a.m. They at once proceeded to their lodge in Drumbo, where the officers-elect for the ensuing year were solemnly and duly installed.

After which they marched in double column to the site. There was quite a large number, and they presented a very fine appearance, being nearly all dressed in black, and white gloves, with their variegated and unique regalia. First came the Tylers, with drawn swords; then Entered Apprentices, Fellow-Crafts, Master Masons, Masters of lodges, Past Masters, Royal Arch Masons, Sir Knights Templars and Knights of Malta, and Rose Croix Knights, the Grand Officers bringing up the rear.

On arriving at the sight the brethren opened file, crossed swords, and allowed the Grand Master and officers to pass through. They were then joined by the clergy, robed in surplices, hoods, and stoles, and the choir singing as they formed a large circle round the site the processional hymn, "Brightly Gleams our Banner." Sentences of Scripture were then read by Rev. H. Cooper, Eastwood; also Psalms 48 and 122.

Glorias, and chant by the choir.

First and second lessons (Mal. iii., and Rev. xxi., 9 to the end), were then read by Rev. J. Padfield, of Burford.

Rev. Adam Townley, D.D., Paris, then read prayers, which ended the ecclesiastical part of the ceremony.

The ACTING GRAND MASTER (W. Mercer Wilson, Esq., Judge of the County of Norfolk) said: Men, women, and children, by special request, and under lawful authority, we appear before you to-day as members of an Order whose lodges are scattered over the whole world, to assist in the interesting solemnity of laying, with our time-honoured ceremonial and according to ancient custom, the corner stone of your proposed church. The corner stone, as the foundation on which the entire building is supposed to rest, is, of course, the most important stone in the whole edifice. It is, at least, so considered by Operative Masons. It is laid with impressive ceremonies, and the assistance of Speculative Masons is generally invited to give dignity to the occasion; and the event is viewed by the workmen as important in the construction of the edifice. In the rich imagery of Orientalism the corner stone is frequently referred to as the appropriate symbol of a chief or prince who is the defence and bulwark of his people, and more particularly in Scripture, as denoting that promised Messiah who was to be the sure prop and support of all who should put their trust in His divine mission. As, for instance, in the Psalms: "The stone which the builders refused is become the head stone of the corner," and in Isaiah, "Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation—a stone—a tried stone—a precious corner stone—a sure foundation." To the various properties that are necessary to constitute a true corner stone, its firmness and durability, its perfect form, and its peculiar position as the connecting link between the walls, we must attribute the important character that it has assumed in the language of symbolism. Freemasonry—which alone of all existing institutions has preserved this ancient and universal language—could not, as it may well be supposed, have neglected to adopt the corner stone among its most cherished and impressive symbols, and, hence, it has referred to many of its most significant lessons of morality and truth. While the ceremonies connected with laying the corner stone of a public edifice are always regarded with interest by the public generally, they are regarded with peculiar and intelligent veneration by the Freemason, for he must ever remember the time when he himself represented a spiritual corner stone. The corner stone, when proved by the implements of Operative Masonry, is then consecrated by the pouring on of corn, wine, and oil, and these elements have a beautiful significance in our symbolism, for by them we are reminded that the cultivation of virtue, the practice of duty, the resistance of temptation, the submission of suffering, the devotion to truth, the maintenance of integrity, and all those other graces by which we strive to fit our bodies as living stones, for the spiritual building of eternal life must, to labour successful, be consecrated by a holy obedience to God's will and a firm reliance upon God's providence, which alone constitute the chief corner stone and sure foundation on which any man can build with the reasonable hope of a prosperous issue to his work. It has often been my pleasing duty to act upon occasions of this kind, and it has ever afforded me peculiar pleasure to assist in the erection of a temple which is hereafter to be dedicated to the public worship of Almighty God. The pire, with its tapering finger pointing impressively and constantly heavenward, should ever remind us that our life here is but one of probation and trial, through which, if we pass successfully, we shall eventually reach the Grand Lodge above, where care and sorrow are unknown, and where the G. A. O. T. U. for ever presides and for ever reigns—

These temples of His Grace,
How beautiful they stand;
The glory of each rising place,
The bulwark of our land.

Long may our country be distinguished by the number of her churches, her institutions of learning, and by the virtues and loyalty of her inhabitants. May brotherly love prevail, and every moral and social virtue cement us. So mote it be.

Rev. Henry Bartlett, Acting Grand Chaplain, then offered up the following prayer: "Great Architect of the Universe, Maker and Ruler of all the Worlds, deign from Thy celestial temple, from realms of light and glory, to help us in all the purposes of our present assembly. We humbly pray Thee to give us at this, and at all times, wisdom in all our doings, strength of mind in all our difficulties, and the beauty of harmony in all our communications. Permit us, O Thou Author of Life and Light! Great Source of Love and Happiness! to erect this building so that hereafter it may be useful and blessed for the all-important purposes for which it is intended, and the promotion of Thy glory."

The brethren responded.

The Rev. H. Bartlett then read a document bearing an appropriate inscription, neatly engrossed.

This document, with photographs of the Bishop of Huron, the Incumbent, and Wardens, a copy of the proceedings of the Grand Lodge for 1869, a copy of the Church Herald of Toronto, coins of the Dominion of Canada, and various old coins of the British Empire, were put into a zinc case and deposited in the cavity of the stone.

The Rev. Henry Bartlett then presented to the M.W.P.G.M. a handsome silver trowel, with a polished boxwood handle, having the following inscription: "Presented to W. Mercer Wilson, Esq., Judge of the County of Norfolk, Most Worshipful Past Grand Master of A. F. and A. Masons of Canada, by the Rev. H. Bartlett, his Churchwardens and Parishioners, on the occasion of laying the foundation stone of St. Peter's Church, Drumbo, A.D. 1870."

On receiving which the P.G.M. said: Accept my thanks for this very handsome trowel, which you have so kindly presented to me. It is one of the most useful and highly prized implements of our Craft. I shall preserve your gift as a memento of the interesting and happy proceedings of this day.

After which, the P.G.M. spread the cement, and the upper stone was lowered, with three regular stops, during which the choir sang the following hymn:

OUR FATHER'S CHURCH.

My Church! my Church! my dear old Church! my Father's and my own!

On prophets and apostles built, and Christ her "corner stone";

All else beside, by storm or tide, may yet be overthrown, But not my Church, my dear old Church, my Father's and my own.

My Church! my Church! my dear old Church! my glory and my pride!

Firm in the faith Immanuel taught—she holds no faith beside—

"Upon the rock," 'gainst every shock, though "gates of hell" assail,

She stands secure, with promise sure, "they never shall prevail."

My Church! my Church! my dear old Church! I love her ancient name,

And God forbid a child of hers should ever do her shame! Her mother care I'll ever share—her child am I alone,

Till He who gave me to her arms shall call me to His own.

My Church! my Church! my dear old Church! I've heard the tale of blood,

Of hearts that loved her to the death, the great, the wise, the good;

Our martyred sires defied the fires for Christ the Crucified;

The "once delivered" faith to keep they burned, they bled, they died.

My Church! my Church! I love my Church, for she exalts my Lord,

She speaks, she teaches not, but, from His Written Word;

And if her voice bids me rejoice, from all my sins released,

Tis through atoning sacrifice, and Jesus is the Priest.

My Church! my Church! I love my Church, for she doth lead me on

To Zion's "Palace beautiful," where Christ my Lord hath gone;

From all below she bids me go to Him, "The Life," "The Way,"

"The Truth," to guide my erring feet from darkness into day.

Then here, my Church, my dear old Church! thy child would add a vow

To that whose token once was signed upon my infant brow: Assault who may, kiss and betray, dishonour or disown, My Church shall yet be dear to me, my Father's and my own!

After the Grand Officers had applied the usual implements of their Craft to the stone, the GRAND MASTER said: Brethren, having full confidence in your skill in our royal art, it remains with me now to finish our work. (He here gave three knocks with the gavel, and added:) Well made, well proved, truly laid, true and trusty. And may this undertaking be conducted and completed by the Craftsmen according to the grand plan, in peace, harmony, and brotherly love.

After which, Rev. HENRY BARTLETT said: M.W. Sir, Grand Officers, and brethren, I thank you most heartily for your presence to-day. I also thank my brethren the clergy and the choir of St. Paul's, Princeton, who have rendered such charming and efficient service on this occasion. I have to thank you, W. Sir and Sir J. A. McDonald, Premier, for letters of introduction to Earl de Grey and Ripon and the Grand Secretary of England. While in England I received very great kindness. The gentlemen who endorsed my circular, viz., John Moxon Clabon, Esq., well known in the Grand Lodge of England; E. B. Watts, Esq., and the bankers, were Freemasons. Moreover, from the first subscription given by my dear father (now deceased)—a most zealous and exalted Mason—two-thirds of the whole amount has been subscribed by Freemasons. I also here, on behalf of my wardens and parishioners—though they cannot hear my voice, yet I hope they will hear of it—most heartily thank those gentlemen in England whom I have mentioned, and especially the rector, Rev. Hugh Allen, D.D., the wardens, Messrs. H. B. Sandall, P. J. Hilton, J. I. Brunt, J. Cumner, J. Rockley, and H. Palmer; and the following ladies of St. George-the-Martyr, Southwark, viz., Misses Cumner, Simpson, Wilson, Cross, and Mrs. Henry Palmer. Their kindness will ever be remembered by me, and also the events of this happy day. But, W. Sir, I have yet 500 dollars to raise, necessary to the completion of this church. Therefore I shall ask once more to be allowed to put your kind Masonic charity to the test, viz., my wardens will pass round with the plates while the choir sing that beautiful hymn by Faber, "Pilgrims of the Night."

The collection was then taken up, and, if we may judge by the number of bills, we think it must have been good.

Three cheers were lustily given for the Queen, and three for the G.M. and G. Sec. The Masons then reformed, marched back to the lodge, and afterwards were treated to a substantial luncheon at Bro. Capron's Hotel, which had been prepared by the Blenheim Lodge for their visiting brethren. Thus ended one of the most auspicious and interesting events ever witnessed in Blenheim, upon the success of which we cordially congratulate the brethren of the Blenheim Lodge, the wardens and congregation of Drumbo, and our esteemed friend the Rev. H. Bartlett, to whose zeal and energy its success is largely attributed.—Weekly Review, Princeton, Ontario.

THE BELGIAN CLERGY DEMONSTRATION.

At the moment of going to press we were favored by a highly-esteemed correspondent with a communication in which the following sentence occurs:—"I have to inform you that the Archbishop of Malines has thought it prudent to put off the grand demonstration that was to have taken place on the 17th inst., the jubilee of the horrid massacre of the Jews five hundred years ago. It was wise of him, or the consequences would have been very serious. The matter was taken up by the Freemasons. Bills were posted throughout the town, and publications sent to all the inhabitants; and I have little doubt there would have been a revolution, as the fixed determination was a decided break-head affair. They were refused soldier's to escort them. I hear that the orders came from Rome."—Jewish Chronicle.

THE usual Quarterly Convocation of Grand Chapter will be held at Freemasons' Hall on Wednesday evening next, at seven o'clock. The only business appears to be that of considering the report of the committee recommending the granting of several new chapters.

WE beg to call the attention of all Mark Masons to the advertisement in our columns calling a "Convocation of Emergency to receive the report from the Committee on the Royal Ark Mariners' Degree, and the communication from the Grand Master on the subject of a treaty with the Order of Knights of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and with the Supreme Grand Council, 33," at Freemasons' Tavern, on Tuesday next, at 8 p.m.

CONSECRATION of a MARK MASTERS' LODGE at LEEDS.

The opening of the Copley Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 111, English Constitution, was celebrated on Wednesday, July 20th, at the Alfred Masonic Rooms, Albion-street, Leeds. Being the first lodge of the kind opened in Leeds, the event was looked forward to with great interest by the Craft, several of whom were advanced to the high degree of Mark Master.

The ceremony was most ably and impressively performed by the officers of the Prince Edward Lodge, Eastwood, including Brs. Pilling, as W.M.; John Copley, Todmorden, as P.M.; W. Roberts, Rochdale, as S.W.; Captain Wordsworth, Morley, as J.W.; Barnes, S.D.; and Hartley, Barker, and Schofield, Overseers.

After the advancement of the brethren, Br. R. V. Allison, P.M. of the Excelsior, was unanimously elected and installed as W.M. for the current year, and Bros. Schofield (P.M. Alfred) and Denison (S.W. Alfred) were appointed Treasurer and Secretary. The other officers being invested, the lodge was closed in peace and harmony, and the brethren sat down to a banquet, presided over by the W.M., when the loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. The Prov. Grand Organist of West Yorkshire officiated at the piano.—Yorkshire Post.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

A circular, of which the following is a copy, has been issued to members of the Grand Lodge of Scotland:—

"153, Queen-street, Glasgow, July 13, 1870.

"Dear Sir and Brother,—It is a fact beyond dispute that Masons hailing from the Scottish Constitution are, by members of the Craft in the sister countries, viewed with suspicion and distrust; and as I believe this arises chiefly from the loose system of admitting candidates to our Order, and the conferring of the various degrees on same, I have tabled in Grand Lodge the motions annexed, which come up for discussion at the Quarterly Communication in August, when I beg most respectfully to solicit your support. I may here state that I am perfectly open, and shall be very glad to receive any suggestions which you may think will further the object in view. I may also add that it is my intention, when it comes up for discussion, to propose a considerable modification in Motion No. 2, in the matter of the disposition of the funds payable for dispensations. It is not only necessary that you should be with me by your presence in Edinburgh to record your vote. In conclusion, let me say that although by many my proposals may be looked upon as of a sweeping nature, I cannot see my way to make them less stringent in order to attain the object in view, and in which I believe I shall have the support of all true Masons.

"I am, dear Sir and Brother,

"Truly and fraternally yours,

"WILLIAM JOHN HAMILTON.

"No. 1. Moved by Wm. John Hamilton, R.W.M. 354; seconded by James Wallace, P.M. 440. In view of the general evasive manner in which Grand Lodge recommendation, as set forth in chapter 21st, clause 4th, of Grand Lodge Laws is abided by:—

"It is hereby resolved that all daughter lodges, wherever situated, be specially instructed that at their next respective annual elections they appoint a 'Committee of Inspection,' to consist of the R.W.M., Senior and Junior Wardens, and three members of the lodge, not office-bearers, to whom all applications from candidates for admission to our Order be submitted at least seven days before date of proposed initiation. Should they, after strict inquiry into their eligibility, approve of them, they shall be balloted for in the usual manner at the next regular meeting; but should the committee disapprove of the application, they shall be empowered to reject the same without bringing them before the lodge."

"No. 2. Moved by Wm. John Hamilton, R.W.M. 354; seconded by James Wallace, P.M. 440. That clause 6th of chapter 21st of Grand Lodge Laws be altered to read as follows:—

"No candidate for initiation shall, under any circumstances, be advanced from the degree of Apprentice to that of Fellow Craft, or raised from the degree of Fellow Craft to that of Master Mason, at a shorter interval than that of two weeks between each degree, unless by dispensation from the Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, or the Grand Lodge, for which he shall pay a fee of ten shillings and sixpence, said dispensation to be applied for by the Secretary of the lodge in which the candidate seeks admission—the application to state distinctly the reason for requesting said dispensation, and to be signed by the R.W.M. and Senior and Junior Wardens. Any lodge violating this law shall for the first offence forfeit to Grand Lodge the amount of initiation fee, and for the second offence their charter shall be suspended for such term as Grand Lodge may see fit."

THE ANTIQUITY OF FREE-MASONRY.

No one ought to disbelieve any dogma that may be advanced of the antiquity of Freemasonry without well weighing its merits with a fair and tolerant criticism; but Bros. Buchan, Leo, "and Co"—"Duo junda en uno" I assume, and if so, decidedly unmasonic—are so intolerant in the advocacy of their theory as even to make me doubt whether they actually believe in it themselves. That any such evidence as they insist upon having will ever, in all probability, be forthcoming Bro. Buchan knows full well; because, for any one to have retained such evidence in his possession during the period of intolerance that existed for so many years prior to 1717, would have been little more or less than its owner's signing his own death warrant. It was not until 1714 (the commencement of the Georgian era) that the reign of toleration could be fairly said to have been inaugurated; but the moment Masons dared avow themselves, a very considerable revival of Freemasonry took place, and this few, except Bro. Buchan, will doubt; but even he does not deny that there were some of an ancient class living at that date besides "Desaguliers, Anderson, & Co.," as they have been irreverently termed, and it can scarcely be supposed that these ancient members of the Craft would have quietly sat down and consented to all their own forms and ceremonies being turned inside out, and a new regime and ritual substituted, without leaving some evidences of remonstrances or objections to this new order of things, but we do not find any such thing; everything quietly worked into the alleged new order, and whilst looking at the extreme jealousy with which Masons through, all time and under the most adverse circumstances, have guarded their traditions, forms and landmarks. I contend that the peace which reigned in 1717 is strong internal evidence that the changes could not have been of the revolutionary character the 1717 theory would have us believe. Again I would ask, does the character of our historians go for nothing? One at least of them wrote at the period when the alleged "manufactory" (fraud) would have been a more candid term) took place, but not a word is said by Anderson to give the slightest impression that any such radical change did take place. Hutchison, Preston and Oliver, all good men and true, have followed, but neither they nor any of the Masons of the earlier period could discover this wonderful "invention" of their own age, and I feel assured that every real lover of the Craft of the present day will be equally unable to discover it.

The theory is nevertheless not of Bro. Buchan's creating, but I do not recollect having ever seen it in print, until the publication of "Partington's Cyclopediæ" of 1834, at which time, I well recollect, it was freely discussed by the Craft, and as freely ignored. I believe also that about the same time, or a little earlier, it was propounded by one or two dissatisfied or disappointed members of our Order, with no other result; and I believe that the present attempt to revive it will be equally unsuccessful.

Bro. C. Paton has however completely exploded the theory, and for his able letters deserves the thanks of the Craft, but in the letter published in your last number, he speaks of an article "Masonry, Free," in "Chambers' Encyclopediæ," as having been written by one who does not believe in the antiquity of our system, but he does not quote the edition. I think, therefore, it must be a more recent one than that in my possession, which is the fifth edition folio published in 1743, only twenty-six years after the alleged manufactory of our Order. In it the article, "Free or Accepted Masons," commences by calling them "A very ancient society or body of men," and adds "they are now very considerable, both for numbers and character, being found in every country in Europe, and consisting principally of persons of merit and consideration." The article I have quoted was evidently not written by a Mason, but can it be believed, that the writer of it, or the publisher of a book of such a character could have thus spoken of Masonry, if its antiquity was only of twenty-six years standing; or that any person of even very ordinary intelligence, could have been so deceived, if the 1717 theory was true? What would be said or thought of a writer in the present day, calling the Odd Fellows or Foresters "a very ancient society?"

C. GOODWYN.

PRESENTATION OF MASONIC TESTIMONIAL AT HANLEY.

The brethren of the Masonic Lodge Menturia, held at Hanley, on Tuesday, through their W.M. Bro. Piercy, presented a Masonic jewel to Bro. W. H. Hales, P.P.G.A.D.C., who has long been a valued, because ever-useful, member of the lodge. The duties proper of the lodge on Tuesday preceded the presentation, and we only say this that we may take the opportunity of noting that Bro. Piercy's Mastership is conducted on the principle that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well.

The brethren having adjourned from labour to refreshment, partook at the Saracen's Head Hotel of a meal most excellently prepared by Mrs. Halsey, and subsequently, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been disposed of,

The W.M. said it devolved on him, on behalf of the brethren of the lodge, to present to Bro. W. H. Hales a P.P.G.A.D.C. Jewel (Masonic honours). In doing so he had to remark that in the getting up of the testimonial there had been a unanimous expression of feeling on the part of the Menturia Lodge in behalf of Bro. Hales. Every brother he had asked to give had cheerfully done so, and much more might have been obtained but for a limitation of the subscription. He had great pleasure in presenting the jewel for the acceptance of Bro. Hales as a small token of the respect in which that brother was held, trusting that he would wear it many years, that for a long time he would continue to come amongst them, and that when it should please the G. A. U. to summon him from that lower lodge to the lodge above, his name would be perpetuated in Menturia, and his example followed by those who were now young Masons. The W.M. concluded, amid a demonstration of Masonic honours, by handing to Bro. Hales the jewel indicated, which bears an appropriate inscription.

The SECRETARY (Bro. Diggory) read the following letter from Bro. George Gough, P.D.P.G.M.:

"My Dear Bro. Hales,—Hearty congratulations upon the closing line of your lodge circular. It is scarcely possible to imagine a more merited compliment. In recognising your long and valuable services, the brethren not only honour you, but do honour to themselves. I heartily regret that inevitable engagements will preclude my coming, as I should very much like to have spoken thus much and more on so pleasing an occasion, as well as to have once more enjoyed, though for too brief a season, the company of brethren whose friendship must ever remain dear to me. With heartiest wishes for the prosperity and happiness of your lodge, and that you may live long in the enjoyment of your present and such further honours as our Craft can afford."

The S.W., Bro. TAYLOR, said it had afforded him real pleasure to be connected with the demonstration in honour of Bro. Hales, to whom he had been indebted for his initiation into Masonry and for much of the satisfaction he derived from his association with Menturia Lodge. He believed that, but for Bro. Hales, that lodge would not now be what it is, for he had taken an interest in it from the first, and had been its most useful member. (Masonic applause.)

Bro. TURNER, P.P.S.G.D., remarked that one thing especially had endeared Menturia Lodge to him; that was the energy of Bro. Hales. He had been fifteen years a Mason, and he must say that he had never met with a brother possessing more Masonic zeal than had been displayed by Bro. Hales.

Bro. CRAPPER, P.P.G.A.D.C., remarked that the zeal of Bro. Hales had not been expended alone on Menturia Lodge, for he had visited many lodges, and wherever he had gone he made himself useful.

Bro. HALES, after avowing the difficulty he experienced in acknowledging the kindness of the brethren, said that, had he been consulted in the outset, he should have thrown cold water on the movement, as he had never had the least desire for reward. He had worked for Menturia Lodge because he had taken a pride in it from the moment he had joined it. And not he alone, for he had been zealously assisted by Bro. Butterworth, up to the time of that brother's death, and by Bro. Hall. At one time it had been evident that a strong effort to keep the lodge from decadence must be made. An effort had been made, the roll had been cleared of the names of many who never contributed to the funds, economy in some respects had been cultivated, and the lodge had been re-established on a firmer, though nominally smaller, basis. It had progressed satisfactorily, and it was now in a better position than ever. (Masonic cheers.) They were clear of liabilities, and had been able to contribute to the funds of, not only the Masonic Charities, but also other charities. They had now a good list of members, good not only in respect of numbers, but also in respect of Masonic zeal. They had, too, a most excellent Master in Bro. Piercy—(applause)—who seemed never to tire of working for the lodge, and who, it must have been evident to the visiting brethren, went through his work in a most able manner. (Applause.) He (Bro. Hales) begged to thank the brethren, not only for the present they had made him, but also for the confidence that had been placed in him; of their present he should ever feel proud, and their confidence he should endeavour to repay by continued effort in and for the lodge. (Applause.)

Other toasts followed.

Original Correspondence.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I had no intention of replying to the remarks of Bro. Sp., (page 332), but to-night having a little time to spare, it may please, if it does not benefit, my brother by doing so: and I will endeavour to make the "Doric dialect" as plain as possible for his comprehension. All creatures have something in them peculiar to their several Species, and it may be a peculiarity of Bro. Sp., that he cannot "quite comprehend facts when briefly stated, such as, that which persons cannot comprehend, they do not understand, and what they do not understand, they cannot explain." What Bro. Sp. refers to in his first paragraph, are separate and distinct statements, and no inference made from the one to the other, that the "secrets of nature" may be explored by those who cannot boast a college education, though they may be so by a diligent student who has intellect and "genius for such studies."

2nd. If Bro. Yarker does not refer to "secrets of nature" in his letter, all I can say is that I have mistaken the meaning of the word philosophy, and I also have yet to learn that any secrets of nature have been or are discoverable by a Masonic initiation.

3rd. We are told what he believes Bro. Yarker meant, and I will agree with him, that no person should enter the arena of metaphysical and theological discussions without some knowledge of the ancient religions of the world. I also agree that "ordinary common-sense, unaided by study will not suffice for the discussion of questions," &c.

In conclusion, and "without attempting to emulate the fame" of any one, living or dead, I will say that ambition has no bounds but what the God of Nature prescribes for the good of man. And that there is nothing so insignificant as to be wholly despised—not even a "cruise" in a fishing-boat, or royal yacht. As for "Grand Noah" or his ark. I can say nothing about them, or their Board of Admiralty.

Yours fraternally,

W. G. DORIC.

IS FREEMASONRY SECTARIAN?

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As a Freemason, I beg most respectfully to take exception to certain assumptions and remarks of our R.W. Brother Charles John Martyn, G.C. (e.g.), he says, "and all of whom he may fairly presume, by their presence in that sacred building, to be members of the Church of England, or, at all events, not strongly opposed to her doctrines." Now I by no means can take this view of the case, for the brethren present I would presume went there as Masons and expecting to hear a Masonic sermon, given by a Masonic Office Bearer, and I would also expect that one who is a Freemason himself would understand this and perform his work accordingly, if not he should never have accepted of such a post as a Masonic Chaplain. Instead of "presuming" that his hearers were "members of the Church of England," he as a Mason, was entitled to presume that many of his brethren might not be so. There might have been Unitarians, Jews, or even Mahomedans present—brethren who had come to worship The Great Architect of the Universe—consequently they would be perfectly justified in protesting against sectarian remarks and doctrines being introduced and expounded in what should have simply been a pure and sensible Masonic discourse.

Although I happen to be a Scottish Presbyterian, I yet consider that a Unitarian, Jew, or Mahomedan is just as well qualified to be a good and honest Freemason as any Scottish Presbyterian, more as a Freemason, and while in a Masonic lodge, or engaged on Masonic work. I consider that I should do nothing to praise up and expound my own religious views, for by so doing I would not only be throwing cold water on theirs, but also be guilty of infringement of true Masonic courtesy.

I am ready at this moment to vote for the disestablishment and disendowment of the Church of England, and of the so-called Church of Scotland also, because I consider that the members of every church ought to support it themselves. Yet, I wonder how Bro. Martyn would take it if he heard these views expounded at a Masonic meeting?

Bro. Martyn also alludes to the Bible. Now, that is a subject for serious consideration, whether or not the Bible is the proper book to place upon the altar of a Masonic lodge? I am not sure but that it may yet come to be that the Book of Constitutions will lie where the Bible now does—said Book of Constitutions containing a preamble of our Masonic faith. I highly reverence the Bible, and I question if the altar of a Masonic lodge is the proper place for it. Freemasonry, it must be remembered, is not, and never was intended to be, a religion, or our religion.

I am yours fraternally,

W. P. BUCHAN.

H.I.H. THE PRINCE RHODOCANAKIS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am much surprised at the publication of J. A. H.'s letter in your issue of this date, and especially, as I feel assured, by many circumstances within my own observation, that Sir B. Burke's name has been unwarrantably used to give force to a libel, which otherwise would have been taken as simply the result of secret malice.

But as regards the question of Sir B. Burke's opinion, it means nothing, if ever obtained, and would I am certain, be disavowed as such by Sir B. B. himself, who has never undertaken to settle questions of foreign nobility, and who, of course, would only reply to an unknown individual (beyond his own class) in the usual curt official phraseology, which J. A. H. dignifies as "correspondence."

All those who are conversant with the usages of official intercourse, will therefore at once recognise the vanity and presumption of a writer who seeks, while making a malicious personal attack, to insinuate a social status for himself, at the expense of "Ulster," who knows his own position too well to compromise it by any such imputed correspondence.

Yours fraternally,
Sp.

THE NEW P.G.M. OF EAST LANCASHIRE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Although I am altogether unacquainted with the movement mentioned by "A Brother" at page 358, yet I am not at all taken by surprise, as last week one universal cry of "Shame" arose from every Mason who frequents the Manchester Exchange. No one raises any personal objections to the qualifications of Bro. Starkie, but the complaint is that the appointment passes over the recognised claims of the hard-working Deputy—Bro. Wm. Romaine Callender, jun.—and the result will be that a large Masonic centre like Manchester will be ruled by a few outsiders.

I cannot refrain from expressing my matured opinion that Provincial Grand Lodges are in themselves an injury to the principles of Masonry. They are a farce, and lead to little nobodies creating jealousies and disturbances in the Order, besides consuming a large amount of Craft money. All that Grand Lodge needs is a visiting inspector.

However, I would suggest, as a short way of settling this dissatisfaction, that a meeting be called to consider the advisability of petitioning for a division of the county into three parts; or, if this be refused, the withdrawal of the neighbouring lodges from all participation in the business of the province; and I feel assured that they would be infinite gainers by this last.

I remain, yours fraternally,
A SECOND BROTHER AND P.M.

THE MASONIC ARCH AT READING.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR,—Permit me to correct an inadvertence in my communication of last week relative to the Masonic arch at Reading. I should have said that I was entrusted by Bro. Councillor Smith, of Reading (whose benefactions to his native town are well known) with the decoration of the said arch and the masonically-embazoned banners, the construction being the production of Bro. Shepherd. In justice to the brethren of the Craft I trust that you will find space for this explanation in your valuable journal.

ALFRED MILLS,
(for MILLS AND SON.)

BRO. BUCHAN AGAIN.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As "Viator" might perceive in to-day's FREEMASON, his remarks at page 344 were most appositely met by mine at page 343, especially so far as regards the accident of the error in punctuation. I felt there was something curious about it as given at page 307, but the explanatory letter of Bro. Bacon at page 332 set me all right; ergo, I stand up for the 1717 theory stronger than ever. England is the birthplace of Speculative Freemasonry—London its cradle. And our system is that system which all the world has adopted since.

As to the "dirty bird which fouls its own nest," it is Freemasons themselves who have done so, and who are still doing so, by concocting or upholding forgeries and other untruthful and absurd ideas, the continued promulgation of which bring great discredit upon our whole Fraternity. I am trying what little I can do to clean out the "nest."

I am, yours fraternally,

W. P. BUCHAN.

LINES

Dedicated to Ballymahon Lodge, No. 308, Ireland,
By the Daughter of a Royal Arch Mason.

The "Mighty Architect" gave forth the word,
And worlds arose at His command,
Each "line and square," correctly laid,
Designed by His unerring hand.

With strict omniscient eye He stood
And gazed upon the wondrous plan,
His work He then pronounced as good,
And placed o'er all his creature Man.

The "Master" then to earth came down,
And spake with Adam face to face,
'Till he transgress'd "the Master's laws,"
And forfeited his happy place.

Yet still His great and boundless love
To Adam hopes of pardon gave,
And promised that the "Word" made flesh,
Should visit earth, man's race to save.

'Though waters once in wrath He sent,
To mar the beauty of the land,
Since then the Rainbow's "Royal Arch"
The world from end to end has spann'd.

And still the "Lodge" on earth was safe,
An ark of refuge He designed;
The pattern from which Noah built,
Was planned by the great Master's mind.

The dove sent forth from Noah's ark,
To mark the water's swift decrease,
Brought back to him within her mouth
The olive leaf—the type of peace.

And Noah walked upon this earth,
In true Masonic peace and love
Until the Master's "summons came,
To call him to the Lodge above."

And then to build a mighty plan,
The unlightened masons tried;
The Master came to Babel's plain,
And mocked at their presumptuous pride.

When through Sinai's wilderness
There passed the band which Moses led,
The Master deigned to be their guide,
With fiery pillar at their head.

He to them types and symbols gave,
Which still are used in Masonry,
And the enlighten'd brethren can
The meaning of those symbols see.

With many wondrous signs He led "His Masons" through that wilderness,
The Brazen Serpent raised its head,
And saved them when in dire distress.

That serpent came from Aaron's rod,
Which swallowed Pharaoh's magic ones,
And proved that the Great Architect
Had chose those Masons for His sons.

He led them safe to "David's throne,"
Which Solomon so nobly filled,
And aided by the Hiram—twain,
A noble structure then did build.

Beneath that Temple they enshrined
The "Sacred Word" from heathen ken,
And after their captivity
It "shone in splendour out again."

It's spreading fast from pole to pole,
Encompassing this earthly sphere,
And blessing mankind with its "light,"
As the Great Architect draws near.

For He is coming, fast and sure,
And it's extending on the wings
Of "Peace and Love and Harmony,"
To meet the eternal King of kings.

And long may Masonry extend
Her branching arms both wide and high,
To draw with cords and bands of love,
Mankind within her "mystic tie."

May every Member of the "Craft,"
Who knows the working of his art,
Be Mason—not in name alone,
But in each feeling of his heart.

The "free," accepted Brother should
In every word and deed be fair,
His errors within "compass" keep,
And act in all things on the "square."

By "plumb and level's" certain rule
May every Mason's work be tried,
And "square and compass" ever be
His conduct's sure unfailing guide;

That when your meetings here shall cease—
Your faithful work of peace and love—
The "Master" then ye may "salute,"
And meet in the "Grand Lodge" above.

Jottings from Masonic Journals.

From the Masonic Trowel, Springfield, Illinois, we extract the following, which originally appeared in the Iowa Evergreen :—

HOW AND WHERE DID SOLOMON DIE ?

The records in the Old Testament merely state that he died and was buried with his fathers. But how did he die? and where? The eleventh chapter and forty-third verse of 1 Kings reads thus :—

"And Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father."

The thirty-first verse of the ninth chapter of 2 Chronicles, says the same in almost the same words. No particulars of his last illness are given, no statement as to the immediate cause of his death is made, and we know not whether he died of old age, or of lingering and wasting disease—we only know that he died and was buried. There may have been a record of the manner and place of his death, for we are told in the forty-first chapter of 1 Kings, that "the rest of the acts of Solomon, and all that he did," are recorded in "the book of the acts of Solomon." And in the twenty-ninth verse of the ninth chapter of 2 Chronicles, we find the following :—

"Now the rest of the Acts of Solomon first and last, are they not written in the book of Nathan the Prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer against Jeroboam the son of Nebat ?

We have no knowledge of the subject matter of this book of Nathan, the purport of Ahijah's prophecy, or Iddo's visions, save what it is given in the verse above quoted, those writings having probably been destroyed in the Jewish wars. The Rabbins, however, have a strange legend of the latter days of the wise king. We have once seen a metrical version of it, which we append below. It was written by a rising English poet, Mr. Owen Meredith, who acknowledges his indebtedness for the matter of the poem, to his friend, the somewhat celebrated Robert Browning. We proceed to quote it entire :—

King Solomon stood in his crown of gold,
Between the pillars ; before the altar
In the House of the Lord. And the King was old
And his strength began to falter,
So that he lean'd on his ebony staff,
Seal'd with the seal of the Pentegraph.

All of the golden fretted work,
Without and within, so rich and so rare,
As high as the nest of the building stork,
Those pillars of cedar were ;
Wrought up to the brazen chapters
Of the Sidonian artificers.

And the King stood still as a carven King,
The carven cedar beams below,
In his purple robe, with his signet ring,
And his beard as white as snow,
And his face to that Oracle, where the hymn
Dies under the wing of the Cherubim.

The wings folded over the Oracle,
And cover the heart and the eyes of God ;
The Spouse with pomegranate, lily, and bell,
Is glorious in her abode ;
For with gold of Ophir and with scent of myrrh,
And with purple of Tyre, the King cloth'd her.

By the soul of each slumbrous instrument
Drawn soft through the musical misty air,
The stream of the folk that came and went,
For worship and praise, and prayer,
Flow'd to and fro, and up and down
And round the King in his golden crown.

And it came to pass, as the King stood there
And look'd on the house he had built with pride,
That the Hand of the Lord came unaware,
And touch'd him ; so that he died,
In his purple robe, with his signet ring,
And the crown wherewith they had crowned him king.

And the stream of the folk that came and went
To worship the Lord with prayer and praise,
Went softly over, in wonderment,
For the King stood there always :
And it was solemn and strange to behold
That dead King crowned with a crown of gold.

For he leaned on his ebony staff upright,
And over his shoulder a purple robe ;
And his hair, and his beard, were both snow-white ;
And the fear of him fill'd the globe,
So that none dared touch him, though he was dead,
He look'd so royal about the head.

And the moons were changed, and the years rolled on ;
And the new King reigned in the old King's stead,
And men were married and buried anon ;
But the King stood stark and dead ;
Leaning upright on his ebony staff ;
Preserved by the sign of the Pentegraph.

And the stream of life, as it went and came,
Ever for worship and praise and prayer,
Was awed by the face, and the fear, and the fame,
Of the dead King standing there ;
For his hair was so white, and his eyes so cold,
That they left him alone with his crown of gold.

So King Solomon stood up, dead in the House
Of the Lord, held there by the Pentegraph,
Until out from a pillar there ran a red mouse,
And gnaw'd through his ebony staff ;
Then, flat on his face, the King fell down ;
And they pick'd from the dust a golden crown.

Our readers must not suppose that we endorse this Hebrew legend as true. We only say that there may have been a record made of the manner and place of the great King's death, and on this record, it may be, the legend is founded.

We reproduce the following from the Philadelphia Keystone of 9th inst. :

SUMMER "WORK."

During the present "heated term," as it is called, when the actual "work" of a lodge might be omitted, because it cannot be well done, as when all the members are comfortably and pleasantly arranged in order and quiet, we suggest that a lodge of instruction might be opened by the W.M. When we say a lodge of instruction, we mean that the members meet, and let the W.M. explain to them the principles, landmarks, teachings, the ritual and symbology of Masonry. An hour devoted to this instruction would have the best results when the work of the lodge begins in the autumn.

There is, in our opinion, too little time devoted to teaching the members of the lodges. The W.M. has his responsibilities placed upon him. He must either do it himself, or see that it is done. He can no more omit this teaching than any other duty enjoined by his installation. He is bound by every obligation of headship over the brethren of his lodge, which the office of Worshipful Master creates, to see to it that the Craft has Masonic light and knowledge. He is charged with the duties thus established as his duties, and ignorance, or lack of interest, or satisfied ambition, or inability, or any other motive which hinders him from the performance of these duties, is a violation of obligations. If the W.M. is not competent to give instruction he is not fit for the East, for in Masonry it is expected that the Junior Warden learns, as Senior Warden he improves, and as W.M. he is qualified for the government of the lodge, and the diffusion of light and knowledge among the members of the lodge.

We call the serious attention of our brethren to this subject, because in a few months lodge elections will be held for officers, and now is the time to ascertain who is fit for the several stations ; and those, and those only, should be placed in them. Whoever asks, solicits, or "electioneers" for a station in a lodge, he never should obtain it. The moment that a member begins to intrigue for station that is proof positive, in Masonry, he is unfit for it. Let the brethren reflect over these suggestions, and try a meeting or two for instruction. It will give great satisfaction to all who attend, if a competent teacher undertakes the work.

"THE GREAT LIGHT."

By the public papers we see that a commission has been appointed in England to revise the Bible.

What is proposed by this proceeding we do not understand. If it is intended to introduce into the Holy Text the new-fangled notions of the German philology, then is a crime about to be committed against the faith and confidence of trusting souls. It is an invidious attack upon the Divine authority of the "Great Light," and an infidel assault on the inspiration which gave man "The Book."

If it is proposed to introduce words which are now better fitted, as it is thought, to express the mind of the writer than those used in the text, we think that the benefits to be thus attained will not compensate for the controversies which might be thus created. In any view of the subject, we regret the attempt now being made to unsettle the uses of the "Great Light." Millions of able, learned, faithful, trusting souls have read the text as it is now, and they have been enabled to see from it their faith clear over the road through the valley of the shadow of death to the joys of heaven. "The Great Light" has done this as it is ; why, then, dim the light by putting a mist over it from the worldly wisdom of man ?

POISONOUS TEA.—The trade in the lowest class of adulterated tea still continues, and this month Dr. Muter reports that there have been no less than 80 chests exposed for sale, of which he procured samples. This so-called tea consisted of a variety of rubbish, and is being sold for 2½d. per lb. It yielded an ash amounting to 22·86 per cent., consisting chiefly of iron filings, and under the microscope presented the structures of many foreign vegetable matters. But the worst sample which came under his notice was a green tea from India, highly faced, and yielding an ash containing a quantity of copper. This is really a sad thing, because it has previously been a noteworthy fact that our Indian planters refrained from such practices, and that tea from our own possessions could be depended on. We trust, however, that this prompt discovery and exposure of what we think is the first case may discourage the unprincipled persons who are thus disgracing the commercial honour of our Indian planters. The colour seemed to have been produced by roasting in contact with copper, probably in copper pans. —Food Journal.

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or, in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, supplies the extra nutrition to the blood and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested and the ailment disappear—man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army ; and Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also for Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment, each in boxes 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution : Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—[Advt.]

MARK MASONRY.—The Rev. G. Portal, M.W. Grand Mark Master of England, &c., has appointed the R.W. Bro. W. Romaine Callender to be Prov. Grand Mark Master for Lancashire. We may augur a new era for English Mark Masonry in this province from this most felicitous appointment.

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c., &c., on Mayar's Semolina : "I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London."—Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar's Semolina.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lie at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says : "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthmatic, Bronchitic, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough. * * * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Advt.]

RUPTURES.—BY ROYAL LETTERS PATENT.

WHITE'S Moc-Main LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.
COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The Faculty pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.
Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1875. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS

in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers. Wholesale at MAYAR'S, 36, MARK LANE, LONDON, E.C. A Wholesale Agent wanted in every Town.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

LUXURIANT WHISKERS, Moustaches, and a Fine Head of Hair.—Mrs. MERRIAM, Springfield, Mass. U.S., will send, through her English agents, Messrs. Wesley and Knox, Featherstone-buildings, London, W.C., her Recipe (Formula) for nine stamps and stamped envelope, producing hair on face or head in a month. A pint bottle sent by rail (carriage paid) for 36 stamps.—May be ordered through any Chemist.

FINE HEAD OF HAIR, WHISKERS, MOUSTACHES, and EYE-BROWS.—A retired Apothecary, from Wales, will send his noted FORMULA for 13 stamps and stamp directed envelope to produce Hair on the Head. Whiskers and Moustache, on the Face in three weeks.—Mr. EVAN EVANS, M.D. C.M., Dorking, Surrey.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place

For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

MASONIC CURIOSITIES.—III.

BY WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

There having been a little discussion on several "side" degrees of late in THE FREEMASON, and having had the following certificate sent me which refers to several, I have copied it carefully, thinking it may be of interest, and valuable, at least as a curiosity and as evidence of the wholesale way in which degrees were conferred even a few years ago, although the undermentioned scarcely equals the number of degrees sometimes, at the present time, given to a Master Mason of a few weeks' standing in this country, when joining the Ancient and Accepted Rite. A long piece of ribbon is attached to the first certificate, as below, composed of five colours, viz., black, scarlet, white, green and gold, and the seal (which is triangular,) contains the words, "Knight Templar Encampment, Holyhead, No. 233. In Hoc Signo Vines. J.H.S.," also several emblems such as "Cross bones" with "M.M.," Heart, Maltese Cross, Hour Glass, "All-seeing eye," Skull and Daggers.

No. 233,
Knight Templars' Grand Encampment.

We the Worshipful High Priest and Captain General, &c., &c., of that Magnanimous and Invincible Order of High Knight Templars and Knights of Malta, of Lodge

No. 233, held in the town of Holyhead, and on the Grand Registry of England, dedicated to Moses and King Solomon in the Ancient and Sacred Law, and to that faithful soldier Saint John of Jerusalem in the Gospel Dispensation; do hereby certify and affirm that our dearly and well beloved Brother and constituted friend the Worshipful Sir Samuel Robertson having passed the Excellent, super-Excellent, and Holy Royal Arch degrees of Masonic Orders, was by us regularly dubbed, admitted, initiated and confirmed in the rights, ceremonies, and mysteries of that Holy, Noble and Christian Order of a High Knight Templar, the true and faithful soldier of Jesus Christ, also Knight of Malta, White Cross and Mediterranean Pass, Ark Link and Mark, Knight of the Red Cross, Knight of Eleazer Hieroglyphics and Priestly Order, and that he has attained to that Most Glorious Christian Order of the Scantu Spiritu and Knight of Death by us in a Grand Encampment and Assembly.

Since his initiation he has discharged the relative duties of a Sir Knight Companion with affection and integrity amongst us; having with much fortitude, skill and valour previously withstood and resisted various temptations preparatory to his admission, and as such we recommend him to all true and faithful Knights and Brethren of the above-mentioned Masonic Orders round the globe.

In testimony of the same we have signed our hands and placed our seal of our General Assembly and Grand Encampment in our lodge-room in Holyhead this 27th day of March, 1825, and of the Order of Templars 707, and of Malta 725.

JAMES MARKES,	MARK LEES,	JOHN WATSON,
High Priest.	Grand Master.	Grand Warden.
GEORGE SMYTH,	WILLIAM KEER,
Captain-General.	Grand Scribe.

The Craft certificate is thus worded, and though a separate document (excepting the printed part) was evidently written by the same Scribe as the former. It is dated A.D. 1825, but the "water mark" in the paper is "F. Orr and Son, 1828," so that the certificate must have been given some few years after the degrees were taken.

The "White Cross," and some other side degrees mentioned in the first certificate are still given at Bottoms Stansfield, and said to be by virtue of "York Grand Lodge Warrants;" but such is not the case, as the brethren who work such degrees at this place, have no warrant granted by the Grand Lodge of all England held at York, to work any degrees whatever; not even the Craft, the Mark or the Arch, as is stated erroneously by some brethren.

[CERTIFICATE No. 3.]

The East being a Place of Light, where Peace and Love reign, and the Darkness comprehendeth it not.

Being regularly assembled, and adorned with all our honours—We, the Master, Wardens, and Secretary of the Saint David Lodge, No. 233 in the Registry of England, do hereby certify, to all enlightened round the globe, that the bearer, Samuel Robertson, was regularly entered an Apprentice, passed a Fellow Craft, and was afterwards raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason. We therefore recommend him to all regular lodges, where Providence may order his lot.

Given under our hands and seal of our Lodge at Holyhead, this 27th day of March 1825; and of Light 5825.

DAVID JONES, R.W.M.	} Wardens.
BENJAMIN SEAFORD, Sen.
JOHN MORGAN, Jun.
ANDREW MORISON, Secretary.

I do not present this certificate as valuable, but only that with the former, it may prove a connecting link. The oldest Craft certificate in my possession is dated 11th April, 1780, issued by the Grand Lodge of England. I have several lodge diplomas, as it was the custom then as now, among several lodges to give clearance certificates or ordinary diplomas, signed by the lodge officials in addition to the usual Grand Lodge certificate. The first of the two which follow these remarks, is a singular document, being bordered with emblems in as many circles, illustrative of several degrees, including the Craft, Ark, Knight, Templar and others, and was used during the latter part of last century. I am indebted to Bro. Commander Charles Scott,

R.N., for the copy, and have to thank this excellent Mason for two certificates beside, which will be appended to this series of "Masonic Curiosities."

[CERTIFICATE No. 4.]

To all whom it may concern.

We do hereby certify that Bro. ——— is a regular Register'd Master Mason in the Stewartstown Lodge, No. 765. And has during his Stay with us, Behaved himself as an honest Mason.

Given under our hands and seal of our Lodge on Master.
Sen. Warden.
Jun. Warden.

[CERTIFICATE No. 5.]

From the East, where reigneth Peace and Silence.

Right Worshipful and dear Brethren,—We, the undersigned Master, Wardens, &c., belonging unto the Lodge of Unity, No. 137, of Free and Accepted Masons, held at the Fountain Tavern, Plymouth, Devon, do hereby attest to all the Brethren of regular and constituted Lodges of Free and Accepted Masons, that our Brother, William Northam, the bearer hereof, hath been legally entered an A.P., past a F.C., and raised to the sublime degree of M.M. in our Lodge; and (Seal) having, whilst with us, behaved as a true and faithful Brother. We, as such, heartily recommend him to the Brethren of all regular and constituted Lodges, to be admitted, after due examination, to the Friendly Mysteries and secret ceremonies thereof; and desire you will accept him with esteem for our sakes, and not only forward him in the Royal Art, but also do him whatever brotherly kindness his occasion shall require, which, be assured, will greatly oblige us.

Accept, by him, our Brotherly salutations, and believe us to be,

Sealed with our lodge seal, and signed by us at our lodge at Plymouth aforesaid, this 4th day March, A.D. 1800, A.L. 5804.	Dear Brethren, Your affectionate Brethren, RICHARD WILLIAMS, R.W.M. THOMAS WALTERS, S.W. JOHN VERNON, J.W.
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

To the Right Worshipful Master, Wardens, and Brethren of all Regular Lodges.

The certificate of 1780 (No. 6.) previously alluded to, is as follows:—

These are to certify

That Brother Joseph Whitley, was made a Mason and admitted to the third degree of Masonry, as appears by the Register of the Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons regularly constituted and meeting at the Thistle and Crown, Little Tower Hill, London, signed by the Master, Wardens, and Secretary of the said Lodge, hereunto annexed, and you are desired to receive him as a Brother.

Given under the seal of the Grand Lodge,

(Seal)

JAS. HESELTINE, Grand Secretary,
London, 11th April,
A.L. 5780, A.D. 1780.

GRAND LODGE,
24 July, 1755.

Ordered,

That every Certificate granted to a Brother of his being a Mason, shall for the future be sealed with the seal of Masonry signed by the Grand Secretary, for which 5 shillings shall be paid to the use of the General Fund of Charity.

(Plumb Rule.) (Level.)

The two certificates (on paper) which conclude this article, are of interest just now as it is contemplated giving the Excellent or Super-Excellent Master, under the authority of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons for England and Wales, &c.

These degrees (or degree) were given in Ireland and England during the latter part of last century and often during the present one, as also in Scotland under the Supreme Grand Chapter, and in the United States, Canada, &c. English Companions becoming Joining Members of Chapters in the United States would have to be admitted to the Mark and Excellent Master Degrees (and Past Master) before admission, hence it is purposed to confer the Excellent

[CERTIFICATE No. 7.]

We, the H.P., &c., &c., &c., of the Grand Encampment of Royal Arch Super-Excellent Masons, held under the sanction of Lodge No. 47, in the town of Castlereagh, and on the registry of Ireland—We do hereby certify that the bearer, Robert Woods, our faithful and well-beloved Brother, past master of said lodge, was by us installed and initiated into the most sublime secrets of R.A., S. Ex. Masonry, he having with due honour to the Royal Craft justly supported the amazing and mysterious trials of skill and valour attending his admission into said lodge. We therefore recommend him as a just, faithful and worthy brother.

Given under our hands and seal of our Grand Encampment held in Castlereagh, this 27th day of March, in the year of our Lord God one thousand eight hundred and eight, and in the year of Royal Arch Super-Excellent Masonry three thousand eight hundred and eight.

And God said let there be light and there was light, and the light shineth in darkness, and the darkness comprehendeth it not.

We, the High Priest, &c., of the Grand Charter of Royal Arch, Excellent, Super-Excellent Masons held under the sanction of Lodge No. 828, at Drumquin, in the County Tyrone, on the Registry of Ireland, do certify that the bearer hereof, our Excellent trusty, true, and well-beloved brother, Edward Kinchella, was well and duly recommended unto us, and we found him endued with Justice, Valour, Temperance, and Fortitude. Whereupon we further initiated him into the Sublime Secrets and Holy Mysteries of Royal Excellent, Super-Excellent Masonry, he having with honour, justly supported the Mysteries and amazing trials of skill and valour attending his admission.

Therefore, may the soul of this our well-beloved brother, he both inspired and illumined, and finally be admitted into the Presence of the Most High with this short prayer. We now recommend him as a Royal Arch, Excellent, Super-Excellent Mason, also a just and true brother, and worthy Member of the Royal Community. Given under our hands and seal of our Royal Encampment, this 7th day of September, 1870.

MASONRY IN AMERICA.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL OF OLIVE BRANCH LODGE, LEROY, N.Y.

As an example of the thoroughly searching manner in which our American brethren pursue their investigations into Masonic ethics, we have great pleasure in copying from the New York Masonic Tidings the following report, in which is included one of the most masterly orations on Freemasonry we ever remember to have read:—

Olive Branch Lodge, No. 39, was just fifty-nine years old on the 22nd day of June, 1870. It is one of the few lodges which stood true during the anti-Masonic crusade, undergoing the most malignant forms of persecution for the faith. The lodge-room being too small for such an occasion, Starr Hall was called into requisition. The walls were beautifully festooned with evergreens, and adorned with wreaths of flowers and pictures of Masonic worthies. At high twelve representatives of the following lodges met at the hall: Olive Branch, No. 39, LeRoy; Churchville, No. 667; Batavia, No. 475; Erie, No. 161; Buffalo; Warsaw, No. 549; Avon Springs, No. 570; Mount Morris, No. 122.

Scott's "Ryan Zouave Band," of Rochester, was in attendance, and discoursed the finest of music—they have few equals in the State. After the usual preliminaries, the brethren were formed in procession under the direction of Bro. James S. Showerman, and, headed by the band, visited the grave of Ezra Platt, the first Master of the lodge. Returning to the hall, the following exercises took place: Opening ode, prayer by Rev. Bro. Furgason, after which the following ode, written for the occasion by W. H. C. Hosmer, was sung to the air of "Auld Lang Syne":

Our Olive Branch the vision cheers,
While Masons true convene,
By lapse of more than fifty years
Still unimpaired its green.
Its power benign will never cease
To wake fraternal love;
Dear symbol of the perfect peace
That reigns with God above.

Chorus— Its power benign will never cease
To wake fraternal love;
Dear symbol of the perfect peace
That reigns with God above.

Night falls on many a ruined shrine
Whose worshippers are gone,
But, fed by effluence Divine,
Our altar-flame burns on.
Palmyra's hearths have long been cold,
Old Tyre has passed away,
But columns that our fame uphold
Are strangers to decay.

Chorus— Palmyra's hearths have long been cold,
Old Tyre hath passed away,
But columns that our fame uphold
Are strangers to decay.

Dear brethren of the mystic bond,
Within a blissful clime
Towers up our great Grand Lodge beyond
The boundaries of time.
There seekers of the light will meet
The faithful gone before,
And held with them communion sweet
While death bereaves no more.

Chorus— There seekers of the light will meet
Their brethren gone before,
And hold with them communion sweet
While death bereaves no more.

W. Master William S. Brown then delivered the historical address.

After a stirring piece of music, R. W. John R. Anderson, Past Master of the lodge, delivered the following oration:

"The celebration of the semi-centennial anniversary of a Masonic lodge brings with it associations rich in good cheer to the members of this time-honoured Fraternity, who have come from their homes, near and distant, to meet and greet—some for the first, and some for the last time—their brethren in the mystic bond of Fraternal Union.

"Varied, indeed, are the emotions which fill the hearts of the older and the younger members of this ancient Order as they come together on an extraordinary occasion like the present. Some are here who are now in the evening of their pilgrimage—they are approaching, if they have not already reached and passed, the age allotted to man. They have come to lend to this festivity the sanction of their presence, to publicly testify their loyalty to a Brotherhood with which they have been so long and happily connected. They have come to witness its present almost unprecedented prosperity, and to share with their younger brethren the pleasure of this reunion. Their venerable presence adds a dignity to these festivities which no feature could impart. They come up here well furnished with reminiscences of other days—other days of trial and triumph. They readily recall that period in the history of this Institution when days were dark and friends were few; when the fires of fanaticism swept over the land, and with a fury which threatened in the madness of its might to destroy every vestige of this Masonic heritage, and leave not so much as one solitary lodge in the wilderness to tell to posterity the story of its wrongs, and to afford an asylum of peace to the poor and persecuted.

"Misguided religionists and scheming politicians combined to create that measure of universal distrust and opposition which sought to drive Masonry from the society of the wise and good, and to turn against it the terrific tide of popular odium. You, venerable, remember the time when church discipline and state legislation were brought to bear with a force of intolerance upon the rights of men who were Masons, and because they were Masons, which has scarcely had a parallel in the dark history of fanatical bigotry. This scathing trial was the touchstone of fidelity, and failed not to show who were, and who were not, true men, who were willing to stand by the principles of this Institution, and who were willing to abandon them.

"These older brethren recall the period when the lodges generally were closed, business suspended, and the true friends of the Order stood calmly and breasted the storm, conscious that their strength was to sit still, confident that truth would ultimately triumph, that these calamities would be overcast, and that renewed prosperity would break through these heavy clouds and clear every vestige of their blackness from the horizon of Freemasonry.

"That expectation has been most happily realised. These brethren who have come down to us from past generations have lived to see their hopes more than fulfilled. In this day's proceedings they see a complete and triumphant vindication of the trials to which they were then subjected, and the utter overthrow and despair of their enemies. They have seen the ignoble end of an unrighteous opposition, the politician disappointed, the misguided zealot brought to a better mind, and a credulous public disabased, and the Institution which they have so long loved coming forth in its ancient strength, cheered with the smiles of universal good will. Peace and harmony are in the ascendant throughout the pale of the great Brotherhood.

"Our chief anxiety and our greatest danger are to be found in the fact that we have a sky without a cloud, that our ark is borne upon a tide too much at flood, wafted by the treacherous breath of popular favour. But there are those present, in the morning of their young manhood, who have known nothing of the trying times to which I have alluded, which so thoroughly tested the principles of the Craft and sifted the ranks of its members. To these the past is a blank, the present a joy, and the future is spanned by a bow of unblemished promise.

"It is well that it is so. We need the enthusiastic hopes and the vigorous activities of the young, in union with the ripe wisdom and conserving moderation of the elders, whose long labours and chequered experience have pre-eminently fitted them for safe counsellors.

"But there are those here who belong to neither class which I have named. They are our friends who have been attracted hither by the spirit of curiosity, or by the love of spectacle, or by the influence of relationship with those who have been members of this Fraternity. To such the sound of martial music, the waving of banners, the display of regalia, constitute the chief charm of the occasion. The eyes of not a few of the younger and fairer part of this audience never before, it may be, looked upon a Masonic pageant. To those the novelty of the sight and the mystery of the emblems are the elements of attraction.

"But this occasion is not indebted to any such like adventitious circumstances for the true interest that attaches to it. Here are to be seen not simply a body of men, about whose Institution there is an air of mystery, decorated with the emblems of their Order, whose brilliant jewels reflect the brightness of the sun to the eye of the beholder—all this may be assumed by any association of men—but in this assembly is a Society represented older and larger and more universally spread over the earth than any other organisation, a Craft which was venerable from very antiquity before this continent was discovered; whose members to-day are to be found in every quarter of the globe, and in every class of society, in every calling of life, who are bound by one bond, who speak one language, who act upon one great principle, and are chiefly aiming at one great end.

"In these times of change, and experiments, and expediency, when the spirit of the age so easily tires of the old and so readily embraces the new, when progress is the watchword, with or without improvement, it is surely something to be thankful for that there is one Society of human origin strong enough to stem the tide of universal innovation—a Society that can date its origin far back in the earliest ages of the world, and has come down to our times holding fast to the ancient landmarks, maintaining with an unshrinking firmness its conservative principles, and teaching old truths in the old way, and zealous to sustain its normal peculiarities, however they may contravene the usages of the present generation.

"It is, indeed, a refreshing novelty to look upon such an Institution. It is this antiquity, this universality, this fraternal union, this golden bond of charity, which reaches and binds together the forefathers of the earth, thus meeting in friendship and love men of every nation in one great brotherhood, which changes neither its principles nor its practices to suit the caprice of the times, which invests this celebration with an unborrowed interest that is peculiarly its own.

"The Masonic Institution stands to-day before the world a marvellous monument of antiquity, an institution which, amid the revolutions that have shaken the earth from centre to circumference, and before which kingdoms and empires have passed away, leaving no track or trace of their former splendours, has never lost essentially the form of its organisation, nor the spirit of its power in carrying out the great law of love in doing the divine work of charity.

"It has outlived the circumstances of its origin. The necessities that called it into existence, in connection with its first practical purpose, have long passed away, and no more constitute a feature of its organism. Originally a company of "builders," whose monuments of matchless skill now adorn almost every part of Europe, and to-day challenge the admiration of the world as masterly models for modern imitation; they were associated, not only for the promotion of architectural science, but for mutual protection and relief, for maintenance of that high order of integrity which is the dictate of the Divine Law.

"The hand of time has brought its operative labours to a close, and there are no more cathedrals or castles for it to build. But neither the hand of time nor the innovation of ages have changed or mutilated its great principles. They remain, and ever will, as long as charity has its great mission amongst the children of men.

A SECOND edition of Bro. Kenning's Illustrated Catalogue of Masonic Paraphernalia and Jewels has just been published. As the first edition met with the unqualified approbation of our contemporaries—the Era, the American, and the City Press, amongst others—it is needless to add more upon the subject than to simply direct attention to the fact that the catalogue is now considerably enlarged, and that the jewels of every degree at present worked in England will be found accurately and beautifully depicted therein. As a work of art it reflects the greatest credit upon Messrs. Reeves and Son, the eminent firm of printers under whose direction the engravings were executed.

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c. &c., on Mayar's Semolina: "I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London." Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar's Semolina.

GRAND CHAPTER.

The August Convocation of the Supreme Grand Chapter was held on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall. At the opening of the chapter Comps. J. Huyshe presided as Z., J. Rawson as H., and F. Pattison as J. Comps. G. W. K. Potter was S.N., John Hervey, S.E., the Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.S., John Savage, 1st A.S., and the Rev. Walter Fowler Short, 2nd A.S. Comps. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, Lord de Tabley, H. Browse, Dr. Jas. Self, E. S. Snell, W. M. Bywater, R. W. Hollon, E. J. Barron, F. Bennoch, Joseph Smith, Brackstone Baker, H. G. Buss, Jas. Brett, R. Spencer, W. Bourne, G. Pymm, Benj. Head, H. Muggeridge, Andrew Holman, and H. Massey were also present.

GRAND S.E. having read the minutes of last convocation.

Comp. HUYSHE said: The first duty I think we have to perform to-day is the installation of our new M.E.Z., the Earl de Grey and Ripon. It was no doubt a most sorrowful and heart-rending thing to part with him who had presided over us for so many years as our M.E.Z.; but circumstances over which we had no control, and, I may say, over which he had no control, rendered such a step necessary. However great our regret at that circumstance might be, it is somewhat counterbalanced by the reflection that a successor is found in such an estimable Mason as the Earl de Grey and Ripon, who is now our M.E.Z. He has attended this day, no doubt at considerable inconvenience to himself, to be installed. His installation will now be proceeded with.

The Earl de Grey and Ripon then took the obligation, which was delivered by Grand S.E., and the Rev. J. Huyshe invested him with the robe and insignia of his office.

The GRAND Z.: Excellent Comps., I can assure you that I feel in a very high honour to be called to fill the important post of First Principal of this Supreme Grand Chapter. It will be my constant endeavour while I shall fill that office faithfully to discharge the important duties which belong to it, in such a manner, too, as will tend to promote, with the assistance of the other Companions of this Grand Chapter, the interests of this branch of Freemasonry, of which all who have been admitted to it will admit the great importance. I believe our next business is to instal the Grand H., but I am commissioned by the Earl of Carnarvon, who is not present, to express his great regret, that entirely unexpected business at his place in the country prevents his having the pleasure, as he had fully intended, of being present here to-day.

Lord DE TABLEY then took the oath, and was invested J., by the Grand Z.

The following report of the Committee of General Purposes as to the accounts, was taken as read:—

To balance 19th April	£399 16 5	By Purchase of £200 Consols at 94, and Commission	£188 5 0
Subsequent Receipts	258 5 0	Disbursements during the Quarter	123 3 0
		Balance	346 13 5
	£658 1 5		£658 1 5

which balance is in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival and Co., Bankers of the Grand Treasurer.

The G.S.E. read the petition for a new Chapter: "From Comps. Wm. Richardson as Z., W. Henry Thornton as H., and Abraham Vilson as J., and eleven others, to be attached to the St. John's Lodge, No. 827, Dewsbury, to be called 'The Chapter of St. John's,' and to meet at the Masonic Temple, Dewsbury, Yorkshire."

On the motion of Comp. J. SAVAGE, seconded by Comp. JOSEPH SMITH, this petition was granted.

The G.S.E. read another petition: "From Comps. Simeon Mosely as Z., Robert Aspland Marillier as H., Charles Copland the younger as J., and six others, for a Chapter to be attached to the Kingston Lodge, No. 1010, Hull, to be called 'The Kingston Chapter,' and to meet at the Masonic Hall, Worship-street, Hull, Yorkshire."

Comp. J. SAVAGE propose, and Comp. HOLLON seconded the granting of this petition.

Comp. E. S. SNELL inquired how many Chapters there were already in the town, and how many members they had.

Comp. HOLLON said there were two Chapters there.

The G.S.E. said the Grand Superintendent of the province distinctly stated in his recommendation that, "having due regard to the interests of the Royal Arch Chapters already existing in this town, I beg to recommend the within petition for the favourable consideration of the Supreme Grand Chapter."

Comp. BENJ. HEAD could not see why Grand Chapter should oppose, when there was no opposition from the members of those lodges which were in the town where the proposed Chapter was to be situated.

Comp. SNELL merely asked for information.

Comp. HUYSHE reminded Grand Chapter that at last convocation there were applications made for Chapters to be attached to only two lodges in the Isle of Man, and both petitions were granted in opposition to the feelings and the report of the Committee of Grand Chapter. For himself, he never could see why every lodge should not have its own Chapter, or if Royal Arch Masonry was what it professed to be, the consummation and completion of the third degree, why any brother should not be able to complete that degree in a Chapter joined to his own lodge. That was not the way in which Grand Chapter had treated the Masonic world. He would support the motion, and earnestly entreated Grand Chapter to grant it. There might be three lodges, or thirteen in Hull, but if any single one of them wanted a Chapter, let it have it.

Comp. HOLLON, a Grand Treasurer of the province, knew the state of the lodges. There was room for a fourth lodge or a fourth chapter, and if this petition was refused the brethren would be deeply grieved.

Comp. BENNOCH thought that unless Comp. Snell had some objection to urge, this was a grievous waste of the time of Grand Chapter. A committee was appointed for the sole purpose of investigating all details, and any objection could have been raised there; but as the committee had reported in favour of the petition, he should, unless some grounds for refusing it were urged, support the committee.

Comp. JOSEPH SMITH said the report of Grand Chapter Committee was sent to every chapter meeting at the place where the new Chapter was to meet, and as there was no objection sent from that quarter, Grand Chapter must grant it.

Comp. SNELL, in reply, offered no opposition whatever; but it was an established rule in Grand Chapter that no petition should be granted in a town where there were many others. He had been told there were three Chapters in Hull, and he asked the question in order that he might ascertain whether the town was able to support another Chapter.

The motion for granting the petition was carried.

The G.S.E. read the third petition, which was: "From Comps. Francis Burdett as Z., Wm. Roebuck as H., George Cattel as J., and seven others, for a Chapter to be attached to the Villiers Lodge, No. 1194, Isleworth, to be called 'The Royal Middlesex Chapter,' and to meet at the Northumberland Arms Hotel, Isleworth, Middlesex."

On the motion of Comp. SAVAGE, seconded by Comp. JOSHUA NUNN, the petition was unanimously granted.

The G.S.E. read the fourth petition: "From Comps. Samuel H. Armitage as Z., William F. Rooke as H., William B. Stewart as J., and nine others, for a chapter to be attached to the Denison Lodge, No. 1248, Scarborough, to be called the Denison Chapter, and to meet at the Grand Hotel, Scarborough, Yorkshire."

Comp. the Rev. C. J. MARTYN moved the adoption of the recommendation of the committee, and spoke in the highest terms of Scarborough Masonry.

Comp. SAVAGE seconded the motion, and Comp. HOLLON added a few words in support.

Carried unanimously.

The G.S.E. then read the concluding clause of the Grand Chapter Committee's report, which was as follows: "The committee have also had under their consideration a letter from Comp. John Doherty, of the Melita Chapter, No. 349, Malta, elected to the third Principal's Chair in that chapter, whose eligibility to be installed was objected to, on the ground that, although a Past Master of an Irish lodge, he had never served as Master of an English lodge. The committee being of opinion that the words in Art. 8, page 16, of the Royal Arch Regulations, 'No companion of any subordinate Chapter shall be eligible to be elected to either of the Principal Chairs who is not, at the time of such election, the actual Master or Past Master of a Craft lodge,' refer exclusively to a Craft lodge under the English Constitution, came to the unanimous decision that to render a companion eligible to be elected a Principal of a chapter under the English Constitution he must be the actual Master or Past Master of a Craft lodge under that Constitution."

Comp. HUYSHE had no hesitation in saying that chapters working under the Supreme Grand Chapter of England must conform to its rules, and it was impossible under them that a companion could act or be installed as Principal unless he was a Master or a Past Master of a lodge under the English Constitution.

Comp. SAVAGE supported Comp. Huyshe. Unless the laws and constitutions at present in force were altered, a companion must be a Master or a Past Master of an English Craft lodge. In Scotland and Ireland the degree was obtained by six months' conduct in the chair, while here a Master must officiate twelve months. Referring to the Craft for a parallel case, it had been ruled that a Warden of an Irish lodge was not eligible for the office of Master of an English lodge; and arguing from the less to the greater, the committee, of which he was chairman, had taken the view expressed by Comp. Huyshe.

Comp. RAWSON, having served in a distant province (China) for many years, had grounds for opposing the recommendation, though he did it with great diffidence. In distant regions where there were not many members under the English Constitution, they were obliged to work, not only with Irish and Scotch, but also with American brethren and companions. He had felt it his duty there to try and get the wheels to work smoothly among all the members of the different constitutions. He spoke, therefore, most strongly, feeling as he did that Grand Chapter was throwing the apple of discord into provinces situated as was the province he represented. In it on many occasions he had read the Constitution in its straightforward, broad sense, as not excluding any companion who had occupied the Master's chair from becoming Principal of an English chapter. He did not speak of the Master's degree, which, no doubt, a great many companions present were old enough to remember it was necessary to take before it was possible to become an R.A. Mason. But looking at it merely in this light, that in an English lodge they would not refuse to recognise the certificate of a brother who had been admitted under the Irish Constitution either as an E.A., a F.C., or an M.M., he thought it was throwing a very great slight on the Irish degree, the Scotch, or the American, if they confirmed the recommendation of the committee. He would open the door wide to every brother who had served the office of Master of a lodge; and, instead of opposing this resolution, he thought the companions should leave it to the actual necessities of the case as they arose.

Comp. H. BROWSE, as the member of the committee who stood alone at the outset when the petition came before it, in his desire that it should be granted, had felt that he must give way when the law of Grand Chapter on the subject was read to him. Such was his opinion now. The benefits of Royal Arch Masonry should be extended as far as possible, but he thought the committee would have done wrong if they had recommended the granting of the prayer of this petition.

Comp. B. HEAD gathered from Comp. Rawson's observations that he desired that we should make a law for other nations that we did not make for ourselves. From what he had heard that night he saw no reason why we should change our Constitution to suit American, Irish, or Scotch Masons.

The GRAND Z.: I do not think the question is what the law should be so much as what is the interpretation of the law as it stands. It is quite open to any companion to propose an alteration of the law, whatever it is.

The G.S.E., by direction of the Grand Z., read the following law from the Book of Constitutions applicable to the case: "All officers are to be elected annually, except the Assistant Sojourners, who are to be appointed by the Principal Sojourner. No companion of any subordinate chapter shall be eligible to be elected to either of the Principal chairs who is not, at the time of such election, the actual Master or Past Master of a Craft lodge, nor, except in the Colonies, until he shall have served the office of Scribe or Sojourner of a private chapter for a year."

Bro. HUYSHE: I maintain, M.E., under that very law that it is impossible we can accede to this petition. Now, no man can be made Master of an English Craft Lodge unless he has served as Warden in such a lodge. An Irish brother, who only passes through six months of office, has been positively decided to have no right to sit as Master of an English Lodge, nor can he be admitted to a Board of Installed Masters. He has not presided as Master for twelve months, therefore he is no Past Master at all.

The GRAND Z.: Before I put this question I think it right to state that so far as I have been able to form an opinion in respect of offering an interpretation of the law as it stands, I believe that the interpretation put upon it by the committee is the correct one. It is quite another question whether the law should be so, but I think there is very great force in the arguments that have been adduced by my Excellent Comp. on my right (Comp. Rawson). But this is not the question at this moment before the Grand Chapter. The question is, whether we shall agree or not agree with the committee in their interpretation of it; and the motion I put now is, whether that interpretation of the existing law is the correct one.

Comp. LORD DE TABLEY, J.: My vote will be given on what you have just said—the interpretation of the law as it at present exists.

The recommendation was carried with only one dissentient (Comp. Rawson), and Grand Chapter was then closed.

GRAND MARK LODGE.

On Tuesday evening a Convocation of Emergency of Grand Mark Lodge was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, for the purpose of completing the business left over from Grand Lodge of 31st May. Some other matters were also announced to be brought forward for settlement at this emergency, and among them were the receiving the report of the Committee on the Royal Ark Mariners' Degree, the receiving communications from the Grand Master on the subject of a treaty with the Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and with the Supreme Grand Council 33°, and to consider motions on all three subjects.

The Grand Master, Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, M.A., presided; the Earl Percy, M.P., Dep. G.M.; Bro. the Earl of Limerick, S.G.W.; A. W. Adair, J.G.W.; Captain J. King, G.M.O.; James Stevens, G.S.O.; Joshua Nunn, G.J.O.; Rev. W. Taylor Jones, as G. Ch.; R. A. Benson, G. Reg.; and F. Binckes, G. Sec., being at their posts. There were also present Bros. R. Spencer, F. H. Gottlieb (Singapore), S. Rosenthal, H. G. Lake, George Kenning, Morton Edwards, C. Hammerton, A. D. Loewenstark, J. King, M. A. Loewenstark, W. Worrell, F. Davidson, S. M. Lazarus, Abrahams, Wolf Littaur, T. J. Sabine, J. G. Marsh, George Neall, Newman, and H. Massey.

Grand Lodge having been formally opened, the Earl of Limerick was invested by the G.M. with the collar of S.G.W., and Grand Secretary read the summons convoking the lodge and letters of apology from several officers who were unable to be present.

The GRAND MASTER, in opening the proceedings, said he had received communications from Grand Chapters of Ireland and Canada acknowledging Mark Masters advanced under the English Grand Mark Lodge, and stating that such Mark Masters would be admitted in the lodges of Ireland and Canada. He had also to inform the brethren that he had thought it wise to ask a very important Masonic body—the Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, of which Bro. Hervey, Grand Secretary, was Chancellor—if they would be willing to enter into a treaty recognising this Grand Mark Lodge, on this Grand Lodge recognising the authority of the Red Cross Order, each agreeing to promote the interests of the other as far as it could. A most kind affirmative response had been given to the question. The draft of the treaty had been prepared, and the effect of it was that the two contracting bodies agreed mutually to acknowledge each other as the governing bodies of their respective degrees, and if a member of either order was for a good reason suspended or expelled by the governing body of that order, the other agreed to hold him as suspended or expelled. The Supreme Grand Council of the 33° had offered to do the same, and he had great hopes that the Knights Templar would come to a similar arrangement. Ultimately, perhaps, Grand Craft Lodge would concur, and the advantages of such a treaty were plain. It had always been thrown in Mark Masters' teeth by Scotch Masons that they were not recognised by any body. He asked authority to-night to contract on the above terms with the Red Cross, the 33rd degree, and the Knights Templar, and that the Earl of Carnarvon might be associated with the Grand Master in carrying that out.

Bro. the Rev. W. TAYLOR JONES had much pleasure in supporting the view of the Grand Master, as he believed it would be most effectual in advancing the principles of the Order, and would be a credit to the brethren in promoting unity, concord, and discipline, and making Masons of one mind and feeling. He felt that all the brethren would rejoice in having such an opportunity of assisting the Grand Master in his work. He begged to second the motion.

Bro. WOLF LITTAUR could perfectly understand such a treaty as was proposed being desired by Christian brethren, but, as a Jew, he should vote against it. However much he respected the talents and the admirable qualities of the majority of those who belonged to the Red Cross Order, he was obliged to differ with them on this point. He was a friend to all men of all creeds; he, however, respected truth. He might say "Amicus, Plato; amicus, Socrates; sed major veritas." They were called upon to enter into a treaty in the name of the Grand Lodge with the Red Cross.

Bro. BINCKES would inform Grand Lodge that the brother who was speaking against the Red Cross Order was a member of the Rose Croix and the 30th degree, both of which were Christian degrees.

Bro. WOLF LITTAUR would observe that Jews were necessarily excluded from the Red Cross. That body was Christian, and had no connection with Mark Masonry. He considered that Masonry was a platform where all men could meet; and it was contrary to the feelings of non-Christians—in fact, it was almost a breach of that part of the ceremonies which taught us that there was nothing opposed to our religious principles in it—to have the Red Cross apron; it was humiliation to a Jew who did not put his faith in the sign of the cross, and on these grounds he (Bro. Littaur) opposed the motion.

Bro. BINCKES, to shorten the discussion, would state that by the treaty a mere engagement was entered into by the different Orders to recognise each other. No member of this lodge would be entitled to attend the Council of the Red Cross, nor would members of the Red Cross be entitled by this treaty to attend Grand Mark Lodge, much less to wear their aprons in it. It involved no clashing of doctrines in any way; but the two bodies being de facto in existence, they chose to enter into an alliance, and to acknowledge that the supreme body of each was the legitimate ruling body of that Order.

Bro. LAZARUS said, as an Israelite, that the two bodies at present were supreme authorities over their respective members. He could not see the least reason why there should be any objection on the part of the Israelitish brethren to this treaty, as it would not interfere with their faith in any degree.

Bro. the EARL OF LIMERICK wished for an explanation whether the treaty would affect the position of Mark Masters belonging to these other Orders in Grand Mark Lodge.

The GRAND MASTER said the treaty, if concluded, with the Red Cross and the 33° obliged this lodge, when a member of any of the other Orders behaved so badly as to be suspended or expelled by his Order, to adopt the same course with regard to him; and so also with a Mark Mason, if Grand Mark Lodge suspended or expelled a brother, the other Orders would carry that sentence out, and not admit him to their meetings.

Bro. A. D. LOEWENSTARK thought they should pause before the amalgamation was effected.

Bro. BINCKES rose to order. Amalgamation was never contemplated. This was simply a treaty.

Bro. A. D. LOEWENSTARK hoped that this Grand Lodge would admit men of all shades of opinion. He wished to know whether the treaty was offensive and defensive. On that ground he would support it, provided it went on the same footing as Craft Masonry, making itself universal. As regarded religious creeds, he could meet every honest Christian or Mahometan and go into treaty with him, offensive and defensive, private and public; he was a friend of men of all creeds, and would shake hands with them when they were honest in their creeds. If creeds were not interfered with, he should support the motion.

Bro. ABRAHAMS understood that Mark Masonry was a completion of the Fellow Craft degree, just as the Royal Arch was of the third degree, and he saw nothing in it which should not be followed the same as Craft Masonry; but when he saw that it was proposed to have a treaty with degrees which were not Freemasonry, he should hold up his hand against it. He had been told the evening before that the treaty would strengthen Mark Masonry, but in that opinion he differed. In the first place, Mark Masonry did not require to be recognised by Christian Masonry. It was on a foundation of such strength and solidity that whether it was acknowledged or not by any degree, it would not be improved by such acknowledgment, though it might be injured. Masonry was universal. Freemasons were one brotherhood, knowing no distinction; and it would be a most unfair advantage to take if the Mark degree acknowledged any non-Masonic degree that refused Jews admission because they would not take a particular oath which affected their religious principles. In fact, it was re-enacting what this country had succeeded in abolishing—the religious test; and he would beg this Grand Lodge not to thrust on any man what he objected to. He was not speaking for himself, but in the name of a very large body of Christians as well as Jews. There should be no distinction in this lodge or in any other degree, and this motion certainly affected the liberty of Masons. Although it was a treaty offensive and defensive, it acknowledged these other degrees as Masonic. (Bro. BINCKES: No, no.) He thought it would be an injury, not only to the Mark Degree in particular but to the Craft in general, as it would give offence to a very large number of Mark Masters, and would probably be the means of many renouncing the Mark Degree. It would raise a question whether Grand Mark Lodge was not offending Grand Craft Lodge of England. The question was one of principle, and was most important. He hoped never to read that Grand Mark Lodge had acknowledged a degree which said to a Mason, "You shall not be admitted into these Orders, unless you take a certain form of obligation." He wished to keep Mark Masonry purely Masonic, without interfering with any Order which had a religious test to prove its identity.

Bro. the EARL PERCY, D.G.M., differed from Bro. Abrahams, when he said that Masonry knew no distinction of creed. If he looked at the rules and constitutions of Grand Lodge he would find it said, that no Atheist could be a member. At the same time, any one acquainted with Masonry would allow that there was some reference to a future state, and a Mason could hardly be an honest and hearty Mason, unless he believed in such a state. But the whole difficulty which seemed to press on the minds of the Jewish brethren with regard to this treaty, arose from a misconception as to the meaning of the treaty. There was nothing to prevent a treaty being entered into with a Turk, and if we did, it could not be said that we thereby sacrificed our principles or our Christianity. Between nations it was customary to enter into treaties, and if we took the case of an Extradition Treaty, he could not see that principle or Christianity was compromised, if it was entered into with a Turk or a Roman Catholic. He could not allow that the treaty under discussion was in a different position. There might be cases in which it would be unavoidable to recognise a particular body, but he thought they were justified in treating these bodies as Masonic for the purpose of this treaty.

Bro. JOSHUA NUNN could see that even among the Jewish brethren there was a divided opinion, but the strongest arguments they had used were against themselves. There was no desire from the first to introduce anything into the Mark Degree that would hurt the religious opinions of any brethren. By entering into a treaty offensive and defensive with all outside itself, Grand Mark Lodge was strengthening itself in that it reduced to the smallest limits the differences that could arise between them. Any great body that recognised Grand Mark Lodge threw its protection around it; not in any way to amalgamate with it, or to interfere with it but to support it as it was. He wished to narrow the jealousies of Freemasonry as much as possible. It was much better for all the degrees that it should be so. No one felt more strongly on this point than he, while at the same time he felt the greatest repugnance to interfering with any one's religious creed.

Bro. J. H. WYNNE, asked whether if a Mark brother offended this Grand Lodge and it excluded him, would the other degrees exclude him from their meetings without hearing him? If they did, would that be justice?

Bro. BENSON, G. Reg., thought the speech of the Deputy Grand Master was a most conclusive answer to the objections which had been raised, and his example of an Extradition Treaty was an excellent illustration of the treaty proposed between this degree and the others. If brethren of the Jewish persuasion thought, that by an indirect side-wind some waft of Christianity would be introduced into Mark Masonry, it was an entire mistake. He for one would strongly protest against such a proceeding. If the great historic race of the Jews, who were very powerful, had been even more powerful than they were, he as a Christian would not hesitate to put his hand to a treaty with them. He thought that on consideration they would come to a different conclusion to that which they had expressed that evening.

Bro. M. A. LOEWENSTARK moved that the consideration of the subject be adjourned to next Grand Lodge.

Another BROTHER having seconded the amendment,

The GRAND MASTER, in reply, said he regretted that any Jewish brother should suppose there was anything in the treaty that would in any way prejudice them. It was merely a treaty of friendly recognition of the rulers of each body. It left the Mark where it found it, and the other degrees were it found them. The Mark did not interfere with them, nor they with the Mark. It was as Masonic, as universal, as unsectarian as ever. Perhaps brethren were not aware that the Duke of Leinster, as G. Master of the Craft, was the head of all these degrees in Ireland; and it was so in France. The head of the Grand Orient, was the head of all the Orders, which were united in one confederation, and if any brother when he went home would take the trouble to look at the Grand Lodge of Ireland Constitutions, he would find that if a Knight Templar there was adjudged by his council to have behaved in such a way as to unfit him for companionship with his brethren, the fact was communicated to the Grand Chapter or Craft Grand Lodge, and the sentence was carried out in them; because it was held, that if a brother was not fit to be a member of one degree, he was not fit to be a member of another. Lately, Mark Lodge of England had had vast difficulties with Grand Chapter of Scotland. That Grand Chapter had several Mark Lodges in England, and refused to recognise this Grand Lodge. It also set up rival lodges, and had within a fortnight established a Provincial Grand Lodge in Lancashire. What would be the consequence? No brother who was not a Scotch Mark Master would be allowed admission to Scotch Mark Lodges, which were in open rebellion against English Mark Lodges. This he thought was the very height of illiberality. He was, some years ago, a member of the Apollo University Lodge of Oxford, in which city there was also a flourishing town lodge, and those lodges were on the most friendly terms. It seemed perfectly legitimate that they should help each other, that Grand Lodge of Scotland should not stir up rebellion against English Grand Mark Lodge, and vice versa. As to putting the consideration of the treaty off till next Grand Lodge, he thought it best not. He was anxious to have the matter concluded; it would help this degree exceedingly. Whatever they did that night must be put for confirmation at next Grand Lodge, and the brethren would have an opportunity of raising the question again if there was the feeling which the Jewish brethren supposed there was in the Masonic body, but which he (the Grand Master) did not think there was. It was very possible that if this lodge took no preliminary steps of going into treaty with these bodies within the next two months they might not do it at all. Those bodies were trying to have a mutual treaty with one another, and they now offered the opportunity to this degree of entering into it. If they said, "No, we must have an opportunity of considering it," the time might slip by, and the advantage would be lost. This lodge did not sacrifice one iota by the treaty; on the contrary, it would be a gainer. No one would oppose more strenuously than he the introduction of anything into the Order that would affect the universality of Masonry; and feeling confident that this treaty would not so affect Masonry, he thought it right that it should be entered into.

The amendment was then put, and was supported by only three brethren.

The original motion, that Lord Carnarvon and the Grand Master be authorised to enter into the treaty, was therefore put and carried.

The report of the General Board was read by Bro. BINCKES, and Grand Lodge proceeded to consider the special report, made in accordance with the conclusions come to at the last Grand Lodge, on the Royal Ark Mariners' Degree.

Bro. BINCKES read a summary of the recommendations of the committee, which included a proposal to join the Ark Mariners' Grand Lodge to the Mark Grand Lodge, and the terms on which it should be done. The committee found that the Ark Mariners' degree was very ancient, and had been worked in different countries; that there was nothing to prevent it being worked here under Mark Grand Lodge; that it was not desirable to have extra supreme jurisdictions; that Mark Lodges desiring to work the degree should petition Grand Mark Lodge; that a warrant should be granted for 10s. 6d.; and that the certificate and registration of a Royal Ark Mariner should be 5s.

Bro. NUNN moved the adoption of the report, Bro. ABRAHAMs seconded it, and it was carried unanimously.

The clauses of the report of the General Board were then put separately and carried.

The GRAND MASTER, before closing the lodge, said, as it was the last meeting before the winter, he wished to say that it would be his duty to issue a very solemn protest against the action of the Grand Chapter of Scotland in creating Lancashire into a Province of Scotch Mark Masonry, in defiance of this English Mark Grand Lodge. As soon as his protest had been sent to the Grand Chapter of Scotland, he would forward a copy of it to the Master of every English Mark Lodge. He also begged to say that it would give him great pleasure during the autumn to visit the whole of the London Mark Lodges.

The Grand Lodge was then formally closed and adjourned.

A HUSBAND'S LOVE.

The touching incident recorded in this sonnet recently occurred within the knowledge of my friend and neighbour, the Rev. J. M. Williams, Rector of Burnby, who communicated it to me. The young wife of a barrister, in the extremity of weakness, was only saved from death by the "transfusion" of her husband's blood into her veins. He fainted twice, but she recovered. Instances of recovery by this extreme remedy are not unknown in medical annals, but this incident, with its peculiar attendant circumstances is worthy of record.

Lower and lower he beholds her sink

In mortal weakness, till life's dragging wheels

Refuse to move; and in despair he feels

Her all but lost—on danger's utmost brink.

From love's forlornest hope he does not shrink;

Out of his own warm veins the blood he steals,

Pouring it into hers, while his brain reels:

'Twixt wife and husband, oh, how dear the link!

He gave his blood, and saved his darling wife;

Great was the love, the self devotion rare;

Dim shadow of His love beyond compare,

Who not for friends poured forth the pride of life,

But enemies, and made of them His Bride,

To walk in white for ever at His side!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A large and important class of society suffer year after year, and has life robbed of half its pleasures through subjection to some cutaneous complaint readily remediable by Holloway's treatment. His wonderful productions have now become so appreciated in every part of the world, that they form a complete household treasure. The worst cases of ulcers, wounds, and every variety of skin diseases, for which so many remedies have been tried without effect, readily succumb to their power; they act so miraculously on the system as to be considered a complete phenomenon in the healing art. For this reason they are advocated by many modern practitioners after everything else has proved unsuccessful.—[Advt.]

CONSECRATION OF A NEW M.M. LODGE AT GUILDFORD.

On Thursday week a new Mark Lodge—the Percy Lodge, No. 144—was consecrated at the Angel Hotel, Guildford, which promises to be one of the most flourishing, as well as distinguished, in the South of England, the Right Hon. Earl Percy, M.P., D. Grand Mark Master, having consented to be the first W.M., and to allow the lodge to be called after him.

The consecration ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. R. Portal, M.W.G. Mark Master, assisted by Bro. W. Beach, M.P., Past G.M.M.; Bro. Binckes, G. Sec., &c.

Bro. Beach then installed Earl Percy, after which Bro. Binckes, with his usual ability, advanced Bros. Nealds, Drewett, Piggott, Cookson, Botting, Mason, Molyneux, Charrington, and Neate.

Seven candidates for advancement were announced for the next meeting.

The W.M. appointed Bros. Riversdale Grenfell and Rev. L. O. Bigg, Wardens; Captain James, R.E., and Bros. Drewett and Wells, Overseers.

After the business the brethren adjourned to a banquet presided over by the W.M., which was served in Bro. Michaux's well-known style.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW M.M. LODGE AT NEWPORT.

Under the designation of the Keystone Lodge, No. 109, a new lodge of Mark Master Masons was opened at Newport, on Monday week. The impressive ceremony of consecration was performed at the Masonic Hall, by V.W. Bro. Frederick Binckes, of London, Grand Secretary of the Order. There were twenty-eight candidates advanced, and six brethren were admitted as joining members, making a total of thirty-four. Colonel Lyne, D.P.G.M. of the Monmouthshire Fraternity of Freemasons, was installed as W.M. of the new lodge, and nominated the following officers: Bros. H. Hillier, S.W.; W. Watkins, J.W.; W. Randall, M.O.; E. Esp, S.O.; G. Fothergill, J.O.; S. Fox, Chaplain; W. R. Pickford, Treasurer; C. W. Ingram, Registrar; W. Williams, Secretary; C. Oliver, S.D.; R. J. Chambers, J.D.; Jas. Horner, D.C.; E. Tapson, Organist; H. J. Gratte, I.G.; W. McFee, Tyler.

After the ceremony, the brethren adjourned to the King's Head Hotel, where Mr. Gretton had provided a most magnificent banquet. The W.M., Col. Lyne, D.P.G.M., presided, and among the company present were: Bros. F. Binckes, G.S.; J. H. Jukes (Chaplain for Hereford), F. Langley (Cardiff), T. G. South (Cardiff), W. Pickford, B. Thomas, C. H. Oliver, S. T. Hallen, C. W. Ingram, T. M. Cole, W. Watkins, H. Sheppard, Charles Homfray, R. S. Roper, G. Homfray, H. Hillier, R. J. Chambers, W. R. Matthews, Ll. Gravenor, H. Williams (Swansea), Reuben Evans, E. Esp, W. Randall, G. Fothergill, E. J. Tapson, S. Coombs, W. Williams, G. J. Jacob, J. James, E. J. Thomas, A. Taylor, J. Horner, H. J. Gratte, D. L. James, —Willans (Cardiff), D. Roberts, J. Phipps (Cardiff), A. Isaacs, and Capt. Utlez.

The following toasts were duly proposed and acknowledged:—"The Queen and the Craft," "The Prince of Wales and all the Royal Family," "The M.W. the G.M., the R.W. the D.G.M., and Grand Lodge of England," "The M.W., the G.M., and the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons," "The D.P.G.M., and the P.G. Lodge of Monmouthshire," "The W.M. 109," "The V.W. Bro. Binckes, G. Secretary," "The Visitors," "The Members of 109," "The Masonic Lodges in the Province," "The Masonic Charities," "The Press," "The Ladies," and "To all Poor and Distressed Masons," &c.

A very pleasing evening was spent, and it was considered that the new lodge had been floated under very encouraging auspices.

THE summer meeting of the British Oak Lodge, No. 831, will take place at the King's Head, Chigwell, on Monday, the 8th day of August. Banquet on table at 2 o'clock precisely.

TRADING IN DISEASED MEAT.—Not a week passes but brings before us more and more urgently the necessity for stricter regulations respecting the sale of diseased meat. From Leicester comes the case of a whole family poisoned, and with difficulty recovered, by eating putrid sausages. From Turvey, in Bedfordshire, we have a story of a cow being slaughtered in the last stage of disease, and sent up to the metropolitan market for the benefit of the meat-eating Londoners. And we do not hesitate to say that, for every case of the sort of which we hear, there are twenty which do not reach us, but which are overlooked or hushed up. We require a very much more stringent law, to reach every person who dabbles in diseased meat, including the salesman who receives it, the inspector who passes it, the butcher who kills it, and, above all, the owner—for whom imprisonment without a fine would not be at all too severe a punishment.—Food Journal.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

PHILALETHES.—We must refer you to the opinion expressed upon your letter by "A Barrister," merely adding that you appear ready to condemn in another that which you are willing to perpetrate yourself.

LEX.—See "Book of Constitutions," p. 92, "Removal of Lodges." No lodge requires re-consecration; notice must be given to the Grand Secretary, and a copy of the minutes of such removal must be sent.

THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.—On Monday evening, at a meeting of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, held in Edinburgh, the Earl Dalhousie, Most Worshipful Grand Master, said he had great pleasure in announcing that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales had signified to him his intention that, on his return from the Highlands, in October, he would be pleased to visit Edinburgh for the purpose of being installed as Patron of the Order in Scotland. At the same meeting the Earl of Zetland was appointed an honorary member of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, in recognition of his Lordship's services to the Craft during the long period of twenty-six years.—Echo.

MASONIC REFORM.

THE necessity for reform in every human institution is one which perpetually proclaims itself as the days and years roll round; and the true legislator's wisdom is best shown by his recognition of this inevitable necessity in the enactment of laws which shall accord best with the spirit of his time. Some people, nevertheless, are for ever reverting to primitive principles, and sighing after ideals of the past, which have long been swallowed up in the advancing waves of the present. These men, like a certain noble lord, would have us exchange a high state of mental development for the physical advantages of the "noble savage," and some even would gladly see the world thrust back into the ignorance and gloom of the Middle Ages, rather than see it move in a direction which is opposed to their own peculiar views. The triumph of constitutional principles in a country like England has not been achieved without a long and dreary probation in the regions of despotism, and neither have the blessings of peace been won, in many instances, until men had previously passed through the fiery ordeal of war. What was good for our forefathers is not necessarily good for us. Reform, therefore, when needed, should be the watchword of every admirer of progress who desires to see systems improved but not destroyed.

Now, with respect to the basic principles of Freemasonry—the root and marrow of the whole matter—we desire to record our deliberate conviction that as they are founded upon the eternal laws of truth, any attempt to change or pervert those principles should be met by the Craft with the most strenuous opposition. No matter how specious the pretext, or how plausible the proposal, it should be resolutely spurned. For example, the implied suggestion of one of our correspondents that the volume of the Sacred Law should be banished from our lodge pedestals, to be replaced by the Book of Constitutions!

Here we have the thin end of that wedge which has been driven home into the hearts of our brethren on the Continent, much to the regret—we had almost said the horror—of every true Mason. It is this sad negation of every principle of religion which causes our Order to be regarded with distrust by all who believe in honour and virtue. It is this pandering to the Rationalists and Ré-nanists which creates for Freemasonry hosts of enemies amongst those who would otherwise be her natural friends and defenders.

The remark of our correspondent, that Masonry is not a religion, we fancy we have heard before; and moreover it is beside the question, which is simply this: Are we to oblige our candidates upon a volume which they acknowledge to be sacred, and thereby render the vow binding on their consciences as men of honour; or are we to use a book which simply contains our own laws and regulations? It is needless to add that if we adopt the latter there is no longer any safeguard or barrier against the admission of men who, already defying all laws human and divine, would not be likely to pay particular reverence to those contained in the Constitutions of Freemasonry. No frothy declamation about "universality" or the "rights of man," shall ever induce us to consent to any such violation of our ancient landmarks, and we therefore counsel our correspondent to advocate Masonic reform in another direction. But although we resent the least indication of an assault upon the fundamental tenets of the Craft, we are by no means blind to the fact, that many improvements might be made with advantage in the statutes which govern some of the Masonic Jurisdictions; And we are glad to see that an effort is now being made to wipe out a long-standing reproach to the laws of the Grand Lodge of Scotland.

The facility with which Scottish candidates can attain, not merely the Craft degrees, but the grades of the Chapter, the Priory, and the Ancient and Accepted Rite, would never be tolerated in any country. It is but a few months since that a Greek resident in Manchester went to Scotland, was entered, passed, and raised in one day; "arched," as they call it, the next; "knighted" the third; made a Knight Kadosh; and, to crown all, this man—who, probably, knows as much of Masonry as a Malay, and who has certainly never presided over a lodge—has been chosen a member of the Supreme Grand Council, 33°, for Scotland! Now, we contend that all this is simply calculated to bring the Order into contempt. It not only offends the good and zealous Mason who thus witnesses the promotion, for a pecuniary consideration, of insignificant mediocrities, but it disgusts thinking men, whether in or out of the Fraternity, with the legislation that can sanction such a perversion of the original designs of the Institution.

Some of our Scottish brethren desire to stop these proceedings—at least so far as the Craft degrees are concerned—and we heartily wish them success.

From our own experience we can safely endorse the statement circulated by Bro. W. J. HAMILTON, of Glasgow, and published in our last issue, that Scottish Masons are regarded with some suspicion, and not altogether unjustly, in England; and this unpleasant state of affairs is mainly due to the loose system which prevails in Scotland of conferring the degrees in one day. An English Entered Apprentice cannot, under any circumstances, be advanced to the second degree at a less interval than four weeks; and a similar period must elapse before he can be raised to the degree of a Master Mason. In the interim he is required to make himself acquainted with the principles of the degree to which he has been admitted, and is required to undergo an examination before he can be passed or raised. Bro. HAMILTON proposes two weeks, instead of four, as the interval of probation, and he also is willing to confer upon the Grand Master a dispensing power even within this limit. We will not be captious or ungracious because we ourselves prefer the English system, but honestly hail the movement of Bro. HAMILTON and his friends as one which will tend to the permanent honour and advantage of Freemasonry in Scotland.

Nor is the moment inopportune to say a word of caution to brethren of every nationality. Look well to the character and reputation of all who seek admission into our Brotherhood. A Society like ours must inevitably contain a few black sheep, who, at the time of their initiation, appeared robed in garments of light; but there are others whose true colours might have been ascertained by due inquiry at the time. We do not want men who cheat their creditors, and whose names will be found more readily in the list of bankrupts than in the roll of subscribers to Masonic charities. We do not want the frivolous man of fashion, whose heart is in his varnished boots. Nor, on the other hand, do we want men of the uneducated classes, whose objects can be best attained by joining one of the many excellent benefit societies of the day. But the advocates of progress, the upholders of morality, the lamp-bearers of thought, will ever be welcomed into the bosom of a Fraternity whose watchword is "Light!"

THE "ANCIENTS."

Permit me to say, in reply to Bro. Hughan's courteous suggestion, that I intend giving a "sketch" of the so-called "Ancients" as soon as possible, under the caption "Freemasonry in England." At present I am away from home, and my notes on the subject are not accessible.

THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

THE RED CROSS ORDER.

I have great pleasure in stating that a declaration of the principles of the Red Cross Order, written by the late Judge Waller R. Wright in 1806, has been recently discovered and placed in my hands. This important document I hope to publish shortly, and I may add that it affords positive proof that the ideas which governed the Revivalists in 1865 were perfectly in unison with those of their illustrious predecessors.

R. W. L.

According to a report of proceedings in your issue of the 23rd ult. it appears that the initiation fee in Scotland is only 3s. 6d. Is not this the reason we see so many Scotch Masons in London soliciting assistance from their English brethren?

MINIATURE JEWELS.

I am accustomed to use a set of miniature jewels, and should like to add to them a miniature of the Zetland medal, which was presented at the inauguration of the new buildings in Great Queen-street. Are there any holders of the medal who would like to join me in the cost of this?

LUPUS.

"HOW AND WHERE DID SOLOMON DIE?"

With reference to the death of King Solomon I send you a copy of memorandum from my Masonic notebook, as follows:—"The footstone of the Temple was levelled on Monday, 21st April, A.M. 2992, after the flood 1336, B.C. 1012, in the 11th year of the reign of King Solomon. King Solomon died B.C. 975, aged 58 years."

JAMES FREDERICK SPURR, P.M. 200.

W. P. B. AND "HENRY VI. MS."

Bro. W. P. B. is quite right in stating that the alleged MS. of Henry VI. is not to be found in the famous Bodleian Library in Oxford. It is now pretty generally believed to be a spurious MS., as respects to its origin, &c., and in that opinion I entirely concur. Information on the point may be obtained by reference to the Halliwell MS. in print, "Findel's History of Freemasonry," Rev. J. Dallanay's "History of Architecture," &c.

W. JAMES HUGHAN.

WAR AND MASONRY.

I think the leading article on "War" in THE FREEMASON for July 30th, 1870, most opportune. Surely, as members of so honourable and benevolent a Society as that of the Free and Accepted Masons, we should each in our sphere endeavour to promulgate the glorious principles of "Peace and good will towards men;" and, then, even if war does occur, the awful effects following victory will be lessened, and gradually, as the people of the various nations become less warlike, the governments will follow the national and popular will, the "crowned heads" will cease to quarrel, and their subjects will be left to enjoy the blessings of peace and prosperity. As a member of the Peace Society I thank you for the excellent and eminently-Masonic article on "War."

W. JAMES HUGHAN.

In last week's FREEMASON there is a copy of a proposition to be brought before the Grand Lodge of Scotland, to the effect that there shall be an interval of a fortnight between each of the three degrees. Would it not be a favourable opportunity of making the interval the same as in England—namely, twenty-eight days; and thus producing uniformity in this respect in both countries?

ANCIENT CATHEDRALS.

A brother says: "One of the many objects for which Masonry exists, I submit, should be that its professors be first and foremost in the restoration of those grand memorials of the past—those masterpieces of the old Craftsmen which adorn our land and link us with antiquity." One noble example of this may be found in the person of the Earl of Roslin, the present Deputy Grand Master Mason of Scotland, who has been the means of getting Roslin Chapel (among one of the finest specimens of architecture in Europe) restored to somewhat of its original beauty.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

Various improvements represent themselves from time to time for the better guidance of the Craft, but none more so than the present one: "The members shall not be subject to canvass or previous solicitation, but shall have their minds free from prejudice to decide on the merits of each case with the impartiality and purity of Masonic feeling." If this motion was made law, a much healthier system would prevail than at present, where too often we find leading members of the Craft giving their support to matters which they have never investigated, but trusting merely to what an interested canvasser has represented to them. Many examples might be given. Every member of the Craft is supposed to be Free, and therefore ought to act as such.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

CURIOSITIES OF JUDAISM.

We extract the following notes from our contemporary the Jewish Chronicle, taken from a note-book of "P.A.":—

"GATE OF PENITENCE."

"When an Israelite committed a sin, on the morrow it was found written either on his forehead or the door of his house. He then went to a place which is now included in the Great Mosque, and called the Gate of Penitence; there he performed penance, and when that penance was accepted the miraculous writing disappeared.—Fundgruben, des Orients."

"CROMWELL AND THE JEWS."

"Cromwell laid Manasseh Ben Israel's proposal before a meeting composed of two judges, seven citizens of London, and the divines. The judges considered their toleration merely as a point of law, and declared they knew of no law against it; and that, if it were thought useful to the state, they would advise it. The citizens viewed it in a commercial light, and as probably they had different trade interests, they were divided in opinion as to its utility. Both of these, however, despatched the matter briefly. But most of the divines violently opposed it, by text after text, for four whole days. Cromwell was at length wearied, and told them he had hoped they would throw some light on the subject to direct his conscience; but, instead of this, they had rendered it more obscure than before. He desired, therefore, no more of their counsels; but, lest he should do anything rashly, he begged a share in their prayers. Sir Paul Ricaut, who was then a young man, pressed in among the crowd, and said he never heard a man speak so well in his life as Cromwell did on this occasion.—Orme, Life of Owen."

"PROVERBS OF THE RABBIS."

"The Jews of the Holy Land, when they visit in pilgrimage the graves of the ancient rabbis, repeat over the grave those proverbs which the rabbi who is there interred used most frequently to inculcate to his disciples.—Barlotocci, vol. 1."

"PHARAOH'S BATH."

"The Arabs tell a thousand stories of certain hot waters in a grotto, which they call Pharaoh's Bath. Among others, that, if you put four eggs in it, you can take out but three, the devil always keeping one for himself.—1 heavenot."

"THE EYE."

"py in Hebrew signifies equally an eye or a spring; so does Mathi in modern Greek, and so in Spanish ojos."

"JEPHTHA'S DAUGHTER."

"Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" The reader may be amused with the following list of combatants, who, at different times, have taken place in this arena. I shall begin with those who believe that Jephtha's daughter was doomed only to the service of the Tabernacle, or, at most, to a life of seclusion. There are on this side the rabbis Kimchi and Maimonides; Arias Montanus, Pagninus, Vatablus, Estias, Junius, Ludovicus de Dieu, Pool, Broughton, Perkins, Drusius, Grotius, Le Clerc, Patrick, Heinsius, Seldon, Saurin, Hales, and Glegg. But the adherents of the opposite opinion muster equally strong, at least in point of number. Josephus, Justin Martyr, Tertullian, Jerome, Chrysostom, Ambrose, Augustine, Luther, Peter Martyr, Salianus, Serarius, Menochius, Ludovicus Capellus, Lightfoot, Edwards, Jurieu, Michaelis, Jennings, and Burder.—Russell, Connect. Sacred and Profane Literature."

"CLASSICAL RESEMBLANCES."

"I have taken no notice in the text of the resemblance which the history of Jephtha's daughter bears to that of Iphigenia, the daughter of Agamemnon. Lucius Capellus is of opinion that the latter was borrowed from the former, and even that the Grecian maid obtained her name from the Hebrew judge, quasi Jephthigenia. The similarity is, no doubt, striking, but we have no reason to believe that it is more than accidental. It is, at the same time, amusing to find the Heathen poet no less anxious than the Christian divine to save the reputation of the father from the stain of innocent blood. (See Ovid xii. 31—36.) A story, which in some parts reminds us of Jephtha's vow, is mentioned by Servius in his commentary on the third book of the Æneid. When Idomeneus, the King of Crete, and a descendant of Deucalion, was on his return home from the war of Troy, he was overtaken by a violent storm, during which he vowed to offer to the gods the object that should first meet him when he landed. It happened that his only son was the first to meet him, whom, as he was bound by oath, he proceeded to offer as a sacrifice. There is a doubt whether he actually perpetrated the crime, but as a pestilence arose soon after, which was ascribed to the wicked act or purpose of the king, the Cretans expelled him from the government.—Russell."

As a corollary to your admirable article on "War," the following remarks of the Daily Telegraph on the "Association for the Relief of Wounded Soldiers" will probably be read with interest by your numerous readers, whose hearts, I am certain, throb equally with yours in the sacred cause of peace and humanity.

HERMANN KAUNITZ.

"Sixteen years ago, the field of battle was invaded, and the savage scenes of war were astonished and softened by her whose dear and noble name is still like a benediction—Florence Nightingale. Her example was taken up by the noble women of the Sanitary Commission, who attended the Northern Army during the American Civil War, and whose deeds of silent heroism and perfect womanhood, if truly told, would make all other 'glory' coarse and common. Danish and Prussian dames took up the task of help in the Schleswig-Holstein campaign; and, throughout 1866, the ladies of Brescia followed the beautiful example towards the soldiers of Italy. More recently, this new and beautiful compassionate idea of succour given by Peace to War—by the weak to the strong—by non-combatants to armies—has produced an organised system of help, and has set on foot a perfectly novel department of belligerency—that of 'The International Association for the Relief of Wounded Soldiers.' The society has its banner and its ranks, its well-defined rights of war and its programme of duties. The Great Powers of Europe have recognised its existence, and have agreed to protect its agents upon the field. The white badge with the red cross—its ensign—is, by common consent, to come and go, free and unharmed, upon the errand of indiscriminate compassion; for this society, the direct result of the initiative taken by our noble countrywoman, knows and will know no difference of race or side. Its quarrel is with the cruel consequences of war; it follows armies to the field, the enemy of nothing but the horrible misery which they inflict upon each other—the friend of each victim as he falls; and, consisting largely of feminine volunteers, it is at this moment marshalling its regiments of Christian love, and planning its merciful campaign, with alleviating comforts and hospital appliances for its weapons, and no armour of defence but the red cross flag. We shall see how the savage spirit of war can tolerate such a presence; but if toleration is impossible—if this most gentle and gallant company becomes a constant adjunct to the art of war—we repeat, that it gives us no slight hope for the race. There is in the human breast, after all, a sense of right, a spark of reason, which can better resist the preached maxims of Christianity than its visible practice. Hitherto, when the day of battle has ended, it has been the task of the victor to take up his wounded, leaving to the vanquished the care of theirs. But if it should become the practice that, after the horrible encounter, an unarmed band occupies the ground—true victors of the soil, because its members conquer fear and danger for the love of God and man; if, whatever banner waves triumphant, the little red cross flag shines more brightly and more proudly in proportion as charity is greater than hate and humanity is more than dynasties—will not that spectacle teach mankind something? Can populations be so persistently blind and so incorrigibly brutal, that a ray of reason will not break across their minds, when they see these women compassionately repairing the cruelties of fight, binding up the bloody wounds, assuaging the thirst of the dying, and healing, so far as tenderness and toil can, the after curse of 'Glory'? We differ from our correspondent when he declares that such work is not for women. It is their work! The weaker and the more helpless such helpers are, the stronger and more eloquent is their protest. It is their work! The flag of this new and courageous crusade will be best respected when nothing but its holiness and loving-kindness protect it. None can reprove so well as these gentle camp-followers the horrible monstrosity which makes two nations decimate each other for a frontier or a crown. Their presence will be a silent condemnation of those who have entailed the warfare. They will hold up the standard of Christian courage and soldiership against the stern and cruel badges of military renown; and, seeing with clear eyes the shame and the misery of 'victory,' they will spread among us, on returning, a truer idea of that frightful barbarism called war, and will tell the world, with lips that cannot be disbelieved, what a battle-field is really like. The time is over now to plead for peace; but let the voice of civilisation plead for those who represent Peace in the thick of war; and let the combatants be judged, among other things, by the perfect homage which they shall pay to these Red Cross battalions, who fight against pain, against death, and misery, for the common brotherhood of man."

AN "IMPERIAL HIGHNESS."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As you have referred to me certain correspondence respecting the alleged claims of a gentleman named Rhodocanakis to the title of "Imperial Highness," and desired my opinion thereon, I have no hesitation in stating that in view of the publicity lately given to Mr. Rhodocanakis' pretensions in various public prints, the discussion of his claims is now a subject in which the utmost freedom of opinion can be exercised. I consider, therefore, that the enquiry of "J. A. H." at page 358 of your columns is a perfectly justifiable one, and that "Sp." is not warranted in imputing personal malice to "J. A. H.," or in applying the term "libel" to his letter.

The communication of "Philaethes," which you have shown me in type, is undoubtedly a scandalous libel, not only as regards "J. A. H.," but also with reference to Sir Bernard Burke, whose professional impartiality is seriously impugned.

Upon the abstract question, it may be observed that the title of "Imperial Highness" legally appertains only to the cadets of existing Imperial Houses, and that the assumption of such a designation by an alleged descendant of the Byzantine Emperors is unquestionably open to objection, inasmuch as no Byzantine empire has existed for nearly 400 years; and, moreover, the governments of every nation have long since recognised the Sultans of Turkey as the legitimate successors of the Constantinian race in their territorial character.

I am yours fraternally,

A BARRISTER.

THE "PRINCE" RHODOCANAKIS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I admire the tone of injured innocence assumed by "Sp." respecting the doubts thrown by "J. A. H." upon the pretensions of "Sp.'s" phantom prince, whose empire is in the clouds, and whose possessions are in dreamland. When "Sp." talks of "libel," he should remember that his "Imperial Highness" (?), under the initials of R. 33°, has been libelling a brother to his heart's content for some weeks past in the congenial columns of a contemporary. At first it was suggested by a witty friend of mine that R. XXXIII. meant the stalwart policeman who wears those hieroglyphics on his collar, and who had suddenly gone mad in the dog-days; but the appearance of ° at the end of the English letter and the Roman numerals, proclaimed the presence of a Greek o, which signifies nothing. Fortunately, the reputation of no respectable man or Mason is likely to be affected by these coyotes, whose bark is worse than their bite.

The sooner his "Highness" dethrones King George and becomes Pacha of the Hellenes the better, or perhaps he might as well "go in" at once for the "Sublime Porte."

Yours fraternally,

COMMON SENSE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—I shall not condescend to notice the personalities of "Sp.," which are beneath contempt.

Sir Bernard Burke is a public man, occupying an official position as Ulster King-at-Arms, and is therefore accessible to all persons whose studies connect them with genealogical and heraldic pursuits. He is moreover the editor of a standard work on "Orders of Knighthood," in which he gives the insignia and names of all the authorised heads of public orders. Sir Bernard is also editor of a "Peerage," which contains a list of properly accredited foreign titles, whose owners reside in the United Kingdom. Some years ago the Times published an account of proceedings in which the Baron De Bliars was concerned, and demanded to know who the Baron De Bliars was? The Baron wrote to the Times and referred to "Burke's Peerage," a reference which satisfied everybody.

Without bandying words, it is sufficient to say that the name of the Manchester merchant, who calls himself "Prince" Rhodocanakis, is not in either of Sir Bernard Burke's works. Your readers can therefore judge for themselves what claim he has to be a "prince," or the head of a distinguished order of public knighthood.

Within the last few years an ex-valet, calling himself also a "Prince," a low-class Italian claiming to be a "Duke," and a pseudo "Marquis," have done a large trade in selling their miserable decorations. Surely, then, there is need for caution in these matters.

We have plenty of "talk, talk" about "H.I.H. Prince Rhodocanakis" and plenty of "inspired" information, but, hitherto, all this grandiloquence has not been backed by an atom of proof. Where there is so much assertion and so little argument there is apt to be a weak case. Speaking on behalf of a large number of our foreign brethren, I know this affair has made us a laughing stock abroad. One brother in Paris told me he should have to call himself "Count" if he came to England and wanted to get on among us.

Yours fraternally,

London, August 1, 1870.

THE 1717 THEORY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The controversy that has been carried on for some considerable time in the columns of THE FREEMASON on the theory of 1717, not always characterised by the kindness of feeling and courtesy of manner which one would like to find prevailing in all Masonic controversies, seems to me, and I believe to others, as if it were degenerating into little more than a mere personal contest, and not likely, in such case, to be very edifying to lookers-on, nor to those who care very little as to the question in controversy, but are led to read what the "champions" on either side write, because it appears in the columns of THE FREEMASON. My Masonic erudition is far too scant to permit me to take any part in the controversy, but—if I may say so without intending to give offence—it really seems to be, in great part, but "a war of words." I do not understand that those who maintain "the antiquity" of Freemasonry claim a great antiquity for it under precisely its present aspect or with all its present accessories; and I do not see how it can be denied that Speculative Masonry existed before it received its present external form and ritual, early in the 18th century. If the controversy is to proceed, it would be well and merciful to some of us, unlearned in ancient lore, if the assertors of the 1717 theory would say precisely what they contend for, and how they dispose of the statement in "Chambers' Cyclopædia, published in 1743, as quoted by Bro. C. Goodwyn in the last number of THE FREEMASON, that Freemasonry is "a very ancient society or body of men," who were then (in 1743) "very considerable, both for numbers and character, being found in every country in Europe." To speak thus of a body that had been but 26 years in existence, would be a misuse of language hardly to be pardoned.

WILLIAM CARPENTER.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I shall be glad to hear from the Provincial Grand Secretaries of the various provinces in England, relative to the bye-law referred to at page 362 of THE FREEMASON for July 30th, as to the admission of candidates into Freemasonry who are "non-residents," and especially whether such a law is in operation in their jurisdictions, and if found to be beneficial.

I think myself the bye-law in question is calculated to confer lasting benefits on the Fraternity wherever it is adopted.

Yours fraternally,

W. JAMES HUGHAN,

Prov. G. Sec. Cornwall.

Truro, Cornwall, July 30, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I notice in the Evening Standard of this day that the Freemasons' lodge at Mentz has been given up for the purpose of making lint for the wounded soldiers. Could none of your numerous readers suggest any means whereby the Freemasons of England, as a body, could show their sympathy with the sufferings of their fellow-creatures, irrespective of all political or national questions, acknowledging as they do the common brotherhood of all humanity.

I am,

CHARITY.

July 29, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was much grieved at a letter which appeared in your last week's issue from your well-known and frequent correspondent Bro. Buchan, in which he threw doubts as to whether the Bible or the Book of Constitutions is the proper book to place on the Masonic pedestal. I am not acquainted with the Scotch system of Freemasonry, but from the fact of their having an officer called a "Bible Bearer," I presume the Sacred Writings have a place in their lodges as they have in ours; and I humbly submit that if the Sacred Volume were excluded, the whole fabric of our institution must fall to the ground, and I hope that Bro. Buchan will reflect before he rushes into print, as if he had done so I am sure he could not have penned the letter referred to.

I am, Sir and Brother,
CONSISTENCY.

THE PROV. GRAND MASTER-DESIGNATE FOR EAST LANCASHIRE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The following thoroughly practical address was delivered at the Bull Inn, Preston, on Wednesday, November 18th, 1829, at a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of West Lancashire, by our late lamented Grand Master, Le Gendre Nicholas Starkie, Esq., M.P., Now that his worthy son has been designated to succeed the late venerable and venerated Stephen Blair, it will be read with some interest.

Yours fraternally,
Warrington, July 1870. JOHN BOWES.

Right Worshipful, and Worshipful Officers, and Brethren,—It is with unfeigned pleasure that I again meet my Masonic brethren in Provincial Grand Lodge, and I cannot allow the opportunity which it presents to me to pass, without making a few observations to you, which I trust will tend to the general good and prosperity of Freemasonry. Speaking as I am to officers of lodges, it is needless for me to state, that to you are entrusted much of the interests of Freemasonry; and I should be unworthy of the dignified station I have the honour to hold in the Fraternity, did I not, at all times, attempt to discharge the duties imposed upon me by that station in the manner I believe to be the most creditable to myself, as well as the most conducive to the respectability and the welfare of the Craft. Did I address myself to brethren just initiated into the sublime mysteries of the Order, it would, perhaps, be incumbent upon me to give some instruction in the knowledge of our art; but speaking as I now am, to those who fill high and important stations in the Fraternity—to Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, Senior and Junior Wardens of lodges—this would be a work of supererogation. We all know that the most pure and genuine piety and virtue are taught by our emblems, and in our mysteries; and knowing this, it will be well if we endeavour to act up to our profession. I shall, therefore, draw your attention to a few practical observations, which, I think, if you attend to, will be of service to you all.

1. I am afraid that the laws laid down for our guidance and instruction in the Book of Constitutions are not always acted up to in the manner they should be, if they are not even, at times, entirely evaded. Now, I need not surely remark, that a breach of the laws of any society must be very detrimental and injurious to its general prosperity; but in an institution established like Freemasonry, more especially so. You are all aware, that at the initiation of every member of the institution, he is charged to peruse the Book of Constitutions; but of what use is this recommendation, unless those who recommend this to him first set the example. As a means of obtaining this desirable end, the making every brother acquainted with the rules and regulations of his Order, I would recommend the Worshipful Master of each lodge, or some brother deputed by him, to read a portion of the Book of Constitutions on every lodge night; and I will answer, that the benefit which will accrue from this regulation will be soon seen and felt by every lodge.

2. I have heard that some lodges have been guilty of initiating persons into the Order, after knowing that they had been rejected by other lodges. This is a breach of all discipline, and as far as my influence lies, I shall discountenance such most un-Masonic conduct. We must remember that Freemasonry is universal, and that a person who is unworthy to be initiated in one lodge, must, by parity of reasoning, be also unworthy to be admitted in another. The breach of Masonic discipline to which I am alluding, has been, I am afraid, committed with open eyes; the initiating lodges well knowing that the persons alluded to had been previously rejected by other lodges, and, therefore, are left without excuse for their irregularity. Here, however, it may be asked, is then a person not to be initiated into the Order by a lodge, who has been rejected by another, when the members of the former are convinced that those of the latter have rejected him through misinformation as to his character, or whatever other reason there may be, when he has been well recommended to them, and when such members are convinced that he has been incorrectly rejected? I answer, most undoubtedly, No! except under the following case: I suppose (for the sake of the argument) a person wishes to be initiated in the lodge of A, but who has been previously rejected in the lodge of B; he is well recommended, and the lodge of A are convinced (let us call the supposed person Mr. C. D.) that Mr. C. D. has been improperly rejected by the lodge of B, as he is a person of "sound judgment, good morals," &c. The question, then, is this (it is a stronger case than is likely to happen): Is such an individual to be rejected by the lodge of A? I will give you my opinion of the most correct manner of proceeding in such a case. The W.M. of the lodge of A, should write to the W.M. of the lodge of B, informing him, that Mr. C. D. has been "well and worthily recommended to their lodge as a fit and proper person to be initiated into Freemasonry;" but understanding that he had been rejected by the lodge of B, certainly unadvisedly and ignorantly, he wished to know if the said lodge, upon the receipt of his communication, would object to his initiation in the lodge of A. Should the lodge of B object, I then think it would be the duty of the lodge of A, to apply to the Provincial Grand Lodge for guidance and instruction how to proceed. Because it would be injurious to the character of the institution, that any "just and upright man" should be improperly stopped from becoming a member of the Order. What I complain of, is this: that persons have been initiated into the Order by one lodge, with the full knowledge of their having been rejected by another, without the smallest communication having been made to the aggrieved lodge.

3. I have also heard that it is customary for some lodges to grant certificates to brethren, for the purpose of allowing them to itinerate from lodge to lodge. Now this is in manifold opposition to the laws of the society, as contained in the Book of Constitutions, pages 64 and 97. If a brother be brought to distress, "through unavoidable misfortune," there are many better ways of relieving him than by granting him a certificate. By means of an application to the Grand Lodge, which never yet rejected the application of the unfortunate, or by a subscription among the more fortunate of the Fraternity, who will not, I am persuaded, forget the peculiar period of their own initiation into Freemasonry, and refuse to assist their poor and unhappy brother. Because, if they did so, they would be unworthy of the name of a Mason. But to encourage itinerating, is not only against the Constitutions of the Order, as well as prejudicial to the interests of the Fraternity, but is also an encouragement to the idle, dissolute, and the immoral, to try and obtain initiation into Freemasonry, for the purpose of encouraging their vicious propensities and habits, and of making a gain of it.

4. I have heard it also mentioned (although some time since), that sometimes, at Masonic funerals, the solemnity and decency which should be regarded at so awful a season, when the body of a brother is about to be consigned to its kindred earth, is not always observed. Now, how any one can make, or wish to make, an idle pageantry of the solemn ceremonies, as practised by the Order at that trying moment, or utter with levity the solemn words used in any of our sublime mysteries, is to me most astonishing. I trust, however, that this is but of very rare occurrence, and I shall notice it no further, otherwise than by remarking, that solemn music, and not light and merry airs, should accompany the body of a brother "to the house appointed for all the living;" and that, after the solemnities of the interment, it would be more respectful to the memory of our deceased friend, to retire to our several homes, rather than to spend the remainder of the day, perhaps of the night, in intertempérance.

5. I wish to draw your attention, in the next place, to the subject of "Bye-laws" of lodges. You will easily remember that, more than twelve months since, a memorandum was inserted in the quarterly communication from the Grand Lodge, ordering every lodge to send forthwith a copy of their Bye-laws to the Grand Lodge; and stating, that until they were approved of by it, they could not be valid. This was nothing more than a repetition of a section of the Book of Constitutions. I hope that every lodge in the division of the county has obeyed the order. If any have not, I trust they will immediately correct their negligence. The necessity of Bye-laws is more essential to the sociability and regularity of a lodge; for instance, what authority has any lodge to charge more than £3 13s. 6d. (the least sum fixed by the Book of Constitutions), for the initiatory fee of a candidate into the Order, without a Bye-law sanctioning it? and then, as I have just observed, it is of no force unless it has received the approval of the Grand Lodge. The same thing may be said of lodge seals, they are of no use whatever; it is irregular to use them, until the impressions have been sent to, and they have received the approval of, the Grand Lodge.

6. Another observation I have to make, is this: You all know, that the profound wisdom of the Order has directed that all religious and political discussion shall be excluded from our meetings; though, at the same time, Freemasonry inculcates the strictest obedience to the laws of any country in which we may reside. Now, it is against the laws of our own, which I think, some lodges offend, when they hold their meetings on Sundays. Our meetings are usually held at inns; now you know that some of such places are ordered to be closed at a particular hour of the night on Sunday, as well as on certain hours during the day time. Do we not, then offend against the laws of our country when we hold our meetings on a Sunday? And granted that our meetings be conducted with sobriety and temperance, yet, by holding them on the above mentioned day, do we not give reason to those ignorant of the purpose and design of Freemasonry, to speak needlessly ill of it? Upon this point I speak delicately, but I wish you to give it your most serious consideration.

7. I think the practice is irregular in those lodges, who allow initiated members to pay their fee, due at their initiation at many payments. This custom appears to me to be at variance with the law contained in the Book of Constitutions, and I wish to see it, if so, done away with.

8. Lastly: I am sorry to hear that certain members belonging to a lodge have left it, without assigning any reason for their withdrawal; and I am more especially grieved to learn that such brethren have left it, without discharging certain debts which the said lodge had against them. I trust that such will see their very un-Masonic conduct, will do that which is right; if not for their own characters, nevertheless, for the welfare and respectability of Freemasonry.

In making the foregoing observations to you, brethren, you must not think that I am finding unnecessary fault. You must all be aware, that it is my duty to notice any irregularities I may know of, because if such be not noticed, how can they be amended? There would, indeed, be no reason to blame at all, if lodges would keep up to the Masonic rule, of "admitting worthy men, and worthy men alone," to the privileges of the Order. A "little leaven, leaveneth the whole lump;" and it is astonishing what one unworthy member may do to injure the Order. But, at the same time that I make these observations, I am happy to hear of the general prosperity of the Fraternity so far as I am concerned. I rejoice at hearing that, since we last met, many respectable and worthy individuals have joined the Fraternity—a sure sign that it is appreciated as it ought. I trust that what I have said (as I have done so with the utmost candour, and the most fraternal feeling), will be received with that cordiality, and acted upon with that readiness, which recommendations, coming from your Prov. G. Master (however unworthily he may fill the station) should merit. I thank you for your attendance here to-day. I trust we may meet for many years to come; and that every revolving one may find us increasing not only in numbers, but in merit, worth and respectability: practising more earnestly the sublime lessons in our Order, "brotherly love, relief, and truth;" and honouring all men, loving the brotherhood, fearing God, and honouring the king.

Gottings from Masonic Journals.

THE Rappel Maçonnique, of Brussels, contains a long account of the reception of the delegates of the Belgian Lodge, "True Friends of Union and Progress," by the Lodge of Union and Perseverance, of Paris, under the auspices of the Grand Orient of France. The most kindly sentiments were interchanged at this imposing Masonic demonstration, at which 300 brethren assisted, and eloquent speeches were delivered by Bros. Fontaines, Venerable of the Belgian Lodge, Abelin of Beyrouth, Massol, Losibatières, Colfavru and others.

FROM the same journal, and also from the Maçonniek Weekblad, of Amsterdam, we learn that the contemplated Romish processions in honour of the Massacre of the Jews in 1370! have been indefinitely postponed, owing to the antagonistic attitude of the Belgian Freemasons, who denounced the atrocious character of the proposed celebration in fitting terms.

THE National Grand Lodge of Germany at Berlin, celebrated its centenary on last St. John's Day.

GENERAL MELLINET, the late Grand Master of France, has issued a circular letter to the French lodges, thanking them for their past confidence.

THE Chaine D'Union of Paris, publishes a report of the half-yearly fête of the Supreme Grand Council, 33°, of France. Two lodges, one at Boulogne, and one at Nantes, have been inaugurated under this Rite since December 1869.

THE Grand Lodge "Royal York," of Prussia, has declined to enter into relation with the Sanctuary of "Patriarchs en Egypt" (Rite of Memphis), of which Prince Halim Pacha is the Grand Master, on the ground that it does not recognise that spurious Rite.—How is Halim Pacha's connection with this barefaced imposture to be explained, he being already District Grand Master of Egypt under England?

A NEW Masonic Temple has been inaugurated at Seville, for the use of the Lodges Tolerancia y Fraternidad (Toleration and Fraternity), and Caridad é Igualdad (Charity and Equality). Representatives from other lodges in Seville, Carthage, and Lisbon assisted.

THE Monde Maçonnique states, that a new lodge has just been opened at Szegedin, in Hungary, by Bro. Reemann, a Mason well-known in Austria and Hungary.

THE meetings of the Masonic Society, "Humanitas," are held regularly twice a month at Vienna, in the hall of the Academy of Commerce.

ON the 3rd July, M. Jules Simon, the well-known French Deputy, was initiated in the Lodge "Le Réveil Maçonnique," at Boulogne-sur-Seine. A great number of brethren attended to do honour to the occasion. Arago and Laferrière, an advocate, were received at the previous séance. Fung-Ki, an attache of the Chinese Embassy, was expected for initiation, but had to leave Paris for the day. When the ballot was taken several visitors claimed the right to vote, it being usual in lodges under the Grand Orient to allow all present to vote, whether members or not. This curious rule does not exist in lodges under the Supreme Grand Council 33°, to which "Le Réveil Maçonnique" belongs. Bro. Pelletan, also a well-known Deputy, defined Freemasonry in his speech as follows:—"It is not a church, it is not a philosophic seat, it is a school mutual, fraternal, and universal." Allusions were made, in feeling terms, to the recent death of Armand Barbès, the political agitator, whom Emmanuel Arago himself had defended before the Court of Peers in 1839.

THE Lodge "Faro del Progreso," of Barcelona, has gone into mourning for the death of Barbès.

THE Editors of the Freemasons' Magazine, and the Masonic Monthly, both of Boston, U.S.A., express their thanks to Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary of England, for copies of Grand Lodge proceedings received.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kemott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond., says: "I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says: "I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles."—For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy. In bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in boxes, 1s 2½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries' Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—Advt.

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF KENT.

On Wednesday last week the town of Dartford was honoured by a visit of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Kent. The excitement on the occasion was even anticipatory, and throughout the preceding day the tradesmen were busily engaged fixing flags across the High-street, from roof to roof. Banners were soon fluttering in endless variety and profusion, extending from East to West Hills, and along Lowfield-street—where they all came from was a bewildering mystery. The colours of the 12th Kent (Dartford) Rifle Volunteers was especially prominent. In the evening, from above the entrance-way of the Bull Hotel, where the Dartford Lodge of Emulation is held, the thoroughfare was brilliantly illuminated with a magnificent star and central crown, and the street became crowded with a concourse of blinking juveniles and more mature admirers, and the next evening was added, in the Corn Exchange, an illuminated "V.R."

The eventful morning broke somewhat inauspiciously, low-hanging, moist clouds obscured the sky's azure arc, and the flags of the street hung dull in the still air. Soon after nine o'clock glad-some tones were pealing from the belfry of the parish church, gladdening every heart. As the morning wore, the sun pierced the damp masses of cloud with the thin edge of its glittering wedge, and soon beamed joyously through, whilst the blue vault of heaven was slowly unveiled. The band of the 12th Kent Volunteers was heard executing some of the sprightliest of modern airs, and the whole aspect of affairs was brightened, all going "merry as a marriage bell."

Breakfast at eleven o'clock, déjeuner à la fourchette, was the first prominent feature of the day's proceedings. It took place in the Masonic lodge-room, and in its arrangement there was displayed an amount of quiet taste and undoubted skill that entitled the Committee of Management to the fullest praise. The Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, Viscount Holmesdale, M.P., presided at the breakfast.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened at the Wesleyan School-room, Spital-street, at half-past twelve o'clock, Lord Holmesdale on the throne. An imposing and dazzling spectacle was created by the brethren in their jewels, honours, and clothing generally. Banners were also plentiful, one bearing the Craft motto, "Audi, vide, tace"—this belonged to Lodge 1,174 (Pentangle, Chatham). The minutes were read by Bro. Wates, P.G. Sec., and the officers for the ensuing year were then elected: Bros. Lord Holmesdale, P.G.M.; Dobson, P.D.G.M.; J. Marshall (Dover), P.G.S.W.; J. L. Ellerm, P.G.J.W.; Hill, Chap.; Graham, Assist. Chap.; Thorpe, P.G. Treas.; Wates, P.G. Sec.; J. Chaplin, P.G. Assist. Sec.; O. J. Carter, P.S.G.D.; S. Bewinsky, P.J.G.D.; McDonald, G. Dir. Cer.; G. Niel, G. Assist. Dir. Cer.; T. Coppett, Sup. of Works; G. E. Horpes, G. Sword Bearer; G. Mackney, P.G. Org.; T. Smith, G. Sup. of Works; and Briggs, P.G. Tyler.

These, with the Grand Stewards, were duly installed, and received their warrants from his lordship, who expressed his willingness to give back warrants to those who had fulfilled the same offices.

One hundred and forty guineas were applied to the purchase of votes, in sums of £20 each, to the following lodges: 109 (Peace and Harmony, Dover), 503 (Belvedere, Maidstone), 184 (Benevolence, Brompton), 158 (Adam's, Sheerness), 913 (Pattison, Plumstead), 784 (Wellington, Deal), and 127 (Union, Margate); £50 to the Widows of Freemasons' Fund; £5 to a distressed brother, late of 20 Lodge (Royal Kent of Antiquity, Chatham); £20 to a brother of 1,206 (Cinque Ports, Dover).

Bro. DOBSON impressed upon all the necessity of acting uniformly with the wishes of the Charity Committee, and this his LORDSHIP endorsed, remarking that the province was strong enough to get any candidate into the institution if acting unitedly.

It was resolved to proceed to church in clothing, although objections had on previous occasions been raised to this practice.

At half-past one o'clock a procession of the brethren was formed, and marched through the High-street, accompanied by the rifle corps band. Freely decorated with insignia, the procession defiled through the centre aisle, and were ushered to seats by Bros. Stidolph, Quait, and Martin, the last-named gentleman almost ablaze with the brilliancy of the decorations with which he had been invested. The special hymns which were to be sung were freely distributed about the church, which was nearly filled, the brethren occupying the basement, and the galleries being selected by ladies, who attended in considerable force in every exquisite style of modern costume.

The opening prayers were read by the Rev. H. B. Bowlby, M.A., vicar of Dartford; the first lesson by the Rev. G. W. Sicklemore, M.A., rector of St. Lawrence, Thanet; the second by the Rev. G. H. Timins, M.A., rector of Town Malling; the latter part of the prayers by the Rev. Mr. Hodgson, M.A., curate of Aylesford. After the third collect a special hymn was sung, framed on the words, "Being fruitful in every good work," Col., c. 1, v. 10, commencing:

"Work is sweet, for God has blest
Honest work with quiet rest—
Rest below and rest above,
In the mansions of His love;
When the work of life is done,
When the battle's fought and won;"

and the sermon was preceded by a second hymn, founded on Deut., c. 4, v. 7, and expressive of the tenderest supplication, embodied in the most earnest language, opening thus:—

Onward through life Thy children stray,
Groping at noon their silent way;
Long is the road, and fierce the sun,
When will the dreary day be done?
Footsore and faint, to Thee we cry—
Father of all! be very nigh.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. W. A. Hill, M.A., Rector of St. Peter's, Maidstone, Prov. Grand Chaplain, who chose as his text—Psalm 139, verse 7, "Whither shall I go from Thy Spirit; or whither flee from Thy presence?" The preacher's most eloquent discourse concluded thus: Rich and fertile was the thought, "whether shall I fly from Thy presence?" The spirit of man was limited, it could not bring a large circle within its sight in a moment, if it tried to view too much it saw nothing; but God's boundless spirit could pierce the Universe. They knew that they were in that venerable sanctuary, because they recognised objects which informed them of the fact; and God was everywhere, because He had knowledge of everything that occurred. If they descended into the most secret and unknown depth, or enwrapped themselves in the closest darkness, He could see them. In the midst of the battle, pestilence, and famine, and the ravages springing from the pride of nations, He saw all. It was written of Him, "When Thou takest away their breath they die, and are turned again to their dust. When Thou lettest Thy breath go forth they shall be made, and Thou shalt renew the face of the earth." In their seasons of business, and daily prosperity, they should remember, "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain." Many recognised the force of these things, but failed to allow them to exert practical influence, and indulged in secret passions and hidden depravity. Who could commit sin that reflected upon the words, "Thou God seest me?" He (the preacher) requested them to uphold as a rampart of defence the doctrine the all-seeing power of God. Let them go on daring and doing, undeterred by disappointment, and unstayed by misrepresentation. The eye that saw Shadrach and Meshach amidst the flames of the fiery furnace was open upon them. Let them think of the vast Universe, of the power manifested in the system around them—that filled all things, and upheld all things,—and strive to render Him the homage of grateful and affectionate hearts. There was little need to stir them up to an act well known to the Masonic Brotherhood—an act of charity. More than £215 had been granted by them to different institutions this year, yet he was sure they would leave a large blessing behind for one of the educational institutions of this town, and give to Masonic Charities a memorial of their visit to Dartford to-day. Let them finally, foster brotherly union, and banish all prejudices. In Heaven they would be in the eternal presence of God—let them do nothing which they would not like God to see, say nothing which they would not like Him to hear, write nothing which they would not like Him to read, go nowhere where they would not like Him to discover they had been, spend no time where they would not like God to say, "What account have you to give of it?"

A collection was afterwards made, the receipts amounting to nearly £20; one moiety will be presented to the parish National School, the other will be devoted to the Boys' and Girls' Charity Schools connected with the Masonic Order.

The members then returned to the lodge-room, when thanks were given to the Rev. Bro. Hill for his discourse, to which that gentleman replied. Thanks were also given to the Rev. H. B. Bowlby, for the use of the parish church, and to Mr. E. Hall and the Trustees of the Wesleyan School, which was described by Lord Holmesdale as a most eligible building.

The lodge was then closed in due form. Lord Holmesdale proved a very efficient president, and the other officers executed their duties well.

THE BANQUET.

This repast was laid out with considerable taste, which had elicited the admiration of numerous visitors who had previously been allowed to view it. The banquet was held in a prodigious tent, erected in Mr. Potter's field, and in consequence of the comparative openness of the place of assembly all Masonic forms were dispensed with, which was the only thing we heard of during the day's proceedings disappointing to the Masons. About 180 persons were present, under the presidency of Viscount Holmesdale. In addition to the usual good fare, the principal table was graced with a splendid wild boar's head.

Grace was said by the Rev. Bro. Hill.

Under the direction of Bro. Theodore Distin, the services of Miss Jane Wells, Bro. Frederick Walker, and Mr. Baxter were engaged, and those distinguished artistes gave an admirable selection of music, and sang as grace after meat, "Non nobis domine" (Bird).

The toast-list was then opened, "The Queen and the Craft" being given first.

"National Anthem" (Dr. John Bull).

"The Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family."

Glee, "There is Beauty on the Mountain" (Goss).

The M.W. Grand Master of England, Earl De Grey and Ripon." In proposing this toast, the President spoke of the gratitude with which Freemasons should feel inspired towards the noble earl for devoting his time to occupying the dignified position he held as their head.

Part song, "Lady, rise, sweet Morn's awaking" (H. Smart).

"The R.W. the Deputy Grand Master of England, Earl Carnarvon, and the Grand Officers."

Song, "The Nightingale's Thrill" (Ganz), Miss Wells.

Bro. FOOKS, in proposing "The M.W. Provincial Grand Master, Viscount Holmesdale, M.P."—who has for ten years been the P.G.M. of Kent—said they ought to be proud of men who represented them in the Legislature, and who occupied such positions as their noble president filled that day. He (the speaker) was satisfied that if the principles of Masonry were carried—as he he did not doubt they were—with parliamentary members into their places in the House of Commons, practical good would ensue.

Lord HOLMESDALE returned thanks. As time went on, he said, it was comforting to think that the principles of Masonic life did find practical results, for even now, while they were hearing of war and rumours of war, they also, side by side, heard of associations for ministering to the ills of the wounded; and therefore it was comforting to hope that the good old Masonic principles would continue to exist. Probably wars would never cease; but when they found persons ready to sacrifice their personal ease, time, and money for the good of humanity, and that those who led their ranks were, for the most part, Masons, they were thankful, in no boastful spirit, for one more good deed, one further diminution of human misery, and were led to congratulate themselves that their Institution was based upon the most humane principles, which were ever kept in view—viz., that of alleviating human misery; and that their meetings—festive, joyous, though they might sometimes make them—were not the mere enjoyments of the hour. This province had largely increased during the ten years he had been G.M. There were when he joined sixteen, now there were thirty-three, lodges; they were 560 strong, now they numbered from 1400 to 1500. It might occur that it would be deemed desirable to divide the province into two sections; but there was one thing he wished to impress, and that was for them to be careful not to lower the dignity of the Order by the introduction of men of low status in society, as Freemasons had more need of men of good quality and pure character than otherwise.

Part song, "Sweet and Low" (Barnby).

In proposing "The Provincial Grand Officers," associated with the name of Bro. Dobson, Secretary, Viscount HOLMESDALE alluded to the social qualities and abilities required for that office, and said that he right heartily drank the Secretary's health.

Bro. DOBSON, replying, referred to the great amount of work involved in keeping twenty or thirty lodges well visited during the year, and created some amusement by reading extracts from the byelaws of the Lodge True and Faithful, held at the Rose Inn, Dartford, and subsequently at the Marquis of Granby, dated June 13, 1775, and he showed how well our forefathers understood the principles of Masonry, by stating that we were actually now reintroducing some of the rules which then guided them.

Glee from "Oberon in fairy land" (Stevens).

Lord HOLMESDALE proposed "The Brethren of Emulation Lodge, No. 299, and its worthy W.M., Bro. Tinkler." He complimented them on the completeness of their arrangements for the day.

Bro. TINKLER appropriately replied on behalf of himself and the lodge.

Song, "The true right hand" (Distin), Bro. T. Distin.

Bro. MARTIN proposed "The Visitors," coupling the name of Bro. GREIG, R.W.P.G.M. of Pennsylvania, which was suitably responded to.

Glee, "Hark! the lark" (Dr. Cooke).

Bro. TIMMINS gave "The Press," and Bro. GABLE acknowledged the toast.

Madrigal, "Down in a flow'ry vale (Festa).

Bro. WATES gave "The Ladies," in a humorous and complimentary speech.

Part song, "I love my love in the morning" (G. B. Allen); subsequently Mr. Walker sang a choice ballad, and the glee "Mynheer van Dunck" (Bishop), was rendered.

The CHAIRMAN gave "To our next merry meeting," and the great provincial anniversary terminated.—Dartford Chronicle.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871.—This lodge met on Wednesday, the 27th ult., at the Royal Oak Tavern, High-street, Deptford. Bro. F. Walters, P.M. and Sec., opened the lodge, the W.M. being unavoidably absent. It was unanimously resolved to move the lodge to the White Swan Inn, High-street, Deptford. One brother in distress had five pounds voted to him from the charity fund. The lodge was closed; no banquet was had. The brethren separated directly after the lodge was closed. Visitor, Bro. T. N.
Moore, 73.

Southern Star Lodge, No. 1158.—When nearly all the other lodges have ceased their labours for some months to come, and when everyone is anxious to get away from business and enjoy their fortnight or their month, as the case may be, at the seaside, this young lodge, which is held at Bro. Allatt's, the Montpellier Tavern, Walworth, is found to be hard at work in Masonry, and certainly the way in which they perform that, entitles them to much credit. On Tuesday evening last week, an extra meeting was held for the purpose of initiating three gentlemen into the mysteries, &c., of the Order, besides which there were the names of six brethren on the paper for passing, and seven for the more sublime degree. Punctually at the time stated in the summons, the W.M., Bro. D. S. Bayfield, opened the lodge, and was supported by the following brethren:—Bros. Chas. E. Thompson, S.W.; Towers, J.W.; T. H. Pulsford, P.M. and Sec.; Kipps, J.D.;
Dean, Asst. Sec.; Bolton, I.G. (pro. tem.); H. Potter,
P.M.; W. Steward; H. Thompson, P.M. and Treas.;
R. E. Clarke, P.M.; G. McDonald, W. Hunt (solr.);
R. Harris, S. Moore, C. Walker, T. Eyre Ellis, A.
Myers, Allatt, Heffer, J. Lee, Beadwell, J. Potter; the visitors were, Bros. Noak (P.M. Vitruvian), Henry Hes (141), and Mollyon (1266). The business commenced with the raising of four brethren, followed by the passing of four. The W.M. then initiated two of the gentlemen in attendance, and at a later period in the evening, Bro.
Clarke initiated the third gentleman. The W.M. having risen to inquire whether any brother had aught to propose, &c., Bro. Chas. E. Thompson, S.W., proposed, that a summer festival be held at a place and time to be afterwards appointed, and also that the ladies be permitted to join them, and spoke of the success which had attended the meeting of the Domestic Lodge, when the ladies were invited to join them at dinner. He hoped that as it was the only opportunity the ladies could have of coming amongst them, and as their society always tended to elevate them, that his motion would be carried.—Bro.
Thos. H. Pulsford, P.M. and Sec., seconded the resolution.—Bro. Potter, P.M., would not oppose the motion, and if it were carried would go with the brethren, but at the same time he thought it was late in the season.—After a short discussion, Bro. Thompson was asked to withdraw his motion, but he declined to do so, and pressed for a vote upon the question, which when taken was given against him. There being no other business, the brethren adjourned to the new Masonic Hall, where the cloth was laid, and when a good meal had been partaken of (justly earned by four hours' labour), the usual routine toasts were given. The Worshipful Master proposed the healths of the "Initiates," in a bumper.
Bro. Hitchcock responded, and after expressing his thanks for the honour conferred upon himself and brother initiates, said he hoped, with God's help to maintain and uphold the principles of Freemasonry, and prove themselves worthy brothers. (Hear, hear.) Bro. Clarke, I.P.M., proposed, the W.M., who in his turn responded, and proposed the "P.M.'s," for which Bro. Thompson, P.M. and Founder, expressed their acknowledgement. The toast of the "Officers" was responded to by the S.W., but not before the presence of the visitors had been recognised.
The Tyler (Bro. Laing, P.M.) then gave the concluding toast, and the brethren separated.

MIDDLESEX.

Harrow Lodge, No. 1310.—The last meeting of the season was held on Tuesday, July 26th, at the Railway Hotel, Harrow; Bro. J. Coutts, A.G.P., W.M., presided. He, in an admirable, painstaking manner, raised Bro. John Harrison to the third degree. Bro. F. Walters,
P.M. and Sec., proposed, and it was carried unanimously, that a five-guinea testimonial be presented from the lodge funds to Bro. J. Coutts, for his efficient services as the first P.M., also as a mark of respect, esteem, and gratitude for the many essential services rendered to the lodge.
Bro. Coutts, in an excellent speech, replied to this mark of approbation. Some candidates for initiation were proposed for the next meeting, and the lodge was closed.
A good banquet was then served.

Lebanon Lodge, No. 1326.—The first meeting of this lodge since its consecration was held at the Red Lion Hotel, Lion-square, Thames-street, Hampton, on Thursday, July 28th. Bro. Frederick Walters, P.M. and Sec. (in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. J. T. Moss), opened the lodge, and presided as the W.M. Bal'ots were unanimous in favour of all proposed for initiation.
Apologies were received from more than half a dozen, excusing and regretting their non-attendance. Mr. William Richards Gill and Mr. John Thomas, being in attendance, were introduced separately, and in an admirable and impressive manner duly initiated into ancient Freemasonry. The charge and the lecture on the tracing board in the first degree were given in a correct style.
Some propositions for initiates were given in to the Secretary, and the lodge was then closed. Officers: Bros. S.
Wickens, S.W.; W. Hammond, P.M.; as J.W.; D. D.
Beck, Treas.; J. F. Woodley, J.D.; G. Banks, I.G., &c. Bro. Silcock, S.D. 157, and many others, were present. Banquet followed.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

RED CROSS OF ROME & CONSTANTINE.

PROVINCIAL.

BIRMINGHAM.—Rose of Sharon Conclave, No. 19.—
The regular quarterly meeting of this conclave was held at the Masonic Hall, Birmingham, on the 21st ult. There was a fair attendance of chevaliers, including the Inspector-General of the Province. The usual preliminaries having been gone through, Sir Knt. T. Partridge, M.P.S.-elect (who had been previously enthroned as Sov. of the Order by the Grand Sov. in the Premier Conclave), was formally inducted into the chair. The ballot for several candidates proved unanimous in their favour, and five of the number being present were duly installed as Knights Companions. A College of Viceroy's was afterwards opened, and the degree of Eusebius conferred on four Sir Knts., and approved of by the G.S. The whole of the proceedings went off in a most satisfactory manner. This conclave, only twelve months old, now numbers thirty-three subscribing members. The success of the Order in Warwickshire is owing to the zeal and unanimity displayed by all who have joined in establishing it. Great disappointment was felt at the absence of one or two members of the Grand Senate who had promised their attendance and assistance on this occasion. The presence of a member of the Grand Council or Senate, at meetings of country conclaves would not only show that interest was taken in the progress of the Order, but that those in authority were anxious to assist provincial brethren in perfecting the work, and establishing uniformity of ritual.

MR. CARLYLE has been nominated unanimously to the office of President of the London Library, in place of the late Lord Clarendon.

MESSRS. GALIGNANI, the proprietors of the well-known Galigan's Messenger published in Paris, having built an hospital in that city for the benefit of poor British strangers or residents, have generously offered the same to the British Government, together with an endowment for maintaining it in operation. This offer, however, the British Government has declined. All the expenses of the hospital are being defrayed by Messrs.
Galigan.

GALVANISM.—Pulvermacher's Monthly Record of Cures is now ready for the benefit of Sufferers, containing documentary evidence of remarkable Cures effected by Pulvermacher's Improved Patent Self-applicable Volta-Electric Chain-Bands and Pocket Batteries, and may be had on application to the Sole Inventor and Patentee—J. L. Pulvermacher, 200, Regent-street, London, W. A Test on Loan sent gratis if required.
Caution.—Spurious Electric Appliances being advertised by Quack Doctors, Patients should consult Pulver-macher's Pamphlet on that subject (free by post), embodying other most interesting matter for those suffering from Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Functional Disorders,
&c., &c.—[Adv't.]

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates
Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. "Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the 'Anti-Lancet,' says: 'I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease.'
—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest.
Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M.
CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough. Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on 'Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels,' a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Adv't.]

WHITE'S Moc-Main LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality. COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

THE BEST PUDDING. MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1875. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina. As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maize, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers. Wholesale at MAYAR'S, 36, MARK LANE, LONDON, E.C. A Wholesale Agent wanted in every Town.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully so incited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

LUXURIANT WHISKERS, Moustaches, and a Fine Head of Hair.—Mrs. MERRIAM, Springfield, Mass., U.S., will send, through her English agents, Messrs. Wesley and Knox, Featherstone-buildings, London, W.C., her Recipe (in a bottle) for nine stamps and stamped envelope, producing hair on face or head in a month. A pint bottle sent by rail (carriage paid) for 36 stamps.—May be ordered through any Chemist

FINE HEAD OF HAIR, WHISKERS, MOUSTACHES, and EYE-BROWS.—A retired Apothecary, from Wales, will send his noted FORMULA for 73 stamps and stamp directed envelope to produce Hair on the Head. Whiskers and Moustache, on the Face in three weeks.—Mr. EVAN EVANS, M.D. C.M., Dorking, Surrey.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place for all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies. The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

RULERS of FREEMASONRY HOLDING CORRECT OPINIONS.

Much weight is often attached to those in power, placed at the head of our Order for the conducting on right principles of our lodges, and of their laws and ceremonials. It is gratifying when we see those principles upheld in their integrity by our rulers, and most deplorable when we find in the person of any brother a direct violation of them. As Freemasons, we are equal in a lodge, we meet upon the level, and ought therefore to think for ourselves—at the same time paying attention to the unchangeable laws of the Order; but when the labours of the lodge are over, and when we mingle once more with the world, each then again resumes his proper social position, and exercises the privileges of that rank to which the customs of society entitle him. A pleasing example of correct principles may be found in the conduct of our Right Honourable Brother, Earl Percy, Provincial Grand Master of Northumberland, who said, on the evening of Tuesday, 2nd August, 1870, at a meeting of the Grand Mark Lodge of England, "Any one acquainted with Masonry would allow that there was some reference to a future state." To those acquainted with Freemasonry, a glance at our landmarks substantiates the words spoken by our noble brother. "Subsidiary to belief in God, is the belief in a resurrection to a future life." This doctrine is taught by plain implication, and runs through the whole symbolism of the Order. To believe in Masonry, and not believe in a resurrection would be absurd an anomaly, which could only be excused by the reflection, that he who thus confounded his belief and his scepticism, was so ignorant of the meaning of both theories as to have no rational foundation for his knowledge of either. A most deplorable overlook of the law came under my own observation, when a Master of a lodge, and a party looked upon as high in authority, said what was prohibited in the printed laws of the lodge, and in the unchangeable laws of the Order, was perfectly right and proper, making therefore a mistake, whilst at the same time teaching brethren that they should always think, and look at the laws and landmarks for themselves, and not be like a number of members of the Scottish Craft who on going home lately from a meeting, said concerning a question which had been talked of, "As the Grand Master has said so-and-so, it must be all right," although the O.B. and the printed laws of the lodge actually condemned it. I am confident that all members of the Fraternity, everywhere, rejoice when we find those entrusted with the government of the Craft teaching correct principles, and that they deplore when any mistake happens in the teaching of brethren by one high in authority, or anything to detract from the glorious doctrines of Freemasonry.

Obituary.

W. BRO. WILLIAM H. HOFF.

It is with extreme regret that we announce the death of this distinguished brother, which took place at Simla on the 30th June, after a long and lingering illness. The pathetic poem from his pen, which appeared in our last number, describes the sufferings he underwent, which he bore with Christian fortitude; and shows that he was fully prepared for being called away from this earthly tenure to the Grand Lodge above.

W. Bro. Hoff was an earnest and enthusiastic Mason, and like his late respected father, devoted his whole life to the interests of the Order. He held several high offices in the District Grand Lodge of Bengal, and was also elected Honorary Member of several lodges in Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay. He was best known as the talented Editor of the late Indian Freemasons' Friend, which he conducted with consummate ability for about twelve years. After the extinction of that journal, Bro. Hoff continued his literary labours on behalf of the Order by contributing to this journal, up to the time that he was attacked with his last serious illness.

Our deceased brother has left a widow and eight children to bemoan their sad bereavement. The sympathies of the Craft all over India we feel sure are with them; but we regret to learn that they are not well provided for; the brethren in Calcutta we doubt not will make the family of our departed brother their especial care, yet we hope the brethren of Bombay and Madras will contribute their mite, to mitigate in some small degree the great loss this large family has sustained.—Masonic Record of Western India.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION OF 1871.—We are requested by Her Majesty's Commissioners to state that there is no foundation for the rumour that the International Exhibition appointed for 1871 is to be postponed by reason of the war. The first of the series of Annual International Exhibitions of Selected Works of Fine and Industrial Art and Scientific Invention will take place next year, as already announced.

The following letter has been addressed to the G. Chapter of Scotland, by the Rev. G. R. Portal, Grand Mark Master Mason of England, &c., protesting against the recent unwarrantable and unmasonic aggression on the rights of English Mark Masters, by the establishment of a Scotch Province in Lancashire:—

Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales, and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown.

Office:—2, Red Lion Square, Holborn, London, W.C., 10th August, 1870.

Sir and Companion,

I am directed by the M.W. Grand Mark Master Mason of England, &c., to express to the G.R. A. Chapter of Scotland, the great regret with which he has heard of a new act of aggression on the part of that body, in appointing a District G.M. over the Mark Degree in Lancashire.

The Grand Mark Master Mason enters his protest against this fresh attack upon the rights of English Mark Master Masons by a foreign jurisdiction and he desires to place on record the following facts—

1. That the English Mark Lodges have from time immemorial had an independent existence, and have never been subordinate either to the United Grand Lodge, or the Grand Chapter, of England, or to any authority whatever in Scotland.

2. That ten of these independent and autonomous Lodges have vested their inherent powers in the Grand Lodge of M.M. Masons, founded by certain of their number in 1856, in accordance with the precedent set in 1717 in the formation of the Grand Lodge in London, and by the Royal Arch Masons who constituted the Grand Chapter of Scotland, in August, 1817.

3. That by this Grand Mark Lodge so constituted, One hundred and eight Warrants to Lodges have been issued—and that the Mark Master Masons advanced in these Lodges are recognised as true and lawful Mark Masters by the Grand Chapters of Ireland and of Canada.

4. That in Scotland the Mark Degree is admitted by the Grand Chapter to have been "wrought by the operative Lodges of St. John's Masonry from time immemorial, and long before the institution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland in 1736." It is notorious that at that date Royal Arch Masonry as such, did not exist, while its secrets were given in the Master's degree. The Grand Chapter was not formed till 1817, consequently in this invasion of the English jurisdiction, a modern Scottish organization is claiming authority over an English degree of immemorial antiquity. This authority the Grand Mark Master Mason entirely repudiates.

5. The Grand M.M.M. is well aware that the excuse for this unmasonic act on the part of the Grand Chapter of Scotland is, that the Grand Mark Lodge is not recognised by the Craft Grand Lodge, or the Grand Chapter, of England. But the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Scotland writes to this G.L. on June 22, 1864, "The Grand Lodge of Scotland does not recognise Royal Arch Masonry and its various degrees;" so that if recognition by the Craft Grand Lodge is a condition of legitimacy, it is one not possessed by Royal Arch degree, and the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland. On the other hand, the Craft Grand Lodge of England is barred by the Articles of Union from recognising any degrees but the first three, including the Royal Arch, as existing and sanctioned by the Lodge of Reconciliation in 1813. It certainly does not recognise the Grand Chapter of Scotland as the head of the Mark degree, either in Scotland or England. It does not recognise the High Grades or the Knights Templars any more than the Mark—though the fact that of the Past Grand M.M. Masons, one, the Earl of Carnarvon, is now Deputy G.M. of England, and that Lord Leigh, Viscount Holmesdale, M.P., and Mr. Beach, M.P., are all Provincial Grand Masters of the Craft, proves that no antagonistic feeling exists between the members of the two bodies.

6. It is also urged that the recognition of a supreme jurisdiction over the Mark degree would be an anomaly. It is scarcely more so than the recognition of a supreme jurisdiction over the R.A. degree, which is declared by the Grand Lodge of England to be only half a degree, making one in conjunction with that of the Master Mason—and being confessedly of modern origin compared with that of Mark Master. While, however, fully admitting the right of Mark Master Masons elsewhere, to place themselves under any jurisdiction, Royal Arch or other, that they may think fit, the Grand Mark Master Mason of England has simply to vindicate the immemorial independence of English Mark Lodges, and to maintain their right to organise themselves in a Grand Lodge, and also to protest against the unwarrantable aggressions which for the last fifteen years have been made by the G. Chapter of Scotland upon English Mark Masonry. The G.M.M.M. desires to express his earnest hope that the remaining Scottish Mark Masters in England will before long follow the example of the seven lodges which have transferred their allegiance to the Mark G.L. Should any trifling difference in ritual stand in the way of this desirable union, he will at all times be happy to meet their wishes to the utmost. Till such time arrive, however, while sincerely anxious that brotherly friendship and Masonic good feeling should subsist between Scotch and English Mark Masters as individuals, the G.M.M.M. can in no way recognise the warrants or certificates issued by the G.C. of Scotland.

I am, Sir and Companion,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK, BINCKES, Grand Secretary.

To the Grand Scribe G.R.A. Chapter, Scotland,

PIC-NIC OF THE MARINERS' LODGE, No. 249, LIVERPOOL.

On Thursday evening, the 4th inst., the usual monthly meeting of the Mariners' Lodge was held at The Temple, Hope-street. The W.M. (Bro. J. K. Smith) occupied the chair, supported by Bro. Pearson, S.W., and Bro. Hughes, J.W. On account of the stormy weather, the attendance of brethren was not so large as usual. The lodge was opened at six o'clock, when the minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed unanimously. Four candidates were initiated, and three brethren were passed to the second degree. Seven brethren were then elected on the Investigation and Relief Committee; Bros. Rose and Lewis were appointed Stewards, after which the lodge resolved that a pic-nic should be held on the 11th, Gresford (a lovely spot a few miles beyond Chester) being selected as the scene of the festivities. The W.M., S.W., J.W., and P.M. Pinnington were appointed to carry out the arrangements in connection with the excursion.

It should have been stated in our report of the installation proceedings that the following brethren were invested: Bros. P. Pinnington, the I.P.M.; G. de Laperelle, P.M., the elected Treasurer; Ball, jun., Tyler; and Bro. Roberts received his re-appointment as Secretary. The lodge was afterwards closed in due form.

In accordance with the resolution heartily adopted at the monthly meeting, a large number of the brethren, in company with their fair friends—the entire party numbering about eighty—asssembled on the George's landing-stage, on the morning of Thursday, the 11th inst., for the purpose of proceeding on the pic-nic excursion. The weather was all that the most fastidious could desire, the heat of the sun being agreeably tempered by a genial breeze. It may here be stated that it has been customary in previous years to invite the presence of ladies at the annual installation banquets; but as very few generally responded to the invitation, and for several other reasons, it was thought advisable to substitute a pic-nic in place of this arrangement, and the large number of the fair sex present on the occasion showed the wisdom of the change, which will probably be followed out in future. Little time had been afforded in which to make the necessary arrangements, and therefore it is all the more creditable to the W.M. and Bro. Pinnington—who undertook the refreshments and arrangements at Gresford—and to Bros. Pearson and Hughes, for providing and superintending the amusements, that the excursion proved in every respect a most pleasant and successful one, affording complete enjoyment to every one. In the best spirits the merry party left the landing-stage shortly before ten o'clock, and after a highly enjoyable journey arrived at their destination in good time, when every one immediately proceeded to find enjoyment in the way best suited to his or her taste. The more contemplative enjoyed a walk through the woods, some found their delight in dancing, others entered with zest into the ever-popular game of the "Jolly Miller," a few played at cricket, improvised races, and all did their best to make a pleasant day pass pleasantly. A visit to the fine old church and an ascent to the top of the tower, from whence a splendid prospect could be had, were also among the enjoyments. Bro. Joseph Wood, who had a large camera on the ground, also added considerably to the interest of the "out" by taking a large photograph of the whole party, besides other groups of two, three, and four individuals. An abundance of "creature comforts" at lunch and tea were supplied by Bro. Bolland, of Chester; and Bro. G. A. W. Philipps was present with an excellent quadrille band for the benefit of the dancers. Before starting on the return journey votes of thanks were given to Bro. Smith, W.M., for his valuable assistance in getting up the pic-nic, and a hope was expressed that these pleasant "outs" would continue to be periodical. The W.M. acknowledged the compliment, and in doing so referred to the excellent help he had received from Bro. Pearson, S.W., and Bro. Hughes, J.W., for whom three hearty cheers were given. After singing the National Anthem, and giving cordial cheers for the ladies, the party returned to Liverpool, where it arrived at rather a late hour.

LANCASTER. — Lodge of Fortitude, No. 281. — The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Athol-street, Lancaster, on Wednesday, 10th inst. There were assembled a goodly number of members under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. John Hatch, who was supported by his officers, Past Masters and members, as follows: — Bros. E. Storey, I.P.M.; C. Hartley, S.W.; J. Barrow, J.W.; James Hatch, P.M., Treas.; Edmund Simpson, P.M., Sec.; W. Heald, S.D.; B. Mills, as I.D.; William Hall, I.G.; J. Watson, Tyler; Past Masters Wm. Wearing, Prov. G. Steward; R. Stanton; and J. Daniel Moore, M.D., Prov. G.S. of Works; Bros. R. Jervis, J. Budd, M. M. Harrison, J. Beesley, Wm. Heald, Stanley, R. Taylor, J. Beeley; visitor, Bro. R. R. Hathornthwaite, of the Royal Sussex Lodge. The lodge being opened, the minutes read and confirmed, and all business transacted, a F.C. lodge was opened, and the W.M., in accordance with the summons, called upon Bro. Moore, P.M., to deliver the lecture upon the tracing-board of the second degree, which was done in such a manner as to elicit a special vote of thanks from the brethren. Four brethren of high standing in the Craft were proposed as joining members of the lodge by Bros. J. Hatch, W.M., Jas. Hatch, P.M., E. Simpson, P.M., and Dr. Moore, P.M. The Secretary made some announcements, amongst others, that a brother who making a short sojourn in the town and desiring to attend the meetings of this lodge, in lieu of subscription gave a sum of twenty shillings to the lodge to be expended in charity. Three guineas having been previously voted by the lodge for the West Lancashire Educational Fund, the Secretary suggested that if twenty-two members would subscribe one shilling each, it would confer a life governorship upon the W.M. of the Lodge. This suggestion was quickly acted upon and the necessary sum subscribed. It was understood that at the next regular meeting of the lodge a lecture on the tracing-board of the first degree would be delivered by Bro. W. Hall, W.M. 1051. There being no other business before the lodge it was closed in due form.

LEICESTER. — John of Gant Lodge, No. 523. — The brethren of this lodge were summoned to attend an emergency meeting at the Freemasons' Hall, on Monday, the 8th inst., and the business being of an interesting nature—the initiation of a Syrian Christian, a native of Peyrout—the attendance of members and visitors was numerous, about forty brethren being present. The W.M., Bro. T. H. Buzzard, presided for the first time since his installation. The candidate's name, rendered into English, is Iskander, or Alexander Howard, that being nearly the sound of the name in Arabic, which cannot be literally given in English, and he is a most intelligent and gentlemanly young man, who speaks English and five other languages. He has visited Leicester expressly for the purpose of being initiated into Masonry, an arrangement having been made to that effect some months ago in the East between him and his proposer, Bro. J. E. Hodges, of this lodge. On the lodge being opened, the ballot was taken and was declared to be unanimous in his favour. A F.C.'s lodge was then opened, and Bros. Rowlett and Charlesworth, who had been previously examined in the first degree, were passed to the second degree. The lodge being lowered to the first degree, the candidate was introduced, and he was regularly initiated into our mysteries in an efficient manner, the impressiveness of the ceremony being greatly aided by the performance of Bro. Charles Johnson on the organ, and who, with the assistance of the musical brethren, gave the chants of the degree. On the conclusion of the ceremony, the lecture on the tracing-board was given by the I.P.M., Bro. Toller, and the charge by the P.G.M. Two gentlemen were then proposed for initiation, and the lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and spent an hour or two very pleasantly—the usual loyal and Masonic toasts alternating with songs from several of the brethren. The newly-initiated brother, in responding to the toast of his health, addressed the brethren first in Arabic and afterwards in English, thanking them for the honour they had done him in initiating him into an Order for which he had long entertained the highest respect, and to which he felt proud to belong. He then gave some very curious particulars of a system very similar to Freemasonry practised among the Arabs of the desert. Bro. Turner, of the Maybury Lodge, in responding for the visiting brethren, bore high testimony to the admirable manner in which this lodge was worked. Amongst those present, in addition to the W.M., were Bros. Kelly, P.G.M.; Rev. John Spittal, W. B. Smith, C. Johnson, and Geo. Toller, jun., P.M.'s; Sculthorpe, S.W.; Rev. Dr. Haycroft, J.W.; Baines, Sec.; Partridge, S.D.; Richardson, J.D.; Atkins and Sergeant, Stewards; Mace, I.G.; Moor, Elgood, Rowlett, Charlesworth, Thomson, J. E. Hodges, J. C. Clarke, Ross, Spencer, and others. Visitors: Bros. Suffield (P.M. 925), Turner (965), J. J. F. Scott (1007), Stanley (W.M.), Gosling, Halford, Thorpe, Blunkley, Smith, Palmer, Widdowson, and Gurdin, of No. 279.

NOVA SCOTIA.

HALIFAX. — Royal Standard Lodge, No. 398. — The members of the lodge celebrated the anniversary of St. John's day, by a pic-nic at McNab's Island. The steamer M.C. Mac, which was hired for the occasion, started from the wharf about eleven o'clock, with the party on board, which was a large one, numbering about 200, and proceeded to the Island, after taking a turn up the harbour. The fine band of the 78th Highlanders accompanied the party and entertained them with their enlivening strains. On arriving at the Island, the company proceeded to Mr. McNab's grounds, the use of which had been very kindly granted for the occasion, where several marquees had been pitched, and a platform for dancing erected, which latter amusement was kept up with great spirit during the day. The company sat down to luncheon about 3 o'clock in regular pic-nic style, and the various uniforms of the military mingled with the gay dresses of the ladies, and the more sober attire of the civil friends present, presented a very bright and agreeable picture. Altogether a very pleasant day was spent, and although the afternoon turned out rather wet the sport was not permitted to flag for one moment. The party returned home about half-past eight o'clock in the evening, highly pleased with the day's amusement, and the excellent arrangements which had been made for their entertainment, and they separated wishing heartily that they might meet again on another similar occasion. — The members of this Lodge met round the festive board on the 1st inst., for the purpose of entertaining a number of the Brethren of the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers about to leave for England in H.M. ship Tamar very shortly, and a very pleasant evening was spent, some capital songs and recitations being given. The following toasts were proposed from the chair on 1st duty honour: — "The Queen and the Craft;" "The Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and all the Royal Family;" "The M.W.G. Master the Earl de Grey and Ripon, coupled with the M.W.P.G. Master the Earl of Zealand." The W. Master, in a short but feeling speech, alluding to the approaching departure of the Brethren of the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers, then gave the toast of the evening: — "The health of the Brethren of the R. A. and R. E. leaving the lodge," which was most warmly and heartily responded to. The next toast was—"The three M.W. Grand Masters of Canada, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, and the Brethren generally throughout the Dominion of Canada;" then—"The Ladies." The Brethren separated as the "wee sma' hours" were drawing on, highly pleased and amused with the evening's entertainment. This lodge, which is principally composed of military brethren, numbers about 60 members, and is in a highly prosperous condition, and we are happy to add that some naval brethren have very lately been added to the roll, so that both branches of Her Majesty's service are now represented in it.

ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCIAL.

LIVERPOOL. — St. John of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 203. — The regular monthly convocation of this chapter was held at the Masonic Temple, 22, Hope-street, on Tuesday, the 2nd inst. The chapter was opened at six o'clock by Comps. Bradshaw, W. Rowson, M.E.Z.; John Jones, M.E.H.; and José M. Pastor, P.Z., M.E.J. The minutes of the last regular convocation were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Bro. David Hughes, of Lodge No. 203, and being unanimous, he was exalted to the supreme degree of a H.R.A. Mason, which ceremony was performed by the M.E.Z., Comp. B. W. Rowson, in that very impressive and admirable manner for which he is known, and which earned for him the approbation of his brethren when discharging the duties of W.M. of the lodge to which this chapter is attached. After the business was completed, the M.E.Z. rose and stated that before the chapter was closed he had a very agreeable and pleasant duty to perform. During the past year they had been presided over by the very excellent and worthy companion, Colonel José M. Pastor, and who, although a foreigner and having many difficulties to encounter in mastering our language, had performed his duties in such a manner as to receive the encomiums of all the companions in the chapter. He had now the pleasing duty of presenting to him, in the name of a number of the companions, a very handsome P.Z. jewel as a mark of the very high estimation in which they held him, and trusted he would receive it and wear it as such; and when he visited his native land, and wore this token in the lodges of that country, it would speak more than words of the estimation in which he was held here, and would also show that he had been faithful to his trust and discharged the duties of his office in such a manner as to merit the approbation of his companions. — Comp. Pastor, having been decorated with the jewel by the M.E.Z., said that he could assure the whole of the companions that he felt grateful to them for this mark of their esteem; that he would ever wear it with pride, not only in this country, but also in foreign climes; and when far away, he would ever remember with gratitude the kind wishes of the companions of his mother chapter. Should his duties require his presence abroad, he would never cease to be a companion amongst them. — The chapter being closed, the companions joined in refreshment, when the health of Comp. Pastor was drank amidst loud acclamation.

NOVA SCOTIA.

Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Nova Scotia.

The first Annual Convocation of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Nova Scotia, was held at the Masonic Hall, Halifax, on Thursday evening, June 23rd, at which was present a full representation of all the Chapters working under this jurisdiction, and also a large and influential attendance of visitors.

In the absence of M.E. Comp. the Hon. Alex. Keith, G.H.P., who, owing to indisposition, was prevented from being present, M.E. Comp. S. R. Sircom, G.K., took the chair, with M.E. Comp. W. A. Hesson, acting as G.K., and M.E. Comp. J. Conway Brown, Grand Scribe.

The minutes of the Grand Chapter, and also a full report from the Committee of General Purposes, which latter embodied all the transactions of the Grand Chapter since its formation (Oct. 15th, 1869,) were read and approved.

Reports from Grand Treasurer and Grand Secretary were presented, read and approved.

The routine business being concluded, the installation of officers-elect for the ensuing year was proceeded with, when the following Companions were duly installed into their respective offices; the installation was performed by M.E. Comp. S. R. Sircom.

M.E. Wm. Twiney, G. Treas.; R.E. Jas. Gossip, Sec.; R.E. W. S. McDonald, P.S.; R.E. G. T. Smithers, G.R.A.C.; V.E. John Schofield, G. 3rd V.; V.E. C. W. Dimock, G. 2nd V.; N.F. Robt. Fraser, G. 1st V.; V.E. W. Richards, G. Sword Bearer; V.E. Douglas McLeod, G. Standard Bearer. Grand Stewards—V.E. Jas. Montgomery, V.E. Edward Graham, Comp. J. A. Taylor, Grand Janitor. Com. of General Purposes—M. G.K. S. R. Sircom, M.E.G.S. J. Conway Brown, R.E. J. Gossip, G. Sec. (ex-officio), M.E. W. A. Hesson, M.E. C. J. McDonald, R.E. Wm. McDonald, R.E. Geo. T. Smithers, M.E. Wm. Taylor, M.E. W. Nicholson.

A communication announcing the formation of a Council of High Priests in this jurisdiction was read to the Grand Chapter and approved. The following are the principal officers: Hon. Alex. Keith, President; S. R. Sircom, Vice-President; J. Conway Brown, Recorder.

The thanks of the Grand Chapter were then tendered to Comp. Gossip, Grand Secretary, for his gratuitous services rendered to the Grand Chapter since its formation, after which the Grand Chapter closed.

CURIOSITY. — Freemasonry has in all ages excited the curiosity of mankind; and curiosity is one of the most prevailing passions in the human breast. The mind of man is kept in a perpetual thirst after knowledge, nor can he bear to be ignorant of what he thinks others know.

MARK MASONRY.

MACDONALD MARK LODGE, No. 104.

On Saturday last the installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Headquarters of the First Surrey Rifle Volunteers, Brunswick-road, Camberwell, when there was an excellent attendance of the brethren. Bros. T. Meggy, W.M., presided, H. C. Levander, Acting as S.W., while James Stevens, G.O., was at his post as J.W. The other brethren present were, Eugene F. Cronin, M.O.; S. Rosenthal, S.O.; James Hepburn Hastie, J.O.; C. Swan, Sec.; C. Hammerton, S.D.; Arthur Wolton, J.D.; G. Waterall, D.C.; W. Worrell, Org.; George Neale, George Newman, Thos. W. White, Robert Berridge, Alfred Williams (J.), W. H. Warr, Dr. Barringer, and H. Massey (W.M., 22). The three candidates for advancement did not present themselves, and after the lodge had been opened, with full musical accompaniment which produced a most pleasing effect, the W.M. informed the brethren that the S.W., Bro. Major A. L. Irvine, had stated that as he had been unable to perfect himself in the ceremonies, he would retire as a candidate for the chair. The brethren had therefore unanimously elected Bro. James Stevens, the next in rotation, to that distinguished office, and he should forthwith proceed to install him as the second W.M. of this flourishing lodge. Bro. Swan then presented Bro. Stevens to the Master, who after the introductory forms had been gone through placed him with the customary solemnities in the chair for the current year. Bro. Stevens's first act was to invest Bro. Meggy as I.P.M., and he accompanied the investiture with the remark that the lodge was mainly indebted to him for the high degree of excellence to which it had attained. The following brethren were then appointed and invested by the W.M. as his officers for the year:—Bros. Eugene F. Cronin, S.W.; S. Rosenthal, J.W.; J. H. Hastie, M.O.; G. Waterall, S.O.; A. Wolton, J.O.; C. Hammerton, Sec.; W. Worrell, Org. and Reg. of Marks; R. Berridge, S.D.; Thos. W. White, J.D.; G. Newman, I.G.; G. Neill, Steward; and Fountain, D.C.

The W.M. thanked Bro. Cronin for all the assistance he had given to the lodge, and stated that it was through such exertions as he had made that lodges were indebted for their ultimate success. To Bro. Rosenthal he said, that he hoped the zeal he had shown would be continued for many years, and that it would place the Macdonald Mark Lodge in an exalted position among the lodges of this degree. Bro. Worrell, the Organist, was also complimented by the W.M. on the imposing effect given to all the ceremonies by the exquisite vocal and instrumental harmony which he had conducted. Bro. Meggy invested Bro. Wm. Grant as T., and thanked him very much for the great attention he had paid to his duties during the year. Bro. Binckes, who had been elected Treasurer, was not in attendance, and his investiture was deferred till next meeting. Bro. Meggy concluded the ceremony of installation by delivering the charges in an impressive and fluent style. He afterwards announced that at the last festival of the Grand Mark Lodge, the benevolent fund of the degree was benefited to the extent of £60 or £70, but he would still be happy to add any other names to his list of persons desirous of subscribing.

The W.M. said that in the Craft the brethren had had a great many calls on them, but in the course of twelve months, when the lodge would no doubt be in a better position, they would probably put themselves on a proper footing with respect to this fund.

The W.M. next proposed, "That the best thanks of this lodge be presented to Bro. Charles Swan, for the manner in which the duties of Secretary had been performed the last twelve months." Bro. Swan had shown a great deal of zeal, and the minutes were admirably written and arranged.

Bro. MEGGY seconded the motion. He also thanked Bro. Swan, who had relieved him of a great deal of work. Only those who had acted as Secretary knew what a large amount of work it entailed, but it had been cheerfully borne by Bro. Swan, who was one of the best Secretaries he knew.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Bro. SWAN thanked the brethren for their consideration. He had not expected it. He had been so short a time Secretary that they had hardly had an opportunity of valuing his services. The duties had been arduous certainly, but they had been pleasurable at the same time. It was with some regret that he retired, because he took much delight in serving the brethren.

The W.M. then closed the lodge, and the brethren sat down to a supper, which was admirably arranged. When the hour for proposing the toasts arrived, the W.M. wished the brethren to understand that if he hurried over them, it was not because he deemed them of no importance; but as everything was done by rule here, and there was a specified hour for everything, he thought so much of time that he wished to be punctual. After having honoured "The Queen," he proposed "The Grand Master, Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal." His worth and the zeal he was showing for Mark Masonry would render it improper for any Master to pass over his name without some slight comment. The attention he gave to his duties, his assiduity in their discharge, and the readiness with which he visited the lodges under his control, rendered him worthy of the utmost esteem. His conduct was giving Mark Masonry a firm foundation. The Order had made its way under many disadvantages, and it was to such Grand Masters as Lord Leigh, Lord Carnarvon, Lord Holmesdale, Bro. Beach, and Bro. Portal that its present position was due. The Grand Master would have attended here this night, but Saturday was very inconvenient to all clergymen, and he was compelled to disappoint the lodge. On a future occasion, however, he would come, and would make arrangements for stopping in town on Saturday evening for the purpose. He (the W.M.) would let the brethren know what night the Grand Master fixed, and he hoped they would muster as numerous as they did that evening, to honour their distinguished visitor.

The W.M. next gave "The Deputy Grand Mark Master, Earl Percy, and the Present and Past G. Officers." With respect to Earl Percy, it was right to say he was a very amiable and extremely well-disposed nobleman, who had a great deal of good feeling towards both Craft and Mark Masonry, and who showed abilities which did honour to the Order and credit to himself. Respecting the Present and Past Grand Officers, it was a pleasing fact in connection with this lodge that the representatives of the Grand Lodge were rather strong among them, Bros. Meggy, Swan, Rosenthal, and Hammerton—all of whom were members—being present: and as the lodge had been established only twelve months, he thought they might claim a greater number of Grand Officers among them than any other Mark Lodge.

Bro. HAMMERTON, Grand Steward, responded, and in the course of his observations remarked that he did not think it likely that the Mark degree would be acknowledged by the Craft.

Bro. MEGGY felt it a high honour, at the conclusion of his year of office, to have to install into the chair a brother so capable of filling it and acting up to his obligations as Bro. Stevens. There had not been much opportunity that evening of the W.M. showing how proficient he was in the Mark degree; but from the manner in which he had fulfilled his duties in the Craft, he (Bro. Meggy) felt he was capable of conducting the affairs of a Mark lodge creditably to himself and to the brethren. They would be able to prove at the end of the year that he knew what he was about. In the meantime they could only hope that he would have that health vouchsafed to him without which it would be impossible to discharge the duties of the chair, which were not at all light. He had gone through them in other degrees, and no doubt the members would soon find he would also do so in this branch of Masonry with honour to himself and happiness to them.

The W.M.: I have to thank Bro. Meggy very much for the manner in which he has put the toast before you, and I have to thank the brethren very much for the cordial reception they have given it. Coming as the toast does from Bro. Meggy—who has been a leviathan in the Mark, a member who has been recognised for very many years, and who in Grand Lodge has been one of its most zealous supports throughout—I feel the compliment all the more highly. Bro. Meggy has worked with a great deal of energy, not only with regard to the Craft in general and to Mark Masonry in particular, but in the government of this lodge; and to receive from him the kind remarks he has just made is to me a source of considerable pleasure. I can assure you that I have the interests of this Mark lodge at heart, and in it, and in Masonry generally, I desire to see all connected with me comfortable, genial, and happy. I believe it is one of the necessities of Freemasonry to afford that degree of social converse which shall be beneficial to us in our whole daily life. As our Brother Hammerton referred just now to the impracticability, as he seemed to think, of the Mark degree being recognised by the Grand Craft Lodge, I can only say that whereas some years ago I thought there ought to be no distinction in the orders of Masonry, I begin now to think that Mark Masonry is sufficiently strong not to come in any supplicatory attitude to the Craft to ask to be recognised; but to hold its own as a separate and distinct Order. I did think at one time it was the finishing touch to the second degree, and the introduction to the third. It seemed proper that it should be so, but the Craft were of a different opinion; and inasmuch as they were, I do not think that the Mark degree, having held its own and placed itself in the position that it has, should come to the Craft, and ask to be blended with them. That it will be recognised by them I feel certain; but that it will be blended with them I do not. If it was, I do not think the Mark degree would be favoured by it. That, however, does not affect us. What does affect us is that we should be a lodge recognised, and in high repute by the Order to which we belong. I feel that what has been done by my predecessor will effect this object, and I shall do the best I can to advance the interests of this lodge. While I have such support and attendance of the officers as have been given during the past twelve months, I do not fear that I shall be successful, both in sustaining the character of the lodge as a good working lodge, and also as a lodge which has a due regard for the comforts and happiness of Masons generally. (Hear, hear.)

The W.M. then proposed "The I.P.M." A more creditable Master the lodge could not have wished for or expected, and could not have had if it had wished or expected. One who was more desirous to promote the interests of No. 104 they could never have had. He had been everything he could be while Master, and the brethren would drink his health with that unanimity and genuine cordial good fellowship which the services he had rendered to the lodge would fully warrant. He (the W.M.) was personally indebted to him for what he had done for the lodge. They all respected him for his goodness and attention both in Craft and Mark Masonry, but especially to this lodge. While they had the benefit of his guidance and assistance, the Macdonald was not likely to fall through. He would be a bulwark and buttress to support it, and long may he be so.

Bro. MEGGY: I can assure you it is with feelings of the greatest pleasure that I rise to thank you, W.M. for the very kind and cordial sentiments you have expressed, and also the brethren for their enthusiastic adoption of them. I can only reiterate what I said before, that my services will always be at the disposition of the Macdonald Mark Lodge. When I found there was the slightest chance of having a Mark Lodge in the First Surrey Volunteer Corps, I hailed it at once with delight, and, from the kindness I received from Major Irvine, Bro. Stevens, Bro. Cronin, and others, I am happy to say the Macdonald was able to find a footing here. I only hope that those brethren who have joined us will think that whatever they have done for us they have not done everything that is expected of them. I do not think I have done all that is expected of me; and I shall support the Master as long as I am here, and will promote the success of the lodge and the happiness of the members. The brethren round the table will have the same feeling. Without it we can never prosper. Neither in this lodge nor in our Craft Lodge have we had any differences, and I trust the time is far distant when we shall. Differences generally result in the breaking up of a lodge. At present we have gone on satisfactorily. I am very much obliged to the brethren for the leniency they have displayed to my shortcomings, and for the appreciation they have shown of those efforts I have made for the benefit of the lodge. I can only ask them to be equally kind to my successor. By so doing we shall be a happy and united lodge.

The W.M.: The next is a toast which I am sure you will all be pleased with. On ordinary occasions we are always glad to receive visitors; but when they are able to perform the ceremonies of the evening, their presence is the more acceptable. In a lodge like our own, it is not to be expected—it is out of all possibility—that there should be a sufficient number of P.M.'s to enable the ceremony of installation to be performed according to the rules and regulations of the Order; and, therefore, it is that we are more than ordinarily indebted to the P.M.'s of other lodges when they come among us for the purpose of affording us assistance in the performance of the ceremonies. The Macdonald Lodges, both Craft and Mark, have always been, and I trust ever will continue to be, remarkable, or at any rate recognised, as being enthusiastically disposed to receive those who honour them with their presence; and I should be loth to think that this lodge at any time would lose the power and the opportunity of welcoming visitors from other lodges. On this occasion we are honoured by the presence of several Grand Officers, Masters, and P.M.'s well known in the metropolitan district. I may mention, amongst others, our Bro. Dr. Barringer, who is a Past Provincial Grand Overseer, Bro. Levander, Past G.D. of Cers.; Bro. Warr, G.D. of Cers.; Br. Alfred Williams, of No. 23—the latter of whom has done us the honour, and I hope himself the considerable pleasure, to put his name down to be balloted for as a joining member. Three of them are either Present or Past Grand Officers, and the other two exceedingly worthy members of the Order. I feel very much indebted to them for their presence on this occasion. I hope what they have seen has given them satisfaction, and that they will go away with the feeling in their minds that the Macdonald Lodge is likely to be a credit and an ornament to the Order. If that object is attained, I am quite sure our utmost wish will be accomplished, and I trust it will be the means of inducing them to renew their visit, and to bring other members of the Order with them.

Bro. LEVANDER: In rising to return thanks for the visitors who have been present this evening, I beg to thank you most sincerely for the hospitable manner in which you have received us. I am sure that all, whether Past Grand Officers or not, have been delighted with the way in which they have seen the ceremonies of the Order carried out this evening. The Worshipful Grand Master, I think, is fortunate in having officers in the Grand Lodge who carry out the duties of their respective offices with a zeal with which they have always shown both in past years and in the present; and I am quite sure, brethren, that in mentioning the present Grand Officers, I may allude to the fact of your W.M. being one of them—that he will, during the present year, carry out the duties of his office, not only to the credit of this lodge, but to the entire satisfaction of the Grand Master and all members of the Grand Lodge. Not only is the M.W.G.M. fortunate in the selection always of his officers, but if he had lodges under his jurisdiction which always carried out the duties and the ceremonies of Mark Masonry in the same efficient manner as the Macdonald Lodge does, he would be fortunate above all his predecessors. I thank you most sincerely on my own behalf, leaving it to the other visitors to say what they may please in addition for the very kind and hospitable way in which you have received the visitors to your lodge. I do not know whether I should be trespassing by alluding to the way in which you receive visitors in Craft Macdonald Lodge also; but I think those who have had the pleasure of visiting that lodge, with me, will certify to the very able manner in which the ceremonies are always worked in the Craft Lodge No. 1216, and also in the Mark Lodge No. 104, which, I think, emulates, if it does not exceed, the perfection which has been obtained in the Craft lodge. I beg to thank you most sincerely on my own behalf and on behalf of those brethren who have visited the lodge, for the very kind, hospitable, and Masonic reception you have given us. In conclusion, I wish the W.M. a most successful year of office, and I trust that Mark Macdonald Lodge, No. 104, may continue to flourish under his command, and ever remain one of the most efficient lodges under the Mark Grand Lodge of England.

The W.M. proposed "The Presiding Officers," specifying the services rendered by each of them, and in reference to the S.W. said that if the rule of Grand Lodge which required that a Master of a Mark lodge must have attained the chair of a Craft lodge, was altered as had been proposed, he should hope to see Bro. Cronin installed next year.

Bros. CRONIN, S.W., and WOLTON, J.O., responded. "The Healths of the Treasurer and Secretary," to which Bro. C. R. SWAN replied—and "The Junior Officers of the Lodge," which Mr. WORRELL acknowledged—followed, and the last toast given by the W.M. was "The Masonic Charities," which elicited responses from Bros. MEGGY, SWAN, and NEALE, and the brethren separated.

MASONRY IN AMERICA.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL OF OLIVE BRANCH

"Another element of conservatism, which has contributed alike to the vitality and vigour of this great Brotherhood, is the morality of its teachings. By morality I mean, not that rule of conduct which is only the conventional verdict of an ever changing public opinion by the force of circumstances which come of education, interest, or selfishness—a public sentiment that condemns to-day what it tolerates to-morrow, which so easily converts wrong into right and right into wrong—but that morality which is reflected from the immaculate standard of Divine justice and wisdom, and which constitutes an immutable rule of human action.

"The moral teachings of Masonry are from this pure source, and are not subject to the mutations of that standard of popular morality, whose tendency at this time is alarmingly downward.

"In addition to what is termed morality, there are other teachings which may be more properly denominated religious truths, drawn directly from Revelation, as the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the body. These together, form a body of moral instruction which conserves the character of the Institution, preserves its power, ministers to its vitality, elevates it to a condition above the ordinary reach of that surging tide of vicissitudes which has swept away so many institutions from their foundations. What this Fraternity does for itself by its moral teachings, it does for its individual members. Its moral conservatism is felt by multitudes of young men who enter its pale, and so far master its principles, as to understand and appreciate them.

"Never did the young men of the land need the elevating and restraining influence of such guidance more than at the present time. The public have become fearfully familiar with wrong doing, and alarmingly tolerant of crime, when it relates to the successful accumulation of money, especially if the fraud be on a scale sufficiently large to render him who commits it notorious. The examples of men in high places and low places, impregnate the atmosphere with a pernicious quality, intoxicating the brain, corrupting the heart, and ruining the life of that class who should be the flower of the land and the hope of the country.

"Now, the legitimate influence of this Ancient Order over young men, tends directly to the formation of such tastes and habits, to such culture and conduct, as serve to raise them above these baneful influences, or fortifies them against their prevailing tendencies, and thus helps them to rise superior to the gravitating power of the popular standard of morals, and so enables them to attain an honorable and useful position in life.

"It is very true and I am sorry to say it, that this private Masonic training is not always effectual. Many a young man and many an old man is found in this Fraternity, who is, apparently no better for his connection with it; over whose conduct its principles do not seem to have any controlling influence. These are the exceptions, and in contrast with others, show how much the moral teachings of the Order do in conserving the morals of its members and through them, contributing to the public good.

"The conservatism of Freemasonry is seen and felt in its social influences. This is pre-eminently a social Institution—it is a united brotherhood. The very term is one of mutual endearment, expressive of equality, of union and harmony, of affection and of a community of interest where the welfare of one is identical to that of the other—so that if one suffer all the members suffer with it. This is in some degree true of other Societies which claim to be fraternities, but it is true of this, in a measure which can not be approached by any other human association. If a person is regarded as worthy of being admitted within its mystic cycle, he crossed its threshold as all others have done before him. His outside relations are not recognised. There is a common level upon which he must stand. Whatever his pretension or position in the world, they avail him nothing. The high and the low, the rich and the poor, the learned and the unlearned, are taught to look upon each other as the children of a common parent, and to dwell together as members of the same great family. If in this there is any coming down in social position, then it humbles the high. If, on the contrary, there is in this any elevation of position, then it exalts the humble, and fraternal equality is the happy result.

In this country, where the line of social distinctions is drawn not so much by morals as by money, where the revolving wheel of politics is perpetually creating distinctions in society, elevating one and casting down another; here, where the great growth of cities, the accumulation of immense wealth in the hands of the few, are ever widening the chasm between different classes of society; where the rich are becoming richer, and the poor, as a natural consequence, are becoming poorer, and a species of green-back caste is thus springing up in a land, whose abounding resources more and more induce a tendency to irregularity; this Fraternity finds ample scope for the exercise of its social conservatism, in keeping up, as far as may be that standard of equality, which has good character for its basis, and which ignores the unmeaning, unjust, and brainless distinctions that so much obtain among men—thus practically inculcating the lesson which all men ought to learn—that the only real social distinction should be that which arises from the conduct of men, and that the only aristocracy which arises from the conduct of men, which the world should ever recognise, is the superiority of mind and excellence of morals.

"But of all the changes that come over a community, and which carries with it the smart of wounded pride, the mortification of disappointed hope, and the suffering of absolute want, is that which is so common in this country, filled with the restless activities of enterprise and speculation—the change from worse to worse. This change, in its suddenness and severity, when it comes by the concurrence of circumstances over which no human agency seems to have any control, opens the way for that office of charity which is the main mission of Masonry to dispense. While the poor are ever to be found in our life's pathway, and from whatever cause their poverty may come, the great law of love remains evermore the chief statute of this Order. Charity, as it ever has been, so it ever must be its most prominent practical feature.

"In a world like this, such a virtue can never be idle or out of place. The weaknesses and the wickednesses of men combine to create a condition of things which demands the exercise of this virtue. The poor man who has seen better days, whose fortune has fled from him on wings which he could not clip—the desponding man whose hopes of worldly wealth have been crushed by the failure of his best endeavours—the man of disease, whose earthly dependence was the daily labour of his own hands—the stranger, who fines himself in a strange land without friends and destitute of money—the widow, who lost her means or support when she lost her husband—that group of little orphan children, who in utter destitution send up their cry for food and for friends—those constitute the object of that charity which does so much to relieve the wants of the suffering, to bind up the broken-hearted, to check that spirit of murmuring, and to replace it with the good cheer of animating hope; to give courage to the weak; to find friends for the fatherless, and to relieve the daily wants which cluster around the poor man's door, and thus, in its benign ministry of love, smooth the rough ways of life. It does the noble work of equalizing the social condition of society by this means of charitable alleviation, thus demonstrating practically what I mean by the power of the social conservatism of Freemasonry.

"Thus it is that this venerable Institution, which numbers its age by centuries, and which to-day appears in all the freshness of young life, acts upon the two extremes of society, checking the towering pride of prosperity, and raising and cheering the stricken spirit of despondency. There is always in an age of great success a constant tendency to exceeding selfishness. Rapid accumulation of riches begets a morbid spirit of covetousness. When success nourishes forgetfulness and misfortune leads to recklessness and much silent suffering is the product of both, this society acts the part of the good Samaritan, and dispenses charities noiselessly to the timely relief of the suffering, unobserved by the public eye, and unattended by the mortifications of wounded pride, feels with a keen sensitiveness, the least exposure of a depressed and dependent condition.

"Thus does this Society seek to equalize the two extremes of society, by placing the worthy on an elevated level, thereby conserving the social elements of society, and proving itself a blessing to those who give, and to those who receive.

The conservatism of Free Masonry is more over seen and felt in its influences upon the political relations of the country.

The Institution is, and from its very nature must be, free from the atmosphere of political partisanship, composed, as it is, of men of all politics; existing, as it does, in the midst of various and conflicting parties, it could not survive a single political campaign, were it to ally itself to any of the questions which from time to time divide and distract the community. Though purposely and fundamentally separated from all matters of politics, yet the genius of Masonry has always been wedded to the genius of Liberty. This great Brotherhood has flourished most among the freest people. Its bitterest and basest enemies have been tyrants who have most opposed the principles of freedom, and have most opposed those who have sought to regain and enjoy that heritage which God has made the common birthright of man.

"The despotism of Europe tried for centuries to crush out its life by persistent persecutions. The dungeon, the rack, and the stake have been employed, and have contributed their consummate cruelties to the work of extorting its secrets, disbanding its Lodges, and expatriating its members. But such endeavours has only betrayed the weakness and the wickedness of an intolerant ignorance, and a cowardly tyranny, which has demonstrated the strength and stability of an institution, whose principles were far in advance of the spirit of the age, and were akin to that progress that was destined to elevate the race in the scale of a true nobility.

"When 'the Star of Empire,' westward took its course, then did Freemasonry seek an asylum in the New World. As soon as the spirit of liberty inspired the infant Colonies with the lofty sentiment of Independence, Masonry was found in the Congress which framed the declaration of the popular will, and in the army that carried that declaration into successful execution. This Institution in the first days of the young Republic was established everywhere. So entirely congenial were its principles with that of the cause which then engrossed the hearts and minds of the people, and challenged the utmost of their patriotism, that the largest and most prosperous Lodges were connected with the army. Among those who sat in those Lodges, as a member, was that illustrious man towards whom the eyes of the people were then turned, and on whom the hearts of all the friends of freedom, have ever since been placed, 'the Father of his Country.'

FRUITS.—What are the fruits of Masonry? It has often been effectual to save life and property; it has often relieved distress; it constantly teaches the ignorant; it daily wipes rivers of tears from the eyes of distress; it has often reconciled the most jarring interests; it has often converted the bitterest foes into the dearest friends.—Invu 60

PROV. GRAND MARK LODGE OF LANCASHIRE (S.C.)

The S.G.R.A. Chapter of Scotland having been pleased to appoint Bro. Thomas Entwisle as Provincial Grand Master of Mark Master Masons in Lancashire, his installation was fixed for Saturday, the 13th instant.

The St. Andrew's Lodge, 22, held an emergency meeting at three o'clock at Freemasons' Hall, Manchester. The lodge was opened punctually at the hour fixed, by the R.W.M., Bro. C. F. Matier, assisted by his officers. The circular calling the meeting was read, and several candidates were balloted for; three of them being in attendance (Bros. Sallon, P.M., Lightbourne, and Simpson), were introduced and advanced to the degree of Mark Master by the R.W.M. The candidates having received the secrets, retired a few minutes, and on their return Bro. John Mitchell, P.M. Mk. No. 2, took the chair and delivered the lecture of the degree in a highly effective manner. After the working tools had been presented the candidates received the congratulatory charge from Br. Mitchell.

Bro. C. F. Matier then resumed the chair, and having briefly stated to the brethren the reason of the convocation of the lodges in the province, called upon the acting P.G. Sec. to read the summons.

It was then announced that the P.G.M.M. nominate was in attendance, and desired to be installed.

The R.W.M. accordingly ordered a deputation of eight Past Masters and four Wardens to conduct the P.G.M. into the lodge. The procession was formed by Bros. Whyatt and Hopkins, and on arriving at the pedestal opened right and left to permit the P.G.M.M. to advance to the East. Bro. G. P. Brockbank, the oldest P.M. Mk. in the province, then presented the P.G.M.M.-nominate for installation. The patent of appointment was read, and the oath de fide duly administered by Bro. Matier, who then placed the P.G.M.M. in the chair, and proclaimed him in due form.

The brethren having saluted the P.G.M.M. with the proper honours, he proceeded to open the Provincial Grand Mark Lodge.

The first business was the nomination of officers, and the following brethren were appointed:—

Bro. C. Fitzgerald Matier, R.W.M. 22	D.P.G.M.M.
" G. Parker Brockbank, P.M. 2	P.S.G.W.
" John Mitchell, P.M. 2	P.J.G.W.
" John Parry Platt, P.M. 5	P.G.M.O.
" William P. Mills, P.M. 5	P.G.S.O.
" Wm. Relph, R.W.M.-elect 24	P.G.J.O.
" Josiah W. Taylor, R.W.M. 2	P.G. Sec.
" Lieut.-Col. Birchall, P.M. 2	P.G.S. of Wks.
" John Adam Whyatt, J.W. 22	P.G.D. of C.
" Wm. H. Hopkins, J.O. 22	P.G.A.D. of C.
" Rev. E. A. Lang, Chaplain 22	P.G. Chaplain.
" Thomas Ambler, P.M. 5	P.G.S.D.
" Dr. Allison, S.W.-nominate 24	P.G.J.D.
" H. T. Robberds, T.K. 2	P.G.O.
" Wm. George Turner, M.O. 22	P.G.S.B.
" Edward Friend, Sec. 5	P.G.T.K.
" W. H. Pratt	P.G. Stewards.
" James Parr, jun.
" Simeon Sampson

Bro. George Galloway, P.M. 2, was unanimously elected P.G. Treasurer, and Bro. William Dawson P.G. Tyler.

After the officers had been duly invested with the collars and jewels of their respective offices, and saluted according to their rank, the following resolution was proposed by the D.P.G.M.M., seconded by the P.G. SEC., and carried unanimously:—"That a yearly sum of 2s. per annum be payable by each subscribing member to Provincial Grand Mark Lodge. One moiety of this to be devoted to the necessary expenses, and the other to form a nucleus of a charity fund, to be dispensed as the P.G.M. Lodge shall deem fit."

Proposed by the D.P.G.M.M., seconded by H.I.H. Prince RHODOCANAKIS, and carried unanimously:—"That a sum of 2s. 6d. shall be paid to P.G.M. Lodge for each advancement, and 1s. for each affiliation."

It was also resolved unanimously:—"That any P.G.M. Officer absent from his post in P.G.M. Lodge, without a reasonable and proper apology, shall be fined 10s. 6d."

The remainder of the business was then transacted, and the P.G.M. Lodge closed in due form and with solemn prayer.

The members of P.G.M. Lodge having retired, hearty good wishes were given to St. Andrew's Lodge from Nos. 2, 5, 24 (S.C.), and several lodges under the English Constitution. Several notices of motion were given, and the labours of the evening being ended, the St. Andrew's Lodge was duly closed.

The brethren then proceeded to the banqueting hall, where they partook of a plain but substantial repast, provided by the Freemasons' Club. The chair was taken by Bro. Thos. Entwisle, 18^o, P.G.M.M., and the duties of vice-chairman were efficiently discharged by Bro. Wm. Wayne, S.W. 22. At the cross tables we noticed Bros. C. F. Matier, 30^o, D.P.G.M.M.; Fred. Binckes, 30^o, G.S.G.M. Lodge of England; H.I.H. Prince Rhodocanakis, 33^o; G. P. Brockbank, 18^o, P.S.G.W.; John Mitchell, P.G.J.W.; Parry Platt, 18^o, P.G.M.O.; Friend, P.M., &c., &c. Among the visitors were Bros. Roberts (P.M.), Ashworth (P.M.), Hargreaves (W.M. Mark Lodge, Haslingden), &c., &c.

The toasts of "The Queen" and of "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," were proposed by the P.G.M.M., and duly honoured by the brethren.

The next toast was the "M.E. Grand Principals, Office Bearers, and Members of the S.G.R.A. Chapter of Scotland," which was briefly responded to by Bro. MATIER, who read several letters of apology from distinguished companions who were prevented from being present, among others, the Earl of Rosslyn, Capt. Morland, Alex. Hay, Esq., &c., &c.

The toast of "The M.W.G.M. and Grand Lodge of England" was replied to by Bro. FREDERICK BINCKES, Past Grand Steward, who took occasion to mention the peculiarly delicate position in which he was then placed, as the official representative of the G.M.L. of England, present at a hostile demonstration, and he might almost say in the enemy's camp. He assured the brethren that while deploring and regretting the fact of a foreign jurisdiction, he was exceedingly pleased to be present, as it showed that the Mark degree was appreciated and beloved in Lancashire, and as he always believed in the maxim, Fas est ab hoste doceri, he would use still more strenuous exertions to secure the great desideratum of unity. He (Br. Binckes) trusted that ere long the difficulties surrounding the Mark Degree would all vanish, and that on some future occasion he might address the brethren, not as an alien and an enemy, but as a trusted and trustworthy adviser and friend. (Bro. Binckes was loudly applauded throughout his speech, and was received with great cordiality by the brethren.)

The toast of "Bro. Legendre Starkie, and the P.G. Officers of East Lancashire, Past and Present," was responded to by Bro. WM. ROBERTS, P.P.G.P.

The toast of the evening then followed, and was proposed by Bro. MATIER, who said: R.W. Sir and Brethren, in rising to propose the toast I have been called on to do, I assure you I do so with feelings of the greatest pleasure mingled with pain. Pleasure and pride at the honour done me, pain and fear at my own lack of ability to do justice to such a theme as "The Health and Prosperity of our R.W.P.G.M.M., Bro. Thomas Entwisle;" but you, brethren, must take the will for the deed, and forgiving me for my rudeness of speech and unpolished periods, see only in my words the earnest desire to offer to our P.G.M.M. that homage to which his merits have so justly entitled him. But I do not think that even this is necessary. Bro. Entwisle is not a creation of yesterday in the Masonic world. He is not a stranger among you, but a living refutation of the axiom, "A prophet has no honour in his own country." For upwards of twenty years Bro. Entwisle has laboured in the cause of Mark Masonry, and when, some fourteen or fifteen years ago, the Grand Craft Lodge of England refused to have anything to do with the Mark degree, and before the formation of that body which is so ably represented by our hostile friend and friendly foe, Bro. Binckes, Bro. Entwisle, in conjunction with Bros. Brockbank and Mitchell, applied to the S.G. Chapter of Scotland, as the only Masonic body in authority over the degree, for a warrant. This was granted, and the St. John's Lodge, of Bolton, was founded by these three brethren (may I call them "The Dauntless Three?"), and received the number 2. St. Mark's Lodge, No. 1, has been dormant for years, and therefore the St. John's Lodge is the oldest warranted Mark Lodge in England, and, indeed, I may say, in the world. Since that time the St. John's has flourished and prospered, and has been the mother of all the lodges of Mark Masters in Lancashire; and it is to Bro. Entwisle we are indebted for this happy consummation. I will not longer detain you, but ask you to pledge the R.W.P.G.M.M. in a bumper, and wish him long life, health, and prosperity in his new office, an eminence to which he has truly risen by merit. Brethren, let us drink the health of the P.G.M.M.

On the P.G.M.M. rising to reply, he was interrupted for some minutes by the cheering of the brethren, and on order being restored, thanked them in a few well-chosen remarks. He mentioned that, although the warrant of the St. John's Lodge from Scotland only dated from 1856, in reality it is a time-immemorial lodge, as they actually possess minutes from 1797; and concluded by saying: However much we may desire union, I am of opinion that the Supreme Royal Arch Chapter, to whom we owe fidelity, can alone release us of our allegiance to her.

Bro. FREDERICK BINCKES then requested permission to give the next toast on the programme, "The Health of Bro. C. F. Matier, the Deputy Prov. G.M.M.," and mentioned that, although Bro. Matier and he could not agree on the question of jurisdiction, still they had agreed to differ; and although in public he addressed Bro. Matier as his worst enemy, in private, he was happy to think, he could hail him as his best friend. Bro. Binckes alluded at some length to the D.P.G.M.M.'s services to the Mark degree, as the founder of the St. Andrew's Lodge, and as an author on the subject; and concluded by wishing the D.P.G.M.M. every health and prosperity. (The toast was received by the brethren with hearty good will.)

The Deputy P.G.M.M. said he would simply thank Bro. Binckes for his kindness, and the brethren for the honour they had done him in thus cordially endorsing the honour which the P.G.M.M. had so conspicuously conferred on him that day. He assured them no effort should be spared on his part to render his services efficient in the cause of the Mark Degree.

The "Officers of the P.G.M. Lodge" was responded to by Bros. BROCKBANK, P.G.S.W., and MITCHELL, P.G.J.W. Bro. Brockbank was the first R.W.M. of No. 2, Bro. Entwisle the first S.W., and Bro. Mitchell the first J.W.

The toast of "The Masters, Past Masters, and Officers of Mark Lodges in the Province," was proposed by Bro. ROBERTS, P.M., and responded to by Bro. J. W. TAYLOR, R.W.M. No. 2, and P.G. Secretary.

The remaining toasts were "The Visitors," "The P.G.M. Stewards," and "All Poor and Distressed Mark Masters."

Bro. J. A. Whyatt, P.G.D. of C., most efficiently discharged his duties, and acted as toastmaster during the evening.

The harmony of the evening was considerably enhanced by some excellent singing, among which we must particularise a Lancashire poem, rendered to perfection by Bro. Sampson, and a capital comic song by Bro. Mitchell.

The brethren separated at an early hour, much pleased with the entire proceedings.

THE Fifteen Sections will be worked at the United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction, the Duke of Edinburgh, Shepherd's-lane, Brixton, on Friday evening next, at six o'clock precisely, Bro. J. Thomas, P.M., P.G.D.C.G.C., will preside.

FAITH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.—The above Lodge of Instruction is held every Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the spacious and commodious rooms at Bro. Fisher's Restaurant, Metropolitan District Railway Station, Victoria, S.W. Ceremonies and lectures worked every Tuesday, except the fourth Tuesday in the month, when the ceremonies alone are rehearsed. The Domestic Chapter of Instruction is also held in the above rooms every Friday evening at 8 o'clock, from October until April inclusive.

WE understand from Bro. Hughan that the able Scottish Masonic historian, Bro. D. Murray Lyon, is progressing favourably with the history of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel) from the sixteenth century to the present time. It is likely to be published by subscription, and will be dedicated to the M.W. Bro. the Earl of Dalhousie, K.T., Grand Master Mason of Scotland, by his lordship's gracious permission. We anticipate great things from the publication of this work, as the records are very valuable and full of interest. Particulars will be published in due course.

THE degree of "Bachelor" of Laws has been conferred on a married lady in America, Mrs. Kepley, the wife of Mr. H. B. Kepley, a practising lawyer of Effingham, in Chicago.

GRADES OF RANK.—Many persons have endeavoured to substantiate their objections to the institution of Freemasonry, from the admitted dogma that its members meet on a level; whence they conclude that the system abolishes all human distinctions, and promises to disorganize society, and reduce it to its primitive elements. But it does no such thing. There is, in fact, no other institution where the grades of rank are better defined and preserved. The W.M. sits in the east. For what purpose is he placed there? Why, to rule and govern his lodge. And he is invested with power even to despotism, should he consider it safe to use it, and the Wardens are his assistants, not his equals. Each has his particular duty assigned to him, and beyond that he has no right to interfere. The next grade are the Deacons. And what is their duty? Not, surely, to rank in equality with the Masters and Wardens, but to perform the part of inferiors in office, to carry messages and commands. It is their province to attend on the Master, and to assist the Wardens in the active duties of the lodge, such as the reception of candidates into the different degrees of Masonry, and the immediate practice of our rites. This is the business of the Deacons; and by its punctual discharge, the office becomes a stepping stone to further preferment: for as it is incumbent on a brother to serve the office of a Warden, before he is eligible for the chair of a lodge, so it would be well if the office of a Deacon were preparatory to that of a Warden. The Treasurer, the Secretary, the Stewards, the Inner Guard, and the Tyler, have all their respective duties to perform and rank to support; while the brethren are bound to obey the will and pleasure of the W.M.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

The CANADIAN DIFFICULTY

FROM the Craftsman we learn that the Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of Canada was held at Toronto on the 13th ultimo, and that the meeting was attended by over six hundred brethren—being the largest representation of the Craft that has ever been gathered together in the Dominion. And, truly, the issue to be decided was one of that grave and solemn nature as might well account for so large a muster of Masons. It is well known that the secession of the Quebec brethren from the Grand Lodge of Canada, and the consequent establishment of a separate Grand Lodge for that province, have given great offence to the Canadian Masonic authorities, who deny the right of the Quebec brethren to autonomy in Masonic affairs, notwithstanding the fact that every other province in the Dominion has a Grand Lodge of its own. Opinions differ greatly as to the legality of the proceedings by which the Grand Lodge of Quebec was inaugurated, and our readers may remember that we at first expressed an opinion that the action of the secessionists in precipitating matters to a conclusion was neither wise nor judicious; but, at that period, we confess that our knowledge of the accompanying circumstances was somewhat incomplete. We blamed the promoters of the movement for faults of omission, from which subsequent information proved them to have been entirely free. We found that the present Grand Master of Canada, Bro. Stevenson, was originally one of the warmest supporters of Quebec's claims to independence, and we found that similar views were entertained by some of the best and most experienced Masons in the Dominion. And as to the mode of procedure adopted by the brethren in the formation of the new Grand Lodge, a superficial glance at the history of Freemasonry in every country or state was sufficient to prove, to any unprejudiced observer, that the course pursued was precisely in accordance with precedents which every brother is bound to recognise. One of the strongest points alleged in opposition to the separation is, that the division of Canada into distinct provinces is simply a political measure, and that Masonic Grand Lodges are not to be dislocated or rent asunder as a result of political changes. Another argument is cited to the effect that the Supreme Legislature in Canada enacts laws as before for both provinces. This were readily acknowledge; and it may be remarked that Scotland and Ireland, although governed by the same Imperial Parliament as England, have yet separate organisations or ruling bodies in the Craft, and the Masonic orders in general. But our Canadian brethren need scarcely look across the Atlantic for an illustration of the doctrine that political boundaries are somewhat recognised in the Masonic system. The newly-created province of Manitobah is a case in point, and who will contend that the Grand Lodge of Canada, so-called, has exclusive jurisdiction in this latest addition to the Dominion; more especially, when it is remembered that New Brunswick and Nova Scotia—which are also integral portions of Canada—have separate Grand Lodges of their own, and equal right to occupy, in a Masonic sense, the Manitobah district? Moreover, in the United States every State or territory establishes an independent Masonic jurisdiction within its political limits, provided the required number of lodges acquiesce, as soon as the Federal Government invests it with certain defined political powers. For instance, the Grand Lodge of Maine formerly embraced within its Masonic fold several territories which are now the seats of flourishing independent Grand Lodges; and so well is the justice of Quebec's case understood by the enlightened jurists of Maine, that we find they were almost the first to acknowledge and recognise the new Grand Lodge of Quebec, an example which has since been copied by several other Grand Lodges on the American Continent, and which would have been almost universally followed were it not that some of the Masonic powers deemed it expedient to defer recognition until they had first heard the result of calm reasoning on the subject in the Grand Lodge of Canada itself.

Well, the Grand Lodge of Canada has met, and the brethren who were asked to suspend their decision—on the plea that the Quebec brethren would have an opportunity therein of calmly stating the reasons which induced them to secede—must now feel that the Canadian "powers that be" have been simply playing upon their credulity. From first to last it appears to have been a foregone conclusion that the existence of the Grand Lodge of Quebec should be ignored, and a very temperate amendment, offering recognition to the sister Grand Lodge, was, it is needless to add, rejected by a large majority. And yet this amendment was proposed by no less a person than Bro. Colonel W. M. WILSON, the First Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada. It was seconded by the distinguished Bro. DOUGLAS HARRINGTON, also a Past Grand Master, who supported it with all the weight of an experience which, in any other assembly than the Grand Lodge of Canada, would have commanded the utmost respect and veneration. No! the olive branch tendered by these illustrious brethren was contumeliously spurned by the hot-headed and hasty members of a Grand Lodge which owes its own existence—under almost identical circumstances to those now condemned as heresy in the Grand Lodge of Quebec—to the moderation and forbearance of other supreme Masonic jurisdictions.

We confess that we have now little hope of a peaceable or Masonic solution to this difficulty, for when the grave counsels of an Ahithophel are rejected in favour of the immature advice of a Hushai, the potency of reason or logic in connection with the question appears somewhat problematical. One point, however, is now cleared up, and American Grand Lodges will not be slow to appreciate its force. It is evident that the spirit of fraternity and true Masonry has departed from the Grand Lodge of Canada. A great opportunity for good has been lost, and "Ichabod" may now be written upon her temples.

To our brethren in Quebec who simply assert their rights, and claim only that Masonic independence which is their due, we say: "Be of good cheer, the Fifteenth Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of Canada by no means represents the world of Masonry; true men and Masons in both hemispheres are ready to extend to you the right hand of fellowship, which the men of Ontario have so churlishly withheld. Continue to practise those Masonic virtues which will eventually secure you, not only the respect and recognition of the Craft Universal, but will, we trust, enable all of us to attain to that temple of light where the vain bickerings of man shall find no place, and where the ephemeral wrath of the foolish shall be heard no more."

SCOTCH MASONRY.

If the writer of the interesting article signed "A Member of Lodge No. 251" would forward me copies of the bye-laws of his lodge and chapter I shall be happy to reciprocate on being favoured with the address.

It is the first instance I have met with where fees in lodges under the Scottish Constitution are so high, and having some hundreds of bye-laws under various Grand Bodies, I am somewhat in the position to speak from knowledge of the subject, when stating that on the whole the fees under the Grand Lodge of Scotland are the lowest I know of.

Whilst agreeing with many of the remarks of the writer, it does seem to me, on the whole, proved from the experience of lodges generally, that a low charge for admission is most undesirable everywhere, and particularly so in Great Britain and Ireland, where Freemasonry is so highly esteemed.

In many lodges in Scotland I am told no annual dues are payable, and I know some where such actually is the case.

In making these observations, I do so with the best of intentions, being both an English and a Scotch Freemason. W. J. HUGHAN.

THE BIBLE IN THE LODGE.

Out of evil good may come; thus if my remarks on this subject have been the cause of the fine lines at page 394, headed "The First Great Light," I shall have one consolation at least, even although I should have to withdraw the latter portion of my former remarks at page 369. As a Christian I gladly adhibit my signature to the resolve on page 394. "Christian Freemasonry," however, may be one thing, "Universal Freemasonry" is another; and as I take it, it is the latter that is shadowed forth in the opening clause of the 1723 Constitutions.

It was bad generalship of Bro. Paton at page 391 to say "among Mahommedan Masons the Koran might be substituted;" that, at least, does not tell against me. And as to all knowing "that these landmarks can never be changed," I believe I know that they have been changed. However, I cannot go into this at present, and take up the space of THE FREEMASON, until my other matter is cleared off; more especially as Bro. Jesse Owen introduces certain remarks into his letter which will be best answered by what I have sent up contra Bro. Paton.

JEW IN THE MIDDLE AGES.

The Aristotelian or Arabian philosophy continued to be communicated from Spain and Arabia to the rest of Europe chiefly by means of the Jews, particularly to France and Italy, which were overrun with Jews about the 10th and 11th centuries. About these periods, not only the courts of the Mahommedan princes, but even that of the Pope himself, were filled with Jews. Here they principally gained an establishment by the profession of physic, an art then but imperfectly known and practised in most parts of Europe. Being well versed in the Arabian tongue, from their communion with Africa and Egypt, they had studied the Arabian translations of Galen and Hippocrates, which had become still more familiar to the great number of their brethren who resided in Spain. From this source also the Jews learned philosophy; and Hebrew versions made about this period from the Arabic of Aristotle, and the Greek physicians and mathematicians, are extant in some libraries. Here was a beneficial effect of the dispersion and vagabond condition of the Jews. I mean the diffusion of knowledge. One of the most eminent of these learned Jews was Maimonides, a physician, philosopher, astrologer, and theologian, educated at Cordova under Averroes. He died about the year 1208. Averroes, being accused of heretical opinions, was sentenced to live with the Jews, in the street of the Jews at Cordova. Some of these learned Jews began to flourish in the Arabian schools in Spain as early as the beginning of the 9th century. Many of the treatises of Averroes were translated by the Spanish Jews into Hebrew, and the Latin pieces of that author now extant were so translated by the Spanish Jews into Hebrew verses. The school or University of Cordova has been already mentioned. Leo Africanus speaks of "Platea Bibliothecarum Cordonae." This, from what follows, appears to be a street of books. It was in the time of Averroes, and about the year 1220, that one of our Jewish philosophers, having fallen in love, turned poet, and his verses were sold publicly in the street. My author says, that "renouncing the dignity of the Jewish doctor, he took to writing verses":

Amore capitur et dignitate Doctorum
Posthabitu coepit edere carmina.

DIURNAL PROGRESS.

The sun rises in the three stages of its diurnal progress, first in the east to open the day, and dispenses life and nourishment to the whole creation. This is well represented by the Worshipful Master, who is placed in the east to open the lodge, and who imparts light, knowledge, and instruction to all under his direction. When it arrives at its greatest altitude in the south, where its beams are most piercing and the cool shade most refreshing, it is then also well represented by the Junior Warden, who is placed in the south to observe its approach to meridian, and at the hour of noon to call the brethren from labour to refreshment. Still pursuing its course to the west, the sun at length closes the day, and lulls all nature to repose; it is then fitly represented by the Senior Warden, who is placed in the west to close the lodge by command of the Worshipful Master, after having rendered to every one the just reward of his labour, thus enabling them to enjoy that repose which is the genuine fruit of honest industry.—

The following curious laws of the first Lodge of Perfection, held in the Northern States of America, will, I think, repay perusal.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

As all well-regulated societies have certain rules and institutions for their better support and government, and as Free and Accepted Masons are bound in a more particular manner to practise the social and enforce the moral virtues, especially in the lodges, from Secret Master (being the 4th degree) to the Ultimate Degree of Symbolic Masonry, called the Perfection or 14th degree, constituted by the Right Worshipful and Thrice Puissant Henry Andrew Francken, Grand Elect Perfect and Sublime Mason, Knight of the East, Prince of Jerusalem, &c., &c., &c., Knight Kadosh, Patriarch Noachite, and Sovereign Knight of the Sun, &c., &c., Deputy Grand Inspector-General of all Lodges of the Superior Degrees in North America and the West Indies, granted by patent under his hand and seal, bearing date —, under the name of —, the persons hereafter subscribed their names, and members of the said above-named Lodge of Perfection, called —, do assent to the following Laws and Regulations for their government, under the penalties and fines hereafter mentioned, and that those fines shall be always paid into the box for the decoration of the said lodge, the relief of poor and indigent brethren, and other objects of real charity.

1st. That this Lodge shall be kept every first and third Friday evening in every month, and as often as the Founder shall think proper, or the Master, in his absence, on acquainting the Founder of the necessity of such extraordinary meeting, who has power and authority to congregate the members upon any emergency, as well as to determine the time of such extraordinary meeting. That the ordinary lodge hours shall be from half-past 5 till half-past 9 o'clock from Michaelmas to Lady-day, and from 7 to 10 from Lady-day to Michaelmas.

2nd. That the Master shall be appointed by the Founder of this lodge, by an instrument in writing under his hand and seal, and the rest of the officers on the first meeting of this lodge; and that on every St. John the Evangelist's Day, or the 27th December, the Master shall be appointed for the succeeding year, by said Founder, under his hand and seal, if in the province, and in his absence by a majority of the members of the said lodge, and the other officers by the appointment of the said Master; and after any of the officers so chosen that have served one year shall not be obliged to serve again, unless they agree to it, and that by the unanimous request of the members.

3rd. At every St. John's Day, when the Master is appointed and he has nominated his Wardens and officers as aforesaid and vested with their proper badges of office, he is to give them a suitable charge how to act in their proper stations.

4th. That if the Master appointed as aforesaid should refuse to serve, he shall immediately pay Forty Shillings, and each of the other Officers Twenty Shillings, into the charity fund; and after the first election no member shall be deemed capable of acting, otherwise than by regularly serving first as Master of Ceremonies, then Secretary or Treasurer, then as Warden, and lastly as Master of this lodge, unless it be by appointment of the Founder under his hand and seal.

5th. The Secretary of this lodge shall enter properly in a book for that purpose all orders and mandates which shall be sent from time to time by the Founder or the Grand Council of Princes of Jerusalem in this province, if any constituted for that purpose, in which said Founder is always to preside, and in his absence his Deputy or Surrogate by him appointed.

6th. Whenever the Founder comes into the lodge he is entitled to the chair, which he may chuse or refuse, and in case of death, sickness or absence of the Master, then the Senior Warden shall officiate pro tempore, and so in other absences, according to the seniority of the officers.

7th. That the Wardens shall do all in their power to aid and assist the Master in the execution of his office, as well as to inform him and the lodge of anything that may tend to the advantage of the Society, together with every matter that may tend to the advantage of the Society, or that may be in violation of their laws, in order to see the penalties incurred and received, and likewise to see that the attending brethren are not mere idle spectators, but to assist, so as to make themselves, in due time, expert workmen.

8th. That the Treasurer shall give receipts to the Secretary for all the money he receives from him, and take receipts for all the said disbursements made on account of the lodge, which must be produced to the Master at the time of delivering in the accounts. That the Treasurer at no time take upon him to pay any money but by virtue of a written order from the Master given in open lodge.

9th. That the Secretary, immediately after the opening of the lodge, take an account of what members are present and of the visiting brothers, and give said list to one of the Stewards; to read the proceedings of the last lodge-night; and if it appears that any fines are due, he is to demand them immediately, and keep a fair account of the cash in the lodge-book, giving credit for every particular sum he pays to the Treasurer, &c., charging that account with the fines, fees, contributions, &c. That he pay no money but to the Treasurer, taking proper receipts. That he is to open a fair account in the lodge-book for every member of this lodge, and take care that they are all balanced before the ensuing election. And that as often as he shall read laws or anything else delivered to him for that purpose, he shall rise and deliver himself in an audible voice. And that he is to keep exact minutes of the proceedings of each lodge-night.

10th. That the Stewards see the lodge provided with candles, keep an exact account of what liquors are used, and of all expenses attending the lodge each night, and deliver the said bill to the Treasurer; and that they shall collect in the payments of each night, and pay them to the Secretary. And that upon all debates they shall collect the votes—he on the right of the Master shall collect the affirmatives, and he on the left the negatives.

11th. That all expenses of the lodge shall be defrayed out of the box, except processions and feasts, when each member or visitor shall pay to the Stewards what may be judged a reasonable price for his ticket.

12th. That all Committees shall be appointed by the Master to transact the business of the lodge, and what expenses are found reasonable by the lodge, when their account is brought in at the final report, shall be paid out of the box.

13th. That everything in the lodge shall be determined by a majority of votes; the Master or person in the chair, to have two, the other members one, unless for the sake of dispatch the matter is left to the Master by the unanimous consent of the lodge.

14th. That all and every person that proposes to be raised in this lodge, shall send in a proper petition, when if he is vouched upon the word of a Mason, by the member who proposes him, that he is a Master Mason made in a regular constituted lodge, and is or has served as an officer in any lodge, he may then be ballotted for the next ensuing lodge, and if carried unanimously in the affirmative, he is to be entered in the minutes of the lodge-book and raised the next lodge-night; but if on the balloting there appears but one negative for the candidate he cannot be elected. That a brother raised in this lodge shall pay, for every degree he is raised to, the sum of Twenty Shillings (besides the expenses of the apron, jewel, and order of every degree, which shall be provided by the lodge) until the degree of Gr. Mr. Architect, being the 12th degree. And that every member of this lodge who has been regularly raised the first nine degrees and desires to be raised to the Royal Arch shall pay Two Pounds in to the box, besides the expenses of jewel, apron and order. And if raised to the Ultimate Degree of Perfection, he is to pay £3 in to the box, and find gloves for each of the members and their wives.

15th. That no member can be raised to higher degrees unless he has at least been present three lodge nights, successively, between every degree as high as Gr. Mr. Architect, and from thence at least four successive lodge nights before he can be raised to the Royal Arch, and from Royal Arch to the Perfection the same, when he is to be very assiduous in working every night, in order to make him capable of being admitted to the Perfection.

16th. That, notwithstanding the above regulations, if any member is willing to be raised higher and is to depart from this province, he may be raised by the unanimous consent of the founder and the G.E. Perfect and Sublime of this lodge every lodge night, and even on an emergency more than one degree at the lodge night, paying extraordinary the sum of ten shillings over and above the stipulated sums, and for the two last degrees the sum of twenty shillings for each over and above the before-mentioned sums, and all for the benefit of the box. And if any member should desire to have a lodge called on purpose to be raised, shall pay over, and above what is already mentioned, the whole expense of the night.

17th. That if a brother visitor, however skilled in any of these superior degrees, shall first send up his certificate (if he has any) of his highest degree, and when he received such degree, on which the Master shall depute two of the most skilful members to examine him with great circumspection and make a report thereof to the Master, and if it is found that the said visitor is known to be a brother of such degree, he shall be admitted into the lodge and repeat the obligation of such degree, and for the first time he is to be treated, but for every time after he shall pay eight shillings for the use of the box.

DEAR SIR,—I received my degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and the sublime degree of Master Mason last year in the Mount Olive Lodge, St. Kitts, West Indies, of which the mother lodge is the Grand Lodge of Scotland. I received a certificate, signed by the R.W.M. of the Mount Olive Lodge, which I was instructed to forward to the Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and that I should receive my diploma in return. This I did several months ago, but have received no reply.

Being but a young Mason I should feel much obliged if you would advise me how to proceed to obtain my diploma.

Believe me, yours sincerely,
GEORGE A. LOZACK.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR,—As the subjoined extract treats on a subject very important to the Grand Lodge of England, the subject matter of the same having been discussed in Grand Lodge, it may not be out of place to insert the same, and thereby give the Grand Lodge an opportunity of knowing the satisfaction the Craft has experienced at its decision in the said matter.

I am, Mr. Editor, yours fraternally,

Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, July 23rd.

"For more reasons than one, are we happy to be able to inform the Masonic world that the warrant of the Lodge Royal Phoenix, No. 911, holding of the Grand Lodge of England—and which warrant was surrendered a few years ago, in a most clandestine manner, to say the least of the matter, to the Grand Lodge, by certain members of the Craft into whose hands it unfortunately fell, has been returned by the Grand Secretary to Bro. Julia, P.M., by the last mail. Too much praise cannot be given to Bro. Julia, and those who so ably assisted him in the matter, for the untiring exertions exercised by them on this occasion, and in setting right the false representations made as a ground of justification at the time for surrendering the said warrant. That unfortunately unprincipled Masons—and more unfortunately their getting into power—do make their first object in Masonry to be, how best to speculate in the lodge, is a fact too well-known here, and that when obstructed by any of the Craft sincere enough to their obligations to make the attempt, then comes the second object—how best to misrepresent and destroy the lodge. Our experience of certain very high (?) Masons are more than sufficient to enable us to devote an entire page of our paper to the subject, if we thought it would, in the remotest degree, reform their anti-Masonic principles; 'but sufficient for the day is the evil thereof.' We also beg to state, for the information, particularly, of those Masons who entertained doubts as to whether the District Grand Lodge existed subsequent to the demise of the District Grand Master, and if it did exist, on whom the duties of that office devolved, that by a letter addressed to Bro. Julia by the Grand Secretary it is clearly stated that the Senior District Grand Officer (whoever he may be) is de facto the District Grand Master, until any subsequent appointment—ergo, the District Grand Lodge never did cease to exist—nor can it ever cease to exist—so long as there is an officer belonging to it living (see Book of Constitutions, p. 58, ar. 7, ed. 67). In conclusion, we beg to congratulate Bro. Julia on the successful recovery of the warrant of the lodge over which he had the honour of presiding, and trust that by the continuance of his assiduousness in protecting and advancing the landmarks of our noble Order, he may revive once more the ashes of the Royal Phoenix Lodge, and add its light to the universal glory and splendour of our ancient and noble Order."

THE HENRY VI. MS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am asked by Bro. Buchan when the pretended Royal M.S. of King Henry the Sixth was discovered in the Bodleian Library, and who found it?

I am sure that Bro. Buchan does not require to be told that the famous document (which with him and J. O. Halliwell and others, I believe to be "a clumsy attempt at deception") is alleged to have been discovered by the celebrated John Locke, and was first printed in this country in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1753, as a copy of a small pamphlet published in Germany in 1748. If this famous MS. had been a genuine Henry VI. one, it is my humble opinion that the losing of the original would be as wonderful as the first finding of it. Henry was a weak-minded, unfortunate king, and during his turbulent reign would have had something else (to him more important) to think of or write about than Freemasonry, even had it existed in his day. I simply referred to this forged document because the words "Faculty of Abrac" occur in it, and the extract was to show that these words meant "the magical power of expelling diseases," and that the word "Abrac" had likely been derived by the forger from the charm invented by Basilides.

THE SOCIETY FOR AID TO THE SICK AND WOUNDED IN WAR.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Permit me to appeal through the medium of your columns to the Freemasons of Great Britain and Ireland to support the above society in aid of the sick and wounded. This society recognises no creed, no nationality, no cause; but simply endeavours to alleviate distress, and to save the lives of the wounded. Such an object cannot fail to commend itself to all good Masons.

May I suggest that each lodge might vote a certain sum to the society, to be paid in through Grand Lodge?

I am, Sir and Brother,
Faithfully and fraternally yours,
CLARKE JOHN BURGESS.

A BELIEF IN GOD AND A FUTURE RESURRECTION, &c.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was surprised at the appearance of a letter in No. 66 of your paper, page 286, in which a grave charge is made against an office-bearer of the P.G.L. of Glasgow by one calling himself "A Past Master of the Scottish Constitution." In Scotland we have P.M.'s and P.M.'s, but I had fondly hoped that those who could anonymously traduce a brother's character had passed away, or been "stamped out" like cattle plague or those P.M.'s who made sailors Freemasons in their tavern cellars.

It seems it is not so; and a "M.M." (does this stand for Mischief Maker?), at page 357, insinuates that because Bro. Wallace wisely overlooks such a cowardly attack, it must be true. Knowing, as I do, the circumstances of the case, and to prevent any one being led astray by its reiteration, I beg to assure you that it is utterly false, as the least enquiry would have shown to any one.

While regretting that the pages of THE FREEMASON should be taken up with such a correspondence—considering what has appeared—I trust you will see the fairness of inserting the above.

I am, yours truly and fraternally,

JAS. E. WILSON, P.M. 354, 224.

THE RHODOCANAKIS CONTROVERSY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Is not the correspondence on this subject somewhat too personal for the columns of a newspaper? "A Barrister," who writes in your last number, uses rather unmeasured language when he calls the letter of "Philaethes" a "scandalous libel," and he ought to remember that on many occasions the most serious doubts have been raised as to the impartiality and accuracy of Ulster King-of-Arms, and that, too, by those whose writings, unlike those of your correspondent's, are not anonymous. Has "A Barrister" read that most admirable exposure of the gross falsity of some of the most elaborate pedigrees in the "landed gentry," contained in a book entitled "Pedigrees and Pedigree Makers"? if not, let him do so. For myself, I do not doubt Sir B. Burke's entire honesty, but I believe him to have been shamefully deceived on many occasions, and I cannot but regret that he does not exercise a more efficient censorship of that portion of the press which is issued in his name.

"J. A. H." is quite mistaken if he supposes that the list of foreign noblemen at the end of Burke's Peerage is by any means an exhaustive one; on the contrary, the omissions far exceed in number the names given, and it would be most unfair, and, indeed, wholly ridiculous, to say that a gentleman was not entitled to this or that designation because he was not in Burke! "J. A. H." has evidently but slight acquaintance with foreign standard peerages.

As regards the gentleman about whom all this correspondence has arisen, and who is an entire stranger to me, I may mention that he frequently writes in Notes and Queries, and I have never observed the slightest objection on the part of any other correspondent of that paper to the title of Prince, assumed by Mons. Rhodocanakis. I was not aware that he claimed the prefix H.I.H., and this must, I think, be a mistake, as from writings of his that I have seen, I should judge the Prince to be too good an historian and genealogist not to know that any claim of the kind could not be sustained for an instant; but his right to be styled Prince depends upon proof of his pedigree, which it is only right to assume he has, unless some reason for entertaining a contrary opinion can be shown. In conclusion, will you allow me to say I deeply regret that our Argus-eyed editor should have permitted such a letter as that of "Common Sense" to appear in the THE FREEMASON of the 6th August, and it has greatly surprised me that any of the letters have been printed without the names of their writers. I must say that I consider the language of most very ungentlemanlike and wholly unmasonic, and can only presume the writers are ashamed to say openly what they print anonymously. There are occasions when anonymous writings are justifiable and necessary, but surely a personal attack on a gentleman in the column of a newspaper which is headed "The Editor is not responsible," &c., is not one. I make no reference to the "Order" which M. Rhodocanakis is said to lay claim to, nor do I care whether he is or not rightly styled Prince: but I want to stop what I believe to be an infraction of our Masonic rule, and this would, in my opinion, best be accomplished either by excluding letters containing personal accusations from your columns, or requiring the writers' names to be published.

Yours fraternally,

JULIUS A. PEARSON. F.S.A.,
Aug. 10th, 1870. M.M. No. 10.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—“Brown, Jones, and Robinson,” I observe by a reference to THE FREEMASON of the 6th instant, still perpetuate their celebrity—one now writes too well, another not well enough, while the third cannot write at all.

From the opinions expressed by “A Barrister,” I infer that your correspondent merely adopts that dignified nom-de-plume, or he may indeed be one of those who try their unfledged wings in “Moots.” Be this as it may, I like his sententious and didactic style, and have little doubt that if not overtaken in early life, he may yet rise to the honours of the silk gown, or even the Woolsack. Nothing is impossible.

As for “Common Sense,” he might have saved the Roman Capitol had he lived in the early times of that Republic. At present, Lux a non lucende would perhaps have been a more suitable nom-de-plume; but as he seems to have entirely effervesced in his own wit, it is scarcely worth while to analyse the dregs.

The third “good boy” in his “corner” has evidently not finished his education, and has mistaken his plum for something else; but as Christmas with its pies comes once a year, no doubt five months hence he will have learnt what it really is that he gets under his thumb.

KEW SEE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I think that I am fairly justified in repudiating the charge of personality brought against me by your correspondent “J. A. H.,” for I have only treated him in his literary capacity, as Macaulay (not that I institute any precise comparison) treated Robert Montgomery. There is a wide difference between challenging the public and authoritative productions of a writer, and invading the sanctity of his private character.

But “J. A. H.” must surely concede to me the liberty of correcting his errors, and therefore I shall now proceed to point out more than one in his letter (THE FREEMASON, p. 380) of August 1st.

In the first place, in order to sustain my assertion that “J. A. H.” might be better informed on the subject which he has taken up, I may draw attention to the fact that he styles Ulster “King-at-Arms,” whereas “at-Arms” is distinctive of a particular description of mediæval soldiers, and not of any heraldic authority—the heads of these institutions in the three kingdoms being Kings-of-Arms. This being undeniable, “J. A. H.” will, I hope, take the correction in good part, for it is a pity that the two distinct names should be confounded.

Secondly, Sir Bernard is only the compiler of his “Peerage and Baronetage” and “Landed Gentry,” and has not published them authoritatively as “Ulster”—a mistake into which some persons have fallen; and therefore the reference made to the former work by the Baron de Bliss amounted to nothing, and could only have satisfied those unacquainted with the subject. Moreover, Sir Bernard does not, and could not, be expected to vouch for the absolute correctness of the titles and pedigrees of the foreign nobility appended to his peerage, for all are not included (as, for instance, the ex-royal family of France and the Maharajah Duleep Sing, the members of which families have been long resident in England). In fact, Sir Bernard states that only those foreign noblemen “born in England” are included; and even in this respect the rule is not strictly adhered to. In addition to this, the veracity neither of the pedigrees of the “Peerage and Baronetage,” nor of the “Landed Gentry,” is insisted on, the author having merely conserved those sent to him in some instances, and obtained by him in others. In these efforts Ulster has done a great public service, by affording an insight into a scattered mass of documents, some genuine and some spurious, which would probably never otherwise have been made available for public criticism. But, as I have said, this collection is not complete, nor does its talented author profess it to be so. With regard to “The Book of Knighthood,” it is, in like manner, useful and instructive, but necessarily not immaculate, for there are orders omitted, such as that of the “Dooranee Empire,” members of which are still living; while amongst the medals given in the appendix, at least ten now worn by authority are not mentioned. This is no detraction from the merits of Sir Bernard’s contributions to knowledge; but, at the same time, it tends to show that “J. A. H.,” as I before remarked, has jumped at conclusions rather hastily. Whereas, had he studied the subject, he would have acquired the knowledge which, in all humility, I am guiding him towards.

I must say that the two last paragraphs of “J. A. H.’s” letter contain personal insinuations which throw entirely into the shade any that I may inadvertently have made against himself, and I do not consider them as creditable to a writer in the public press; while, at the same time, assertions are advanced without any references by which, as a matter of business, they could have been tested.

As “A Barrister” has, along with “J. A. H.,” condemned, by inference, my imputation of malice against “J. A. H.,” I can only say that, as there was no occasion for the bitter remarks of the latter, and as he seemed to go out of his way to make them, I naturally concluded that there must be some animus in the matter. “A Barrister” seems to fall into the mistake that loss of territory implies the loss of hereditary claims—a refutation of which doctrine is to be found in all the ex-royal houses of Europe. And, moreover, the same writer overlooks the fact, that the dictum of legal right to certain titular distinctions is scarcely to the point, for, by the same argument, he would justify our refusing such honours to the eldest sons of those peers who have second titles, and who, when described in legal documents, do not retain them; and, in like manner, the same objection would tell against 999 out of every 1,000 gentlemen to whom society regards it as an affront to refuse, on legal grounds, the style of “esquire.” Where this is so, “A Barrister’s” dictum can hardly be said to weigh against pretensions substantiated by genealogical proofs, the public recognition of society, and the testimony of historians, &c., for the last 400 years.

In conclusion, one of the writers in question seems to forget that the pursuits of commerce are not incompatible with rank, as we know from the history of the Medici and other noble Italian houses. Moreover, there are at this moment peers of the realm who are professional bankers, merchants, and even cattle-dealers. Sterne’s “Marquis of La Vendee” teaches an instructive moral; Sir Bernard Burke’s “Vicissitudes of Families” tells the same story, while the Prince de Condé, on the expulsion of the Bourbons, became a bookseller; Louis Philippe a schoolmaster; and many other persons of distinction have, on the loss of territorial possessions, been obliged to yield to an adverse fortune, but without forfeiting the consideration due to their illustrious ancestry. Sp.

Bedford, August 6th, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—With all respect to Bro. Hughan, I see no analogy between King Charles II. and Mr. Rhodocanakis. Let me ask Bro. Hughan if he could imagine any one saluting the present Lord Bute—who has been said to be “a Stuart of the Stuarts”—as “Your Majesty?” Mr. John Timbs has told us of a butcher at Halesowen who is a direct descendant of the Tudors—is he a prince? If so, where are these titles to end? Moreover, Charles II. had always a large number of faithful adherents in England, but Prince Rhodocanakis can find no one to render him allegiance in Turkey or Greece, and has no “followers” except a few Freemasons in England.

Your correspondent “S.” quotes a further letter from Sir Bernard Burke, which in a remarkable degree corroborates what I stated in my letter which appeared in THE FREEMASON for July 23rd:

I said: “Sir Bernard dis- owned all knowledge of ‘His Imperial Highness.’” “S.” says: Sir Bernard “had no knowledge of the Prince or the case.”

Now, the partisans of the “Prince” seem incapable of seeing the point of the whole matter, namely, that, if Mr. Rhodocanakis were a prince, Sir Bernard Burke is the one person in Europe who ought to be able to testify to the fact. But Sir Bernard has “no knowledge” of the matter, and Sir Bernard’s works on “Orders of Knighthood,” &c., contain no mention of the prince. These facts speak for themselves.

“Philalethes” is wholly illogical, since he charges me with being “anonymous,” and then intimates that he knows that I lack the “distinction” of “social worth.” If “social worth” means that I do not claim to be a “prince,” I admit the charge; but if this correspondent, who is himself “anonymous,” has anything to say against my personal character, I am prepared to afford him a fitting opportunity of vindicating his charges in a court of law. I have sought to avoid all personalities in this matter. I have never impugned Mr. Rhodocanakis’s “respectability” in his private capacity, inasmuch as the matter in hand is entirely removed from personal questions. Possibly, Mr. Rhodocanakis is as sincere in believing himself a “prince” as was the amiable Mr. Levi in supposing himself “Dictator of England,” when he recently attempted to take possession of Windsor Castle.

I subjoin a “memorandum,” which will show you that Mr. Rhodocanakis is not recognised as a prince in Greece. Similar inquiries show that he is unknown in Russia. There are no princes in Turkey. Then, let us ask, in what country and under what government is Mr. Rhodocanakis a prince?

Yours fraternally,

London, Aug. 15th, 1870.

J. A. H.

[MEMORANDUM.]

The undersigned having been appointed a deputation to visit the Consulate-General of Greece in London, for the purpose of inquiring into the pretensions of the so-called “Prince Rhodocanakis,” we this day, August 11, 1870, waited upon the Consul-General in the discharge of our duty. The Consul-General received us with great courtesy, and having explained our business, the questions we put and the answers we received were as follows:

1st Question: “Can you oblige us with any authorised list of the Greek nobility?”

Answer: “There are no titles of nobility existing or recognised in Greece.”

2nd Question: “Are you aware that a Greek merchant in Manchester has assumed the titles of ‘His Imperial Highness Prince Rhodocanakis?’”

Answer: “He may call himself what he likes, but he is no prince.”

Thanking the Consul-General for his courteous reception of us, we then withdrew.

SCOTCH MASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reference to your correspondent’s able letter on Scotch Masonry, let me observe that he appears to have been made in a lodge in Trinidad, and though his lodge is under the jurisdiction of the G.L. of Scotland, I am afraid it cannot be taken as a fair sample of the manner lodges are worked under that jurisdiction—I wish I could think otherwise—and in reply to the query at page 379, I would refer him to the reports of the English Lodge of Benevolence during any given time, and I feel certain the larger number of non-English Masons who receive relief from that fund will be found to be Scotch brethren, and would ask him to give a reason for this fact, as the Scotch are proverbially considered so very provident, thrifty and industrious.

I am, yours fraternally,

FOREIGN TITLES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—I have no particular interest in the discussion now being carried on in your paper respecting the claims of a foreigner to high-sounding titles, but having had some experience of similar gentry, I desire to warn your readers against placing implicit confidence in ex parte statements when uncorroborated by proof. I remember, some years ago, a Greek who used to frequent the “Sultan,” a noted place of resort in Manchester, and invariably “treated” all present who saluted him as “Prince,” or “Count,” I forget which.

The following extract from the Times of September 3rd, 1858, is also apropos :—

“The man calling himself Count Viala was yesterday arrested; and in his lodgings were seized numerous false patents of Knighthood, and about a dozen diplomas of learned societies. One of the patents was of the Order of the Gilded Militia, or Gilded Spur, which purported to be granted by the Duke of Sforzia (sic), a Roman Prince, and which set forth that, in addition to the Order, it conferred the title of Count. Others of the pretended patents were of the Order of Malta and that of St. Gregory the Great. The soi-disant Count de Viala has been recognised as a professional Greek, who is well known, both in Paris and at all the German watering places. He has at times passed by the name of Count de Cassan, and has been condemned for cheating at cards.”

I must therefore say that the safe side is to be, like

Yours fraternally,

PROVINCE OF CORNWALL, AND ALFRED NUTT.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Allow me to thank Bro. Hughan for his correction of the error in the report of the meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Cornwall, that our local candidate for the Boys’ School had been successful at the last election. Would that it had been so!

This is the first occasion in which this province (which, for its size, has been a liberal supporter of the Masonic Charities) has had a candidate to bring forward for any one of the charities, and consequently, its votes have on all previous occasions been given to other provinces. From all of which we had hoped to receive a return of votes in favour of Alfred Nutt. It happened unfortunately, however, that each of those provinces, with the exception of Cornwall, which rendered us valuable aid, had a candidate of their own to support, and consequently Alfred Nutt, instead of receiving some 600 or 700 votes, as we had hoped he would do, obtained only half that number.

The case, as Bro. Hughan states, is really a very deserving one, the late Bro. John Nutt, who was much respected, dying only a few weeks after becoming a bankrupt, it may, I believe, truly be said broken-hearted, thus leaving his widow and five children totally unprovided for.

As this province has contributed handsomely towards the Boys' School without hitherto having derived any return, it is hoped that the claim which we thus have upon the institution, will induce those subscribers who have no special interest in any candidate to give their support to Alfred Nutt, any votes for whom will be gratefully received by,

Yours fraternally,

WILLIAM KELLY.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SOMERSET.

The R.W.P.J.M., Lord Carnarvon, held his Grand Lodge for Somerset on Monday last, at Highbridge, and visited the Rural Philanthropic Lodge, when over a hundred distinguished members from the different lodges attended. It was observed with much pleasure that only one lodge in the province omitted this opportunity of offering their respectful homage to the Earl of Carnarvon, whom the Masons of Somerset are proud to have as their chief, and who has recently been appointed by the Earl De Grey and Ripon to the exalted post of Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England.

The following brethren were appointed officers of the Grand Lodge for the year ensuing, Lord Carnarvon accompanying each qualifying investiture with appropriate compliments and admonitions:—

Bro Else, Bridgewater ...	P.G.S.W.
Butler, Taunton ...	P.G.J.W.
Pigott, Weston-super-Mare ...	P.G. Chaplain.
Payne, Bath ...	P.G. Treas.
Hobbs, Wells ...	P.G. Reg.
Prideaux, Bridgewater ...	P.G. Sec.
Major-General Doherty, Bath ...	P.G.S.D.
Shepherd, Wincanton ...	P.G.J.D.
Vizard, Weston-super-Mare ...	P.G.S. of Wks.
Galpin, Crewkerne ...	P.G.D. of C.
Knott, Ilminster ...	P.G.A.D. of C.
Inskip, Weston-super-Mare ...	P.G.S.B.
Brannan, Taunton ...	P.G.O.
Keene, Bath ...	P.G. Purst.
Helliard, Bath ...	P.G. Tyler.
Woodward, Burnham ...	P.G.A. Tyler.
Cox, Weston-super-Mare ...	P.G. Stewards.
Macfarlane, Bath ...
Harding, East Bower ...
Jones, Weston-super-Mare ...
Clementson, Highbridge ...
Vicent, Frome ...

After the financial and Masonic arrangements had been satisfactorily disposed of, the brethren retired to the banquet room, where a sumptuous dinner was provided by Mr. Davidge, of the Railway Hotel, under the superintendence of Mr. Wickendon, of Taunton.

At the banquet the P.G.M. presided, with his wonted urbanity. The only drawback to the happiness of the company was the indisposition of the D.P.G.M. Bro. Capt. Bridges, who, although present, was unable to take his usual part in the business of the day. His lordship gave in rapid succession the usual toasts, and the loyalty of the brethren was especially asserted in drinking the health of "The Queen and the Craft."

Other brethren made appropriate speeches, especially the Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. Else, to whom the best thanks of the province are due for the admirable arrangements made.

After spending a truly Masonic and happy evening the brethren separated early.—Bridgewater Mercury.

HOPE.—Hope is an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast; then let a firm reliance of the Almighty's goodness animate our endeavours, and enable us to fix our hope within the limits of his most gracious promises so shall success attend us; if we believe a thing impossible our despondency may render it so, but if we persevere to the end, we shall finally overcome all difficulties.—Old Future.

INSTALLATION OF THE DISTRICT GRAND MASTER OF BOMBAY.

(From the Masonic Record of Western India.)

The installation of R.W. Bro. the Honourable James Gibbs to the office of District Grand Master of Bombay and its territories, which took place on the 2nd July, will be the dawning of a new era in Freemasonry in Western India, and will afford the highest satisfaction to the Fraternity far and near. For the last six years Masonry in Bombay was in a transition state, and only for the influence for good exercised over the Craft by this distinguished brother and a few others, both in the Masonic and social circle, the Order would have received a death blow from which it would never have recovered. Who is there amongst the Fraternity that does not remember the reckless and heartless speculations that swept like an avalanche over Bombay in 1864-5, which brought ruin and misery on many poor widows and orphans? Masonry was dragged into the vortex, and many a good and true man, who would have joined the Order then, stood aghast at the demoralising influence exercised by several of those who, as "Masters in Israel," should have shown a better example. R.W. Bro. Gibbs, who was in England during this eventful period, arrived in Bombay at the crisis, and but for the great interest he openly displayed in the cause of our Holy Order, and which has been unremittingly continued from that time to this, we should not now have had on our rolls the names of His Excellency the Governor and a host of other influential and distinguished brethren, who have joined within the last few years.

The eminent services rendered to the Craft by our present District Grand Master, and the high honours he has attained, have all been duly chronicled in this journal, and are too well-known to need any recapitulation here.

The selection of W. Bro. Dr. Diver as Deputy District Grand Master has been a very just one so far as seniority in the District Grand Lodge is concerned, and we doubt not that he is able and willing to do every justice to the office; for he has worked hard, the best proof of which is in the substantial acknowledgments he has received from the different lodges over which he ruled. But there is such a thing as public opinion, and this—as far as we can learn—is somehow against W. Bro. Diver being "the right man in the right place." The office should be held by one possessing ability and experience, as also a social position such as to command the respect of all the brethren. The District Grand Master had a very delicate task to perform, and he did his duty in fixing his choice on the Senior Grand Warden.

We extract the following brief report of the proceedings from a local journal:—

"On Saturday last a ceremony was performed in Bombay which possesses great interest and importance to the numerous and powerful body of Freemasons in Western India. We refer to the installation of the Honourable Mr. Justice Gibbs as District Grand Master of Bombay and its territories. The Honourable Mr. Gibbs had for a considerable period occupied the post of Deputy District Grand Master, and it had often fallen to him to perform the duties pertaining to his present high office in the absence of the District Grand Master. The office he now fills was therefore regarded as his right, and all who know what Freemasonry is, and who desire its advancement, will rejoice to see him on the Grand Master's throne. A special communication of the District Grand Lodge was held on Saturday for the installation of the District Grand Master. Mr. Taylor, the retiring incumbent, formally announced his resignation, and read a letter from the Grand Secretary, intimating that the Grand Master Mason of England (at that time Earl of Zetland) had been pleased to accept his resignation. Mr. Justice Gibbs was then conducted into the District Grand Lodge, and, having produced his patent from the Grand Master of England, was duly installed, proclaimed, and saluted as District Grand Master of Bombay and its territories—the first District Grand Master ever thus honoured. Mr. Taylor then took his seat as Past D.G.M., and Dr. Diver was appointed as Deputy D.G.M. In announcing this appointment, the District Grand Master hinted that it would in all probability be made more frequently than hitherto, in order that Masons who deserved well of the Craft may thus more frequently be advanced to its honours.

Mr. J. J. Winton was unanimously elected District Grand Treasurer. It was resolved on the motion of the District Grand Master, to present to the Past D.G.M. an address on vellum, together with the jewel and clothing of his present rank, in testimony of the service he has rendered to the Craft in Western India, and of the esteem in which he is held by its members. The speeches delivered in the course of the evening were able and instructive, particularly that of the newly-installed District Grand Master, who impressed upon all present the responsibility that rests upon them as Masons—a responsibility that he considered all the weightier, as Freemasonry has yet a great work to do among all classes, all creeds, and all colours in India. No more popular appointment than that of Mr. Justice Gibbs to the post he fills could have been made."—Times of India.

"Are Maconnes Gadder Men than o llers?"

Ancient Manuscript.

Go to the widow's home,
Where want has gone before:
Ask her if ever Masons' hearts
Forget the needy poor?
Ask her if ever Masons' hands
Contribute to her store?

Go to the Masons' bed
When death is hovering nigh,
Ask him who smooths his pillow?
Who stands in waiting by?
Ask who will feed his orphans
When he's beyond the sky?

Go to the Mason's grave
Affection there to find;
When to its long, last resting-place
His body is consigned.
Who utters then a fervent prayer?
Whose eyes with tears are blind?

Go to the battle-field,
Where Hate has drawn his blade,
And ask that wounded soldier
Who flew to give him aid?
Ask him who with his friendly arms
The lifted weapon stayed?

Go to the House of God,
Where prayer is often heard;
And see whose supplicating hands
Are clasped on bosoms stirred—
On bosoms stirred with hope Divine,
That God their prayers has heard.

Go to the Mystic Lodge,
Where Masons love to meet,
And mark if e'er an impure word,
Your list'ning ears shall greet.
And mark if on the level there,
The high and low do meet.

Go, scan the Mason's life;
From discord ever free
And as he journeys to the "bourne"
O'er Time's tumultuous sea;
If better than the world he's not,
As good he ought to be.

SELMA.

Gottings from Masonic Journals.

WE are pleased to welcome again our namesake The Freemason, of St. Louis, Missouri—the number for June having reached us. It is as vigorous as ever, and although we differ with Bro. Gouley upon the Quebec question, we are delighted to find that his valuable labours are so highly appreciated by the Missouri fraternity.

Next week we shall quote from The Freemason a very interesting address on "Chapter Work," by Comp. Little, Grand High Priest of Virginia.

Our best thanks are due to R.W. Bro. Gouley—who, as our readers are aware, is also Grand Secretary of all the Masonic bodies in his State—for an extremely handsome volume of the transactions of the Missouri Grand Chapter since its formation in 1846. This must prove invaluable as a reference to the Masons of that important jurisdiction.

THE Masonic Tidings, of Warsaw, New York, contains a fine oration by Bro. George H. Wells. This excellent publication is edited by Bros. J. W. Simons, P.G.M., and John Ransom, the latter being also the proprietor.

THE installation of W. Bro. S. Cook as W.M. of Lodge Orion in the West took place at Poona, India, on the 24th June, and the following officers were appointed: W. Bro. L. W. Penn, I.P.M.; Bros. Smith, S.W.; Burnett, J.W.; Wilmer, Secretary; Haylett, Treasurer; Newport, S.D.; Hunter, J.D.; Humphreys, I.G.; Kirby, Tyler.

BRO. CAPTAIN C. AGNEW, Her Majesty's 16th Lancers, has been elected Worshipful Master of Lodge Bangalore, at Bangalore, India, and was installed on the 24th June (St. John's Day).

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c., &c., on Mayar's Semolina: "I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London."—Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Manges &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar's Semolina.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond. says: "I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says: "I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles."—For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy. In bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in boxes, 1s 2½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries' Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—Advt.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—From high temperatures many evils result more formidable than mere loss of appetite, apathy, and restlessness. By head-ache, giddiness, and parched skin, nature gives warning that a feverish attack has begun, which neglect will intensify if the sufferer fails to resort early to these cleansing and regulating pills, or some such corrective medicine. Holloway's Pills meet all disarrangements of the circulation and nervous centres with efficiency and safety, and through these potent auxiliaries they are competent to check the advancing malady and to conquer the threatened peril. Holloway's medicine is particularly useful to people past their climacteric age, when the energies begin to wane, and the various organs of the body become capricious in executing their functions.—[Advt.]

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus incur a debt to debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough. "Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on 'Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels,' a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Advt.]

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The Faculty pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it REQUIRES NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World. Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its fame and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister. Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.
Wholesale at MAYAR'S, 36, MARK LANE, LONDON, E.C.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully so incited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

LUXURIANT WHISKERS, Moustaches, and a Fine Head of Hair.—Mrs. MERRIAM, Springfield, Mass, U.S. will send, through her English agents, Messrs. Wesley and Knox, Featherstone-buildings, London, W.C., her Recipe (in circular) for nine stamps and stamped envelope, producing hair on face or head in a month. A pint bottle sent by rail (carriage paid) for 36 stamps.—May be ordered through any Chemist

FINE HEAD OF HAIR, WHISKERS, MOUSTACHES, and EYE-BROWS.—A retired Apothecary, from Wales, will send his noted FORMULA for 13 stamps and stamp directed envelope to produce Hair on the Head. Whiskers and Moustache, on the Face in three weeks.—Mr. EVAN EVANS, M.D. C.M., Dorking, Surrey.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place
For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody: clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies. The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing. Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

ORIENTAL TRADITIONS.—I.

KING DAVID.

Oriental traditions contain much that is interesting in the history of the "East," and though they are far from possessing equal claims to our faith, in many cases they add weight to the details given in Revelation. Indeed, many of them seem to elucidate what is sometimes dark in the latter, and show, at least, in what manner the people of the "East" understand the accounts existing among them, as so many traditions of the lives and acts of the Prophets. It is, therefore, from this point of view, that the writer, who is somewhat acquainted with oriental languages and literature, offers the following sketches.

Some persons suppose that whatever the Prophet of Islamism did not procure from the Old and New Testaments, he must have invented, to suit his themes and purposes. Is it not more probable that he drew largely upon the "Traditions" extant amongst his people, in the absence of the written Holy Books? Among the Arabian writers of the present time, or rather of the writings of the old Arabian authors, from which D'Herbilas drew so largely, there are sketches on the prophets, which must have come down to themselves, as many "Traditions." These often contain just such inaccuracies in point of names, periods, and events, as are found in all oral traditions, handed down from father to son in a long series of ages. What is unwritten, we call tradition; and what is written, we claim to be history; and when the latter fails us, we are satisfied with the former, especially if it relates to an unlettered, uncivilised, or ever a semi-civilised people. In the absence of any possible contradiction, or even of conflicting "Traditions," we assume that the knowledge which we possess is truthful; and many deeply interesting theories in Freemasonry are built upon no more solid foundations than "Traditions."

With the early history of David, the shepherd boy, who later in life, became one of the greatest and most powerful of kings, any one who has perused the Old Testament is familiar. We are also well acquainted with the many vicissitudes of his early career. In them he had learned wisdom, as well as developed the natural talents which he possessed for music and poetry. The theory of the "East" is that the Almighty has sent the expression is, "made to descend," certain books of Revelation to each of the inspired prophets. The earliest thus descended to Adam and Moses, and the Thaboor, or Psalms, to David. His book is the only instance, in which Revelation is positively in a versified form. The sweetness, and the sublimity of the psalms are beyond all parallel, and will, without any doubt, be so considered by mankind, in all times to come. They, however, contain dogmas, especially with relation to nature and the animal creation, which are open to the criticisms of science, and calculated to elevate "animal life" to an equality with man; or to place the latter upon an equality in some respects with all other animals.

Oriental tradition states that David was possessed of an excessively sweet voice, and that all who heard it were captivated by it. It had even a magical effect not only upon mankind, but even upon all animate and inanimate nature. From his harp he could produce seventy-two notes. When he read or sang his psalms, savage animals and wild birds became enthralled, as it were, by the sweetness of his voice, and abandoned for the time, their natural propensities for mutual harm. Through this gift of nature, or of the Almighty, he exercised an influence over all creation which has not been equalled by that of any other human being. The celestial creatures, which it is held, occupy the vast space which we call the air, extending between this globe and the others, and known as Finus, all mankind dwelling upon one earth and descended from Adam, as well as all other creatures thus came under his sway, and recognised him as their Sovereign or King. This wonderful power it is said aroused the envy and jealousy of Iblis, or the "Tempter," and seeing that it was entirely due to the harmony of sounds, he made an effort of the same character, for the purpose of seducing the hearers of David's magical harp to himself. This evil "genius" however, it would seem, was not aware that the great power of David, consisted not wholly in the rhythm of his verses or the harmony of his strain, but also in the theme of his inspired verses or psalms; all of which were, as they still are, the most sublime adorations and praises of the Almighty. To make a diversion in his own favour—to gain, at least, a portion of the auditors to himself—to get up thus two parties in conflict with each, and so as to disseminate strife, and evil passions among those who had become subdued by the magical strains of the harp of the Shepherd King, he invented certain other instruments of music, and played upon them airs calculated to produce the desired effect. Their sweet strains, it is said, affected even David to tears, and knowing that they were only another of the means so pleasant and agreeable, though at the same time so sinful and productive of evil to mankind, which Satan spreads abroad, like the spider does its web to catch its victims; he cast himself upon the ground and closing his ears against the seductive arts, implored God to preserve him from their sinful influence. His tears and the fervor of his devout invocations deeply affected the spectators, and drew them away from the thralldom of the music made by the instruments of Satan's invention. In this manner, it is related in Oriental tradition, music, for the first time, received two distinct powers; the one, that of captivating the senses by its sweetness and rousing the faculties of its hearers, and the other, that of calming them into subjection, of touching and penetrating the most obdurate of hearts, and reducing mankind to tears. Music, since then, has become plaintive, and prone to exercise a salutary influence upon the affections of mankind; and for this purpose it is used in connection with their devotions to the Creator.

Oriental writers say that though David in his youth cultivated the art of music as a means of gaining a subsistence, that the wonderful talent which he possessed was a Divine gift, and that its influence over nature was so great, that even iron became softened by its influence! When he played upon the harp and sang his sublime psalms, in devout adoration of his Creator, all the wild beasts of the hills, the fishes of the depths of the sea, and the birds which soared to the loftiest heights of mid-air, joined with him and responded to his calls to this effect. Even all vegetable nature which has an existence, between those breathing the breath of life and the material mountains and hills, responded to his invocations and worshipped their Almighty Creator. This may be regarded as oriental hyberbole, and yet traces of the fact may be found in the invocations contained in the sublime psalms of David.

It is narrated that David, on becoming King, was in the habit of dividing his days in the following manner. One day he would spend in conversing with the most learned men of his time, and in learning something from each one of them; one he spent in acts of justice, basing his sentences upon the principles laid down in the Book of Divine Revelation; another was devoted entirely to devout meditation, and supplications to the Almighty; one to his family, &c.; one he offered up as a special supplication to God, that He should inspire him with the greatest principle of human wisdom, and that which is the most confirmable to the Divine Will. In reply to this prayer, he learned that to reach this he should never cease to call upon the name of God, to love those who lived and feared Him, and to avoid all such as were irreligious and forgetful of their Creator; that he should judge all men in the same manner as he himself would expect to be judged hereafter. In connection with the preceding, it is said, probably in a metaphorical sense, that King David was miraculously favoured with a chain which extended from Heaven to his throne of justice, and that the wisdom of his sentences came down on this from on high. This chain, though generally hidden from the sight of mankind, was ever visible to him, and is supposed to signify, allegorically, the pure and impartial dictates of his conscience. For a long time after the death of this wise king, this chain is said to have still existed among the people of Israel, and that it finally disappeared when his successors ceased to be just.

In connection with this so-called "Chain of Justice," it is related, as a "tradition," that an individual having deposited with another a valuable jewel, on its being demanded by its owner, the recipient refused to restore it; or rather, declared that he had already done so. The case, consequently, was carried before the chain in question, and its decision was awaited with uncommon interest by the public, as the transaction had taken place between the two parties without any witnesses who could sustain the declaration of either. He who received the jewel, placed it inside of his cane; the owner of the jewel declared that he had deposited it with the defendant, and had never received it back, and having taken the chain in his hands, it made no movement in demonstration of his falsity. When the defendant was called up to make his declaration and touch the chain, he handed his cane to him who claimed the jewel. The chain, as before, made no demonstration adverse to his statement that he had, in fact, received the jewel, but also that he had given it back into the possession of its owner. In this manner the celebrated "Chain of Justice" lost its prestige amongst the people of Israel, and soon afterwards disappeared for ever from amongst them. This tradition, probably, serves to point out a case, wherein even the great wisdom of David, or his son Solomon, proved ineffectual to define truth from falsehood, honesty from dishonesty, and of the fallability of man.

Many examples of the wonderful wisdom of King David are handed down in oriental tradition, in addition to those mentioned in the Old Testament; and it also narrates that he lost it and the Divine favour by his thirst after riches, and his weakness for female beauty. In his earlier career, his only aspiration was for wisdom, but in later days he seemed to have entertained the idea, too often indulged in by weak humanity, that the Almighty should recompense him in this life rather than only in the other, for his good deeds. It is related, and the bearing of the allegory is readily seen, that in answer to such an aspiration God sent an apparition before him, in the form of a figure composed of the most precious of metals and jewels. He grasped at this, and it receded before him; the more he pursued it the further it fled, until having lit upon the terrace of an edifice, he followed it even there. This sinful pursuit after wealth even led this ever great and wise king to the commission of still another act of human weakness. From this terrace he beheld Uriah's wife, and was captivated by her beauty. The spectacle of so great feminine attractions destroyed all his better disposition, and having ascertained that she was the wife of one of his chief military commanders he longed to possess her. Although the beautiful woman's back was turned to King David, she saw his figure reflected in the water in which she was performing her ablutions, and hastened to cover her person with her hair.

David returned to the place in which he was accustomed to pray, but his thoughts continuously reverted to the beautiful female to whom he had been led by his sinful pursuit after worldly riches. Tradition relates that her husband, Uriah, was with the nephew of the king, serving in the army before Belkâ, and employed in besieging a strong place. David sent orders to this nephew, named Sherâb, that he should direct Uriah to go with the Shekinah in front of the forces, and assault the fortress. This he did with success, and it was only on attacking a third time, that he was killed. It is otherwise stated that the attacks made by Uriah were without the king's knowledge, and only in conformance with the orders of Sherâb; it being supposed that prophets such as David were incapable of so heinous a crime as conspiracy against the life of an innocent man, and that he only had it at his heart to marry his wife in case of his death. Some even go so far as to declare that Uriah divorced his wife to favour the king, and then willingly fell a martyr in battle. When David asked the widow to become his wife she consented on the condition that, in case she bore him a son, he should be the heir of his throne.

Some time after the preceding occurrence, which oriental writers regard as a "Divine temptation," King David, was as usual seated in his oratory, protected by a large force of armed men. He had given orders that no one should be permitted to disturb his devotions. Notwithstanding these commands, two individuals arrived at the door, and insisted on being admitted to the royal presence for the purpose of laying before the king a suit for his decision. On entering, one of them stated that the other was his own brother, that the latter possessed 999 sheep whilst he had lost one, and that he had been compelled to give him this one by forcible means. These two men were none other than two angels disguised, and David not only recognised them as such, but was conscience-stricken by the nature of the case and its application to himself. Long days and nights of prayer and supplication to God for pardon was the result, and many were the tears of repentance shed by the self-condemned king. By Divine command he visited the grave of the man he had so grievously injured, and implored his forgiveness. It is said that the spirit of the deceased rose up from the grave to learn the object of the king's visit, and on hearing the avowal that he had been placed in the front of the battle, so that he might meet death, and so enable the king to satisfy his desire for his beautiful wife, he was silent. This occurrence seemed greatly to add to the grief and remorse of David, and although God mercifully pardoned his crime, the rest of his days were spent in sadness and sorrow, and many of his sublimest psalms, tradition says, were composed by him during this period.

LETTER from a BROTHER in ENGLAND to a BROTHER in SCOTLAND.

INITIATES IN SCOTLAND.

Not the least dangerous feature in the present system of Freemasonry is the lax and irresponsible mode of election of candidates for our mysteries. Laws, undoubtedly, are on record dealing concisely and firmly with the question, but there they end. They die in their birth, they are but words, and they never produce effects. The laws of Freemasonry and of the Grand Lodge, although very fine and formal upon paper, are not unlike the dummies in a barber's shop or a tailor's emporium. You can hang anything upon them, but what they themselves are fitted to use. The laws of Freemasonry are made for a certain class only, and thus we find their spirit given effect to, and then their text, and again neither spirit nor text, as the wire-pullers please. And more especially is this displayed in the laws affecting the internal economy of a lodge; a lord can be hurried through thirty-three degrees in a week, while a poor and unknown brother never can hope to attain higher than the Royal Arch. The boast of equality is destroyed whenever we come to deal with any degree above the third, or with any one above the rank of the lower class.

All societies which pretend to a rule of conduct beyond the worldly or politic require so to guide their actions, in the face of carpers and cavillers, that no loophole may be afforded for invidious comparison or damning contradiction. Thus Freemasonry should be most careful alike to preserve the integrity of the landmarks in spirit and in deed; to act up, so far as it is permissible for finite beings to do so, to the strict letter of its law, and to discountenance and denounce anything which may tend to set that law at defiance or bring it into ridicule. But this is not at all considered by Freemasons, who have other objects in view than the plain and pure tenets of the Order; objects at variance with the principles and motive powers of the Order, and who view the society more as a means of improving their earthly welfare than as one which, without being a religion in itself, is a helpmate to religion, and consequently one which will tend, if it does not really lead, to a spiritual. The roughest block that ever entered the quarry of a lodge must be convinced of this truth.

Freemasonry demands something more than body and soul, money and respectability, in its candidates. It requires brains as well as thews, education as well as gold. A man in joining is told that external advantages are of little profit to him in the Craft, but this is the merest verbiage; but talk, rank, and money always have their weight, in the very church and in the veriest tap-house. One of our most distinguished countrymen, at an early age, joined Freemasonry. He was then unknown and a nobody. He worked zealously in the cause of the Craft—worked with his whole heart and soul—looking forward to the time when his labours would be crowned with the honour desired by every intelligent and true-hearted Craftsman—the chair. When the time for election came, he was passed over; a young brother, who had a high territorial position, was appointed; and that particular lodge and Freemasonry lost the aid and co-operation of one of the best men who ever sat in lodge, for he threw up all connection with the Order in disgust, and never again took part in its proceedings. Years flew past, the rejected brother in time stood before the world as one of its foremost minds; the Freemasons would then have given him any situation which he could desire, but he would have nothing to say to them. If, when he was poor, unknown, but a zealous craftsman, they would not reward his arduous labours, now that he was rich, known, but a poor craftsman, he would not assume honours for which he had not worked. And so it is, year by year, that men after men of great abilities leave the Order—where they cannot find common honesty of dealing, or any principle of justice—to the loss and deterioration of Freemasonry. By this it is not to be supposed that we are to take every brother at his own price, upon his own showing, that he is a future Brougham or Admirable Crichton. What we do maintain is, that every hard-working and intelligent brother, who does his duty by his lodge and brethren, is entitled to the honours of Freemasonry when his turn to wear them comes. The freedom of Freemasonry may be summed up in the pithy South American planter's article of faith, "Every man is free and equal, and every man has a right to larrup his own nigger." There are no end of niggers in Freemasonry—more is the shame!

No one will say that the general run of candidates for Freemasonry are highly or even decently educated, or that they have ever been, or else some glaring chronological and historical errors would not now be in the ritual. Some have been admitted who cannot read or write, some have barely received a schooling at all, while the generality are as fitted to solve the forty-seventh problem of Euclid as they are to expatiate upon the liberal arts and sciences. The only liberality which they are familiar with being the whisky bottle at another's expense. And yet to understand Freemasonry as it purports to be, one would require to have the wisdom of Solomon, with the insatiable literary appetite of Porson. Yet how absurd it is to hear some illiterate but well-meaning companion speak learnedly of the Coptic, Syriac, and Chaldaic, who would be apt to call a cuniform character a German, because it was in an un-English type. There is no reasonable wonder in this. A mass of useless persiflage has been grafted upon the original stock of ritual, and one would need his whole lifetime to be able to comply with the requirements of the first degree, leaving out of the question entirely the question of the numberless orders now, like barnacles, sticking to the good ship Freemasonry's bottom.

While Freemasonry should be stripped of many of her gaudy and alien plumes, in which she looks like a daw in borrowed feathers, the candidate for Freemasonry should also display some qualifications in the shape of an educational excellence. Furthermore, no candidate should be proposed and received the same night. His name should be before the brethren for some time, so that enquiries might be made about him, and any disqualifying properties become known. Much after disagreeableness would be avoided by this course, and the candidate would be impressed with the importance of the new tie which he was about to form. A considerable time should also elapse betwixt the conferring of the degrees, and no advance should be made until the candidate has shown his perfect knowledge of what has been already entrusted to him. The examinations should take place in open lodge, and every brother present be entitled to ask such questions as to him may seem fit and proper.

What do we find to be the present system pursued with regard to candidates? They are brought to a lodge, proposed, balloted for, passed and raised, all in one evening. A favourite excuse for this is that the candidate is going abroad. Why did he not seek admission before? and why now? Likely because formerly the Craft was of no use to him, but now that he is going abroad, it would be of the utmost use. How then does he find admission when he swears that he does not seek admission from any mercenary or other unworthy motive? In fact, we regret to say that many men deliberately lie on their entrance into Freemasonry, and many present, by their silence, become abettors of the lie. All this, mark you, in the name of God and of truth!

We might prolong this subject further and at greater length were our purpose mere writing for effect. We have no such thought. We simply wish to point out the plague spots upon our system which call for redress, certain that the common sense of the brethren will bring about a reform. Still we cannot conceal from ourselves that the cause of Freemasonry is injured by the falsehoods and unnecessary pretences of Freemasons, and that brethren, from the hour of their initiation, are led into lax notions of truth and honour with regard to the Craft, which bear fruit in after years, in indifference to the strict letter of the law and an insensibility to the purer and less salient doctrines of the Order. This is not their fault; it is the fault of a system bolstered up for the interested ends of a paltry ignoble few.

What, then, is necessary for the remedy of these abuses is a thorough investigation into the past lives and characters of all candidates. Mundane Clubs demand this, and so should Masonry. The candidate should possess a fair education, and be capable of understanding the various points of the ritual. A certain time should pass between his proposition as a candidate and his reception, and also in the after degrees. We should say three months in each case. The fees of admission should also be raised, and an annual test of membership demanded. This we will treat of afterwards. Above all, Freemasonry should do her duty by her candidates, and much of the ritual should be overhauled and revised.

We insert the above, but sincerely trust that the picture of Scottish Freemasonry therein delineated is overdrawn in many respects. There cannot be a doubt, however, that greater care should be exercised in the choice of candidates by some of the lodges in Scotland.—ED. F.

CONSECRATION OF THE GRANITE LODGE, No. 1328.

On Saturday last, another lodge was added to the already voluminous roll of the Grand Lodge of England, and from the high character of its promoters, we anticipate a very prosperous career for the new lodge, which is aptly named the "Granite." W. Bro. James Brett, Grand Pursuivant, was the officer deputed by the Grand Master to perform the important duties of Consecrating Master, and it is needless to add that he executed his work to the admiration and delight of all present. Bro. Brett was well seconded by Bro. R. Wentworth Little, the Provincial Grand Secretary for Middlesex, who officiated as D.C., and we would particularly desire to urge the necessity of having an efficient brother to act in this capacity at every consecration. At four o'clock precisely, the brethren were marshalled in the ante-room to the Zetland Chamber, Freemasons' Hall, by the D.C., in the following order. The visiting brethren, juniors first; the Founders of the new lodge according to rank; the Wardens pro tem., the D.C., the Consecrating Master, and the Grand Tyler.

The brethren then entered the lodge-room in procession, and marched slowly round while solemn music was played, and we may here state that the musical arrangements were directed by Bro. G. T. Carter, P.M., 382, who was assisted by Bros. W. Coward, Montem Smith, C. S. Jekyll, and Chaplin Henry.

The Presiding Officer then took the chair, and appointed as Wardens, pro tem., Bros. H. G. Buss, P.M. 27, Prov. G. Treas. Middlesex, and C. A. Cottebrune, P.M., 733, 957 and 1257. Bro. F. Walters, P.M. 73, W.M. 1309, was requested to act as Inner Guard.

The lodge was opened in the three degrees, and the Presiding Officer addressed the brethren on the nature of the meeting. The introductory prayer followed. The D.C. addressed the Presiding Officer, who replied, and the brethren of the new lodge were then arranged in order. The Acting Secretary read the petition and warrant, and the Presiding Officer enquired of the brethren if they approved of the officers named in the petition and warrant. The brethren signified their approval in Masonic form. The Presiding Officer then proceeded to constitute the brethren into a regular lodge in ancient form, after which he delivered an oration on the nature and principles of the institution. An anthem (133rd Psalm) succeeded. The Dedication Prayer (first portion), was then offered up. Omnes, Chant, "So mote it be." Sanctus, "Glory be to Thee, O Lord." All the brethren turned to the East, while the Presiding Officer gave the Invocation. Omnes, Chant, "So mote it be." The D.C. read 2 Chron., ii., 1 to 16. The lodge board was then uncovered, and the Master and Wardens, pro tem., carried the elements of consecration three times round the lodge (solemn music playing during the procession), halting in the East at each perambulation. Anthem, "Glory be to God on High; Peace on Earth, Goodwill towards men." The D.C. took the censer three times round the lodge (solemn music during his progress) halting in the East. The Dedication Prayer (second portion) followed. All the brethren chanted, "So mote it be." The Presiding Officer then constituted the lodge. All the brethren chanted, "So mote it be." An anthem, "Glory to God in the highest." The Patriarchal Benediction closed the consecration. The lodge was then resumed in the second degree.

Bro. John Kirk, the W.M.-designate, was then presented for installation to Bro. Brett by the D.C., and the usual ceremony was proceeded with until the Board of Installed Masters was formed, when Bro. Kirk was duly inducted into the chair of K.S. The brethren were re-admitted and saluted the new Master in the several degrees. After the presentation of the warrant, Boyce's fine anthem, "I have surely built Thee an house" was very effectively sung by the choir. The officers were then appointed and invested as follows, each with a suitable address from Bro. Brett:—

- Bro. John Batstone, S.W.
- " Charles Sendey, J.W.
- " George Hackford, (P.M.) Treas., (elected.)
- " George de Maid, Secretary.
- " F. Julian Marshall, S.D.
- " Benjamin Cooke, J.D.
- " Charles Dickinson, I.G.
- " J. Woodstock, Tyler.

Bro. Brett concluded the ceremony of installation with the addresses to the W.M., the Wardens and the brethren generally, and sat down, on the completion of his arduous task, amidst the unanimous applause of his hearers.

It was then proposed by Bro. Dickinson, I.G., seconded by Bro. J. L. Thomas, P.M., and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes of the lodge, to Bro. James Brett, G.P., for the able manner in which he has conducted the consecration and the installation.

It was also proposed by Bro. J. Batstone, S.W., seconded by Bro. C. Sendey, J.W., and enthusiastically agreed to, that the following brethren should become honorary members of the lodge. Bros. J. Brett, G.P.; R. Wentworth Little, P.G. Sec., &c.; C. A. Cottebrune, P.M. 733, 957, 1257; and H. G. Buss, P.G. Treas. Middlesex, P.M. 975.

The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was held in the Morning-room, Freemasons' Tavern, and comprised every delicacy, with an abundance of the choicest fruits and rarest wines. Grace was sung by the musical brethren, after which the usual attention was paid to the good things of this life, the W.M. not forgetting to drink prosperity to the numerous visitors, who heartily responded by wishing every success to the Granite Lodge, and its estimable Master.

The cloth having been removed, Bro. Kirk gave the health of "Her Majesty," coupling with it "The Ancient Craft." (National Anthem, all upstanding.) The Earl De Grey and Ripon's health followed, and was greeted with continued applause. An equally warm reception awaited the announcement of the next toast, "M.W. Bros. the Prince of Wales and Earl of Zetland, Past Grand Masters."

Bro. Brett, G. Purst., responded for the Earl of Carnarvon, D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers, in his usual happy vein.

Song, "Oh, Firm as Oak," by Bro. Henry.

The health of the W.M. was then proposed, and elicited unanimous demonstrations of respect and affection.

Bro. Kirk replied, and expressed his sense of the honour conferred on him as the first W.M. of the Granite Lodge, and he assured the brethren that he and all the members were actuated with the same determination to make it a glorious success. (Cheers).

Song, "The Woodpecker," by Bro. Montem Smith.

The health of the "Visitors" was next given, and cordially received.

Bros. Wright and Glass ably responded.

For the "P.M.'s," Bros. J. L. Thomas and R. Wentworth Little were called upon to return thanks, and both enunciated in appropriate terms their delight at witnessing such an auspicious event as the inauguration of the Granite Lodge.

In reply to the toast of "The Officers," each brother in rotation, from the Senior Warden to the Inner Guard, expressed their satisfaction at the positions they severally held, and their desire to further, by every means in their power, the comfort and welfare of the lodge.

Song, "Maid of Athens," by Bro. Carter.

Bros. Hackford and De Maid acknowledged the toast of the "Treasurer and Secretary," and the former brother in a really neat and felicitous speech, made some very appropriate allusions to the name of the lodge, and hoped it would endure as permanently as the stone after which it was named.

After the Tyler's toast the brethren separated.

Besides those already mentioned, the following songs and glees were sung during the evening:—"By Celia's Arbour," "Maying," "The Three Chafers," "The Wolf," "Three Hundred Years Ago," and "Mynheer Van Dunck," and the brethren were so pleased with the musical entertainment that there were several encores.

The following is a correct list of those present:—Bros. John Kirk, John Batstone, Charles Sendey, George Hackford, P.M., George de Maid, F. Julian Marshall, B. Cooke, C. Dickinson, James L. Thomas, P.M., Alfred T. Taffs, P.M., William W. Kell, John Oliver, John Phillips, William Rose, and M. Jennings, Promoters; James Brett, G.P.; R. Wentworth Little, P.G. Sec. Middlesex, P.M. 975; C. A. Cottebrune, P.M. 733, 957, 1257; H. G. Buss, P.G. Treas. Middlesex, P.M. 27; Frederick Walters, W.M. 1309; H. Wright, W.M. 179; J. Johnson, P.M. 447, P.S.W. Port Natal, 738; John Glass, P.M. 354; D. W. Pearce, P.M. 657; W. H. Warr, P.M. 23, P.G. Steward; R. B. Newsom, P.M. 1223; C. B. Payne, P.M. 27; George Loe, W.M.-elect, 1303; George Kenning, S.W. 192; W. Dodd, S.W. 1194; H. Sadler, J.W. 147; C. Parker Ward, J.W. 1257; G. A. Ibbetson, I.G. 231; John Elliott 186, Joseph Pigot 753, Ab. Jessup 913, John McDougall 912, Septimus Baker 913, Henry C. Stuart 201, K. G. Bailey 231, and M. Edwards, I.G. 1293.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 24th inst., W. Bro. Joshua Nunn, P.G.S.B., presided as W.M., assisted by W. Bros. J. Brett, G.P., and J. Coutts, A.G.P., as Wardens. Bros. Hervey, Hogg, J. Smith, Binckes, Cottebrune, Gale, Saunders, West Smith, Buss, Little, Coulton, Rosenthal, Lambert, Gurney, and many other brethren were also present. The Board of Masters was first held, after which sixteen petitions were considered, of which eleven were relieved, or recommended for relief, to the extent of £430, the remainder being deferred or dismissed. The largest grant ever made at the Lodge of Benevolence, viz., £250 was voted on this occasion, in aid of a brother whose services to the Craft in days gone by, were of a herculean and manifold character.

ANNUAL COMMUNICATION OF THE GRAND LODGE OF CANADA.

The fifteenth Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Canada, was opened at the Music Hall, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 13th ult. Early on Tuesday the brethren began to arrive, and by night the halls were tolerably well filled, and the earnestness of discussions showed that the brethren had come to the meeting deeply impressed with the importance of the occasion and the responsibility resting upon the Craft in connection with it. On Wednesday morning a large additional number of brethren reached the city, and by the time the hour arrived for opening Grand Lodge there was a larger attendance than has ever been known for a first day.

Grand Lodge was formally opened at half-past two o'clock. The entrance of Grand Officers, clothed in the new regalia which had just been imported from England, was a very imposing procession. The usual motion, accepting the minutes as read and confirmed, having been passed, and the rules read, the Grand Master delivered an address, of which the following is a summary:—

"Brethren of the Grand Lodge of Canada: Another year—a most important one in our history—having passed away, we are assembled again in annual communication, to consider measures for the advancement and prosperity of our beloved institution. Let us, with becoming gratitude, recognise the goodness of the Great Architect of the Universe, who has so mercifully preserved us in life and health, bestowed upon us countless blessings, and given us a fair measure of prosperity. Let us also reverently look up to Him for wisdom to direct our deliberations at this Communication, so that all we do may be conducive to the promotion of His glory and the well-being of our fellow-men.

"I do not intend to occupy much of the time of the Grand Lodge with an opening address—time which can be more profitably employed in the consideration of the various important questions which are to be brought forward. I will therefore only refer to certain official acts with which it is necessary you should be made acquainted, and perhaps advert briefly to one or two other matters requiring remark.

"The number of new lodges established by dispensation during the past year, was fifteen. Great care was taken to obtain reliable information as to the need for more lodges in the respective districts in which they were sought to be located, and the probability of their being able to work without detriment to the lodges already existing in the immediate vicinity: and I am happy to say that in nearly every instance the replies were most satisfactory. The applications were all accompanied by the usual recommendations, and certificates were also furnished me that the brethren selected for the position of Worshipful Masters were fully competent to confer the degrees. It gives me great pleasure to state in this connection that, in March last, the members of Goderich Union Lodge, No. 720 on the registry of Grand Lodge of England, unanimously adopted a series of resolutions resigning their English warrant, and desiring in exchange a warrant from the Grand Lodge of Canada. The resolutions were carefully drawn, and all their resolutions being perfectly regular and constitutional, I felt it to be my duty to comply with their request, and instructed Grand Secretary to accept their English warrant and forward it to the Grand Lodge of England, together with a certified copy of the resolutions adopted by the lodge. In accordance with previous arrangement, they were to get the nearest vacant number to that which they would have received had they originally affiliated with this Grand Lodge. The lodge is therefore now known as Goderich Lodge, No. 33 on our Grand Register.

"The following are the names of the lodges under dispensation, with their location and date of organisation:—

1. Credit Lodge, Georgetown, O., 27th Sept., 1869.
2. Zeredatha Lodge, Uxbridge, O., 11th Oct., 1869.
3. Mountain Lodge, Thorold, O., 12th Oct., 1869.
4. Marmora Lodge, Marmora, O., 16th Oct., 1869.
5. Norwood Lodge, Norwood, O., 16th Nov., 1869.
6. Zurich Lodge, Zurich, O., 13th Dec. 1869.
7. Bernard Lodge, Listowel, O., 14th Dec., 1869.
8. Mount Moriah Lodge, Montreal, P.Q., 3rd March, 1870.
9. Sutton Lodge, Sutton Flats, P. Q., 4th Mar., 1870.
10. Prince Arthur Lodge, Odessa, O., 18th Mar., 1870.
11. Ionic Lodge, Brampton, O., 14th April, 1870.
12. Kerr Lodge, Bell Ewart, O., 14th April, 1870.
13. Lodge of Fidelity, Ottawa, 29th April, 1870.
14. Cameron Lodge, Walkertown, O., 28th April, 1870.
15. Doric Lodge, Park Hill, O., 4th July, 1870.

"Affiliated.—16. Goderich Union, No. 720 English Register, and now known as Goderich Lodge, No. 33, Goderich, O.

"Requests were received from several Grand Lodges for an exchange of representatives with the Grand Lodge of Canada. The distinguished brethren appointed to represent these Grand Bodies near this Grand Lodge will doubtless in due time present their credentials. I have named and accredited the following brethren to represent our Grand Lodge near their Grand Lodges, viz.:—

- R. W. Bro. Geo. F. Gouley, Grand Sec., near the Grand Lodge of Missouri.
M. W. Bro. Henry R. Cannon, P. G. M., near the Grand Lodge of New Jersey.
M. W. Bro. H. P. Deul, G. M., near the Grand Lodge of Nebraska.
R. W. Bro. Samuel C. Perkins, G. S. W., near the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

- R. W. Bro. Samuel C. Fleming (Bellows Falls), near the Grand Lodge of Vermont.
R. W. Bro. Col. Wm. S. Fish (Mystic Bridge), near the Grand Lodge of Connecticut.
R. W. Bro. Thomas W. Chubbuck, near the Grand Lodge of Nevada.
R. W. Bro. William H. Fraser, near the Grand Lodge of Wisconsin.

"In consequence of the removal from this country of R. W. Bro. H. L. Robinson, D. D. G. M. for the Bedford district, it was found to be necessary to fill the vacancy thus caused. The Book of Constitutions provides that 'The Grand Master may, by a written document, direct the Grand Registrar to take charge of any district for which there is not a District Deputy Grand Master,' but owing to the peculiar state of Masonic affairs in that district, it was to be expected that questions would arise requiring the personal superintendence of the officer in charge. I therefore deemed it of essential importance that some competent brother, resident in the district, should be selected. I communicated my views to the present Grand Registrar, R. W. Bro. Fairbanks, who in the most courteous manner concurred therein, and having consulted some of the officers of lodges in that district, I appointed W. Bro. Horace D. Pickle, P. M. of Royal Canadian Lodge, Sweetburg, who has since discharged the duties of D. D. G. M. in the district of Bedford, with great zeal and ability.

"Emergent Communications of Grand Lodge, for the purpose of laying foundation stones, were held at the following times and places, viz.: On the 12th of August, 1869, at Belleville, Ont., foundation-stone of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum; on the 16th May, 1870, at Odessa, Ont., foundation of the Methodist Episcopal Church. On both occasions I had the honour of presiding and officiating.

"On the 17th of May, accompanied by R. W. Bros. Seymour, D. C. M.; Willson, D. D. G. M. for the Hamilton district; Harris, Grand Secretary, and others, I had the pleasure of meeting a large number of the Hamilton brethren, in the Lodge of Strict Observance, and of witnessing the presentation of a very beautiful address and an elegant Past Master's jewel to V. W. Bro. Pringle, the able and talented W. M. of that lodge. On the following evening I enjoyed the privilege of meeting several hundred of the Toronto brethren, assembled in their commodious lodge-room, under the direction of R. W. Bro. Kerr, the D. D. G. M. for that district, Stevenson Lodge being in session. There were also a number of the officers and past officers of the Grand Lodge, amongst whom was R. W. Bro. Harman, the present Mayor of the city. On both these occasions the fraternal sentiments expressed afforded evidence of the harmony and good feeling prevailing amongst the members of their respective lodges, and I deem it due to them to acknowledge thus publicly the kindly and fraternal consideration and the bounteous hospitality extended to me by the brethren of Hamilton and Toronto.

"In January I had the great gratification of meeting with the brethren of New Jersey, at the annual communication of their Grand Lodge, held at the city of Trenton. This was the first Grand Lodge which I had the honour of visiting in the United States, and I was greatly impressed with the strict order which characterised all their proceedings, and the high respect for authority manifested throughout the session. The reports presented gave unmistakable evidence of the prosperous condition of Freemasonry within the jurisdiction of that State. From M. W. Bros. Canning, Kusling and Whitehead, and R. W. Bros. Pine, Corson, and others, I received the greatest fraternal courtesy.

"In pursuance of an invitation extended to me by the Committee of Arrangements, I had the honour of being present at the Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of New York, held on the 7th of last month and following days, and of assisting at the laying of a foundation stone of the proposed Masonic Hall or Temple, now being erected at the corner of 6th Avenue and 23rd streets, in the city of New York. Representatives were present from about 600 lodges, besides many distinguished visitors from sister Grand Lodges, amongst whom were two highly esteemed officers of our own Grand Lodge—R. W. Bro. Seymour, Dep. G. M., and R. W. Bro. McCabe, D. D. G. M. Ontario. M. W. Bro. B. L. Peters, G. M. of New Brunswick, and several of his Grand Officers, were also present at that interesting ceremony. The procession was said to be the largest and most imposing Masonic demonstration ever witnessed in the city of New York. The numbers present in the ranks were variously estimated at from 8,000 to 15,000. The marshalling of this vast number was accomplished with marvellous ease, the column being in motion promptly at the hour agreed upon, reflecting great credit upon the Committee of Arrangements, and especially upon R. W. Bro. Herrick, the Acting Grand Director of Ceremonies. From the Grand Master downwards, the brethren were all clothed alike—the regalia consisting of a white linen apron, white gloves, and the jewel of office attached to the left breast. No collars or other insignia were permitted to be worn in the procession. The foundation-stone was laid by the Grand Master, M. W. Bro. James Gibson, of Salem, N. Y., ably assisted by R. W. Bro. Anthon, Dep. G. M. (now G. M.), and R. W. Bros. Fox and Judson, respectively G. S. W. and G. J. W. The visiting brethren were most courteously received by the Grand Officers just mentioned, and by M. W. Bro. Simons and R. W. Bro. Dr. Austin, Grand Secretary, and others. The banquet was held at the Apollo Hall on the evening of the 8th, to which all visitors from abroad were invited.

THE Ill. Bro. Albert G. Goodall, 33°, has just embarked for New York, after nearly a twelve-months' tour through Europe. We wish him a speedy and safe voyage.

MASONRY IN AMERICA.

"In that army of the Revolution every Major-General was a Mason. Nor did the influence of the Institution begin and end here. In that great struggle for civil liberty, of the signers of the Declaration of Independence all but five were members of this Fraternity. The bold advocates of independence and the brave defenders of the liberties of the land were Freemasons; they who pledged their honour and their fortunes in council, and braved their enemies in the field, were brethren. Freemasonry has followed the fortunes of freedom in its struggles in modern times. There never could be any conflict between the cause of civil liberty and the principles of this Brotherhood; for, although it was not, and never could be, a political society without violating its fundamental principles, yet it held, and taught, and practised principles which lay at the foundation of all free governments. The fact that it existed so extensively in the Continental Congress and in the Colonial Army—that it rapidly spread through the colonies—that the first men in the country were the leading men of the Craft—this of itself would be a sufficient indication that the spirit of Masonry and the spirit of liberty were in entire harmony. But so important a matter as this is, happily, not left to the uncertain deductions of an inferential argument. The plain and positive teachings of this Institution leave no room for doubt. While that equality is inculcated both by lectures and ceremonials—which constitute the foundation of all civil liberty—there is also set forth with equal distinctness the duty of submission to authority, obedience to law, and loyalty to government.

"In no human institution is there to be found such democratic equality, with such absolute sovereignty. While the brethren stand upon the level, the Master rules with a power which is neither resisted nor appealed from. His office is the personification of authority; his gavel is the emblem of unconditional submission—a blow from it brings instant order out of confusion. Prompt and cheerful submission to rightful rule is a Masonic instinct. This is the habit of Masonry in the administration of its lodge, educating the teachable mind in the duties of good citizenship, as manifested in ready obedience to lawful government.

"In this country always, and in this century particularly, is this lesson needed—where civil liberty is the common heritage, where equal rights is every man's portion—there is no little danger that liberty will give place to despotism. Intoxicated with the spirit of freedom, men sometimes become mad enough to throw away their birthright, forgetting that, while the people may be their own rulers, yet civil government is an ordinance of Heaven and must be recognised, submitted to, and maintained, or despotism will change places with liberty, and freemen become bondmen.

"One consequence of popular suffrage is the perpetuity of political divisions. These are aggravated by local interests and personal prejudices. Mutual jealousies are bred by rival pursuits, and are ceaseless causes of irritation. Such a Brotherhood as this—that embraces the entire land, binding every community in the fellowship of a common cause, holding in its embrace men of every shade of political sentiment—must exert a conserving power beyond the reach or help of any other earthly organisation. Here is an Institution where members throughout the land recognise each other as brethren who are related by mutual bonds, who have fraternal interests in common, whose feelings of brotherly endearment are too deep to be destroyed by any power of passion or prejudice. They come together in their asylums, away from the world and its politics, and banishing all thoughts of difference and divisions, unite in the harmony of a beautiful Brotherhood, and dwell together in peace and unity. Such a bond is a thousand times stronger than the principles of the strongest political platform, stronger than the iron or golden bands of local interest.

"As conserving power is seen in the influence which it exerts in affording for all its members a pleasant retreat, where all may turn a deaf ear to the din of all strife, where minds may dwell together in harmony, and each may see in the other a friend and a brother. It is indeed a great privilege for individuals to have such a place to flee to in times of political strife, but a more glorious thing for the country to have in the very bosom of its wide domain a Society whose obligations are a bond of union, and whose principles are a conserving power, teaching and enforcing liberty, equality, and fraternity, loyalty to the government, obedience to authority, and a love for good order and good morals.

"Thus it is that an Institution, which is not, and never can be, a political association, from the fact that it is open to, and is entered alike by, men of all grades of political opinion, may exert a strong and lasting influence over the destinies of the nation in the success of that grand experiment which is now being made in this country—of man's capability of self-government—and towards which the eyes of the nations are now directed.

"I have thus endeavoured to show an outline of the conservatism of Freemasonry in its moral, social, and political aspects—all of which we see illustrated and exemplified here to-day. It is for its members to say how long, under God, it shall continue to hold its present proud distinction. If they do their duty to it, to themselves, and to their God, it will assume still more beautiful and enduring proportions—the means of an incalculable good to the world in time to come, as in ages past.

"This Institution was venerable for age before the most populous parts of our country were old enough to have a name and a place among the nations of the earth. It has maintained its ancient organisation, teaching its lessons of love and doing its work of charity, and is to-day stronger in its bonds of brotherhood than ever before; and we look upon its majestic form with an honest admiration as it comes in its colossal proportions, raising its hoary head amid the ephemeral creations of the times, the ruins of countless orders that have passed away, a sublime exception to the overwhelming triumphs of the spirit of the age.

"Though it be true that this time-honoured Craft has no more monuments to build in the form of castles and cathedrals, yet it has a far nobler work than this to do. Never in any age of the world had the Fraternity a grander mission to perform than it has in this land to-day.

"The Supreme Architect of Heaven and Earth has not protected Freemasonry through these eventful periods from the hand of persecution and the ravages of violent revolutions for naught. It has a comprehensive capacity for good—morally, socially, and politically; it has a sphere, and possesses facilities which belong to no other human institution. The events of the last few years have marvelously enlarged that sphere and multiplied the opportunities for the practical exemplifications of Freemasonry.

"These unprecedented events now challenge to the utmost the practice of the principles which we have so long professed, and the manifestations of that charity which we have so proudly cherished as the choicest, noblest, loveliest landmark of the Order. The civil war which deluged this land with rivers of fraternal blood afford abundant illustrations of the fraternal benefits of the obligatory principles of Masonry. By its beneficent influences the sufferings of war were, in a multitude of instances, mitigated. As in the Revolution—which secured our national independence—so in this last decisive struggle, which has transformed the loveliest portion of our country into a scene of unutterable desolation, which has served that independence, military lodges were established in connection with the army. Hundreds of young men, who were fired with a spirit of true patriotism, who left home and kindred with all its fond endearments for the perils and privations of the camp, have gathered with their brethren round the mystic altar, and in the retirement of this sacred retreat—which the tumult of war could not disturb—have held fraternal intercourse; and there receiving the refining and elevating instruction of the lectures and ceremonies of the Order, renewing the vows of their fraternal fidelity, they return to posts of danger better qualified to discharge their duties as loyal men and true soldiers. Never in this world can we read the full record of all the blessed influences which have cheered the home-sick heart of the young soldier, far away from home and all unused to the hardships of a warrior's life, by thus meeting with brethren made dear by the renewal of ties stronger than death—in every one of whom he saw a true and trusted friend. Brothers who, to their utmost, would succour him in peril, relieve him in distress, bury him if he fell, and mark the spot where they laid him as a guide for his friend to his grave. Such associations served to bring a balm to the heart, to dissipate the spirit of despondency, and fill the soul with cheerful courage. All this made the man more manly, nerved him with more enduring fortitude, animated him with a higher hope, and sent back to his tent a truer soldier. Next to a visit to the hearthstone of home, is a visitation of a lodge on a battle-field in its refreshing influences upon the mind. But the benefits of Freemasonry in war are not to be limited to these subjective influences, ennobling as they are. It demonstrates amid the strife and carnage of the battle-field its great objective power. Many a wounded soldier, writhing in the agonies of a heartless distress, has caught a brother's eye and felt a brother's stalwart arm bearing him from the field of blood, or else relieving him as he lay, and making him patient for deliverance or death. But for that timely succour, which Masonic obligations made a duty, many a brave defender of his country would have slept where he fell; but who now lives to tell how much, under God, he is indebted to the Institution which gave him a language he could speak, though he were dumb—which all her sons, though enemies, could understand and were required to heed.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Beacon Lodge, No. 619.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday week, at the Greyhound, Dulwich, Bro. James W. Avery, P.M., presided. Bro. Saul Wells, S.W., was presented to the W.M., and by him formally installed Master of the lodge for the year. The officers he appointed were Bros. Deering, S.W.; Capt. Arthur Smith, J.W.; Alfred Avery, P.M., Treas.; Leonard, P.M., Sec.; W. Seaman, S.D.; W. H. Green, J.D.; Kindon, I.G.; P. R. Leenw, D.C.; and J. Daly, T. The ceremony of installation was well performed, and the charges ably delivered. There was no work but the installation before the brethren, and the lodge was then closed. A banquet of a very superior description followed, and the customary toasts were proposed with wonderful brevity by the W.M., but nevertheless the replies and songs kept the brethren together till late at night.

MIDDLESEX.

Acacia Lodge, No. 1309.—On Wednesday, August 10th, at the Sebright Arms Tavern, Alston-road, West Barnet, the last regular meeting of this young lodge was held. Punctually at 5 o'clock p.m. the W.M., Brother Frederick Walters opened the lodge. The minutes of the previous meetings were read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots were unanimous in favour of two candidates for initiation.

Bro. H. Kirby was passed, and Bros. S. Corson and H. J. Hilliard were raised; the ceremonies being rendered in a correct and impressive manner. Bros. G. J. Loe, elected W.M.; E. Silliant, P.M., Treas., re-elected Treas.; J. Bavin, P.M. 147, Tyler, re-elected Tyler; all being unanimous. A five-guinea testimonial was unanimously voted from the lodge funds to Bro. F. Walters, W.M., for his efficient services as the W.M. The choice of the testimonial to be left to the retiring W.M. The audit committee was elected and appointed. To meet at Bro. J. W. Avery's, Queen's Arms Tavern, 36, Weston-street, Bermondsey, one week before the installation. One candidate was proposed for initiation. Apologies were received from those who were absent. The lodge was closed. Banquet followed. There were present as visitors Bros. H. G. Buss, P.G. Treasurer of Middlesex; J. Henderson, P.M. 13; M. Ohren, W.M. 452 and 33; Knight, Tustin, and others.

PROVINCIAL.

LIVERPOOL.—Everton Lodge, No. 823.—On Wednesday evening, the 17th inst., the first monthly meeting of the Everton Lodge, No. 823, Liverpool, was held at The Temple, Hope-street. The lodge was duly opened at six o'clock, the W.M. (Bro. S. Haynes) being supported by Bros. D. Pierce, S.W., J. Holland, J.W., and all the officers for the current year. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been passed, four candidates for initiation were balloted for. Messrs. Clemney and Summers, being in attendance, were initiated, the working tools being given by the J.W. The charge was given with fine and impressive effect by the S.W. The lodge was then opened in the second and third degrees, when Bros. Bryson, Dixon, Tuft, and Simonds were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason. The thoroughly efficient and complete manner in which the ceremony was performed by the W.M. reflected the highest credit upon him. The lodge was then closed down to the first degree, when £10 10s. was voted to a worthy brother, and £7 to enable a brother and his family to proceed to America. After the transaction of some private business, the lodge was closed in proper form.—The brethren then partook of refreshment in the lodge room, and after the usual loyal and brotherly toasts had been proposed, Bro. W. J. Lunt, P.M., Treas., spoke in high terms of the services of the pic-nic stewards, remarking that, while waiting upon others, they had somewhat neglected themselves. This devotion and kindness, however, had been amply repaid, as they (the stewards) had afterwards the felicity of being in turn waited upon by the fair sex. (Applause.)—Bro. Holland, who had taken an active interest in the excursion, responded in fitting terms.—"The Health of the W.M." was given by Bro. Jackson, P.M., and received with musical honours and much applause.—The W.M. acknowledged the compliment with much feeling. After the toasts of the officers (responded to by the S.W. and J.W.) and "The Visitors" (acknowledged by Bro. Hayman), the brethren separated at an early hour.—[It should have been stated in the report of the installation proceedings that Bro. Haynes, after taking the W.M.'s chair, presented to the lodge two very splendid columns, with rests, for the S.W. and J.W. The columns are of solid brass—partly in dead bronze and partly burnished—finished with the most artistic taste, and reflect the greatest credit on all concerned in their manufacture. The gift is both pleasing and substantial, and will, doubtless, be much valued as a proof of Bro. Haynes' liberality and cordiality. The columns bear the following inscription: "Presented to the Everton Lodge, No. 823, by Bro. Samuel Haynes, W.M., on the day of his installation. July, 1870."]

ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCIAL.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Chapter, No. 1051.—The regular meeting of the Rowley Chapter was held at the Masonic rooms, Athenaeum, on Monday, the 15th inst. Present, Comps. W. H. Bagnall, M.E.Z.; Moore, P.Z., as H.; Hall, J.; Mercer, E.; R. Taylor, as N.; Fenton, P.S.; E. Simpson, and J. Barrow as Asst. S.; W. Hall, Watson, &c. The chapter was opened by the Principals in due form, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Bro. W. J. Sly, of the Rowley Lodge, Lancaster, and for Bro. Robert S. Bateson, of the Charity Lodge, No. 563, Umballa, Bengal, and was in each instance unanimous in their favour. Bro. Bateson being in attendance, was exalted to the degree of Royal Arch by Comp. Dr. Moore, P.Z., the duties of P.S. being ably undertaken by Comp. Simpson. The mystical, symbolical, and historical lectures were delivered by the Principals. Comp. Fenton, P.S., nominated as his assistants, Comp. James M. Moore, and Comp. Edmund Simpson, who were duly invested with their collars and jewels of office. There being no other business before the Chapter it was closed in due form.

INSTRUCTION.

METROPOLITAN.

Charterhouse Club of Instruction, Hat and Feathers Tavern, 25, Goswell-road.—We had the pleasure of being present at a meeting of this excellent School of Freemasonry on Friday, the 19th inst., when Bro. D. Forbes, S.W. 65, in a very efficient manner worked the first, second, and third degrees, affording much satisfaction to the brethren present. The continuous accession of new members, and the constantly numerous attendance (most unusual at this season), cannot fail of being highly gratifying to Bro. R. S. Hart, S.W. of the Finsbury Lodge (the founder), as also to Bro. Simpson, the ever-obliging host, who so perseveringly attends to the comforts of the brethren.

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

S. P.—A Rose Croix Mason, as such, is not eligible to attend a Royal Arch Chapter. He must be regularly exalted, as the English and York Rites do not recognise the superior degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, or of the French or "Modern" Rite.

CHEVALIER.—There are several Red Cross Conclaves in London, and by applying to the Recorder of any one of them you will, no doubt, obtain every information.

HAROLD THE 99TH.—Your jeu d'esprit, although amusing is unsuitable for our columns.

HELP for the VICTIMS of WAR.

BEFORE the earth emerged from chaos and assumed its present form, there was war. War in its most terrible and sublime aspect—war between the angels—a strife which shook the heavens, and resounded through illimitable space. The mythical record of this ante-mundane antagonism is wondrously depicted by our great poet, yet even the almost inspired utterances of a Milton fail to shape to our minds the surpassing awe and horror of that celestial conflict. Human intellect cannot grasp the infinite, and the most powerful imagination is unable to conceive more than feeble similitudes of supernatural events. The poet, therefore, in narrating this war of the immortals is constrained to use images which are familiar to our thoughts and comprehensible to our limited faculties. Thus, he speaks of the heavenly artillery, as though the death-dealing engines of earthly warfare had found a place in that Titanic struggle. He sings of chariots swiftly rolling on the foe, of flashingswords that smite them hip and thigh, and of vengeful strokes that hurl the vanquished spirits into profoundest abysses of darkness. And since the birth of this little speck in creation—which men call Earth—there have been wars and rumours of wars in ceaseless succession. From the primitive days when the denizens of huts and tents fought with bows and arrows, down to our present highly-civilised age when men kill more scientifically with mitrailleuses, the dismal record is substantially the same, and we fear the day is even yet far distant when men will cease to "dig each other's graves, and call the sad work, Glory!"

At the present moment, two great nations—strong in manhood, rich in fame, and with a measureless future of wealth and prosperity spreading before them—are, nevertheless, deliberately spilling the best blood of their children like water, as though the advantages of peace and progress had never been preached, or the blessings of international fraternity experienced by mankind. Who can be an unconcerned spectator of this terrible contest? Who can witness, unmoved, this deluge of blood and tears, which threatens to overflow the fairest provinces of Europe? Who can even reflect upon the fate of the living vanquished, without a sigh for the anguish which pierces their hearts' core at the speedy overthrow of their sanguine hopes of victory? And, above all, who can contemplate without dismay the ruin and the desolation of homes, the speechless sorrow of unnumbered widows and orphans at once bereft of those who are nearest and dearest to them; or, to turn to the battlefield itself—with its ghastly harvest of dead and dying, with its miserable burden of maimed and wounded—where is the heart that does not bleed at the spectacle, and execrate the martial triumphs that are so dearly bought? We know that an insane ambition is often the cause of war, and that resistance to lawless invaders is the first duty of a good citizen. We acknowledge that some wars have been just and necessary, because they were waged in the sacred cause of liberty and truth. But to see neighbouring peoples, upon small provocation, drunken with rage, eager for the fray, and thirsting for mutual slaughter, is beyond all dispute a disgrace to the era in which we live, and to civilisation in general. The only gleam of comfort in this portentous gloom is one which will be hailed by every lover of his kind. Great as may be the discord and fatal the strife, the spirit of the true Samaritan does not shun the scene; the ministering hands of tenderness and compassion appear to bind up the warrior's wounds, to console the last moments of his swiftly-ebbing life, and to decently inter the shattered relics of frail humanity. Truly, this is a godlike cause, for, if we cannot stay the ravages of war, let us at least endeavour to diminish its evils; and this noble object can be best achieved by supporting the efforts of those who, self-denyingly and at great personal risk, devote themselves to the work of helping the sick and wounded.

Fortunately, and to the credit of our common humanity be it said, an organisation exists in England, as yet only in its infancy, and perhaps somewhat tentative in its movements, but which promises to become a great institution in the State. We allude to the "Society for Aid to the Sick and Wounded in War"—on whose behalf a brief but eloquent appeal was made in our columns last week by Bro. BURGESS, who is one of its Honorary Secretaries, and we need scarcely add that the cause which he advocates commends itself to the approval and co-operation of every man whose heart is open to the cry of distress. To Freemasons the appeal strikes home with especial force, because the ritual of the Craft overflows with injunctions to assist and console our fellow-creatures in the hour of their affliction, and to perform those deeds of kindness and mercy which are the essence of genuine charity. Who can be deaf to such a call, or who take refuge in the selfish reflection that, as Englishmen have nothing to do with the present war, they need not concern themselves about the sufferings which so inevitably follow in its wake?

The Society which Bro. BURGESS represents embodies broader and more cosmopolitan views. Wherever war exists, its agents will find their field of operation; wherever the healing art can soothe or save will be their active sphere. They will not inquire whether this man fought in the Gallic host, or that man in the Teutonic legions? Whether he be a fair-haired Saxon or a swarthy Zouave will be no additional recommendation to their aid. It will suffice that he is wounded or prostrate through sickness—that he prefers to them the supreme suit of misfortune—and they will recognise without hesitation the unanswerable claim of helpless affliction.

To accomplish this work, however, on a scale of befitting magnitude money is required, medical comforts must be obtained, efficient assistance secured, and the resources of science brought to bear for the speedier alleviation of pain and the more effectual repulse of disease and death. In this sublime crusade of charity all may share; in this brigade of benevolence all may be enrolled—if not for service at the actual seat of warfare, yet as a corps of reserve to strengthen the hands of those who have undertaken the toils and dangers of this mission of mercy in the hospital and the field. Let us all, therefore, contribute our mite in aid of the sick and wounded; let us all participate in the unmixed delight of doing good, and rejoice in the triumphs of universal fraternity even amidst the deadliest scenes of carnage and ruin. To the English Craft we appeal with confidence in such a cause as this, and we are proud to record that the initiative in the movement has been taken by some of the most prominent members of the Masonic Order in England. A glance at the list of the Central Committee will show, amongst others, the names of the Duke of Manchester, Lord Leigh, the Rev. G. R. Portal, the Marquis of Kildare, Lord Eliot, Sir E. A. H. Lechmere, Julius A. Pearson, LL.D., and Captain C. J. Burgess. This is as it should be. Freemasons should ever be foremost in the support of these and similar praiseworthy objects; and when we add that the small sum of five shillings, contributed annually, constitutes membership in the Society, we have said all that is necessary to induce our readers to come forward with one accord and pour their subscriptions into the coffers of this truly noble confraternity.

Multum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

BRO. "J. A. H." AND BRO. THE PRINCE RHODOCANAKIS.

As I before stated, my remarks were made to express regret at the animus exhibited by some of the writers on each side of the controversy now being waged respecting the claims of the above distinguished Mason, Bro. "J. A. H." "sees no analogy between Charles II. and Bro. (I have taken the liberty to place the prefix 'Bro.' instead of 'Mr.' adopted by Bro. 'J. A. H.,') Rhodocanakis," in the comparison I made. All I can say is, that if he does not it is no fault of mine, but his misfortune, as the statement is clearly made. "Sp." in the last number of THE FREEMASON, quite expresses my views on the question, although entirely unknown to me, and to them I beg to refer Bro. "J. A. H.," not wishing to say more on the subject.

W. J. HUGHAN.

MASONIC SOPHISTRY.

Because steam existed thousands of years ago does it therefore follow that it was used to work steam-engines thousands of years ago? Because certain doctrines, &c., were taught, and certain words existed, thousands of years ago, does it therefore follow that these doctrines and words were then applied to the purposes, or employed in the ceremonies, of Speculative Freemasonry? Certainly not.

W. P. BUCHAN.

Can any of your readers say when the Festival of St. John the Evangelist was first celebrated by Freemasons? W. G. D.

Can you inform the Craft what a "Good Templar" is, and the meaning of the word? I observe the following in The Scotsman, of the 14th inst.

AN INQUIRER.

"GOOD TEMPLARS.—On Saturday afternoon a party of Good Templars, numbering 275, from the various lodges in Edinburgh, visited Kirkcaldy. They were marshalled on the east pier of the harbour, where they were landed from the steamer Powerful, of Leith. They then marched to the Music Hall, in Linktown of Abbotshall, when Mr. Sutherland, district deputy, delivered a lecture on the principles of the Society. After the lecture a local lodge was formed."

[The "Good Templars" are a society for the promotion of total abstinence. They are very numerous in the United States.]—ED. F.

THE 1717 THEORY.

In THE FREEMASON, at page 367, some one who signs himself "Leo" interferes in the controversy between W. P. Buchan and myself respecting the 1717 theory. Of course, every one is entitled to express his opinions and bring forward his arguments on such a subject, yet, I think, in consideration of the challenge given and accepted as to the discussion of this question by Bro. W. P. Buchan and myself, it might have been well for a third party to have waited till we had concluded it, when, if he had anything new to say, he might have appeared on the field with more advantage. "Leo," however, has nothing new to say, except that he finds fault with me for doubting if Bro. W. P. Buchan can be called the "champion" of the 1717 theory, when he has not yet got the victory.

"Leo" goes on to say: "Bro. Paton also mentions the word 'proof.' Now, although he takes up the affirmative, and should therefore be prepared to lead proof, as yet he has proved himself quite unable to do so." This is a complete misstatement of the case. As to the 1717 theory, I maintain, not the affirmative, but the negative; and I therefore demand positive and sufficient proof of the truth of that theory, which, surely, its supporters are bound to produce, and which, I unhesitatingly assert, they have yet failed to produce. I may be said, indeed, to maintain the affirmative as to the greater antiquity of Freemasonry, but this is not the form which the question at present assumes. To show that Freemasonry did not originate in 1717, and was not an invention of Desaguliers, Anderson, and others, their contemporaries and coadjutors, is enough for me. I have looked back into the records and documents of the previous century, and have quoted from some of them evidence which seems to me to be perfectly conclusive that Freemasonry then existed. The theory—which some recent writers have advocated—that it was invented by Elias Ashmole and some of his friends, is supported by evidence more probable than has ever been produced in favour of the 1717 theory. I have quoted from Ashmole's diary the sentences in which he records the fact of his being made a Mason some half century or thereby before 1717. This of itself ought to be enough to settle the point, as far as the question of the origin or invention of Freemasonry in 1717 is concerned, and I know not what further proof can be desired. It does not follow that Ashmole was the inventor, or one of the inventors, of Freemasonry. I think the very opposite inference may safely and certainly be drawn from his own statement of the circumstances in which he was made a Mason. I believe the system of Freemasonry has gradually sprung up and attained its present development. I am willing to ascribe something to Ashmole, something to Desaguliers and Anderson, but I believe there was something—and that of no little importance—at a much earlier date than even the middle of the seventeenth century, when Ashmole lived.

I have written as if supposing "Leo" to be a third party, who has interfered in this discussion without due cause and with very little to say. But I doubt very much if "Leo" is a third party. I would fain know if Bro. W. P. Buchan is not here supported and encouraged by himself. Is "Leo" any other person than Bro. W. P. Buchan? I can hardly imagine that any one else with so little to say would have plunged into the midst of this discussion, showing a strong feeling where he had no argument to adduce. But is it fair for a brother, in the same publication, thus to write under two signatures in the same controversy? Perhaps the nom de plume "Leo" has been adopted because the crest of the Buchans is a lion. But what is the relation of the Buchans to the Buchanans? That ancient and once great Highland clan had many subordinate branches. Perhaps the Buchans were one of them. The Yuilles were certainly one, and the Spittals another. However, without discussing the possible relation of "Leo" to the Yuilles, the Spittals, or the Buchanans, I would be glad to know "Leo's" relation to the Buchans, and to find "Leo" come forward and declare himself not to be Bro. W. P. Buchan under another name. I hope that he will do so.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

DUPLICATION.

The duplication of a cube is the finding the side of a cube that shall be double in solidity to a given cube, which is a famous problem cultivated by the geometers two thousand years ago. It was first proposed by the oracle of Apollo at Delphos; which being consulted about the manner of stopping the plague then raging at Athens, returned for answer that the plague should cease when Apollo's side, which was cubical, should be doubled. Upon this they applied themselves in good earnest to seek the duplication of the cube, which was afterwards called the Delian problem. The problem is only to be solved by finding two mean proportionals between the side of the cube, and double that side; the first whereof will be the side of the cube double, as was observed by Hippocrates Chrus. Leaving the consideration of the various methods which have been employed to accomplish the solution of this very important problem, it remains for me to add, that the solution of the cube's duplication constitutes the apex of the Temple; and renders a parallelepipedon, containing 16 linear units, equal to 15 linear units; thus bringing the number 16, or משיח Messiah; the great name Jah, comprising the first two letters of the Tetragrammaton, or ineffable name of Deity יהוה.—Tyler.

THE RHODOCANAKIS CONTROVERSY.

We have received so many letters on this subject that we find it impossible to give insertion to further communications, unless they are very brief and to the point.

"A Barrister" writes to say that he gave no opinion as to the particular claims of Prince Rhodocanakis, but laid down a thesis upon which arguments, pro and con, might be founded. Further inquiry, however, he states, leads him to the belief that the direct male line of the Comneni is now extinct, and that Oriental custom and law are alike opposed to the authenticity of collateral succession through female descendants of the family. "A Barrister" agrees with Bro. Julius A. Pearson, that, in any case, the title of "Imperial Highness" does not appertain to the alleged claimant; and in order to prove that the term "scandalous libel," which he applied to one of "Philalethes'" letters, was justified by its tone, he requests us (the editor) to send a printed copy of the letter to Bro. Pearson, who, as a man of honour, he believes, will agree that the definition was deserved.

"S. J. T." deprecates the discussion of the subject at all in our columns, and says: "Masons should view the assumption of a royal title by Prince Rhodocanakis as the navy regarded the thrashing he received from his wife, viz., 'It pleases him, and doesn't hurt us.'"

"A Manchester Brother" says our correspondent "Incredulous" must be one not used to respectable company, as the "Sultan" Divan at Manchester is the resort of low "anonymas" and fast characters.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of the Girls' School met on Thursday, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present, Bros. Geo. Cox, (in the chair,) John Udall, Thos. W. White, J. A. Rucker, Joshua Nunn, J. R. Sheen, H. Massey, and E. H. Patten, Secretary.

Bro. PATTEN read the minutes of the General Committee of the 28th ult., and of the House Committee of the 18th inst.

Bro. UDALL moved, Bro. NUNN seconded, and it was carried unanimously, that £10 be given to a late pupil named Armstrong, who has been stricken with blindness since she left the school.

Bro. UDALL moved, Bro. SHEEN seconded, and it was carried nem. con., that £10 be given to Elizabeth Gear, who left the institution last Christmas in robust health, but is now dying of consumption.

After the disposal of some other business, the committee separated.

MARK MASONRY.

On Wednesday, the 1st instant, a meeting of the Freeman Lodge, No. 105, was held at the Fox Hotel, Stowmarket, Suffolk, when the were present: Bros. Frederick Long, P.P.G.D. of Suffolk, W.M.; C. S. Golding, S.W. and Sec.; Spencer Freeman, Treas., J.W.; Sheridan, Sutton, V.W. Rev. R. N. Sanderson, 30', P.M.M., Grand Chaplain Grand Lodge of Mark Masons; Emra Holmes, 31', Reg. of Marks Albert Victor Lodge, Acting J.W.; Westgate, S.W. Albert Victor Lodge, Acting S.W.; Oliver, Acting S.O.; Woods, Acting J.O.; G. Cresswell, Acting I.G.; Spalding, Acting Tyler. The lodge having been opened in ancient form, the W.M. took the ballot for Bros. J. Davies, J.D. Phoenix Lodge, No. 516; D. T. R. Pearson, I.G. Phoenix Lodge, No. 516; C. Davy, P.P.S.G.D. Herts, P.M. St. Luke's Lodge, No. 225; Philip Cornell, S.W. British Union Lodge, No. 114; C. S. Pedgrift, P.P. G. Reg. Suffolk; and E. Bridges, Phoenix Lodge, No. 516. The result being favourable, and the whole of the brethren being within hail, except Bros. Davis and Pearson, they were severally introduced, obligated, and advanced to the honourable degree of Mark Master, the interesting ceremony being performed (with the skill for which he is famous) by the V.W. Bro. Sanderson. The ballot was also taken for Bro. A. J. Barber, P.G. Org. of Suffolk and W.M. British Union Lodge, who was unanimously elected a joining member. The ordinary business of the lodge having been completed, it was closed in solemn form, and the brethren retired to an elegant banquet. After the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and a very harmonious evening was brought to a close at a late hour.

TEMPLAR COMMANDERIES.—ERRORS IN PRECEDENCE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I must apologise to your readers for intruding upon your space with a complaint as to errors in precedence, which may possibly interest no one but the writer.

In themselves, matters of precedence are simply contemptible, but they occasionally involve, as in this instance, questions of justice and history which render such a complaint as that which I am now making respectable.

Your esteemed correspondent, Bro. W. J. Hughan, called attention some time ago to the fact that No. 5 had been given to the "Premier Encampment of Lancashire," whilst in reality it seemed to be the oldest of the "numbered" encampments, having been constituted in 1786, and ranking therefore, at least, as No. 1. The history of this, the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester, has been gratuitously placed within the reach of every member of the Order, and it is therefore somewhat ungracious of the Executive in London to plead ignorance of its history and status. Yet such is the case in a recent correspondence with the Grand Chancery on this subject. The courteous and prompt Grand Vice-Chancellor, Sir Knt. Tinkler, has kindly promised that the case of the Jerusalem shall be looked into and put right; but I have other matters of apparent favouritism with which he cannot be expected to interfere.

I must premise, for the information of your readers, that the first London Grand Conclave was instituted by Bro. Thomas Dunckerley in 1790 or 1791, and that he had been received in the Baldwin Camp, Bristol (of seven degrees). Turning, therefore, to his official list of 1794 (published by Bro. Hughan, page 313 of your journal), we find four "time-immemorial" chapters as existing before his Constitution of 1790. These were:

1 or A. Observance, of seven degrees...	London.
2 or B. Redemption	York.
3 or C. Eminent, of seven degrees ...	Bristol.
4 or D. Antiquity... ..	Bath.

But taking the official list of precedence for 1870 to 1871, we find the old arrangement altogether reversed, several new chapters turned "time-immemorial," and the Antiquity of Bath degraded to 1791; the list standing as follows:

A. Abbey Chapter... ..	Nottingham.
B. Redemption	Hull.
C. Baldwin	Bristol.
D. Mount Calvary (1842)	London.
E. Observance	do.
F. Union, or Rougement	Exeter.

Therefore "A" has usurped the position of the Observance, London, and "D" of the Antiquity, Bath (termed only No. 1), whilst, so far as evidence goes, the following are sailing under false colours, and have no right to anything but such a number as the date of their warrant will give them, pending their production of evidence. The precedence assigned to these is unfair to other chapters, and ought to be discountenanced by every member of the Order. They are:

Abbey	Nottingham, called A.
Mount Calvary (warranted 1842) ...	London, " D.
Union or Rougement	Exeter, " F.

From what I have said it would seem that Grand Conclave knows so little of the history of its dependent chapters that none of the numbers given can be relied upon, else justice would be met by lettering the Antiquity, Bath, and giving No. 1 to the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester. But that strict justice may be meted to all on the principle of lettering the encampments in existence before the establishment of Grand Conclave, in accordance with the dates of their constitution, as proveable by the before-named documents, and numbering all that cannot give proof of existence before 1791.

Fraternally yours,

JOHN YARKER.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am somewhat surprised at reading Bro. Hughan's statement in No. 76 respecting the "fees" in Scotland. It is the first instance he has met with of candidates paying £8 2s. 6d. for the three degrees.

In my mother lodge the fees are £9—£4 for the first, £2 on being passed, and £3 on being raised. Annual subscription, 15s. There are no refreshments, &c., so that there are quite sufficient funds in hand to gratify the benevolent impulses of the lodge.

I would ask my English brethren is it right, or is it Masonic, to parade their charity to poor Scotch Masons? At any rate, raising the fees will not raise the condition of Masons.

A MEMBER OF THE ROYAL ALFRED,
No. 420, Simon's Town, South Africa.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR,—I was in a lodge last week, and in working the first degree only one candle was lighted, in the second two, and in the third three candles were lighted after the candidate was raised. In my lodge we light all candles, with the exception I have above stated. I am sorry to trouble you, but would feel obliged if you will answer this in THE FREEMASON, if convenient, on Saturday next. Some of our brethren are divided in their opinion as to which is the correct mode.

Yours truly,

JAMES J. ARMSTRONG,

FOREIGN TITLES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Apropos of foreign titles, I extract the following from "Captain Dangerous," by G. A. Sala:—"When Porrier, the French adventurer, asked King Augustus, the King, to make him a count, 'What?' said his Majesty of Lunerville and Warsaw; 'that I cannot do,' quoth he, 'but there is nothing under the sun to prevent thee from calling thyself a count, if it so please thee.' And Count Porrier by self-creation he straightway became."

Yours fraternally,

RICHARD DE FYDELSTYKE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—"J. A. H." still requires correction. "Major Palæologus" is a misnomer, the officer in question being a Surgeon-Major—a title as distinct from the former as Sergeant-at-law is from a non-commissioned officer. But Mr. Palæologus's claims have been exhaustively ventilated already in Notes and Queries (vide, Nos. for Oct. 28, 1854, p. 351; Nov. 18, 1854, p. 409; July 13, 1867, p. 30; July 20, 1867, p. 54; Jan. 9, 1869, p. 43; &c.)

Surgeon-Major Palæologus, on the dethronement of King Otho, preferred his claim to the National Assembly of Greece, but it was totally ignored.

The name Palæologus in Greece is as common as Stuart in Scotland, and does not imply of necessity royal descent.

These errors arise from an imperfect knowledge of such subjects. It is well nigh impossible to enter the lists creditably in such questions without a long preparation, for the points at issue invariably involve complicated evidence both of law and genealogy, and are only to be mastered by a long and intimate acquaintance with the specialities of history.

I merely desire, in the cause of historical accuracy, to render "J. A. H." assistance, and therefore hope that he will bear in mind that an use of the parental rod is no reproach against the affection of the father.

SP.

P.S.—"J. A. H." would attain his object much better by leaving the debate in the hands of so able and discriminating a controversialist as Bro. Hughan, whose cool judgment and experience enable him to weigh with accuracy conflicting opinions, and to show the acumen of the bar with the geniality of a fraternal umpire.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—While sincerely regretting that your pages should be taken up with a subject of so uncongenial a nature as an enquiry into the merits and demerits of the pedigree of one who is not only a gentleman but a distinguished brother, I must express my surprise at the evident animus which must exist on the part of, at least, one of the controversialists—I allude to the gentleman signing himself "J. A. H." The initials are identical with the signature of a writer in your contemporary, the author of "Chips from Foreign Ashlar," a gentleman with whom I have the pleasure of a slight acquaintance, and whom I have always met with a considerable amount of pleasure; but I am perfectly certain, from what I know of the "J. A. H." I speak of, he could not be guilty of such gross personalities and such petty spite as that which for some time has been credited to his pseudonym.

I therefore trust, to prevent error on the part of anyone, my "J. A. H." will at once disown the lucubrations with which the impostor for some time has been disgusting us. By the way, "J. A. H."'s last letter is as ludicrous in its way as the story of the "Three Tailors of Tooley-street." Just imagine Messrs. "J. A. H." and "G. B. A." having been appointed a deputation (by whom?) to visit the Consulate General of Greece, for the purpose of inquiring into the pretension of the so-called "Prince Rhodocanakis." These amateur detectives, of a self-constituted Herald's College, were informed that no titles of nobility exist in Greece.

Why, gracious goodness! the heir presumptive to the throne of Greece is called the Duke of Sparta; and although I know very little of that country, I have a distinct recollection, when King Otho fled from Athens, the names of a dozen noblemen were mentioned as candidates for the vacant throne, and, if my memory does not play me false, the name of this very Prince Rhodocanakis, or his father, was included in the list.

I am not in a position to judge of the claims of the Prince, whom I have had the pleasure of meeting in Masonic society, but I have no hesitation in saying that were a modest and gentlemanly bearing and demeanour a qualification for high rank, I should at once certify him to be a king.

Let "J. A. H." and "G. B. A." come from behind the shadowy veil of anonymous detraction, and if they have any charge to make against "Mons." or "Prince" Rhodocanakis, let us judge from their social calibre how much we can depend on in their at present vague but unpleasant hints. I have chosen to sign this letter by a nom de plume, as I do not attack an individual. When I have occasion to do this, I do not fight behind a mask.

I have the honour to be, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

ZANONI.

The Douglas Hotel, Edinburgh, August 20, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The clever letters of "J. A. H." I hope may be continued, as all persons of any research must perceive how completely he demolishes Sp.'s arguments, for every Herald in the kingdom, and all heraldic F.S.A.'s, are clearly agreed with him in upholding Sir B. Burke's Peerage as the only standard authority of the day.

Yours,

X. F. S. A.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It is a curious fact in the history of science, that the follies of alchemists have led to some of the most useful inventions; and this reflection leads me to point out how useful have been the accumulated errors and misconceptions of your correspondent "J. A. H." in affording others a means of eliminating the truth from a mass of ignorance which might otherwise not have been suspected to exist, but must at the same time accord a certain amount of praise to the self-offered scapegoat. We might reasonably attribute such fantastic mischievousness to some feelings of a personal nature such as Shakespeare puts in the mouth of an outlaw, who excuses his moral obliquity by the observation: "I am one whom Fortune hath cruelly scratched," but by far the most probable inference is that "J. A. H." is more unselfish and public-spirited than equal to his task.

Turning over the Times of August 11th, 1870, I found it stated that Sir Edward Thornton, her Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to America, is the son of the late Right Honourable Sir Edward Thornton, G.C.B., upon whom the title of Count of Cassilhas, in the kingdom of Portugal, had been conferred by their King, John VI. Not finding the name in the infallible book by Sir Bernard Burke, I was led to carry the enquiry further, and turning over the official list of Naturalised Aliens, by Return of the House of Commons dated 11th June 1868, I find many others in the same unfortunate plight, whose names I append for the information of your correspondent. They are—

ALBANI, Rinaldo Carlo Luigi Ferdinando di
Lara, Count D'	Italy.
ARRIVABENE, Count Carlo	Austria.
AUGUSTENBURG, Prince Christian ...	Germany.
BOTHMER, Hyppolyt Victor Alexander,
Count Von	Bavaria.
GUICCIARDINI, Count Piero	Florence.
HOLSTEIN-SLESWIG, Prince Christian ...	Germany.
LEININGEN, Prince Earnest Leopold Victor
Charles Augustus Enrich	Scio.
RHODOCANAKIS, Prince Démétrius ...	Scio.
SZEK, Alexander, Count Teleki de ...	Transylvania.

With such companions as these in exclusion from the Valhalla set up by "J. A. H.," Prince Rhodocanakis need not be unhappy because the Quixotic "J. A. H." is in arms.

Yours fraternally,

PHILAETHES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—Having watched with considerable interest the controversy respecting "His Imperial Highness Prince Rhodocanakis," claim to that distinctive title, will you permit me to suggest that some substantial proof should be adduced to verify his adoption of the same, and as so much space has been given to the question in your columns, it is there, also, that the question should be settled by being thoroughly sifted. As the matter at present stands, the Prince (?) appears to be receiving more notoriety at your hands than he is ever likely to receive from the future historians of Greece.

Mr. W. J. Hughan writes an unbiased letter without much point in it, from which the only deduction that can fairly be drawn favours the assumption by the Prince of a title yet to be proved by tracing a pedigree through four turbulent centuries, because Charles II. was entitled to be called King during the time he was deprived of his kingdom. I can see no analogy between the two cases—the one was born to be a king, and actually died a king, but the other never will, so far as human foresight can see, fill the Hellenic throne.

"Philaethes" says, in his published letter, that Prince Rhodocanakis is "altogether unknown on the Manchester Exchange"—a fact that does not much assist his view of the case. Let "Philaethes" inquire amongst the Greek merchants of Manchester who Prince (?) Rhodocanakis is, and he will be amused at the incredulous shrug (so peculiar to your pure Greek's shoulders) with which he will be received. He will find that this self-constituted Prince is, so far as his title is concerned, entirely ignored.

Now, I submit that, if his claims and pretensions were based upon even a shadow of foundation, the Greek community here, or at all events some portion thereof, would be proud to consider they had in their midst one who could be justly styled His Imperial Highness. It is a pity the Prince (?) used a title so evidently denied him in his intercourse with the world, for the purpose of taking higher honours in the Craft.

Julius A. Pearson, and your other correspondents who attack Sir Bernard Burke on the ground of his being easily deceived, forget that this argument cuts two ways. If Sir Bernard is easily gullible, then Prince Rhodocanakis must have a very bad case, indeed, if he dare not submit his claims to Ulster.

Let us have the proofs—the proofs, and nothing but the proofs. I enclose my card, and have the honour to be,

Yours faithfully,
VERITAS.

Manchester, August 16th, 1870.

ANTIQUITY OF FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I now beg to append my answer to Bro. Paton's letter which appeared at pages 345 and 346 of your issue for July 16th. I sent it to the Star on Saturday, but the editor tells me that it cannot appear in his columns for some time, on account of the pressure on his space of the war news, and the length of my letter. As the Star has only two leaves, I must therefore wait its convenience; but as that need not keep back the settlement of the controversy in your columns, where it first originated, I respectfully trust that you will, by publishing the following, allow the same to be proceeded with.

ANTIQUITY OF FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of the Star.)

Sir,—In your issue of June 3rd appears a second letter from Bro. Chalmers I. Paton, upon this subject, and which I ought to have replied to sooner; but as the whole correspondence which appeared in your columns was to be re-published by THE FREEMASON, a London Masonic paper, I judged it better to wait until that had been done, which it now is, ere I replied upon the whole matter in my second letter, which I now proceed to give:—

At the outset of Bro. Paton's letter it says "Bro. W. P. Buchan says my letter is full of mistakes, but he does not even condescend to point out these mistakes." Now, I thought such had been done, to some extent at least, but that there may be no quibbling this time, I shall give a list of a number of Bro. Paton's mistaken notions.

1. That the Speculative Freemasonry now in existence is the same as the Operative Freemasonry of several centuries ago.
2. That the old Operative Free-masons, who built houses, churches, &c., of stone and lime, both knew and practised our system of Freemasonry.
3. That our "Freemasonry" existed before last century.
4. That he can prove that our "three degrees" existed before A.D. 1717.
5. That the 17th century St. Clairs of Roslyn were "Grand Masters."
6. That the dates of what are known as the Roslyn Charters are, the first, in or after 1603, and the second, 1630.
7. That the words "Craft and vocation" in said Charters do not simply mean their trade, but have something mysterious in them.
8. That Kings Charles II. and William III. were initiated into our system of Speculative Masonry.
9. That because the words "free-mason" and "freemasonry" existed in 1570, therefore it follows that if these words are used in 1870 the things signified by these words are in both cases the same.
10. That the pretended Henry VI. document is genuine.
11. That Elias Ashmole knew aught of, assisted at instituting, or practised our system of Freemasonry.
12. That the article in Chambers' Encyclopedia on Freemasonry is up to the mark of A.D. 1870.
13. That it is impossible for Freemasonry, or Speculative Masonry, to have spread as it has done since 1717.
14. That the Canongate Kilwinning Lodge, consisting of noblemen and gentlemen, existed and practised our Speculative Masonry in and before 1717.

15. That Speculative Freemasonry existed in Scotland in 1136.

16. That the masons, or stone-workers, as craftsmen, were something far above the smiths, or other metal-workers, wrights, weavers, &c., &c. The work of all the latter being quite common-place, while that of the former had something awfully mysterious and wonderfully incomprehensible about it!

17. That because Speculative Freemasonry existed in the 18th century, it was quite impossible for said 18th century to produce it. (Ergo, it follows that because our railway and telegraphic systems exist in the 19th century A.D., it was quite impossible for the 19th century to produce them. They must have "originated" with those wonderful geniuses who existed in the 19th century B.C., who, of course, knew everything. Truly, distance lends enchantment to the view.)

18. That he is able to "explode" the 1717 theory.

As to Nos. 1 and 2, of these I need only observe that Operative Masonry has existed for ages, and is older than the pyramids. Operative Masons require to learn their trade, but they do not necessarily require to know anything of Speculative Masonry, especially the Speculative Masonry which is now known as "Freemasonry." Take, for instance, the Operative Masons working at the new University on Gilmourhill, it is quite possible there is not a single Freemason among them all, yet they will do their work equally well notwithstanding. Further, while I admit that Operative Masonry is older than the pyramids, I consider that operative carpentry is older than both; the carpenter preceded the mason, and the work in wood served as a model, so far, for the work in stone.

As to the 3rd item, I shall believe it after I have seen proof.

On the 4th, notwithstanding Bro. Paton's vaunted ability in his first letter to prove that our "three degrees" existed before 1717, he forgot to give us any proof whatever of such having been the case. He alludes to Elias Ashmole being admitted a "fellow" of the Masons' Society in the 17th century; but as he might also have been admitted a "fellow," or honorary member, of the Carpenters' Society, such "fellowship" does not prove that he was made a Master Mason such as we now are, but rather the opposite. However, there is no use in speculating upon this point, there are the minute books of the Edinburgh Lodge for a hundred and sixteen years before 1717, also those of "Mother Kilwinning" and other lodges, long before 1717. Yet all these show that our system of Speculative Freemasonry was quite unknown to any of them until after 1717, when it was introduced from England. Further, on these 3rd and 4th points, allow me to give the following remarks of Bro. D. Murray Lyon, than whom I know not a better Masonic student in Scotland, viz.: "Non-operatives cannot be shown to have to any extent been admitted members of lodges before 1634, and then only they were admitted as Fellows of the Masonic Craft, just as in our day, the Prince of Wales or any other non-professional gentleman, may be received as an honorary member of the Fishmongers' Society. Such admission had something to do in paving the way for the more easy adoption of the Speculative Freemasonry that was afterwards manufactured by Desaguliers and Co. From what I have seen of Mary's Chapel records, I am convinced that this is right, and that 1721 may be pointed to as the date of the formal inauguration in Scotland of the English system of Freemasonry, as manufactured by Desaguliers, Anderson, and Co." And anent the third degree, Bro. Lyon also says, "It has hitherto been pointed to, in proof of the antiquity of the third degree, that Robert Moray, a soldier, was made a Master Mason in 1641, in the Lodge of Edinburgh, Mary's Chapel. He was not made a Master Mason, but, like some other non-operatives, had an honorary connection with that Masons' Society." Allow me, also to add a few words of my most esteemed friend, and highly-talented brother, W. J. Hughan, of Truro, whose writings have thrown a flood of light upon many points of the history of Freemasonry in England, viz., "The Crafts were provided for from the 15th century and afterwards, without any special distinction for Masons. 'Wrichtes and Maisones' were often classed together, and certainly there was nothing special in the latter, so far as may be gathered by the Acts of Parliament. We read of the Wardens and Deaknes of Crafts, but never as applied exclusively to Masonry. Why? Surely, because that as a body it contained nothing requiring different legislation to the others." And anent the third degree he says, "No proof of the third degree having been worked as a degree, apart from any other degree, and confined to members only of that degree, anterior to the 18th century has ever been given. Let those that say that such ever occurred before, produce the necessary documentary evidence. Mere tradition and legends can be produced to prove the greatest absurdities, and the most palpable lies in the creation." I have no doubt but that these remarks of Bro. Hughan will be highly appreciated by Bro. Paton, and he will also be very grateful to me for quoting them, more especially, as, at page 307 of THE FREEMASON, we lately find him—referring to some of Bro. Hughan's remarks—observing, "Bro. W. J. Hughan has, at page 283, a highly noble duty on hand, and for which every honest thinking member of the Fraternity should accord him their best wishes. I personally do so," &c.

On the 5th point, there is not the slightest evidence, either in the Roslyn Charters or elsewhere, to show that any St. Clair of Roslyn was a "Grand Master" in the 17th century. They were simply Judges or Referees of the operative masons, appointed or chosen to settle their trade disputes. A careful perusal, by any sensible man, of the two Roslyn writs will show this. There is no mention of "Grand Master" in either, nor am I aware of the word "Freemason" occurring in any of them. In short, the Lairds of Roslyn were simply "Wardanes and Justices" over the Operative Masons in the midland counties of Scotland, just as the Lairds of Udaucht were in the north-eastern. The King, in appointing Patrick Copland in 1590, writing in a business manner, and in agreement with the nomenclature of the time, styles him a "Wardane and Justice," and also gives him full "powers" to act as such, and to appoint "deputtis." Bro. Paton seeing the word "Wardane" mentioned, immediately jumps to the conclusion that a "Wardane" in 1590, was just the same as a "Warden" in 1870; but that is a mistake. A Scottish Wardane then was a head officer, with "deputtis" under him. Copland, therefore, was not appointed by the Laird of Roslyn, but by the King. The Masons who appoint St. Clair as their Justice, go down on their knees while doing so, and in a very humble, fawning sort of style, acknowledge him as their "patron, protector, and overseer," but the thing signified by these words in 1600 and 1628, is just the same as that signified by "Wardane and Justice" in 1590. In short, the Coplands of the 16th century, held just the same position as "Overseers" of the operative masons as did the St. Clairs of the 17th, and neither were "Grand Masters," there being none such in Scotland until A.D. 1736. At page 163 of THE FREEMASON, for April 2nd, will be found one of the best English Masonic students backing up my ideas upon this subject. There is one remark of Bro. Paton's that I consider to be perfectly correct, viz., that strictly speaking, there was no Earl of Roslyn before the present century; William St. Clair, who died in or about 1480 was then an Earl, but the title belonged to his Earldom of Caithness. The first Earl of Roslyn was Alexander Wedderburn, who was made such in 1801. He was succeeded by his nephew, Sir James St. Clair-Erskine, in 1805.

On the 6th point, in proof that Bro. Paton is wrong, I observe, whereas he boldly reiterates his notion that the first Roslyn charter was granted "after his (James VI.'s) accession to the English throne," it was in reality granted before that date; for while that happened in 1603, the the Roslyn writ was granted by authority of William Schaw, "Maister of Wark," and it also bears his signature. Now, as he died in 1602, it follows that he must have signed it in or before 1602; consequently for other reasons I adhere to my date of 1600, or perhaps 1601. As we learn from Bro. W. A. Lawrie's "History of Freemasonry," this William Schaw was born in 1550, and was Maister of Wark from 1584 to 1602. For further proof that he is wrong, Bro. Paton may safely consult THE FREEMASON for July 9th, page 331. As to the second charter, which Bro. Paton imagines was granted in 1630, I hold to my former date of 1628, because that was the year in which the parties who signed it held office in their several lodges. It appears to me that Bro. Paton has been misled by the remarks on this subject at pages 102 and 103 of Alex. Lawrie's "History of Freemasonry," published in 1804. It is there stated to be "dated 1630," but if Bro. Paton will turn to page 52 of the new edition published in 1859 by Wm. A. Lawrie, he will find this footnote:—"This date (1630) has been generally given, and is that which appears in the copy of the charter in Hay's MSS. in the Advocates' Library; but on reference to the books of the Lodge of Edinburgh at that period, it would appear to have been executed between 1626 and 1628, these being the years during which William Wallace, who subscribes the charter as Deacon of the Edinburgh Masons, acted in that capacity." From the foregoing I expect your readers will admit the justice of my former remark in your issue of May 12th, viz., "Bro. Paton, who is so good at re-telling dreams and exploded notions," for instead of giving us the "latest news" he is doing his best to perpetuate the mistakes of sixty-six years ago! Poor fellow! he seems to have been asleep for the last half-century, for here he comes with his old-fashioned muzzle-loader, expecting, as he tells us, to explode the 1717 theory, which, however, happens to be defended by all the "newest appliances." So if Mr. Martini-Henry, or Mr. Snider, is as good as his word, our old friend Mr. Musket may turn to the right-about as long as he has legs left to carry him.

DARKNESS.—The darkness of Masonry is invested with a pure and dignified reference, because it is attached to a system of truth. It places before the mind a series of the most awful and impressive images. It points to the darkness of death and the obscurity of the grave, as the forerunners of a more brilliant and never-fading light which follows at the resurrection of the just. Figure to yourselves the beauty and strict propriety of this reference, ye who have been raised to the third degree of Masonry. Were your minds enveloped in the shades of that darkness? So shall you again be involved in the darkness of the grave, when Death has drawn his sable curtain round you. Did you rise to a splendid scene of intellectual brightness? So, if you are obedient to the precepts of Masonry and the dictates of religion, shall you rejoice on the resurrection morn, when the clouds of error and imperfection are separated from your mind, and you behold with unveiled eyes the glories which issue from the expanse of heaven, the everlasting splendours of the throne of God!

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c., &c., on Mayar's Semolina: "I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London."—Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar's Semolina.

THE ST. CLAIR CHARTERS.

By Bro. D. MURRAY LYON, Hon. Corresponding Member of the Union of German Freemasons, and of the Rosicrucian Society of England; Hon. Fellow of the London Literary Union; one of the Grand Stewards in the Grand Lodge of Scotland; P.M. Lodge Scarborough, Tobago, West Indies; author of the "History of Mother Kilwinning," &c.

We have deferred replying to Bro. Chalmers I. Paton's queries until we should be able to send copies of the transcripts, which, in the course of our preparation of the "History of the Lodge of Edinburgh" (Mary's Chapel), we had made from the originals of the St. Clair Charters. These MSS. were several years ago accidentally discovered by David Laing, Esq., of the Signet Library, who gave them to the late Bro. Aytoun, Professor of Belles-lettres in the University of Edinburgh, in exchange for some antique documents he had. The Professor presented them to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, in whose repositories they now are. There can be no doubt of their identity as originals. We have compared several of the signatures with autographs in other MSS. of the time. The charters are in scrolls of paper—the one 15 by 11½ inches, the other 26 by 11½ inches—and for their better preservation have been affixed to cloth. The caligraphy is beautiful, and though the edges of the paper have been frayed and holes worn in one or two places where the sheets had been folded, there is no difficulty in supplying the few words that have been obliterated and making out the whole of the text. About three inches in depth at the bottom of No. 1 in the right hand corner is entirely wanting, which may have contained some signatures in addition to those given. The left hand bottom corner of No. 2 has been similarly torn away, and the same remark with regard to signatures may apply to it. The first document is a Letter of Jurisdiction granted by the Freeman Masons of Scotland to William St. Clair of Roslin (probable date 1600-1); the second purports to have been granted by the Freeman Masons and Hammermen of Scotland to Sir William St. Clair of Roslin (probable date May 1, 1628). They are as follows:—

PRESENTATION TO BRO. WORLEY,
ROYAL ALBERT LODGE, No. 907.

On the evening of the 16th inst., several of the brethren of this lodge assembled at Bro. Chard's, Abchurch-lane, City, for the purpose of taking leave of Bro. Alfred G. T. Worley, J.W. and Sec., on his departure for California. In the absence of Bro. the Rev. J. M. Vaughan, W.M., who is on the Continent, Bro. — J. Lewis, I.P.M., occupied the chair, and after a short address, he presented to Bro. Worley, in the name of the lodge, the following address which had been engrossed and illuminated on vellum, together with a silver snuff-box of chaste manufacture and design:—"Royal Albert Lodge, No. 907. To Bro. A. G. T. Worley, J.W. and Sec. We, the undersigned Master, Past Masters, Officers and Brethren of the Royal Albert Lodge, No. 907, request your acceptance of the accompanying snuff-box, which we present to you in recognition of the services rendered by you to the lodge, and in bidding you farewell on your resigning your membership previous to leaving England. We trust that success may attend on you in your future career, and we heartily recommend you to our Masonic brethren in the land of your adoption. Dated, this 16th day of August, 1870." Here follow the signatures, headed by that of the W.M. Bro. Worley having made a short response, the brethren sat down to an admirable repast, after which the health and future success of Bro. Worley were drank in bumpers of champagne.

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or, in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, supplies the extra nutrition to the blood and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested and the ailment disappear—man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army; and Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also for Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment, each in boxes 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution: Get the red and blue wrappers, with the old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—[Advt.]

MAP OF THE SEAT OF WAR.—Purchasers of the Glenfield Starch can be supplied with an authentic map of the seat of war, by applying to their grocers, who, if not supplied, should apply to the manufacturers.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Extraordinary Merit.—The wonderful cures effected by these Pills have alone enabled them to withstand the keenest opposition for more than a third of a century. They are valued at the humblest hearths, as well as in the houses of comfort and wealth. Holloway's Pills work a thorough purification of the whole system without disordering, weakening, or otherwise interfering with the action of any organ. They are admitted to be the best restorers of appetite, strength, and perfect health to the most delicate constitution. They give colour and freshness to the face, and by their gentle alterative properties eradicate from the system the germs of consumption, scrofula, and scurvy without annoyance or danger to the most fragile female or most weakly child.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. * * * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Adv't.]

Welsh Lead Mines.

MESSRS. BARTLETT and CHAPMAN have been at great pains and considerable expense, as may be seen in their "British Mines and Mining," to obtain an accurate knowledge of many of the new undertakings in Wales, partly by personal inspection and partly by the inspection of competent and reliable agents: and they will cheerfully give to any who may consult them the benefit of their knowledge and experience. The INVESTMENT CIRCULAR for AUGUST comprises a mass of information useful to Investors.

131 TO 139, NEWINGTON BUTTS. FACTORIES: CRAMPTON STREET AND FREDERICK PLACE.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA, Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa, or Chocolate Powder, guaranteed to contain nothing but Pure Soluble Cocoa of the Finest Quality.

COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility. The Faculty pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar, the excess of fatty matter, or any admixture, and, although apparently dearer, is in reality cheaper than ordinary Cocoas and Chocolates (being ALL Cocoa). A small teaspoonful is sufficient for a cup of delicious Cocoa, and two more for a rich cup of Chocolate. Whether taken as Cocoa or Chocolate it requires NO COOKING, but is made instantaneously by pouring boiling water or milk on the Powder. COCOATINA FLAVOURED WITH VANILLA is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates, and much cheaper.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers and Italian Warehousemen, etc., in Air-tight Tin Canisters, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d. and 20s.

FIRST APPLICATION.

Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

THE Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers are earnestly solicited on behalf of—

ROBERT GURTON,

Born 8th April, 1863. His Father, the late Bro. JOHN GURTON, was a Wholesale Wine-merchant in Northumberland-street, Strand, and died October 23rd, 1867, after a short and severe illness, at the age of 44, caused by distress of mind through failure in business, leaving a widow and four children totally unprovided for. The widow died very suddenly in the following January.

The late Bro. John Gurton, was initiated in Lodge No. 172 on the 6th of April, 1852, paid Four and a Half years. Joined No. 180, 10th of October, 1854, paid 13 years. Founded the Lodge No. 946, was first W.M. 8th April, 1863, and paid until the time of his death. Joined the Grand Stewards' Lodge, was W.M. during 1866, and paid 4½ years. Joined No. 23, 15th December, 1868, and paid 4½ years. Bro. Gurton also founded, and was first M.E.Z. of, Chapters Nos. 180 and 946. He was a Vice-President of the Boys', and a Life Governor of the Girls', Schools, and the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons.

The eldest son is in a situation, the second and third sons are in the Licensed Victuallers' School, and the Candidate is being supported by a Brother Mason, who is entirely unconnected with the family.

The case is well known and strongly recommended by The R.W. Bro. Col. FRANCIS BURDETT, Prov. G.M. of Middlesex, and the following Brethren:

Br. Boyd, P.M. 145	Br. Sedgewick, T. W., P.M. 180

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

24 PRIZE MEDALS

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA. Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

A pint bottle sent by rail (carriage paid) for 36 stamps.—May be ordered through any Chemist

FINE HEAD OF HAIR, WHISKERS, MOUSTACHES, and EYE-BROWS.—A retired Apothecary, from Wales, will send his noted FORMULA for 13 stamps and stamped envelope to produce Hair on the Head. Whiskers and Moustache, on the Face in three weeks.—MR. EVAN EVANS, M.D. C.M., Dorking, Surrey.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place for all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords a admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of a the interior arrangements.

FREEMASONRY IN ENGLAND.

By THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

THE SCHISM.

There can be little doubt that to certain jealousies which unfortunately arose among the brethren who formed the Grand Lodge of England in 1717, may be attributed, in a great measure, the subsequent secession from its ranks.

The superior abilities of Dr. Desaguliers, both in a literary and administrative sense, were viewed with some suspicion by many of his colleagues, and a strong proof of their sentiments towards him was evinced at the Grand Lodge which was held on the 24th June, 1723.

At this meeting the Earl of Dalkeith, having been elected Grand Master, nominated Desaguliers as his Deputy; but some of the brethren objecting to the appointment, it was put to the vote, when 43 members supported the selection, and 42 voted against it—a sufficient indication that even at that early period there was a strong party in Grand Lodge opposed to the learned Frenchman. It is also evident that the opposition party was mainly composed of Operative Masons, who regarded with distrust and uneasiness the transformation of the ancient handicraft society into an association for the cultivation of speculative science. Examples of this distrust had been shown previously when the members of the old Lodge of St. Paul's burnt their manuscript Constitutions and Charges to prevent their being published by Grand Master Payne.

The "domatic" or working Masons resolved, therefore, to make a stand against Desaguliers, whose influence was rapidly becoming supreme by the influx into the Order of men of birth and education who shared his expansive ideas of establishing an universal brotherhood upon the basis of Operative Masonry. A simple benefit society would have better suited the views of the discontented craftsmen than the splendid edifice of Cosmopolitan Fraternity which Desaguliers strove to erect; and so we find that, upon the failure of their attempts to deprive him of power and position, some few of the malcontents withdrew from the Grand Lodge, and continued their meetings as Masons without recognising the central authority which they had themselves assisted to create. It is also evident that these irregular assemblies were held at a much earlier period than is generally known, inasmuch as at a meeting of the Grand Lodge on the 15th September, 1730, Bro. Anthony Sayer, Past Grand Master, was publicly admonished—and it was even a question whether he should not be expelled—for taking part in the proceedings of one of these clandestine lodges. At the same Quarterly Communication, it is worthy of note that a petition for relief was presented by a Bro. Pritchard, who had been thirty years a Freemason. This incident appears to afford positive proof that, in 1700, men were made Masons, and it is to be inferred that their reception took place with very little variation from the ceremonies which prevailed in 1730, and up to a later period. The irregular lodges met with scanty success for some years, and it was not until one of their members hit upon the notable scheme of inventing the Royal Arch degree that their progress began to excite the curiosity of the public, and the jealous watchfulness of the Grand Lodge itself. The precise origin of this degree is a verata questio, and has never been satisfactorily traced.

It is clear, however, that the innovations in the ancient system which were countenanced by the Grand Lodge, and more especially the ill-advised transposition of certain words in the first and second degrees, first caused the seceders to declare that they alone were the depositaries of true Masonry, and encouraged them to multiply the variations which had thus arisen between the two rituals by amplifying and extending their own rites. The Royal Arch degree, when first introduced, differed essentially from the imposing ceremonial practised under the same name at the present day. It was founded upon an antediluvian tradition, which is still preserved in one of the degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Rite; but the main feature of the legend—namely, the discovery of the Sacred Word—was effected in a somewhat similar dramatic manner.

After a careful consideration of the subject, I have arrived at the conclusion that the Royal Arch was first worked as a separate section of Freemasonry in 1738. In the first place, it was in this year that the title of "Ancient York Masons" was assumed by the seceding brethren, who were reinforced about that time by many others who were dissatisfied with the encroachments on the original system. To have advanced this opinion, however, some years ago, would have been deemed the height of presumption, as nearly all writers on the subject agreed in referring the commencement of the degree to a much more recent date. Dr. Oliver is nearest the mark, as he assigns its origin to the year 1740. The truth is that the degree was conferred before 1739, because in that year formal complaints were made against the so-called "Ancients," or schismatics, that they were giving another version of the "Master's part." The fortunate discovery by the well-known Masonic writer, Bro. Hughan, of a copy of Dr. D'Assigney's work, which was published in 1744, and which refers to the Royal Arch as an established degree, also demonstrates unmistakably that it was known as a branch of Freemasonry long before the "Ancients" arrived at the dignity of being a Grand Lodge.

MASONIC CURIOSITIES.—IV.

By WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

P.M. 131, Prov. Grand Secretary Cornwall, &c.

We have before us just now a copy of the programme issued on May 13th, 1779, for the festival on "The Anniversary Day," &c., as follows:—

N.B.—This Entertainment is not confined to Free and Accepted Masons, yet those Noblemen and Gentlemen who are such are requested to come properly clothed.

(The musical part was under the direction of Dr. Arnold.)

As a companion to the certificates we have reproduced lately we present the following as curiosities in their way, and all tending to throw some little light on the customs of the period to which they refer:—

Holy Royal Arch Chapter.

We, the three Chiefs, whose names are hereunto subscribed, do certify—That in a Chapter of the Holy Royal Arch, convened and held under the sanction and authority of the Warrant of the Worshipful Lodge, No. 267, our beloved Brothers having delivered to us their certificates, and proved themselves by due examination to be well qualified in all the three degrees of Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, were by us admitted to the Supreme Degree of Royal Arch Masons. Given under our Hands and Masonic Mark in Chapter, this — day of — in the Year of Masonry —, and in the Year of our Lord —.

Scribe.

Chiefs.

This certificate was issued by the Royal Arch Chapter, in connection with No. 267, "Old Globe Lodge," Scarborough. The first lodge held in this town was granted by the Grand Lodge of England (London), after which another was constituted by the same body, on the former lodge ceasing to work. The second lodge subsequently appears to have joined the "Ancients," was struck off from the list of "Moderns" A.D. 1799, and is No. 267 on the roll in "Ahiman Rezon" A.D. 1807. The certificate was in all probability issued during the latter part of the eighteenth century, and the Royal Arch was worked without a separate warrant by the "Old Globe Lodge." This town is noteworthy, Masonically, from the fact that the "Grand Lodge of All England" held at York, constituted a lodge there. The history of this extinct Grand Lodge I am now writing, and it will appear in the "Masonic Annual," to be published shortly.

The next certificate was printed from the plate formerly used by the Chapter called "Volubien," held at Falmouth. The lodge was warranted under the "Moderns" A.D. 1751, and the Chapter itself was constituted many years ago. The certificate is surrounded by two columns, supporting an Arch with the Keystone laid back to admit the "Rays" from the "All-seeing eye," and rests on four steps; square pavement on which are laid the pickaxe, shovel, and crow-bar, and the altar with S.R.I., H.R.T., and H.A.B., thereon. On the altar rests the volume of the Sacred Law, opened and containing in bold type the words, "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." It was engraved by T. Harper, 207, Fleet-street, London, and is certainly a meritorious production. On each side of the certificate the Royal Arch Jewel is represented, with the following engraved thereon:—

*Si Talia Jungere Possis Sit Tibis Scire. Nil nisi clavis Deest.
Eyphekamen.
Clavis Mundi.
Invenimus.
We have found.
Cultor Dei.*

The Light shineth in Darkness, and the Darkness comprehendeth it not. In the East a place of Light where reign, Virtue, Silence and Peace.

To all the Companions of that Exalted and Supreme Degree of Masons, styled THE ROYAL ARCH, Health, Peace and Goodwill.

Be it known and well certified to all and every truly worthy Companion of this Supreme Degree of Masonry, that our Loving Brother ———, aged ——— years, has honourably passed the Chair of our Lodge of Love and Honour, No. ———, and likewise been exalted to the Supreme Degree of Most Excellent Royal Arch Mason, in our Volubizen Chapter of Virtue, Silence, and Peace, No. ———, held at Falmouth, in the County of Cornwall, under the sanction and patronage of the Supreme Grand and Royal Chapter of England.

We therefore, the Most Excellent Grand Principals, &c., particularly recommend him to the notice of all worthy Companions, wherever these presents may come.

Given under our hands and the seal of our Chapter at Falmouth, this ——— day of ———, A.L. ———, A.D. ———, and the better to identify our said Brother and Companion, he hath subscribed his name in the margin.

THE MARK DEGREE.

BY A SCOTTISH MARK MASTER.

The position of the Mark Degree in this country seems to demand a few words, and more especially at the moment at which we write, when the S.G.R.A. Chapter of Scotland has established under her authority a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge in Lancashire.

One of the lodges in the Province of Lancashire (the St. John's, No. 2, S.C.) received their warrant from the Supreme Chapter of Scotland before the formation of the Grand Mark Lodge of England, and is undoubtedly the oldest warranted Mark Lodge in the kingdom—perhaps in the world. Be this as it may, the circumstances of the establishment of the G.M. Lodge are too fresh in the recollections of most of our readers to need recapitulation; and were this not so, a complete resumé of the whole affair has appeared within the last few months in the columns of a certain periodical. Suffice it to say that, at present, we have in England the Mark degree under three different auspices; first, the Grand Mark Lodge of England and Wales, &c.; secondly, the Mark Lodges holding of the Supreme Chapter of Scotland; and, lastly, the independent and time-immemorial lodges who are still autonomous, among whom we may mention the so-called "Grand" Mark Lodge of Ashton, the Newstead Lodge at Nottingham, and many others. Several lodges formerly with Scottish warrants have surrendered them, and have given in their allegiance to the English body, who have also under their control many of the old independent lodges. The lodges on the roll of the G.M.L. of England now number about 110, and possess upwards of 5,000 members. The actual number of Scottish lodges in this country is 9, and their subscribing members are about 500. There are perhaps about twelve independent lodges, who may probably muster 600 members, but owing to the difficulty of obtaining reliable statistics, the writer is unable to authoritatively make a positive statement.

Such is our present; what will be our future? Che lo sa. Are we to have union and peace, or disunion, anarchy, and war? The Grand Mark Master in his protest addressed to the S.G.R.A. Chapter of Scotland, states that he "can in no way recognise the warrants or certificates issued by the G.C. of Scotland" until they transfer their allegiance to the G.M.L. of England, but as all Scottish Mark Masters have been always strictly prohibited from visiting English lodges, and as English Mark Masters when joining Scottish lodges have to be regularly advanced as Master Masons, this ukase still leaves matters in statu quo. We also believe that Mark Masters of independent lodges have to be advanced in the usual way when joining either an English or Scottish Mark Lodge.

In justification of the so-called invasion of territory by Scotland, permit us to say that the Scottish Grand Chapter did not interfere with the degree in England until they had been almost forced into it by those English brethren who founded the St. Mark's Lodge, No. 1, the Thistle Lodge, &c., &c., and that they did so, not for the purpose of making a handsome income from the "duped brethren," as insinuated by THE FREEMASON of a late date, but solely for the purpose of protecting and legalising a degree which they consider an essential part of both Craft and Capitular Masonry. As a proof of this, no annual subscription is demanded from members, and the only fees paid or payable to the G.C. of Scotland are 3s. for registration and 2s. 6d. for certificate; the rule in Scotland being—once an initiate, always a member.

With regard to the jurisdiction claimed by the G.R.A. Chapter of Scotland over the Mark degree, we may state that the same claim is made by every Grand Royal Arch Chapter in the world, with the sole exception of England, whose G.C. is simply an imperium in imperio.

We think we have fairly stated the evils under which the Mark degree now suffers, and the problem is how to alleviate them, and, if possible, bind up the broken fragments. In our mind this knotty question admits of three probable solutions—which are recognition, union, and concurrent jurisdiction. The first is undoubtedly the best, and could easily be obtained by a motion being carried in Grand Lodge to the following effect: "That while this Grand Lodge fully recognises that clause of the Articles of Union, which states that pure and ancient Masonry consists of three degrees, and three only (Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, including the Holy Royal Arch), it cannot be ignorant of the existence of other bodies, whose object is the working of degrees which, although not forming part of Ancient Masonry, are connected with it collaterally, and this Grand Lodge understanding that a degree called the Mark degree is extensively worked in England under the authority of a body styling itself the Grand Mark Lodge of England, Wales, &c., do hereby acknowledge this degree as a collateral Masonic degree, but not as a part of pure and ancient Masonry, and do acknowledge the body styling itself the Grand Mark Lodge of England, Wales, &c., as the lawful head of this degree." The writer respectfully offers this idea, crude as it may be, for the consideration of the large and powerful body whom he addresses.

Should this motion be carried—and why should it not?—everything becomes easy. The Scottish warrants are null and void, our past is a tabula rasa, and our future roseate and bright.

This is our first and best proposal. Our second—union—may be arrived at by a conference between the representatives of the various bodies concerned in the matter, and would amount to a recognition of the G.M. Lodge of England as the head of the Mark degree in England by the other bodies who claim jurisdiction over that degree. A gigantic stride in this direction has been made of late by the Grand Chapters of Ireland and Canada having recognised as true and lawful Mark Masters those brethren advanced as Mark Master Masons in the lodges holding of the Grand Mark Lodge of England (see clause No. 3 of Protest of the G.M.M.). Should this recognition take place, again will the Scottish Mark warrants cease to be valid, and the G.M.L. will be the only legal jurisdiction in England, and will be on terms of amity with every other lodge or chapter governing the degree.

Our third and last proposition is, we fear, almost Utopian. It is that the Scottish G.C. should acknowledge the G.M. Lodge as a legal governing body, and permit visits to and from Mark Master Lodges of each Constitution, allowing brethren to choose their own head, and arranging that the certificates of either body should be a qualification for affiliation and admission by the other; subject, of course, to the usual ballot, &c., by the various lodges. Although this probable solution of the difficulty would not give us union, it would give us peace, and perhaps, in time, the Scottish brethren, seeing the advantages of belonging to a native jurisdiction, would come under one head. At present, although there is a most kindly feeling among the Scottish brethren towards the English Grand Body—mainly owing to the personal influence of the Grand Mark Secretary, Bro. Frederick Binckes, to whom we are personally indebted for many acts of kindness, and to whose energy and zeal we have much pleasure in thus publicly testifying—still there is a strong feeling that to the Grand Chapter of Scotland their allegiance is due, and until they see fit in some measure to release them, they are in honour and duty bound to adhere to that body.

The Grand Lodge must take the initiative, and we look to them for the solution of the difficulty.

We must personally apologise for having thus obtruded ourselves, but we write in all sincerity and earnestness, only desiring that which may most benefit a degree that we all—whether Scottish, English, or independent—agree in admiring and upholding.

LETTER from a BROTHER in ENGLAND to a BROTHER in SCOTLAND.

PROV. GRAND LODGES IN SCOTLAND.

Evil is like the poisoned fount of a river; it does not confine itself to the parent source, but, with the flow of the waters, spreads desolation and ultimate ruin through the whole length of its course. So is it with Freemasonry. Let demoralisation and lawlessness appear in a Grand Lodge, then the subordinate lodges become demoralised and lawless. This, unfortunately, is the state of Freemasonry in Scotland. The Grand Lodge has no interest in the daughter lodges, beyond what money can be obtained from them; no proper supervision is kept over them, and they are left to their own unguided and unassisted endeavours to conform to the lex scripta and the traditions of the Order. That this is altogether wrong, and altogether alien to Freemasonry, Grand Lodge admits; but she shrugs her shoulders at any mention of responsibility in the affair, and thinks that she has done sufficient when she appoints a Provincial Grand Master. This plea might be a good one if she appointed brethren who would seriously discharge the duties of the office, or if she insisted upon an annual report from each province of the working of the lodges therein. This she does not do, but leaves all to chance; and so daughter lodges, having no fear of a superior authority over them, become careless of their duties, and often fall into abeyance from the want of a little judicious oversight.

The following table will give some idea of the state of the Provincial Grand Lodges in Scotland as compared with England. England, although not anything like perfection, is still vastly in advance of almost every other Grand Lodge in Europe, and has a perfect machinery, which, doubtless, in time will prove of the requisite utility for thoroughly improving any laxity in its working:—

Provincial Grand Lodges in England and Wales, 1869.
No.	P.G. Masters appointed.	Working Order.
42	38	All.
Provincial Grand Lodges in Scotland, 1869.
No.	Working Order.	Not working.
30	8.	22

Taking the list of Provincial Grand Masters for 1869, a single glance will show why they were appointed, and also why Freemasonry is at so low an ebb in Scotland. The men appointed are not particularly renowned in the annals of their country. The six peers, with one exception, have not particularly brightened up the Lords, the M.P.'s have not electrified the Commons—as legislators, their excellence might bereckoned at ∞ , the indefinite; while the oi polloi of country gentlemen possess that amount of common sense and talent, which a wise but merciful Providence bestows upon those who have no occasion for brains to bring them in bread. In fact, the Grand Lodge of Scotland cannot particularly flatter itself upon its roll of Provincial Grand Lodges, and the Provincial Grand Masters, to show their respect for their appointments, their fidelity to the Craft, and their oaths of office, religiously desist in twenty-two cases from holding a Provincial Grand Lodge at all! What is the consequence? The Grand Lodge looks to the Provincial Grand Lodge to direct the daughter lodges in the way they should go; but the Provincial Grand Lodge being a myth, the expectations of the Grand Lodge are never realised. It is notorious that, with one or two exceptions, all the cases which come up from the country for decision by Grand Lodge originate in provinces where the Provincial Grand Master and officers are only names upon paper.

The ordinary manner of election of a Provincial Grand Master, is by appointing, upon application of one or two members of distinct lodges, a brother of some standing in his province, either on account of rank or property. Brains are always a secondary consideration by Freemasons. A son is often appointed to succeed his father. Of course it is desirable to have a brother of position and wealth, if such can be procured, at the head of the province, but these should not be the sole qualifications, and we insist that no brother should be appointed who has not displayed interest in Freemasonry, shown his capability to discharge the duties of his office, and have served some time in a subordinate lodge as a Master. The utter toadyism of Freemasons is a lie to their doctrines, and their boast that worth and worth alone is a passport to their offices and honours is a falsehood.

The provinces should be remodelled, and where there is no Provincial Grand Master, or when, by death or resignation, the office is in abeyance, the Worshipful Master of the Senior Lodge in the Province should act as Master for the time being. The Depute should always be a brother of great experience, and who should reside in the principal town of the province. The Secretary and Treasurer also should have the qualifications necessary for the Depute. All the office-bearers should be chosen from the leading office-bearers of the subordinate lodges, and everything done to draw the bonds of relationship closer between the liege lodges and the sovereign.

Each office-bearer and each lodge should contribute a trifle towards defraying the expenses of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and fines should be exigible from such brethren as fail to be present at the statutory meetings. These meetings should be held at least twice a year, while a committee of management should meet once a month for the transaction of business. The Grand Master, or his Depute, should personally visit each lodge in his province once a year, see its members at work, and fully examine into its affairs for the preceding year, and thus at once guarantee correctness in ritual and the formal business of the lodge. By this means the disgraceful state of many country lodges, which want not only proper instruction in the Craft mysteries but even the ordinary tools, would be remedied, and what must be a blot on our escutcheon removed. The Provincial Grand Master should annually see that the Secretary forward to the Grand Secretary a report of the province, and this report should be embodied in the Grand Lodge Annual Circular. By so doing, not only would a correct view be obtained of the progress of Freemasonry, but a wholesome rivalry would be introduced into the provinces.

Not the least step in the right direction would be for the Grand Lodge occasionally to visit the Provincial Grand Lodges, when its presence would bring a warmer feeling into the relationship of the daughter lodges with it. Grand Lodge isolates itself too much from the subordinate lodges, and thus forfeits not only much of their friendship and esteem, but actually money. It is notorious in some provinces, many lodges are in that humour that they would have no hesitation in joining a standard of rebellion, and sailing under an alien flag.

We have briefly pointed out the causes of much which renders Freemasonry of little account in the provinces, and the manner in which the same could be remedied. Till some such change takes place it is impossible that Scotland can at all rise in the scale of Grand Lodges, and without the assistance of the provinces she must sink. We have legislated too much for the head, and done nothing for the members. There are other places than Edinburgh, and other interests than those of Mary's Chapel and the Celtic, to be studied. These can only be attained by united action on the part of the too long-suffering provinces.

AID TO THE SICK AND WOUNDED IN WAR.

The following letter has been addressed by the Grand Mark Master Mason to the W.M. of all English Mark Lodges, enclosing a list of the materials required for the sick and wounded, as published by the National Association, 2, St. Martin's-place.

Office of the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters,
2, Red Lion-square, Holborn, W.C.

Worshipful Sir and Brother,—I am anxious that the brethren of our Order should take an active part, in their several localities, in the organisation of help for the sick and wounded in the present war. Thereby showing the value we attach to the great principles of "brotherly love and relief."

I should be obliged, therefore, if you would be so good as to call the brethren of your lodge together as soon as possible, and consult with them as to the most effectual steps to be taken.

If no committee exist in your locality for the organised collection from house to house of money and materials, the Mark Masters might at once form such a committee with the help of any friends they can enlist, both ladies and gentlemen. If such a committee exists already, they can co-operate with it. Some central place should be fixed upon at which contributions can be received, and thence forwarded to Bro. Captain Burgess, 2, St. Martin's-place, London, W.C., the Secretary to the National Association for the relief of the sick and wounded.

I enclose a list of the articles which are most needed, and I am, dear sir and brother,

Yours fraternally,
G. R. PORTAL, Grand Master.

FREEMASONRY AND THE WAR.—The following letter has been addressed to Sir Edward Borough, Bart., as representative of the Grand Orient of France, by the Grand Master of the Order:—"Rue Cadet, Paris. Freemasonry has always deplored the calamities which are the inevitable consequence of war. If her aspirations for peace are this day inopportune and useless, at least there remains for her a duty of humanity to fulfil. Incorporating, as it does, in one fraternal solicitude all the victims of the war, the Grand Orient of France takes the initiative in an international Masonic subscription, the proceeds of which will be employed in the succour of all who have been wounded, and in the aid of Freemasons serving on land and sea, as well as of their families, without distinction of race or creed. Our appeal will be responded to by all Masonic authorities. We hope and trust all lodges throughout the world—all Freemasons will, we are satisfied—associate themselves together in carrying out this work of humanity; all will hasten to bring their offerings to this good cause; and that, on this occasion, as on all others, Freemasonry will know how to fulfil her mission.—(Signed) BABAUD LARIBIERE."

THE GOOD SAMARITAN.—It may be in the recollection of many of our readers that Mr. James Gwatkin, of Newport, Monmouthshire, and a Captain Binney, were drowned the other day at Mountsbay, near Penzance, and that the bodies were picked up by E. St. John Aubyn, Esq., M.P. for Cornwall, and the crew of his barge, who were cruising near at the time. These dead bodies were taken to the nearest hotel, and there searched in Mr. St. Aubyn's presence. The cash found was taken possession of by the police authorities, and in Gwatkin's coatpocket was found a Masonic circular sent to him by Bro. William Williams, of 16, Dock-street, Newport, just before he left home, and it was from this they found who the deceased was. Mr. E. St. John Aubyn, finding that Gwatkin was a brother Freemason, and a member of the Silurian Lodge, No. 471, immediately gave orders to the hotel-keeper to give Mrs. Gwatkin everything that was necessary for her sustenance; and on that lady recovering consciousness, he, in the kindest manner imaginable, waited on her, gave her money to pay all expenses she had incurred, and would incur through the funeral, and handed her over a further amount to pay her expenses home. Thus he proved himself a worthy Freemason and a Good Samaritan; and to each and every one of our Masonic brothers—when placed in a similar position, and who have it in their power—we would say, "Go, and do thou likewise."

ANNUAL COMMUNICATION OF THE GRAND LODGE OF CANADA.

"During the year a great variety of questions have been submitted to me for opinion or decision, to all of which I gave such attention as the respective cases seemed to require; and it occurred to me, while performing this duty, that if it were possible to preserve and publish, in a condensed form, the various decisions of Grand Masters from year to year, and the action taken by Grand Lodge on subjects not embraced within the scope of the provisions of the Book of Constitution, it would form a very valuable Canadian Masonic Jurisprudence, which might be often referred to, and prove exceedingly useful alike to Grand Lodge Officers and those of subordinate lodges.

"During the past two years several District Grand Lodges of Instruction have been organised within this jurisdiction, which have been attended with most beneficial results. Two of these were held since our last annual communication—one in the district of Toronto and the other in the Ontario district. R.W. Bros. Kerr and McCabe, the D.D.G.M.'s for these districts, conducted the business with great ability, and the marked success which crowned their efforts must have been extremely gratifying to these R.W. brethren, and to all who had the good fortune to be present at those meetings. I trust that the good example set by these zealous brethren will be followed in every district throughout our jurisdiction. I regard such meetings as one of the most effective methods of imparting Masonic instruction, and under proper management they might be made conducive to the speedy accomplishment of what has long been a desideratum—entire uniformity of work.

"The reports of the various District Deputy Grand Masters, on the state of Masonry, are on the whole satisfactory. But for the unhappy differences existing in the Province of Quebec, the Craft might be said to enjoy almost undisturbed harmony.

"The lodges at present working in the Province of Quebec, under our jurisdiction, are eighteen (18) in number, viz:—

Lodge of Antiquity	...	Montreal.
Dorchester, No. 4	...	St. Johns.
Nelson, No. 8	...	Phillipsburgh.
St. George's, No. 19	...	Montreal.
Zetland, No. 21	...	"
Sheffield, No. 53	...	Waterloo.
Yamaska, No. 130	...	Granby.
Shawenegam, No. 134	...	Three Rivers.
Aylmer, No. 138	...	Aylmer.
Quebec Garrison, No. 160	...	Quebec.
Browne, No. 163	...	Adamsville.
Victoria, No. 173	...	Montreal.
St. John's, No. 175	...	Mansonville.
Royal Canadian, No. 187	...	Sweetsburgh.
Mount Royal, No. 202	...	Montreal.
Brome Lake, No. 211	...	Knowlton.
Mount Moriah, U.D.	...	Montreal.
Sutton, U.D.	...	Sutton Flats.

"In resigning into your hands the gavel, with which I was entrusted at the last annual communication of this Grand Lodge, I can truly say, that although conscious of much unworthiness, and deeply sensible of numerous imperfections, yet I have always endeavoured to discharge the duties of my position faithfully and conscientiously, whether those duties were of a pleasant or of a painful nature; and in divesting myself of the clothing appertaining to the office of Grand Master, permit me to indulge the hope that in time to come I may be ever encompassed with the mantle of your Masonic charity.

"A. A. STEVENSON, Grand Master."

(The reading of the address was frequently warmly applauded, and at its close the manifestation of approbation was loud, and long continued.)

Several distinguished visitors from the Grand Lodge of New York, including R.W. Bros. C. E. Young, G.J.D.; W. J. McCredie, P.D.D.G.M.; and John A. Lockwood, P.D.D.G.M.; and W. Bros. W. H. Dee, H. Kleim, John H. Andrews, H. B. McCullough, S. L. Watson, and J. B. King, were received with grand honours, and introduced to Grand Lodge.

W. Bro. Ramsay presented his credentials as representative of the Grand Lodge of Nebraska, near the Grand Lodge of Canada; M.W. Bro. Bernard for the Grand Lodge of New Jersey; and V.W. Bro. White for the Grand Lodge of Nevada. These brethren were respectively received with grand honours, and welcomed in their representative character, a compliment which they each briefly acknowledged.

After a number of notices had been given, Grand Lodge was called off until Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Morning Session.

M.W. Bro. Alexander A. Stevenson, Grand Master, presiding.

Grand Lodge having been called to order, it was moved by M.W. Bro. Wilson, seconded by M.W. Bro. T. D. Harington, and unanimously

Resolved.—That the Grand Lodge of Canada hastens to convey to the M.W. and Right Honourable the Earl de Grey and Ripon, its warmest congratulations on his elevation to the high and dignified position of Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England; this Grand Lodge retaining a grateful recollection of the valuable services rendered by Lord de Grey, when acting as its re-representative to the Grand Lodge of England, confidently anticipates that his acknowledged ability, coupled with the great zeal which he has ever evinced in the cultivation and promotion of our divine art, will ensure a continuance of that Masonic progress and prosperity which has so eminently distinguished the government of his illustrious predecessor, the Most Worshipful the Earl of Zetland.

It was moved by M.W. Bro. W. M. Wilson, seconded by M.W. Bro. T. D. Harington, and unanimously

Resolved,—That the retirement of the M.W. the Earl of Zetland from the exalted position of Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England, affords an opportunity of which the Grand Lodge of Canada hasten to avail themselves—to express the regret which they, in common with Masons everywhere, feel on his resigning a position, the duties of which he has ever ably and impartially discharged, and at the same time to express their admiration and appreciation of the great ability and unwearied zeal displayed by his lordship during the twenty-six years in which he so worthily occupied the Masonic throne, and also to assure our Most Worshipful brother that, in retiring from the chair, he carries with him not only the profound esteem and fraternal regards of this Grand Lodge, and of the Craft generally, but also their earnest aspirations that the Great Architect of the Universe may crown his declining years with peace, happiness, and prosperity.

It was moved by M.W. Bro. W. M. Wilson, seconded by M.W. Bro. Simpson, and unanimously

Resolved,—That engrossed copies of these resolutions, under the seal of this Grand Lodge, be now prepared, and that the M.W. the Grand Master be requested to forward them to the distinguished brethren referred to herein.

R.W. Bro. W. A. Manning, D.D.G.M. of the Grand Lodge of New York, and R.W. Bro. Holwell, P.G.J.W. of the old Provincial Grand Lodge of Canada West, were introduced and were invited to seats upon the dais.

Afternoon Session.

Grand Lodge having been called to order, the President, on behalf of the Board of General Purposes, submitted its report upon warrants, which, report, on motion, was received and adopted.

R.W. Bro. Dr. Austin, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of New York, was introduced, saluted with Masonic honours, and took his seat upon the dais.

The debate upon the resolutions offered by the Board of General Purposes on the Quebec question was continued.

The first resolution was then put and adopted, with but few dissentients. V.W. Bro. T. White moved the second resolution, when

It was moved in amendment by W.M. Bro. M. W. Wilson, seconded by M.W. Bro. T. D. Harington,

“That the Grand Lodge of Canada, although still adhering to the conclusions contained in the first and second clauses of the report adopted at the special emergency meeting held at the City of Montreal, on the 1st of December last, but having no desire to assert sovereignty over a province in which the majority of the lodges, and so large a majority of the brethren have already declared their desire for separation, and actuated by the true spirit of Masonry, hereby recognises the Grand Lodge of Quebec as a sister Grand Lodge, and cordially extend to her the right hand of fellowship; reserving, however, full control and authority over those lodges in the Province of Quebec which still desire to continue their connection with the Grand Lodge, and requiring also on their behalf a full recognition of all their rights and Masonic privileges.”

In moving the amendment, M.W. Bro. Wilson stated that he entirely concurred in the first resolution; he had always maintained, and did so still, that Quebec was an occupied territory at the time of the formation of the so-called Grand Lodge of Quebec, and that that formation was illegal. He, however, was in favour of allowing the Grand Lodges of the world to be arbitrators in this matter, and as several of them had declared in favour of Quebec, he was ready to extend recognition.

M.W. Bro. Harington briefly supported the views of M.W. Bro. Wilson.

M.W. Bros. Simpson and Bernard spoke effectively against the amendment. One of their strongest arguments being, that by extending recognition to the so-called Grand Lodge of Quebec, even on the ground of expediency, they would be doing an incalculable injustice to those lodges in the disaffected province who had remained true in their allegiance.

After a few remarks from R.W. Bro. Tully, the vote on the amendment was taken, which was lost by a very large majority.

In the evening the brethren were entertained at a magnificent banquet at the St. Lawrence Hall. The room was splendidly and tastefully decorated with flags and banners, and with the bannerets of the different Masonic Orders. The band of the 10th Royals occupied the orchestra, and two tables, extending the entire length of the room, with a cross table at the head, were liberally filled with the good things provided by the hospitality of the Toronto brethren. Upwards of six hundred Masons sat down, the cross table being occupied by R.W. Bro. Kerr, D.D.G.M. Toronto District, in the chair, the M.W. the Grand Master, M.W. Bro. Bernard, P.G.M., and a number of other influential members of Grand Lodge. The good things having been disposed of, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and enthusiastically responded to, and an exceedingly pleasant evening was spent, the company separating about midnight.

MASONRY IN AMERICA.

“The Masonic history of the late war, were it possible to write it, would abound with the most thrilling instances of fraternal recognition and brotherly intervention when the fallen brave have been left to die, but have been rescued for decent burial, or for a final recovery, and a happy restoration to the fond endearments of home. Members of this Fraternity, whether in the Union or Confederate cause, have been equally true to their Masonic obligations and teachings wherever they have recognised evidence of distress. This has been done in a thousand ways, and in entire harmony to real or supposed duties to which allegiance may be due.

“You will pardon me in giving you an example to illustrate the wonderful power of the principles of Freemasonry, so far as it relates to the nature and charms of the Masonic obligation, when exercised over the baser passions of the human heart, even when charged with the bitterest hatred and violence. It occurred in a seaport town in Florida in 1863. An officer in the navy of the Union had died—he was a Mason. His brother officers desired to bury him with our solemn rites of burial. One of the officers, an intelligent Mason, landed on shore and soon entered a Confederate town in search of a place of burial, and being guided by a rebel brother, he soon found a cemetery; but was informed there was no spot of soil in Florida vile enough to receive the brother. ‘You are here to destroy our property, burn our homes; you are our enemies, and we will not grant your request.’ The brother replied, ‘I am a Freemason, I am your brother, and as such we cannot be enemies, for we are brethren; and as such I come to you to discharge a solemn vow made to him who can no longer plead for himself.’ They received that brother within the tiled precincts of their lodge, where a proper and most scathing examination satisfied them of his Masonic claims. Reason and the noble dictates of conscience resumed their rightful sway in the minds of these excited brethren, and his request was granted. The grave was dug in their burial ground, and the body landed, attended by the officers of the ship. But ere those loyal soldiers reached the spot of earth, they were met by a Masonic procession composed entirely of rebellious brethren, who united with them in their march to the grave, and the Master of their lodge performed the Masonic burial services. In this instance, as in thousands of others, how completely did ‘brotherly love’ overcome and disarm political hate. How beautifully did the enemy disappear in the brother. What a sublime illustration of the power and purposes of Masonry! A parallel cannot be found on the page of history.

“Again, as citizens and as the sons of one common country, who are decreed henceforth and for ever to live under the same laws and to work out the same destiny, it is of the first importance that we set about to restore completely the old feeling of comity, which will unite us as one people throughout the length and breadth of our country in sentiments of filial affection and kindness. One of the noblest and most valuable lessons which the impressive rites and traditions of our Order teach us is the lesson of the brotherhood of men; and one of the most common and frequent results of Masonry is the active practical acknowledgment of this brotherhood in the ordinary transactions of every-day life.

“It needs no exhortation from a voice so humble as mine to urge you to the exercise of this duty. A voice more clear, distinct, and potential is ever falling on our listening ears. The solemn, stately tones of tradition, coming down in slow, measured, and far-off, but eloquent accents from the dim veiled heights of the remotest ages, is with you constantly wherever you go, silently but powerfully impelling you to the performance of quiet but noble deeds of brotherly love and kindness.

“It is not of our obligations to these duties that I would speak. But I would call the attention of the world outside the walls of our mystic temple to the silent, unostentatious, but powerful auxiliary which Freemasonry is to civil society, and to the national Government, in bringing about a return of kindly and brotherly feeling between all the people of these States. Words are inadequate to express the important and beneficent effects of an Institution like this of ours, at such a time as this, upon society at large in circumscribing and keeping in due bounds the angry passions of the hour, in inculcating forbearance and moderation, and in reviving old ties of brotherhood.

“Brethren, when the people of the true God were released from captivity by Cyrus, and returned to Jerusalem to rebuild His Temple, many of our ancient brethren, actuated by the same spirit of piety and zeal for their art which has governed the order, went up with them, and voluntarily contributed their skill and labour in that glorious and noble undertaking.

“That piece of work was not for them, but for the whole people of the children of Israel. Their work was unselfish and performed without the expectation or hope of reward. And when the magnificent structure, decorated with the choicest works of Masonic skill and art, raised its sublime proportions to the approving Heavens, amid the grateful rejoicings of thousands of the worshippers of the true God, and was again dedicated with solemn ceremonies to His service, they quickly returned to their accustomed associations in other departments of their art.

“As our ancient brethren did then, so we are now called upon, at the return of our ‘kindred and kin’ from the Babylon of civil war, which has laid in one utter and complete ruin the finest portion of our land, to go up with our Masonic implements in hand to aid and assist in rebuilding the social, political and moral temple of American institutions, like those of old, Freemasons comes to this work disinterestedly, and unselfishly.

“They ask no reward, but the consciousness of having done their duty. They seek no personal renown or publicity. They bring to the work the invaluable treasures of skill and science, with which a knowledge of the mysteries of our art has endowed them, and of which they alone are the possessors. And as it was before, so it will be again, when the glorious structure of American Nationality shall tower in unequalled splendour to the heavens, and as the Temple of old, excelled in beauty and magnificence all other structures, so this shall excel all the nations of the earth, in the strength and majesty of its dimensions, the excellence of its design, the purity and justness of its proportions, the beauty and magnificence of its decoration, and when the eyes of the whole world shall be turned to look upon it with admiration and reverence, and the children of every clime shall come to dwell under the protection of its triune flag; it shall again be recorded that the strength and solidity of its workmanship, the rectitude and uprightness of its angles, lines and columns, and the beauty and splendour of its ornaments, were due to the quiet, noiseless labours of the noble Giblamlites of our Order.

“I should be untrue to every principle of Masonry were I to close without saying a word directly and earnestly to those whom every Mason regards as the highest ornaments of society, the dearest and most cherished objects of every true man’s regard, and the most holy and precious gifts of God to man, but to whose eyes our mystic circle is and must needs be, an invisible and unapproachable veil. I address you, ladies, in no idle spirit of unmeaning flattery, which would be unworthy of you, and ill-fitting the occasion, but in that true spirit of friendship and devotion which Freemasonry teaches us to cherish and maintain for the pure and spotless name of woman. Respect for her position and sphere, admiration for her many superlative charms, reverence for those higher and holier feminine qualities of faith, truth, affection and devotion in which she so pre-eminently excels man. Many of you have a pardonable curiosity to know at least the nature of that employment which steadily draws your husbands and fathers and brothers from their homes, and in which you are debarred from having any participation, and some of you who are just a little more curious, entertain grave doubts, as to whether that occupation which will not admit of your presence, can be of the most beneficial or moral tendency. It is to oppose those doubts, anxieties, and to better answer those natural distrusts, that occasions like the present are especially devoted. If there are any here to-day who entertain these or similar doubts, I respectfully ask them to ponder and carefully consider what I now utter. There are but two other more sacred and holy associations in which a man can be placed, than those around the altar of Masonry. The first it is at the fireside of his wife and family, the other is around the altar of religion. Know then, ladies, that when we are taken away from our homes and from you, in the faithful discharge of our Masonic obligations, that we go conscious in the reflection that we are building up by the genial arts of Masonry a wall of living arms, and warm and brotherly hearts around our loved ones at home, which will ever be an impregnable rock of protection and security to them, a retreat and refuge in the time of bereavement and trouble, which will be as lasting as life and as omnipresent as the clouded canopy of heaven, and as true and vigilant as the sleepless stars of the night.

“The change of half a century, in Masonry and in this country, has been most extraordinary. Our cherished institution, then comparatively in its infancy, with here and there a solitary lodge, now numbers its lodges by the thousand in every portion of our land. When this lodge was instituted, Western New York was almost an unbroken wilderness. In the eloquent words of Webster, ‘the same waters roll at our feet, the same heavens still shine above us, but all else how changed.’ Then our country was as compared with other nations of the earth, weak and feeble in its commercial and financial resources; to-day it stands not only a masterly model for all other governments, but the strongest and most powerful government in the world.

“Our fathers laid the foundations of our Masonic and of our political structure, and we have built thereon the institutions which have blessed and made us so happy as a people. Neither are yet complete.

“It is for each generation to declare by its work whether this noble undertaking shall be accomplished.

“Forty years ago Masonry had its trial, and the question of its preservation was propounded by its enemies, and was answered by its friends. These aged and venerable brethren, who are here with us to-day, helped in their firm devotion and adhesion to Masonry, to give that answer, they have lived to see their attachment to Masonry vindicated, approved and justified in the complete overthrow and dispersion of their enemies. Be assured you have the warmest approval and commendation of those of us upon whom will soon devolve the solemn and imposing duty of reviewing your falling mantles, for the same inflexible integrity that distinguished and made memorable the virtues of the ‘Tyrian King’ may the remnant of your days be peaceful and serene, no cloud obscuring your mental vision of a blissful immortality as you near the golden shore beyond the pilgrimage of life's changing scene.

We have listened with interest to the able outline of the history of this lodge for the last fifty years, read by Worshipful Wm. S. Brown, our worthily esteemed Master. That history is an honourable record of which we may well be proud. The fact, that during the years of the anti-Masonic crusade the doors of this lodge were never closed, is a fact which testifies of true Masonic fortitude, sterling integrity, and moral courage, with a voice that will never cease to speak your praise.

Let us endeavour to make the record of Olive Branch Lodge as bright and honourable for the next fifty years as has been its history for the past fifty years, and make it worthy of the age in which we live. We must not think of measuring the duties which the future shall demand of us by the standard of the past. We live in an age when the wants of the world, the means of supplying them, and our consequent duties are all on a much broader scale than the world has ever before seen. The world makes marvellous strides in a single decade, equal to centuries in olden time.

"A great work devolves upon us as a lodge, and upon the Fraternity of this country, and that is, to make ourselves and our Institution a blessing on the earth. There will ever be an increasing demand for the full exercise of our highest powers and amplest means. It is our solemn and imperative duty to know something of esoteric principles of Freemasonry, or, in other words, to become masters of moral or speculative Masonry. That our lives may be known and distinguished by the fadeless lustre such a life would disclose, our work should be well done in the lodge-room; but it is more important that we exemplify the highest style of it before the world! Brethren, honour your principles everywhere, and guard well the door of entrance. Do these, and every other duty, and Freemasonry will become a blessing and a power in the land for good."

Another piece of music followed, when Bro. Col. W. H. C. Hosmer was introduced, and read a poem full of beauty and pathetic fire.

The brethren of the choir then sang the Doxology, and the audience was dismissed with the Benediction.

Dinner at Central Hall followed, and was served in excellent style. A brilliant reception in the evening closed the day's doings.

A noticeable feature was the presence of a number of old veterans, among whom were Dr. Wm. Sheldon, Azo Curtis, Lucius Parkes, Consider Warner, O. H. Kendall, A. B. Murphy, Thomas C. Ladd and Bro. Wiley. It was happy day for these old brethren, who may very appropriately exclaim with the patriarch of old, "Lord, let now Thy servant depart in peace." Certainly their aged eyes have beheld the fruition of their most ardent youthful hopes.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

Acacia Lodge, No. 1309.—An emergency meeting of this young lodge, making the eighth meeting since its consecration last May, was held on Tuesday, August 30th, at the Sebright Arms Tavern, Alston-road, West Barnet, Middlesex. Bro. Frederick Walters, W.M., punctually at half-past five opened the lodge. Ballots were unanimous in favour of the six candidates for initiation. Five sent apologies excusing and regretting their absence, also the candidates for passing sent apologies for their absence. The work was raising Bro. Gustave Pach and initiating Mr. John Earnest West (nephew of Sir Charles Wheatstone, F.R.S.). The ceremonies were rendered in an impressive, correct, and painstaking manner. The lodge was afterwards closed. There were present, besides those named, Bros. G. J. Loe, S. Wand, W.M.-elect; E. Sillifant, P.M. Treas.; C. F. Hall, I.G.; Dr. S. H. J. Hilliard, R. Sinclair, and others. Visitors: Bros. J. Hawker (P.M. 871), F. A. Neatherway (920), and others.

MARK MASONRY.

MANCHESTER.—Union Lodge, No. 46.—This once prosperous and successful lodge—especially when assisted by the zeal and energy of Bro. Lyon Wright, whose loss, so far as Mark Masonry in Manchester is concerned, has been severely felt—having been for a considerable time in abeyance, has at length shown signs of vitality, sufficient to encourage a hope that it will regain its former prestige. By the authority of the M.W.G.M., a meeting was summoned at Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, Manchester, on Friday, the 12th ult., when the old members of the lodge assembled in sufficient numbers, under the presidency of Bro. F. Binckes, G. Sec., to elect a W. Master, and to discuss the most admirable course to pursue to effect a thorough resuscitation of the lodge. Bro. J. M. Wike, (P.P.G.S.W. in the East Lancashire Craft Grand Lodge), was elected W.M., and earnest promises of support and co-operation were received from many influential brethren, some—unable to be present—giving in their adhesion in writing. Before the installation of Bro. W. Romaine Callender, jun., as Prov. Mark G. Master, it is hoped the "Union" will be in full working order, and that on that occasion—looked forward to with considerable interest—its representatives will prove that in numbers and influence, the Union Lodge will worthily compare with the recently established lodges in the provinces.

ANTIQUITY OF FREEMASONRY.

BY BRO. W. P. BUCHAN.

In order to save space, I pass over the next three point—merely remarking that nothing has been produced to support them—and come to the roth, which alludes to the document pretending to have been "wrytten by the hande of Kyng Henrye the Sixthe of the name." (Fifteenth century.) This document was first printed at Frankfort in 1748, and as yet I am not aware of any evidence of its existence before that time—that being, I would suppose, the period of its manufacture. We are told about this document existing in the Bodleian Library, but I have never as yet heard of its discovery there. Referring to it, Mr. J. O. Halliwell, the well-known antiquary says, "A few years since I was at the pains of making a long search in the Bodleian Library, in the hope of finding the original, but without success; and I think there is little doubt but that this celebrated and well-known document is a forgery." The Rev. James Dallaway, Bros. Findel, Hughan, &c., all doubt it, or call it a forgery; I consider it to be either a practical joke or an imposition of the second quarter of last century. It has been published again and again, and as Freemasons, generally speaking, have hitherto been blessed with an extra share of the bump of credulity, it managed to pass muster quite freely. As we perceive by a contemporary lately, which gives a copy of the production, it was included in a long article in the Observer—which I take to be one of the London newspapers—but said "article," I am sorry to say, suggests to me the idea of being one of the most transparent sops to catch unthinking and unwary Freemasons I have ever seen; unless, indeed, it has been written in pure ignorance. It seems to me to even border upon blasphemy, let alone speaking of absurdity, as witness the following allusion to its (Freemasonry's) "mysteries," which we are told are "the oldest and the holiest which have ever excited the curiosity of man, or contributed to the enlightenment and refinement of the world." Now, as these "mysteries" are not as yet nearly two centuries old, I should like to know how they can be the "oldest"? And as to their being the "holiest," I shall leave your readers to judge for themselves. The same writer also tells us that the antiquity of Freemasonry is "anterior to the priestcraft of Egypt," and that those who are without its pale "stand dazzled by its brilliancy and glory"! We wonder how many "cinders" it took to produce that last spark? We are also told that the Phœnicians got it from the Jews (who, I may mention by the way, had to borrow masons and carpenters to build their temple), the ancient Britons from the Phœnicians—only the Druids, as we are told, abused it, until St. Alban restored it in all its purity! After that, as this exceedingly clever writer and highly veritable historian tells us, St. Augustine got to be "Grand Master," and here we have what most unfortunately suggests to me the idea of another sop being thrown out, this time to Cardinal Cullen and the Catholics. The words are, "it (our Freemasonry) was then eminently patronised by the Church and by Churchmen scarcely less renowned than his Eminence Cardinal Cullen." O worthy author! prince of courtiers, how I do admire your magnanimity and "soft sawder." Not a word does he tell us about the well-known bull issued by Pope Clement XII. in 1738, when Freemasonry had just attained its majority, being then exactly twenty-one years of age. He recapitulates the usual nonsense about the "Grand Lodge of York," of A.D. 926! And that Westminster Abbey "abounds with those symbols, a knowledge of the true interpretation of which is confined to Freemasons." What humbug! Freemasons, generally speaking, know about as much of "those symbols" as they do of Hebrew. I am sorry to have to admit it, yet, although I am a Freemason myself, when I desired reliable information upon "those symbols," or upon Gothic architecture generally, I have had to consult non-Masons. So much for that last sop. We are also told some further nonsense about the Knights Templar; then that King Edward III. was a "Grand Master," and so on to Henry VI., who, we are told, "joined the Order!" but before doing so, like a cautious king, he asked a number of questions at the Masons, which are all, therefore, faithfully recorded in the pretended Henry VI. MS. above referred to! The foregoing article, and far too many like it, appeared to me to be nothing else than mere baits thrown out to catch ignorant and simple Freemasons. However, I, as a Freemason, throw back their paltry sops with contempt, and beg to tell them that the circle is gradually enlarging which will not only treat their pseudo-Masonic histories with the scorn they deserve, but will also show up their authors in their true colours as a laughing-stock to the whole world. It may, perhaps, be a profitable thing for self-interested writers—unless, indeed, it proceeds from pure ignorance—to make a tool of Freemasonry by passing off all sorts of high-flown and incredible Masonic Arabian Nights' Tales as genuine Masonic histories; but it says very little for either the authors or the readers when such monstrous absurdities are allowed to pass off quietly. Their continued production and support throws a terrible slur upon our Order.

On the 11th point, I observe that, while I admit that Elias Ashmole, during the space of about forty years, attended two meetings of the Masons' Society of the period, and took dinner with the "fellows" present—just as he might also have done with the fellows of the Carpenters' Society of the time—that does not show that the "fellows" of either of these societies either knew aught of, or practised, our system of Freemasonry, but rather the opposite. The plain fact is, that Ashmole, happening to be well known as an antiquary, it was supposed he had a hand in the pie at the concocting of the System; but that that is a mistake I need not only point to the few occasions on which he seems to have been present, but also to the fact that we can find nothing to support this notion and a great deal against it. It falls upon those who bring forward or support this idea to prove two things: First, that our modern system of Freemasonry existed in the 17th century in the time of Elias Ashmole, and second that, supposing it did, to prove that it was Elias Ashmole who manufactured it. However, as neither of these have been proved as yet, I hold by my own idea, viz., that our system of Speculative Masonry, or what is now known as "Freemasonry," was manufactured and established in London by Drs. Anderson, Desaguliers, and their friends, about A.D. 1717.

On the 12th point, as the foregoing remarks show, there are several mistakes, in my opinion, in "Chambers' Encyclopædia" upon this subject. However, there is also a great deal of good sense in it—e.g., "It is now certain that during the purest ages of Gothic architecture, both in France and in England, the architects were not members of the Masonic fraternity at all, but either laymen of skill and taste, uninitiated in the mysteries of the Masonic craft, or oftener bishops and abbots." This coincides with what I formerly said, viz., that it is not to any Freemasons (?), real or supposed, of the period, but to the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church that we are indebted for the rise and progress of Gothic architecture during the 12th and 13th centuries. "Chambers's" also goes on to say: "The history of Freemasonry has been overlaid with fiction and absurdity, partly from an exaggerated estimate of its importance in the development of architecture, and partly from a wish to connect mediæval Masonry with the Institution that passes under the same name in the present day. Modern—or so-called Speculative—Freemasonry is an innocent mystification unconnected either with the building craft or with architecture. It is of British origin, and dates from 17th century."

As to the 13th point, I observe that it has so spread since 1717; and 153 years gives plenty of time for it to do so—e.g., look at the rapid spread of Good Templarism, also of railway, steamboat, and telegraph traffic, &c., &c. If a thing happens to suit the public taste it does not require much time for it to spread. From England it passed into France about A.D. 1725, and about the same time, or shortly after, into some other parts of the Continent and to Ireland. It passed into America about 1733, and into Prussia about 1739, and so on. In short, the system of Freemasonry introduced into London in 1717 is that system which all the world has adopted since.

Prove the 14th?

The 15th notion may pass as a practical joke.

The 16th is a dream.

The 17th is a piece of mystification viewed through a magnifying glass.

When Bro. Paton manages the 18th, we may expect a bull's run somewhere.

In conclusion, permit me to observe that a number of small things are coming to light bearing upon the 1717 theory, all in my opinion tending to support it. We have probably now even got the name of the individual who was first initiated pro forma into our mysteries, viz., Dr. William Stuckley, F.R.S., who was in London in 1717-8. They (the manufacturers) made him believe that it was an old Society, which had fallen into decay, and that they were "reviving" it. Whereas, the fact was, they were instituting a new Society, and he was the first to be put through the ceremonies which they had manipulated. Like the Highlandman's gun, Freemasonry then got a new stock, lock, and barrel; and just as the wood and iron, out of which the gun was made, existed long before they were adapted to that purpose, so with the "raw materials" out of which our Freemasonry was made. The existence of the raw material, and the existence of the manufactured article, are two distinct things. Few Freemasons, however, have as yet received sufficient light to understand this, while those who have tried to explain it have had to undergo much persecution and suffer many petty annoyances brought to bear upon them in a variety of ways. The sad case of Dr. Krause, of Germany, as related by Bro. Findel, not to speak of others, is a great blot upon our Order. Truth, however, can overleap the obstacles which self-interest, ignorance, and imposition place in its path. The printed works published shortly after 1717 prove what I have been saying anent the 1717 theory, and none more so than Dr. Anderson's "Defence of Masonry." We have lots of printed evidence of the existence of our Freemasonry after 1717, but how comes it that we have none before that date? Had it existed long before then, as is said, no doubt we would—after a search of a century and a half—be in possession of sufficient proof to show the assertion was a fact; but such is not the case. We have had shiploads of fictions and distorted facts, but not a thimbleful of the real thing. The great excuse given for this is, that "various old documents were destroyed in 1720 by scrupulous brethren." Now, supposing this was true, and that these documents contained the necessary evidence, it would show that the Masons before then had committed a number of things to writing. However, the thing is little better than a bit of a hoax, or a sly little dodge, perfectly transparent to a discriminating eye; for, as I observed before, there are large numbers of lodge minutes still in existence long before 1717 (and if they cannot give the wanted evidence, where else can it be got?), and many other documents besides—lying in the British Museum and elsewhere. That an immense amount of nonsense has been written, and passed off as veritable Histories of Freemasonry is undoubted; even the Editor of THE FREEMASON, who differs with me on several points, and who holds by the "Guild Theory," which, after careful examination, I have thrown aside, observes (June 11th, 1870); "There can be little doubt that the incredible legends and Munchausen myths, gravely put forth as Masonic narratives by certain writers, have done more to arouse scepticism as to the real history of the Craft, than all the attacks of its wittiest enemies would have been able to achieve."

BIRTH.

BOYLE.—On the 29th ult., at Eaglesham, the wife of Bro. John Boyle, S.M., Lodge Clyde, 408, of a son.

DEATH.

CROW.—On Thursday, 26th ult., at De Montfort-terrace, Leicester, Florence Edith, infant daughter of Bro. Edwin J. Crow, J.W. 279, P.G.O. Leicestershire and Rutland.

Answers to Correspondents.

BRO. ARMSTRONG, W.M. 531.—The candles in the East, South and West must be kept alight in all the degrees, and that in the East should never be extinguished, even during the ceremony of raising. Lamps or other contrivances used as substitutes for the light in the East are an utter abomination, and must have been introduced into lodges by some imbecile, who could not comprehend the beautiful symbolism of the light that "shineth in the valley of darkness, yea, even the valley of the shadow of death." A little thought over these matters would weed many incongruities from the Masonic system, and many of those erroneous arrangements may be said to have arisen from the ignorance of some of the antiquated teachers of the Craft in days gone by.

PHILALETHES.—We are really anxious to give every facility for the fair discussion of the question mooted, but we put it strongly to yourself whether the use of such expressions as "low fellows," "gang of conspirators," can possibly assist in elucidating the points involved. For ourselves, we may safely say that we believe Prince Rhodocanakis to be a gentleman of worth and intelligence, but we must decline giving any opinion upon his claims to the title of "Imperial Highness." With the exceptions noted, your letter is fair criticism.

BRO. DUNCAN WILKIE.—If you send us a brief statement of the facts, it shall appear.

S.P.—As a Dutch Rose Croix, you are eligible to attend an English Rose Croix Chapter upon the production of your 18° certificate, and undergoing an examination.

BRO. WILLIAM WAYNE, P.M. No. 1161.—You are quite correct; the word "two" is wanting, and we find that it was not in the paper from which we copied the explanation—hence, the Reader's sin was not one of "omission." Candidates for the R.A. degree are very frequently proposed by letter to the Scribe E, although the proposition in open chapter is to be preferred, when practicable; but the full particulars, excepting age, should be stated on the summons. A Royal Arch Chapter in England can be opened by the Three Principals, or by Present or Past Principals of corresponding rank, and consequently a chapter can be held by three; but no brother can be legally exalted unless nine companions—to represent the ancient "Chapter of Jerusalem"—be present. In America and elsewhere chapters are not opened exclusively by Principals (there termed High Priest, King, and Scribe); but nine companions must be in attendance to form a quorum for opening and transacting business.

M. M.—We have now given both sides a hearing, and believe it best to close the discussion. We deeply regret, however, to learn that "such things can be" amongst men who ought to practise fraternity and good-will.

BRO. A. F. V.—We have to apologise for having mislaid your letter, which reached us when out of town. It is, however, so much to the point that delay will fortunately not put it out of date.

Several reviews and jottings from Masonic journals, with reports of Lodge of Harmony, 220, and Lebanon Lodge, 1326, and other communications, will appear in our next.

PENALTIES of GREATNESS.

THE spell of war is upon us; the fearful fascination of blood enthalls our souls—nothing is talked of but marches and counter-marches, sieges and sorties, defeats or victories. Of a truth the present aspect of Europe is enough to discourage the most hopeful; each day seems to add to the bitterness of the struggle between the French and German nations, and every hour that passes appears to diminish the prospect of a speedy cessation of the strife. It was, we believe, Sir James Mackintosh who said that, "unfortunately for the repose of mankind, great states are compelled to consider the military spirit and martial habits of their people, as one of the main objects of their policy. Frequent hostilities seem almost the necessary condition of greatness; and, without being great, they cannot remain safe." If this be so—and history corroborates it to a remarkable extent—our surprise at the sudden outbreak of war between Prussia and France was somewhat ill-founded, as the most superficial observer of European politics for the last four or five years must have noticed the war-cloud that dimmed the horizon from time to time, and must have arrived at the conviction that a contest for supremacy between France and her powerful neighbour was sooner, or later, inevitable.

Lamentable "condition of greatness," deplorable penalty for increasing prosperity and power! Must the nations of the earth ever gird themselves for the fight, and wrestle grimly to the death, like the gladiators of a Roman arena, in order to decide which is the strongest in skill and resources? It is not a question of valour, because valour is to be found amongst every race of men, and the tests of victory in these days are sought in other directions. There must be generalship—there must be foresight—there must be an infinite combination of strategy and tactics, as well as death-defying courage in the field; and, unfortunately for France in her hour of peril, none of the required tests, save the last, are forthcoming. In vain her chivalry rush upon the foe—in vain they sacrifice themselves bravely, but madly—because there is no guiding hand, no calculating brain to measure the chances or to direct their onward course. As we have said before, we have no desire to enter upon the political bearings of the war, and we may add that our chief anxiety is the restoration of peace without the paramount triumph of either party; but we should be less, or more, than human if we could survey unmoved the fall of so many gallant men, all of whom, whether they be Gauls or Teutons, believe in the justice of their cause, and all of whom are fighting to maintain the fancied prestige of their respective fatherlands.

Now, although Englishmen make good soldiers, we are, happily, as yet very inexperienced in the duties of defending our "homes and altars," as the patriotic phrase goes, and long may we continue so; but as men are said to have learnt to swim without the trouble of entering the water, it would certainly not be out of place were we to attempt the feat of guarding our little island against even possible foes. Ambition is a perilous thing, and the wealth of Great Britain is a somewhat tempting bait to a hungry foe. Let us, therefore, be wise in time, and show the vain-glorious boasters of the Continent that England is still ready to defend her shores against all-comers; aye, and to protect the interests of her children in every sea. "Without being great, we cannot remain safe;" these are words pregnant with meaning for all men who have studied the mighty book of human progress in every age. No nation was ever yet enslaved, until the spirit of cowardice invaded its councils, and the surest way for a great nation to court danger is to abdicate its natural position in the front rank. However, we have no distrust of this kind so far as England is concerned; and in point of fact, unless we have very much degenerated, it would be strange, indeed, to find that the thirty-one millions who inhabit the British Islands in 1870 are incapable of the efforts by which a world in arms was quelled by less than half that number of their ancestors. We would not be mistaken. War is utterly abhorrent to our ideas; but, at the same time, we should for ever regret having uttered a word which could be construed into an acknowledgment that peace is preferable at any price. On the contrary, we hold that every man is justified in fighting for his own home and for the safety of his family and friends; and as nations have wider responsibilities, we hold that England is bound to maintain, pure and unsullied, that flag which has waved triumphantly o'er many a well-fought field. We, nevertheless, sympathise with all those who are enduring the privations and the miseries of war, and we commend the exertions of those true-hearted men and women who seek to alleviate the pangs of the wounded and the anguish of the bereaved. All honour to the Grand Orient of France, who, in the holiest interpretation of their Masonic mission, have come forward with pecuniary aid for the victims of battle, and may every success attend the appeal which they have made on behalf of our common humanity. We have often had to differ with the foreign policy of the Grand Orient—a policy dictated by imperfect information more than unsound views—and we, therefore, gladly greet the opportunity of bearing testimony to the fact that the leaders of French Masonry are ever to be found in the van of true charity, that their hearts are ever open to the cry of woe, and that they have never ceased to wage an honourable fight with ignorance and superstition. Bear witness, Constantinople—a vote for the sufferers by the recent fire; bear witness the subscriptions for the inundated peasantry of the Loire districts; in each and in all we recognise the same traits of compassion which dictate their present solicitude for the victims of war. The Grand Master of France, Bro. BABAUD-LARIBIERE, has addressed a letter on this subject to our esteemed and Right Worshipful brother, Sir Edward Borough, Bart., P.D.G.M. of Ireland, the representative of the Grand Orient in that country, and the sentiments he expresses do honour alike to his head and heart. Our French brethren are now passing through the crucible of affliction—let us help them in the only way possible, by succouring their sick and wounded soldiers, as well as those of their gallant antagonists in the present gigantic struggle.

VARIOUS WRITERS ON SCOTTISH MASONRY.

I am of opinion that the various writers on Scottish Freemasonry who have favoured us with their opinions in regard to the workings, regular or irregular, have failed to explain what is meant by Freemasonry in Scotland, and Freemasonry in the Colonies under Scottish Jurisdiction. It may be one thing abroad, and another thing at home; or rather, they may have better practices in the Colonies than they have at home. I can point to a lodge of Scotland, holding charter of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, where you can get made a Master Mason for 14s. 6d., 7s. 6d. for initiation fees, 8s. for registration and diploma fees, and a bottle of whisky. Their defence is that the Grand Lodge of Scotland only want the 8s. of registration fee for every man they make. And also as the Grand Lodge of Scotland pay no attention to their laws, i.e., the lodges' laws, they see no reason why they should pay attention to theirs.

BRO. W. J. HUGHAN AND HIS WRITINGS.

From time to time I have read with much pleasure the writings of Bro. W. J. Hughan, and, whatever may be said to the contrary, I am of opinion, that he is the leading authority on English Freemasonry of the present day. That he has instructed the Craft on many points cannot be denied. I have also read with the most profound respect, a quotation from a letter of his to the following effect: "It is my firm belief that no one who does not believe in a God and future reward and punishment, is eligible for Masonry." This is in truth a noble sentence, words written to do much good, and such words, that it will be a sorrowful day for Freemasonry, should any one ever try to deny them. May they be engraven on the hearts of every Freemason throughout the world to all eternity.

THE MORMONS AND MASONIC SYMBOLS.

The correspondent of the New York Herald, at the Salt Lake City, writes that:—"A co-operative store has been started, and the sign of 'Holiness of the Lord' is placed over it, with a painted symbolical All-seeing eye, to notice whether the saints go to the new store of Jesus Christ with all their pharmaceutical prescriptions." Polygamy is a sin of gross turpitude, which destroys marriage and degrades women. Let the Freemasons on the other side of the Atlantic rise en masse, and crush this attempt at an unwarranted interference with their symbols, and put in force the already enacted condemnation of a contemptible race.

MASONIC ARGUMENT.

When certain Masonic writers fail in producing real evidence, they resort to the schoolboy practice of calling names. Other brethren again resort to the old-fashioned practice of "putting on the screw."

THE CANTERBURY LODGE, p. 367.

There were Operative lodges in 1429, and, of course, among the masons, as well as among other trades, there were Masters, Wardens, Fellows, and Apprentices; but there were not Speculative masons. Even now you may still get Masters, Foremen, Journeymen, and Apprentices in any trade!

LODGES OF INSTRUCTION.

The importance of meetings under this title is sufficiently apparent by the provision made for their government and regulation in page 90 of the Book of Constitutions; indeed, to the discipline which pervades, we may say, all of them, the Order is much indebted, as it frequently happens that business of a general nature, which engages the attention of a lodge, prevents a regular practice in the ceremonials of the Order, and the members would require a longer time to become proficient but for the lodges of instruction, whose business being confined to the principal discipline required in the ceremonials, lectures, &c., gives a more ample opportunity to those who seek information, as well as a greater scope to those who are emulous of preferment. There are several lodges of instruction in London, which are attended by brethren distinguished by their Masonic attainments, the benefits of which all are desirous to impart.—Mason's Home-Book, Philadelphia.

CURIOUS LAWS OF THE FIRST LODGE OF PERFECTION.

18th. That every member departing this province, and desiring a certificate of this lodge of his degrees, shall receive the same, attested by the Master and the officers of the lodge, with their degrees in the Royal Craft specified, and the seal of the lodge affixed to the same, paying for the said certificate the sum of sixteen shillings for the use of the box.

19th. That none but members have a right to debate in this lodge, and every one who speaks shall first address himself to the Senior Officer, who shall report the same to the chair, on which the Master calls on such member, who is standing, to deliver what he has to say; and that no member has a right to speak more than once on the same subject, unless he is called upon by the chair to explain himself.

20th. That no private piques, quarrels, or debates about nations, families, religion, or politics, shall be brought within the doors of the lodge, unless it is done by the joint consent of the different parties with a view to settle it amicably through the mediation of the lodge.

21st. That no member of this lodge ever is concerned in forming in a clandestine manner any lodge or lodges of any of the superior degrees, from the Secret Master to the Perfection, or assist in raising any brother Mason in any of these degrees without a proper instrument in writing under the hand and seal of those in whom such power is vested, and if known that any member has executed or attempted a breach in this article, he shall immediately be expelled this lodge, of which a minute shall be made, and he shall never be permitted to enter this lodge, even as a visitor.

22nd. That every member entering this lodge unclothed shall be fined Two Shillings, and each member shall always appear with the clothing, jewel, &c., of the last degree he has been initiated in under the penalty; unless he make it appear that he could not come in his proper clothing, which is to be debated by a majority of the members present, and every member take his seat according to the superiority of his degrees, viz., the officers in their proper places, then the 1st brother on the right side of the Master, the 2nd on the left, the 3rd on the right of the 1st, the 4th on the left next the 2nd and so on, in the same manner until the whole are seated and observe a strict silence whenever the Master shall rise, under the penalty of being reprimanded for the first offence, One Shilling for the second, and for the third offence excluded the lodge for that night, and the next lodge night shall make a proper concession, or be excluded the lodge entirely. That at the third stroke of the Master's Hiram, always to be repeated by the first officer, there shall be a strict silence among the members on the above-mentioned penalties. That any member who shall not regard the first summons and is called to order the 2nd time shall pay One Shilling, and for the third offence excluded the lodge for that night, and make a proper acknowledgement the next lodge night under the above-mentioned penalty. That any member who shall dare say anything impertinent, interrupt the Master, Wardens, Officers or Brother addressing the Chair, or act ludicrously while the lodge is engaged in solemn matters, shall be fined Two Shillings for the first offence, Four Shillings for the second, and finally excluded the lodge for the third. That any member swearing in his lodge shall be fined One Shilling for the first time, and Two Shillings for every other offence of the same nature to be judged by a majority of the members. That if any brother so far misbehave as to render this lodge uneasy, he shall be three times publicly admonished by the Master and the Superior Officers, but if he will not refrain his imprudence, nor obediently submit to the advice of his brethren, he shall be excluded as a member of this lodge. That any member that shall dare be so rude as to hiss at a brother or scoff at what another shall say or has said in the lodge, shall be forthwith solemnly excluded the lodge, and declared incapable of ever being a member of this lodge again until he obtains the lodge's forgiveness after a public acknowledgment of his fault, and asking pardon. That as the right of a member of this lodge ought to be looked upon as sacred, whenever a member shall be called upon to answer anything laid to his charge he with what evidence may be produced in a reasonable time shall always have a fair hearing.

23rd. That all members of this lodge shall pay Twelve Shillings per quarter to the fund, and said quarterage shall be advanced to the box, and that no brother shall be deemed a member if he refuses to pay his quarterage, and shall be erased from the report of any member called as an evidence by the Stewards; and that no non-resident member or such whose business carries him abroad shall be deemed a member, unless he pays, notwithstanding his quarterage, as otherwise he would deprive the lodge fund of its full number's income.

24th. That the members of this lodge can never exceed the number of 27 including the Master, but when any of the members should be initiated into the degree of Knight of the East, Prince of Jerusalem, &c., and vacates his seat, then his place may be succeeded by a new member; and said Knight or Prince may come as a visitor on paying Three Shillings for every time he visits the lodge into the box.

25th. That every member shall pay each lodge night into the box Six Shillings and Threepence to defraying the night's expenses, as well those who are present as those who are absent, unless asking in full lodge leave of absence of the Master and for the time limited, of which a minute is to be kept by the Secretary for that purpose, and when said absent member exceeds the time of the leave granted him, he shall be charged Two Shillings for every lodge night he stays away over and above the leave granted him, and if he refuses to pay the said fine of absence, he shall be excluded as a member of said lodge, and even not admitted as a visitor.

26th. That the Tyler or Doorkeeper-in-ordinary shall be paid by the Treasurer, at the rate of Eight Shillings per night when he attends, that he shall presume to come to the lodge disguised in liquor under the penalty of losing his pay for the night's attendance, and severely reprimanded for the first and second offence, but discharged for the third. That on all extraordinary lodge nights he shall carry a summons to each member, and that he shall at all times be diligent in his office and never leave the Tyle in lodge hours, under the afore-mentioned penalties.

27th. That on a night of raising any candidate one or two of the younger brethren shall officiate as Tylers to attend the lodge door, when the Tyler-in-Ordinary shall Tyle the first stairs below the lodge door as shall be directed by the Master, and that he the youngest, or the next to him of that degree into which the candidate is to be initiated shall not refuse to do said duty, under the penalty of being excluded the lodge as a member.

28th. That if any member of this lodge after being regularly summoned by the Tyler, neglect giving their attendance without a sufficient reason, to be deemed so by a majority of voices, he or they so offending shall be intitled to pay into the fund the sum of Four Shillings.

29th. That if any member of the lodge who shall report any of the transactions (requested to be kept secret) though not immediately relative to Masonry, shall on the evidence of two members be excluded the lodge.

30th. That if any person, whether a member or not, who shall be convicted of mentioning anything relative to the Craft not proper to be divulged, shall never be admitted on any pretence within the doors of this lodge, but shall be despised and treated with the utmost contempt by all the brethren.

31st. That if a brother is proposed to be raised, the motion is to be made by himself after he is once initiated in the 4th degree of Masonry and the 1st of this lodge, and is to be seconded by at least one of the members then present, and when unanimously chosen by ballot, he is to pay the before-mentioned sum of his initiation, and for his apron, jewel, and order, provided by the lodge, to the Treasurer before the lodge is closed.

32nd. That as this lodge is instituted entirely for the good and propagation of the Craft, it is therefore especially ordered, that any expenses which may be made after the lodge is closed, shall not be defrayed out of the fund of the lodge, but only those which shall be made during the lodge hours, and if any of the members choose to stay and sup, &c., they shall be obliged to defray such expenses out of their private pockets.

33rd. That every quarter (on 19 Feb., 19 May, 19 Aug., and 19 Nov.) the Treasurer do lay a true state of his accounts before the lodge of what money is in the Treasury, and if there is any to spare, it shall first be employed in the necessary decorations of this lodge, as shall be judged by a majority of voices of the Gr. Elt. Perf. and Sub'me Members. N.B.—It is understood that whenever the Right Worshipful Founder of this lodge shall honour it with his presence, he is always to have the honour of the chair, which he may refuse or accept, and has always two votes in any debates, and in his absence the Master has the same prerogative.

34th. That if a procession is concluded upon, all the members of this lodge who are able to walk, shall have the Badges and Orders of their highest degrees in the procession, and any other brother Masons and members of other regular constituted lodges shall also be allowed to walk in said procession on paying for their tickets what shall be deemed reasonable, the form of the procession to be regulated by the Founder, Master, and Officers of this lodge, according to the seniority and superiority of the members of such procession.

35th. Whenever a Knight of the East, Prince of Jerusalem, &c., visits a Lodge of Perfection and is known that he is a Knight or a Prince, the Master sends some Deputies to know if he chooses to be introduced with all his honours, he answers he expects it by the dignity of his Royal Degree, on which the Deputies report that the Prince or Brother must be introduced with all his honours, then the Master sends 4 Masters of the highest degrees (the Grand Officers excepted) with naked swords to receive him, the Prince enters with his sword in his hand or with his buckler and spear, and stands between the two first Officers in the West, salutes the Master and Brethren with his sword without taking off his hat, after which the Master invites the Prince visitor to come and sit at his right hand; when he advances to the Master all the brethren form an arch with their swords, through which he goes till he arrives to the seat, which he may take or refuse, but if he takes it, &c., he returns it immediately and has a right to go out of the lodge being it is closed, the arch being formed before his going away.

A Knight of the East cannot enter with those honours if a Prince of Jerusalem is present, nor a Prince of Jerusalem if any of higher degree are present, and then only have the arch formed and take their seats according to rank.

A Knight of the East visiting a lodge is styled Illustrious Knight; a Prince of Jerusalem, Valorous Prince; a Knight of the Sun, Sovereign Prince; and a Prince of the Royal Secret, Thrice Illustrious and Sublime Prince.

A lodge is obliged to give an exact account of every one of these transactions to any of the above (in those High Degrees) visitors, and if any coolness subsist among the brethren, he is to reconcile them; but those who are obstinate he has a power to expel them immediately, if they will not conform to the rules and regulations of Masonry.

The visitors of these High Degrees have a right to keep their seats in all operations of the Symbolic Lodge with their hats on, but cannot claim those privileges without their Orders and Decorations.

Five Princes of Jerusalem can form a Grand Council, but no less number; and only one Grand Council can be formed in every Province, and if any Lodges of Perfection established in another Province where no Grand Council is established, such lodges may appeal to the Grand Council where such is established who can finally judge, and no appeal can be had from such judgment as they are authorised by their perfect knowledge in every matter relative to the Craft.

WE have much pleasure in stating that Bro. W. James Hughan will write an article on "Initiations under the Grand Lodge of Scotland" for THE FREEMASON of September the 10th, in answer to the views expressed by brethren belonging to lodges under the Scottish Constitution, with whose views Bro. Hughan entirely sympathises, and only regrets they are not adopted in Scotland itself.

MASONIC UNIVERSALITY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Cosmopolitanism is the base and keystone of Masonry. It constitutes its main beauty and utility, and every candidate is solemnly assured thereof at his initiation. But, yet, it cannot be denied that Masonry was never entirely free from sectarianism, and that efforts are constantly made, under one pretext or another, to drive the sectarian wedge deeper and deeper.

First of all, the Grand Lodge of England of 1717 was organised on St. John's Day; next, it made it obligatory on Masons, not only to celebrate the Baptist's day, but also that of the Evangelist; next, was palmed off the fiction of the Grand Mastership and Grand Patronage of the Saints; next, the Bible was placed in the lodge; next, quotations from the Old and New Testaments were infused into the work; next, some genius discovered that the third degree is altogether Christian; next, another genius discovered that the two St. Johns were Masonic parallels, and from the earliest time were so regarded by the ancient brethren: and this piling up of all kind of humbug, in order to connect Masonry with Christianity, continued, unchecked, until 1813. It was then, when the Masonic sham of universality became too offensively manifest, that Dr. Hemming was authorised, in revising the ritual, to expunge therefrom the allusions to the saints, and other conflicting elements. These omissions certainly tended to bring Masonry into greater harmony with its professed mission of 'cultivating a true and sincere friendship among those who might otherwise have remained at a perpetual distance. The reform, however, was only partial. In order to compromise with sectarian prejudices, the Bible remained as part of the furniture of the lodge, and certain far-fetched allusions—such as "Sacred Scripture," "Sacred Law," "Morning Star," &c.—were engrafted on the ceremonies. Upon what ground the continuance of these topics could be justified in a Society which claims "to unite men of every sect and opinion, be they what they may," I cannot tell. If their idea was that "the end justifies the means;" in the first place, such an excuse is abominable; and, secondly, can the desired end be reached thereby? Can a Christian become more intensely Christian by tolerating and encouraging inconsistency and deception, or can an unbeliever become converted through such flimsy devices?

If our over-zealous Christian brethren had, however, remained contented with the concessions left to them, these far-fetched allusions would probably never have been challenged; but it is the nature of bigotry not to be content with partial concessions, and consequently the "irrepressible conflict" between those hankering to sectarianise the Institution and those who are opposed to it, must continue. Again, had those zealots come forth squarely, and demanded from the Grand Lodge a law to exclude all who disbelieve in the inspiration of the Bible, I should not have blamed them so much; but they act underhandedly. Under the guise of Masonry, they endeavour to promulgate sectarian dogmas; and it is this duplicity which deserves condemnation. Duplicity to promote Christianity must eventually tend not only to disparage Masonry, but even Christianity itself must depreciate with it; and if this sectarian hankering and bickering should continue, Masonry must either dwindle down to a mere sect, or the Bible, and all allusions to it, will have to be removed from the Masonic lodge.

Nor can I see that by accomplishing their end that peace and harmony could ensue, even in its more contracted field. Assuming that a law was passed to admit no disbeliever in the inspiration of the Bible, Mahometans and other disbelievers will of course be rejected. As the Bible consists of two parts, and as the Jew rejects one of these parts, the Jew must step aside too, and the Fraternity will then consist altogether of Christians. But here the trouble begins anew. The Catholic and Protestant Bibles differ, and who is to settle which is which? Besides these two, there are about fifty other translations, all differing from each other, and even the three oldest manuscript Testaments existing in the world differ from each other, and from the English version; and that is not all. The Bible is very often obscure both in the originals and translations, and cannot be mastered without the aid of commentators; of these commentaries there are any number, each differing from all others, and how are our Christian Masons going to decide which commentary should be regarded in the lodge as the standard? In addition to all these complications, one Rev. Brother may disbelieve in the inspiration of this or that book contained in the Bible; another may doubt the truth of the Red Sea miracles; while still another may deny the Mosaic cosmogony; and, besides all these, how shall we reconcile the lesson we teach to the E.A., viz., "The sun is the centre of the system," with the implied astronomy in the book of Joshua?

Narrowing Masonry down to the mere Christian world, without the establishment of an inquisition to nip heresy in the bud, will not extinguish the flame, but will rather serve to add new fuel. The Bible, we all know, teaches truth, morality, &c., &c. About its morality mankind are agreed, but about dogmas there is a diversity of opinion; and however good the Bible may be, in the hands of fanatics it has been the cause of a good deal of mischief. Henry VIII. at one time burnt Protestants for not believing in the Catholic Bible, and afterwards burnt Catholics for not believing in the Protestant one, and between the time of Henry VIII. and the expulsion of James II., the History of England is a history of bible-believers burning and persecuting other bible-believers; and to these incessant persecutions we are indebted for the establishment and rapid spread of Masonry. Its feature of universality, or freedom from sectarianism, constituted its main claim to popular favour. Now, if the retention of the Bible, with the allusions to it, is to be made the excuse for introducing dogmas and throwing stumbling blocks in the way of conscientious brethren, I think it is no Masonic heresy to believe that it is better to cultivate a true and sincere friendship among the Brotherhood without mention of the Bible, than to have the Bible in the lodge without sincere friendship.

That we are tending one way or another—that a conflict of ideas exists in our midst—is evident from letters which appeared in your paper, July 16th and 23rd. The former, copied from the Suffolk Chronicle, complains, that whereas a Rev. brother had been invited by a P.G.M. to address the Brotherhood, and the said brother having introduced sectarian dogmas into his address, and supposing it to have been done unintentionally, therefore suggested to the Rev. brother to revise his address before issuing it in print as a Masonic sermon. In reply to this the Rev. brother, while admitting that Masonry "is decidedly unsectarian," excuses himself on the plea: first, I am a Church of England clergyman; the sermon was given in my church, what else can you expect from me but a Church of England sermon? Secondly, does not the Bible lie open in the lodge, and the ism I preached is part thereof? Thirdly, the doctrine of the Trinity is acknowledged in the Royal Arch; and, fourthly, the G.M. and a number of the brethren thanked me for my sermon.

All which is doubtless true; but yet the Rev. brother should have remembered that he was invited by a G.M., not of Royal Archers but of Masons; that a decidedly sectarian sermon should not be preached before a society whose professions are decidedly anti-sectarian; and that it smacks of fraud to palm off on the world a sectarian sermon for a Masonic one.

Let us for a moment imagine ourselves in Utah where the people, in addition to the Old and New Testaments, have also a sacred book called the "Book of the Mormons," and probably keep this appendage to their Bible on their Masonic altar; let us also imagine the Grand Chaplain of Utah G.L. delivering a sermon before the Utah Masons, in which Mormonism is declared as the only true religion. Would any one, not of the Mormon sect, acknowledge such a sermon as Masonic?

But we can even illustrate our idea without going to Mormon-land. The Rev. William R. Alger, one of the Grand Chaplains of Massachusetts, is a Unitarian preacher; he is highly esteemed in Boston as a man of culture and benevolence, and his writings, especially his "History of a Future State," are known wherever English books are read. The said reverend brother, in one of his sermons to his congregation, denounced the belief in the Divinity of Christ "as the most monstrous absurdity;" and that and similar sermons were printed in the Boston papers. Now, that is all well enough: Mr. Alger had a perfect right to preach to his congregation what he pleased, and whatever pleased it. But suppose the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts had invited Bro. Alger to deliver an oration before the Masonic Brotherhood, and Bro. Alger would have indulged on that occasion in using such an expression, would not every one denounce Bro. Alger's conduct as highly unmasonic? In vain would he plead that the "Sacred Law," according to his rendering, justified him in saying so; that the G.M. thanked him for it; or that a majority of his hearers applauded him. The cry would naturally be, "What have majorities to do with the case?" and every one to whom it gave offence would be justified in denouncing it as a violation of the assurance he received at his initiation. And, now, where is the difference between the supposed case above referred to and the actual one, of which complaint was made by "A Freemason?" If an Episcopalian can with impunity offend the religious feelings, or even prejudices, of Dissenters, why cannot a parson of another stripe do the same to an Episcopalian?

In conclusion, let us remember that among the conditions of admission into Masonry are those of "mature age and sound judgment." Each man, when initiated, is supposed to have a certain settled idea as to what dogmas (not essential to Masonry) are true or false. In addressing, therefore, a Society consisting of divers religious sects, the speaker has no more business to give prominence to his own religious views than to those of his political ones; and if our Christian brethren would only learn to think a little less of sect, and practise a little more the "golden rule," sectarian discourses in Masonic gatherings would be as rare as political ones; and if errors are sometimes committed through inadvertency, it is much more proper to correct those errors than to endeavour to justify them under such pretences as those of the Rev. Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of England.

Fraternally and respectfully yours,
JACOB NORTON.

MASONRY IN JERSEY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In this dull season of the year the following scrap of Masonic intelligence may not be without interest to some of your readers.

On Friday evening, the 26th ult., the benefit of the lessee of the theatre here was announced to be under the patronage of the P.G. Master, the P.G. Officers, and the W.M.'s and brethren of the various lodges in the island, the bills further stating that the brethren would appear in full Masonic regalia, as a compliment to the beneficiary who was himself a brother. To this, of course, it being sanctioned by the presence of the P.G. Master, no one could make an objection; but, sir, you may judge of my surprise when the lessee appeared upon the stage in the dress of a R.A. Mason, accompanied by a P.G. Officer in full Masonic costume, to sing a duet; after which, another brother, attired as a M.M., came forward and sang two comic songs. While giving every credit to the members of the Craft for supporting a brother, it appears to me that in making such a public show of themselves as I have described, the brethren were certainly doing nothing for "the good of the Craft in general," or of their own lodges in particular; whether they were violating the Laws of Freemasonry I am unaware. I cannot remember any special law relating to such conduct, and therefore suppose that those who framed the Constitutions never imagined that they would be called upon to legislate for such a breach of good taste as has been exhibited in the above case.

I am, yours fraternally,
A LONDON W.M.

SCOTCH V. ENGLISH FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Much has been said and much has been written respecting the very loose and careless manner in which many of the Scotch lodges admit candidates to the mysteries and privileges of the Craft—a system that, amongst its many evils, produces a luxuriant crop of the "genus-begging Masons," and permits many other improper characters to join in our sacred rites. Many suggestions have also from time to time appeared in your columns, pointing out various remedies to check the evils complained of; notably, the raising of the initiation fees, and making it imperative that a certain time must elapse between the proposition being made and the ballot taking place, in order that due inquiries can be made touching the moral character and other requisite qualifications which every candidate for Freemasonry should possess. This, no doubt, would be a step in the right direction, and one I should hail with satisfaction and delight.

Whilst acknowledging with feelings of deep regret that the evils above complained of have an existence, I would ask the question: Is Scottish Freemasonry solely responsible for them? The answer, I am afraid, cannot be in the affirmative, for there are innumerable instances in which some English lodges are equally culpable, and who, for the sake of receiving the fees, have admitted improper persons, and thus done great injury to the Craft and assisted in perpetuating those very evils of which they so loudly complain. What, for instance, can be thought of the conduct of the W.M., officers, and brethren of a lodge held in one of the most populous towns in the province of West Yorkshire, in permitting five persons to be proposed as candidates at one time, the whole five being non-resident, but all boon companions from a neighbouring town in the same province within one hour's journey by rail, and where three lodges are regularly held? What can be said of their desire to sustain the high character to which English Freemasons lay claim when they quietly allow a month to pass over without making a single inquiry of the lodges in the town where the candidates reside, and thus showing some desire to become acquainted with their antecedents, present habits, and moral qualifications? What, I would ask, can be urged in extenuation of the conduct of any lodge who can proceed to ballot for, and accept, five persons who are total strangers to them, and about whom they have never troubled themselves to inquire? Do our Scottish brethren do anything more reckless? Yet such is a recent occurrence in a lodge where the initiation fees are moderately large (six guineas, I believe, and two guineas annual subscription), at any rate sufficiently large to deter any one not possessed of moderate means from becoming a candidate, and also in a province that has a bye-law making it incumbent on the W. Master (in case of non-residence) to make due inquiry of the lodges in the town where candidates may reside, and make known to the brethren the result of such inquiry, previous to the ballot taking place. This is not a solitary instance, but still sufficient to show that something more is required than high initiation fees and a lapse of time between the proposition and ballot, in order to keep out men who, although possessed of the requisite number of "guineas," nevertheless lack the "tongue of good report." It is sufficient to show the necessity of the brethren exercising greater care in the selection of a W. Master, and placing in the chair of their lodge one, who is not only well posted in the Book of Constitutions and the bye-laws of his province and lodge, but one also who will exercise a rigid observance of the same, and carefully watch over and guard its interest with a most jealous eye. Whilst such reckless proceedings as the above are taking place in our very midst, are we justified in continually finding fault with our Scottish brethren? Should we not display more of the true spirit of Freemasonry by looking at home first, and reforming our own conduct, rather than by persistently attributing to others those faults of which we ourselves are guilty.

Yours fraternally,
A COUNTRY W.M.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As you favoured your readers with a copy of a circular at page 368, no doubt a good many will be anxious to know what became of that famous document.

When it was brought before the Grand Lodge of Scotland, on 1st ult., it met with a decided refusal, as out of all the members of G.L. about a dozen voted for No. 1 motion, while No. 2 was withdrawn. One of the members considered it a direct insult to Grand Lodge, and that the brother who introduced it ought to apologise—which was done.

Bro. H. states in the copy of letter sent you that he expects the support of all true Masons; I hope he will not consider that the majority of the brethren were not true men, seeing they voted against him. He also states that Scottish Freemasons in the sister countries are viewed "with suspicion and distrust." This I deny. He further states that he "believes that it arises chiefly from the loose system of admitting candidates to our Order, and the conferring of degrees on the same."

Not chiefly from the system of admitting candidates, but principally from the conferring the degrees, and of giving the candidates sufficient instruction; let us examine this matter, and prepare a remedy for the same. It is well known that about two-thirds of the R.W.M.'s in Scotland are incapable of working their lodges, and of imparting that instruction to a candidate which it is necessary for him to receive, so that he may be capable of acquitting himself as a Mason in any country or sphere in which he may be placed. In England no one can attain to the chair unless he has served as a Warden for at least one year, and is found able to conduct the working of a lodge. This is a very good law; but I would have it that every candidate for the chair should undergo an examination before three or more qualified Past Masters, and if found capable of going through the whole formula of working and instruction in the three degrees, let him be installed—if not, reject him until he has qualified himself. And, also, for the purpose of having a lodge properly instructed, they ought to meet at least once monthly as a Lodge of Instruction. Further, no R.W.M. or Warden should hold the office for more than two years. I have known Masters in the chair for four, six, and eight years, and during the whole period never attempting to work the E.A. degree. How could these Masters be capable of instructing a candidate—one going abroad from such a lodge? Could you expect anything but distrust and suspicion? There lies the looseness.

As has already been stated in THE FREEMASON, there ought to be a uniformity of fees. Such is not the case. If the fees were fixed by Grand Lodge at three guineas each, it would be better for the Craft; the present system varies from twenty-six shillings and sixpence up to three guineas—there is one lodge, I believe, charges four pounds. Some will say it will not be an easy matter to get all to agree to the above figure. If Grand Lodge, in granting all new charters and re-proving old ones, was to fix the fees at three guineas, a very short time would bring them all in unison. With the assistance of Provincial Grand Lodges, a few years would suffice to work it, and in course of time we should be able to boast of as many fine Masonic halls and Masonic charities as our sister kingdoms, and show to the world that Masonry in Scotland was not a shadow left only with the name.

I have no doubt that Bro. H.'s motions were pure and intended for the benefit of the Craft, and as he expresses himself open for suggestion, I beg to draw his attention to the defects pointed out in my letter.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,
Yours faithfully and fraternally,
MONTRA.

P.S.—Since writing the above, I observe that your leader, No. 74, page 378, has been overlooked by me, where I find you endorse Bro. Hamilton's statement. Are you aware that the laws of Grand Lodge bind us to make due inquiries into the character of our candidates? Vide, Grand Lodge Laws, chap. xxi., sec. iv.:

"And in order to uphold the purity of the Fraternity, it is specially recommended that no candidate for initiation into Masonry be admitted a member of any lodge until his character and qualifications have been fully inquired into, and the brethren have expressed themselves satisfied (by ballot in open lodge) of the eligibility of the candidate," &c.

Sec. vi. also says:

"No candidate for initiation shall be advanced from the degree of Apprentice to that of Fellow-Craft, or raised from the degree of Fellow-Craft to that of Master Mason, at a shorter interval than that of two weeks between each degree, unless it shall be certified by two of the brethren of the lodge in which the candidate is to be passed or raised, that he is about to remove from Scotland within the interval hereby proscribed," &c., &c.

A great many of your readers may imagine that Bro. H.'s propositions were something new, the above quotation of the laws will dispel that idea. If any lodge wilfully breaks the law, let them be punished. It is very strange, yet true, that this same law was broken or departed from a short time ago, and I understand that both the proposer and seconder of the motions referred to were cognisant of it. Oh! consistency, thou art a jewel.

TEMPLAR COMMANDERIES.—ERRORS IN PRECEDENCE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am very unwilling to intrude upon your columns, but, as I think I have good cause to take exception to some parts of Sir Knight Yarker's letter, under this heading, in your impression of Saturday last, I must beg permission to make a few observations thereon.

Sir Knight Yarker says, "The history of this, the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester, has been gratuitously placed within the reach of every member of the Order, and it is therefore somewhat ungracious of the Executive in London to plead ignorance of its history and status. Yet such is the case in a recent correspondence with the Grand Chancery on the subject."

This history of the Jerusalem Encampment has never been sent to me officially or otherwise. I am not aware that the Executive in London has pleaded ignorance of the history and status of the Encampment. I certainly am not conscious of having done so; and I think Sir Knight Yarker must be under some misapprehension in stating that "such is the case in a recent correspondence with the Grand Chancery."

I might further take exception to the statement that I "have promised that the case of the Jerusalem Encampment shall be looked into and put right." What I stated in my letter to Sir Knight Yarker is, "The dates of the warrants of 1786 and 1795 shall be inserted in the next calendar. An alteration in the number is, however, as you evidently see, a more difficult matter to deal with. The subject, however, shall not be overlooked." If the question is to be raised under which warrant the Jerusalem Encampment is most entitled to take precedence, I never intended to assume to myself the power of deciding it, and I submit that my words cannot fairly bear the construction put upon them by Sir Knight Yarker.

If there be an error in inserting in the calendar the date of the warrant granted in London to the Jerusalem Encampment in 1795, instead of the date of the York Warrant in 1786, which was done for many years before I was appointed G.V.C., the fault has not altogether rested with the Executive in London, as I think the following facts will show. In the bye laws of the Jerusalem Encampment, dated respectively in 1851 and 1859, and deposited in the Grand Conclave archives, the title pages bear these words: "Established by warrant or patent, dated Anno Domini 1795," and no allusion whatever is made to the York Warrant of 1786. In the list of officers in the bye-laws of 1859, Sir Knight Yarker is described as the Registrar. Again, in the annual return of the encampment, dated 20th February, 1863, and signed "J. Yarker," the date of the warrant is given "20th May, 1795," and even in the annual return received in April last, which return, however, is not signed at all, "20th May, 1795," is given as the date of the warrant. I mention these facts merely to show that the encampment, and even Sir Knight Yarker, have not hitherto attached the importance to the York Warrant of 1786, with which it is apparently now regarded.

I cannot omit to notice the expression "apparent favouritism" in Sir Knight Yarker's letter. Considering that in my first letter to Sir Knight Yarker I disclaimed any thought of dealing unfairly with the Jerusalem Encampment (and I beg to add here, or with any other encampment), and assured him in the strongest terms that on this question no feeling whatever did or could possibly exist, the use of the expression in a letter intended for publication is, I think, to use Sir Knight Yarker's own words, "somewhat ungracious."

Yours very fraternally

WM. TINKLER, G.V.C., K.T.

THE RHODOCANAKIS CONTROVERSY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—If your correspondents "X. F.S.A.," and "Veritas" were not anonymous they would, I think, scarcely venture to make such reckless statements as those contained in their recent letters. By what authority does "X. F.S.A." speak on behalf of "every herald in the kingdom, and all heraldic F.S.A.'s," whatever this latter expression may mean? It is certainly not the fact, that all the gentlemen referred to agree that Burke's Peerage is "the only standard authority of the day;" on the contrary, I know many Fellows of the S.A., and accomplished heralds and genealogists, who consider the volume in question but slight "authority," and it was a most distinguished member of the Heralds' College, London, who first drew my attention to the book mentioned in my former letter. The list of Naturalised Aliens given by "Philaletes" is very opportune. What if it should turn out that Prince Démétrius Rhodocanakis, whose title has thus been recognised by the Home Office, was of the family of the gentleman who has been the subject of so much newspaper correspondence! As regards the letter of "Veritas," he states that Prince Rhodocanakis "used a title so evidently denied him in his intercourse with the world, for the purpose of taking higher honours in the Craft," thus making a brace of assertions without an atom of proof. Will "Veritas" repeat them in your columns, adding his real name and address? The reply "Veritas" vouchsafes me is amusing, but I deny having made any "attack" on Sir B. Burke. Your correspondent adds—of course without proof—that Prince Rhodocanakis "dare not submit his claims to Ulster;" why should he do so, when the utmost Sir Bernard could do, would be to recognise the title in Ireland, where the Prince does not live and perhaps has never been?

Lastly, I too say, "let us have the proof," and let "Veritas" set a good example by producing his.

Yours fraternally,

JULIUS A. PEARSON, F.S.A.

August 29th, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have for some time patiently, though with pain, watched the correspondence in your paper, concerning the merits of Bro. Rhodocanakis. Do your correspondents forget that he is a brother? Has "Veritas" made himself quite certain that "the Prince used a title so evidently denied him in his intercourse with the world, for the purpose of taking higher honours in the Craft?" I would remind "Veritas" that when once the cry of "Stop thief" is raised, all the tag-rag-and-bobtail rush after, neither knowing nor caring whether the cry was called for or not.

Surely, Bro. Rhodocanakis is entitled to a certain amount of courtesy, such as is or ought to be shown by one gentleman to another. Whatever be his title, he is, to my personal knowledge, as gentlemanly in his manners as any Mason I have yet had the privilege of meeting. Why then should his name be hawked about, and insult heaped upon insult? Is it because he chooses to call himself, "Le Prince Rhodocanakis?" or is it from envy? At all events, whatever may have excited the wrath of "Veritas" and others, it is to be regretted that brethren should forget the principles which were laid before them on their entrance into the Craft.

Trusting, dear sir and brother, that your influence will put an end to the unfriendly remarks which have appeared and may appear in your paper, which is my only aim in thus troubling you, believe me,

Very faithfully yours,

A LANCASHIRE P.M.

Liverpool, 29th August, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have to-day the opportunity of taking copy of the following letter, for which I beg insertion. I send it without authority and without remark, merely pointing out that Mr. Spartati is the Consul-General of Greece.

Yours fraternally,

August 30th, 1870.

London, 25th August, 1870.

Dear Sir,—I was never more surprised in my life, than when I read that certain answers were given by me to parties who called upon me. In reply, I beg most distinctly to state that I have not seen any one who has asked me about you or your titles, nor, consequently, have I answered any questions, or made any statement whatever. But on receipt of your letter I have made inquiries, and find that a few days back, some persons called at the Consulate, and addressing themselves to the Secretary, asked him whether he could oblige them with any authorised list of the Greek nobility. His answer was, as far as he recollects, "We have neither authorised nor unauthorised lists of the Greek nobility; we have no nobility in Greece, nor do we acknowledge any titles. I do not know personally the Prince Rhodocanakis you speak of, but if he be a Greek subject, he cannot use his title in Greece. He may be a Prince here or elsewhere, but not in Greece." I am sorry that you should have been annoyed in any way, but my Secretary could not have answered differently. The parties after receiving their answers, mentioned (according to my Secretary's statement) that they were deputed by the Freemasons to make the inquiries. Had I been present I should have added that there are many Greek Byzantine Princes, as Prince Mavrogordatos, Soutzos, &c., and Counts from the Ionian Islands, &c., who keep their titles even in Greece, (by courtesy,) though strictly Greece does not acknowledge titles of nobility.

I remain, dear sir, yours truly,

M. SPARTATI.

The Prince Rhodocanakis.

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

The following conclaves of this chivalric Order have been recently formed:—

Holy Land Conclave, No. 26, at Toronto, Canada, by Em. Frates S. B. Harman (Mayor of Toronto), as M.P.S.; J. K. Kerr, 18°, as V.E.; F. J. Menet, 18°, W. R. Harris, and W. M. Jamieson.

Lactantian Conclave, No. 27, at Kingston, Canada, by Em. Frates W. B. Simpson, 33° (Past Grand Master of Canada), as M.P.S.; S. D. Fowler, as V.E.; A. S. Kirkpatrick, E. H. Parker, J. Kerr, H. E. Swales, G. M. Wilkinson, J. V. Noel, and G. A. Kirkpatrick.

Bombay Conclave, No. 28, at Bombay, by Em. Frates J. Percy Leith, 33°, Inspector-Gen.; E. Tyrrell Leith, 18°, as M.P.S.; Colonel L. W. Penn, 18°, as V.E.; Hon. Justice Gibbs, 33°, District Grand Master of Bombay; M. Balfour, 18°; C. A. Langley, 18°; J. Dixon, 18°; J. P. Cornforth, 18°; J. Thomas, 18°; A. F. Shepherd, 18°; A. Swift, Captain B. H. Mathew, 18°; T. Crawford, G. W. R. Malins, and G. L. D'Emden, and A. Hay, 18°.

The M. Em. Frater Colonel W. J. B. McLeod Moore, 33°, Chief Insp.-Gen., has also opened conclaves at Orillia, Trenton, and Belleville—all in Ontario, Canada, and which are numbered 29, 30, and 31 respectively.

It is interesting to note that the Order has been in abeyance in India since the time of Sir Knight Richard Jebb, who was authorised, in 1811, to create Knights "within the limits of British India," but it is not known how far he succeeded in establishing the Order there. It has now been happily revived under the able auspices of Ill. Bro. Percy Leith, and there is no doubt of its future success.

Indolence should not persuade the foot to halt, or wrath to turn our steps out of the way; but forgetting injuries and selfish feelings, and remembering man was born for the aid of his generation, and not for his own enjoyments only, but to do that which is good; we should be swift to have mercy, to save, to strengthen, and execute benevolence.—Old Lectures.

JOURNEY.—Every Freemason, when he is initiated into the Craft, is taught to consider human life as a journey. He would faint with fatigue, lose himself in unknown roads, or fall over high precipices if he was not supported, faithfully conducted, and fraternally warned. By these means he arrives in safety at the end of his journey, and is permitted to receive light himself, that he may be able to support, lead, and warn others when traveling the same road.—Gadick.

ROYAL ARCH.

CONSECRATION OF THE ANDREW CHAPTER, No. 834.

This new chapter was consecrated at the Royal Sussex Hotel, Broadway, Hammersmith, on Saturday the 27th ult., by E. Comps. R. Wentworth Little, P.Z. 177 and 975, as M.E.Z.; Joshua Nunn, P.Z. 820, P.G.D.C., as H.; and James Brett, P.Z. 177 and 975, as J.; and it is needless to add that with efficient Principals, aided as they were by the tact and experience of E. Comp. H. G. Buss, P.Z. 177, as D.C., the ceremony was rendered to perfection. We are indebted to Comp. John Thompson, H. of the new chapter, for a copy of his paper, the West London Observer, from which we make the following interesting extracts, in the latter part merely altering the future into the past tense, as the proceedings fully justified the encomiums of our friend:—

The Royal Sussex Hotel, Broadway, Hammersmith, is a house rendered famous in the memory of Masons, because from it issued a goodly assembly of the Craft, headed by the very popular Grand Master of the Order, the late Duke of Sussex, in the year 1825, to lay the foundation-stone of the Hammersmith Suspension Bridge. The brethren on that occasion, clothed, opened a lodge, and proceeded in procession through King-street West, to the then narrow turning known as Angel-lane, there being no other approach to the bridge at that time, as we quote from "Faulkner's History of Hammersmith":—"On the 7th of May 1825, the foundation-stone of the north tower was laid by His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex, with Masonic ceremony. The coffer dam being fitted up as an amphitheatre in which the stone was suspended. At four o'clock the Royal Duke arrived, the officers of the Grand Lodge assembled at the Latymer School Room, and the lodge was opened by the Master and Officers of the Caveat Lodge, No. 231. The procession then walked from the school-room to the Broadway, down Angel-lane, in Masonic Order. On arriving at the entrance, the procession divided and took their station right and left, and the Duke passed to the platform. The ceremony of laying the stone commenced after three cheers had been given to his Royal Highness. The Grand Treasurer delivered to him a bottle containing the coins of the reigning sovereign; also a brass plate to be placed over the cavity, with the following inscription: 'This foundation-stone of a bridge of suspension over the river Thames, from the hamlet of Hammersmith, in the county of Middlesex, to Barnes, in the county of Surrey, was laid with due Masonic ceremony, by His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex, Most Worshipful Grand Master, on Saturday, May the 7th, 1825. W. T. Clark, Esq., Engineer; George, William, and Stephen Bird, and Captain Brown, Royal Marines, Contractors.' Mr. Robert Holl, Past Grand Secretary, Clerk and Secretary. On the stone being lowered, the Duke scattered the corn, and said, 'As I have poured the corn, the oil, and the wine, emblems of wealth, plenty and comfort, so may the bridge tend to communicate prosperity and wealth from one end of the island to the other, God bless the King.' The procession then returned nearly in the same order, and His Royal Highness dined with a numerous company at the Coffee house," now the Royal Sussex Hotel. The notice informs us that the new chapter is called the "Andrew" Chapter, in fitting compliment to one of the most accomplished Masons in the Order in general and of this neighbourhood in particular. Such an esteemed godfather will gather good working Royal Arch Masons from all round, and we predict for this chapter a thoroughly successful and happy issue, alike worthy of the Founders and complimentary to Bro. Andrew. The ceremony of the consecration was conducted by Comps. R. Wentworth Little, P.Z.; Joshua Nunn, P.Z.; and J. Brett, P.Z.; while the ceremony of installation of Principals was performed by Comp. Andrew, P.Z., names which guarantee a great treat to Companions. An oration on the nature and principles of the institution was delivered by Comp. Brett; the Dedication Prayer and other scripture portions were all entrusted to proper exponents, and these ancient ceremonies having been observed, the Companions were asked if they approved of the officers named in the charter, and the approval having been signified in Masonic form, the M.E.Z. dedicated and constituted the chapter, and the patriarchal benediction was succeeded by the installation of the Principals and investment of Officers, as follows:—E. Comps. R. S. Lines, M.E.Z.; John Thompson, as A.; and J. Slack, as J. The subordinate Officers appointed were, Comps. S. Millis, S.N.; Bean, P.S.; Read, 1st Asst.; Worthington, 2nd Asst.; Bryatt, D.C.; Horshead and Cole, Stewards. Among other Companions present we noticed Comps. Joseph Smith, P.G.D.C. and P.Z., 177; W. Smith, P.Z. 33; G. King, jun., Z. 1260; G. King, sen., H. 1260; Payne, P.Z. 177; Daly, Lawe, Roche, Sirapson, Bray, and Bristo.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies of installation, E. Comp. Andrew delivered some fine addresses to the Principals and Companions, and on resuming his seat was loudly applauded.

It was then proposed, seconded, and unanimously resolved, that the rank of Honorary Member be conferred upon Comps. Little, Nunn, and Brett, for their services at the consecration, and these Companions having expressed their acknowledgments the chapter was closed, and the members and visitors proceeded to the banquet, which was exceedingly well served, and there was no lack of really drinkable wine during the evening.

After the cloth was cleared, the M.E.Z. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, Comps Smith and Nunn responding for the "Grand Officers."

The "Health of the M.E.Z., Comp. Lines," was proposed by Comp. Andrew in a very appreciative speech, and was greeted with extreme cordiality by the Companions, as was also the toast of the "Consecrating Principals and other Assistants during the ceremonies."

Comps. Little, Nunn, Brett and Buss responded. For "The Visitors" Comp. W. Smith returned thanks, and "The health of the Godfather and Founder of the Chapter, Comp. Andrew, P.Z. 19," was then proposed, with many felicitations to that worthy Companion on the successful result of his Masonic labours, the M.E.Z. concluding with the expression of his hope that the Andrew Chapter might last as long as Freemasonry itself. The toast was received with enthusiasm, and Comp. Andrew modestly, but evidently with a high sense of the importance of the occasion, thanked the Companions for the compliment, and for the support they had given him.

For "The Officers" Comps. Millis, Bean, Read and Worthington, responded, and then the "Janitor's" toast gave the signal for departure.

Several good songs were sung during the evening, and Comp. Little's lines, "God, the Almighty Founder, spake," were well recited by Comp. Read, who possesses a fine and flexible voice.

A PLEA FOR THE SUFFERERS BY THE LATE CALAMITOUS FIRE AT UTTWA.

Dedicated respectfully to Bro. STOHWASSER, P.M. 435, by one who has personally experienced and will ever preserve a sweet remembrance of his kindness.

Kind and generous-hearted Masons,
Strive to aid the suffering poor,
As ye read the tale of sorrow
All with feeling must deplore.
Time is fleeting, want is pressing,
Misery ravages the land,
And each Mason blest with plenty
Should relieve with liberal hand.

From how many homes hath comfort
Almost wholly disappeared?
And the poor survivors suffer
In their wretchedness—uncheer'd
By one ray of hope or gladness
To illumine their lowly hearth,
Destitute and broken-hearted,
Dark appears their future path.

Then should not the deep compassion
Of the rich and bounteous give
Some relief to sorrow's children,
While in such distress they live?
Kind, benevolent-hearted Masons,
Strive to aid the suffering poor,
Doubt not God will recompense ye
When life's pilgrimage is o'er.

THE "RED-CROSS KNIGHT."

The following is a translation of the poem recently addressed by Ferdinand Freilgrath to his son, on the departure of the youth to serve as a surgeon at the seat of war. The red cross on a white ground, directed by the Geneva Convention to be worn on the arm of such volunteers, suggests the title of the poem:—

I.

This leaf, my boy—soon may it
Upon thy arm alight;
The courier winds convey it;
I trust it to their flight.
Afar to thee it saileth,
Where'er amid our host
The battle's heat prevaileth—
'Twill find thee at thy post.

II.

Well would'st thou in the contest
Strike home for Fatherland;
The Frenchman's ranks thou frontest—
Yet not with sword in hand.
Upon the field thou servest
Yet not in deadly strife;
Thy hero hand thou nerverst
To save, not sever, life!

III.

Thy heart so warmly glowing
Impelled thee to the Rhine;
Thy arm the red cross showing
Within the German line.
Thou step'st among the stricken
Upon the field of gore,
The dying life to quicken,
The wounded to restore.

IV.

The fevered brow thou soothest
With drops of healing balm,
The way-side pillow smoothest
When comes the deadly quail.
The dying prayer thou hearest
Upon the night-wind swoon,
In dying faces peerest
Beneath the autumn moon.

V.

Sad, solemn thy endeavour!
Yet, boy, take heart of grace;
Though life and death have never
So looked thee in the face.
Let peace be still thy mission
Thy soul aye quick to feel—
War's fierce and fell collision
Can harden it to steel.

VI.

Still keep it warm within thee,
By fortune never swayed,
And golden spurs thou'lt win thee
In human-love's crusade.
While war cries round thee heighten,
This truth thy spirit draws:
'Tis better pain to lighten
Than wanton pain to cause.

VII.

Then still through dead and dying
Thy faithful course pursue,
And keep the red cross flying
Within each warrior's view.
Ne'er from thy pathway swerving
Friends, foes alike to shield—
Thy curse for him reserving
Who forced us to the field.

VIII.

Farewell, my boy! God's favour
Attend thee to the close,
Nor in thy love-task waver—
My blessing with thee goes!
And if we e'er behold thee
In Deutschland's conquering van,
In fond embrace we'll fold thee
A boy no more—a man!

FAITH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.—The above Lodge of Instruction is held every Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the spacious and commodious rooms at Bro. Fisher's Restaurant, Metropolitan District Railway Station, Victoria, S.W. Ceremonies and lectures worked every Tuesday, except the fourth Tuesday in the month, when the ceremonies alone are rehearsed. The DOMATIC CHAPTER OF INSTRUCTION is also held in the above rooms every Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, from October until April inclusive.

WE understand that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has granted permission to Mr. Walford to dedicate his new edition of "County Families" (just published) to His Royal Highness, who figures in its pages as a Norfolk landowner.

INTEGRITY.—As no man will build a house upon a bog or a quicksand, a man of suspicious integrity will be found equally unfit to sustain the character of a true Mason.—Noorthouck.

COCOA AND CHOCOLATE.—This production has become a very popular beverage, and is now taken by all classes for breakfast, luncheon, and supper. It possesses many valuable properties, and is strongly recommended by the faculty for its sanitary and dietetical properties, but, like many articles of food, is greatly adulterated, and in many of the preparations of cocoa and chocolate sold as "perfectly pure," it requires but a very small amount of observation or knowledge to discover that the amount of sugar, starch, arrowroot-husk, &c. (apart from the colouring and many other matters), added, is extremely large, in proportion to the small amount of cocoa contained in the same. In some of the cheaper productions we are informed, by notices on the subject which appeared in the Lancet, Medical Press, Food Journal, and other scientific papers, that the vilest and most deleterious compounds are employed in adulterating these preparations. Passing from the question of adulteration, we feel that we may fairly call attention to a perfectly pure and delicious preparation known as Schweitzer's Coccatina, an Anti-dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder, which has deservedly met with great success for many years, for its superior flavour, strength, solubility, and nutritive quality. It is also perfectly digestible, the excess of fatty matter objectionable to many persons of weak digestion being extracted by a delicate process without prejudice to the natural flavour and quality of the bean, and is celebrated for its restorative properties in cases of debility, nervousness, &c. Messrs. H. Schweitzer and Co. have also introduced another preparation equally worthy of notice, viz., Coccatina flavoured with Vanilla, a somewhat similar form to their original article. The Coccatina à la Vanille contrasts very favourably with the best French or Spanish Chocolates, both as regards flavour and quality, and is much cheaper, and being deprived of the excess of fat, it is quite as digestible as the Pure Coccatina.—Vide Illustrated Midland News.

FAITH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.—The above Lodge of Instruction is held every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the spacious and commodious rooms at Bro. Fisher's Restaurant, Metropolitan District Railway Station, Victoria, S.W. Ceremonies and lectures worked every Tuesday, except the fourth Tuesday in the month, when the ceremonies alone are rehearsed. The DOMATIC CHAPTER OF INSTRUCTION is also held in the above rooms every Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, from October until April inclusive.

VALUE OF VEGETABLES.—Now, what the lime-juice is to sailors, so are the potash plants, such as potatoes, turnips, carrots, asparagus, cabbage, &c., to us on land. Without these potash plants, we should be liable to scurvy or similar diseases. Potatoes do not contain so much nutriment, nor so much starch, as wheat flour or many other substances, but they contain this potash. If we were to discard potatoes and similar plants, and eat nothing but bread, we should, undoubtedly, suffer in our health; because, though bread contains a large quantity of nitrogenous matter, of starch, and of phosphates, yet it is deficient in potash.—Food Journal.

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c., &c., on Mayar's Semolina: "I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London."—Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar's Semolina.

GALVANISM.—Pulvermacher's Monthly Record of Cures is now ready for the benefit of Sufferers, containing documentary evidence of remarkable Cures effected by Pulvermacher's Improved Patent Self-applicable Volta-Electric Chain-Bands and Pocket Batteries, and may be had on application to the Sole Inventor and Patentee—J. L. Pulvermacher, 200, Regent-street, London, W. A Test on Loan sent gratis if required. Caution.—Spurious Electric Appliances being advertised by Quack Doctors, Patients should consult Pulvermacher's Pamphlet on that subject (free by post), embodying other most interesting matter for those suffering from Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Functional Disorders, &c., &c.—[Advt.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Nervous Derangement.—The delicate, nervous, and over-sensitive are very prone to illness at the change of seasons. Not only is the nervous system affected by variations of temperature and atmospheric vicissitudes, but it also intensely sympathises with disorder in any part of the body. These excellent pills, so long noted for their powers of promoting digestion, regulating secretions, and enforcing excretions, have likewise proved themselves the most certain of neurotonics, and the best preservers of vital energy. In autumn, Holloway's pills are especially useful in guarding the system against malaria, and its consequences, diarrhoea and fever. This medicine also protects the frame against gout, rheumatism, colds, coughs, and congestive complaints.—[Advt.]

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthmas, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough. "Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Advt.]

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.

NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS

in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.

Wholesale at MAYAR'S, 36, MARK LANE, LONDON, E.C.

A Wholesale Agent wanted in every Town.

RUPTURES.—BY ROYAL LETTERS PATENT.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hips, being sent to the

MANUFACTURER,

Mr. WHITE, 228, Piccadilly, London.

Price of a Single Truss, 16s., 21s., 26s. 6d. and 31s. 6d. Postage 1s. of a Double Truss, 31s. 6d., 42s. and 52s. 6d. Postage 1s. 8d. of Umbilical Truss, 42s. and 52s. 6d. Postage 1s. 8d. Post Office Orders to be made payable to JOHN WHITE, Post Office Piccadilly.

NEW PATENT ELASTIC STOCKINGS, KNEECAPS, &c.

The material of which these are made is recommended by the faculty as being peculiarly ELASTIC and COMPRESSIBLE and the best invention for giving efficient and permanent support in all cases of WEAKNESS, VARICOSE-VEINS, &c. Price, 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. and 16s. each. Postage 6d. SPINAL MACHINES, LEG IRONS, and Every Description of Surgical Appliances.

JOHN WHITE, Manufacturer 228, Piccadilly, London.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.

THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place
For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification.

Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

ENLARGED PROSPECTUS, WITH CHROMO-LITHOGRAPH ILLUSTRATIONS AND DESCRIPTIVE PRICE LIST, POST-FREE.

BY BRO. WILLIAM CARPENTER, P.M. AND P.Z.

The question asked by "W.M.," in THE FREEMASON, page 498, on "the three entrances" to the Temple; and, not less, the answer of Bro. W. H. Reed, on page 514, afford proof that neither of those brothers possess a correct knowledge of the structure about which the one inquires and the other replies. This defective knowledge is not peculiar to them. It is, as far as my experience goes, very common among the members of the Craft, all of whom should certainly acquire as much knowledge as is obtainable touching a structure which occupies so prominent a place in our rituals—Craft and Arch. Our only sources of information touching the sacred building are the books of Kings and Chronicles, Josephus's Antiquities and Wars of the Jews, and the Mishnah, Tract, Middoth.

It would no doubt be difficult for unprofessional persons to obtain a precise knowledge of the details of such a building as the Jewish Temple from any mere verbal description, especially if uncertain, as in this case, as to the exact length of the measure employed in the description. But in regard to the Jewish Temple, the difficulty is increased by the circumstance, that the writers of the Kings and the Chronicles are very brief in their descriptions, and that Josephus and the Talmudists wrote long after the destruction of the sacred edifice raised by King Solomon, and described rather the Temple raised by Zerubbabel than that which previously occupied its site. The only thing we can do, under the circumstances, is to take the materials derivable from all the sources, and, comparing them one with the other, get a general idea of the structure. Whatever may have been the differences in the Courts and their buildings in the two Temples, the Holy House itself, which was built upon the model of the Tabernacle, shown to Moses on the Mount, was alike in both.

It should always be borne in mind, that the Temple consisted of much more than is, in various passages of the Bible, called "the House of the Lord," "the Sanctuary," "the Tabernacle of the Lord," &c. It was built upon an artificial platform, immense walls having been raised from the base of Mount Sion, and the irregularities of the surfaces of the hill filled up with earth, until it was brought to such a level as was fitted to have the buildings raised upon it. First, there was an enclosure which was nearly square, being about a stadium (606 feet) each way (Josephus, Antiq., xv. 11, 3, and the Mishnah, Middoth, ii. § 1.) This was surrounded on the four sides by cloisters, built against the outer walls. Here we have the outer Court of the Temple, called by Christian writers, "The Court of the Gentiles;" by Josephus, "The Outer Temple;" in the Old Testament, "The Court of the Lord's House" (Jer. xxvi. 2), or "The Great Court" (2 Chron. iv. 9); but always by the Jewish writers of the Apocrypha and the Talmud, "The Mountain of the House." The cloisters in this court, having flat roofs of pannelled cedar, were supported by double rows of white marble Corinthian columns, except on the southern side, where was the magnificent Stoa Basilica, or Royal Porch, which was supported by four rows of more lofty columns; and as the one row was built into the outer wall, they formed a nave and two lower side aisles, which ran the whole width from the eastern to the western valley. The cloisters on the east side were called "the Porch of Solomon," no doubt from being built upon a portion of the embankment and wall raised by the Hebrew monarch from the Kedron Valley (Comp. Joseph. Antiq., xx. 10, 7, and also xv. 11, 3; viii. 3, 9; Wars, v. 5, 1). Within this wide open space, or outer court, stood the inner courts, upon a raised platform. Around this more sacred portion, which "approached nearer to the name of the True and Living God, Most High," was a low (three cubits) marble screen or balustrade, having pillars at intervals, upon which were Greek and Latin inscriptions, forbidding any but Jews to enter, upon pain of death. Within the screen a flight of steps led up to the other courts; first, fourteen steps, then a level space of ten cubits, called the chel; and after this, five steps more through the gates, except at the great eastern gate—the "Gate Beautiful," probably—where these five became fifteen shallow steps (Joseph. Wars, v. 5, 3). The eastern portion of this grand platform was occupied by the square Court of the Women, surrounded by a cloister wall, and entered by several gates. To the west of the Court of Women, still further raised, was the Court of Israel, to which the only entrance, from the Court of Women, was on the eastern side, up fifteen semi-circular steps, and through a brazen gate. In the centre of this court, as regards north and south, was a raised platform, two and a half cubits high. Again, in the centre of this platform, as regards north and south, stood the Holy House, the Sanctuary itself, the entrance to which looked eastward, and was reached by an ascent of twelve steps. Below, in front of the entrance, stood the great altar of burnt offerings, while around the Sanctuary and the altars was an ornamental stone balustrade, one cubit high, separating them from the Court of Israel, and forming the Court of the Priests. The western wall of the Sanctuary came to the edge of the Courts of the Priests. To the north of the altar were all the arrangements for the sacrificial system of worship—the rows of rings at which the victims were slaughtered, the hooks on which they were hung to be flayed, and the marble tables on which the entrails were washed and the offerings prepared. The Holy House, or Sanctuary, was reached from hence, as we have said, by twelve steps, which led into the Sacred Porch, within, or at the entrance to which stood the two pillars, Boaz and Jachin. When we say that Boaz stood on the left and Jachin on the right, it should be noted that this describes their respective positions to one coming out of the building, and not, as we are apt to suppose, to one who was entering it. Josephus particularly describes the left hand to be on the side which was towards the north wind; so that, if we suppose ourselves to be going up towards the Temple, the entrance to which looked eastward, the pillar Jachin was on the south, against the left hand, and Boaz on the north, against the right hand. I believe the reverse of this is generally supposed to be the case. The sacred building itself consisted of three parts. Its first entrance, which had no doors, led into the vestibule, where everything was covered with gold; a double gate led hence into the Holy Place, and in front of the gate was suspended a richly embroidered veil. Passing within the Holy Place, everything was gilt over, or of gold; and here were deposited the seven-branch candlestick, the table of shew-bread, and the altar of innocence. A second veil hung before the entrance to the Holy of Holies, in which was placed the ark of the Covenant, crowned with the mercy-seat and Cherubim. The entire building was 70 cubits in length; the Porch was 10 cubits; the Holy Place, 40 cubits; and the Most Holy Place, 20 cubits; the whole being 20 cubits in width and 30 cubits in height, excepting the porch, perhaps, which, Josephus says, was 120 cubits high—the statement probably arising out of a clerical error. The front of the building was overlaid with plates of gold; and the whole pile of white stone and gold, raised on the high platforms, it looked from a distance, as Josephus says, "like a mountain covered with snow."

Now, as to the gates of the Temple—to which Bro. "W. M.'s" question and Bro. Reed's answer pertain—it is to be observed that they were many. The Outer Court had two on the south, four on the west, one on the north, and one on the east, which was the principal gate of the Temple. The Court of the Women was entered by four gates, one on each side. The Court of the Israelites had many gates—twelve or fourteen, perhaps—with chambers above them; and the Israelites, when they entered the Court of the Priests, never retired by the gate through which they entered it. Thus, as we have said, these Courts had many gates; and as the entire structure, including courts, porticos, and chambers, is designated "The Temple," these several gates are called "the gates of the Temple." But the only entrance to the Temple, properly so called—that is, the House of the Lord, comprising the Porch, the Sanctuary, and the Most Holy Place—had but one gate or entrance, i.e., by the Porch. The whole building was enclosed by chambers, rising one above another—that is, on the north and south sides and the west end—from the back of the Porch on the north side, to the back of the Porch on the south side. So that there was but this ONE entrance on the east, and not, as Bro. Reed supposes, THREE—east, north, and south.

MASONIC HISTORIANS.—No. 2.

BROTHERS JOHN SHEVILLE AND JAMES L. GOULD.

BY BRO. WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

The sketch of the "Union" and of the few years preceding and succeeding 1813 is written in a masterly manner by Bro. James L. Gould, of the difficulties constantly arising among the Craft from the existence of the two rival Grand Lodges are very fairly stated, and all the intricate questions growing out of the peculiar circumstances are really exceedingly well considered and estimated by the author; and we quite coincide with him in declaring that "the whole of the interesting History of the Formation of the United Grand Lodge should be understood by every Mason." Bro. Gould then remarks, that the lectures agreed on at the Union of 1813, "were of necessity from the constitution of the Lodge (of Reconciliation) a compromise between the systems of Preston and Dermott, modified by the individual views of the authors of the new system. Some of most important symbols and teachings of the Prestonian Ritual are entirely omitted in the Hemming system, which is now the standard work of the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Freemasons of England. The changes thus made in the three degrees would not be considered by American Masons as any improvement on our established modes of work. From what has been said, it is apparent that since the revival in 1717 until the Union in 1813, a period of less than one hundred years, the lectures and rituals of English Freemasonry have been authoritatively revised and changed at least seven or eight times, and while the Fraternity of that country have generally observed the binding force of the fundamental landmarks, yet we are forced to admit that at least in two notable instances such was not the case." (For example, the Act of 1739, the transposition of the words in the two first degrees, and the separation of the Royal Arch, the alteration in the third degree.)

It further appears that in so far as the present system adopted by the Grand Lodge of England differs from the Prestonian lectures, our English brethren have a more modern Ritual than the American, as the American system is substantially that of Preston. Nor does it satisfactorily appear, as has been alleged by a recent author (Pierson's 'Traditions,' page 327), that the English ritual is the more intellectual of the two, but the contrary is undoubtedly the truth. The union of the two Grand Lodges prepared the way for the union of the two Grand Chapters, which occurred A.D. 1817.

The united body was at first styled, "The United Grand Chapter," but in 1822 the title of "Supreme Grand Chapter" was resumed.

Thus was brought to an end the English Masonic Schism, out of which grew the Royal Arch, and from whose results the Masonic Fraternity will never recover (page 27-8). This opens out a very interesting inquiry, which we would like to prosecute when time permits. We have, however, no doubt but what various excellencies in both systems led to the adoption of a mixed system, and hence the compound, though not so ancient, may after all have been more desirable than either of the separate Rituals. But of this more anon.

We follow Bro. Gould next to his enquiry as to the "Present Status of the English Royal Arch," and would like to quote the most of his able exposition of the facts relating to this division of the work, especially as the "Guide" is so little known in this country. We hope soon, however, that its merits will be more generally appreciated, and therefore beg to offer only a few extracts from the many we would like to have made. "The Royal Arch System was practised as an appendage to the third degree for many years after its introduction. At that early period any lodge convened a chapter, and conferred the Royal Arch degree under the sanction of its own charter. Gradual steps were taken in process of time, however, which, little by little, separated capitular from lodge Masonry, until distinct warrants were declared to be necessary to authorise the holding of chapters; and the Order of the Royal Arch became, after the lapse of many years, an independent rite.

According to the Constitutions, it appears to be practised as a fourth degree, although the Articles of Union declare that Ancient Masonry consists of three degrees only, including the Royal Arch. The Supreme Grand Chapter holds theoretically the position that the Royal Arch is not essentially a degree, but rather the perfection of the third." In practice, however, the degrees differ in design, in clothing, in constitutions, and in colour; and the proceedings are regulated by different governing bodies. Bro. Dr. Geo. Oliver on this point observes: "It is an established doctrine of the Order, that while three form a lodge, and five may hold it, seven only can make it perfect." In such a case there requires an intermediate degree to complete the series; for the Mark and Past Masters have been already admitted into the Craft lodges. This degree, as used by our transatlantic brethren, who are zealous and intelligent Masons, is called the (Most) Excellent Master.

Bro. Gould quotes again from Dr. Oliver to this effect: "If, however, Freemasonry in its present form requires the Royal Arch to be considered as a separate degree, inasmuch as it has acquired the designation of Red Masonry in contradistinction to the three first degrees, which are esteemed Blue; and not only possesses detached funds, but is placed under the direction of a different governing body, with a separate code of laws, it will be more consistent with the general principles of the Order to consider it as the seventh than the fourth; for four is not a Masonic number, and as it is now constituted, some intermediate ceremonies appear to be necessary to connect it with the previous degrees."

In "Historical Landmarks" the same great Masonic writer informs us that "The Royal Arch is evidently, therefore, to be considered as a completion of the third degree, which, indeed, appears broken and imperfect without it; and was originally conferred complete at one time in the Grand Lodge only."

The author proceeds to observe that the "Dermott degree, as practised by the Ancients so early as 1744, required the possession of the Past Master's degree or ceremony as a preliminary qualification, and such continued to be the case until the union of the two Grand Chapters in 1817. Dunckerley's degree seems to have been conferred at first without the requirement of the Chair degree as a preliminary, and separate chapters were held. The candidates, unless they were actual Past Masters, were required to present a dispensation from the Grand Master authorising them to privately pass the Chair. This dispensation was, in practice, only issued upon the recommendation of the lodge to which the candidate belonged. The possession of the Chair degree was required by the Moderns until the Union—and hence the present practice of dispensing with that pre-requisite is a palpable violation of the ancient practice of both sections of the English Royal Arch Fraternity. This innovation has led to much confusion, and should never have been tolerated. The fact that English Royal Arch Masons had not received the intermediate degrees naturally led to their exclusion from the American chapters. A case of this kind was brought to the notice of the General Grand Chapter of the United States at its Session in 1844, and led to the adoption of a resolution conferring the right upon the several chapters under its jurisdiction to confer the degrees of Mark Master, Past Master, and Most Excellent Master, free of charge, upon any worthy companion Royal Arch Mason from without the jurisdiction of the United States who had not received those degrees. The same thing was incorporated subsequently into, and is now a part of, the Constitution of the General Grand Chapter of the United States. It has been asserted that the American system is inferior to the English, and it has been our design to direct enquiry to a comparison of the two systems rather than attempt a vindication of the American degrees from the charge."

Under the circumstances narrated by Bro. Gould, we fail to see any reason for the working of the "Excellent Master" in this country. We have too many degrees already, and the separate organisations are cumbersome methods of performing very simple acts. The G. Chapter of Ireland does not work the Most Excellent degree now, neither is it a pre-requisite for Royal Arch Masonry under that Constitution. Even if such a degree were required to be taken previous to the Royal Arch, the Grand Chapter would be the authority to authorise its being worked, and not an inferior body, Masonically speaking. The Grand Chapter is not likely ever so to do, therefore we must rest content with our present position.

THE RELATION OF ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST to FREEMASONRY.

BY BRO. CHALMERS I. PATON.

Member of the Masonic Archaeological Institute of England, etc., etc.

It is said of the great patron saint of the Freemasons that "Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist." The honour thus given is the greatest that could be bestowed, and the title to it is indisputable and indefeasible. It was conferred by One who knew not only the man but all men; and who was infinite in His wisdom and unerring in His judgment. There is another John, however, mentioned in Sacred Writ, who is not less entitled to the respect, the confidence, the admiration, and the imitation of the Brotherhood. He is known by a great variety of distinguishing marks of heavenly approbation. Like John the Baptist he was of humble parentage—even humbler than John. His lot was poor, his labours great, and his expectations in life moderate and few. Zebedee, his father, was a fisherman, who earned his bread by toiling and struggling night and day on the boisterous sea of Galilee; and John and his elder brother followed the same rough and dangerous calling. Little is known, and that little not important, as to his early history. The probability is that he commenced business life on the sea, sold his fish to the people of Bethsaida and Capernaum, earned an ordinary competence by the proceeds of his nets and lines, and like the majority of the humbler class of Jews, knew little of his nation or its customs, except so much as he gleaned on his annual excursions to the great feasts of Jerusalem. One thing is clear—like the whole Jewish people, he had been taught enough to expect the early coming of the Messiah. The "sceptre had departed from Judah, and a lawgiver from between his feet;" and nothing to the Jewish mind could be more conclusive proof that "the Shiloh" must now presently come. Had He come? There were rumours all over the country that a marvellous priest, clad in a robe of camel's hair, and with a leathern girdle about his loins, was preaching to great crowds in the wilderness of Judea, and baptising many of his followers in the sacred waters of the river Jordan. John was resolved to see and hear him; he went, and was disappointed. He found that the priest, whose praise was in everybody's mouth, was not the expected Deliverer; that he openly and clearly avowed that he was not the Messiah; that he was simply the forerunner of the Redeemer—"the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his path straight!" His disappointment, however, was of short duration; his weary journey was compensated by a sight which must have thrilled his whole soul, and given his entire being a new rapture and a new purpose—a purpose to be maintained and adhered to, as in fact it was, throughout life. One day, while he was still waiting on the preaching of the Baptist, and still drinking in the lessons of inspiration from his lips, the presence of the Saviour was made known by the Baptist declaring that there was One present the latchet of whose shoes he was unworthy to unloose; and the next day, when the secret could be no longer kept, when the time of perfect revelation had fully come, the finger of the Baptist pointed to the great object of the world's adoration, then passing before him, while his voice proclaimed—"Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world!" Christ was, indeed, visibly present—present with a body like their own; with feelings, and sympathies, and loves like their own; with a heart infinitely larger, kinder, more sympathetic, and more merciful than their own. It was a revelation worth ten thousand journeys from Galilee to Judea, and it may readily be conceived that it was estimated, talked of, and rejoiced over accordingly. John saw his Saviour; so did Andrew, another fisherman of Galilee, and Simon, his brother, afterwards better known by the name of Peter, which Jesus gave to him; so did a number of their companions in travel. They carried the news rejoicingly to their native town; they disseminated it along the shores of Gennesaret; they made it known wherever they had a voice to proclaim it, and in good time they found the Messiah among them in their little town of Cana, where he turned water into wine; on the bows of their fishing boats, resting calmly on that sea, which oft on stormy nights had threatened their lives, where he proclaimed Heaven's Message of mercy and peace to perishing souls on the shore; in Capernaum and Bethsaida, where the thoughtless, the regardless, and the unbelieving were warned by him to flee from the wrath to come; and amidst storm and tempest on the sea, where, amid other interpositions of miraculous power, the wild winds ceased and the angry waves lulled themselves to rest at the command of their Sovereign King.

John and his brother James, with Andrew and Simon, became, in hearing and sight of all the marvellous manifestations of Divine power exhibited by the Saviour, earnest disciples—so earnest and so enthusiastic that the two former received from our Saviour himself the highly-honourable and very expressive title of "Boanerges," or "Sons of Thunder." "Follow me," said Christ to both of them, "and I will make you fishers of men." They needed no second call; their faith was equal to the requirement. They trusted in a wisdom which they had recognised to be superior to that of man; they believed in a power which they had seen to be competent to still wind and wave, and to provide them with everything requisite in the way of food and clothing; they were satisfied that they were in the hands of a loving, a kind, a considerate, and a merciful Being, who would withhold from them nothing necessary for them either in the way of spiritual or temporal gifts. They cast aside their nets; they walked out by faith, as Abraham did before them, and they had their reward. It is not our purpose to follow them over the highways and through the byeways of their earthly career, or to note down all the leading events and circumstances of their chequered lot. With John, and with John alone, we have at present to do, and to a few of his leading characteristics we shall confine ourselves.

It is abundantly evident from the Sacred Record that John was a peculiar favourite of the Saviour. He is said to have been the disciple whom Jesus loved—that is, whom He specially loved; and there can be no manner of doubt that there was very much loveable about him, in his own nature, in the genial spirits with which he was endowed, and in the superadded gifts and graces of the Holy Spirit, with which he appears to have been most liberally supplied. It seems to admit of no question that John, like the Saviour himself, was the very personification of love. He breathes it out everywhere, and acts it out on every occasion, if we except the single instance in which, exasperated by the conduct of the Samaritans towards his Master, he would have called down fire from heaven to consume them. He kept close to his Divine Head, as did Salome, his pious and devoted mother; was warmed by His love, and reflected that love on all around him. He was present at nearly all the great miracles performed by Christ; he was honoured by seeing his Saviour on the Mount of Transfiguration, revealed in all the glory of his Godhead; he was present to witness the restoration to life of Jairus's daughter and of the widow's son of Nain, and the raising of Lazarus from his apparently hopeless grave; he was a leader in the triumphant procession into Jerusalem, when the people cried, "Hosanna to the Son of David!" and strewed their palm-leaves in the path of Him whom they hoped to see proclaimed as their Great Deliverer and King; he leaned on the bosom of Christ at the paschal supper; he was at His elbow in the Garden of Gethsemane when He was betrayed and taken before the High Priests and Scribes; he was able to get into the Hall of Annas when all the other disciples, save Peter, had forsaken their Lord; he was probably the only one present at the crucifixion, even the valiant Peter himself having fled from the scene and its dangers; and, next to Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Joses, he was the earliest at the sepulchre to behold the stone rolled back, the grave-clothes in order in the new-made tomb, and to know that the risen and exalted Saviour had triumphed over death and the grave! More remarkable still, he was the trusty and loving friend to whom the Saviour, with his dying breath, committed his mother, Mary. The Scripture narrative on this interesting fact is most impressive, John himself being the writer: "Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother and his mother's sister, Mary, the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. When Jesus, therefore, saw his mother and the disciple standing by whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son! Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour the disciple took her into his own home." He was thus highly honoured, and he was worthy of the honour; he was thus nobly taught, and he learned how nobly to teach others.

Without entering too minutely into the teachings of John, we may confidently ask, who can fail to be deeply impressed with the length and breadth, and height and depth, of the tenderness and love which characterise them? No apostle has displayed more, perhaps not one even so much, of the deep compassion and profound sympathy and overflowing love which distinguished his Great Master. John's gospel is strikingly simple and sublime, and his epistles are a model of pure, refined, tender, and sublime doctrine and precept. John has kind and good advice to give to everybody in every station and condition in life, and he gives it as a venerable father, who has studied human nature, knows its weaknesses and sins, and is entitled to be heard. His favourite form of address is, "My little children!" he proceeds on the assumption that "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us;" while "if we confess our sins," God "is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness;" and he goes on to show that there is only one right way of serving God, and that is by "keeping his commandments," and this is His commandment, "That we should believe on the name of His Son, Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment." What a glorious set of principles and doctrines are found in the third chapter of John's first Epistle, in which purity of thought and life are urged and commended with true apostolic fervour and zeal! "Little children," he says, "let no man deceive you; he that doeth righteousness is righteous;" "he that committeth sin is of the devil." "Whoso hath this world's goods, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth." Then in the fourth chapter of the same Epistle, see how he dwells on love to God and love to man as the whole sum and substance of the Gospel! "Beloved," he writes, "let us love another, for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God; he that loveth not, knoweth not God, for God is love." "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another!" "God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." "If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen?" "This commandment have we from Him, that he who loveth God loveth his brother also." There are many similar embodiments of the great Christian idea of love in John's Epistles—indeed, as we have already said, the leading characteristic of John's life and teaching was love. He was full of love to God and man; it was the ruling and reigning principle of his life and conduct, and it eminently distinguished his immediate disciples and followers.

There is reason to believe that John spent the greater part of his long life in preaching to the Gentiles. He lived in the province of Judea till war broke out with the Romans; he proceeded to Asia Minor between the years 66 and 70 of the Christian era, residing in the then famous city of Ephesus. From thence, owing to the terrible persecutions to which the early Church was exposed in the time of Domitian, he was banished to Patmos, a small and desolate island in the Ægean Sea. There he remained isolated from the world, holding converse, almost alone, with the Great Architect till the death of Domitian and the accession of Trajan to the throne, and there he wrote that wonderful book—the Book of Revelation—which, by symbols and figures, reveals, it is believed, the state of the Church and world from the days of the apostles till the end of time. He returned again to Ephesus, proclaiming the simple truths of God in opposition to all the superstitions and idolatries of the age, and he continued in that city till his death, which did not occur till he had reached the ripe old age of 100 years. It is related of him, and the relation would seem to be founded on fact, that, towards the close of his life, he was not able to discourse as fully as had been his wont; that he had to be carried to the church, and that when there his sermon consisted of no more than this—"Little children, love one another." His disciples having asked him why he always dwelt upon love, his answer was—"Because it is the Lord's command, and if this be done it is sufficient." It is also related by ancient and eminent Masonic authority that, when John was in his 90th year, Freemasonry, which had been a vigorous institution, had fallen very much into decay, many lodges having been entirely broken up, and only a few meeting in sufficient numbers to constitute their legality; and that at a general meeting of the Craft, held in Jerusalem, it was observed that the principal reason for the decline of Freemasonry was the want of a Grand Master to patronise it. The lodges therefore deputed seven of their most eminent members to wait upon St. John, requesting him to take the office of Grand Master. He returned for answer that, though well stricken in years, yet having been early in life initiated into Masonry, he would take upon himself the office. He thereby completed by his learning what the other St. John had completed by his zeal, and thus drew what Freemasons term a line parallel. Ever since which Freemason lodges in all Christian countries have been dedicated both to St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist. It is worth mentioning as a fact that, while there is evidence to show—or, at least, to make it probable—that all the other apostles met violent deaths at the hands of their persecutors, he alone passed naturally and peacefully into a quiet grave. God permitted him—He, the source of love, permitted His apostle of love—to fall, like a little child, gently to his last earthly sleep.

THERE are now two Masonic lodges in good working order at Salt Lake City, Utah Territory.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Mount Lebanon Lodge, No. 73.—This old lodge held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 18th inst., at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bro. F. H. Ebsworth, W.M., presided, there were also present Bros. D. Rose, P.M.; E. Harris, P.M., Treas.; J. Dunkin P.M., Sec.; M. A. Loewenstark, S.W.; G. Free, J.W.; G. J. Grace, S.D.; A. L. Dussek, J.D.; G. Whitaker, P. Rayden, F. E. Cooper, J. W. Dudley, Baker, J. Spindler, R. G. Chipperfield, J. Philips, Timms, Melbourne, Weil, Stedman, Boyle, Jewiss, Leeuw, Mercer, Boyle, Gourme, Judge, Angel, and others. Amongst a large number of visitors we noticed Bros. A. Levy (25), C. J. B. Plestow (176), J. T. Dalby (879), &c. The minutes were confirmed. A ballot proved in favour of Mr. J. J. Ginhams. The work done was Bro. Gerhold raised, Bros. Crawley, Lilley, and Stephens passed, and Mr. Hager and J. J. Ginhams initiated. The notice of motion to add lay members to the auditors provided for in the by-laws was not carried, there being a large majority against such an alteration. The lodge was then closed; there was not any banquet or refreshment; the brethren then separated.

Unity Lodge, No. 183.—The first meeting after the recess was held on Monday, the 24th inst., at the London Tavern, Bishopgate-street, Bro. Thompson, W.M., in the chair. Present: Bros. Taylor, P.M.; Todd, P.M.; Doggett, P.M., Sec.; Rev. Shaboe, P.M., Chaplain; Wadling, S.W.; Hirsch, P.M., J.W.; Garrett, J.D.; Groombridge, I.G.; and some others. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, and confirmed. The business gone through was raising Bros. Spencer, Brittain and Collins to the third degree. The lodge was closed and adjourned to Monday, November 28th; banquet followed. Visiting brothers: F. Walters (W.M. 1309), Hammerton (1216), Dawson (108), G. H. King (68), Marion (New Orleans).

Whittington Lodge, No. 862.—The first meeting of this lodge after the recess was held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Monday, the 17th inst. Bro. James Weaver, the W.M., presided, supported by Bros. S. S. Davis, S.W.; J. D. Taylor, as J.W.; J. Brett, P.M.; G. Purst; J. G. Thompson, P.M., Treas.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Sec.; W. Hurlstone, W. F. N. Quilty, D. J. Davis, P.M.'s; W. J. H. Jones, S.D.; W. F. Smith (P.M. 177), I.G.; C. Bergmann, C. Walker, B. Seely, E. Kern, L. Adutt, C. G. Bullock, T. Voigt, and Quintin Dix. The visitors comprised Bros. Lord Lindsay, 31st, of the Prince of Wales Lodge; R. Spencer, P.M. 263, P.G. Steward; Dr. Clarke, P.M. 14, P.G. Steward; H. C. Levander, P.M. 507, P. Prov. G.D. Wilts; J. F. Creswick, W.M. 957, &c. The lodge having been duly opened and the minutes confirmed, Messrs. S. Berghem, Peter Berghem, and William H. Kaye were separately introduced, and initiated into the Order. Bros. S. Tilley, and W. W. Anderson were elected joining members. The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and resulted unanimously in favour of Bros. S. S. Davis, S.W., as W.M.; J. G. Thompson, P.M., for the tenth time as Treas.; W. F. N. Quilty, P.M., Treas.; J. Weaver, W.M., and D. J. Davis, P.M., Trustees of the Benevolent Fund. Bro. Gilbert was again chosen as Tyler, and the Auditors selected were, Bros. Bergmann, Dix, and Taylor. A Past Master's jewel was voted nem. con. to Bro. Weaver, for the efficient manner in which he had fulfilled the duties of the chair during the past year, and a Hindoo gentleman now studying at the bar, having been proposed for initiation by Bro. Hurlstone, the lodge was closed and the brethren adjourned to banquet, where the harmony so characteristic of the Whittingtonians prevailed throughout the evening. It is noteworthy that one of the initiates, Bro. S. Berghem, has been engaged with Capt. Warren in the excavations at Jerusalem, in the course of which he had occasion to descend into the bowels of the earth to the extent of one hundred and fifty feet, and he and his brother are now on their way to the United States, where we hope they will be received with fraternal cordiality by the brethren of the mystic tie.

Rose of Denmark Lodge, No. 975.—This lodge met at the White Hart Tavern, Barnes, Surrey, on Friday, the 21st instant, and was very numerously attended. Amongst the brethren present being the worthy W.M., Bro. G. T. Noyce; C. A. Smith, S.W.; W. H. Barnard, J.W.; H. Potter, Treas.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Sec.; Rev. J. Sydney Darvell, Chap.; J. Smith, P.M., P.G. Purs.; H. G. Buss, P.M.; S. H. Stephens, J.D.; W. Hamlyn, I.G.; C. Willcox, J. M. Graham, W. Bell, J. Ayles, C. Butcher, J. Beamish, T. Farrell, S. Curtis, W. Harris, R. G. C. Lemon, W. Hayes, J. Y. Clipson, J. F. Colwell, and E. C. Angel. The visitors formed a goodly lodge in themselves, and we noticed Bros. T. F. Giles, P.M. 820; R. Gurney, W.M. 788; W. V. Cooper, P.M. 820; W. Jones (145), J. Lillyman (780), C. Lacey (780), Taylor (742). The work of the evening was unusually heavy, comprising all three degrees. Messrs. T. T. Willcox (son of the proprietor), E. Phillips, and W. S. Mullins were initiated; Bros. Angel and Taylor passed, and Bros. Clipson and Colwell raised. Bro. C. A. Smith, S.W., was unanimously elected W.M., and Bro. Noyce, W.M., as Treasurer by a large majority, and Bro. Gilbert was re-elected Tyler. Bros. Bell, Curtis, and Lemon were chosen as Auditors. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a first-rate banquet, and a pleasing feature of the evening's proceedings was the ready response given to an appeal by the W.M. on behalf of a late member of the lodge who had fallen into distress, and for whose assistance a very respectable amount was collected.

Copper Lodge, No. 1076.—This excellent working lodge held its regular monthly meeting at the Marine Hotel, Victoria Docks, on Thursday, 13th instant. Bro. H. G. Sisley, W.M., opened the lodge, supported by Bros. S. Watkins, I.P.M.; Gaskell, S.W.; Pincombe, J.W.; Ashdown, S.D.; W. Brown, J.D.; and Brayshaw, I.G.; with Bros. West, Page, and Abbott, P.M.'s; Park, Treas.; Henderson, Sec.; and about sixty brethren. The minutes and cash account of the previous meeting were read and unanimously carried. Ballots were taken for four candidates for initiation, each of which proved in their favour, when, three of them being present, they were properly prepared, introduced, and duly received into Freemasonry. Bros. Watkins and Pinnell, candidates for the second degree, were examined as to their fitness, received further instructions, and retired. The lodge having been opened in the second degree, they were admitted and duly passed to that degree. Bros. Stevens and Lascombe, candidates for the third degree, underwent the usual examinations, received further instructions, and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, when they were admitted and duly raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason. The lodge was then resumed to the first degree. This being the meeting for electing the W. Master, Treasurer, and Tyler for the ensuing year, the ballot was taken for the W.M., when Bro. Gaskell, S.W., was duly elected. Bro. G. Park was unanimously elected Treasurer, and Bro. Alison was, by show of hands, re-elected Tyler. It was proposed, seconded, and carried that a Past Master's jewel, of the value of ten guineas, be presented to Bro. Sisley for the very able and efficient manner in which he performed the duties of W.M. for the past year. It was also unanimously carried that ten guineas be given to the W.M., by him to be handed to either of the Masonic Charities he might think fit. All Masonic business being ended, the lodge was duly closed.

West Kent Lodge.—The first regular meeting of this new lodge was held on Saturday, the 22nd inst., at the Forest Hill Hotel. Bro. A. P. Leonard, W.M., presided, and was supported by Bros. the Rev. Dr. Rosenthal, P.P.G.C. Stafford; H. G. Warren, P.M. and P.G. Steward, Treas.; W. Watson, P.G. Steward; George Clements, S.W.; Terry, J.W.; E. C. Massey, Sec.; and several others. Bro. Rosenthal accepted the office of Chaplain to the lodge, and was invested accordingly. Capt. Augustus Ross was then introduced, and initiated into the earliest mysteries of Freemasonry, at the conclusion of which ceremony the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet, and spent a pleasant and cheerful evening, which was much enlivened by some superior singing and music by Bros. Donald King, Matthew Cooke, and Wellington Guernsey, the well-known composer.

MIDDLESEX.

HAMPTON COURT.—Burdett Lodge, No. 1293.—This young lodge, having been removed from Teddington, held its first meeting at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, on Saturday, the 22nd instant. In the absence from town of the W.M., Rev. Bro. Colonel Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex, the chair was occupied by the Treasurer, Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Prov. G. Sec., who was supported by Bros. G. Kenning, Prov. G. Steward, S.W.; Major H. W. Palmer, S.D., as J.W.; W. H. Hubbard, P.M., Sec.; H. G. Buss, P.M., D.C., Prov. G. Treas.; Major E. Hamilton Finney, D. R. Adams, J. Weaver, H. Wickens, A. B. Donnithorne, H. Wiles, Reginald Hobson, G. Kotzenberg, and T. Hobday. The visitors comprised Bros. Dr. Selfe, P.M. 214, Romford; E. Hamilton Finney, jun., 478, Oxford; and T. P. Yeowell, 1194, Isleworth. The lodge was opened and the minutes were duly confirmed, after which a ballot was taken for Mr. Henry Phytian as a candidate for initiation, and the result being favourable, he was regularly admitted into Freemasonry, the work being done by Bro. Adams, P.M. 299, as a friend of the neophyte. Bro. Little then passed Bro. Hobson and raised Bros. Wickens, Wiles, Kotzenberg, and Yeowell, being efficiently aided in the ceremonies by Bros. Weaver, as S.D., and Selfe, as I.G. A ballot was then taken for W.M. for the ensuing year, and the S.W. having declined election for the present, the suffrages of the brethren were found to be unanimously in favour of Bro. Little, the acting W.M. Bro. Buss was by a similar vote elected Treasurer, and Bro. Gilbert, Tyler. Bros. Palmer (S.D.), Finney, and Donnithorne were selected to audit the accounts, and the W.M. pro tem. appointed the last-named brother to the office of I.G. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a substantial repast, under the presidency of the W.M.-elect, who gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts with due honours. The "Masonic Charities" were not forgotten, and the presiding officer, in proposing their success as a toast, reminded the brethren that the R.W. Prov. Grand Master was not only the Steward representing the lodge at the coming festival of the Aged Masons' Institution, in January next, but that the gallant Colonel would be the chairman on that auspicious occasion. With this toast the name of Bro. Hubbard, the Secretary, was coupled, and after expressing his thanks, that worthy official proceeded to enter the names of the brethren present as subscribers to the charity, on the list of R.W. Bro. Burdett. Bro. Buss responded for the Prov. Grand Officers, and Dr. Selfe for the visitors, and the health of the W.M.-elect was also given and received with great cordiality, and in fact the only drawback to the pleasure of the evening was the absence of the estimable W.M. himself, who, being at present in Wales, was unable to attend the meeting. The proceedings were brought to a close by the Tyler's toast, and the brethren returned to town.

King Harold Lodge, No. 1327.—The first meeting after the consecration of the above lodge, took place on the evening of the 18th inst., at Bro. Sheldon's, the Britannia Hotel, Waltham New Town Herts, Bro. E. West, P.M. 1076, the W.M. The business before the lodge was to elect joining members, and initiate four gentlemen viz., Messrs. Kent, Skinner, Hodges, and Patmore. After the conclusion of business, the brethren retired for refreshment. Amongst the brethren present were, Bros. J. Terry, P.M.; Sisley, W.M. 1076; Parker, S.W.; W. C. Barnes, jun., J.W.; J. K. Young, S.D.; J. H. Evans, J.D.; T. Reilly, Sec.; J. Barwick, Treas.; W. Gilbert, I.G.; W. Holmes, H. Tucker, J. Sheldon, J. Fisher, C. D. Taylor. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given. The proceedings of the evening were enlivened by several excellent songs, and at an early hour the brethren separated.

PROVINCIAL.

LYME REGIS.—Montagu Lodge, No. 665.—The regular meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Monday, the 10th inst., the W.M., Bro. Charles Dyke, P.G.S.D., being in the chair. The lodge having been opened in due form, after prayer, by the Chaplain, the Rev. Bro. W. B. Bailey, M.A., the minutes of the last lodge were read and confirmed, and the ballot was then taken for the V.W. D.P.G.M., Bro. Montagu, as an honorary member, and for Capt. Mortimer Cotton and Mr. James Turner as candidates for initiation, each being unanimously elected. Bros. John Wallis and Geo. Gratten were then examined, and raised to the third degree, the former by the W.M. and latter by the I.P.M., W. Bro. S. S. Moore, P.P. G.S.D. The W.M. then gave a lecture on the tracing-board. The lodge being reduced to the first degree, the W.M. made a report as to the steps he had taken to secure the election of a boy to the Masonic Orphanage. Bro. R. W. Hillman, Sec., then proposed that a sum of £5 should be given to the National Society for Aid to the Sick and Wounded, which was carried unanimously. Bro. Radford, T. and O., then proposed an alteration in the by-laws, which, after some discussion, was assented to. Two gentlemen having been proposed, one as a joining member and the other as a candidate for initiation, the lodge was closed in peace and harmony at 11 p.m. A goodly number of brethren and visiting brethren were present, and for the first time, the harmonium kindly lent by Bro. Radford, P.G.O., was used in this lodge, and very ably played by that brother.

MANCHESTER.—Blair Lodge, No. 815.—The festival of St. John the Evangelist, was celebrated by this lodge on the 14th instant, at Hulme Town-hall, when there was a large number of members and visitors present. The lodge having been opened in due form, the adoption of the Treasurer's report was moved by Bro. Gillman, who, on behalf of himself and his co-auditor, Bro. Knight, Org., noticed favourably the wise economical reform they had perceived in examining the past year's accounts, and this was fully indorsed by the brethren assembled. Bro. Cheetham, P.M.—proposed by Bro. Kennedy, P.M., P.P.G.T., and seconded by Bro. Groves, P.M.—was unanimously elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. Letters were read from Bros. Lieut.-Colonel Le Gendre N. Starkie, P.G.M.-designate of East Lancashire; Romaine Callender, jun., J.P., D.P.G.M.; John Wilke, P.P.G.S.W.; and Dr. John Smith, P.P.G.P., expressing regret at their unavoidable absence. Bro. William Worthington was ably and impressively installed as the W.M. by Bro. Kennedy, P.P.G.T., assisted by Bro. James Redford, the I.P.M., the prayers throughout the ceremony being solemnly rendered by Bro. the Rev. Leighton Figgins, P.P.G. Chaplain. The following officers were appointed and invested: Bros. Pochin, S.W.; Norris, J.W.; Cheetham, Treas.; Robinson, Sec.; Knight, Organist; Gillman, M.C.; Newton, S.D.; Sidgreaves, J.D.; Stanley, I.G.; Croale, Deakin, and Cookson, Stewards; and Sly, Org. To each was given a chastely illuminated commission of office, which had been specially designed and presented to the lodge, together with an official seal, by Bro. John Royle. The lodge having been regularly closed, the brethren adjourned to the banqueting-room, and after dinner the customary loyal and Masonic toasts were given, including that to "The memory of Bro. Stephen Blair, late P.G.M. of East Lancashire," which was honoured in solemn silence. In replying to the toast of "Bro. Romaine Callender, J.P., D.P.G.M., and the rest of the P.G. Officers of East Lancashire, Past and Present," Bro. the Rev. Leighton Figgins, P.P.G.C., regretted the absence of his other P.G. brethren, congratulated the lodge on bearing and perpetuating the name of a late great and good leader in Masonry, and thanked the brethren in his usual happy manner for having afforded him an enjoyable evening.—Bro. Kennedy, P.P.G. Treas., also acknowledged the compliment paid to the P.G. Lodge, remarking that it was second to none. The toast of the evening, "The health of Bro. Worthington, the W.M.," was received with much cordiality. Bro. James Redford, the I.P.M., said that they might be considered twin brothers in the Craft, for they had entered into the Masonic world on the same evening, and were the two first initiated in that hall. Bro. Worthington had commenced at the lowest office in the lodge, and had gradually risen by successive steps to the proud position into which he had been installed that evening, and which he had so justly merited. He was certain the lodge would advance during his Mastership, and wished him a happy, busy, and prosperous year of office.—The W.M., Bro. Worthington, in responding, remarked that he feared he would have a difficult task before him in maintaining the prestige which the lodge had deservedly earned, owing to the correct and skilful labours of his predecessors; but he would endeavour to make himself worthy of so good a lodge, and trusted that at the termination of his year of office he should merit the satisfaction of his brethren. Bro. Kennedy, P.P.G.T., in asking the brethren to honour the "I.P.M. and P.M.'s of the Blair Lodge," lavished much praise on Bro. James Redford, for his zeal during the past Masonic year, and observed that he had gained the admiration and confidence of all the members, and in their name presented and affixed on his left breast a tastefully engraved P.M.'s gold jewel. (The toast was received with much enthusiasm.)—Bro. James Redford, I.P.M., replied that his year of office had been the sunniest of the sunny, and he should always recall it with pleasant recollection; he should esteem the jewel that had been presented to him, as of inestimable value, the diagram upon it delineating the useful 47th proposition of the 1st Book of Euclid, that of the squares, would be to him a lasting remembrance that the brethren had approved his efforts to act on the square, and do his duty in a conscientious, straightforward manner. In conclusion he thanked all the P.M.'s, Officers, and brethren, for their advice, support and assistance, in the discharge of his important duties: if he were to particularise, he should mention Bro. Gillman, as a member for his punctual attendance had enabled him to open the lodge at the hour appointed; as Officers, Bros. Norris, Treas., and W. J. Towle, Sec., had done a large amount of work quietly and unobtrusively, Bro. Towle, his I.P.M., had never been absent from his duty, and he should endeavour to imitate his good example. In taking leave of them as W.M., he trusted he would often meet them again as a P.M.—The "Visiting Brethren" were welcomed by Bro. Towle. Bro. Davis, S.W. 1218, in response stated that he had spent so many pleasant hours at the "Blair," that he had almost ceased to feel as a visitor. He was happy in being accompanied that evening with his father-in-law, Bro. Goddard, a P.M. of thirty-eight years' standing, of the Moira Lodge, in the neighbouring Province of Cheshire. Bro. John Baker, P.M. 163, also replied to the toast, stating he had felt so much at home that evening, and was so satisfied with the high rank of the "Blair," that he had decided, if they would permit him, to become a joining member.—The toast of the "Masonic Charities" was placed in the care of Bro. Sidgreaves, J.D., and responded to by Brother Pochin, S.W.—The W.M. gave the "Officers of the Lodge," and Bro. Stanley, I.G., in reply, promised they would rally round their W.M., and give him all the support in their power.—"The Stewards" by Bro. Redford, I.P.M., was acknowledged by Bros. Croale and Deakin.—"Success to the Blair Lodge," proposed by Bro. Baker, P.M. 163, was replied to by the W.M.—Bro. W. P. Norris, the J.W., gave the last toast, and it was honoured as is customary. Bro. Gillman, M.C., performed his duties in a praiseworthy manner, giving the correct honours to every toast, with a precision that an old practitioner might envy. The evening was enlivened by a choice selection of songs, glees, and pianoforte solos, by Bros. Dumville, W. Dumville, Edmondson, Standen and Irvine, who had been specially engaged for the occasion.

CHESHIRE.—Warren Lodge, No. 1276.—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Stanley Arms Hotel, Seacombe, on Tuesday, the 18th October, for the purpose of installing Bro. J. F. Jones the W.M.-elect. There was a very good attendance, both of visitors and members, amongst the former being Bros. H. Bulley, J. P. Platt, and E. G. Willoughby, P.P.J.G. Wardens of Cheshire; T. Platt and W. Bulley, P.P.G. Deacons of Cheshire; Hamer, P.G. Treas.; Laidlaw, P.G.S. of Works; R. Wylie, P.G. Dir. of Cers. for West Lancashire; Harbord, W.M. 477; Friend, W.M. 1289; J. W. Baker, P.M. 220; Chesworth, P.M. 724; J. B. Robinson, P.M. 1013; Cain, W.M. 724; Pemberton, W.M. 1264; H. Williams, P.M. 249; Lea, P.M. 605; Walter Jones, &c. The lodge was opened by Bro. Hill, W.M., and the previous minutes confirmed, after which a ballot was taken for an initiate, who was duly elected, but as he was not in attendance, the W.M. proceeded to initiate Mr. Geo. Mason, who had been elected at a former meeting, and he was admitted into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry in due form. The lodge was then opened in the second degree by the W.M., who invited Bro. H. Bulley, P.P.J.G.W. of Cheshire, to assume the chair, and install Bro. J. F. Jones, the W.M.-elect, which being acceded to, Bro. Jones was then presented, and the charges having been delivered, he took the customary obligations. The remaining portion of the ceremony was performed by Bro. H. Bulley, in that able and efficient manner for which he is so justly celebrated; and Bro. Jones having been placed in the chair of K.S., forthwith proceeded to appoint and invest his officers—Bros. T. S. Jones, S.W.; Dilworth, J.W.; Aston, S.D.; T. Mills, J.D.; W. P. Mills, Treas.; T. Earp, Sec.; Hill, P.M., Asst. Sec.; Lea, P.M., D.C.; Sayer, Org.; Evans, I.G.; Robinson, Tyler; and Cato, Looney, Ward, and Pennington, Stewards. After the transaction of some other business of a minor character, the lodge was closed in due form and perfect harmony by the new W.M. After the lodge had been closed, the brethren adjourned to the house of Bro. Stokes, the Seacombe Hotel, Seacombe, where a banquet was provided to celebrate the installation of Bro. J. F. Jones as W.M., during the course of which a gold P.M.'s jewel, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. C. H. Hill, at the expiration of his office of W.M., by the Warren Lodge, No. 1276, for eminent services rendered to the lodge as its founder and first W.M. 18th October, 1870"—as voted by the lodge on the 18th September last, was presented to Bro. Hill by Bro. J. T. Lea, P.M., in the name of the lodge, for which Bro. Hill returned thanks in suitable terms, and after the customary loyal and Masonic toasts had been given, the brethren separated in peace and harmony, much pleased with their entertainment.

BRIGHOUSE.—Brighouse Lodge, No. 1301.—The first monthly meet of this lodge took place on Wednesday, the 19th inst., the W.M., Bro. Boothroyd, and the following officers were present: Bros. T. Burgess, J.W.; T. Bottomley, Sec.; J. Powell, S.D.; J. Sugden, J.D.; J. Slott, I.G. Bro. T. W. Hellewell, S.W., being unavoidably absent, Bro. P.M. Jackson, Truth, 521, Huddersfield, kindly took S.W. in his place. There being no propositions the lodge commenced to arrange their by-laws, which was partly done when the lodge was adjourned at 9.30 p.m. The Brighouse Lodge was duly consecrated on the 24th ult., by Bro. Bentley Shaw, D.P.G.M., West Yorkshire, and the rest of the Prov. Officers. The banquet was held at the Royal Hotel, Brighouse, of which all the brethren spoke highly. The Masonic toasts were proposed in rotation. The brethren left well pleased, and all wishing prosperity and success to the lodge 1301.

ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Pythagorean Chapter, No. 79.—This flourishing young chapter held its opening meeting of the season on Thursday, the 20th inst., at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich. There were present: Comps. J. H. H. Doughney, M.E.Z.; R. Boncey, H.; W. West Smith, J.; J. W. Halsey, P.Z.; T. Perridge, S.E.; J. Griffin, S.N.; J. R. Nash, P.S.; R. Trill, 1st A.S.; E. J. Bumstead, 2nd A.S.; Wright, Munyard, Firth, W. Myatt, Roberts, &c. Visitor: Comp. F. Walters, P.Z. 73, Treas. 176, S.E. 619. Out of a large number of candidates, but one attended, Bro. McArthur, who was duly exalted into Royal Arch Freemasonry. The visiting companion, on his returning thanks for the toast, expressed it as his opinion that, after fourteen years' of constant attendance to chapter meetings, but few, if any, old-established chapters could do the work equal to the admirable manner in which he saw it done there. He congratulated the chapter on possessing such an efficient body of officers—all of whom were well up in their duties. He was sure any companion would be gratified by paying a visit to the chapter, and witnessing their work, which he considered to be perfect. Comp. F. H. Ebsworth (73) was proposed as a joining member, and some brethren as candidates for exaltation. It was also announced that Comp. T. Perridge, S.E., would represent this chapter as its Steward at the anniversary festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, who, in conjunction with Comp. R. Boncey, H.—who as Steward represents the Lodge 79—will no doubt by their joint efforts take in a good list. The by-laws were ordered to be printed, and the chapter was closed. The usual superior banquet followed, served up in the well-known style of the Ship. All the toasts were given and responded to. The companions separated pleased with an agreeable evening's entertainment. Some good songs were well sung. The furniture of the chapter, manufactured by Comp. George Kenning, was greatly admired by all present; being set out in such a convenient room for all Masonic purposes, its beauty was displayed to advantage.

PROVINCIAL.

GAINSBOROUGH.—All Saints Chapter, No. 422.—A convocation of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall in this town, on Monday evening, the 10th inst. The chapter was opened at six o'clock by the Most Excellent Comps. James Frederick Spurr, Z.; John Hawksworth, H.; John Laughton, J.; after which the following Companions entered the Chapter, Thos. H. Oldman, Scribe E.; Wm. Johnson (No. 57 Hull), as Scribe N.; Henry A. Williamson (J. 200); John Moxon, Prin. Soj.; assisted by Dr. Mackinder and Alfred Kirk; Benj. Box, Janitor; J. Curtis, J. Laughton, jun., &c. The minutes having been confirmed, Bro. William England Howlett, of Kirton-in-Lindsey, and Dr. Hamlyn, of the Yarborough Lodge, No. 422, who had been balloted for at the last meeting were exalted Companions of the Holy Royal Arch of Jerusalem. The ballot was then taken for Bros. George Housham and Daniel Carlile, of No. 422, and also Decimus M. Robbs, of the Aucholme Lodge, No. 1282, all of whom were unanimously elected and exalted Companions of the Order. The Historical, Symbolical, and Mystical lectures were given by the Principals from their respective chairs, and a very able address was delivered by Comp. Williamson, which was listened to with much attention by the Companions present. The Chapter was closed in ancient form, at 9.30 p.m. After which all the Companions adjourned to a banquet provided by Bro. Green, at the Black's Head Hotel, and spent the remainder of the evening in perfect harmony.

IPSWICH.—Royal Alexandra Chapter.—This chapter (attached to the Prince of Wales Lodge) held their quarterly convocation at the Masonic Hall, on Monday, the 17th inst. The chapter having been duly opened and the minutes of the last convocation read and confirmed—through the indisposition of a candidate for the degree, already balloted for—Comp. the Rev. R. N. Gardener, P.Z., gave the companions a lecture on "The Prophetic Office," in the course of which he observed that, in his opinion, the schools of the prophets were something akin to our Masonic lodges; that he could nowhere find any organised instruction was given until the time of the Prophet Samuel, and that there was very little of mere foretelling of the future, but that the prophets were merely guides; and that in the time of this prophet regular schools of instruction were held, where the elder prophets taught the younger. It was also worthy of notice that in the time of Elijah, schools of instruction continued in work and in the times of others of the prophets. Even the dress of the prophets, it might be conceived, bore a close affinity to our present Masonic clothing, which we read consisted of a sheepskin girdle worn round the loins. The worthy companion observed that he had not come prepared to go so deeply into the subject as he should wish, not expecting that the business of the evening would allow of anything of the kind; but that he would be prepared to give the companions a lecture on the sacerdotal office at the next meeting should time permit. Bro. Wm. Norman, P.P.G.O. of Norfolk, was elected an honorary member of this chapter, after which it was closed in ancient form.

LIVERPOOL.—The Temple Chapter.—The members of this flourishing chapter (formed in connection with the Temple Lodge, No. 1094) held their regular bi-monthly meeting at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, on Tuesday, the 27th ult., when the following officers were present: Comps. Dr. J. K. Smith, Z.; Dr. R. H. D. Johnson, P.Z., acting H.; J. B. Robinson, J.; D. W. Winstanley, S.E.; Edwin Gilbert, acting S.N.; John Pemberton, P.S.; P. Macmildrow, A.S.; and Peter Ball, Janitor. The chapter being duly and solemnly opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, Bros. Deacon (of Lodge No. 1094) and Mawson (of No. 1013) were duly exalted. The mystic, symbolic, and historic lectures having been rendered with appropriate impressiveness by the chiefs, and the chapter closed in due form, the companions sat down to a repast, at which the following visitors to the chapter were present, viz.: Comps. William Laidlaw (P.Z. 216), William Crane (P.Z. 249), Dr. J. Mercer Johnson (Z. 292), Thomas Ashmore (Z. 823, H. 580), William Roberts (249), Jesse Banning (333), Hughes (241), Charles H. Hill (241), James Evans (203), and Joseph Healing (249). After the banquet, the usual loyal Masonic and patriotic toasts were rendered, and the companions separated at an early hour, highly gratified with the evening's entertainment.

CONSECRATION of SPHINX LODGE, No. 1329.

This new lodge was consecrated on Saturday, the 15th instant, at the Stirling Castle Hotel, Church-street, Camberwell, by Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M. 975, Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex, assisted by Bros. J. Brett, G.P., as D.C., J. Hervey, G. Sec., as S.W., and J. Thomas as J.W., and it is needless to add that the ceremony was rendered in a faultless manner by those distinguished Masons. Bro. G. Bilby ably officiated at the harmonium.

After the consecration, Bro. E. Clark was duly installed into the chair of K.S. by Bro. J. Thomas, P.M., and then appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. Major Henry W. Palmer, S.W.; Ezekiel J. Bailey, J.W.; J. C. Reynolds, Treas.; Henry Allman, Sec.; W. Viner Bedolfe, M.D., S.D.; Saml Saunders, J.D.; Jas. H. Vokins, I.G.; John Thomas, P.M., D.C.; John Sugden, W.S.; Wm. H. Brachu, C.S.; John Gilbert, Tyler.

It was then proposed by Bro. Bedolfe, S.D., and seconded by Bro. G. Hyde, that an honorary membership of the Sphinx Lodge be offered to Bro. R. Wentworth Little for the very able and efficient manner in which he had presided over the ceremony of its consecration.

The motion was unanimously carried.

Bro. Little, in brief but telling terms, returned thanks for the honour conferred on him.

Bro. Allman, Sec., proposed, and Bro. Bailey, J.W., seconded, that Bros. John Hervey, Jas. Brett, and John Thomas be offered honorary memberships.

This motion being also unanimously carried, those brethren severally returned thanks, accepting the honour conferred upon them.

A vote of thanks was also accorded to Bro. Bilby, for his musical services.

The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a capital banquet, provided by the worthy host, and the evening was spent in the interchange of fraternal sentiments.

The following brethren were present during the day's proceedings:—Fredk. Walters, W.M. 1309; George Kenning, S.W. 192; Alex. Brebner, 190; J. Allsopp, P.M. 879; Jas. Brett, G.P.; Geo. Bilby, P.M. 869; A. J. Haid, 206; H. Allman, S.W. 1194; W. Viner Bedolfe, 1194; James Hepburn Hastie, 1216; E. J. Bailey, 1194; J. Sugden, 15; J. Terry, P.M. 228, 1278, P.P.G.S.B. Herts; J. H. Vokins, 901; J. C. Reynolds, 179; G. Hyde, W.M. 675 and 141; John Thomas, P.M. 507, &c.; Alfred Colstin, P.M. 228; Edwark Clark, P.M. 1194, P.G. Supt. of Wks. Middlesex; Percival A. Nairne, P.M. 176; Samuel Saunders, 186; R. Wentworth Little, P.M. 975, Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex; John Hervey, G.S.; W. H. Bracher, 179; W. Hudson, P.M. 315, P.P.G.J.D. Sussex.

The jewels, furniture, &c., were manufactured by Bro. George Kenning.

THEATRICAL.—Now-a-days, when Shakespearian performances are considered unprofitable by the managers of our largest theatres, it is consoling to know that at one Thespian temple (the Theatre Royal Sadler's Wells), formerly the scene of almost the greatest successes of legitimate drama, we have a gentleman and actor assuming the management, and insuring us a proper representation of the plays of our greatest dramatist. Of Mr. Pennington as an actor nearly all critics speak promisingly; his evident careful study of the parts, clear and distinct delivery of the text, coupled with a fine commanding figure and physique, bid fair to announce him as the artiste to whom we shall look for a faithful delineation of leading Shakespearian characters. Already he has won great renown by his able rendering of "Hamlet," "Lear," &c., and no less deserving of record was his "Macbeth" during last week, as evidenced by the repeated plaudits and calls before the curtain with which he was greeted by the select, yet overflowing audiences. He is well supported by an excellent company. "Othello" is being now performed, and we strongly recommend all lovers of legitimate drama to pay a visit to Sadler's Wells Theatre.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

THE ENGLISH MASONIC CHARITIES.

It will scarcely be denied even by its enemies that Freemasonry is essentially a charitable institution; but the light in which its beneficence is occasionally regarded even by its friends is not calculated to advance its pretensions in this respect in the estimation of intelligent minds.

In the first place, we would observe that eleemosynary relief is one of the lowest forms of charity, although it is doubtless frequently necessary, and should in such cases be cheerfully rendered. When a man enters the Masonic Order, he acquires a moral claim upon the good-will and sympathies of the brethren; but it by no means follows that he establishes a claim upon their pecuniary resources. True, he is admitted shorn of all the external advantages of fortune, and the duty of aiding his fellows when similarly circumstanced is at once forcibly inculcated. Yet, let it be remembered that this obligation to assist the distressed applies only to those who, being necessitous, are also found worthy; and not to the undeserving, simply because they are Masons. Let it be borne in mind that neither the funds of the Craft, nor our means as individuals, are to be wasted upon those who bring upon their own shoulders, by misconduct, the leaden weight of poverty and woe. If this great truth were thoroughly disseminated amongst the lodges, we should hear less of those itinerant impostors who prey upon the mistaken benevolence of the Fraternity; there would be less of casual relief, but more of support, to the genuine cause of charity.

And this brings us to the more immediate subject of this article—namely, the position of the Masonic Charitable Institutions of England. To begin with the oldest, we have first a school for the maintenance and education of female children; and, secondly, a similar institution for the benefit of boys. The laws of these several establishments being almost identical, our remarks as to their management and government will apply equally to both. Their objects are mutatis mutandis—the same; and may be fittingly described by an extract from the printed laws, No. 2:—

"To receive under its protection, and to maintain, clothe, and educate the children of Freemasons of every religious denomination under the English Constitution, who, from alteration of circumstances, arising from the death, illness, or misfortune of their fathers, are reduced to a position requiring the benefits of the Institutions." And well and worthily are these objects achieved by the excellent brethren who devote their time and attention to the executive and administrative departments of the schools. Every care that humanity and kindness can suggest, every appliance of comfort that science can produce, is freely bestowed upon the children, whose habits are formed and perfected by the influence of a discipline rarely demonstrative, but nevertheless supreme. Of the education which our protégés receive—of the mental training which forms and regulates their future—we need only say that it has elicited invaluable tokens of approval from many eminent men, whose experience in the great education question renders their judgment specially important. The Girls' School is situated at St. John's Hill, Battersea Rise, and the Institution for Boys at Wood Green—both being localities easily accessible by rail; and a visit to either school will not only be welcomed by the resident officials, but will amply repay the time that may be devoted to its inspection. The question next arises, how are these truly Masonic institutions supported in their career of usefulness? We again turn to the "Laws," and find that by an annual subscription of one guinea every member of the Craft can become a partaker in the good work; that a contribution of five guineas will constitute him a Life Subscriber; a donation of ten guineas a Life Governor; and one of fifty guineas a Vice-President of either of these noble charities, with proportionate votes at each election of children. In addition to these privileges, every Vice-President and Life Governor is, ipso facto, a member of the General Committee, by which body the ordinary business is transacted; but the actual supervision of the local establishment is entrusted to a House Committee, selected from the members of the General Committee. Financial matters are, in like manner, superintended by the Finance and Audit Committee, whose duties are sufficiently indicated by their title. And, in conclusion, it may be stated that no child is eligible for election unless the father shall have been a subscribing member to a lodge for at least five consecutive years, except in the case of death or other irremediable misfortune. We now come to the Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Brethren, with its sister charity for the Widows of Freemasons. For the accommodation of those who have no homes of their own, or friends to receive them, a capacious asylum has been built at Croydon, and is now inhabited by old people of both sexes, who are in the receipt of a small yearly pension. Annuities are also granted to a considerable number who do not desire to avail themselves of the shelter offered by the asylum, or for whom there is no room within its walls. The male annuitants receive £26 each per annum, the females £25—sums which we contend are totally inadequate to their requirements, and which we hope to see increased at no distant day. The contributions to both branches of this charity are fixed on a lower scale than those of the two schools, inasmuch as a donation of but five shillings secures a vote at the annual election of either the male or female candidates, and the qualifications of the Life Governors and Vice-Presidents are likewise obtainable for a proportionately smaller sum. The management of the asylum is also confided to a committee possessing powers almost identical with those enjoyed by the House Committees of the other Institutions, and each charity has its separate organisation with paid secretaries, clerks, and collectors. From this resumé our readers can form an opinion as to the work now being accomplished by benevolent members of the English Craft, and they will also agree with us in opinion that if we offer a magnificent education to the child of a distressed brother, we ought surely to do more for the brother himself than dole out to him the miserable pittance of six-and-twenty pounds. Brethren elected as annuitants are presumably men who have laboured for the good of Freemasonry, and we may also assume that they have been in their day worthy and reputable members of society. Let us therefore add to their comforts in old age—let us remember the moral claim enforced at our initiation; and as all these aged people can doubtless present a well-sifted tale of misfortune, let us cheerfully extend to them a liberal hand, and not deny to them the material advantages which are so freely and generously bestowed upon the children of, perhaps, equally poor, but not more deserving members of the Craft.

THE ARK MARINERS' DEGREE.

I have just received a copy of the semi-annual report of the Mark Grand Lodge, in which the proceedings of that body at an emergency meeting on the 2nd of August last, with reference to the above degree are recorded at length, and I note with some surprise that the Ancient or Mother Ark Lodge of England now held in connection with St. Mark's Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 1, is inconsiderately and utterly ignored by the Mark authorities, although it is notorious that but for the exertions of some few members of that lodge, the little that is now known of the "Ark, Link and Chain" degrees (not the absurd Jacob's "Wrestle") would have been infinitely less. I can only add, that when the proper time arrives, the members of this, the oldest Ark Lodge in the world, will be prepared to assert their rights, and to demand without fear that recognition which is now apparently conceded to others, who have thrust themselves forward as representatives of the degree. There is also, I observe in the report of the Mark General Board, a singular but pardonable error, which arises doubtless from want of historical light on the subject, viz., a statement that the degree of "Most Excellent Master" has not been practised in England since 1813. A similarity of titles has unquestionably led the Board to imagine that the old English degrees of "Excellent" and "Super-Excellent," are identical with the "Most Excellent Master's" degree, originated and solely conferred in America; but I can assure them that there is not the slightest affinity between them. For geist and homogeneity, the American grade is unsurpassed by any of its Masonic compeers; but I hope the Mark Grand Lodge will not commit the fatal mistake of attempting to work it without authority from the proper quarters. I have had the honour of being consulted upon the whole question of the annexation of those degrees to the Mark system by a brother high in position, and for whom I entertain the greatest respect; it is, therefore, rather discouraging to find after all, that the views of the merest tyros in Masonry—men who have never studied it either in principle or practice—are to all appearance accepted without reference or inquiry by those who should be "patterns of good order and regularity to all Mark Master Masons." P.M., 1.

PALESTINE.

The excavations which are slowly but steadily carried on in the vicinity of the Holy City, have recently led to the discovery of a basin filled with a compact mass of earth, and sunk to a depth quite unexpected. After a careful removal of the earth, the splendid structure and the great size of the excavation were the admiration of all present. But of far greater interest is the fact of two canals debouching into this basin from two opposite directions. In these canals streamlets of the freshest water were discovered, and their origin is said to have been traced to several springs from which the sweet liquid element never ceases to flow, and its supply would be capable to do incalculable good in such a time of drought as was last summer experienced by the whole population of Jerusalem.—Jewish Record.

THE RECENT INSTALLATION OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

It is to be supposed that those at the head of the Masonic Order invested with power, will naturally have attained to the degrees which are regularly worked and recognised under the jurisdiction of that supreme body to which they belong. The Grand Lodge of Scotland, since its formation, have wisely resolved to recognise nothing but what is known as St. John's Masonry. A few years ago, when the question of the exact degrees arose, it was resolved in Grand Lodge assembled, that in all future time the degrees to be recognised as St. John's Masonry would be, Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft with the adjunct of Mark, and Master Mason. It is well-known to the initiated that the Mark is worked both in Scotland and England as a separate degree; but in Scotland, under the Laws and Constitutions of the Grand Lodge it has now virtually become one degree. It is therefore to be expected that the Scottish Craft will see it their duty towards their Royal brother, who is in a somewhat manner to rule, guide, and govern the body in general, that he should have the necessary knowledge to fit him to decide or discuss any matter which might come up in future in connection with this part of the ceremonial, and that instructions in the Mark Mason, which is the recognised adjunct, or concluding portion appertaining to the Fellow Craft degree, be conferred upon him. This, no doubt, could easily be conferred upon him by the Mother Kilwinning Lodge, No. o, with whom our Royal brother might have been expected to affiliate into, or any of the Metropolitan Lodges who work the Mark, under sanction, jurisdiction, and charter of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. Possibly the Grand Master might have exercised his prerogative by conferring this part of the degree at sight.

MARY'S CHAPEL RECORDS.

In giving an account of the affiliation of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales into the Lodge of Edinburgh, Mary's Chapel. The Scotsman says, "Among other names singled out for special notice were those of the first Speculative Mason of whom there is any authentic record, namely, Thomas Boswell of Auchinleck, who was a member of the lodge in 1600." Now, I challenge that statement; for, firstly, I deny that Boswell was a "Speculative Mason," and secondly, I am not aware of his being "a member" of the lodge in 1600? However, give a verbatim et literatim copy of the 1600 minutes, and if I be wrong I shall admit it.—W. P. B.

THE APRON—THE BADGE OF OUR ORDER.

May I ask what proof exists of the apron being used and worn as "the distinguishing badge of our Order" before A.D. 1717? I know of none, and consider that it was only then so introduced. W. P. B.

JEWS.—The Jews, for five hundred years after their delivery from Egypt, have left not a single Masonic tradition beyond that recorded in the first degree, and as the second degree treats upon the arts and sciences, it certainly came from a different source than the first, for the ten commandments, and more especially the Talmudic explanation of the same, were a bar to the higher studies of the Jews. Nothing sculptured, or otherwise made with hands, whereby the Deity or eternity was represented, was permitted; and the Rabbinical law, saying that the sciences were not necessary, operated so powerfully upon the conscientious part of that people that they followed the humble employment of a pastoral life. This accounts for the scanty documents we have of the Israelitish Freemasonry.—Husenbeth.

PROV. G.L. OF WEST LANCASHIRE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your correspondent "M.M." says in his letter: "Now, sir, in my innocence, I fully believed that offices like these (i.e. Provincial Grand offices) were conferred on brethren according to merit and ability, and that time and patience would enable every worthy brother to share in the honours of Masonry."

Really, sir, "M.M." must be "innocence" itself if he ever either believed or expected that any amount of either time or patience would enable "every worthy brother" in the province to attain provincial honours. The number of worthy Masons in West Lancashire is far too great to admit of such a possibility, even if the provincial officers were changed every year.

As regards the present Prov. G.L. Officers for West Lancashire, many of them right worthily deserve all the honours they either now, or can hereafter have, for their long and valuable services, none more so than the two worthy brethren he alludes to—the Prov. G. Sec. and the Prov. G. Reg. But I will do "M.M." the credit to assume that he does not consider any of the present Provincial Grand Officers unqualified for, or unworthy of, their honours; but that there are other brethren also well qualified and equally worthy of the coveted distinction. If this be his opinion, let him at the next Prov. G.L. meeting propose such a one for the office of Prov. G. Treasurer, as the present most worthy Prov. G. Treasurer has intimated his intention of retiring at the close of his present year of office.

Yours fraternally,

P. M.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—For the information of your correspondent "M.M." and others interested, and to show that the Prov. G.M. is aware of the dissatisfaction existing in this province as to the Prov. G.L. appointments, permit me to state that some months ago I wrote to the Prov. G.M. pointing out that a strong feeling prevailed amongst the brethren that the G.L. officers were not changed so frequently as appeared consistent with the extent and prosperity of the province, and as it was believed on his appointment would have been the case; that the present officers were not only re-appointed year after year, but that several of them having been in office many years confirmed the general report that they were appointed for life; that these re-appointments were far from complimentary to the numerous P.M.'s who at the outset of their Masonic career had foolishly imagined that the highest ranks were open to them; that many large and influential lodges were not and had never been represented at all, whilst from others several members had been chosen; that among the present officers there was known to be a feeling against retiring, and thus allowing others to hold the same rank as themselves, that it would in fact make these honours too cheap if shared by others; that there was evidently no chance for any brother to advance beyond the Principal chair of his lodge or chapter unless he was one of the intimate of a select few, denominated by some of our brethren a "clique;" that as a consequence, all P.M.'s and P.Z.'s (for the same objection is made to the P.G. Chapter so far as it has existed) feel that their services were no longer required or appreciated, and ceased to take an active interest in our working and institution at a time when their guidance and practical knowledge would be most useful to us. I concluded by stating that by thus addressing the P.G.M. I was quite aware that I might thereby incur the displeasure of those officers who appeared to have the direction of the matters referred to, but being too well known in the Craft to be affected very much by their influence, and having received all the honours lodges or chapters could bestow, I could afford to accept the position in the hope that my communication would bring about a more satisfactory state of things, urging him to give the subject his earnest consideration. My letter has never yet been acknowledged, and recent appointments speak volumes as to its not being considered worthy of attention. I wrote (in order to avoid an unpleasant discussion in Prov. G.L., where sooner or later the matter was certain to be introduced) at the instance of many brethren, and as a P.M. taking an active interest in Freemasonry long before our worthy Prov. G.M. was enrolled in our ranks, and it that capacity I now respectfully invite him, "for the good of Masonry in general," to discuss the matter in your columns.

Yours truly and fraternally,

P. M.

SIR,—Will you do me the favour to acknowledge with deep gratitude, on behalf of the daughter of a Freemason, the following contributions which have reached me, and duly forwarded, in the hope they may avert the dreaded extremity of parting with every article of furniture?

May I also appeal for further aid, to provide but a few shillings weekly for the commonest necessities? The case is a truly melancholy one.

Obituary.

THE R.W. BRO. WILLIAM A. LAURIE.

We deeply regret to announce the decease of the R.W. Bro. William A. Laurie, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, which melancholy event occurred on the 26th inst., at Edinburgh, as we are informed by telegram from an esteemed correspondent.

The name of Laurie is so intimately associated with the history and progress of Scottish Freemasonry, and the deceased brother had held his high position for so long a period, that this announcement will be received with sympathy and regret by every English-speaking Mason. Bro. Laurie was also Junior Grand Guardian, and Grand Sword Bearer of the Royal Order of Scotland, and Aide-de-Camp in the Chapter General, or the Order of the Temple. In this brief notice, we cannot do justice to the mournful theme, but hope to receive from one of our Scottish friends a full account of the lamented brother's career.

BRO. HENRY MORTON, W.M. 228.

It is with very great and deep regret we have to announce the death of Bro. Henry Morton, W.M. 228, which sad event took place at his residence, 25, Halliford-street, Islington, on Sunday, October 23rd. He presided as W.M. at the last lodge meeting, on the 11th inst., and was then in his usual health. He caught cold, and in a few days Death added him to the list of those who have preceded us. Our lamented brother was well known to many Masons, and was beloved and respected by all who knew him. He ever gave his support to the Masonic Charities, he was a warm-hearted and true friend, and gifted with many excellent qualities. His Masonic career has been short, but he was an indefatigable worker. Initiated in No. 228, Lodge of United Strength, in August, 1863, he filled the various offices, and was installed W.M. of that lodge in February last. He was one of the founders of the Upton Lodge, 1227, and was S.W. at the time of his death. He was also exalted in Royal Arch Masonry in the Chapter of Sincerity, 174, in 1867, and was its P.S. at the time of his decease. The lodges will appear in deep mourning, as also the chapter to which he belonged, to show how sincerely he was respected by all. He died quite in the prime of life, not being forty years old.

MASONIC APPOINTMENTS.

The M.W. Grand Mark Master Mason has appointed the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, Past Grand Mark Master Mason, to be Provincial G.M.M.M. for Somerset. We understand that Bro. Captain Irwin will be appointed his lordship's Deputy.

The following matter stands over till next week:—Reviews, "Freemasonry in England," "The Mark Degree," "A last word with Bro. Jacob Norton," letter from "P.M.," reports of Lodges 169, 205, 871, 1167, 1196, and St. Andrew's Chapter.

MARK MASONRY.

MARK MASONRY IN WEST LANCASHIRE.

Mark Masonry in Lancashire, under the Grand Lodge of England, is receiving an impetus, and progressing with a rapidity which will doubtless have a material influence in bringing the sublime order in England under one decided authority, and doing away with a number of lodges working under various sources which keeps brethren asunder who would otherwise work in harmony, endeavouring to seek the extension of this beautiful degree. As an instance of this, in Liverpool negotiations have been going on for some time with the view of amalgamating the West Lancashire Lodge, No. 65, under the Grand Lodge of England, and the United Lodge of Mark Master Masons, working under a dispensation from a lodge at Ashton-under-Lyne.

These efforts were brought to a successful close on Monday, the 17th inst., at the Masonic Hall, 22, Hope-street, when a special emergency was held of the West Lancashire Lodge, No. 65, not only for the purpose of receiving the members of the United Lodge according to the terms of the arrangement, but also for the purpose of advancing to the degree some of the most distinguished Masons in West Lancashire—viz., Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, D.P.G.M. West Lancashire; Bro. H. S. Alpess, P.G. Sec. W.L. (both proposed by Bro. J. R. Goepell, P.M. and P.G.S.O., seconded by Bro. W. T. May, P.M. and G.S., and Bro. J. Hamer, P.G. Treas.), along with six other prominent Masons in Liverpool and the Isle of Man—viz., Bros. H. P. Mayle, P.M. 1004, Douglas; J. M. Johnson, P.M. 1094, and P.G.S. W.W.; E. Hughes, H. Pearson, and C. Leighton, Lodge 249, and Bro. H. Nelson, S.W. 673. The chair on the occasion was occupied by the W.M., Bro. W. H. Lunt, P.M. 823 and G.S. of Works, for the first portion of the degree, and the latter part by Bro. J. Hamer, P.M., P. G. Treas. and P.G.M.O., who was assisted by the officers of the lodge, and by Past Masters Bros. J. R. Goepell, P.G.S.O., acting as S.D.; J. R. Smith, W. T. May, G.S.; and Bro. J. Wood, J.D.

The ceremony was performed in a perfect and admirable manner, and elicited the warmest encomiums from Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, Bro. Alpess, and other prominent Masons. After business, the brethren adjourned to luncheon, when a few loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed, and great satisfaction was expressed by the brethren generally at the successful result of the day's work.

The above proceedings are not only an earnest of what the Mark Masons are doing in Liverpool, but it may also be stated that, on Saturday, the 29th inst., a Provincial Grand Lodge will be held at Manchester, for Lancashire, when it is expected that two or three of the most prominent Mark Master Masons in Liverpool will be appointed to high offices. It is also expected that Bro. Lord Skelmersdale will shortly be appointed to high office in the Grand Lodge of M.M.M.'s in London, and take an active part in the government of Mark Masonry in England.

R.W. Bro. W. Romaine Callender, jun., will, on Saturday, be installed as P.G.M. of the new province, by the M.W. Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, M.A., Grand Mark Master Mason of England, assisted by the following Grand Officers: Bros. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., M.W.P.G.M.; the Right Hon. the Earl Percy, R.W.P.D.G.M. and R.W.P.G.M. for Northumberland and Durham; Sir E. Lechmere, Bart., R.W. Past D.G.M.; the Rev. John Huyshe, M.A., R.W.P.G.M. for Devonshire; T. Mancel Talbot, R.W.P.G.M. for South Wales; W. Kelly, R.W.P.G.M. for Leicestershire; the Right Hon. the Earl of Limerick, R.W.S.G.W.; Major Adair, R.W.J.G.W.; the Lord Eliot, R.W.P.G.W.; Sir John Conroy, R.W. Past G.W.; J. Rankin Stebbing, V.W.G. Treas.; and F. Binckes, V.W.G. Sec. The Provincial Grand Officers will also be appointed and invested.

LEICESTER.—Freem. Lodge, No. 19.—The Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales having appointed the moveable Grand Lodge to be held at this town, on Thursday, the 27th inst., a Lodge of Emergency of No. 19, was held at the Masonic Hall, on Wednesday, the 12th inst., for the advancement of candidates. The brethren present were, W. Kelly, P.G.M.M.; A. M. Duff, W.M.; W. Weare, J.W.; Partridge, M.O.; Rev. Dr. Haycroft, S.O. and Chap.; L. A. Clarke, J.O.; Stretton, Treas.; Richardson, Sec.; Toller, S.D.; Palmer, J.D.; Crow, Org.; Sculthorpe, I.G.; Brembridge, Tyler; Baines, Morr, and others. The lodge having been opened, a ballot took place for the following fourteen candidates, who were duly elected, viz., Right Hon. Earl Ferrers, W.M. 799; Sir H. St. J. Halford, Bart., S.W. 1330; Samuel Inus, D.P.G.M. Norths and Hunts; John H. Johnson, P.M. 129, and P.P.G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmorland; Henry Deane, 1007, P.P.G. Reg.; R. W. Widdowson, W. H. Pegg, Robert Burnham and R. Overton, jun., 279; W. Penn Cox, W. T. Rowlett and F. Torne, 523; Robt. Waite P.M., and Francis Kemp, 1330. Bros. Fred. Eachus Wilkinson, M.D. and Alfred Layton of 181, London; and R. A. Barber of 279, Leicester, elected at former lodges being present, were advanced as Mark Masters, as were also Bros. Waite, Kemp, Deane, Widdowson, Pegg, and Torne, Bro. Crow presiding at the organ and leading the musical chants, &c. On the conclusion of ceremony by the W.M., Bro. Kelly, P.G.M.M., explained the working tools, and delivered the lecture of the degree. Several other candidates having been proposed, and the arrangements for the reception of the Grand Lodge having been discussed, the lodge was closed, and the meeting adjourned until the following Monday, when another Lodge of Emergency had been summoned to advance those candidates now absent. Accordingly another Lodge of Emergency was held on Monday evening last, about thirty brethren being present, and all the officers being in their places, with the exception of the Rev. Dr. Haycroft, M.O., who was unavoidably absent. Bro. William Foster, formerly of this lodge, was duly elected a joining member, and the following brethren as candidates: S. Jacob, P.M. and P.G.S.W. Norths and Hunts; Richard Blankley and T. H. Kirby, of 279; and T. Charlesworth of 522, Leicester. The following brethren were then regularly advanced to the degree by the W.M., (the musical portion of the ceremony being conducted on the organ by Bro. Crow, P.G.O., and by Bro. Johnson,) viz., the Right Hon. Earl Ferrers, Sir Henry St. John Halford, Bart., John Henry Johnston, Robert Overton, jun., W. Penn Cox, T. H. Kirby, T. Charlesworth and R. Blankley, after which Bro. Kelly, P.G.M.M., gave the explanation of the working tools, the lecture, and the charge. The arrangements made for the reception of the Grand Lodge on the 27th inst., having been announced the lodge was closed, and adjourned to the evening of Wednesday, the 26th inst., for the advancement of the D.P.G.M. of Norths and Hunts, and other candidates.

GUILDFORD.—Percy Lodge, No. 114.—A meeting of the above lodge was held on Thursday, 13th inst., at the Angel Hotel, when the chair was taken by the Rev. G. Portal, M.W.G.M., in the absence of Earl Percy, M.P., W.M. A ballot was taken for Bros. Elkins, G. Hull, and Jeffries, and these brethren having been unanimously elected, were advanced. Two other brethren were proposed for advancement at the next meeting, and the details were arranged for a concert in aid of the sick and wounded, to be given on the 18th. It was also resolved to petition the M.W.G.M. that Surrey and Middlesex should be formed into a province, under the charge of Bro. Col. Burdett. The lodge having been closed, a banquet was held and a very pleasant evening spent. The entertainment alluded to above duly came off in the Town Hall, and was most successful. The brethren, in full dress and wearing their Mark jewel, acted as Stewards. The Hall was crowded, and a sum amounting to nearly £50 was realised.

ROYAL ARK MASONRY.

METROPOLITAN.

Dove Lodge.—A meeting of this lodge, No. 4 on the roll of the Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Royal Ark Mariners, was held at Freemasons' Hall, on the 10th at 4 p.m. Present: Brother Morton Edwards, P.G.C., Inspector-General; A. Harris, G.A.; A. D. Loewenstark, G.T.B.; W. Lowder; &c. The lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer, and the following brethren being candidates for admission to this degree, were properly prepared, introduced, and elevated as Royal Ark Mariners, viz., Israel Abrahams, S.W. Samson and Lion Lodge Mark No. 86; S. Pollitzer, J.W.; Meyer A. Loewenstark, Sec.; W. Littaur, M.O.; J. L. Rosenthal, S.O.; J. Funkenstein, J.O.; J. Emanuel, I.G.; M. Littaur, George Lambert, E. P. Albert, G. Kelley. The brethren below the rank of C. having retired, a Board of Installed Commanders was formed, and Bro. A. D. Loewenstark was placed in the chair of N. according to ancient custom, and Bros. George Lambert and Meyer A. Loewenstark received the rank of Commander. The brethren were then readmitted and saluted the Commander, who appointed as his officers—Abrahams, J.; Pollitzer, S.; Meyer A. Loewenstark, Scribe; W. Littaur, S.D.; Funkenstein, D.C.; Rosenthal, J.D.; J. Emanuel, Steward; and E. Hart, Organist. It was unanimously resolved that a cordial vote of thanks be recorded in the minutes to Bro. M. Edwards for his skill, efficiency, and kindness in rendering all the ceremonies; likewise that he be enrolled as a honorary member of this lodge. It was also resolved that this lodge hold its meetings on the same days as the Samson and Lion Lodge of Mark Masons No. 86, under the auspices of which, and through the exertions of the W.M. Bro. A. D. Loewenstark, it was opened. The lodge was then closed with solemn prayer, and stands adjourned till January, when a dozen more candidates will attend to receive this ancient degree.

THE annual Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire will be held, under the presidency of his Grace the Duke of St. Alban's, R.W.P.G.M., and the auspices of the Yarborough Lodge, No. 422, in the Old Hall, Gainsborough, on Thursday next, November 3rd, at half-past one o'clock. A banquet will be provided at the Old Hall, at four o'clock.

A WORD of praise is due to Messrs. Lynes and Son, of Shoreditch, for publishing gratis, a "Winter Magazine," professing to be a combination of pleasure and business, and which contains by far more pleasure and much less of advertisement than many of the "Comic" annuals, which each succeeding Christmas is sure to bring us. Many a dull winter night will be made jolly by Messrs. Lynes' excellent work.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this school met on Thursday afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Major J. Creaton, V.P., in the chair. The Committee was also attended by Bros. Raynham W. Stewart, Benjamin Head, Edward Cox, J. R. Sheen, W. H. Hemsworth, W. Farnfield, H. Massey, John A. Rucker, Joshua Nunn, John Symonds, and E. H. Patten, Secretary.

The usual course of reading the minutes of former committees was first pursued, and the consideration of petitions to be placed on the list of candidates was then proceeded with. E. P. Goodrich was examined in reading, in which she was found to be very ready, and was therefore placed on the list. Three cases stood over for a month for further information, and a letter was read from a relative of an old pupil, inquiring whether there was a fund connected with the institution to apprentice pupils. The child having been out of the school eighteen months, nothing could be done with this letter.

Bro. John Symonds, V.P., gave notice of motion for a Special General Court on the 8th December, to receive the report of the committee on the qualifications and privileges of Vice-Presidents and other subscribers, and to receive such notices of motions for amendments and alterations of the laws of the institution as might then be given for future consideration.

The committee then adjourned.

INSTRUCTION.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, No. 177.

This lodge has for the last three years held its meetings at the Palmerston Arms Tavern, near Grosvenor Park, Camberwell, and it was determined to celebrate that event by a banquet, which took place at the Lodge House, on Tuesday evening, October 18th, which was numerously attended. This lodge was established in 1842, and some of the best working Masons in the Craft have received instruction in it, and the ability of its present Preceptor, Bro. John Thomas, is too well known to need any comment. It is also one of the best furnished lodges of instruction, for all the ceremonies are performed with the care and accessories of a regular lodge. Bro. H. Thompson, P.M. of the parent lodge, P.M. and Treas. of the Southern Star Lodge, No. 1158, and Hon. Sec. to this Lodge of Instruction, presided; and there were present Bros. Thomas (Preceptor), J. Child, E. Dodson (W.M. of the Jubilee Lodge), Allatt, Withall, Squires, Poore, Hodges, Beckett, T. White, J. Ashwell, Shaughnessy, Ross, Wingham and Wingham, jun. (both of the Robert Burns Lodge), H. J. Wright (S.W. of the Royal Jubilee Lodge), Dann (Royal Jubilee), J. Stevens (W.M. of the Macdonald Lodge), R. E. Clarke (P.M. of the Southern Star Lodge), Gluckstein (P.M. 52, and of the Faith Lodge), Catherwood (Constitutional Lodge), Messenger and Larham (Macdonald Lodge), Scard (Domestic Lodge, No. 177), M'Crae (Egyptian Lodge), Bedolfe and Worrell (Panmure Lodge, No. 720), and several other brethren.

The supper was provided by Bro. Marshall, and it gave the most entire satisfaction.

On the withdrawal of the cloth, the W.M. gave "The Queen and the Craft," which was heartily responded to, followed by the National Anthem, the solo parts by Bros. Dodson and Stevens, Bro. Wingham, jun., presiding at the pianoforte.

The rest of the formal Masonic toasts were then given, and received with all due honours.

The W.M. said they had arrived at what might be considered the toast of the evening, which was "Success to the Domestic Lodge of Instruction," and said it must be highly gratifying to the members of it to see the prosperity it had obtained during the three years they had met at that house—since the resuscitating of the lodge in 1867. For a great deal of the prosperity which had attended their labours, they were greatly indebted to those brethren who were at all times ready to assist in the performance of their ceremonies; but they were more especially indebted to those brethren who were almost constant in their attendance to impart information and instruction to their younger brethren, and many who were at the present time enjoying honours in their own lodges were not slow in acknowledging that they obtained them through the instruction they had received in the Domestic Lodge of Instruction. That was something to be proud of, and he (the W.M.) took the opportunity of impressing upon all young Masons that if they wished to enjoy the honours of the Craft they ought to be frequent in their attendance at lodges of instruction, so as to qualify themselves for any duties they might hereafter be called upon to perform. It was a well-known fact that merit was the great qualification for promotion, and those brethren were the first selected for posts of honour who were the most frequent in their attendance at lodges of instruction, where not only the ceremonies were taught, but their meaning was explained by those beautiful illustrations which were conveyed in their lectures, but were rarely heard in a regular lodge. The Domestic Lodge of Instruction was now established on a firm basis, and as they were under deep obligations to their Preceptor and other brethren, he gave "Success to the Domestic Lodge of Instruction," coupling with the toast the names of Bros. John Thomas and Stevens.

The toast was most cordially responded to.

Bro. J. Thomas, Preceptor of the lodge, returned thanks, and expressed his willingness on every occasion of their meeting to give instruction, and his desire to impart all the knowledge he possessed to the younger brethren, so that when called to office they might be able efficiently to perform their duties.

Bro. James Stevens, W.M. of the Macdonald Lodge, said he was for a very brief period entrusted with the W.M.'s gavel, and the brethren would understand the use he should make of it. He alluded to the resuscitation of the lodge, and said they were mainly indebted for it to Bro. Thompson, who had laboured hard to bring about that result, and who since then had been most assiduous in performing the duties of Hon. Secretary to the lodge. He was nearly always at his post, and recorded their proceedings, and was ever ready to perform any duty, and he (Bro. Stevens) thought that three years ago Bro. Thompson himself three years ago could hardly have anticipated that they would have such a splendid meeting of influential members of the Craft as they had present that evening. He concluded by proposing "The Health of Bro. Thompson, P.M. and Secretary of the Lodge."

The toast was well received.

The W.M. (Bro. Thompson) returned thanks, and said when he saw such a gathering as they had that night, anything he might have done towards the resuscitation of the lodge gave him infinite pleasure, and he hoped and trusted the lodge would go on and prosper as it had done heretofore. He wished all the members health and happiness, trusting to meet them all next year at their festive meeting, and with an increased number of new members on the roll of the Domestic Lodge.

Bro. Stevens then sang "What better theme than Masonry?" of which he is the author, and it was received with great applause.

The W.M. gave "The Visitors," coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Allatt, the worthy host of the Southern Star Lodge, and whose genial and kind nature are well known.

Bro. Allatt returned thanks, and expressed his intention of becoming a member of the lodge.

The W.M. said he had already alluded to Bro. Thomas in connection with the lodge, but he thought it right to offer a distinct toast in reference to him as the Preceptor of the lodge. All the brethren present knew the value of his services, and for himself he could say that in the early part of his Masonic career he was under great obligations to Bro. Thomas for his instruction, and he was always ready to give it, not only in the lodge, but out of it, and even at his own residence, where he not only received gratuitous instruction, but was hospitably entertained, and other brethren received the same advantages from Bro. Thomas. He (the W.M.) was almost astonished at the amount of time Bro. Thomas devoted to the instruction of others, and he asked the brethren to drink his health with all the cordiality it so richly deserved.

The toast was most enthusiastically received.

Bro. Thomas thanked the brethren for the cordial manner in which the toast had been received, and the flattering terms in which the W.M. had spoken of him. He should at all times be ready to afford information to make young Masons as conversant with the duties as he was himself, and to aid them by every means in his power.

The W.M. gave "The Worthy Host (Bro. Marshall), and the Stewards (Bros. Ashwell and White)," and remarked that they had well catered for their entertainment, and were deserving of the thanks of the brethren.

Bro. Marshall and Bro. White severally returned thanks.

During the evening a number of songs were sung, and it was admitted by all that it had been one of the most pleasing and happy evenings that for a long time they had spent in Freemasonry.

United Pilgrims' Lodge of Instruction, No. 507.—A large number of the members of the above lodge, as well as numerous visitors met, on the 14th inst., at Bro. Timewell's, the Duke of Edinburgh, Shepherd's-lane, Brixton (present place of meeting for the lodge), to witness the ceremony of installation worked by Bro. John Thomas, P.M. and Preceptor of the lodge. The ceremony was most ably performed in the quiet and impressive manner so characteristic of the worthy Preceptor, giving the greatest pleasure to the brethren present. After closing the lodge, the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet provided by Bro. Timewell in his usual liberal style, who proved himself on this occasion, as on every other, an excellent caterer for the wants of the brethren. The toasts of "The Queen," "The Grand Master," &c., &c., were duly honoured, and the brethren spent a very agreeable evening.

THE Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, K.G., M.W. Grand Master, having signified his approval of Bro. R. Wentworth Little as the Consecrating Officer, the Lodge of Asaph, No. 1319, will be consecrated at Freemasons' Hall, on Monday, the 7th November. Bro. E. Stanton Jones will be the first Master, and Bros. Coote and Chamberlin the Wardens, and the rest of the founders are also members of the musical brethren profession.

FAITH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.—The above Lodge of Instruction is held every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the spacious and commodious rooms at Bro. Fisher's Restaurant, Metropolitan District Railway Station, Victoria, S.W. Ceremonies and lectures worked every Tuesday, except the fourth Tuesday in the month, when the ceremonies alone are rehearsed. The DOMATIC CHAPTER OF INSTRUCTION is also held in the above rooms every Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, from October until April inclusive.

DISTRICT G. LODGE OF TURKEY.

ADDRESS delivered by the Hon. JOHN PORTER BROWN, District Grand Master of Turkey, at a meeting of the District Grand Lodge on the 2nd of May last.

"Brethren,—I desire to avail myself of the present meeting of the District Grand Lodge to offer you a few remarks, and I, therefore, beg your indulgence whilst I address you on the subject of the peculiar position which we occupy in this country as Freemasons, and the character which we should sustain in it.

"Here, we are all in the 'East,' and each one of us is liable to be questioned on the principles and objects of our beloved Institution. Many grave and deeply erroneous impressions exist here regarding it. Some persons suppose that we desire to inculcate a new religion; others imagine that we form a political society of a secret and dangerous character; and there are again others, I regret to add, who declare that we are all so many Atheists, without any religious faith whatever.

"The object of my remarks, therefore, is chiefly, to endeavour to define our true position, and to remove, by their publicity, so ignorant and so erroneous a supposition.

"Beyond the precincts of the lodges, we certainly represent many of the various faiths and creeds of the world, and the varied nationalities which unfortunately separate, rather than unite men together; whilst, within them, these are all forgotten, and we meet here only as so many brothers, with no feelings of superiority either in matters of faith or of nationality: animated only by a sentiment of love for each other, and by a common desire to seek the promotion of the happiness and welfare of all. Perhaps it is to this liberality and the total absence of all religious and political discussions, that we may ascribe the aspersions afore-mentioned.

"Every Craftsman who understands the real purposes and uses of Freemasonry—who rightly appreciates the nature and value of those intimate relations which it tends to establish between its members—who cherishes, and seeks to render more deep and abiding that true friendship and tender affection by which all Freemasons should ever be united, must derive from any occasion like the present, when all are alike animated by mutual confidence, esteem and affection, a real happiness, marred by none of those feelings and passion which are too often agitated in the outer world by religious and political passions, and which should find no place in the heart when upon its altar burns the genuine fire of Masonic Brotherhood. This fact, alone, fully shows the benefits which we derive from not allowing any such questions to be discussed in our lodges.

"It is greatly to be desired that the real principles and objects of our beloved Institution should be better understood here, especially amongst our friends of the Mussulman community, in which a prejudice exists against it to a certain extent, the result, of course, of ignorance and of the absence, also, of all means of procuring positive and reliable information.

"Freemasonry, as we all know, originated in the East, and I am confident that it will be more appreciated in its native land when it is more properly understood and known, as it fully merits. It is a sad misfortune for us all that there are many excellent, and, on most other subjects, well informed persons, who really do believe that to be a Freemason is to be an Atheist or, at least a Materialist. How great a calumny this is, you are all aware. No one who is an Atheist, or who admits that he is one, can ever be permitted to enter within the portal of a lodge, where the All-seeing Eye of the Creator of all men penetrates the hearts of every one. Always deeply impressed with this fact, our great principle is the Paternity of God and the Fraternity of all mankind. We leave it, however, to each brother to follow the dictates of his own conscience and the particular faith of his forefathers without seeking to control or to convert him to any other. Freemasonry, thus, occupies a 'neutral ground' on which we may all meet together, as so many brethren, without any cause to apprehend offence being given to any one's faith, whatever it may be, so long as it fully recognises the Creator of all things. We, nevertheless, feel a profound interest in the spiritual as well as the temporal welfare of each one of our brethren, yet without doing more than to remind him, at each one of our meetings, of his duties to a common Creator and to his brethren.

On the subject of religion, I may here add that a man may be compared to the stately tree of the forest. His religious convictions, like its roots, are, often, deeply seated. At an early period both may be caused to take almost any desired form or shape; whilst at a later one, the effort becomes so dangerous as even to jeopardise the existence of both. Thus, what is true in vegetable life is somewhat equally so with regard to the religious ideas of mankind. There are, however, some men who, unfortunately, seem to have no fixed religious convictions at all. These certainly make very bad Freemasons. We are apt to condemn others for not believing as we believe. In our unfairness, we take it upon ourselves to judge and pronounce sentence upon others. We are even unwilling to accord to them that liberality and indulgence which we claim for ourselves. Whilst our own religious faith has been the fruit of our earliest education—that of our childhood, and for which we are scarcely responsible—we deny this to others whose faith differs from our own. As we grow up to the age of maturity, these early conceptions have become strengthened in our minds by education and by all the associations of every-day life. In fact, like the roots of a tree, they become too deeply seated to be easily removed from their native soil; and too often, when unsettled by new ones, the mind is apt to receive none other, or, at least, not with the same strength of conviction. This is, I believe, too often the real cause of Atheism. Compulsion certainly never brings sincere conviction, which can only result from research and instruction. What great errors have been committed on this point during the varied period of man's history; and how cruelly has mankind suffered by a violation of this self-evident fact! A great change in this respect is, however, now coming over the minds of men of education and reflection. Religious as well as civil liberty is making great progress throughout the civilised world. Men are becoming year after year more tolerant towards each other in matters of religious conviction—greatly to the advancement of real civilisation and real happiness. This principle of tolerance is now, and always has been, one of the great principles of our time-honoured institution. To it, I fully believe, is due in a great measure the perpetuation of our Order, whilst so many other institutions which have been wise have ceased to exist. We only maintain as an obligation from which there can be no deviation, that all men are the children of one common parent, the Omniscient and Almighty Creator, who uses no force or violence to compel our religious convictions, but leaves each individual free to hold those which he deems correct. and thus renders every one responsible only to Him. It is this innate sense of responsibility to the Divine Creator that elevates man above the brute creation, where purely animal instincts and passions lead to no thought of a future existence. If, therefore, we call ourselves brethren, it is because we all recognise the paternity of a common Father and Creator; and to deny this would be to deny that we are brethren.

“Whatever differences of opinion on matters of religious faith disturb the harmony which should exist among mankind in general, we, here in the East, especially, should never permit them to influence us in our intercourse as Freemasons. Free and sincere on this point, each one is left to construct the edifice of his own moral and religious character. Let us, therefore, continue to act on this liberal and charitable principle, which is so commendable everywhere, and show, by our example, that notwithstanding the varied character of our individual convictions, we are all bound together by the sacred ties of fraternity, and no one should think the less of another because he differs with him. Let each individual, moreover, endeavour to remove the erroneous and highly injurious impression of our being Atheists, or that we are desirous of introducing a new religion, by a conscientious discharge of our religious duties, whatever those may be, at all times deeply grateful to the kind Providence which has, for so many centuries, protected and prospered our institution, whilst so many others have ceased to exist. This alone demands of us an increasing devotion to Him whom we call, in our peculiar language, The Great Architect of the Universe, and a more vigilant watchfulness over our lives, so as to render them all the more consistent with the great principles by which we profess to be governed. Freemasonry, like all other human institutions, must derive its claims to respect and confidence from the character and conduct of its component members. It cannot hope to enjoy a real and genuine prosperity, or to accomplish what I regard as its high destiny and duty in this country, unless its members ever keep in view the fact that the privilege of being Freemasons brings with it the obligations of walking worthy of their calling. Disdaining all less worthy objects, they should seek to exemplify in their daily lives the sacred principles of Truth, Virtue, and Benevolence, which have always been the foundation and glory of our great institution, and without which it would certainly have long since perished and passed away.

“Freemasons should also carry with them these same principles, not only into the occupation of their daily lives in the outer world, but also into their domestic circles. Harmony and affection should pervade all that surrounds them, and, like grateful warmth of the sun over the world, penetrate, with a happy influence, all with whom they associate in their own homes as well as in those of their brethren. In this manner, Freemasonry will be a beacon-light to those who are in darkness, and will commend itself to those who are witnesses of the blessings which it imparts.

“I would also add that our simple and harmless conventional signs are not only the object of the curiosity, but also of the mistrust and alarm of such as are not Freemasons. It is held by them that because these signs, &c., are secret and confined to ourselves, they must be wrong and designed to conceal some hidden and sinful mystery. Strange that such an absurd argument should be held by persons who are indulgent in their opinions with regard to so much that is withheld from their knowledge in the daily intercourse and concerns of life, and who are well aware that amongst Freemasons there are, in all countries, some of the most learned and pious men, and others, again, filling the highest and most responsible positions of official life! How much also there is in nature and religion which is hidden from human intelligence, and yet conceals no wrong or evil! Some of these figure in our symbols, all illustrations of great truths, and in this manner are made apparent to our ordinary senses. Why not, then, permit a Freemason to use symbols and signs in order to make himself known to his brethren of all countries, speaking each a different tongue, by what may be called a ‘universal language,’ without exposing himself to suspicion and calumny? If his conduct and character be correct, if he follow strictly the dictates of his own conscience with regard to his religious faith, whatever it may be, and so commend himself to the respect of the world, surely these innocent signs and symbols need not only served to condemn him in the estimation of anyone ignorant of their true meaning. They serve, in fact, as a ‘mystic chain’—like that of the great invention of modern times—to unite men together, though widely spread over the most distant portions of the globe; and, if not with the ‘subtle fluid’ of electricity, at least they electrify them with fraternal recognition and brotherly affection.

“Interesting to us all as may be the rites and ceremonies of our lodges, every Freemason should look beyond them to the more essential, the all-important principles which are deduced from Speculative Masonry. Charity is, indeed, the ‘corner-stone’ of our Masonic edifice; brotherly love, relief, and truth are the tenets of our profession; and our symbolic ritual inculcates at every point the great duty of universal benevolence between man and man. By this rule, whatever may be the faults of one of our members, the world should learn them from any other tongue than that of a brother.

“As we have the selection of our own materials for our Masonic edifice, the fault will be our own if it does not rise beautiful in the perfect symmetry of its moral proportions. Let, therefore, the rough ashlar be squared and fashioned in the quarry before it be allowed a place in the north-east corner of the building. In every community the name of ‘Freemason’ should be synonymous with all that is large-hearted, disinterested, noble and pure. Let us all, then, discountenance profanity and excesses; let us be kind to one another, tender-hearted, forbearing and forgiving. Let us be courteous and affable in our intercourse with each other and with the world. Thus, we will realise the great aims of our beloved Institution, reach the goal of its real objects, and so form a real ‘Masonic Brotherhood.’

“Freemasonry, in its broader signification, calls for an ardent desire for self-improvement, morally and intellectually. The very fact that we call the Divine Creator by the expression of The Great Architect of the Universe, naturally leads us to the study and investigation of His universe. Such a study is one of the best remedies for any one who has been so unfortunate as to entertain doubts of the existence of such an Omnipotent and Omniscient ‘Great Architect.’ I hold it as an utter impossibility for any one who investigates the wonders of His Creation to be misled into what is called Materialism, according to which this world and the millions of other worlds, immensely greater, surrounding it and composing His Universe, owe their existence to certain ‘unknown and independent causes,’ called attractions and reflections, all clearly due to a Supreme First Cause. Even the infinitely small atom with which some suppose this globe to have commenced must have been created. Thus, compelled to admit and acknowledge the existence of the Great Architect of the Universe, the Materialist sees fade away before him, like the ‘baseless fabric of a vision,’ the whole foundation on which his untenable theory reposes. If to be governed by the ‘Laws of Nature’ is to recognise their Divine Creator, we may be almost led to the supposition that all things which have a living existence recognise and acknowledge Him; and shall intelligent and intellectual Man, who has been created in a condition so vastly superior to all other beings, deny His existence? Surely, no person, sincerely and from the depths of his heart, can, really and truly, entertain such a conviction! For the fair fame and reputation of our Order, I am sure that none of our brethren will ever allow themselves to be drawn into so dreadful a vortex of self-destruction, and the ruin of all of the best and most consolatory hopes of mankind. It is, therefore, the duty of every Freemason, not only to increase his own stock of knowledge, but also to endeavour to promote the same salutary principle among others. All the greater sciences are the particular province of the Freemason; and these open to him a vast field of enquiry and research, not only for his own benefit, but also for the benefit of those who surround him. There are no barren and sterile lands in Nature for him who sincerely seeks to cultivate his mind, and so become still more able to comprehend, in however small a degree, the greatness of his Creator through His works. In these, he will find that all is Truth, Harmony, and Infallibility.

“There are some excellent books on the subject of the history and principles of Freemasonry, from which any one, desirous of knowing more than the ordinary ritual and ceremonies of initiation, may acquire instruction on what we call ‘the beauties and mysteries’ of our Order. I fear that, in too many cases, these lie buried in ‘Darkness,’ unknown to those who really desire to know them, yet without making any effort to obtain ‘Light’ on what must be to them a subject of so much interest, and what it is even there duty to know. Its origin is traced back by some to periods too remote for other proofs than those which are derived from the ever-existing principles connected with the spiritual character of mankind; and its history, like many other histories, varies with the means of information within the reach of the authors at the time of writing. There are, however, sufficient facts existing, on which to base a connection, symbolical as well as practical, with the earliest ages. Freemasonry will be all the more highly appreciated if these be examined; and I earnestly invite the attention of the Officers of the District Grand Lodge, and of the Masters of lodges under its jurisdiction, to the necessity of such an instruction, so as to be all the more able to impart it to those who may not have it in their reach. There is much less really ‘hidden and mysterious’ in Freemasonry than the outer world supposes; and there is also much that we can frankly impart without any deviation from our obligations. Young Masons, especially, should be convinced of the fact that by merely taking the degrees of Freemasonry, they have only reached its threshold, and that these same degrees are only the keys which open to them the portals of the Order. The knowledge which they desire must be sought for, and cannot be obtained except by Labour. Much, also, is not written; but a knowledge of this is within the reach of every Mason entitled to receive it. It is his duty to acquire it, and he will find it greatly to his advantage.

“Finally,—If Freemasonry be regarded only as a splendid myth, or a beautiful theory, it is certainly, also, an effective reality, with a strong practical bearing, the object of which is to benefit mankind, to unite them together on a thoroughly neutral ground in matters of religion and nationality, and to allay and assuage all of those harsher feelings to which these, unfortunately, give rise among men who are, nevertheless, brothers. Its age and history show that it is an edifice not built upon a sandy foundation; that, on the contrary, its stands like a lofty monument upon the summit of a mountain, against which the elements of ignorance and prejudice have beaten in vain; and we may confidently hope that here in the East, in its native land, it will, under the blessing of Divine Providence, be the means of uniting a large number of men together as brothers, who are now kept apart by many of the prejudices to which weak human nature is subject.

“It has been wisely said that ‘There is no royal road to learning’ and we may add, with equal correctness, that there is none to Freemasonry. Although we number in our beloved Institution sovereigns, princes, and statesmen of the highest rank and greatest eminence, they have all, like each one of ourselves, been allowed to enter it as a privilege, and none, I am sure, have ever had any cause to regret that their request was granted. The light of Freemasonry now shines upon their hearts, and sheds around them far more blessings, comforts, and enjoyments than they anticipated.

PRECAUTIONS OF THE CLERGY AGAINST APOPLEXY.—Under such a press of good cheer, eating and drinking became a serious process, so that one cannot feel much surprised that the lord steward of the entertainment, in sending in his little bill, inserted a claim “ad sanguinem minuendum,” in other words, for being bled. Strange as it may appear, the churchmen were so much in the habit of systematically over-eating themselves, that they were obliged to have regular recourse to this safety valve, so as to throw off all chance of apoplexy. Indeed, Lanfranc, in his ordinances to be observed by the Benedictines, laid it down as advisable that the members of the order should be bled at least four times a year.—Food Journal.

Poetry.

THE FUTURE LIFE.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

How shall I know thee in the sphere which keeps
 The disembodied spirits of the dead,
 When all of thee that time could wither sleeps,
 And perishes among the dust we tread?

For I shall feel the sting of ceaseless pain,
 If there I meet thy gentle spirit not;
 Nor hear the voice I love, nor read again
 In thy serenest eyes the tender thought.

Will not thy own meek heart demand me there?
 That heart whose fondest throbs to me was given;
 My name on earth was ever in thy prayer,
 And wilt thou never utter it in heaven?

In meadows fanned by heaven's life-breathing wind,
 In the splendence of that glorious sphere,
 And larger movements of the unfettered mind,
 Wilt thou forget the love that joined us here?

The love that lived through all the stormy past,
 And meekly with my harsher nature bore,
 And deeper grew, and tenderer to the last—
 Shall it expire with life and be no more?

A happier lot than mine, and larger light,
 Await thee there; for thou hast bowed thy will
 In cheerful homage to the rule of right,
 And lovest all and renderest good for ill.

For me, the sordid cares in which I dwell
 Shrink and consume my heart as heat the scroll;
 And wrath has left its scar—that fire of hell,
 Has left its frightful scar upon my soul.

Yet, though thou wearest the glory of the sky,
 Wilt thou not keep the same beloved name,
 The same fair thoughtful brow and gentle eye,
 Lovelier in heaven's sweet climate, yet the same?

Shalt thou not teach me in that calmer home
 The wisdom that I learned so ill in this—
 The wisdom which is love—till I become Thy fit companion in that world of bliss?

—The Freemason, St. Louis, Mo.

MASONIC HYMN (ST. HERMAS).

Sung in the Joppa Lodge, Cape Town.

To Thee, Great Architect of All,
 We humbly bend, devoutly call,
 Assist us with Thy presence here,
 To us in goodness lend Thine ear;
 Show us The Light, Thou First Great Cause,
 And guide our footsteps by Thy Laws;

Stretch out the line, the plumb-rule bring,
 Gauge well the circle's mystic ring;
 Our actions level on the square,
Chisel and gavel use with care—
 So shall we Perfect Ashlars be,
 Within the compass held by Thee.

Oh, grant us wisdom from above,
 With strength and pure fraternal love;
 Then beauty shall our structure grace,
 And unity within this place
 For ever dwell, till, summoned hence,
 With Thee we seek our recompense.

So mote it be.

E. L. L.

Cape Town, Aug. 26, 1870.

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c., &c., on Mayor's Semolina: "I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayer & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London."—Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayor's Semolina.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Each packet is labelled—JAMES EPPS AND CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Also, makers of Epp's Cacaoine, a very light, thin, evening beverage.—[Advt.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Youthful Infirmities.—With symptoms scarcely perceptible at first, which this restorative medicine would radically remove, the young become prematurely enervated and debilitated. They lose alike their looks, energy, and confidence. The general cause of this melancholy state is a disordered stomach or deranged liver, which Holloway's pills will regulate. By improving digestion and purifying the blood they work wonders. They act so kindly, yet so certainly, upon every organ necessary for healthy digestion, that the nervous system soon recovers, and the wonted good spirits speedily return with strength, vivacity, and vigour. The most delicate may safely take Holloway's pills. They cause no violent effects upon the system, and gradually accomplish their end without much restriction in diet or pleasure.—[Advt.]

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthmas, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough. * * * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Advt.]

THE BEST PUDDING.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.NOTICE.

(Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY of MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1875. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS

in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place

For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification. Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in

Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundresses, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

MASONIC CURIOSITIES.—V.

BY BRO. WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

P.M. 131, Prov. Grand Secretary Cornwall, &c.

It is unfortunate that we know so little of Ireland, Masonically. We have been indebted to Bro. Commander Charles Scott, R.N., for records and information concerning the Craft in the "Emerald Isle," and have to thank him once more for copies of the following documents, which are of interest, and are but little known now, although comparatively modern:—

To the Right Honorable and Honorable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in Parliament Assembled,

The Humble Petition of the undersigned Members of the Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of Ireland, HUMBLY SHEWETH—That an Act having passed the Legislature in the last sessions of Parliament for the suppression of societies connected together by a secret bond of union, the Freemasons of Ireland, ever prompt to obey the Laws of their country, immediately decided upon a suspension of their meetings until an appeal could be made to the Imperial Parliament on their behalf. That notwithstanding they might have continued to meet without the possibilities of incurring the penalties the law; yet as they were of opinion that a full opportunity was not afforded to parliament to appreciate their principles and their conduct, they have preferred to avail themselves of the opportunity of addressing the Legislature of the country on the object of their Society.

That the Freemasons have from time immemorial existed as a Charitable, benevolent, and peaceable institution, disclaiming all religious or political differences, and by their fundamental principles they are prohibited from even the consideration of such subjects.

That the Freemasons of the British Empire have had the honor to have enrolled amongst their members his most Gracious Majesty, and, we believe, all the male branches of his august family; together with so many of the Nobility and of the Magistracy in general as becomes an ample guarantee not only for the purity of their principles, but for the general conduct of the Society hereafter.

That those principles were so fully felt and acknowledged by the Legislature when passing the English act of the 39th of his late majesty King George the 3rd for the prevention of illegal societies, that the Freemasons of Great Britain are particularly exempted from the provisions of that act, and certain regulations are therein established for their conduct.

The Freemasons of Ireland therefore, not yielding to any class of his Majesty's subjects in loyalty to the Throne or in obedience to the laws of the Realm, most respectfully entreat your Honorable House that they may be exempted from the provisions of the Act of last sessions of parliament respecting secret societies in Ireland, and placed in a similar situation with the Freemasons of Great Britain.

Dublin December, 1823.

Sir and Brother—Herewith you have copy of petition which it is intended to have presented to the meeting of Parliament.

It has been suggested that petitions from each district, praying relief, but expressed in different modes, may obtain more attention particularly if presented by the member of Parliament for such Town or County.

If that proceeding meets your Idea have one prepared, as soon as possible and signed by the Masons in your Neighbourhood, if not you will please get strips of parchment with the above affixed to be signed and sent to me to be attached to the petition sent from Dublin.

Your obedient servant,
WILL. T. GRAHAM, D.G.S.

N.B.—No seal to be affixed. The strips of parchment to be ten inches wide, the signatures in three columns, and two such copies of the signatures will be necessary for the Lords and Commons.

Grand Lodge of Emergency.

Dublin, Nov. 10th, 1831.

It was moved and seconded "That the Ancient rights and privileges of the Order, as far as respects public processions, be restored," which, after an ample discussion, was carried in the affirmative.

By order,

C. J. FOWLER, D.G. Sec.

Sir and Brother,—The Grand Lodge having considered that the time is now arrived when the prohibition against processions is no longer so essentially necessary, as it appeared to them to have been heretofore, and finding the lodges in the country so universally consider the removal of the restriction as likely to be advantageous to the Order, they have therefore rescinded the prohibition.

In communicating this pleasing intelligence, I cannot avoid expressing my most anxious hopes that the lodges in your neighbourhood will see the necessity of redoubled vigilance and strictness on their part that there may not be any ground for censure against them either for permitting party tunes to be played, wearing party emblems, joining with any other societies in procession, or being involved in quarrels and disputes, offences against Masonry for which no lenity can be expected, by which conduct the respected name of Freemasonry may be brought into disrepute, and your friends in the Grand Lodge considered as having supported a measure rather injurious than beneficial to the Order.

On the zealous and energetic conduct of the Officers I therefore rely with the utmost confidence, and I trust may not, even in a single instance, have the painful duty of presenting to the Grand Lodge complaints resulting from their recent decision.

I am, Sir and Brother,

Your obedient servant,

C. J. FOWLER.

As the foregoing speak for themselves, no explanatory remarks are required.

The annexed begging petition is quite unique in its way, and is certainly "the most impudent of its kind" I have ever read:—

Anne Ville, Cullenswood,

Dublin, 8th August, 1854.

Dear Sir and Brother,—Allow me to bring under your kind consideration a matter personally connected with myself:—

Being about to emigrate to New Zealand, I have been urged by many friends to announce to the Brotherhood my intention, as it would afford them an opportunity of testifying that fraternal love which is the holiest attribute of the Order.

I must confess I have had a strong disinclination and great repugnance to adopt this course, but I have been persuaded that being about to consign myself to what might be for a time unfriended exile, in the hope of establishing in a far-off distant land a home for my large helpless family of children of tender age, varying from twelve years to eight months, the Brotherhood would feel pleasure in lending a helping hand, more particularly when I announce to them that Brother John Fowler, the Deputy Grand Secretary, who for sixty-two years has devoted himself to Masonry, is the father of my wife, the Grandsire of my children.

Far be it from me to seek that the cold hand of charity may be held out as to one applying in the mean spirit of a mendicant; on the contrary, I have been assured that my Brethren in bestowing their gifts will feel they are but awarding a mark of honour—a tribute of respect.

The undermentioned gentlemen have kindly consented to become recipients of the proposed fund, in trust for,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

THEODORE B. VERDON.

In our next we will present a copy of a Craft certificate for A.D. 1797, and a few other "curiosities," so as to use the favours sent us by friends.

(To be continued).

PAST MASTERS.

SCOTTISH v. ENGLISH.

BY BRO. CHALMERS I. PATON,

Author of "Freemasonry in Relation to Civil Authority and the Family Circle."

The Past Master of a Freemason's Lodge has always been regarded as entitled to high honour, as well he may, seeing that he is one whom his brethren have at some time elected to the exalted position of Worshipful Master, as he is styled in England, and Right Worshipful Master as he is styled in Scotland, and who in both countries has, for twelve months at least and perhaps for a much longer time, discharged the duties of that office, serving the Craft and ruling in his lodge. It is, however, a peculiarity of Scottish Freemasonry that the title of Past Master is often conferred upon brethren who have never been elevated to the office of Right Worshipful Master in any Craft lodge. There is a degree worked in Scotland, under the sanction of the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland, called the Past Master's Degree, which is in a manner somewhat similar to the installation ceremonial of the Worshipful Master of an English Lodge. This degree has been introduced by the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland, for the purpose of giving to brethren the title of Past Master, which is often assumed, in virtue of this alone, by those who have never been installed in the office of Right Worshipful Master in any Craft Lodge; and at Masonic meetings of every kind—at balls, dinners, suppers, and processions—these titular Past Masters wear the jewel appertaining to this degree, and many honours due to it are accorded to them. But when a Scottish Right Worshipful Master having become a Past Master enters an English lodge, although he is permitted, if he chooses, to wear the jewel of this degree, and is treated with a respect appropriate to it, his position is far from being equal to that of the Past Master of an English lodge. He is not accepted as immediately eligible to the office of Worshipful Master, as an English Past Master would be, but before he can be elected to that office, must serve the Craft in the inferior offices, which although, really and not merely nominally a Past Master, he has already filled in Scotland. One who is really a regular Past Master in virtue of having served as a Right Worshipful Master may thus be placed in a position inferior to that which he ought to occupy, because of the favour unduly conferred upon brethren who have never been Right Worshipful Masters of any lodge at all.

No Scottish Past Master is received in England as the real Past Master of a lodge, because it is known that the dignity is conferred in Scotland upon those to whom it does not rightly belong. A Scottish Past Master is treated with honour proper to his degree, and wears the appropriate jewel in an English lodge, but these are things comparatively unimportant whilst he is not permitted to be present at a Board of Installed Worshipful Masters, and in no English lodge could he enjoy this privilege. Further, he is not eligible for election to the chair of an English lodge, even although he may have been an affiliated member for years, without first serving in some of the minor offices.

A Past Master in England, so long as he continues to pay his contributions to his lodge, is a member of the Grand Lodge of England, which is composed of the Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, and Wardens of lodges.

MASONIC CURIOSITIES.—VI.

BY BRO. WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.
P.M. 131, Prov. Grand Secretary Cornwall, &c.

No doubt it is known to most students of Freemasonry that it was the custom for lodges to issue certificates as well as the Grand Lodge. In fact, we more frequently meet with the former during the last century than the latter. "Clearance Certificates" they were called, and were in much request. We believe in many instances they did duty for the regular Grand Lodge certificate, although such was not allowable according to the Constitutions, but the proceedings then were not so uniformly legal as they are now. At the present time many lodges issue certificates on members resigning their lodges to join others elsewhere, some of which are as remarkable for their character as works of art as they are useful to the holders of them. The following was the form generally observed for such documents in the latter part of the last century, and to it was attached a piece of one-inch watered sky ribbon and a seal affixed, with Masonic emblem and name and number of the lodge, and the one now presented has all these fairly preserved:—

To all whom it may concern—

WE do hereby certify that the Bearer hereof, our Trusty, True, and well Beloved Brother, Edw. Kinsela, is a regular Master Mason in Lodge No. 828, and during his stay with us has behaved himself as such.
Given under our hands and seal of our Lodge in our lodge-room at Drumquin, this 7th day of March, 1797, and of Masonry 5797.
JOHN O'NEILL, M.
JOHN ROULSTON, S.W.
JAM. WILSY, J.W.
BRYAN KELLY, Sec.
(Seal)

We have often regretted to find lodges without seals. Of late, especially, we have seen the trouble such has occasioned. Several brethren have left for the United States, and have written home for their clearance certificates, and "paid up to the time of withdrawal." The "clearances" have been sent, but minus the lodges' seals, and in consequence the members of the lodges they intended joining have refused them until the documents have been regularly signed and sealed by the proper officers. We know of more than one lodge lately having had seals made to secure the comfort and happiness of their brethren leaving home, and who desire to fraternise with and become united to the members of lodges abroad. In the United States, Canada, New Brunswick, &c., the laws of Masonry are considered more binding, even to minute matters, than in this country; and a document being sealed is insisted on as an essential.

The foregoing certificate is written on paper, the next one is on parchment, and most elaborately printed, &c. :—

To all whom it may concern—

WE hereby certify that the Bearer hereof, our beloved Brother Edward O'Hara is a regular registered Master Mason in Lodge No. 369, and during his stay with us behaved as an honest Mason.
Given under our hands and seal of our Lodge, in our lodge-room in Fentona, this 7th day of February, 1814, and in the year of Masonry 5814.

(Lodge seal.) JNO. HURST, J.W.
JOHN ARMSTRONG, Secy.

As an instance of how particular some lodges were not to initiate bastards, the following applications for membership and certificates as to being "born in lawful wedlock" are to the point:—

November 26th, 1813.

The Humble Petition of Charles Morgan, who wishes to become a member of your Antient and Honourable Society, and if admitted, your Petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray, &c.

(Signed) CHARLES MORGAN.

To the Master, Wardens, and Members of the Masonic Lodge, No. 332, Omagh.

Recommended by Joseph Love.

The Humble Petition of Hugh Johnston, who wishes to become a member of your Ancient and Honourable Society, and if admitted, your Petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray, &c.

(Signed) HUGH JOHNSTON.

To the Master, Wardens, and Members of the Masonic Lodge, No. 332, Omagh.

Recommended by Joseph Love.

Note.—"All agreed to their coming forward."

[CERTIFICATES.]

Isabella Tully, otherwise Johnston, came before me this day and maketh oath and saith, she was lawfully married to Robert Johnston, in the presence of James Higerty and Elizabeth Higerty his wife, by the Rev. James Stevenson, minister; and further saith that her son, Hugh Johnston, and daughter, Jane Johnston, were both born in wedlock.
Sworn before me this 30th day of Nov., 1813

Hugh Johnston also maketh oath and saith, that he never knew anything to the contrary of what is above specified.

CHARLES SCOTT.

It is the opinion of many Masons under the Grand Lodge of Ireland that illegitimates are not eligible for initiation into Freemasonry, although it is not positively illegal for such to be admitted under that Grand Lodge. It is also allowable under the Grand Lodges of England and Scotland, and some who have been received as members with the bar sinister have been really zealous Masons and ornaments of the Craft. The old O.B. of a Master Mason given in Ireland is very curious, and contained clauses requiring the brother to pledge himself not to confer the degree on an "atheist, libertine, bastard, or idiot," &c., or upon a "bailiff's process-server, livery servant, travelling tinker, or on any one of a low or mean occupation." We believe that an illegitimate, or not freeborn, candidate for Freemasonry would be eligible for initiation, if otherwise approved of and worthy, and could be legally accepted in England, Ireland, and Scotland.

"THE RECTANGULAR REVIEW."

MASONIC CHARITIES.

We have received the following letter from the Editor of the Rectangular Review, with a request for its insertion in our columns. We cannot pledge ourselves to the accuracy of any of the statements.

"Although not usual for a Review to reply to observations upon their articles, yet on the present occasion, the matter being Masonic, and the subject charity, the Editor feels disposed to relax the rule. First, he must remark, that it is hardly fair for Bro. Binckes to have brought Bros. Hervey, Farnfield, and Patten into the discussion, as they were in no way referred to. The principle (sic orig.) intention of the article was to attack the ACTIVE members of the Committee of Boys' and Girls' Schools, and to charge them with a misapplication of the funds. The money is subscribed for special purposes. What right had these gentlemen to vote £240 for a purpose not intended by the donors nor for the benefit of the children? and who originated the proposition for this grant?

"Bro. Binckes in his remarks states that the annual office expenses of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys amount to £910. Now, if we look at the printed statement of accounts for the year ending 1869, we find that there was collected during that year £12,847 9s. 10d., and the total expenses of the establishment at Wood Green, and the office expenses as above, are put down at £4,671 19s. 8d., or per boy £44 1s. 6d. It would thus seem that there is actually expended upon the boys' not much more than one-third of the amount collected. The question may fairly be asked, What becomes of the remaining £8,175 10s. 2d? So far as appears in the statement of accounts referred to, the amount received from 'Stewards' fees, amounting probably to another £1,000, is entirely excluded. Now, without desiring to scrutinise the accounts in a niggardly way, there seems to be room for retrenchment here. And would it not have been better for Bro. Binckes, as he seems desirous to court an inquiry, to have faced the position boldly, instead of conveying an impression to the superficial reader, that the total expenses of the charity, apart from what the boys receive, amounts only to £910 per annum.

"The article in the Rectangular Review would not have been written but for the special misapplication of the funds referred to above, and it would be better for those who 'kissed the beauty' to pay for the pleasure out of their own pockets. Bro. Binckes is undoubtedly a most valuable Secretary to the charity, but he has evidently forgotten the true Masonic secret—Silence.

THE EDITOR, 'RECTANGULAR REVIEW.'

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND.

On Wednesday, the 23rd ult., the annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Cumberland and Westmorland was held in the city of Carlisle. Members of the Order from all parts of the two counties, as well as from distant parts, assembled, and made altogether a very large muster—200 or 300. On their arrival in town, the brethren assembled at the Freemasons' Hall, Castle-street; but subsequently proceeded to the County Hall, where at half-past eleven the Craft Lodge was opened in due Masonic form. At noon the Provincial Grand Lodge Officers were admitted, and the Grand Lodge was at once opened. The following among other Provincial Officers took part in the business; Bros. Lord Kenlis, R.W.P.G.M.; John Whitwell, M.P., R.W.D.P.G.M.; Dr. W. T. Greaves, P.D.P.G.M.; Joseph Nicholson, P.G.S.W.; Rev. Jas. Simpson, P.G. Sec.; John Lemon, P.G. Treas.; Edward Busher, P.G.S.B., England; John Barr, P.M. and P.G. Sword-Bearer; J. Iredale, P.D.P.G.M.; F. W. Hayward, P.P.G.S.W.; John Barnes, Tyler; G. G. Hayward, P.P.G. Sword-Bearer; James Sumner, P.G.P.; Joseph Sealby, P.G.J.D.; E. W. Braithwaite, P.P.G.S.D.; C. G. Thompson, P.G.R.; John R. Tickle, P.P.G.S.; Garnett Braithwaite, P.G.H. 859, P.S.G.W. Cambridgeshire; W. Dodd, P.G.S.B., W.M. 1074, H. 995; T. Gawith, P.M. 129, P.G.D.C.; John Bowes, P.P.G. Reg. and P.G.S., Lancashire; Wm. White, P.G.T.; T. W. Rowland, P.G.O.; James Pearson, P.G.C.; Rev. H. L. Puxley, P.G.C.; J. Spittal, P. Supt. of Works; Crowther Moreton, W.M. 1267, P.M. 1004 and 872; Robert Butterworth, P.G.O.; Thomas B. Arnison, P.P.G.S.B.; John Hutton, W.M., P.G.S.; John Matthews, P.P.G. Steward. The business connected with the province was transacted in a most harmonious and satisfactory manner. Candidates were selected for the schools and pensions awarded to aged and infirm brethren.

A procession was formed at half-past one o'clock for the purpose of attending divine service at the cathedral. The Carlisle Volunteer Artillery Band headed the long line of Freemasons, who moved away from Botchergate in inverted order, the junior lodge in the front and the Provincial Grand Officers in the rear. The line of route was direct down English-street to the Castle-street entrance of the Abbey, where the brethren fell back on each side of the street, and the Grand Officers, headed by Lord Kenlis and Bro. J. Whitwell, M.P., and the senior lodges passed down the centre, thus entering the cathedral in the front. The procession was very large, and as the members of the Brotherhood wore the clothing and insignia of their various offices, the sight was an imposing one.

The first portion of the service and the first lesson were read by the Dean, the second lesson by Archdeacon Boutflower; and the concluding portion was intoned by the Rev. H. Whitmore. Wesley's most beautiful anthem—"Blessed be God," was sung. The cathedral was crowded in every part. The sermon was preached by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese. His lordship selected for his text part of the 8th verse of the 13th chapter of St. Paul, First Epistle to the Corinthians, "Charity never faileth," and delivered a most eloquent and timely address, which we extremely regret our space precludes inserting.

The offertory was presented to the Bishop, who divided it between the Carlisle Infirmary and Dispensary.

On leaving the cathedral, the procession was re-formed (the Provincial Grand Officers taking first order), and, headed by the Artillery band, it proceeded to the County Hall, which the brethren entered, and the out-door proceedings were brought to a close.

On re-assembling in the County Hall, the election of Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge for 1870-71 was proceeded with, and were as follows:—

Bro. John Whitwell, M.P.	D.G.M.
" Rev. Jas. Simpson ...	S.W.
" J. Kenworthy...	J.W.
" Rev. W. Losh	} Chaplains.
" Rev. W. Williams
" W. Gate ...	Reg.
" John Lemon ...	Treas.
" Edward Baker ...	Sec.
" Jos. Robinson ...	S.D.
" John Wilson ...	J.D.
" W. Johnson ...	Sup. of Wks.
" John Holme ...	Dir. of Cers.
" Henry Ranthmel ...	A.D. of Cer.
" W. Dodd ...	Swd-Bearer.
" J. Rowlands ...	Organist.
" W. Woodhouse ...	Pursuivant.

The banquet was held in the County Hall in the evening, at which the brethren appeared in their Masonic insignia. Lord Kenlis, the Prov. Grand Master, presided, supported by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Captain Braithwaite, Rev. W. Cockett, Bros. Busher, Gibson, and Iredale. The Rev. J. Simpson, P.G.S. Warden, filled the vice-chair, supported by Bros. Lemon, Moreton, Bowes, Robertson, and various leading members of the Fraternity. The dinner and wines were of the best description, and reflected much credit on the County Hotel and Wine Company and their manager, (Mr. Gosling). After dinner, the usual loyal toasts were proposed and drank.

"The health of the Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese" was drank enthusiastically.

The Vice-Chairman proposed "The health of the Right Worshipful Grand Master of England, Earl de Grey and Ripon," who lost no opportunity of advancing the interests of the Order to the best of his ability.

Bro. Whitwell proposed "The health of the Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers."

Bro. Busher, of Kendal, acknowledged the toast, and in doing so spoke to the manner in which Lord Carnarvon had discharged his duties.

Bro. Whitwell, in eulogistic terms, proposed "The health of the Chairman, Lord Kenlis," who responded, and proposed "The health of Bro. Whitwell." The latter gentleman, in replying, enlarged fully on the benefits of Freemasonry, giving various instances of its value in warfare as well as in the social relations of life. A near relative of his, acting as a member of the ambulance corps for the relief of the sick and wounded, had recently been despatched with several waggon loads of provisions to the assistance of the distressed peasantry in the neighbourhood of Metz. He was intercepted by the Germans, placed under arrest, and, in spite of all attempts at explanation, seemed on the point of being compelled to renounce the object of his journey. As a last resource he saluted the Prussian officer in command as a brother. He was immediately re-called, and subjected to a searching examination, after which a consultation was held amongst the Prussian officers who were members of the Craft. The result was that our countryman was released from surveillance, and everything was done by the Prussian officers to promote the object of his expedition.

The remaining toasts, interspersed with glees and other music, were of a complimentary character. The company separated about eight o'clock, highly gratified with the successful nature of the gathering.

The general arrangements reflected great credit on the Union Lodge, Carlisle, under whose management they were conducted. Bro. Hayward, P. Prov. G.S.W., especially deserves mention, as he devoted himself entirely to secure comfort for others.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW R.A. CHAPTER AT SCARBOROUGH.

Monday, the 21st of November, being the day named by the Grand Superintendent (Most Excellent Comp. J. P. Bell, M.D.), for the consecration of the Denison Chapter, No. 1248, the companions assembled in the banqueting-room of the Grand Hotel, Scarborough, and having signed the book, waited till the chapter was opened by Excellent Comps. J. W. Woodall, as Z.; Stanhope, as H.; and Fisher, as J. The companions then entered the chapter, and the Provincial Grand Officers and Grand Superintendent also entered in procession, and were received with grand honours. The Grand Superintendent took his seat, and directed the Scribe E. (nominate), of 1248 to read the summons convening the meeting, together with the minutes of the preliminary meetings.

The following Psalm was then chanted:—"Behold how good and joyful a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity," &c.

A Past Principal (Comp. Woodall) then addressed the Grand Superintendent on behalf of the members of the Denison Chapter. The Grand Superintendent replied, and requested the petition and charter to be read. The Grand Superintendent having ascertained the names of the office-bearers-elect, and their willingness to accept office, inquired if the members were satisfied with the choice they had made, and on being answered in the affirmative, they were placed round the altar.

A prayer, with musical response, "So mote it be." The office-bearers were now obligated, after which the following ode was sung:—

When orient wisdom beamed serene,
And pillar'd strength arose;
When beauty tinged the glowing scene,
And faith her mansion chose.
Exalting bands the fabric view'd,
Mysterious powers ador'd;
And high the triple union stood,
That gave the mystic word.

The chapter was then constituted and consecrated with the usual formalities, at the conclusion of which the Grand Superintendent gave a very instructive and interesting address.

Psalm (chanted), "O sing unto God," &c.
The companions below the rank of Principals now retired, when Comps. W. B. Stewart, P.M. 200, was installed 3rd Principal, or J.; W. F. Rooke, P.M. and P.Z. 200, 2nd Principal, or H.; and S. H. Armitage, W.M. 1248, 1st Principal, or Z., of the Denison Chapter, No. 1248.

The companions then re-entered the chapter, and saluted the newly-installed Principals.

The following were then invested as officers: Comps. J. W. Woodall, P.Z., Treas.; J. Groves, Scribe E.; J. C. Browne, Scribe N.; and J. E. Green, P.S.

The investiture being concluded, the following ode was sung:—

The depths obscure the favour'd shrine,
A dreary course engage,
Till through the arch the ray divine
Illumes the sacred page.
From the wide wonders of its blaze,
Our ancient signs restored,
The Royal Arch alone displays
The long-lost mystic word.

The installed Principals and officers now assumed the government of the chapter, and, agreeably to notice, balloted for Comps. J. W. Woodall, P.Z., and the Rev. H. Blane, M.A., 200, both of whom were unanimously elected. Six brethren were proposed for exaltation, when the chapter was closed in ancient form and with solemn prayer.

The companions retired to the banquet, which was supplied in keeping with this magnificent hotel. The viands, &c., were of the very best quality, and ample justice was done to them, as might be expected. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and a most enjoyable evening was spent—such as few but Masons know how to spend—and the companions parted expressing themselves much pleased with all that had happened.

SOLOMON, the RAVEN, and the WORM.

We extract the following from the address of the Grand Master of Arkansas, U.S.A.:—

"Much of the more interesting features of Masonry are legendary, transmitted to us through successive generations of Craftsmen, from the earliest ages of the world—from ages when there was no printing, when book-making was rare, books were few, and men learned wisdom from the Great Book of Nature.

"Not long since, a venerable Hebrew brother told me a story, which I had never heard before; and which he said he learned, when a boy, in the fatherland, from his aged uncle, who was a Mason, and who assured him that he had in a very ancient parchment manuscript, which had never been printed. Pleased with the story, I said to him that I would tell it to the Grand Lodge some day, and let it be printed, as it was no secret. So I give it to you now for what it is worth. It is the story of 'Solomon, the Raven, and the Worm.'

"Solomon, the most wise, was sitting in a grove, near his rural palace, observing a raven feeding her young. Whilst she was off in search of food, telling a servant to bring him a glass bowl, he placed it over her nest, so as to cover the young birds. When she returned to the nest, the young ravens opened their mouths to receive the supplies which the mother was accustomed to bring them; and she, meeting with the transparent obstruction, fluttered about for some time in vain attempts to reach her imprisoned children. Vexed, she made repeated but ineffectual efforts to break the vessel with her beak. Despairing of success in this mode of attack, she lighted upon a limb, near by, and sat for some time, seeming to meditate. Then leaping into the air, and spreading her black wings, she moved off with rapid flight in the direction of an island in the Mediterranean sea. Our Grand Master, who had watched with interest all her movements, sat waiting for her return. Finally she came, bearing in her beak a large white worm; and placing it on the rim of the nest, near the edge of the bowl, it crawled over the vessel, and along its track the glass instantly cracked, as if cut by a diamond, parted and fell to the ground!

"The Masons were in the quarries preparing stone for the Temple. They used the drill and the wedge, but the process of parting the stones by these simple implements was tedious. The idea flashed upon the mind of Solomon that, by the instinct of the raven, Providence had placed in his hands a wonderful but more effective instrument. Taking the worm to the quarries, he placed it upon a great stone which the labourers had heaved out from the mountain; it crawled across it, and, to the amazement of the wise man, the stone opened along its path, and tumbled apart. Thousands of stones were thus separated into suitable rough ashlers, to be finished by the chisels and the mallets of the Craftsmen!

"Such is the substance of the story. It may be a mere fable. It may be that the insect excreted from its body some mysterious chemical substance that parted the glass and the stone. Or it may be that Providence, who confounds the wisdom of men by using simple means to effect great purposes, supplied to Solomon this wonderful little craftsman to aid in the great work of erecting a temple for His worship.

"Be this as it may, I have repeated this 'strange story' to illustrate the fact that Solomon, like Job, was a student of the Book of Nature, from every great page of which—whether he looked upon the sea, into the air, upon the earth, all teeming with life, or up into the heavens, sparkling with the lamps of night—he learned, as all Masons may, lessons of wisdom."

FAITH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION. — The above Lodge of Instruction is held every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the spacious and commodious rooms at Bro. Fisher's Restaurant, Metropolitan District Railway Station, Victoria, S.W. Ceremonies and lectures worked every Tuesday, except the fourth Tuesday in the month, when the ceremonies alone are rehearsed. The DOMATIC CHAPTER OF INSTRUCTION is also held in the above rooms every Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, from October until April inclusive.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Lodge of Antiquity, No. 2.—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, on Wednesday, the 23rd ult. The W.M. (Bro. J. Percy Leith, P.G.S.) being abroad, the lodge was presided over by one of the P.M.'s, the ceremony of raising Bro. Erasmus Wilson being very impressively and well worked by all the officers. The visitors present were Bros. Marris Wilson (P.M. 63), A. G. Church (W.M. 33), Magnus Ohren (W.M. 452), G. A. Roxburgh, Thompson, and Smith. A vote of £10 10s. was made from the charity fund for the relief of foreigners in distress driven to this country by the present war. No further business presenting itself, the acting W.M. and brethren adjourned to refreshment.

Pythagorean Lodge, No. 79.—At the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, this old lodge held its usual meeting on Monday, the 28th ult. Bro. T. Perridge, W.M., presided, and there were present Bros. Burls, S.W.; C. Nash, J.W.; W. C. Penny, P.M., Treas.; J. H. H. Doughney, P.M., Sec.; J. R. Nash, S.D.; Roberts, J.D.; Munyard, I.G.; R. Boney, P.M.; and many others. One brother was raised and one gentleman initiated, the work, as usual, being well done, the W.M. and officers all being proficient in their parts. The lodge was then closed, when the usual good banquet was served, and the regular toasts were given. The brethren separated at a reasonable hour. Visitors: Bros. D. Rose (P.M. 73), E. Shalles (140), West (P.M. 548), &c.

Moirra Lodge, No. 92.—This ancient lodge held its election meeting at the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street, on Tuesday, the 22nd ult. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. Thorne, P.M., presided as W.M. After the lodge was opened and the minutes confirmed, the election for W.M. took place, and proved unanimous in favour of Bro. Brett, S.W. Bro. Potter, P.M., was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Speight, P.M., Tyler. The Audit Committee was formed, and the lodge was closed. Banquet followed.

Lodge of Temperance, No. 169.—The regular meeting of this old lodge was held at the White Swan Tavern, High-street, Deptford, on Thursday evening, the 17th ult. Bro. John Thomas Moss, W.M., presided, assisted by Bros. Alfred Pulley as S.W., and Marshall as J.W., and the officers. The lodge being opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, a ballot then took place for the initiation of Messrs. Richard Debac, Charles Jonathan Sowton, and George Sowton, and which proving unanimous in their favour, the two latter gentlemen were initiated into Masonry, the ceremony being most ably performed. The W.M., Bro. John Thomas Moss, then informed the brethren that he would be happy to receive the name of any brother who was willing to represent the Temperance Lodge at the forthcoming Festival of the Royal Benevolent Institution, as owing to his already representing that excellent institution as Steward for the Lebanon Lodge, No. 1326, of which he was also W.M., he could not stand for the Temperance, and the subject of a Steward was postponed until the next meeting. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren then adjourned to banquet. Visitors: Bros. Alexander Rhodes (86), J. F. Grossmith (169), and Joseph Allsopp.

Lodge of Tranquility, No. 185.—On Monday, the 21st ult., at Radley's Hotel, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, the first meeting of the season of this old lodge was held. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M. (Bro. H. Beigel, professionally engaged in France at the war), the chair was taken by Bro. Harfield, P.M., who was supported by the following members, viz., Bros. Barnett, S.W.; Bloomfield, J.W.; Peartree, P.M., Treas.; P. Levi, P.M., Sec.; Abrahams, S.D.; Moss, J.D.; Shutzner, I.G.; Kuapp, Organist; Israel, Harris, and Sydney, P.M.'s; and many others. The visitors were Bros. H. Levy (P.M. 288), and F. Walters (W.M. 1309). The work done was initiating Mr. Joseph Minuto, passing Bros. Mathewes and Kroline, and raising Bro. Simons, all of which ceremonies were well rendered. An interesting letter was read from the W.M., which was ordered to be entered in the lodge minute-book. The lodge was closed, and banquet followed, served up in the well-known superior style of Bro. Hart, which always gives great satisfaction. The usual loyal toasts, &c., followed.

Industry Lodge, No. 186.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, the 22nd ult. Bros. J. Price, W.M.; T. E. Tallent, S.W.; W. Mann, P.M., Sec.; C. W. Noehmer, S.D.; J. Seex, J.D.; J. Wylie, I.G.; F. Henly, Steward; Mortlock, P.M.; Cleaver, Dyne, Davis, Beck, Emmott, Thiers, J. Death, Felton, Black, Hall, and other brethren were present. Bro. C. Eldridge, 733, was unanimously elected a joining member. Bro. W. H. Davis was raised, the work, as usual here, being well and ably done. The lodge was then closed, and a first-class banquet was served, after which the customary toasts were given. During the evening Bro. Mortlock sang, "Good-bye at the Door," Bro. Wylie, "Letter from Home," Bro. Kirk, "Black Banner," Bro. Henly, "Home sweet Home," Bro. Cyrus Kirk, "How to Ask and Have," Bro. Skeen, "The Mill Stream," Bro. Black, "The Properest thing to Do," and other brethren also contributed to the pleasures of the evening. Visitors: Bros. F. Walters (W.M. 1309), Kirk (S.D. 144), C. Kirk (144), &c.

The Nelson Lodge, No. 700. held its monthly meeting in the Masonic Hall, William-street, Woolwich, on Wednesday, the 16th ult., under the direction of its esteemed W.M., Bro. W. D. May, assisted by his officers and Past Masters. The lodge was opened in ancient form, and with solemn prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, and unanimously confirmed. The cash account was also read and approved. The ballot was taken for Messrs. Burt and Dorey, candidates for initiation, which proved in each of their favour, and Mr. Dorey being in attendance, was, with Mr. Miller (already balloted for) introduced, and duly received into the mysteries of the Craft. Bros. Lane, Ward, Attwood and Ashforth, candidates for preferment, were duly passed to the degree of F.C., and Bros. Dibblin, Bulmer, and Morris were raised to the sublime degree of M. Masons. On the motion of Bro. Rowland, P.M., in reference to providing a hall for Masonic purposes, it was resolved that a committee of five be appointed to consider the matter, and report thereon at the next meeting of the lodge. One guinea was voted from the funds of the lodge to the George Tedder fund, and the same amount was granted to the widow of a late brother. Another brother was relieved with 10s. 6d. It was resolved, that a letter of condolence be sent to the widows of the late Bros. Rose and Hawkes, expressive of sympathy at their bereavement. A gentleman was then proposed as a candidate for initiation, and nothing further being offered for the good of Freemasonry, the lodge was closed. The brethren partook of refreshment in the hall, and having spent a very pleasant evening, parted in perfect harmony.

Royal Oak Lodge No. 871.—On Wednesday, the 23rd ult., at the White Swan Tavern, Deptford, this lodge held its last meeting of the year. Bro. F. Walters, P.M. and Sec., opened the lodge, and Bro. J. Truelove, W.M., then took the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Notice of motion was given, "That at the next meeting a five guinea P.M.'s jewel should be voted from the lodge funds, and presented on the installation night to Bro. J. Truelove, for his efficient services as W.M., during his year of office." The lodge was closed, and there being no banquet, the brethren separated directly the meeting was over.

The Rose of Denmark Lodge, No. 975.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at the White Hart, Barnes, Surrey, on Friday, the 18th ult., under the presidency of Bro. G. T. Noyce, W.M., supported by Bros. C. A. Smith, S.W.; W. H. Barnard, J.W.; and a very large muster of members and visitors. The business of the evening comprised three raisings Bros. Angel, Harris and Taylor, after which, Bro. Little, the senior Past Master, installed Bro. C. A. Smith as W.M. The officers were then invested as follows:—Bros. W. H. Barnard, S.W.; S. H. Stephens, J.W.; Rev. J. S. Darvell, Chaplain; G. T. Noyce, I.P.M., Treas.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Sec.; R. B. Huddleston, S.D.; C. Butcher, J.D.; W. Bell, I.G.; H. Kelley, D.C.; and T. Farrell, W.S. The W.M. then, in a very excellent manner, initiated five gentlemen into the Order, and the lodge was closed. At the banquet table Bro. G. T. Noyce, P.M., was presented with a ten-guinea P.M.'s jewel, in recognition of his zealous and efficient services as W.M.

Victoria Lodge, No. 1056.—At the regular meeting of this lodge on Wednesday, the 23rd ult. Bro. W. George White was raised to the third degree, the other candidate, Bro. Jno. Williams, being absent through illness. Bro. William Perrin was duly passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, and Mr. James Charles Henry, regularly initiated into the Order by Bro. George Roberts, W.M., assisted by his officers, Bros. U. Latreille, S.W.; Alfred Robbins, J.W.; W. Wrenn, P.M., Treas.; Pendlebury, P.M., Sec.; W. Ashby, S.D.; Henry Wainwright, J.D.; J. Slade Brown, I.G.; F. Y. Latreille and Geo. M. E. Snow, P.M.'s. About thirty brethren were present, including the undermentioned visitors, Bros. Perrin (P.M. 101), W. Brearey (715), T. E. Hardy (S.W. 538), C. Jardine (140), W. Morris (1228), and William Roach (49). The sum of five pounds was voted from the funds of the lodge for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons, which will complete £10 to each fund, thereby entitling the lodge to four votes during its existence.

Southern Star Lodge, No. 1158.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 22, at the Montpelier Tavern, Walworth. Bro. D. S. Bayfield, W.M., presided; Bro. Charles E. Thompson, S.W.; Bro. E. Ellis acted as J.W. pro tem (in the absence of Bro. Towers); and there were also present: Bros. H. Thompson, P.M. and Treas.; T. H. Pulsford, P.M. and Sec.; R. E. Clarke, I.P.M.; J. Thomas, P.M.; Henry Potter, P.M.; a goodly muster of members, and several visitors. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of an Emergency Lodge and the regular meeting were read and confirmed. A ballot was taken for Bro. Edwin Dodson, W.M. of the Royal Jubilee Lodge, No. 72, as a joining member of this lodge, which was unanimously in his favour. A ballot was then taken for Mr. Charles Shepherd and Mr. William John Bevan, candidates for initiation, which was also unanimous in their favour; and being in attendance, they were duly admitted to the mysteries and privileges of Freemasonry. Bros. Lowder and Trotman were then examined as to their proficiency in the science, and, being entrusted, retired. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and they were successively advanced to the degree of F.C., both ceremonies being very ably performed by the W.M. The lodge was resumed to the first degree, when it was announced that one of the candidates that evening had met with a very serious accident, or he would have been with them that evening. Bro. H. Thompson proposed, and it was carried unanimously, that the by-law relating to the admission of candidates be suspended in this case until such time as the candidate should be so far recovered from his accident as to be able to attend. After some other business had been disposed of, the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer, and the brethren adjourned to the large banqueting-hall for refreshment. The banquet was served up in Bro. Allatt's usual style, and gave general satisfaction. The W.M.

(Bro. Bayfield) being unable to remain, the chair was taken by Bro. R. E. Clarke, the Immediate Past Master, and in succession he gave the formal loyal and Masonic toasts, after which he gave "The health of their Newly-Initiated Brethren," congratulating them upon their admission to the Order, and expressed his belief that they would both become good and worthy members.—The toast was very cordially responded to, and Bros. Shepherd and Bevan, in very happy and appropriate terms, returned thanks for the honour conferred upon them, promising to do everything in their power to promote the interests of Freemasonry.—"The health of the Visitors" was next given, for which Bro. T. Quelch, P.M., of the Beadon Lodge, and other visiting brethren, returned thanks.—The W.M. (pro tem) then gave "The health of the W.M.," whom they all regretted was unable to remain to the banquet, but remarked that they all had an opportunity of observing how ably he had discharged his duties in the lodge, and was therefore entitled to all the honours so justly due to him.—The toast was well received, as was the next one, which was "The health of the P.M.'s of the Lodge."—Bro. H. Thompson returned thanks for the P.M.'s, expressing the great pleasure it was to them to receive these renewed marks of favour from the brethren; but as he had so often to respond to this toast, he regretted he could not in adequate terms acknowledge the kindness they had always received, but assured the brethren that there was nothing the Past Masters would not do to promote the interests and prosperity of the lodge. He took this occasion of inviting the younger members of the lodge to attend the Domestic Lodge of Instruction, held close by, where they would have explained to them all they had passed through, and by attending they would also fit themselves for any office they might be called upon to perform, and so render themselves worthy officers of the lodge.—The W.M. next gave "The Officers of the Lodge," and remarked how much of its success depended upon the way in which the officers did their duty.—Bro. C. E. Thompson, S.W., returned thanks for the officers, and said it was pleasing to them to receive that recognition of their services from the W.M., which would stimulate them to do their duty to the lodge, trusting as they advanced towards the chair to receive the confidence of the brethren.—The Tyler's toast was given, and a very harmonious evening brought to a close. Bro. Dodson, Bro. Walter, and several other brethren contributed some choice songs in the course of the evening.

Sphinx Lodge, No. 1329.—The first meeting of this lodge since its consecration was held at the Stirling Castle, Camberwell, on Saturday, the 19th ult. Present: Bros. E. Clark, P.G. Supt. of Works Middlesex, W.M.; Major H. W. Palmer, S.W.; E. J. Bailey, J.W.; J. C. Reynolds, Treas.; Henry Allman, Sec.; Dr. Bedolf, S.D.; S. Saunders, J.D.; Jas. Vockins, I.G.; J. Sugden, S.; Jno. Thomas, P.M.; Percival A. Nairne, P.M. Visitors: Bros. Kelham, P.M.; Williams, P.M.; W. J. N. Quilty, P.M.; and Hastie. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Messrs. J. S. Abbott Dunbar, Alfred Campbell, Geo. S. Mansell, W. Harwell Blanch, and Alfred Hancock for initiation, which proved unanimous in each of their favour, and all being in attendance were duly admitted into Freemasonry, the ceremony being performed by the W.M. in his usually careful and impressive manner. He afterwards announced his intention of representing the lodge at the next Girls' Festival. The by-laws for the lodge having been read and confirmed, and Mr. George Champion proposed for initiation at the next meeting, all the Masonic business was ended, and the lodge was closed in due form. The brethren adjourned to substantial refreshment, and a very happy and comfortable evening was passed.

PROVINCIAL.

Luton.—Lodge of St. John the Baptist, No. 475.—This lodge held its usual monthly meeting in the Town Hall, on Friday, the 11th ult., under the presidency of Bro. F. C. Scargill, W.M., supported by the following officers: Bros. J. W. Cawdell, S.W.; E. F. Green, J.W.; I. W. Haselgrove, S.D.; W. Alford, J.D.; W. Wadsworth, I.G.; and other brethren. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Inwards was then invested with the collar and jewel of office as Organist. Bro. Wright was duly raised to the sublime degree of a M.M. by the W.M. in his usual impressive manner. Mr. Geo. Chambers and Mr. John Kingston were proposed as candidates for initiation, and the lodge was then closed in due form.

BLACKPOOL.—Clifton Lodge, No. 703.—The annual festival of this lodge was held at the Clifton Arms Hotel on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., under the presidency of Bro. R. Landless, P.M., as W.M., supported by the following officers, viz., Bros. J. Crossley, E. Banks, and T. Cookson, P.M.'s; H. Johns, S.W.; R. Rushton, J.W.; E. Brook, S.D.; G. W. Sharples, J.D.; P. Parker, I.G.; and about twenty other brethren. The lodge being opened in the second degree, the W.M.-elect, Bro. R. Whalley, was duly presented by Bro. E. Banks, P.M. The Installing Master, Bro. R. Landless, P.M., then obligated the W.M.-elect, and in a Board of Installing Masters, placed him in the chair of K.S. according to ancient custom. On the return of the brethren, he was proclaimed and saluted. Bro. Landless gave the usual charges to the W.M., Wardens, officers, and brethren. The following brethren were appointed and invested: Bros. T. C. Preston, S.W.; T. Mycock, J.W.; Landless, Treasurer; R. W. Braithwaite, Sec.; J. B. Fisher, S.D.; G. W. Sharples, J.D.; W. Bailey, I.G. The lodge being closed in the second degree, the brethren were called to refreshment, the banquet being under the presidency of Bro. R. Whalley, W.M. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts having been given and suitably responded to, the customary Masonic toasts and sentiments were given and most cordially received. After spending a very pleasant evening, the brethren separated at an early hour.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—Home and Charnwood Lodge, No. 1007.—The annual festival of this lodge was celebrated at the Bull's Head Hotel, on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., after a very successful year's operations under the Mastership of Bro. John Wilson, P.G.S.D., who was, unfortunately absent from this meeting through illness. The lodge was duly opened, and the ceremony of installation performed by R.W. Prov. G.M., Bro. Kelly, one of the founders, and an honorary member of the lodge. There were also present the following brethren: Bros. W. Grimes Palmer, P.M. and P.G.S.W.; H. Deane, P.P.G. Reg., as S.W.; C. H. Capp, J.W., and W.M.-elect; W. White Goode, Sec.; Burrows, S.D.; Pratt, J.D.; Dougherty, I.G.; Capt. Dobell, P.P.G. Sword-Bearer; Gosling, P.P.G.P.; Bosworth, P.P.G.J.D.; Scott, Bryan, Mounstephen, W. Grimes Palmer, jun., P.R.C.S., A. Mullett, F. Amatt, Schofield, Greenwood, Walker, and others. The visitors were, Bros. Rev. S. Pyemont, D.D., P.M. 779, and P.P.G.S.W.; Leonard A. Clark, P.M. 279, and P.P.G.S.W.; and T. Thorpe 279, and P.P.G.D.C. The lodge having been opened in the first degree, and the minutes read and confirmed, the W.M.-elect, Bro. Charles Hacker Capp, was presented to the Prov. G.M. in a lodge F.C.'s, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation, which was accordingly performed according to ancient custom, and the W.M. was proclaimed and saluted in the three degrees. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers, viz.: Bros. Deane, S.W.; Goode, J.W.; Palmer, jun., Sec.; Scott, S.D.; Schofield, J.D.; Greenwood, I.G. Bro. E. C. Middleton was re-elected Treasurer. The W.M. proposed, and the P.G.M. seconded, a vote of thanks to the I.P.M., Bro. John Wilson, for his valuable services during the past year, coupled with an expression of regret at his absence through illness, which was carried unanimously. The W.M. addressed the lodge, thanking the brethren for the honour they had conferred upon him by electing him as W.M., and the P.G.M. for doing him the honour of attending to instal him. There being no further business the lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to an elegant banquet, under the presidency of the W.M., after which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, the healths especially of the Prov. G.M. and the W.M. being most warmly greeted, accompanied with musical honours. The lodge after being almost in abeyance for two or three years, we are glad to state is once more in a flourishing and efficient condition, a considerable addition having been made to its members during the past year.

ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Mount Lebanon Chapter, No. 73.—This chapter met at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark, on Thursday, the 24th ult. Comps. J. W. Avery, M.E.Z.; T. J. Sabine, H.; F. Walters, P.Z., as J.; R. Watts, P.Z.; A. D. Loewenstark, P.Z., Treas.; M. A. Loewenstark, S.E.; J. F. Timms, E. Harris, A.S.; and others were present. Minutes were read and confirmed. Apologies were received from absent candidates and officers. For the sake of practice, the H. Chair was given. The chapter was then closed. There was no banquet on this occasion, and the companions separated soon after the meeting was over.

PROVINCIAL.

SHEFFIELD.—Chapter of Paradise, No. 139.—This old chapter held its monthly convocation in the Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, on Monday, the 21st ult. In the unavoidable absence of Comp. Short, M.E.Z. (owing to indisposition), Comp. Hay, P.Z., presided as M.E.Z. The officers and companions present were Comps. Garnett, H.; Roddewig, J.; Collinson, E.; Longden, P.Z., as N.; Brittain, P.S.; Bennett, as S.; Jervis, as S.; Drury, P.Z.; Matthews, Wostinholm, Fletcher, Hornby, and Wilkinson. The minutes of the last convocation having been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Bro. Adolph Pfeilschmidt, S.W., and W.M.-elect, of the Wentworth Lodge, No. 1239, which proving unanimous in his favour, he was duly exalted to this supreme degree. Of the admirable manner in which the ceremony was rendered by Comp. Hay, P.Z., it is impossible to speak too highly, and this, coupled with his commanding presence and patriarchal appearance, made such an impression on the candidates as will not readily be effaced. This being election night, it resulted in the following appointments, viz., Comps. Garnett, M.E.Z.; Roddewig, H.; Brittain, J.; Collinson, E.; Rooth, N.; Matthews, P.S.; and Wilkinson, J. Comp. Matthews stated his intention of appointing his assistants next meeting. The chapter being duly closed, the companions adjourned to the dining-room for refreshment, presided over by Comp. Hay.

WARRINGTON.—Chapter of Elias Ashmole, No. 148.—A convocation of this chapter was held on Friday evening, Nov. 25th. Present: Comp. Robert Stevenson, M.E.Z., who was supported by Comps. D. W. Finney, H.; John Bowes, P.Z., Prov. G.S.B.; J. W. Richardson, Principal Soj.; William Mossop, Scribe, E.; W. S. Hawkins, as Scribe N.; William Sharp, Rev. J. Nixon Porter, W. Crompton, John Harding, W. Pollitt, H. Balshaw, J. G. Hughes; James Hannah, Janitor, &c., &c. The chapter was duly opened by the Principals, when the rest of the companions were admitted. The minutes of the last convocation were read and confirmed, after which the ballot was taken for Bro. Robert Jackson, W.M. of the Lodge of St. John, No. 104, Stockport, which proved unanimously in his favour. Bro. Edwin Robert, who was elected at a previous convocation, being also present, the two brethren were exalted by the M.E.Z., who also gave the historic lecture. The symbolic lecture was given by Comp. D. W. Finney, H., and the mystic lecture by Comp. John Bowes, P.Z., &c. There being no further business, the chapter was duly closed according to ancient form.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Chapter, No. 1051.—The regular meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Rooms, Atheneum, Lancaster, on Monday, the 21st inst. There were present: E. Comps. W. H. Bagnall, M.E.Z.; Thomas Mason, H.; W. Hall, J.; Comps. Mercer, E.; Whinpray, N.; James M. Moore, as P.S.; Edmund Simpson, Asst. Soj.; W. Barker, Treas.; Edward Airey, Richard Taylor, John Watson, Janitor. Visitor: Comp. Mills. The chapter was opened in due form, minutes read and confirmed, and other business transacted. Bro. W. J. Sly, of the Rowley Lodge, No. 1051, who had previously been elected, was exalted to the degree of the Royal Arch by Comp. Moore, P.Z., the mystical, symbolical, and historical lectures being delivered by the Principals. In the absence of Comp. Fenton, the duties of P.S. was ably discharged by Comp. J. M. Moore, Asst. Soj. A candidate for exaltation was proposed, and there being no other business before the chapter, it was closed in due form.

MARK MASONRY.

St. Mark's Mark Lodge, No. 1.—A meeting of the members of this lodge was held on Monday evening at Bro. Gosden's, Masons' Hall Tavern, Basinghall-street. Bro. J. G. Marsh, W.M., presided, supported by a large number of brethren of the lodge and a great many visitors. Bros. Colonel Burdett, John Hervey, F. Binckes, James Stevens, Lord Eliot, Joshua Nunn, S. Rosenthal, T. L. Fox, C. J. B. Plestow, and James Weaver were among the brethren present, and rendered considerable assistance in effectually performing the ceremonies. Six brethren, viz., Bros. Coutts, Clark, Payne, Dawson, Weaver, and Darke took the Mark degree, and a great many more the Ark and Most Excellent Master grades, which are now given at this lodge. The Lodge of Most Excellent Masters was then formally placed under the jurisdiction of the Grand Mark Lodge of England, and the brethren afterwards sat down to a well-supplied supper, and did not separate till late. The customary compliments were paid to the visitors and the officers, both grand and lodge, and Bro. Binckes replied to the toast of the former in an exhaustive speech, which was cordially received. The business in the lodge was extremely heavy, and occupied the Master and officers an hour beyond the time expected.

SCARBOROUGH.—Star in the East Lodge, No. 95, E.C.—This lodge held its annual installation meeting at the Masonic Hall, Globe-street, on Wednesday, the 23rd ult., when the following were present: Bros. H. A. Williamson, W.M.; J. W. Woodall, P.M., P.G.M.O.; W. F. Rooke, P.M., G.S.D., the Worshipful Mayor of Scarbro'; Stanhope, P.M., P.P.G. Chaplain, Oxon; W. Peacock, S.W.; G. H. Walshaw, J.W.; J. F. Spurr, M.O.; W. Pattison, S.O.; R. H. Peacock, J.O.; J. A. Chapman, Treas.; H. C. Martin, Sec.; J. Inskip, J.D.; J. Verity, Tyler; and a number of others. The lodge was opened at 4.45, the minutes were read and confirmed. Bro. H. Grover was elected unanimously, a candidate for advancement. Bro. R. H. Peacock was installed as W.M. of the lodge, by Bro. Williamson, P.M., assisted by the P.M.'s herein named, when he appointed and invested the following as his officers: Bros. Williamson, I.P.M.; W. Peacock, S.W.; J. W. Taylor, M.D., J.W.; Rev. H. Blane, M.A., Chaplain; W. Pattison, M.O.; J. Hardgrave, S.O.; G. H. Walshaw, J.O.; J. A. Chapman, Treas.; H. C. Martin, Sec.; J. F. Spurr, Reg. of Marks; J. Groves, S.D.; J. S. Cook, J.D.; R. Land, I.G.; J. E. Green, Org.; J. Verity, Tyler. Bro. R. H. Peacock, W.M., returned thanks to the brethren for their kindness in having placed him in the high position he now occupied, in his usual kind-hearted eloquent language, to which Bro. Woodall, P.M., &c., answered, and in doing so, he spoke in the highest terms of Bro. Peacock as a Mason. One brother was proposed for advancement. The visitors expressed their hearty good wishes for the welfare of the lodge, when it was closed with solemn prayer, and the brethren retired to the annual banquet, which was supplied by Bro. Chapman in his usual bountiful and very superior style. Full justice having been done to the rare and good things thus provided, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were drank and received with due honours, and the brethren parted in love and harmony.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

BAGSHAW—CLARK.—On the 24th ult., at St. Peter's, Kensington, by the Rev. W. S. Bagshaw, rector of Thrapston, Northamptonshire, uncle of the bridegroom, assisted by Rev. Francis Holland, M.A., incumbent of Quebec Chapel, Bro. Robert John Bagshaw, Prov. G. Master for Essex, to Emma Ann, second daughter of the late Matthew Clark, Esq., of 26, Pembroke-square. [No cards.]

VANDYKE—HARRIS.—November 23rd, at Meyerbeer Hall, Liverpool, by the Rev. J. Prag, Bro. A. Vandyke, of the Merchants' Lodge, No. 241, to Sarah Frances, eldest daughter of Julius Harris, Esq.

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number, must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

JUSTITIA.—In lodges under the English Constitution a blind man may be made a Mason, his misfortune in that respect being no bar to his admission into the Order.

G.J.W.—The Master having opened his lodge in the three degrees may resume, reopen, or close it in any degree, provided he closes it afterwards in the first degree.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1870.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; annual subscription, 10s. (payable in advance).

All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the EDITOR, 2, 3, and 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him—but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

EDUCATION.

AT the present time when our legislature and the public generally are full of the pregnant theme of education, it may be well to remember, that Freemasonry plays a not unimportant part among the many teachers of mankind; and that it advances claims as a moral institution which ought to be more widely acknowledged and understood. Light, or "more light" as the dying poet said, is the burden of our cry; irradiate the dark corners of men's hearts, and flood their souls with luminous rays of wisdom. It is the mission of every true Mason to assist in dispelling the clouds of ignorance and folly; it is his duty to aid the development of reason, and to stimulate the growth of learning. But it is also his highest and noblest privilege to promote the happiness of others, to awaken men's faculties to a just perception of their mutual dependence upon their fellow-creatures, and to strenuously impress upon them ever to remember that the law of Freemasonry is kindness, and its religion, love. Now it is manifest even to the most superficial observer, that with the spread of education amongst the masses, the influence of a fraternity like ours must be incalculably increased and extended.

In all countries where instruction is general, we find that the adherents of Freemasonry may be reckoned by thousands, as for instance in the United States of America, where nearly every considerable village boasts a lodge. The day has now fortunately arrived, when every child in England can claim to be instructed, and apart from all religious considerations we hail the event as one which will contribute to the stability of our institutions, and the prosperity of the people. The foolish objection has been made by some, that if all are to be educated we shall engender discontent amongst the proletarian many when they find it impossible to reach the social altitude of the patrician few.

This we contend is a baseless theory, inasmuch as the whole scope of learning and the wisdom derived from the experience of great writers tend to elevate the mind without unduly elating it, and to tranquillise those passions which in a state of ignorance brutalise and degrade their unhappy victims. Again, all are not gifted with like talents, and we may be well assured that the boon of education will not produce very startling results in the great majority of our fellow-subjects, but it will at least tend to make them more self-reliant, more disposed to work for the common good, and, in a word, to discharge their duties as good citizens in an intelligent and satisfactory manner. We do not imagine that every child will become as wise as Solon, or as philosophic as Newton, but we believe that he will grow up with a better sense and a keener appreciation of his responsibilities as a sentient being, accountable to a Higher Power for his thoughts and actions. From men trained in this way we select our candidates for Freemasonry, because none but rational minds can realise the moral strength of our association or the hidden beauty of its symbolism.

An uneducated man can have little sympathy with ceremonies which must be carefully studied before they can be understood and properly valued. It is like leading a blind man into a garden of delightful blooms, and fancying he can admire the varied hues of the flowers around him. But to a mind which has received the impress of knowledge, and upon which the seal of intelligence is set, Freemasonry is a sphere of enchantment with endless vistas opening upon the horizon of thought. In theory and tradition our Order is linked with many half-forgotten mysteries of the past; its legends are shrouded in the gray mists of antiquity; its ceremonies are reminiscences of primeval rites. The allegorical teachings of prophets and priests, the solemn acts of primitive worship, the dramatic representations of momentous events in the world's history, are all preserved and commemorated in the arcana of the Craft. Freemasonry is, however, not only all this, but more: it inculcates plain duties which we are but too prone to overlook and ignore; it enjoins the practice of virtues, the universal observance of which would make mankind one happy family, and if it appeals with force to the intellect, it directs with even greater power the feelings of the heart. To be just and merciful, faithful, true, and charitable, these are the lessons taught in Freemasonry; and who can gainsay the assertion that they touch the highest and best sympathies of our nature, and evoke deeds that are registered on high. We want to bring within the pale of the Craft men who are qualified by mental culture to be its ministers and interpreters; and we therefore rejoice to find that the State has undertaken, what we conceive to be its imperative duty, to provide scholastic training for the youth of the realm. An acute thinker has left on record his opinion that "it behoves the government of every well-regulated society to provide, as far as may be in its power, for each class of its subjects, as much education, and of the best kind, as the latter are capable of receiving with advantage to themselves and security to the public interests." As Masons, therefore, let us aid the good work, and, above all, let our own educational establishments be models for all others to imitate. We believe that they are extremely well conducted, and that every attention is paid to the intellectual advancement of the pupils. In fact, the local examinations at Oxford and Cambridge have amply proved that the curriculum of study at our Boys' School produces admirable results; and we are equally satisfied that sound and serviceable instruction is imparted to the female children at the Girls' Institution. The whole subject of education, we repeat, is one of the most important that can engage our attention; and, moreover, our interest in its solution is just now intensified from a national point of view. There are, beyond doubt, difficulties and obstacles to be overcome before the desired consummation can be attained; but we nevertheless look forward hopefully to the time when the ignorant and the depraved shall cease out of the land—when the money now spent in deterrent measures for the idle and vicious shall flow into nobler channels—when our prisons shall be turned into workshops, and our dark places made bright with knowledge. We hail the advent of a happier era for the human race, when such wars as the one which now desolates France, and in a minor degree Germany likewise, shall have become impossibilities, because man will have learned the utter folly and madness of invoking the sanguinary arbitrament of the sword to settle international disputes. In the progress of education and the development of refinement every Freemason is personally interested; and as our principles become better known to the world, the Order will be enabled to wield an influence for good greater even, because more universal, than it exercises at the present moment. We have, therefore, every reason to applaud any movement for the practical education of the people.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

Is the Pope a Freemason? If so, when and where was he initiated; and of what lodge?

SUBSCRIBER.

We find the following in the new Masonic journal of Madrid, the "Libertad del Pensamiento":—

"Few persons know, and that is the reason we take this occasion to relate the fact, that the present Roman Pontiff, Pope Pius IX., owes his elevation to the Chair of St. Peter to the influence of Masons, whose principles he solemnly swore to sustain. Pius IX. was initiated into 'The Sons of Hiram' (Los Hijos de Hiram) under the symbolic name of Savola. He became a Knight of the Red Cross 18°. There are existing lodges at Madrid which he visited during his residence in Spain, and many brethren who remember these facts. Bro. Soussingeas has shown us a fine portrait of the Pope in full Masonic regalia, with the following inscription underneath in Latin: 'Et excommunicat fratres meos, mea culpa.' If my brethren are excommunicated, it is my fault."

It is stated that a new society has been started under the name of "The Good Templars," with the purpose of enlisting Freemasons in the cause of temperance. What would De Quincy have said to this? No Freemason himself, he yet claimed to know all about the parentage and growth of the Craft whose origin he would place no further back than 1629. We have upon his authority that the first password given to the initiated candidate is "Fork Out," which he has to do, the second word being "Brandy," which they all proceed to discuss. How, then, can temperance connect itself with Freemasonry? Certainly the two things have not hitherto been connected in the popular idea, which has always supposed the "labour" of the brethren to be by no means co-extensive with the "refreshment." Indeed, the preservation of Masonic secrets has been partly attributed to the genial character of the Masonic supper.—Observer.

THE APRON—THE BADGE OF OUR ORDER.

I beg sincerely to thank the various brethren who have favoured us with their remarks on this subject, but as yet I am unable to withdraw my remark made at page 545 as to the time when the white apron, as P. H. Newnham puts it, was worn as "the distinguishing badge of our Order":—

1. The "quotation" given by Bros. Newnham and "Lupus" as being contained in the Quarterly Review, vol. xxiv., page 146, has not, as yet at least, been verified, as per Bro. Hughan's remarks at page 593, and also remarks corroborative of Bro. Hughan which I have received privately.

2. Even although the quotation does exist somewhere in the Quarterly Review, it does not therefore follow that the word "white" may not be an interpolation, just as the word "Grand" was so often interpolated in other cases. I had this in view, at page 578, when I said "I should like if the exact words of the entry as it originally stands could be given."

3. As to gloves being given to Operative Masons, I think it quite possible they may have been at times given even to work with. Although not an Operative Mason myself, I know by experience that a glove on the hand that holds the chisel on a cold frosty day in winter is sometimes very acceptable.

4. A tiled lodge may mean a lodge covered with tiles, so that a lodge "properly tiled" some centuries ago might mean a lodge or building, the roof of which was so covered with tiles as effectually to keep out both rain and wind.

5. As to chapters and congregations held by Masons, these, some centuries ago, were mere meetings of the operative masons for the purpose of discussing wages, work, &c., just as any of our present operative masons' societies may do; which, although called "lodges," &c., have no connection with our Freemasonry, which may be seen by reading the postscript to the 1723 Constitutions, which speaks of the "statutes of labourers," and also of "chapters and congregations."

6. The remarks by Chas. G. Forsyth about the "Essenian Masons" are apart from the present question; let us get fairly past last century, if possible, before going to them. And as to the pretended connection which the "Encyclopedia Metropolitana" sets up between the old Masons and the Knights Templar, that is purely imaginary, and is based upon the fact that Templars had to become "gilde brothers" for the purpose of buying and selling merchandise.

Lastly, I gladly see our Rev. Bro. Newnham saying, "Too much obscurity has been introduced into the already too obscure history of our Craft by the constant re-copying of unverified assertions." Such being the case, it becomes the duty of all who wish to see a true history of our Order to examine thoroughly whatever does not satisfy them. Before last century I constantly see the Masons mixed up with, and also simply on a par with the other trades—the wrights and masons being often classed together in one incorporation, hence, instead of my abandoning my "often-repeated comparisons of the Masons with other crafts," as Bro. "Lupus" suggests at page 593, I challenge Bro. "Lupus" to produce "Acts of Parliament," passed before last century, which did not also apply to other crafts connected with building, or which may not have applied to the wrights, &c., as well as to the Masons?

W. P. B.

I have found my original authority for the extract in reference to the "white aprons and gloves." It is Mackey's "Lexicon of Freemasonry," 3rd edition, 1867 (revised by Donald Campbell); article, "Clothing,"

P. H. NEWNHAM.

I think the condensed summary of "indirect proof" in favour of the "white aprons and gloves being worn when not at labour" an excellent one, and well worthy of the careful attention of all students of Freemasonry, and I have much pleasure in supporting the remarks made by Rev. Bro. P. H. Newnham.

That peculiar secrets were known to, and worked by, the ancient Masons, differing in some respects from those of other guilds, is to me certainly proved by reference to ancient records; although I do not think such secrets were of the elaborate nature some think they were.

Without doubt the "lodge" was a secret place of meeting, and where cowans had no right to attend, neither were the uninitiated permitted to participate in their ceremonies, whatever (or however simple) they may have been. The oath alone is proof sufficient of this.

W. JAMES HUGHAN.

The small discussion on the antiquity of the Masonic apron for other than the purposes of labour appears to result in a very serious blow to the assertions of the 1717 theory, which have been of late so confidently proclaimed in all the courts of Masonry. The proof so fairly given from the records of the Warkworth and Alnwick Lodge not only demonstrates the use of the apron at religious services, but affords complete evidence to any reasonable inquirer that, on the 20th January, 1708, a lodge of Freemasons was assembled at Alnwick which was not an "operative" meeting. Thus, out of a simple though fortuitous discussion the very positive, if not celebrated, 1717 theory is in imminent danger of the same tragic fate as the well-known "Humpty-Dumpty," the old and lamented friend of our nursery days. It may, however, be said that this meeting only occurred nine years before the magic date so positively prescribed as the year in which "Speculative Masonry" was invented. Upon this let me have another word to say, although I have not been a participant in the controversy. Some time since it was my good fortune and pleasure to be a subscriber to the publication, by Bro. Matthew Cooke, of a transcript made by himself from a Masonic MS. in the library of the British Museum. It is a genuine fifteenth century MS., and is called "The History and Articles of Masonry." The preamble of the MS. is devoted to the offering of thanks for knowledge vouchsafed to the Craft; next occurs a description of the liberal sciences, and then follows a detail of the origin of Masonry after the manner which many of us now deem to be somewhat apochryphal. It then continues:—

"And soon after that came Saint Adhabell into England and converted Saint Alban to Christianity. And Saint Alban loved well masons, and he gave them first their charges and manners first in England. And he ordained convenient (times) to pay for the travail. And after that was a worthy king in England that was called Athelstan, and his youngest son loved well the science of geometry, and he wist well that hand-craft had the practice of the science of geometry so well as masons, wherefore he drew him to council and learned (the) practice of that science to his speculative, for of speculative he was a master and he loved well masonry and masons. And he became a mason himself, and he gave them charges and names as it is now used in England and in other countries."

Now, whether the MS. is correct or not in its facts, we have here a statement in a document written probably before 1500, that the son of Athelstan learned the practical part of Masonry in addition to speculative, of which he was a master. It matters not to us whether Athelstan had a son or not, or whether he knew anything about Masonry, or ever heard of it; but it does matter, and very considerably, too, that an authentic document of this date should make a clear and unmistakable distinction between Speculative and Operative Masonry.

Again, referring to the Council which has before been mentioned, the MS. says: "This Council is made by divers lords and masters of divers provinces and divers congregations of masonry," &c. I have given the modern orthography as being more convenient for the present purposes.

J. O. Halliwell, F.R.S., has transcribed a fourteenth century MS. which is preserved in the Old Royal Library at the British Museum, and of which the authenticity has never been questioned. This MS. also refers to Athelstan, and thus describes his council:—

"A sémblé thenne he cowthe let make, Of divers lordis, yn here state, Dukys, erlys, and barnes also, Knythys, sqwyers, and mony mo, And the grete burges of that syté, They were ther alle yn here degré."

This assembly is said to have made certain laws, the second of which declares—

"That every mayster, that ys a mason, most ben at the generale congregacyon, so that he hyt resonably y-tolde Where that the sémblé schal be holde; And to that sémblé he most nede gon, But he have a resonabul skwsacyon."

I leave my unprejudiced brethren to say whether these small portions of evidence alone are not enough to settle the question, unless the authenticity of the MSS. is impeached.

W. P. B. has told us, in effect, he is prepared to believe that before 1717 everything excepting the operative element of Masonry applies equally well to other guilds; but I take leave to hope and believe the preparation will be of no avail, and that our brother, with all the intelligence he possesses, will think, and admit, that the language of these old documents—one written before 1400, and the other before 1500—is inapplicable to a guild possessing nothing more in its constitution than the hewing of stone and the spreading of mortar. One of these documents recognises "Speculative" Masonry by name; and this is no mere accident of words or confusion of sound, but it is a plain fact that before 1500 this writing alleges that the son of Athelstan learned the practice of the science, "for of Speculative he was a master."

I am not aware of anything which even encourages a supposition that in 1717 the brethren who were then the distinguished and prominent members of the Fraternity did aught but honorably revive a venerable system allied to the Operative Craft, and I am unable to see any other foundation for this theory without proof than that of empty belief and confident assertion. The very edifices themselves which adorn our favoured land with their magnificent and hoary grandeur, are imperishable records that the cultivated minds which originated their wondrous beauty must have required some additional associations than were to be found in exclusive communion with those by whose manual dexterity their refined and glorious conceptions were bequeathed to admiring and grateful generations—a joy for ever. LUPUS.

BRO. E. T. T. AND OLD RECORDS.

If Bro. E. T. T. will kindly forward to me the volume of Records in question, I will gladly peruse them, and make known their character through the columns of THE FREEMASON. Please address, Truro, Cornwall.

W. JAMES HUGHAN.

Seeing that Bro. "E. T. T." at page 609 has kindly offered Bro. Hughan a perusal of these documents, I would beg to observe that in common fairness I should also have that privilege before I could fairly, under the circumstances, be expected to allow them to have much weight with me; and more especially, seeing it was in answer to me that they were first alluded to. I did not observe any statement as to whether or not this 1708 lodge was one of pure Operative Masons or not. W. P. B.

BRO. C. G. FORSYTH.

If Bro. C. G. Forsyth has access to the "Encyclopedia Metropolitana," he would confer a favour on several of the Fraternity by copying the article therein on Freemasonry (or Masonry). I have not access to the work myself, as unfortunately it is not in our Town Library. The date of the issue of the work should also be stated, and page where quotation is to be found.

I am told the "Sloane MSS." in the British Museum on Masonry, is referred to in the article mentioned. Bro. Forsyth, and indeed all brethren who make known the results of their Masonic studies and researches, are working, not only for themselves, but for the Craft universal. As for myself, I will gladly receive and communicate all the Light possible. W. JAMES HUGHAN.

ELECTION OF PROV. G.M.'S IN SCOTLAND.

In THE FREEMASON, at page 592, line 61, second column, I read: "In Scotland and other Masonic Jurisdictions, the Provincial Grand Masters even are not appointed by the Chief Ruler of the Craft, but are elected by the local bodies." I may mention that this rule only applies to one district in Scotland, namely that of Ayrshire, and that on the election of the Right Worshipful Master of Mother Kilwinning, in virtue of his office as Master of Kilwinning Lodge, No. 6, he becomes, as such, Provincial Grand Master of Ayrshire. This rule, however, does not apply to the other thirty-seven Provincial Grand Masters under Scottish Jurisdiction; they are generally nominated by a lodge or lodges in the district, sometimes only by a few members in the district, and the election is entirely in the hands of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, where, should there happen to be a contest as there often is, the majority rules as in all other matters. The difference being in Scotland that the Grand Lodge elect their Provincial Grand Masters, while in England the Grand Master appoints them.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

LONDON IN 1717.

So far as I can at present judge, London in 1717 neither saw the "revival" nor the "origin" of our system of Freemasonry; but its institution and inauguration. W. P. BUCHAN.

Why are notices of Masonic meetings held at Scarbro' generally announced in THE FREEMASON as "Select Lodges"? Vide pages 591 and 598, and previous issues of your valuable paper. TAURUS.

THE INITIATION OF THE BLIND (p. 611).

Bro. "Justitia" asks the question: "Is it competent for a man, who is and has been totally blind from his birth, to be made a Freemason?" I say, certainly not. Freemasonry, in one of its elements, boasts of equality.

Again, the question is asked, or rather understood, that a lodge in Scotland gives the various degrees to men who have been blackballed in England. I regret to say that Bro. "Justitia's" remarks are too true. The truth is, that in many lodges in Scotland the blind and blackballed in England have been initiated. In fact, in a lodge in Edinburgh, immediately under the eyes of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, a man was initiated who had been blind from the day of his birth, and a present chief office-bearer of the Grand Lodge of Scotland conducted the ceremony of initiation. Again, in another lodge in Edinburgh, two men who had been blackballed in their own town in England—and the fact was quite well known in Edinburgh—were initiated without any scruples. No wonder that the brethren in the north-west of England complain. However, it is to be hoped that the brethren in Scotland will desist from such practices in future, and that no complaint will be found by the English brethren, with whom it is my wish to live in harmony.

A PAST MASTER OF AN EDINBURGH LODGE.

Masonic Miscellanea.

THE "Freemason's Calendar and Pocket Book" for the year 1871 is now published, and may be had at Freemasons' Hall.

THE tenth annual festival of all the lodges in the Province of Glasgow will be held, under the patronage of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, in the City Hall, Glasgow, on Friday evening, the 23rd instant. The Right Hon. the Earl of Rosslyn, Grand Master Mason for Scotland, is expected to preside, and the programme includes a soiree, concert, and assembly.

We are informed that three new conclaves of the Red Cross Order have been established in India, viz., St. Peter's, No. 32, at Bombay, Sir Knight G. S. Judge, Prov. G. Com. K.T., as M.P.S.; St. Andrew's, No. 33, also at Bombay, Sir Kt. Captain H. Morland, Prov. G. Master for Western India, S.C., as M.P.S.; and St. Helena, No. 34, at Calcutta, Sir Kt. G. H. Daly, M.D., D.D.G. Master for Bengal, E.C., as M.P.S.

OUR readers will be glad to learn that that ancient seat of Masonic doings, Warrington is about to be provided with a "home" for the Craft. A dozen years ago, the brethren—scarcely a score in number—were content to meet in a house of public entertainment. Warrington now possesses two Lodges and a Royal Arch Chapter, all very numerously supported. For some years past the meetings have been held in the Masonic Rooms, but as these may be required for other purposes, it was thought desirable to call a general meeting of the Craft to talk about the matter. The W.M.'s of the lodges and the M.E.Z. of the chapter readily gave their sanction, and with Bro. Bowes as Hon. Sec. pro tem., a meeting was called which has been adjourned from time to time. The majority of the shares have already been taken up, and we hope soon to lay before our readers full details of the design.

THEATRICAL.—Bros. Montague, Thorne, and James, at the Vaudeville Theatre, continue to be nightly patronised by crowded houses. Mr. Albery's enormously successful comedy, "The Two Roses," seems to be as popular as ever, and to this the enterprising managers have added a new burlesque, written by F. C. Burnand, Esq., entitled "Elizabeth; or the Don, the Duck, the Drake, and the Invisible Armada." It is admirably put on the stage; the dresses (supplied by Bro. S. May and Mrs. Dolman) are magnificent, the scenery and adjuncts new and striking. The curtain nightly falls amidst applause of the warmest kind, and the burlesque may now be considered a decided success. The farce of "Chiselling" winds up an evening's entertainment we have great pleasure in commending to all our readers.

ON Saturday morning, the 10th inst., a dramatic performance, under distinguished patronage, will take place at the Princess's Theatre (by the kind permission of Bro. Benjamin Webster), in aid of the funds for the distressed French refugees. Mdlle. Déjazet, Mesdames Leonide, Leblanc, Duverger, Barbe, Martin, &c., and Messrs. Lafout, Hervé, Derval, Josset, Georges, &c., are announced to appear.

BY-LAWS OF LODGES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Although several brethren have kindly responded to my request for copies of By-laws of Lodges, preparatory to my compilation of a suggested Code of By-Laws which shall include all regulations of value for the satisfactory working and management of a Craft Lodge, I am still short of the number I had hoped to receive, and again beg to make known my request through THE FREEMASON.

Yours fraternally,
Truro, Cornwall. W. JAMES HUGHAN.

VALUE OF A DIPLOMA—WHAT IS IT WORTH?

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In a recent case which was tried before the Sheriff Small Debt Court at Glasgow for defamation of character, "Morton v. Wallace," the following facts were elicited as to the loose manner in which Masonic diplomas or certificates are frequently granted—more especially as the case referred to showed—by the officials of the Grand Lodge of Scotland.

The complainant, George Leopold Morton, stated that he was initiated in the Marine Lodge, Calcutta, No. 232, on the register of England; he thereafter removed to Melbourne, in 1858, and was raised in the Australasian Kilwinning Lodge, No. 337 on the Constitution of Scotland. In the course of a short period he removed to Monte Video, and while resident in that country received his certificate from the latter lodge, showing that he had been duly recorded in the books of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, under which, as stated, the Australasian Kilwinning held their warrant. On examining the certificate, however, he found that in place of Morton, he had been registered Martin. He therefore immediately returned it to his lodge at Melbourne with the request, not only of having the error in his certificate corrected, but the graver one of his name been wrongly entered in the books of the Grand Lodge, by which not only he himself but his family would be debarred from participating, if required, in the Fund of Benevolence to which he was entitled. Shortly after this the lodge-room at Melbourne, with its paraphernalia, books, &c., as well, it is presumed, of his certificate and letter of complaint, were all consumed and for ever lost, and he and his claims were alike forgotten. Matters remained in statu quo till September, 1870, when he, the above-named George Leopold Morton, appeared in Edinburgh, and applied to the Grand Lodge himself for a correct diploma, and on his own statement was supplied with a correct one in due form, even though no such name was found in the Grand Lodge books—but simply on the faith of the statement thus made by himself of the supposed error in registering his name, and that after a period of twelve years. Armed with this document, he immediately made application to the respective benevolent funds of the Grand Lodge of Scotland and to the local one of the Province of Glasgow. Both applications were refused, and in the heat of the moment, and incensed at the use made of the diploma thus obtained, Wallace, the defendant in the action, who is a member of Grand Committee, so endorsed the certificate that it became useless. Hence the action.

Such is the plain unvarnished statement as eliminated by the complainant Morton. It may be all true; but what Grand Officer is there who should dare to tamper with the books of the Grand Lodge and its sacred property on the ipse dixit or story of an individual not officially recognised as the officer of a subordinate lodge, and having no proof to produce of his even being a Mason. It is high time, indeed, that some guarantee should be given to the Craft that such documents either should be deemed worthy of confidence (as they hitherto have been), or only quantum valuit.

GEORGE LEOPOLD, may have been the brother intended to have been recorded as Morton, not Mirtan as was done—but he may not. There may have been a Brother George Leopold Martin; but he may have been "gathered to his fathers" and his name assumed by another. It may yet be found all correct, but there is no use in locking the stable after the horse has been stolen. It is impossible, therefore, that too much care can be shown in granting such documents, which serve as passports throughout the known world. They should alone be granted to the officials of a lodge and none other, and then care should be adopted of seeing the signature of the brother at once appended, as a further guarantee against its improper use.

So long, however, as such offices in Grand Lodge are filled by officials whose sole object and intent s.d., with a per-centage on diplomas issued—with no higher and innate desire for the purity and integrity of the Order than its lucre—such malpractices must exist.

Yours fraternally,
A MEMBER OF THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND

PUBLICATION OF LODGE WORK.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I shall be very much obliged for any information on these points:—

1. How far is it allowable to publish the (communicable) work achieved in a lodge?

2. The exact bearing of the Constitutions on the matter?

3. Is there any difference in degree as regards sending short reports to local journals and to THE FREEMASON?

Any authoritative information will oblige. Personally, I think the reports (such as in the Sunday Times) are beneficial to the Craft. But I shall be glad of more weighty opinions.

Yours fraternally,

W. R. (132, 195, 622).

[1. Details should never be given; it is sufficient for instance, to say that "Bro. A. B. was passed."

2. So long as reports treat only of the work stated on the notice sent out to each member of the lodge, we apprehend that the Constitutions do not prohibit their publication; but the private affairs of the lodge—such as complaints, discussions, or dissensions, whenever they may unfortunately exist—should never be paraded in print.

3. Representing as we do a journal which publishes reports of Grand Lodge by special sanction, we are bound to state that the authorities do object to any portion of the Grand Lodge proceedings being made public in other than the established Masonic papers, and we may add that upon this very subject we received a letter from the Board of General Purposes not many weeks ago. The reports, therefore, to which you allude are clearly illegal, and we need not enter into the question of their being beneficial to the Craft or otherwise.—ED. F.]

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Why not publish the time at which the Metropolitan lodges meet? Any one wishing to visit, and especially country brethren, do not know at what hour to go. It may be at 4 or it may be at 8, or any hour between.

Yours fraternally,

A COUNTRY MASON.

[We can give no further information than that stated in the Calendar. London lodges do not meet at fixed hours, but regulate the time according to the business before them.—ED. F.]

SCOTLAND.

A FREEMASON'S CASE.

Recently, at the Sheriff's Small Debt Court, Sheriff Murray presiding, George Leopold Morton, civil engineer, Monte Video, presently residing at 28, York-street, Glasgow, sued James Wallace, tobacconist, 262, George-street, for £12 for damages. From the statement made for pursuer, it appeared that the defender, on October 28th, took "advantage of the production of the diploma of pursuer, who had been raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason in the Lodge Australian Kilwinning, Melbourne, holding of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, for his being a Free and Accepted Mason, dated September 24th, 1870, to the Committee having charge of the Benevolent Fund of the Grand Lodge, along with an application for relief, and, without warrant or authority, maliciously endorsed on the back of said diploma: "Diploma 269 Ge, 19th October, 1870, Glasgow. George L. Morton received from the Province of Glasgow £2 7s. 6d; also £1 from Liverpool—unworthy. James Wallace," which was untrue, and rendered the diploma useless. The defender admitted that he had put the endorsement on the diploma, but pleaded that he was privileged from his position, and by authority, to do so. The pursuer first made his appearance in the province about the 14th of Oct., and applied for relief from the Benevolent Fund. An investigation was made by a committee appointed for the purpose, and so satisfied were they that he was not a suitable person for relief that special instructions were given to the Treasurer (defender) to mark the diploma as stated. Several statements he made were deemed by the committee to have no foundation in fact. It was explained for the defence that the endorsement was only intended for the members of the Craft, and not for the general public; it was to prevent the brethren being imposed upon, but not to render it impossible for him to get relief from the outside world. Mr. Wallace made several statements to the effect that the pursuer was not the owner of the diploma exhibited, and that he had received money in Liverpool, though he represented the contrary. One witness for the pursuer spoke to having examined some papers and found them correct. For the pursuer it was contended that the proceedings of the committee and the defender were totally irregular and malicious. Sheriff Murray, after the conclusion of proof, said there was strong prima facie evidence for the committee to act as they had done, and it was open to the pursuer to get a new diploma from the Grand Lodge. The Secretary had proceeded quite justifiably, and he would therefore assaillie him, without costs.—Glasgow paper.

ITALY.

MASONIC LODGE OF LEGHORN (TUSCANY) AREOPAGO.

Masonry, which is never behind hand in anything that concerns the good and progress of humanity, now, too, takes the lead in a petition to the National Parliament for compulsory education through all the kingdom in Italy. We cannot but highly praise this lofty idea, which will find an echo in every part of the world and particularly amongst Masons, and hope that the Parliament in accordance of such important request, will pass a law which will form a basis of a great nation which intend to maintain the liberty of its country purchased at so high a price. Long live Masonry, long live Italy.

[COPY.]

To the President of the Chambers, Florence.

Sir,—Whereas, the number of illiterate persons in Italy as compared with the greater part of the State of Europe is exorbitant, whereas in a free country no one has a right to be ignorant, nor ignore his duties in life as a man and as a citizen.

Whereas, the ignorance of the masses in Italy cannot but be advantageous to those classes whose monopoly they were, and who in order to exist, stop the freedom of thought bequeathed by the Almighty God to man as the greatest blessing and most distinctive feature; and whereas those who are able to read for themselves without the help of others, acquire the knowledge of their own personality and independence of their rights and duties, and thus learn to respect themselves and their fellow-creatures.

For these sensible and humanitarian considerations, the Chapter of the Grand Lodge Areopago, true friends of the virtuous, urgently appeal to the National Parliament, in order, that through the length and breath of Italy, a law be passed sanctioning the primary gratuitous, but at the same time compulsory, education for all citizens.

We remain, with the greatest respect,

Yours very sincerely,

THE PRESIDENT of the Chapter.

A. CARPI, Vice-President.

A. PROGLIO, Secretary.

Leghorn, 29th Oct., 1870.

It is reported that the Grand Orient of Florence will be transferred to Rome.

GRAND LODGE.

The following is the business paper for Wednesday, 7th December:—

1. The minutes of the Quarterly Communication of the 7th September, 1870, for confirmation.
2. The M.W. Grand Master will make a communication to Grand Lodge in reference to the District of Montreal.
3. Nomination of a Grand Master for the ensuing year.
4. Election of a Senior and Junior Vice-President of the Lodge of Benevolence.
5. Election of twelve Past Masters to serve on the Lodge of Benevolence for the year ensuing.
6. Report of the Lodge of Benevolence in which are recommendations for several grants.
7. The Report of the Board of General Purposes.
8. Reports of the Special General Meetings of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons held at the Freemasons' Hall on the 27th day of January, 1870, and on the 15th October, 1870, respectively, will be laid before Grand Lodge, and the following proposed alteration of the laws which was then agreed to will be submitted for the approval of Grand Lodge, viz.,—To amend rule 17, by substituting the word "two" for "four" in the 3rd line, and the word "two" for "three" in the 9th line thereof.

APPEAL.

9. A communication has been received from the District Grand Lodge of Bombay, stating that Bro. George Bease having made his submission, had been restored to all his Masonic privileges. Bro. Bease has consequently withdrawn his Appeal, which was deferred from the last Quarterly Communication, at the request of the District Grand Lodge.

PROPOSED MOTION.

10. By Bro. Brackstone Baker, P.G.D.:—"That a sum of £100 be granted from the Fund of General Purposes to the fund now being raised under the auspices of the Dowager Marchioness of Lothian in aid of the British and Foreign Refugees from France, under the title of the 'Refugees' Benevolent Fund,' which is to be expended in this country."

GRAND MASONIC GATHERING AT BOURNEMOUTH.

CENTENARY FESTIVAL OF THE LODGE OF HENGIST.

The hundredth anniversary of the Lodge of Hengist, No. 195, was celebrated on Wednesday, 23rd ult., and it was the subject of much congratulation that the members were able to meet on that day, as it was on the 23rd of the same month, in the year 1770, that a warrant was granted to Henry Dagg, Thomas Jeans, and another, to hold a Masonic Lodge, at the New Inn, Christchurch. The lodge on this occasion was held in the Belle Vue Assembly Rooms, under the presidency of the Provincial Grand Master for Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, Bro. W. W. Beach, M.P., who was supported by the following Provincial Grand Officers:—Bros. John Wallingford, P.G.J.W.; W. Hickman, P.G. Sec., P.P.J.G.W.; J. E. Le Feuvre, P.G. Sec.; Mark E. Frost, P.G. Treas.; James Petty Hine, P.G.S.B.; J. Montagu Haynes, P.G.S.; C. L. Emmanuel, P.G.S.; John Houghton, P.G.S.; and H. Martin Green, P.G.S.

The P.G.M. was supported on his immediate right by the W.M., W. E. Rebbeck, and on his left by the Chaplain, the Rev. P. H. Newnham, and by the I.P.M., E. W. Rebbeck. The Wardens of the lodge were requested to occupy their usual chairs. On the dais, in addition to the above, were the following brethren:—J. M. P. Montagu, D.P.G.M. for Dorset, and Frederick Binckes, P.G.S., Secretary R.M.I.B.

The lodge was opened at 1.30 by the P.G. Master, assisted by the officers of the lodge. After the warrant had been read by the Secretary, Bro. Atkinson, the P.G.M. delivered an interesting address on the progress of Freemasonry. The Chaplain, Bro. P. H. Newnham, then read the history of the lodge of Hengist from its formation to the present time, and we need hardly say that the subject was most skillfully handled by the rev. brother; it was not only a history of the lodge of Hengist for the past hundred years, but it was really the history of Freemasonry in England for that time. Our space will not permit us to give our readers even an outline of this remarkable compilation, even if we felt ourselves equal to the task; but it is with unfeigned pleasure we announce that it was resolved to have this history printed without delay for private circulation. The P.G.M. then announced that as Bro. Stebbing had been unavoidably detained at Southampton, he would not be able to give the congratulatory oration as he had promised to do, but he was delighted to add that Bro. Binckes had, at the last moment, kindly offered to supply Bro. Stebbing's place. All our readers who have been fortunate enough to hear Bro. Binckes speak will know what a treat the brethren had on this occasion.

The P.G. Master then addressed himself to the W.M., Bro. W. E. Rebbeck, and after a few congratulatory remarks, proceeded to decorate him with the centenary jewel. The W.M. thanked the P.G.M. in appropriate terms, and after a vote of thanks to the P.G.M. had been carried by acclamation, the lodge was closed in the usual way.

THE BANQUET.

About four o'clock the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet at the Bath Hotel. The chair was occupied by the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. W. W. Beach, M.P., and the vice-chairmen were Bro. W. E. Rebbeck, W.M., and Bro. P. Tuck, P.M. There was a numerous attendance of brethren, including Bros. S. R. Stebbing, P.S.G.D.; F. Binckes, P.G.S.; J. E. Le Feuvre, P.G.S.; W. Hickman, P.G.J.W.; J. P. Hine, P.G.S.B.; J. M. Haynes, P.G.S.; Rev. P. H. Newnham, W.M.-elect and Chaplain; E. W. Rebbeck and D. Sydenham, P.M.'s; R. Stephens, M. Webb, A. H. Parken, J. Briggs, C. W. Wyndham, T. G. Horder, W. Roberts, C. Holloway, G. Lane, C. Phelps, S. Waters, J. Dutton, jun., Kellaway, J. B. Atkinson, G. Burt (London), Ford, Stevens, Goodridge, Booth, E. Edsall, W.M.; G. H. Gutch, P.M.; R. Sydenham, G. Burt and C. W. Kite (Lodge of Amity, Poole); G. R. Crickmay, W. Robinson, W. Reade, J. W. Luff, W. Fletcher,

J. McWilliam, P.M. Treas.; J. F. Bryant, P.M.; Peter Luck, P.M. 195; W. Smith, P.M. 170, P.P.S.G.D. Dorset; John Lundie, P.M. 170; B. J. Kerridge, P.M. 622; H. T. Bath, P.M. 319; W. Bymblecombe, Sec. 319; and H. Brounckes, J.W. 132.

Grace was said by the Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. P. H. Newnham. At the conclusion of the banquet,

The R.W. Chairman said that he would commence by saying that excuses for non-attendance had been received by the Deputy Grand Master from the Earl of Carnarvon, Prov. Senior Grand Warden; from Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, Bro. E. Haviland-Burke, M.P., and many others who were unable to be present. He was sure they would be very sorry that they could not attend. He now begged to propose to them a toast which he was sure they would receive with the utmost enthusiasm. He asked them to drink "The Queen and the Craft." (The toast was received with enthusiastic expressions of loyalty.)

The R.W. Chairman said the next toast he had to propose to them was that of "The Prince of Wales and the Royal Family." His Royal Highness was Past Grand Master of Masonry, and had proved himself anxious to come forward on every occasion as a supporter of their Craft, and to take an active interest in patronising their mysteries. (Cheers.)

The R.W. Chairman said the next toast he had to ask them to drink was that of "The Most Worshipful Grand Master the Earl de Grey and Ripon, the Very Worshipful Deputy Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon, and the Officers of the Grand Lodge of England." (Cheers.) During the past year the Earl of Zetland, who presided over their Order for upwards of a quarter of a century, had retired from the Grand Mastership, and he had carried with him into his comparative retirement the good wishes of the whole of the Masons of England. (Cheers.) He had been succeeded by a nobleman who, from the zeal he had displayed towards their Order and from the conduct he had evinced, would prove a worthy successor to him. (Hear, hear.) He was sure that from his popularity in the mode in which he had discharged the office of Deputy Grand Master for some time, he would perform most efficient service as their Grand Master. Let them therefore wish him a long and prosperous reign over them, and drink his health as their chief. (Cheers.) The toast of the Deputy Grand Master brought them much nearer home, because they had in him a nobleman who resided in that county. It was true he was Provincial Grand Master of a county removed from this, but they knew him also as the Deputy Grand Master of England, and as one who was deservedly popular in Hampshire. He need only state as a proof of the interest which he took in the interests of the Craft, that a very short time ago he went all the way to Lancashire for the purpose of installing a Provincial Grand Master of that county, and from the reception he met with there and the enthusiastic mode in which the proceedings were conducted, he (the chairman) thought they must conclude that his name was received with as much enthusiasm in Lancashire as in Hampshire. (Cheers.) To the officers of Grand Lodge they were greatly indebted for the mode in which they discharged their duties, and they were proud in having amongst them a brother so highly esteemed and so justly popular as Bro. Stebbing. (Cheers.) It did not become him to eulogise Bro. Stebbing's merits in the presence of those who knew him so well, and he would only say that he had always taken the most active interest in the work of Grand Lodge, and as Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes he was concerned for the general welfare of the Craft. They were delighted to see him amongst them that evening, and they could only regret that he was not enabled to be present at the time of the opening of the lodge. He would ask them to drink the toast, coupling with it the name of Bro. Stebbing. (Cheers.)

Bro. S. R. Stebbing, P.S.G.D., said he was extremely obliged to the R.W. Chairman for the kind remarks he had made in proposing the toasts of the Grand Officers, and to the brethren who had been pleased to receive those expressions with so much enthusiasm. He assured them he had great pleasure in meeting the Lodge of Hengist that day, because he had a kind of hereditary connection with it, as his father took an active part in the consecration of the Lodge of Christchurch thirty years ago or more; and apart from this, it was extremely pleasant to meet the brethren on such an occasion, for when their provincial meetings were held at some distance they had not the opportunity of joining them so often as they could wish. It was very gratifying to find that at the present time their Grand Master and Deputy Grand Master were two great statesmen in this country, and it said very much for Masonry that they were men filling high and responsible offices in the State—one having the responsibility of being in office, and the other being responsible for keeping in order those who were in office—(laughter)—and that those men could lay aside those great responsibilities and join in Masonic work with all the earnestness of the smaller brethren in the ranks of the Order and of the leisured men throughout the country. (Hear, hear.) Bro. Stebbing proceeded to speak at some length on the circumstances attending the enrolment of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as a member of the Craft. He thanked them heartily for the kind manner in which they had received the toast. Bro. Binckes would tell them how the Grand Officers of England were foremost in assisting those charitable institutions in which consisted the cement of Masonry, the glory of their fraternity, the practical charity of their Order. (Cheers.)

Bro. Binckes, P.G.S., said the toast that he had to propose ought to have fallen to D.P.G.M. Deacon, but unfortunately he had been ill for some time and was unable to attend that day. As D.P.G.M. of a neighbouring province, he (Bro. Binckes) had been ordered to take his place, and he hoped, therefore, they would forgive him if he did not do justice to the toast, which was that of "The R.W. Provincial Grand Master, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P." (Cheers.) He asked them to drink a bumper to the Grand Master for the manner in which he had conducted the business of the day in consecrating the centenary of the lodge. He was highly esteemed and appreciated by them for the work which he did, for it was their privilege that they really stood upon their merits—that no matter what was a man's rank and position, unless he had a love for the Order and worked well, he did not meet with that reception which had been given to the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, not only in that lodge, but at that table. (Cheers.)

The R.W. Chairman said he begged to thank his worshipful brother for the very kind manner in which he proposed the toast, and also to return his most hearty thanks to all the brethren present for the cordial reception they had given to it. He assured them that it was a matter of great gratification to him to be able to attend there that day; it was indeed a double gratification because he had been lately called upon to discharge duties of a two-fold kind, for within the past fortnight he had been required to constitute a new lodge, and now he was called upon to join in celebrating the centenary festival of a lodge which had existed for that period in this province. (Hear, hear.) He was certainly deeply indebted to those who had assembled around him that day to give their support. It would not have been creditable to this province had they not been surrounded by many who joined with them in giving a cordial greeting to that lodge on such a happy occasion. They were also indebted to those who had come from a distance in order to render their support, and particularly to the brethren of the province of Dorset, who were so nearly allied to this part of the county. (Hear, hear.) He trusted there would be an opportunity afterwards of expressing their gratitude; it was sufficient then to say that they were, one and all, glad to see them present, and that they were proud to join with them in offering their common congratulations to the Lodge of Hengist on that occasion. (Cheers.) Being thus assembled in order to celebrate the centenary of that lodge, it was natural they should think, as no doubt all of them had done, of those past events which had happened since that lodge was constituted. Those events had been brought so vividly home to them that day in the excellent address of their Chaplain that it would be useless for him to attempt to allude to them. If ever there had been an occasion on which the vicissitudes of a lodge had been brought before them more forcibly than at any other time it would seem to be in connection with the history of this lodge. From time to time it appeared that some blight had been cast upon it, but the members of their Order seemed to have been enabled to recover from their temporary abeyance and to have started with new zeal and new lustre in their onward course. (Hear, hear.) When some temporary disaster baffled them, nothing daunted, they started afresh, and the result had been the auspicious proceedings which they joined in celebrating that day. (Cheers.) When they thought for a moment how often that lodge had been nearly sunk, as might have been the case with other lodges from time to time, to what cause ought they to attribute the constant resuscitation which had occurred and had enabled it to preserve itself? To that energy, to that good feeling, to that zeal for their Order which must have animated the minds of the brethren who were determined to preserve it; and that must have arisen from the love which they bore to their Order, and from the resolution they had entered into to maintain its prosperity to the best of their ability. (Cheers.) It would have been indeed a scandal to the brethren of a lodge if, when its destiny was in their hands, they suffered it to sink into oblivion and be forgotten; they would be pointed back to as unworthy members of their Order who permitted a lodge to sink amongst them when by stretching out their hands and doing a little they could preserve it. (Hear, hear.) He was sure they were greatly indebted to those worthy members for the trouble they had taken and the zeal they had displayed. In them must have been instilled deep love for their common Order; they must have been aware that on them lay this intrinsic and important duty—that as they had been instructed in the mysteries of the Craft, that as in them had been inculcated those excellent lessons which it was the pride of the Order to inculcate in every brother at his initiation and on his making progress in the Craft—so they must act up to them if they wished to preserve their credit among men and Masons. (Hear, hear.) Those principles were such that they had enabled their Order to maintain itself for ages upon ages; they were principles which would inevitably enable it to hold its ground against any attacks that might be made upon it, because they were such as no assaults could prevail against. When they reflected for a moment that that excellent principle of charity was one of the mainstays of their Order, could they wonder that Freemasons were zealous indeed to protect it? Could they wonder that one of their greatest boasts was that they possessed something beyond a name, when they had those excellent charitable institutions which were the pride of their Order? It was that principle of charity, together with all those other excellent attributes which were connected with the Craft, that had enabled them to stand combined; and if they only held fast to those principles, if they only let them be imprinted on their hearts, they would make them better citizens of their country and would enable them to fulfil their duty in life better than they would otherwise do; for though Freemasonry boasted itself to be universal, and to include those of every degree, of every religion, and of every political creed, yet there were certain lessons which were enjoined upon Masons—that they were to be loyal to their Sovereign, and to show reverence to the great Creator of all. Meeting together as they did on such a happy occasion as the present, they could not but hope that many of those who now attended would have another opportunity of witnessing the progress which the Lodge of Hengist would make, and they wished it every prosperity and success. (Cheers.)

Bro. S. R. Stebbing, P.S.G.D., said he had to express his obligation to the lodge for having been good enough to proffer to him that day a very distinguished position, which he had not, from very pressing circumstances, had an opportunity of fulfilling. He knew, however, that the duties of that position were performed in a far superior manner by his eloquent friend Bro. Binckes, who deserved his sincerest thanks. He (Bro. Stebbing) wished to make a few remarks founded on what had taken place that evening, and not to drift into something of a heavier character, which perhaps he might have done if he had had the opportunity of addressing them earlier in the day. He looked upon this as a proud day for the Lodge of Hengist. He looked upon it as not an unmeaning compliment to say that this was the great event in the history of the lodge, for although no doubt during the hundred years that it had existed there had been some ebbing and flowing of the tide, as there would be in all human institutions, it was here that day in its strength and its power. It had grown up a goodly tree from the root which was planted by those good old Masons of a century ago; and when he saw they had brought it to its present perfection he thanked them in the name of the Masons of Hampshire that they had done so good a work. (Cheers.) One hundred years in Masonry was nothing, and therefore he could not call it an old lodge; but he could compliment them that they had reached an age to which few institutions in this country ever ained, for they knew that many societies constituted with science and art, and with all the social circumstances which caused men to form institutions and embody themselves together for some special purpose, had soon faded away and been forgotten; and it was a very rare circumstance when any association of that kind existed for so long a period as a hundred years—(hear, hear)—and although he had been told that in the Lodge of Hengist there had been vicissitudes and some things to sigh about, yet it had outlived them all, and “memory filled the past,” whilst “hope looked brightly on the future.”

 (Cheers.) In another hundred years he believed the spirit they had implanted in the lodge would continue to exist. He paid very little compliment to its present members, but a grateful tribute to those who started it, who lived with it, grew up with it, and handed down from father to son, and perhaps from brother to brother, those principles of Freemasonry which had made it survive the attacks of time, overcome all transient and temporary discords, and live to be the goodly thing it was, as it should live on for ever. (Cheers.) It told him that which had wrecked so many lodges had not wrecked the Lodge of Hengist—the love of office, the worthless ambition, the desire of the members to have something they did not get quite so soon as they thought they had a right to do.
 (Hear, hear.) They had not had the trappings with which the person of their brother was so worthily adorned, and which he had worn so well as a man of rank and station, as a working Mason in their Order, and those who had not had those trappings so soon as the others—the quiet Mason, the generous-hearted social soul who had sat in the lodge and had not desired these things, had been the pillars of the lodge, and had enabled it to live up to its good old age. (Cheers.) It reminded him of a saying in Scripture that ought to wrap itself around their hearts when they thought of these things—that it was not the ambitious or the covetous man, not the man desirous of honour and decoration, but the quiet and humble spirit who had the right sort of Masonry within him, and kept them right when their too-soaring desires carried them along: “Consider the lilies of the field how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin; and yet I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.” The quiet Mason, who was the lily of the valley, kept the lodge together, whilst often the aspiring brother too soon wrecked the ship and cast her upon the shore.
 (Hear, hear.) He hoped he might not be thought to have seized an unfitting time for making these remarks, for having been associated with Masonry —and he might even say with that lodge—for more than a third part of that hundred years, he might be permitted to indulge in an old man’s garrulity to say something which really was mixed up with Masonry, to point their attention to the shoals and quicksands which existed, and to encourage them to continue to build upon the rock of true Masonic principles. (Cheers.) It was that spirit in this and in all other lodges which had kept them together, and which would make them survive, as their good old Masonic words said, “the wreck of mighty empires, and resist the destroying hand of time;”
 and they need not fear if that silver chord ran through the hearts of the brethren, and made them love Freemasonry for what it was worth, and love the lodge for those great principles which it upheld.
 (Hear, hear.) It was very pleasant to belong to Hampshire, and boast of being a Hampshire Mason.
 There were twenty lodges in the county, of which five had reached the goodly age to which the Lodge of Hengist had advanced, and it was a matter of no small pride to their R.W. Chairman that, whilst he had added a twentieth lodge to the roll over which he so ably and creditably presided, five of those lodges had existed above a hundred years, to the great honour of the province, and indeed to the great credit, pride, and splendour of all Freemasonry.
 Although Masons were so numerous and spread over ever every part of the globe, although Masonry existed in every land and among every people, they still realized the truth—

Ten thousand thousand are our tongues,
 Yet all our joys are one.

Masonry was everywhere found; its roots were under every sea, it bloomed on every shore; but there were not many lodges that blossomed for a hundred years. Surveying the Masonic firmament, they saw countless stars, but how few planets.
 They had added another planet that day, and it was such lodges that formed the pillars of their Order, and made them proud of their Institution. They had shown that Freemasonry not only occupied their hearts, but that it had taken a deep root, and formed a strong basis in connection with that lodge, and whether they entered into a discussion as to whether Masonry took its rise in 1718 or went back to countless ages and tried to fix a time and place when Masonry originated, there could be no doubt of this, that among the guilds of ancient days there were societies that had secret signs and symbols, that were bound together by signs and tokens, and existed by the influence of brotherly love and the practising of those principles which were inscribed on their banner in the immortal words of truth; and from them they learned that knowledge which in the dark times was often promoted by its being kept among kindred spirits, and handed down from child to child, from sire to son, from brother to brother, and which could not have been kept for perpetuation to society and for the advantage of the people among whom they lived, if they did not possess that soul-stirring principle which should keep them combined and united. They found this in the ever-springing principle of charity—that spirit of benevolence without which neither Masonry nor anything else in this world, save that which came from the Most High, could have existed, and without which Masonry would be no more than an ephemeral beefsteak club. (Laughter and cheers.)

 Masonry—which in olden times had been the receptacle of knowledge and the means of preserving the arts and sciences—was kept together by the spirit of benevolence; and when Sir Christopher Wren left it, and handed it down to them as Speculative Masons, they made it a moral Institution—they devoted themselves to establishing active principles of moral teaching, and they had handed down to this age an enlightened and practical Masonry.
 Whether the origin of the Craft dated back to the time of Noah or to the building of Solomon’s temple it could not have lived except for that ever-springing charity.

Her towers and monuments may fade away;
 Her true and social life shall ne’er decay.

That true and social life was given to Masons, and they must hand it down by their practice in the lodge and out of the lodge, that the world should tell a Mason by his acts, and that the lodge should live by the strength which the practice of those acts should give to it. God grant that might ever be so in the Lodge of Hengist. Let them go on as they had done and prosper, and might God bless and further their good and mighty work. (Loud cheers.)

Bro. the Rev. P. H. Newnham, the W.M.-elect, responded to the toast. He said he thought he belonged to that class of unlucky men who, pursued by an adverse fate, never rose to their feet without having to make an apology. (Laughter.) His present apology was a very serious one, as he had to apologise for himself. He felt he had no right to stand there, for he was only the deputy of their worthy and Worshipful Master, the oldest Mason in the Lodge of Bournemouth, and who had been put into the chair that year in order that he might fill it at this centenary. He would thank them very sincerely and in as few words as possible for the very kind manner in which the lodge had been spoken of, not only by Bro. Stebbing, but by the R.W. Grand Master and every other brother.
 Speaking not only for himself, but for the brethren of the lodge generally, he could assure them they had but one object in view—that the Lodge of Hengist should in coming years be a repository of true Masonry in every sense—a true Masonic work in its ritual, a true Masonic institute in its history, and a true Masonic benefit in its charities.
 (Cheers.) He thought it was Baron Alderson, who, when asked how long a sermon should be, replied, “Twenty minutes, with a leaning to the side of mercy.” (Laughter.) He could not help thinking he had been guilty in this respect, for he had indulged himself in three sermons, and had devoted to each a very liberal measure of time according to that proportion. He thought he should best carry out the principle of brotherly love by sitting down at once. (Laughter.)

The R.W. the Chairman next proposed “The Masonic Charities,” coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Binckes. (Cheers.) They were delighted to see Bro. Binckes present. He had had the pleasure of knowing him for some years, and he could hardly do justice to the energy he had displayed in advocating the cause of charity. He had done so from no selfish motive, for he had never lost an opportunity of placing before the brethren the claims of other charities in connection with his own. They were deeply indebted to him for coming amongst them that day, and he (the Chairman) would ask them to drink his health in connection with the Masonic Charities. (Cheers.)

Bro. F. Binckes, Secretary of the Freemasons’
 School for Boys, said nothing would have given him greater pride than to have his name associated with those institutions, the prosperity of which they had so generously wished. In his not uneventful yet not very protracted career in connection with Masonry, he had taken great interest in the various questions which agitated their Order from time to time, but whatever he might have done in other capacities he had felt no such pleasure as in furthering those institutions which the Right Worshipful Chairman had described as the pride and glory of the Order. (Hear, hear.) They might have heard various opinions as regarded the internal policy of Freemasonry, but there could be no point of dispute when they came to consider the great binding tie which, after all, was charity; for charity, they were told, was the ground both of faith and hope, and it was the great object they had to bear in mind in their Masonic career. He would wish to deviate a little from the stereotyped mode of appeal. They were met that day under no ordinary circumstances and on no ordinary occasion—that of celebrating a centenary—that was to say, the lodge had through various vicissitudes existed for 100 years, and it was now in a condition of great and flourishing prosperity. One of the prominent facts brought before their notice that day was in connection with one of the brethren who discharged the duties of Worshipful Master of the lodge for fifteen years, he alluded to the late Bro. Bayley, whose name was held, he had no doubt, in great affection. (Hear, hear.) He thought Bro. Newnham laid great stress upon the fact that he proposed that subscriptions should be sent from the lodge towards the Boys’ School.

 (Hear, hear.) He would not say “hear, hear” to that, although his natural feelings prompted him to do so, and he thought they would give him credit for showing a natural delicacy in this matter.
 (Laughter.) He thought nothing redounded to
 Bro. Bayley’s credit so much as that proposition, which he had no doubt was unanimously acceded to. Bro. Bayley whilst he belonged to the Lodge of Hengist made a name for himself, and received eminent mention on that account as well as by reason of other propositions which he made, showing that the school was very dear to him. (Hear, hear.) He was glad to see that their immediate Past Master, the son of their oldest Past Master, who was now their Worshipful Master, had volunteered to accept office and represent their lodge as Steward at the anniversary festival to be held in March next. (Hear, hear.) He was sure that very graceful and spontaneous act on the part of Bro.
 Rebbeck, jun., would not be without due appreciation by the lodge, nor without advantage to the school of which Bro. Bayley was a very good friend: and he (Bro. Binckes) had no doubt he would be well supported by the lodge. He was also told that Gosport would render every support, but he was now desirous of tendering to Bro. E. W.
 Rebbeck, son of their oldest Past Master, who was now their Worshipful Master, very heartfelt thanks, as also to Bro. Eyre—but he need not say that the Boys’ School never looked in vain for help from the Province of Hampshire. (Cheers.) He wished also to express his thanks to the Right Worshipful, the Provincial Grand Master, for his assistance in a sudden emergency in March last, when the Prince of Wales presided over their festival. He (Bro.
 Binckes) had to go over the work again, and to appeal to the brethren of the Order, especially the Provincial Grand Masters, and the Grand Master of that province was the first to come forward and further the success of that festival. (Hear, hear.)
 He (Bro. Binckes) was greatly delighted with what they had done in the past, and he felt in a delicate position in making a further appeal. There were one or two matters brought prominently before them that day which afforded grounds for interesting observations. They had the old question of the “Ancients” or “Moderns”—the question of the establishment of their Grand Lodge in 1717, the secession in 1742, and the union in 1818. All those matters had been brought before them, together with subsidiary and minor occurrences during the time that those great events occupied the attention of the Masonic world; and it was, he considered, a singular fact, as a matter of Masonic record, that the first payment made in the shape of a Masonic charity was on behalf of the Boys’ School. Singularly enough, the Marquis of Carnarvon, many years gone by, attempted to do something towards educating and apprenticing the sons of Masons. The subject was taken into consideration, but it was found to be too serious a one for the Masonic body to entertain at that time. In 1740, when the secession took place, the old body, who called themselves the “Moderns,” established the Gtits’ School, and the Boys’ School, of which he was the representative, owed its origin, he supposed, to the spirit of rivalry in those who were the seceders, and who took the name of “Ancient Masons.” They had read a great deal of history repeating itself, and of events recurring in cycles, and many of the Boys’ Schools had their origin in the Seceding Body, who took an active part in the reform of Masonry, and who had survived and found that those efforts had become matters of legislative action. They had seen the results of those efforts in the great amelioration of their Masonic system, and the Boys’ School, as he had said, took its rise from the Seceding Body. He did not want to bring before them any matters of dispute, but he would say that the Seceders were not altogether wrong, and as Bro. Newnham had said, looking back dispassionately they would find that that secession was the means of doing a great deal of good.
 Freemasonry, as the historian of that day said, had created a great deal of rivalry; the result was unmitigated good, and brought about that happy union in 1813, since which time the only rivalry that had existed had for its object how best to further the interests of Freemasonry. (Cheers.) They had as Masons passed through various epochs. Bro. Newnham said they were on the eve of leaving the convivial epoch and entering upon the intellectual and scientific epoch. That might or might not be the case. He (the speaker) was one of those who had striven for many years to subordinate the convivial to the intellectual element, but he had always said he should be sorry to see the convivial element struck out, for he felt certain that the element of intellectuality was compatible with that of conviviality, and that the convivial added a brightness and charm to the intellectual element. He remembered having an interview at the Colonial Office with a late lamented statesman who held a high position in Freemasonry—the late Duke of Newcastle, who said to him, “I consent to take the chair, but do you mean to tell me that this affair cannot take place without a great number of brethren sitting down to a very bad dinner, and drinking a quantity of very bad wine?” (Laughter.) He (Bro. Binckes) replied that he quite appreciated the case as the Duke had put it, and the influence he meant was the gathering together of a large number of brethren from all parts of the country, but he was certain if this were done their institution would materially suffer. (Hear, hear.) He quoted an instance in which this was tried. It was said waste was the consequence of these dinners, and that if the money spent on a dinner were given to the object in view, the result would be much more beneficial, but the consequence was that when this plan was tried the subscriptions fell off almost to nil. He did not care what it was, whether the propagation of the gospel, the promotion of missionary enterprise, the laying of a foundation-stone, or what they would—man was a dining animal—(laughter)—and Englishmen would celebrate anything of this kind by something like conviviality; and he was convinced that to do away with this, would be to strike at the root of Freemasonry—(hear, hear.)—but whilst he said this he was also one of the strongest advocates for reducing conviviality to a very moderate scale. He thought when they sat down to a dinner at a guinea or 25s. per head, it was a great waste, but he must dine somewhere, and he preferred rather to dine with his brethren than alone. (Hear, hear.) He was afraid they would find fault with him, for on this as on other occasions whenever he had risen to speak, he had been guilty of discursiveness—(“No, no,”)—and they would ask what all this had to do with the charities of the Order. He hoped, however, they would bear with him for a few moments. (Hear, hear.) In the Girls’ School there were 100, and in the Boys’ School nearly 120 scholars, and there were 130 of the aged of both sexes who were maintained by the voluntary contributions of Masonic friends—(hear, hear.)—and he could say without fear of contradiction, that those institutions were never in such a condition of prosperity as at the present moment. (Cheers.) They had a burden of £6,000 hanging around them, but on the 8th December their mortgage would be entirely paid off, though in order to do that they had had to call in the assistance of their bankers, who had advanced them a certain amount of money on the faith of their security. By this means they got their debt into their own possession and changed a fixed mortgage debt which required to be paid off in six months, and to be paid in one sum, to a current balance at their bankers, which might be reduced as they had the means, and at the same time the interest would be at a much lower rate than that on the mortgage debt. They would, therefore, by fulfilling their contract, be enabled to pay their mortgagees a cheque which would clear off the liability for the schools. This would, of course, leave a debt of £6,000, and that contrasted very unfavourably with the other institutions, which had funded property to the amount of from £30,000 to £35,000. But they had no lack of faith; they increased their benefits as much as they could by admitting the largest possible number of boys into the school, having confidence in the resources of the Craft. If he were to show them the shoal of applications that had come in during the past six weeks, they would be stirred up to fresh efforts in order to pay off the debt, and thus be enabled to admit twelve additional boys into the school. He was sure that, judging from the applications, they would have at least sixty candidates. They must not suppose that he was pleading for his own school and for nothing else; he desired to urge the other claims which Masonry had upon them, and he would mention that he had during the past ten years received no less a sum than £75,000 for Masonic Institutions. This was a large amount of money, especially when the other claims upon the brethren were borne in mind, including the fund for the sick and wounded in war, and the fund that was raised on the loss of the “Captain,” which came home especially to that district. Bro. Binckes concluded with another eloquent appeal on behalf of the Masonic Charities, and resumed his seat amid applause.

Bro. E. W. Rebbeck, P.M., then proposed “The health of the Very Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, Bro. C. E. Deacon,” whose absence every one who knew him must have immensely regretted. (The toast was drunk with great cordiality.)

Bro. T. G. Horder, S.D., then proposed “The Provincial Grand Officers, Past and Present,” associating with it the name of Bro. Le Feuvre, one of the Prov. G. Secs., which was received with cheers.

Bro. J. E. Le Feuvre, P.G.S., said he felt it to be a very difficult task indeed to respond to that toast. He was a very young Mason, but he trusted his youth in Masonry would be pardoned on account of the zeal which he hoped to the best of his ability to display in connection with the Craft. There was no doubt that he was the youngest of the Grand Officers whom their R.W. Grand Master had been pleased to appoint, in order to assist him in the execution of the duties of that province; but although he felt perfectly certain that there were many who might have been called upon to assist him in the particular office he (Bro. Le Feuvre) filled, and who would do so with far greater ability than himself, yet he yielded to no one in his zeal for the interests of Masonry. Bro. Binckes had said that Hampshire was always foremost in assisting the Masonic charities, and he had alluded more particularly to the boys, of whom he (Bro. Le Feuvre) had, at the present time, but little information. He took Bro. Binckes’ testimony, however, as of very great value, for he was sure no one in England was better informed on the subject. On the other hand, he (Bro. Le Feuvre) could speak respecting the girls. Last year he went up as Steward of the Girls’ School, and the year before that his co-Secretary, Bro. Hickman, performed that duty, when his (Bro. Hickman’s) list for the province of Hampshire was larger than any other throughout the kingdom—the amount raised for the Girls’ School being something like £180 or £190. During the past year they tried to do as well, and he took up a list which was only less than that of the year before by £10. He took up £170, so that in the two years the province of Hampshire had contributed the not unhandsome sum of £350. (Cheers.) They would have been the highest on the list, except that an individual of Devonshire unfortunately gave a donation of £50. (Laughter, and a voice: “Not unfortunately.”) They could not help that; they rejoiced that the Girls’ School would benefit by it; but they would have liked a member of their own province to have given that £50 instead of the province of Devonshire. (Hear, hear.) Bro. Binckes had also told him that there was no rivalry between the Boys’ and Girls’ Schools, and there could be no better proof of this than that their R.W. Master was Steward of the Boys’ School last year, and took the chair at the Girls’ School this year. This proved that Masons did not confine their charity to one channel, but gave it to all the objects of distress that came under their notice. They saw this not only among themselves, but also on the Continent. What was the reason that so large a sum was sent out under the auspices of Bro. Burgess in connection with the Sick and Wounded Fund? Was it not because a large number of the members of the committee were Masons? (Hear, hear.) The greatest amount of faith was placed in that committee, although they were to a certain extent self-appointed, because the great majority of them were Masons. (Hear, hear.) He could not help thinking that the Masonic funds would never be devoted to a better object than they had been on this occasion, when the Masonic Brotherhood had been the means of raising more than a quarter of a million of money for the help of the sick and wounded in the present lamentable war. (Cheers.) He thanked them very sincerely for the compliment they had paid him in connecting his name with the toast of the Provincial Grand Officers. He had spoken only of himself, for he felt that at the present time he was almost incompetent to speak of his predecessors. He had bright examples before him, and he wished to follow in their steps, and if he did so he felt certain that he should deserve well of them, and that his conscience would tell him he had done all in his power to gain the approval of his brother Masons. (Cheers.)

Bro. R. W. Reade proposed “The Visiting Brethren,” coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Edsall, W.M. of the Lodge of Amity, Poole, which was received with cheers.

Bros. E. Edsall, W.M., C. W. Wyndham, and W. Robertson, of Taunton, responded.

The R.W. Chairman said they had already drank the health of the Lodge of Hengist, and the toast had been responded to by the W.M.-elect, and he now asked them to drink the health of their Worshipful Master, Bro. W. E. Rebbeck, whom he had the opportunity of decorating with the centenary jewel which glittered on his breast. This was a very pleasing duty, and he hoped the receiving of the jewel was equally pleasing to Bro. Rebbeck. They trusted he would long take an interest in that lodge, and assist with his counsel and advice those who succeeded him. (Cheers.) Again, Bro. Horder had taken a great deal of interest in that day’s proceedings, and they were indebted to him for the manner in which he discharged his duties. He asked them, therefore, to drink “The health of the Officers of the Lodge of Hengist,” coupling with the toast the names of the Worshipful Master and the Senior Warden. (Cheers.)

Bros. W. E. Rebbeck, W.M., and T. Horder, S.W., returned thanks.

Bro. W. Reade here asked permission to suggest the desirability of a Masonic Calendar being published for the Province of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, like the Masonic Calendar for the Province of Dorset.

The R.W. Chairman promised that the suggestion should receive every attention.

The remaining toasts were “The Ladies,” “The Army, Navy and Volunteers,” “The Lodges of Dorset,” “All Poor and Distressed Masons.” In giving “The Ladies,” Bro. E. W. Rebbeck, P.M., bore testimony to the kindness of Mrs. Bailey, who at a very short notice had provided such an excellent “spread.”

INSTRUCTION.

St. James Union Lodge of Instruction, No. 180, held its annual meeting for working the fifteen sections at the Swan Tavern, Mount-street, W., on the 21st ult. Bro. J. R. Stacey, W.M. of the mother lodge, in the chair; Bro. Baker, P.M. 753, acting as P.M. There was a large attendance of members of the mother lodge and several visitors. The lodge having been opened in due form, the first section was worked by Bro. Gilliard, second by Bro. Simpson (P.M.), third by Bro. Herf (S.W.), fourth by Bro. Snelling, fifth and sixth by Bro. Baker (P.M. 753), and seventh by Bro. Kench (W.M. 538). The lodge was then opened on the square, and the first section was worked by Bro. Arnett, second by Bro. Lemann (890), third by Bro. Goring, fourth by Bro. Arden (P.M. 511), and fifth by Bro. Goring. The lodge then opened on the mitre, and the first section was worked by Bro. Bubbs (J.W.), second by Bro. Sedgwick (P.M.), and third by Bro. Cameron (P.M.), all the sections being carefully and correctly worked under the superintendence of the W.M. The lodge then resumed to the first degree, and the W.M. having been elected a honorary member of the lodge, and a vote of thanks for the admirable manner in which he had occupied the chair having been recorded on the minutes, Bro. Cameron, P.M., after expressing the great satisfaction of the brethren for the time and trouble bestowed by the W.M., not only in the duties of the mother lodge, but as the Secretary of the lodge of instruction for four years, presented him with a very elegant and massive Past Master’s scarf pin, subscribed for by a few of the brethren then in attendance, as a small token of the esteem and regard in which he was held by them, and which he hoped he would, on leaving the chair of the mother lodge, live for many years to wear. The W.M. having thanked the brethren in an able speech for their kind recognition of his services as Secretary, the lodge was closed in perfect harmony.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS’S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—“By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors’ bills.” Each packet is labelled—JAMES EPPS AND CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Also, makers of Epps’s Cacaoine, a very light, thin, evening beverage.—[Advt.]

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the “Lancet” Sanitary Commission, Author of “Food and its Adulterations,” &c., &c., on Mayar’s Semolina: “I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London.”—Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar’s Semolina.

HOLLOWAY’S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Every-day Want.—Skin diseases, blotches, and unseemly eruptions which prevail frequently and annoy much, can be removed with facility by this cleansing and cooling Ointment, the salutary properties of which over all cutaneous affections have been long and indubitably established. Moderate doses of Holloway’s Pills should be taken while the outward ailment is being treated with this Ointment, they will depurate the blood, and free it from every taint that may induce a relapse, deteriorate the general health, or otherwise act injuriously. By promoting digestion and by purifying the circulation, Holloway’s Pills ever help to keep the skin clear, and to eradicate the many rashes and spots—the mortifying evidences of an infirm stomach.—[Advt.]

CROSBY’S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opium Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby’s Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy.—Select Testimonial. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the “Anti-Lancet,” says: “I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease.”—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweat, of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. “Invalids should read Crosby’s Prize Treatise on ‘Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels,’ a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Advt.]

ERRATUM.—In the extract from the Encyclopædia Metropolitana at page 608, fourteenth line from bottom of third column, in our last issue, the word “disgusted” was incorrectly printed for disguised.

DALHOUSIE LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.—The annual banquet of this well-known lodge will take place on Tuesday, December 6th, at half-past six p.m., at Bro. Allen’s, Royal Edward Tavern, Hackney. Bro. William Bristo, P.M. and Treasurer 860, in the chair.

WE are compelled to keep over till next week the following: “The Relationship of St. John to Freemasonry,” lodge reports—Nos. 861, 148, and 292; R.A. Chapters 177 and 581; Emulation Lodge of Improvement; K.T. Encampment, Prescott; Rose Croix Chapter, Bournemouth; and consecration of Palestine Chapter.

THE BEST PUDDING.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.NOTICE.

Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY of MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained 24 PRIZE MEDALS

in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, is introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits; and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maze Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place

For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of touch, as in the piano, is attained, and the merriest of dance tunes may be played with no lack of sprightliness and celerity. The quality of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification.

Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in

Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT, for Producing a Real Sea Bath in your own room! May be used warm, tepid, or cold. Five ounces should be added to each gallon of water.—Sold by Chemists and Druggists, in bags and boxes of 7lbs., 14lbs., 28lbs., 56lbs., and 1 cwt. Beware of imitations.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT, used Daily, produces astonishing effects in cases of Debility, Lassitude, &c. It invigorates more effectively and naturally than any other remedy.—Sold in bags and boxes by all Chemists and Druggists. N.B. Particularly see that each packet bears our trade mark.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT Supplies the very Want of the age, presenting to every one the pleasures of sea bathing, without the necessity of a residence on the coast. Extract: "I find your Sea Salt quite charming."—Sold by Chemists and Druggists. Beware of imitations.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT is not merely a Healthful luxury, but has produced really wonderful effects in many cases of Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprained Joints, &c.—Sold by Chemists and Druggists. Beware of imitations.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT, used Daily, immensely benefits Weakly Infants, strengthening the limbs, developing the muscles, and invigorating the whole system. It greatly assists in forming a sound constitution.—Sold by Chemists and Druggists. Beware of imitations.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT should be used in every nursery. Its wonderful strengthening powers are there exhibited in the most striking manner. For very young children the bath should be tepid.—Sold in bags and boxes by Chemists and Druggists. N.B. Particularly see that each package bears our trade mark.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT is superior to any other preparation in the world, as by the process employed in its manufacture all the medicinal and invigorating properties of sea water, eliminated in other cases by the ordinary operations of refining and purifying, are retained in full activity.

TIDMAN'S SEA SALT Effectually Relieves Tender Feet.—They should be bathed night and morning with a solution prepared by dissolving five or six ounces of the salt in a gallon of cold water.—Sold by Chemists and Druggists. Beware of imitations.

FREEMASONRY IN ENGLAND.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

THE "ANCIENTS."

At the meeting of Grand Lodge in September, 1761, it was resolved that no person should be made a Mason for a less sum than two guineas, out of which five shillings were to be paid to the Grand Charity Fund, and the Secretary's fee of one shilling for registration. It was also ordered that the whole initiation fee should be paid on the night of admission, under severe penalties for disobedience or evasion of the rule.

The Earl of Kelly was re-elected Grand Master on St. John the Evangelist's Day, 1761, and Bro. Osborn was re-installed as Deputy. On the 2nd June, 1762, in response to a letter from Bro. Calder, Grand Secretary of Ireland, it was resolved that a constant correspondence be maintained with the Grand Lodge of Ireland. At the same time it was stated that the Irish Grand Lodge had determined "not to admit any sojourner from England (as a member, or petitioner, &c.) without producing a certificate of his good behaviour, under the seal of the Ancient Grand Lodge in London". The Grand Master was re-chosen at the December meeting, and the public thanks of the fraternity were ordered to be given to Bro. Osborn, for his good government as Deputy Grand Master. Bros. Dickey and Garnault, were elected Grand Wardens. On the 7th December, 1763, the Earl of Kelly was again selected for the post of Grand Master, and Bros. Dickey and Gibson were chosen as Wardens. On the 6th June, 1764, the brethren meeting under dispensation at the "Bishop Blaze," in Shoreditch, were ordered to be constituted as a regular lodge. At this Communication a Grand Treasurer was elected in the person of Bro. Matthew Beath, who secured 33 votes to 22 recorded for his opponent, Bro. Joseph Reed. On the 5th September, 1764, the members of the Lodge No. 110 were admonished for admitting "Modern Masons" into their lodge, an additional proof that the Ancients felt their strength at this period, and had begun to reciprocate the anathemas fulminated against them by the regular Grand Lodge. Bro. William Dickey, S.G.W., succeeded Bro. Osborn in the office of Deputy Grand Master on the 27th December, 1764, and the Wardens selected, were Bros. James Gibson and John Howell, but at the meeting held on the 5th June following the latter was displaced, and was succeeded by Bro. Richard Swan, who obtained a majority over six other candidates, and it is worth noting that there was generally a keen contest for the Wardens' chairs. At the September meeting, Lodge No. 57 was erased from the roll, for resisting the authority of Grand Warden Swan, when he attended the lodge in his official capacity. An interesting discussion took place at this Communication of the Grand Lodge upon the right of Past Masters to membership therein, and the minutes relating thereto are of sufficient importance to bear quotation in extenso:—"Proposed that every Past Master shall be a member of, and have a vote in all Grand Lodge during his continuance (as) a member of any lodge under the Antient Constitution. This proposal occasioned long various debates, several of the Masters and Wardens argued strenuously against the motion, while the presiding officer and three Masters were the only persons who spoke in favour of it. At length an amendment was proposed and agreed (to), and then Grand Warden Gibson, the President, put the question in this form, viz., 'That regular Past Masters while members of private lodges under the sanction of this Grand Lodge shall be members hereof, and have votes in all cases except in making new laws.' Upon casting up the poll, the numbers appeared thus: for the Past Masters 48, against them 26 votes, majority for them 22." It was therefore ordered, that from and after the 3rd December, 1765, Past Masters should be entitled to sit and vote upon all questions "except in making new laws, which power is vested in the Masters and Wardens, as being the only true representatives of all the lodges according to the old regulation—the tenth."

There was no change of Officers at the election for the year 1766, and at the March meeting, after a petition for a lodge at Bridgewater had been favourably received, "the Grand Officers and others, in fourteen coaches and chariots, went in Masonical procession to his Lordship, the Grand Master's house near Soho-square, and from thence, through Hampstead and Highgate, back to dinner at the Five Bells Tavern, Strand."

The "RECTANGULAR REVIEW," on
"Freemasonry: its Use and Abuse."BY BRO. FREDERICK BINCKES, Secretary Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

[SECOND NOTICE.]

"Nothing extenuate, nor ought set down in malice."

To the author of the article under consideration the first portion of this admonition is unquestionably of easy observance. I wish he would seriously ponder the latter clause—to its disregard must be attributable the letter in your columns of the 3rd inst. in reply to my former notice.

"The Editor R. R." says: "First, he must remark that it is hardly fair for Bro. Binckes to have brought Bros. Hervey, Farnfield, and Patten into the discussion, as they were in no way referred to." The inference from this is, that the institution with which I am connected myself was referred to; but how so more than the brethren specified? The language of the article in "R. R." is—"the Masonic Institutions for Boys and Girls at Wood Green and Battersea Rise respectively, for the Aged Freemasons' Institution at Croydon, and for monthly distribution by the Board of Benevolence." Surely, this is sufficiently impartial and inclusive, and is pointed as forcibly to the one as to the other of the several bodies named.

"The Editor R. R." calls attention to my statement that the average annual amount of office expenditure by the Boys' School is £910, and throws doubt upon its accuracy, because in the published accounts there is shown a receipt for the year 1869 of £12,847, while "the total expenses of the establishment at Wood Green, and the office expenses above, are put down at £4,671." This, he says, shows that "not much more than one-third of the amount collected is actually expended on the boys;" and he then proceeds, "The question may fairly be asked, What becomes of the remaining £8,175?" Now, short of charging gross malversation, misapplication, or misappropriation in plain words, what can be clearer than the imputation thus conveyed? Would any unprejudiced reader believe that the "Editor," having the printed report in his hands, had only to turn a leaf to find a full analytical statement of the purposes for which the £8,175 were expended? Does he, or does he not, know that this institution was, and is, burdened with debt? and that the money received in excess of that required for annual maintenance has been, and is, devoted to the reduction of that debt, or for other equally legitimate objects? In his wild raid upon the "tribe of people" whom he has held up to public reprobation, because their exertions are deemed worthy of reasonable remuneration, does this exemplary "Editor" mean to assert that all sums received beyond those needed for present wants are absolutely squandered, or diverted for purposes not contemplated by the donors? Suppose the surplus funds to be invested—as, happily for them, is the case with the sister institutions—are the managers to be exposed to the indignity of having to answer such an accusation as that so unfairly brought by this new censor? We are taught that the suppressio veri is equivalent to the suggestio falsi, and I believe that the latter is as bad, if not worse, than the former. Will the "Editor" condescend to a study of this consideration?

On the subject of "Stewards' Fees" I have in my former notice said sufficient in explanation, and I decline to repeat myself.

It is not that I "seem to court an inquiry;" I do most honestly and sincerely demand inquiry, feeling conscious of my ability to give a satisfactory reply to every cavil or objection that may, or can, be raised in connection with the expenditure and management of this institution. Anything more flagrantly unjust to the many earnest, generous brethren who devote largely both time and money for the furtherance of the interests of our institutions, or to those who fill responsible positions therein, than such rash, inconsiderate charges as those directly expressed by this "Editor," who now states explicitly that "the principal intention of the article was to attack the active members of the committee of Boys' and Girls' Schools, and to charge them with a misapplication of the funds," cannot be devised. They must, however, as the result of investigation, "return to plague the inventor."

Angry at the exposure of injustice and unfairness, our worthy "Editor" says that I have "evidently forgotten the true Masonic secret—silence." For his own reputation's sake, I would he had remembered it. Has he forgotten the three great principles upon which, we are told, our Order is founded? If so, let me remind him that of these the third is Truth. For myself, I would rather forget a secret than sacrifice a principle.

Let us now turn our attention to another section (13) of "Freemasonry: its Use and Abuse," headed "Misapplication of Funds," which commences thus: "As an instance of misapplication of money subscribed for educational and charitable purposes, and the arbitrary and irresponsible action of committees, we may mention that, to our own personal knowledge, in the course of the present year very large sums have been awarded to artists, musicians, and other professionals, out of the funds which the donors certainly had no intention should be applied to such a purpose. In one instance where the brother, unknown to fame, received several hundred pounds, the recipient (notice the fact) was himself a member of the committee that made the grant." Well, here is language unmistakeably plain and vigorous—no hinting an idea, or hesitating a suspicion; but "mark how plain a tale shall set him down." Not one shilling from "funds subscribed for educational and charitable purposes" has been awarded to "musicians and other professionals." Such payments, as before observed, came from the funds contributed by Stewards for festival purposes. To an artist, money has been paid from the funds of the Boys' and Girls' Schools, and to this, of course, our "Editor" refers in his letter when he asks, "What right had these gentlemen to vote £240 for a purpose not intended by the donors?" and when he pleasingly states that, "It would be better for those who 'kissed the beauty' to pay for the pleasure out of their own pockets." The basis for this, almost, vituperative indignation is this: Bro. B. Bond Cabbell—whose name is a household word in the charitable world—held the office of Treasurer to the Boys' School 22 years, from 1847, and also to the Girls' School 30 years, from 1839. In 1869 Bro. Cabbell resigned, having during the whole of his lengthy Masonic career taken an active interest in the management of both Institutions, and having year by year been a liberal contributor to their funds. So highly were his services and generosity appreciated, that it was thought desirable to perpetuate their remembrance by placing a portrait in each Institution. The subject was mooted in General Committee (of which all Life-Governors are members) considered, discussed at subsequent meetings until formal notice was given, and published in the advertisement convening the Quarterly General Court of the whole of the Subscribers, which appeared in three daily papers, and in the Masonic publications. At the Quarterly Court of each school, a resolution sanctioning the necessary outlay, worded in deservedly complimentary terms, was unanimously adopted, and Bro. Rosenthal was commissioned to paint two portraits, full-length, of life size. Bro. Rosenthal undertook the commission on the very reduced terms of 120 guineas for each portrait, and spontaneously offered to return out of this sum 50 guineas to the funds of each school, so that the outlay so strongly condemned amounts to the gross sum of 140 guineas, instead of £240. Bro. Cabbell, happily, still survives, and it would be bad taste to defend this expenditure by a public acknowledgment of his long and valuable services. Of the artist selected—the "brother unknown to fame"—a few words will not be out of place. Bro. Rosenthal, it is true, is one of hundreds who by virtue of their liberality have qualified themselves as members of the General Committee. He never took part in any discussion on the subject of the portraits, and was proposed as the painter in his absence. So far from being "unknown to fame," he has an extended reputation, and has received the patronage of crowned heads, his portraits being universally considered highly meritorious both as works of art and as faithful embodiments of the "form and fashion" of those whose figures live and glow on his canvas. In justice to the Committee, as well as to Bro. Rosenthal, who has fallen under the editorial lash, I quote the following from the Illustrated Times, of 26th October, 1867:—"I have just paid a visit to Red Lion-square to the studio of Mr. Rosenthal, one of the few portrait-painters whose ability has maintained the position of that branch of art in this country. Amongst several pictures remarkable for their faithful execution and marvellous finish, were portraits of Alderman Sir William Rose, Alderman Lawrence, Karl Verner, the celebrated German artist, Mdle. Titiens, Mdle. Adelina Patti, and other celebrities. The great attraction, however, was the portrait of the Queen, which is about to be sent to India, where it will occupy a place in the Viceregal Palace. Her Majesty is represented in all the splendour of her earlier years, seated on the throne, wearing the crown, and regally attired in a robe of white satin and a mantle of purple velvet. The brilliant colouring and exquisite finish of the picture cannot be surpassed, and its masterly treatment must enhance the reputation of the artist."

Enough for the present. I am truly sorry to intrude at such length upon the pages of THE FREEMASON, but "the matter being Masonic and the subject charity," and so much misrepresentation having been publicly disseminated, I cannot refrain from doing what in me lies to disabuse the minds of those to whom we have to appeal for sympathy and assistance, and who would feel themselves justified in withholding both were such statements as those under discussion allowed to pass unrefuted.

ORIGIN OF MASONRY.

BY BRO. W. P. BUCHAN.

The following remarks, &c., have been called forth by a perusal of the "Origin of Masonry," written by Bro. G. W. Steinbrenner and published by Macoy and Sickels, of New York. At page 16, the author very sensibly says:—"Yet even at this day (1864) the most confused, absurd, and discordant opinions prevail regarding the origin of the Fraternity. In very many instances, Masonic authors, blinded by a foolish vanity and by a desire of proving the vast antiquity of the Institution, have strenuously combated the idea that the Fraternity was derived from the operative masons, or have allowed themselves to be deceived and led into error by the peculiar symbolic representations and ceremonies of our present rituals, and their striking resemblance to those of the ancient mysteries. Instead of endeavouring to ascertain how and when these forms, symbols, and ceremonies were introduced into our present system, they leap at once to the conclusion that these are derived directly from the religious mysteries of the ancients. Each fancied resemblance, or agreement with some symbol or alleged custom of these ancient mysteries is seized upon as a sure and reliable indication of a direct connection; and, thus, they not unfrequently involve themselves in matters which have not the slightest bearing on the subject in question."

Page 26: "Nothing more can be understood by its origin than that period when its principles were systematized and the Institution organised by mutual association." Taking the author's view of the meaning of the word "origin," I would almost be inclined to say that our "present system" had its origin in London in A.D. 1717. However, in order to save dispute as to the meaning of "origin" I put it that our "present system" was instituted and inaugurated in 1717.

At page 29 he says: "Intelligent and impartial brethren place their reliance only on the authentic records and history of their Fraternity, and maintain that nursery tales must henceforth be confined to the nursery."

At page 33 he alludes to a work, "The Secret History of Freemasonry: London, 1725," and afterwards proceeds to analyse its evidence.

At page 46: "In comparing the social organisation, customs, and doctrines of Freemasonry with those of the mediæval building associations, we find indications of a close historical connection (?) existing between the two institutions. For example, we find that the following peculiar usages and customs were common to the Fraternity of Freemasons of the present day and to that of the 'Steinmetzen'—stone-masons, stone-cutters—of Germany. (Why say 'of Germany' par excellence?) 1. The division or classification of their members into Masters, Fellow-Crafts, and Apprentices."

Now, before going any further, I object to the words "historical connection" being used, the reality being merely an intentional manufactured close resemblance in many things, especially in words; and as for the old Masters, Fellow-Crafts, and Apprentices, these were different classes of men, working together and mixing among each other, and with "secrets" common to all, whereas our Masterships, Fellow-Craftships, and Apprenticeships are simply degrees of initiation. In certain Scottish sixteenth-century statutes we read that Apprentices were bound to be present at the admission of all Masters and Fellows; hence, they would see whatever simple ceremony was done. He also asserts that "The form of opening and closing their assemblies" was the same among the old operative Masons as now among us; as also that "The ritual of initiation or reception into the Fraternity" was the same some centuries ago as now. Now, I deny both of these last assertions, and at least challenge proof. I am inclined to believe that the customs of the old (in or before the sixteenth century) masons at their meetings were merely similar to those of other trades. The opened box was generally the sign of the opened meeting, and the ceremony at the admission of new members very simple, and without any of the symbolic system manufactured when our present system was inaugurated in 1717. However, a "book" was sometimes used before 1717, when females were admitted as well as men, which latter circumstance especially shows a similarity to other co-existing guilds or sodalities.

Pages 52 and 53, about the old monks and their works, are worthy of much further elucidation and examination, so that what is said may be reliable, and our knowledge of the works of these, in many respects, worthy men extended.

At page 55 he begins to give the Germans the credit of originating the Pointed Gothic, and of carrying it to perfection! but I am much afraid his views there anent are, to say the least, purely imaginary, and only to be excused upon the plea that the writer is himself a German, and therefore wishes to hand over to his Fatherland the credit of whatever is great and good. The German Pointed Gothic was copied from France in the thirteenth century. And just as Germany copied Gothic Masonry from France in the thirteenth century, so did it copy or adopt Speculative Masonry from England in the eighteenth, and in both instances to mar it. For as the great beauty of true Freemasonry is its universality, so the German Masonic statute which excludes the Jew is a great blot upon the Order. More especially, when we consider what we all owe to the Jews. While the soil of Germany and England was trodden by rude and untutored men, the Jew was acting as the pioneer of the highest intellectual progress. More than three thousand years ago we find the Jew addressing the Great Architect of the Universe Himself, in language which is still unsurpassed for sublimity and beauty. While many of his neighbours worshipped the thing created, he addressed the Creator: Himself. Both France and England were much ahead of Germany in that matter, then, and the remains of the Pointed Gothic of either is much superior to German. In fact, instead of Germans carrying the art to perfection, they degraded it. They were first taught the art by French workmen in the thirteenth century, and then did the very opposite of improving upon their masters. In the thirteenth century the Germans forsook their own Round-arched style before they had had time to perfect it, and began a slavish copying of the new style of their French neighbours. Besides, before they had got a proper hold of it, they lost the grand moving spirit of the French and English Pointed Gothic. When the German Masons got hold of the work independent of the clergy, then farewell to real progress, and then followed fancy nick-nacks, Chinese pagodas for spires, &c., &c.

The following quotation is a fair specimen of the effect produced when our author himself allows his imagination to run away with his judgment—a wished-for fiction taking the place of fact—viz., “Unfettered by the shackles of arbitrary foreign laws and forms, and supported by a brilliant and matured science of technics, the national fancy gave utterance to its deepest thoughts (vagaries?) for the first time, in its own language; and the German Gothic style of architecture made its appearance.” Yea, verily, the German Masons might be good builders and hardy steinmetzen, but they were hardly the best of architects.

At page 61 the author leads us to infer that the only, or at least the chief skilled artisans of the 13th century were the “Steinmetzen or stone-cutters of Germany,” and that they were the fathers of all the others; but if we examine the very buildings he points to in support of his ideas we soon perceive his mistake. He speaks of the church of St. Gereon began about 1201 and vaulted about 1227; but it is nearly century behind in the employment of all those expedients which give character and meaning to the true Pointed Style. The St. Elizabeth, dedicated in 1283, has all its details of good early French style. And has for Cologne, began about A.D. 1270 (not “1248”), what is it but a grand copy, and that a late one, too, at least after many of the great French cathedrals were finished in all essentials. And certainly the design of it is anything but perfect; and not equal to what we would have expected, under similar circumstances, from either a good French or English architect of the period. As I have stated, the French were considerably before the Germans, as the dates and style of the following French cathedrals will show—viz., Paris, began 1163, and west front finished 1214; Chartres, going on about 1200; Rheims, began in 1211, and completed in all essentials in 1241; Amiens, began in 1220, and completed in 1257. So here we have all these glorious French works executed years before Cologne was even begun! And yet Bro. Steinbrenner would have us believe that it was the Cologne Masons who were the grand teachers par excellence of Pointed Gothic! No, no, Bro. Steinbrenner, that stone won't pass, you must get posted up in your chronology a little better, or else you will be telling us next that it was that imaginary prodigy, Erwin von Steinbach, who designed Salisbury Cathedral and the unequalled crypt of Glasgow, while Albertus Magnus superintended the restoration of Canterbury and drew the designs for Lincoln. We hear a great deal of foolish and misplaced praise lavished upon the spire of Strasburg; but although its height seems to make people stare, it is not, therefore, either beautiful or artistic. There is ten times more beauty in the smaller spire of St. Pierre, Caen, and to raise Strasburg to a level with Chartres would be a mistake.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy. Select Testimonials. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the “Anti-Lancet,” says: “I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease.”—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthmas, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweat, of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. *Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on “Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels,” a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Advt.]

“The RELATION of St. JOHN the EVANGELIST to FREEMASONRY.”

[A CRITICISM.]

BY BRO. SAMUEL EVANS, BOSTON, U.S.

An article appeared under the above caption in THE FREEMASON for October 29th from the pen of “Bro. Chalmers I. Paton, Member of the Masonic Archæological Institute of England, etc., etc.” The title under which the paper was put forth, and the naming of its author's literary relationships, led me to look for something substantial, as well as interesting, upon the subject to which attention was thus directed. During years I have been interested in the question of the relationships of St. John the Evangelist, and various other St. Johns, to Freemasonry, and have never been able to discover that any such relationship existed, or could, with any respectable degree of plausibility, be shown ever to have existed. It can, therefore, be well imagined that I perused with much interest Bro. Paton's paper for the purpose of finding out what more could be said that was either new or true on so threadbare a theme by a member of an Archæological Institute. Yet I must say that I find myself unable to discover anything in the whole four columns that is new or true on the relationship of the Evangelist to Freemasonry. I expected to find, and the heading of the article would entitle any and every reader of it to expect, that an attempt would be made at something like a scientific investigation and statement of facts calculated to establish the relationship asserted to exist between the Apostle St. John and the Masonic Institution. But do we find in the article the slightest possible proof that the author has made any such investigation? Or, if he has, where, within the long four columns of THE FREEMASON, does he state the result of any such scientific investigation? He tells us of the relationship of the John in question to the Great Teacher whose disciple and follower he was; but what has the relationship of John to Jesus to do with the relationship of John to Freemasonry? All that Bro. Paton has written with respect to the intimacy, and the nature of the intimacy, subsisting between the Founder of Christianity and his beloved pupil and follower may be correct and in accordance with the facts; but it is no part of my province now to inquire as to that. Still, the bearing which that has, or can possibly have, by any show of reasoning whatever, upon the relationship of the Apostle John to Freemasonry remains to be seen, and I opine will remain in that invisible condition for the remainder of time.

A principal tenet of Freemasonry is Truth. Now, there is a certain degree of relationship between all truth—truth of morality and sentiment, truth of science and history. Each and every particular truth is related more or less intimately with each and every other particular truth, and with all truth in the aggregate and in the absolute; and one of the highest and deepest studies in which the human mind can interest itself is that which would seek out and reveal those relationships. But the fact that John taught the love doctrine, and inculcated Fraternity nearly two thousand years ago, and in a country which, if it knows anything of Freemasonry to-day, received it from England, or from some organisation that did receive it from England, is no evidence of his relationship to Freemasonry, which also entertains and is based upon the principle of Fraternity.

The relationship of Confucius to Freemasonry is of the same order as that of St. John the Evangelist, for that Chinese sage taught truths which Freemasons accept, and which may be found exemplified in Masonic rituals and lectures; and yet what intelligent man or Mason will pretend that Confucius had any actual relationship, as a person, with Freemasonry? Such kind of relationship is purely speculative, and in no sense whatever historical.

The idea of saints' patronage is universally discarded by intelligent men, and the Masonic Institution should consist of none other than intelligent men. Now, I do not think that any reader of THE FREEMASON, or any writer to it, would admit that he believed that any relationship, or connexion of any kind whatever, subsists to-day between St. John, in heaven, and Freemasonry, on earth. This harping on St. John the Evangelist, Baptist, or Almoner, is evil, and only evil; as our expression of that sectarianizing tendency so rife now in England and America—which every believer in cosmopolitan Freemasonry must deeply mourn the presence of—with increasing activity within the borders of our Institution.

When in the concluding paragraph of Bro. Paton's paper he commences to say, “It is also related by ancient and eminent Masonic authority,” etc., etc., and then proceeds with the story of St. John the Evangelist accepting the Grand Mastership in Freemasonry when he was ninety years old or thereabouts—when Bro. Paton writes thus, he confers upon me the right to challenge him, in the interests of archæology itself, and of the readers of THE FREEMASON also, to give us in the columns of THE FREEMASON the name of that “ancient and eminent Masonic authority” who puts forth that long-ago exploded fable and baseless legend as sober and veracious history. It should not be permitted that a statement so bold as that which Bro. Paton claims to have support in making from “ancient and eminent Masonic authority” should appear in THE FREEMASON, and let that “authority” remain nameless, and the authority on which that “authority” is based.

I now surrender the floor to Bro. Paton, and patiently await his reply.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The usual monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Boys' School was held in the board-room of the Freemasons' Hall, on Saturday, the 3rd inst., Bro. Browne, chairman; and there were present: Bros. Binckes, Farnfield, Head, Symonds, R. Steward, Shields, Sheen, Walters, Weaver, Meggy, Chancellor, Turner, Rosenthal, Spencer, and several others. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and the minutes of the House Committee were also read.

Eight candidates were accepted; one from London to enter by purchase, after the necessary forms are gone through.

The Senior Vice-President present, Bro. Symonds, proposed in eloquent and forcible terms, and Bro. B. Head, V.P., seconded, “That a minute be placed on the books expressing the deep regret all felt for the loss of Bro. John Udall, P.G.D. and V.P. of all the charities” (who had died since the last meeting of the committee). Carried unanimously.

A vote of thanks to the chairman brought the meeting to a close.

“AFTER suffering many years from an indigestion and biliousness, for which I could find no remedy, I was at length induced to try your Vegetable Pain Killer, the first bottle of which gave me entire and permanent relief.—J. L. HAYLOCK, Manchester, July, 1867.—To Perry Davis & Son.”

TIC DOLOREUX, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Lumbago, and all singular complaints, cured by Dr. Gee's Anodyne (embrocation). Price, 2s. 9d., or sent for 3s. It has never yet failed. Read testimonials and judge for yourselves. Agents, T. Barton and Co., 269, Strand, W.C. [Advt.]

Beck, H. W. Lindus, J. Hart, R. Bolton, G. F. Swan, F. Binckes, S. G. Foxall, J. M. Chamberlain, W. Dodd.

The various grants made by the Board of Benevolence were also confirmed.

The M.W.G. Master, the Earl de Grey and Ripon, was nominated as the G.M. for the next year. Bro. Clabon was appointed by the G. Master as President of the Board of Benevolence. The balloting papers were then distributed by the Deacons, and the brethren proceeded to elect the Vice-President and twelve Past Masters to serve on the Board. The election resulted as follows; Bros. Joshua Nunn, Senior V.P.; James Brett, Junior V.P.; and Bros. Bywater, Cook, Cottel-brune, Gale, Garrod, Hulsey, Hogg, Kirke, Mann, S. May, Saunders, and Sheen, members.

A discussion then followed as to the alteration the Board of Benevolence had made in the hour of meeting, from seven till six, without the sanction of the Grand Lodge, and it was ultimately agreed that the Board should meet at the original hour of seven, and that it be settled by next Grand Lodge at what hour the Board should in future meet.

Bro. B. Baker, in pursuance of notice, moved a grant of £100 from the Fund of General Purposes to the Refugees' Benevolent Fund, established by the Dowager Marchioness of Lothian, to find homes and assistance for French, German, and British who have been compelled by the war to leave their homes on the Continent and fly to England.

Bro. Bennoch seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Grand Lodge was then closed in ample form and adjourned.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.—This wonderful ointment acts like magic in the dispersion of all sores and eruptions of the skin. When rubbed on the surface, it penetrates and purifying each tissue in its passage, exerts the most wholesome influence over the external organs. It is an invaluable application for all ulcers, sores, burns, and scalds, and in the various cutaneous eruptions incidental to childhood, Holloway's Ointment always effects a thorough cure. Rubbed on the parts affected, it reduces tumours, glandular swellings and similar enlargements, and is the best remedy for dyspepsia. In bad legs, old wounds, scrofula and scorbutic eruptions, Holloway's cooling and healing ointment will readily bring about a cure without irritating the nerves, weakening the system, or occasioning danger.—Advt.]

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Royal Athelstan Lodge, No. 19.—The regular meeting of this old lodge was held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Thursday, the 8th inst., Bro. Pollard, W.M. There was not any work before the lodge. The election resulted in Bro. Williams, S.W., as W.M., and Bro. Starling, P.M. Treas. re-elected. The election of of Tyler was deferred until the next meeting. Lord Milton, No. 6, was proposed as a joining member. The lodge was closed, and a banquet followed.

Robert Burns' Lodge, No. 25.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 5th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Charles A. Long, W.M., presiding. There were also present: Bros. Welch, P.M. and Treas., as S.W.; Arnold, J.W.; J. Dyte, P.M., Sec.; Wingham, S.D.; E. W. Long, J.D.; Powell, I.G.; W. Watson, P.G.S., P.M.; Nicholls, P.M.; Dicketts, P.M.; Bley, P.M.; Hartley P.M.; and many others. Bro. Dr. G. De Griffiths was raised to the third degree, the ceremony being impressively rendered. Bro. Arnold, J.W., was unanimously elected W.M.; Bro. Welch, P.M., unanimously re-elected Treas.; and Bro. Radford, P.G.S. of Cheshire, unanimously re-elected Tyler. The usual Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to the W.M. for his efficient services rendered to the lodge. The Audit Committee having been elected, the lodge was closed. The usual good banquet and dessert then followed, and toasts were given and received. Visitors: Bros. F. Walters, W.M. 1309; Hicks, &c. The Robert Burns' Lodge of Instruction is held every Friday evening at half-past seven o'clock precisely, at the Union Tavern, Air-street, Regent-street, W.—Bro. W. Watson, P.G.S., P.M., Preceptor.

Lion and Lamb Lodge, No. 192.—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Thursday, the 1st inst., Bro. E. Roberts, W.M., in the chair, supported by his officers as follows: Bros. George Kenning, S.W.; J. J. Harris, J.W.; William Goodyer, P.M., Treas.; J. G. Marsh, P.M., Sec.; F. Trott, S.D.; George Abbott, J.D.; A. J. Dickinson, I.G.; George Newman, Steward; including also the following P.M.'s and members: Bros. E. King, P.M.; Charles Hosgood, P.M.; Strickland Muggeridge, P.J.W.; H. Davis, W. Putman, A. C. Payne, Thomas Fisher, R. E. Bright, S. T. Lucas, H. Legg, H. Griffin, S. Haynes, S. J. Newman, Charles Arkell, George Cates, W. Hargood, W. R. Baker, George Panker, George Edward Baker, A. Garnett, A. F. Iselton, T. Cohu, J. Kent, J. Elliott, William Younger, B. Marsland, Charles Cann, E. Jones, E. Taylors J. R. Schu, and J. M'Kiernan. The lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the 2° and 3°, and Bros. Payne and Putnam, being present, were duly raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The lodge having been resumed in the 1° and opened in the 2°, Bros. Garnett and Newman were duly passed to the degree of F.C. The lodge having been resumed in the 1°, the following gentlemen were unanimously elected by ballot: Messrs. G. B. Clements, Wm. Donne, and Frank Baker. Mr. Baker, being present, was regularly initiated into the ancient mysteries of the Order. The lodge then proceeded, according to ancient custom, to the election of Master for the ensuing year. The ballot resulted in favour of Bro. George Kenning, S.W., who was declared to be elected Master of the lodge for the year ensuing. Bro. W. Goodyer, P.M., who has held the office of Treasurer for several years, was unanimously elected to that office. A notice of motion having been proposed by Bro. Goodyer, "That a P.M.'s jewel be presented to Bro. E. Roberts, W.M., on his retirement from the chair," the lodge was closed in due form and adjourned. The lodge was favoured by the presence of several visitors: Bros. A. Bryant, P.M. 192 and S.W. 12; H. D. Halliday, 188; S. P. Wilkinson, 766; Henry Bartell P.M. 50 (Ireland); H. F. Kirk, J.D. 144; W. Thomas, J.W. 173. The W.M. and brethren repaired to a sumptuous banquet provided by Bro. Sydney Spencer, the excellent caterer of the company, which gave general satisfaction. Bro. E. Roberts, W.M., who presided, gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts in a spirited manner. Bros. Halliday, Bartell (Ireland), and A. Bryant responded for the visitors in very excellent speeches, particularly complimenting the W.M. on his excellent working of the three degrees, which, it will be remembered by many, is that of the late Bro. Peter Thompson, now ably taught by Bro. Henry Muggeridge (P.M. of this lodge) at the Stability Lodge of Instruction, held at the Guildhall Tavern, on every Friday evening during the session. The evening altogether was spent pleasantly and harmoniously, the usual and well-directed admonition of Bro. G. Smith, Tyler, bringing it to a close.

Finsbury Lodge, No. 861.—This lodge met on Friday, 25th ult., under the presidency of Bro. J. Nicholls, W.M. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of previous lodge were read and confirmed. A ballot was then taken for Messrs. John Menhinich and Reuben Leslie Hill, which, proving unanimous in their favour, they were severally introduced and initiated. Bro. Peake was passed to the second degree. Both ceremonies were beautifully performed. The W.M. having kindly undertaken the office of Steward to the Aged Freemasons' Festival, the sum of ten pounds was unanimously voted by the lodge, as also a handsome subscription contributed by the brethren. There being no more business, the lodge was duly closed. After the banquet the usual toasts were given, followed by that of "The Initiates," to which Bro. Hill ably responded. "The Visitors" was next given (who, upon this occasion, were numerous), Bro. Perrin, P.M. and father of the Temple Lodge (101), most ably responding. Some excellent singing and recitations enlivened the proceedings.

The Whittington Lodge, No. 862.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on the 19th ult., when Bro. James Weaver, W.M., presided, assisted in his Masonic labours by Bros. S. S. Davis, S.W.; J. D. Taylor, as J.W.; W. J. H. Jones, S.D.; A. Frickenhaus, J.D.; W. F. Smith, I.G., the Treas.; J. G. Thompson, P.M.; J. Brett, G.P.; D. J. Davis, P.M.; W. Hurlstone, P.M.; W. J. N. Quilty, P.M.; R. Wentworth Little, Sec.; and a large array of members and visitors, including Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex; J. Hervey, G. Sec.; F. Binckes, Sec. Boys' School; H. C. Levander, J. Stevens, J. Defries, C. Coote, E. Stanton Jones, and J. G. Marsh. During the evening the W.M. passed Bro. Kaye and initiated Messrs. Garu and Whitehead into the Order, one of the candidates being a Hindoo. He then installed the W.M.-elect, Bro. S. S. Davis, into the chair of K.S., the officers being appointed as follows: Bros. J. Salisbury, S.W.; Jones, J.W.; Thompson, Treas.; Little, Sec.; Frickenhaus, S.D.; Smith, J.D.; Seeley, I.G.; Brett, W.S.; Kingston, D.C. After the closing of the lodge, the brethren adjourned to the banqueting-room, under the presidency of the W.M., who acquitted himself to the admiration of all present. Several good speeches were made, especially those by Bro. Burdett, Hervey, Binckes, and the Hindoo brother, Cuddalore Garu, who spoke eloquently in praise of what he had seen and heard of Freemasonry. Bro. Weaver, the out-going Master, was presented with a handsome P.M.'s jewel as a token of esteem and in recognition of the able and kindly manner he has fulfilled the duties of the chair. The proceedings of the entire evening were a most decided success.

Perfect Ashlar Lodge, No. 1178.—This lodge held its regular meeting at the Gregorian Arms Tavern, Bermondsey, on Thursday, the 1st inst., Bro. J. Green, W.M., presiding. There were also present: Bros. G. J. Grace, S.W.; J. W. Dudley, J.W.; F. H. Ebsworth, P.M., Treas.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; J. H. Harmsworth, S.D.; J. H. Fudge, J.D.; T. W. Cox, I.G.; J. Ruse, W.S.; J. W. Avery, P.M.; W. May, J. A. Axtell, G. Mabbs, T. Jones, F. Cox, J. Swinyard, A. Collins, J. Wootton, C. D. Tustin, S. Butcher, P. Fry, J. A. Smith, G. Drapper, &c. Visitors: Bros. J. E. Bowles, P.M. 160; E. H. Tipton, S.W. and W.M.-elect 49; and J. P. Carter, 753. The work done was giving Bros. C. D. Tustin, T. Jones, F. Cox, J. Swinyard, and J. Wootton their second degree. The work was done in an admirable manner, and reflected great credit on the presiding officer, who was well supported by his subordinates. Some notices of motion for alteration of by-laws having been given, the lodge was closed. Banquet followed, when toasts, songs, and recitations brought the meeting to a close.

Star Lodge, No. 1275.—This prosperous lodge held its regular meeting on Friday, the 2nd inst., at the Marquis of Granby Tavern, Bro. W. Ough, P.G.P., W.M., presiding. Others present: Bros. C. J. Hogg, P.G.S., P.M., S.W.; H. Keeble, J.W.; J. Smith, P.G.P., P.M., Treas.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; S. Homewood, as S.D.; H. Crabtree, J.D.; G. Pymm, P.M., I.G.; T. R. Darke, D.C.; T. Whiteman, T. Hobson, W. B. Tustin, E. Harper, H. J. Clare, G. F. Guest, E. R. Chandler, W. J. Darke, W. Okey, and W. F. Wetten. The visitors were: Bros. J. R. Tustin, P.G.S. Herts; H. Bourne, P.M. 749; and G. Wilkes, 1075. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. A ballot was taken for Mr. Wetten, which resulted unanimously in his favour. The work done was giving Bros. G. F. Guest, W. J. Darke, C. R. Chandler, and W. Okey their third degree, and initiating Mr. W. F. Wetten. The work was well and admirably done. Bro. H. Keeble, J.W., was unanimously elected as the Steward to represent the lodge at the forthcoming festival, to be held on Wednesday, January 25th, for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Bro. J. Smith, P.G.P. and I. P.M., was unanimously elected as the Steward to represent the lodge at the festival to be held next May for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. All business being ended, the lodge was closed, when banquet followed, and the usual toasts were given and duly responded to. The brethren separated early.

PROVINCIAL.

WARRINGTON.—Lodge of Lights, No. 148.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms. Present: Bros. W. Smith, W.M.; W. Richardson, as S.W.; Jas. Jackson, J.W.; H. B. White, P.M. &c., Treas.; John Bowes, P.M. &c., Hon. Sec.; Rev. J. N. Porter, S.D.; P. Pearce, J.D.; P. J. Edelsten, as Org.; John Harding, I.G.; Robert Stevenson, Jas. Hepherd, and D. W. Finney, P.M.'s; W. Mossop, W.M. 1250; W. Woods, S.W. 1250; W. Crompton, W. Savage, Jas. Curry, Robert Richardson, Thos. Jones, Horatio Syred, John Fair, Thos. Morris, Jno. Pierpoint, C. N. Spinks, W. S. Hawkins, W. H. Robinson, Robt. Gibbons, Saml. Hunt, Jno. Laithwaite, W. H. Spring, Jos. Cassidy, Jos. Bancroft, A. Hutsman, Geo. Blackhurst, Jas. Hannah, Tyler. Visitors: Bros. S. J. Butcher, M.A., 95 Cork; Geo. Bowen (1045), Henry Balshaw (1045), Theo. Thistlethwaite (1250), Edwin Roberts (1250). The lodge was opened in due form, when the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Then the ballot was taken for Mr. John Hankinson Gomall, surgeon, and the Rev. John Deacon Massingham, D.D., LL.D., &c., &c., as candidates which proved in favour in each case, and the gentlemen being in attendance, were separately introduced and duly initiated by Bros. Bowes and Stevenson, the charge being delivered by the I.P.M., Bro. D. W. Finney. The next business was the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, when Bro. William Richardson was chosen. Bro. H. B. White was re-elected Treasurer for the tenth time. The By-laws were read, Auditors and Tyler elected, a brother proposed as a joining member, and a gentleman proposed as a candidate. There being no further business the lodge was closed with the usual solemnities, and the brethren separated in harmony.

LIVERPOOL.—Lodge of Sincerity, No. 292.—The usual meeting of this lodge was held at the Temple, Hope-street, on the Monday, the 14th ult. Present: Bros. Thos. Wylie, P.G.R., P.M., in the chair, Bros. Hamer, P.G. Treas., P.M., as S.W., (Bro. Pelham, S.W., being unfortunately absent through illness); R. Wylie, P.G.D.C., P.M., as Sec.; Hess, P.M., Treas.; Wilson, J.W.; Hustwick, J.D.; Elliot, M.C.; Evans, I.G.; and others. Also were present as visitors, Bros. Washington and Martin, 1094; Larsen, P.M.; and Richardson, 594. The business of the evening consisted in passing Bros. Fletcher and Richardson to the second degree, this degree being conferred on the latter brother in consequence of his early departure to sea, at the request of the W.M. of 594, and also the initiation of Mr. Lewellyn, into the first degree. The ceremonies were rendered by the P.G.R., with his accustomed carefulness, and ably supported by his officers, the S.W. pro tem. giving the working tools in both degrees, and the J.W. the charge in the first. After an application for relief had been responded to, there being no other business requiring attention, the lodge was closed with usual formalities, and the brethren adjourned to supper under the presidency of their W.M., who through private business had been unable to attend earlier, and under whose auspices a pleasant and instructive evening was afterwards spent.

LANCASHIRE.—Rowley Lodge, No. 1051.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Monday evening, the 5th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum. The chair of the lodge, in the absence of the W.M., was occupied by Bro. J. Daniel Moore, P.M., P.P.G.S. of W., who was supported by Bros. Bagnall, as I.P.M.; Mercer, S.W.; John Hatch, W.M. 281, as J.W.; W. Barker, Treas.; C. Dodson, S.D.; J. Coulon, J. Watson, and E. Simpson, P.M. 281. The lodge was opened, minutes read and confirmed, and other business transacted. The brethren then proceeded to the election of a W.M. for the ensuing year, which resulted in the unanimous election of Bro. N. G. Mercer, M.D., the present S.W. Bro. Wilson Barker was re-elected Treasurer, and Richard Taylor as Tyler. Sub-committees were formed for various purposes, and the installation fixed for Friday, 23rd inst. Ten votes of the lodge for the Royal Albert Asylum were considered and appropriated, and there being no other business before the lodge, it was closed in due form.

CONGRESBURY, SOMERSET.—Lodge of Agriculture, No. 1199.—The members of this lodge and several other brethren were in attendance on the 14th ult. Among those present were Bros. W. Partridge, W.M.; J. R. Bramble, P.M. and Prov. G. Reg., Bristol; A. W. Stiff, P.M.; G. J. M. Blackburne, S.W.; Rev. W. Hunt, J.W. and Prov. G. Chap., Somerset; Capt. W. Long, Treas. and Sec.; Dr. J. Hurd, D.C.; T. Pitt, S.D.; C. Edwards, J.D.; H. L. Ricketts, I.G.; C. Banwell, Tyler; J. Mounstevens, H. Bulpin, F. Wyndham, G. Nichols, C. Woodforde, Capt. Pinson, and Rev. H. French. The lodge was opened at 3 p.m., and the W.M. passed Bros. Nichols and Woodforde to the Fellow Craft degree, and having been closed in due form, the brethren adjourned to the annual banquet, the provision for which was most choice and bountiful, and gave great satisfaction. After the usual loyal toasts, the W.M. gave "The G.M. of England, the Earl de Grey and Ripon," in an appropriate and Masonic manner; in proposing "The D.P.G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon," he said the province of Somerset may well be proud of having the noble Earl as their P.G.M., and remarked that not only was he an ornament to the Craft but was ever to be found associated with every good work, that could tend to alleviate distress, and promote the welfare of the human race. Bro. the Rev. W. Hunt, P.G.C., replied for the Officers of P.G. Lodge, and proposed "The health of Bro. Partridge, the W.M.," and expressed the satisfaction of the brethren for the able manner in which he had performed the duties of the office, and especially thanked him for coming so great a distance in the interests of Masonry. The W.M. in reply, said it was a great pleasure to know that his labours were appreciated, and after referring to his associating to found the lodge, he would ever be ready to maintain and improve it, and earnestly advocate that all brethren who accepted office, should as far as was in their power perfect themselves in their several duties. The Officers of the lodge duly responded to their several healths, and Bro. Capt. Pinson for that of the Visitors, and expressed his desire to become a joining member. The unanimous thanks of all were given to Bro. Capt. Long for his excellent Stewardship, as also to Bro. Edwards for his liberal present of game. Many songs were sang, and a merry meeting most fraternally concluded at an early hour, and a vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. Sprod, whose arrangements were excellent.

SHEFFIELD.—Wentworth Lodge, No. 1239.—This young and exceedingly prosperous lodge held its second anniversary on Monday, the 5th inst., in the Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street. The lodge was opened at five o'clock by the W.M., Bro. H. Matthews, assisted by the officers; viz., Bros. H. J. Garnett, I.P.M. and Treas.; Adolph Pfeilschmidt, S.W.; Ashberry, J.W. Wostinholm, Sec.; Bennett, S.D.; Scargill, J.D.; Harvey, Org.; Tindall, as I.G.; Wilkinson, Tyler, and a large number of brethren and visitors, among whom we noticed: Bros. Longden, P.M., P.Z., P.P.G.J.D.; Drury, P.M. 296, P.Z., P.P.G.S.B.; Arnison, P.M. 296, P.Z., P.G.S.; Hay, P.M., P.Z. 139; Seebohm, W.M. 296; Perrot, W.M. 904; Crighton, P.M., St. Clairs Lodge, Edinburgh; Collinson, S.W., and W.M.-elect 139; Capt. Flockton,

S.W., and W.M.-elect 296; Dr. Saville, S.W. 904; Bromley 139, Moss 139, Acton 466, Hodges 633, Van der Vaut, Amsterdam, &c., &c. After the lodge had been opened in the second degree, the W.M. requested Bro. Hay, P.M. 139, to take the chair, to whom Bro. H. J. Garnett, P.M., presented Bro. Adolph Pfeilschmidt, the W.M.-elect, for the purpose of receiving at his hands the benefit of installation. Previous to a Board of Installed Masters being formed, all below that rank were ordered to retire; and on being re-admitted were informed by the Installing Officer, that during their absence, Bro. Pfeilschmidt had been placed in the chair of K.S. in due and ancient form. He was then proclaimed and saluted as usual. The admirable manner in which the ceremony was performed by Bro. Hay, elicited the warmest eulogiums from the brethren present, all agreeing that in the eloquent and impressive style in which it, and the subsequent addresses were rendered, he had on that occasion excelled himself. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers, giving the charges and addresses to each, viz.: Bros. Matthews, I.P.M.; Asberry, S.W.; Bennett, J.W.; Garnett, P.M., Treas.; Wostinholm, Sec.; Scargill, S.D.; Hampton, J.D.; Harvey, Org.; Tindall, I.G.; and Wilkinson, T. Bro. Garnett, P.M., was elected Charity Member of the lodge for the Province of West Yorkshire, and after two gentlemen had been proposed as candidates for initiation, the lodge was closed in due form, and with solemn prayer. The brethren then adjourned to the dining-hall, where upwards of 40 sat down to enjoy the banquet, which was of the most recherche description, and reflected the greatest credit on the Stewards, Bros. Garnett, P.M., and Bennett, J.W., who had spared no efforts to ensure the comfort of the brethren. The wines supplied by Bro. Hay, were of a high class, and gave universal satisfaction. After the cloth was cleared, the W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts which were well received. Bro. Matthews, P.M., then gave the toast of the evening, "The health of the W.M. of the Wentworth Lodge," in the course of which he said the selection of W.M. was of greater importance as far as regards the interest of a lodge; than perhaps many of the brethren were in the habit of attaching to it, although they must on reflection see, that by electing one to that important office, who had not shown some disposition to qualify himself to discharge its onerous duties; or who had not the interests of the Craft at heart, they would seriously compromise the welfare of their lodge; but he was glad to be able to congratulate the Wentworth Lodge on not having placed themselves in that unfortunate position, and it was with the greatest confidence he committed the affairs of the lodge to the charge of their new W.M., feeling assured its interests would not suffer in his hands. The toast was received with acclamation. The loving cup was then passed round, every brother drinking "The health of the W.M., wishing him a happy and prosperous year of office." The W.M. made an eloquent reply, after which the following toasts were given:—"The I.P.M., Bro. Matthews," by Bro. Hay, P.M.; "The Installing Officer, Bro. Hay, P.M.," by Bro. Garnett, P.M.; "The P.M.'s of the Wentworth Lodge," by Bro. Ashberry, S.W.; "The Sister Lodges," by the W.M., responded to by Bros. Collinson and Flockton, W.M.'s-elect of 139 and 296; "The Visiting Brethren," by Bro. Bennett, J.W.; "The Officers of the Wentworth Lodge," by Bro. Longden, P.M.; "The Masonic Charities," by Bro. Garnett, P.M., and responded by Bro. Arnison, P.M. The brethren then separated having spent a most enjoyable evening, which was much enlivened by the singing of Bros. Scargill, Ward, and others. Bro. Hervey, the Organist, presided at the piano.

MARKET RASEN.—Bayons Lodge, No. 1286.—This flourishing young lodge held an emergency meeting on Tuesday, the 29th ult. Present: Bros. H. E. Turnour, M.D., W.M., P.G.S.; G. J. Atkins, S.W.; E. E. Jevons, J.W.; H. C. Chambers, S.D.; F. W. Makins, J.D.; E. Strong, I.G.; G. Elwick, Tyler; the Rev. T. P. Holdich, Chaplain; the Rev. E. E. Hadath, P.M. 1232, P.P.G.C.; G. Saffrey, P.M.; T. S. Morrell, J. C. Harpur, F.C.; R. Favill, F.C.; the Rev. J. C. K. E.A.; Visitors, R. Hall, P.P.S.G.W., Lincoln; E. F. Broadbent, P.P.G.S., and P.Z.; F. R. Larken, P.M., P.G.S.B.; R. C. Carline, W.M. 297, Witham; W. Watkins, S.W. 297; R. J. Ward, J.W. 297; C. Scorer, S.D. 297; E. J. Cullen, J.D. 297; C. J. Hayward 297, H. Fortherby; Hamer, Smyrna; and the Rev. T. S. Pepper 712, Lindsey. The lodge was opened in the first degree, and Bro. Saunders having been examined, retired, and on re-admission was passed to the second degree. Bros. Harper and Favill were then examined, and, on returning were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, in a very effective and masterly manner by Bro. F. R. Larken, P.M. 297, P.G.S.B. The lodge was reduced to the first degree, and closed in due form, with solemn prayer. The brethren adjourned to Bro. Atkins, the White Hart Hotel for refreshment, when twenty-four sat down to a bountiful repast (the fish being especially commended) prepared in host Atkins' well-known superior style. The W.M., Bro. H. E. Turner, M.D., presiding, Bro. G. J. Atkins, S.W., vice. The following toasts were duly honoured:—"The Queen and the Craft," "The Prince of Wales," "The G.M. Earl de Grey and Ripon," having been proposed, Bro. the Rev. J. P. Holdich, responded to "The Bishop and the Clergy of Diocese" in an effective speech, and Bros. Broadbent and Chambers, on behalf of "The Army, Navy and Volunteers," Bro. Atkins proposed "The W.M., Officers, and Brethren of the Witham Lodge," and Bro. Carline W.M., responded; Bro. Hall proposed "the W.M., Officers, and brethren of the Bayons Lodge," and in the course of his speech made some flattering remarks on the position of the lodge. The W.M. made a feeling reply, thanking the Lincoln brethren for their attendance, and also their assistance that evening, and expressing the hope of seeing them there again. Bro. Jevons proposed "The health of Bro. Larken, Acting W.M. for the evening," and on behalf of the Bayons, tendered the thanks of the brethren for the very efficient manner in which that gentleman had conducted the raisings that evening. Bro. Larken replied, thanking the brethren for having received his name so kindly, and expressed the pleasure his visit had afforded him, and intimated his willingness to come again, to render any assistance in his power. "Bro. G. Saffrey P.M.," and other complimentary toasts followed, and on their conclusion the Lincoln brethren departed, with hearty good wishes from the Bayons, and hoping for a repetition for another merry meeting.

ROYAL ARCH.

Domestic Chapter, No. 177.—This old chapter met on the 24th ult. at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, under the sceptre of Comp. J. Coutts, the popular M.E.Z., who was supported by Comps. W. J. Gilbert, H.; G. Wilson, J.; T. Cubitt, N.; T. R. Foulger, P.S.; J. W. Barrett and A. T. Hayward, Assistants; also P.Z.'s Smith, Carpenter, Buss, Little, Sissons, Payne, Tyrrell and Adams, with Comps. Weaver, Org.; Willcox, Ash, &c. Bros. C. G. Hill and J. Roberts were duly exalted, after which the chapter was closed, and the companions then enjoyed two or three hours together at the festive board.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY. RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

Original or Premier Conclave of England.
A quarterly assembly of this distinguished conclave was held at Freemasons' Tavern, on Monday, the 5th instant. In the unavoidable absence of Illustrious Sir Knight J. Trickett, Intendant General for Kent, the M.P.S., whose public duties precluded his attendance, the chair was occupied by the G. Recorder, Sir Kt. R. Wentworth Little, P. Sov., the other officers and knights present being as follows: V.E. Sir Kt. Angelo J. Lewis, G.A.M.; V.E. G. Kenning, K.G.C., S.G.; H. C. Levander, G.A.T., as J.G.; W. H. Andrew, H.P.; T. Cubitt, G.A.H., Treas.; J. G. Marsh, G.A. Asst. Recorder; J. T. Moss, P.; E. Sillifant, S.B.; H. Parker, G.O. Org.; G. A. Taylor, Herald; Colonel F. Burdett, G.S.G.; Rev. T. F. Ravenshaw, G.H. Prelate; J. Hervey, G.H.C.; W. H. Hubbard, G.T.; Rev. G. Raymond Portal, M.A., Intendant Gen. Surrey, C.J.B. Plestow; J. W. Barrett, J. Taylor, T. Kingston, J. Dyer, T. B. Yeoman, J. Coutts, A. Codner, A. B. Donnithorne, and J. D. Larsen. Visitors: Ill. Kt. Capt. G. J. Gilbert, Intendant Gen. Gibraltar; F. H. Gottlieb, Int. Gen. Eastern Archipelago; F. Binckes, V.E.-elect No. 15; and F. Walters, P. Sov. No. 3. The conclave was duly opened, and the minutes were read and confirmed. Ballots were then taken for several candidates, and the following, being in attendance, were then admitted, received, constituted, and installed Knights of the Order: The Right Honourable Edward John Cornwallis, Lord Eliot, Past Senior Grand Warden of England; the Rev. Charles W. Spencer-Stanhope, P.M., P.P.G.C.; Andrew Hay, 33; D.S.G.W. Bombay; and Captain James Bertrand Payne, 18. The ceremony was rendered with musical accompaniments by the Grand Organist. Sir Kt. Little then proposed, Sir Kt. Ravenshaw, Grand Prelate, seconded, and it was unanimously resolved—"That the sum of £5 be voted from the Conclave Funds to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in the name of the M.P.S. for the time being, and be placed on the list of Ill. Sir Kt. H. G. Buss, G.H.A., as Steward representing the Red Cross Order at the festival on the 25th January, 1871.

Grand Council certificates were delivered to the members, and the conclave was closed in ancient form.

The knights then repaired to the refectory, where an excellent repast awaited them. After the removal of the cloth, the Acting M.P.S. proposed the usual loyal and Red Cross toasts, which were received with great cordiality. The Grand Prelate responded for the Grand Council, and the M.P.S. then proposed "The healths of the newly-installed Companions-in-arms," expressing the delight he felt at witnessing the accession to the Order of four such worthy and distinguished members of the Craft. The toast was welcomed with enthusiasm, and Sir Kt. Lord Eliot responded in eloquent terms, assuring the chevaliers that he highly appreciated the beautiful ceremony through which he passed that evening, and it would be his earnest endeavour to promote the prosperity of the Order to the utmost extent. Sir Knt. Capt. Payne also acknowledged the compliment in a speech redolent with wit amidst the applause of all present.

The Presiding Officer then gave "The health of the Intendants General of Divisions," coupling it with the name of the Ill. and Rev. Knt. Portal, on whose many merits he expatiated briefly but effectively. The toast was joyously received, and the Ill. brother returned thanks in a singularly happy and telling speech. Lord Eliot then by permission, proposed "The health of Sir Knt. R. Wentworth Little, the acting M.P.S.," and alluded particularly to the manner in which he had conducted the whole of the business that evening.

A warm reception was also accorded to this toast, and Sir Knt. Little expressed his acknowledgments to the noble lord, and the members generally, in suitable terms. Sir Knt. H. C. Levander replied for the Grand Senate, after which the "Visitors' healths were drunk with acclamations, coupled with the name of Sir Knt. Binckes and prosperity to the Masonic Charities. That eminent brother having returned thanks, the Presiding Officer gave the "V.E. and rest of the Officers," to which toast Sir Knts. G. Kenning, S.G. Acting Viceroy; W. H. Andrew, H.P., and other office-bearers responded. The Sentinel's toast, by Comp. J. Gilbert concluded the proceedings of this most enjoyable evening, and coffee having been served, the Frates separated. During the evening, Sir Knts. Dyer, Taylor, Marsh, and Larsen sang several good songs.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Answers to Correspondents.

WELSHMAN.—A brother cannot hold two offices in a lodge, or other Masonic body, at the same time. The Book of Constitutions expressly states how many officers there should be in a lodge; and certainly does not contemplate more than one being held by the same individual.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number, must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

A MASONIC LIFE-BOAT.

"TWENTY thousand lives saved from shipwreck"—twenty thousand human beings rescued from the raging surge—twenty thousand, or, rather say, one hundred thousand, homes redeemed from woes and sorrows that are worse than death! Such is the simple but touching record of the National Life-Boat Institution, the brief but eloquent epitome of its grand exploits. To a maritime nation like England, whose navies ride on every sea, whose flag is seen in every port, the word "shipwreck" has a great, a surpassing interest. The traditions of our national glory are so identified with the heroes of the deep, that tales of naval warfare and narratives of disasters at sea have ever had an irresistible charm for our reading population. Need we quote "Robinson Crusoe," or the "Mutineers of the Bounty," as instances? Are not the deeds of the former and his man Friday, and the adventures of Christian and his comrades, impressed indelibly on the minds of young England for all time? The remark may also be made that some of our most popular songs treat of "a life on the ocean wave" as the very summit and perfection of all human ambition. The toils and dangers attendant on a sailor's career are not only lightly ignored, but one is led to fancy from the glowing descriptions of the verse that the trident of Britannia really rules the stormy billows. Unhappily, the poetic version is scarcely the true one, and cynics may be more inclined to accept Dr. Johnson's definition of a ship as "a prison, with a chance of being drowned." The men who navigate the ocean either in the service of their country or of commerce, have many hardships and little ease. Perils beset them on every side—sunken rocks unnoted in the chart, sandbanks and treacherous winds assail them, sudden leaks baffle their utmost skill. The fate of the "Captain" adds another awful record to the history of shipwrecks, another terrible unit to the sum of naval catastrophes. With such a loss fresh in our memories, the account of the good work accomplished by the Life-Boat Institution seems to awaken our thoughts to a fuller appreciation of the services it renders to humanity. We regret, however, to learn that this noble Society languishes for want of that support which it so pre-eminently deserves. At a meeting held on the 1st December, £3,000 stock of the funded capital of the Institution was ordered to be sold out to meet the heavy disbursements required. This is not as it should be, nor, we venture to say, as it will be, when the public are once fully aroused to the pressing wants of the Society. With a section—and a not unimportant section—of that public we are on extremely good terms, and it is to them—to the members of the Masonic body—that we now appeal to do their fair share of labour in so praiseworthy a cause. We ask our readers whether it is creditable to the Fraternity to have, week after week, set forth in the columns of THE FREEMASON "such a beggarly array of empty boxes" as the Masonic Life-Boat Committee are fain to exhibit? How is it that associations not half so numerous, not a tenth part so wealthy, as the Masonic Order, have placed around our coasts life-boats to attest the sincerity of their efforts?

We know that Freemasons have many calls upon their charitable sympathies, many urgent claims in connection with their own institutions; but still we cannot admit the supposed inference that they are unable, or unwilling to contribute to objects so truly noble as those which we now advocate. We are, therefore, reluctantly compelled to accept the conclusion which has been forced upon us by the inexorable logic of facts; namely, that the Craft have no confidence in undertakings which are not stamped with the seal of authority. Some time ago we alluded to this subject, and commended the exertions of the worthy men who were striving to obtain funds for a Masonic Life-Boat. It was then stated that a certain brother had previously made an almost identical appeal, had collected subscriptions, but had failed to give a clear account of their appropriation. A similar statement, affecting the same individual, has since been made by one of our correspondents in reference to a society bearing the pretentious title of the "Masonic Archaeological Institute," which, it appears, has sunk into chaos, carrying with it sundry coins bearing Her Majesty's effigy, five sovereigns and five shillings thereof representing a life donation from the proprietor of THE FREEMASON. The golden silence since maintained by the promoters of both those collapsed speculations, speaks more eloquently than words in praise of their discretion; but we fear that a spirit of distrust has been engendered thereby, and that our brother Masons are beginning to put in practice that caution which under other conditions is doubtless most admirable. The consequence is, that "The Freemasons' Life-Boat" is not yet launched—the consequence is, that even with the potent aid of such respected names as those of Bro. Stebbing, Bro. De Carteret, Bro. Boyd and many others, the indefatigable Life-Boat Committee cannot galvanise the movement into life and vigour. This must be remedied; the failures of the past must not be suffered to retard the triumph of the whole-hearted men who now advocate a mission of mercy. WE MUST HAVE THIS LIFE-BOAT, and we must have it soon; let no jealousies or discord impede the fulfilment of our resolve. Such men as Bros. Harris, Davis, and Gotthiel are worthy of support; they are men of integrity, honour and zeal, and it behoves the Craft to help them energetically, and at once. Remember the old proverb, "He gives twice who gives quickly," the winds of winter are already howling around our doors, the hurricanes of winter are already speeding their terrific course around our island-shores. Let us build our bark of hope, and speedily send it forth on its errand of redemption; let the boat be called "The Craft," and may it long weather every gale, and be instrumental in snatching many of our brave seamen from a watery grave. The object is good, the appeal is sure to meet with a generous response from all who have—and who has not?—some one near and dear to them among "Ye Mariners of England." We therefore commend it, and the claims of the National Life-Boat Institution generally, to the best sympathies of our readers, in the hope that a shilling subscription will be at once set on foot, and that every brother will feel it a pleasure as well as a duty to contribute to the fund.

If this suggestion be adopted, it will be found that without unduly taxing the resources of the brethren, not only one, but two, and even three Life-Boats might be provided, and presented to the "Institution" as a practical example of that benevolence which is denominated the highest and purest characteristic of genuine Freemasonry.

Want of space precludes our inserting the following:—"Rosicrucians," an extract; Petition of Lodge of Glasgow St. John; continuation of "Origin of Freemasonry"; Notes and Queries; reports of lodges—Asaph (1319), Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction (860), Unity (613, Southport), Rose of Denmark Chapter (975)

ORIGIN OF MASONRY.

Our friend, Bro. W. P. Buchan, states in the last number of THE FREEMASON, at page 627, "Sofar as I can at present judge, London in 1717 neither saw the revival nor the origin of our system of Freemasonry, but its institution and inauguration."

In the former page of this excellent organ of the Craft, Bro. "Lupus" has favoured us with an excellent sketch of Freemasonry in connection with non-operative or speculative members, and we have long before this (as have also other writers) made known evidence of a similar character to that quoted by Bro. "Lupus," all of which directly give a flat contradiction to what Bro. Buchan has stated. Unless Bro. Buchan rests his assertion on the word our. If so, our system not being started before 1717, could not be said to be revived but only instituted then. But, I ask, what was it a system of? Freemasonry! Freemasonry, we are prepared to prove (and in fact have already done so), was as speculative in some lodges before the revival in 1717 as it was after that date, and though in some respects the system of Freemasonry subsequently adopted differed considerably from the Freemasonry that flourished before the revival, the differences did not consist in the absence of its speculative character in the earlier stage, and its creation in the later period; but mainly in the establishment of Grand and Prov. Grand Lodges, appointment of Grand Officers, and the arrangement of the secrets of the Craft into distinct degrees.

Unless Bro. W. P. Buchan (a most zealous Mason, I freely admit) is prepared to disprove such statements as the foregoing, I submit it is idle to talk of our system.

W. JAMES HUGHAN.

On looking over the pages of a popular periodical the other day, my eye happened to alight on the following. Thinking it might be acceptable for insertion in the columns of your very excellent journal, I have done myself the pleasure of extracting the same.

JAMES BALLANTINE.

"FREEMASONRY.—The mission of Freemasonry is peace. It is the guardian of the social arts, and it sheds abroad the sunshine of harmony. If, as a statesman, it could not prevent bloodshed, it has ever been active as a physician, healing the wounds of war. Whenever the passions of men have been influenced to madness, and frenzy ran riot in their blood, overthrowing in an hour the labour of centuries, Masonry has stood like a statue among fallen columns—pointing, with a star-jewelled finger, to the ways of pleasantness and to paths which lead to peace."

Taurus asks, "Why in the reports of Masonic meetings certain lodges in Scarborough are generally termed 'select'?" As there are various lodges held here, would it not have been better to have named the particular lodge against which his query is directed? As a member of the "Old Globe," I can with truth affirm that the only "selectness" to which it aspires is that of admitting none but just and upright men of sound judgment and strict morals, and also that which is secured by the excellency and accuracy of its working. P.M. 200.

THE APRON—THE BADGE OF OUR ORDER.

As all the usages of Freemasonry were originally operative, the apron which we wear as speculative Masons has been derived clearly from the apron which our operative forefathers wore in their actual and active work in the lodge. It is not for us, who accept bona fide the continuity and identity of the Order, or who perhaps rather had, that the old operative Grand Assembly has been merged into the speculative Grand Lodge; it is not for us, I say, to prove that the brethren by whom Elias Ashmole was received into that Lodge at Warrington wore aprons as we do, but it is for Bro. Buchan, who apparently does not believe in the identity existing between the operative and speculative brotherhood, to prove that the members of the lodge at Warrington did not wear aprons like our own. Bro. Buchan is seeking to prove a negative, and the onus probandi rests surely upon him. We would, on the contrary, contend that the former identity of the constitutions, traditions, symbols, customs, and terminology between the Masons of the past and the present is quite sufficient warrant for us to hold, unless indeed direct evidence to the contrary can be adduced that we follow in this, as in all other matters, the usages and peculiarities of the operative brotherhood. Once, no doubt, the apron was the customary and necessary clothing of every Craftsman; now it is only the ornamental badge of our speculative Order:—

1. The quotation which Bro. Buchan seems to doubt, is, however, quite correct; the reference to the Quarterly Review may be erroneous. The quotation was originally taken from a local history of "Hengrave," in Suffolk, written or edited by a person of the name of Gage, if my memory is not quite in error, and is also to be found in one of the larger county histories. I will look up my notes, and hope next week or the week after to give Bro. Buchan "chapter and verse." I may add that Mr. Parker mentions the same extract in an historical essay on architecture, published or delivered some years ago.

2. Bro. Buchan, who apparently admits that gloves may have been given to the Masons, seems nevertheless to doubt the fact. There is, however, nothing oftener mentioned in fabric rolls "compati" than the giving of aprons and gloves to the masons, a "tunic" or "toga" also to them, and a robe to the Master Mason. In the "Compati de Jarowe," 1370 to 1408, such items are of annual occurrence. They will also be found in the York fabric rolls under the expenses of 1371, and in the fabric rolls of Durham, Westminster, and Exeter, as quoted by various writers. In Gardiner's history of Dim- which we are told by an extract from another fabric roll that "Adam Bowle," the Master Mason, "paid forty shillings for the yard and a cade full of Herryngs each year in time of work, besides a gown."

4. Though I do not often agree with Bro. Buchan, I think with him that a "properly tyled lodge," in the extract of which mention is made, means a lodge properly covered with tiles; in fact, "weather tight," and not what we understand to-day by a lodge properly tyled. The lodge, as Brother Newnham rightly says, was used for other purposes besides pure manual work; and of this there is plenty of evidence.

6. There are four Acts—one in Edward III., another in Henry VI., another in Henry VII., and another in Elizabeth's reign, which have always been held to relate to the operative Masonic Order. The Act of Edward III., Statutes of the Realm, vol. i., page 367, only mentions "labourers and artificers," but has always been said to have originated from the fact that the Freemasons, impressed by royal order to the Sheriffs to work at Windsor Castle under Wm. Wykeham, refused the wages offered, withdrew from their engagements, and openly declined to return. The next Act is that of Henry VI., Statutes of the Realm, vol. ii., page 227-1425, in which the "early combinations and confederacies made by Masons in their general assemblies and chapters" are alluded to, and where no doubt "such chapters or congregations" are declared illegal. There is an Act of Henry VII., 2 Henry VII., c. 3-4, often overlooked "agaynst unlawful assemblies," and which forbids the "giving and receyving of wordes, signes, and tokens unlawfully," and as the Masons at that time were the only body in England to whom these words apply, they have always been held to relate to them and their secret organisation. The Act of the 5th Elizabeth, 1562, which is said to repeal the previous Acts, and to exonerate the Masons from the penalties of the earlier statutes, does not mention the Masons by name, but by implication. Taking the Act of Henry VI. into account, as to imply that the Masons did meet in Grand Assembly, we may fairly assume that these Acts related mainly to them, and that there was a very great difference and distinction between them and other craft guilds.

I stop here to-day, though I should have been glad to say a little more on the interesting communications of Bros. Newnham, "Lupus," and Hughan.

A MASONIC STUDENT.

It is obvious from the last communication of "W. P. B." that your other correspondents on the same subject are fighting with shadows. "W. P. B." advances his own (fallacious) belief only; he offers no authorities in support of his own view, but industriously demands proof from all who differ from him. And, now, let us see whether, when his demands are met, the proofs are received in the candid and generous spirit which should be exhibited by those whose object should be in common. These, then, are the criticisms with which interesting information is met by "W. P. B.": The word "white" (apron) may be an interpolation; the gloves (the word "white" is avoided here as no doubt inconvenient) "may have been at times even given to work with." This is rather mild: "A tiled lodge may mean a lodge covered with tiles." Is this the description of contrary argument with which proofs offered in a spirit of honest inquiry should be received? And is this the mode in which "W. P. B." should treat the results of others' researches when he has no results to offer from his own? I say that the word "white" is not interpolated; and I say so because my note, which was made from one of the leading journals of the day, accurately agrees with that of Bro. Newnham, which came from another source. Your readers will know how to appreciate a suggestion that the workmen stipulated for the use of "white gloves" in the performance of their daily task; and probably they will think the expression "properly tiled" in the minute book of a speculative lodge hardly admits of the feeble explanation that it may have had reference to protection against wind and rain.

"W. P. B." disposes of the chapters and congregations of "some centuries ago" in a complacent and self-satisfactory manner quite cheering to behold. These little gatherings, he kindly explains, "were mere meetings of the Operative Masons for the purpose of discussing wages, work, &c." Thus does "W. P. B." glide over these little difficulties with a graceful indifference which will, perhaps, almost induce your readers to think him a veritable Rosicrucian, in possession of the true elixir vite, and who, a small matter of some centuries ago, attended the congregations, and possibly even presided in the chapter.

I now come to a personal question. I said, at page 593, that an Act of Parliament had been passed expressly to prevent the meeting of Masons in chapters and congregations, and I may here parenthetically remark that I am not accustomed to back up arguments with statements I cannot support, or to offer positive assertions upon the foundation only of my own belief. All these authorities (of which your readers will no doubt fairly judge) certainly ought to be within the knowledge of so positive a correspondent as "W. P. B.," but this does not appear to be the case, and he so far impugns my statement as to "challenge" to produce statutory evidence passed before last century, "which did not apply to other crafts connected with building, or which may not have applied to the wrights, &c., as well as to the Masons." This will at once be seen to be an unfair qualification of the challenge, as compared with my statement, because it is perfectly well-known, that "other crafts connected with building" were included in the ancient Masonic guild. Still although, as I regret, I have not the present leisure to search my notes, or the statutes of England, to any great extent; yet I will sufficiently and fairly meet the challenge of "W. P. B." by the following transcript, from an original black letter copy (now before me) of the 3rd Henry VI., cap. 1, (ANNO. 1425):—

"CAP. I. First, whereas by the yeerly congregations and confederacies made by the Masons in their generall chapters and assemblies, the good course and effect of the Statutes of laborers be openly violate and broken, in subversion of the law, and to the great damage of all the commons. Our said Soueraigne Lord the King, willing in this case to provide remedy, by the advise and "assent aforesaid, and at the especial request of the said commons, hath ordained and stablished, that such chapters and congregations shall not be from henceforth holden, and if any such be made, they that cause such chapters and congregations to be assembled and holden, if they therefore be convicted shall be iudged for felons. And that all the other Masons that come to such chapters and congregations be punished by imprisonment of their body, and make fine and raunsome at the King's will."

Here we have a complete answer to the challenge in a public statute which related to Masons alone, and which plainly proves that something rather more than "mere meetings" for the orthodox purpose of "W. P. B." were, at all events, supposed to require legislative interference. I have a recollection of an early statute which has reference to secret obligations, and of another (Edw. VI.) which prohibits any molestation of "Freemasons;" but my leisure is much occupied with other archæological investigations which demand completion, and as I am unable to properly look up the subject, I find it necessary to say that this hastily written communication be my last, even if I thought it necessary to further invoke the substance of the past in opposition to the shadow of the present. LUPUS.

There is considerable sense in the saying "First catch your hare before you cook it;" and in the case of this pretended quotation from Vol. XXIV. of the Quarterly Review, things are not looking very promising as to making a good catch of it. I admire the candour of Bro. Newnham in admitting that his "original authority" was Mackey's Lexicon, page 59, for that work is so full of mistakes that unless what is said in it can be otherwise proven I place little value upon very much that is in it. However, the proof wanted as to the white lamb-skin apron being used, as implied, before 1717 has not as yet been forthcoming; and until I am properly satisfied I shall say little about the 1708 quotation. As to the old 15th-century MS. Bro. "Lupus" makes so much of, I greatly fear he is interpreting it wrongly. I have Bro. Cooke's work before me, and what is said simply refers to operative Masonry. And as to this "youngest son" taking an interest in the practice of Masonry to his advancement in knowledge; for of knowledge he was a master. "Speculatyf" in 1480 did not necessarily convey the same idea as "Speculative" in 1870, for the meaning and use of many words have greatly altered in that time. The age of both the Cooke and Halliwell MSS. appears to be between 1400 and 1500—or near 1500. If "the son of Athelstan learned the practice of the science, 'for of Speculative he was a master'—that shows that he took an interest both in the cutting of the stones by the masons and in the drawing of the plans by the architects or overseers; most certainly not that he knew aught of our Freemasonry. In fact, so far as I can judge, our system of Freemasonry has no essential connection with operative masons. And to sum up—for all I have seen as yet, the 1717 theory stands where it did when I first upheld it. W. P. B.

Masonic Miscellanea.

BRO. BUSS, Prov. G.T. Middlesex, will represent the Knights of Rome and Constantine at the forthcoming festival of the Royal M. B. Institution, and we hope will be well supported.

THE brethren of the four Masonic Lodges in Sunderland having formerly established as an institution their annual summer pic-nics have turned their attention to a winter gathering, and have resolved to hold a ball annually, with a view of promoting social intercourse between the members of the different lodges and their families. The first of these re-unions was held in the Athenæum, in that town, on Wednesday, the 30th ult. The company began to assemble about nine o'clock, and dancing commenced about half-past—the M.C., (Bro. W. H. Crooks, P.G.S.), leading off the ball with Mrs. Harrison—and was kept up with great spirit to the strains of a very efficient band under the leadership of Bro. Watson (P.G.O. Northumberland), till near four o'clock. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. Forrest, O., 949. The room was tastefully decorated with trophies of flags, shields and mirrors, under the superintendence of Bros. J. S. Gain, 80, and W. H. Sharp, W.M. 94. The arrangements of the dressing rooms, &c., were under the superintendence of Bro. Fryer, 97. Bros. J. Tillman, P.M. 949, P.P.G.S.W.; J. H. Coates, S.D. 949; R. Humphrey, J.D. 97; and F. Maddison, 80, ably officiated as Stewards. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all.

A CORRECTION.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your report of the centenary celebration at Bournemouth, I am represented as "D.P.G.M. of a neighbouring province," and as proposing the health of R.W. Bro. W. W. B. Beach, Prov. G.M. of Hants.

In justice to the distinguished brother who did discharge that pleasurable duty, and who fills the honourable position of which I am said to be the occupant, and who doubtless would feel much indignant regret at being confounded with one occupying so subordinate and humble an office as myself, I would beg you to accept the correction that the toast was proposed by Brother J. M. P. Montagu, D.P.G.M. of Dorset, and not by

THE MASONIC ARCHÆOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—I have for some months past been living out of the world, and it is only recently (through the courtesy of Bro. Pymm, W.M. 749) that I have seen the letter signed "Crux" in your issue for October 22nd.

I have no doubt that the Council and Bro. Hyde Pullen can answer fully on behalf of the Masonic Archæological Association for all that may have been done or omitted to have been done by themselves. My sole object at present is to deal only with that part of the letter in which I am specifically mentioned.

When I was first asked to take the joint secretaryship of the association I accepted with great diffidence, but promised to give, and have given, all the time I could without detriment to myself or connections. The affairs of the society were said to have been in great confusion in consequence of a fire which occurred at Bro. Pullen's house having consumed all the books, printed forms of receipt, and papers relating to the society. The only data I had to guide me in any way were two long lists, headed respectively "List of Members" and "Masons to be invited to the Meetings," numbering jointly about 400 names. There was also a tin box of memoranda relating to the affairs of the society at Salisbury-street, but which has never been in my possession.

I was appointed joint hon. secretary in May, '69, at the last meeting held in that session. A few days after my taking the duty, I received a written memorandum from the late publisher of the Freemason's Magazine (Mr. Rust), asking me to return per bearer a receipt for one year's subscription, and he would remit me the cash "during the day." Shortly afterwards proceedings were taken at Bow-street against Mr. Rust. I mentioned the matter of my receipt to Bro. Smith and others at the time, although, unfortunately, I had forgotten the name and address placed on the receipt.

On the 28th March, 1870, I received from "Crux" a letter, of which the following is a copy:—

Dear Sir and Brother,—Last year, being desirous of joining M.A.S., I paid a sum of 10s. 6d. to Mr. Rust, publisher of the Freemason's Magazine, who sent me the enclosed card as a receipt, with your name as signature. Since that time matters have transpired to which I need not allude, which have raised some doubt in mind, whether the receipt is genuine. The fact that a meeting of the M.A.S. has been held, of which I did not receive the notice usual on such occasions, has strengthened my suspicions. Will you be so good as to let me know whether my name has been entered as a member or not, and in any case return me the enclosed card.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

THOMAS "CRUX."

This letter was not sent to my address, but to 19, Salisbury-street, and came duly to hand. I append copy of my reply, written and sent 29th March:—

Dear Sir and Brother,—I am much obliged to you for your note of yesterday's date. The receipt you sent me is in my handwriting, and was obtained under the following circumstances. A messenger from the Freemason's Magazine came to me with a note from the late publisher to the effect, that if I would send a receipt for a yearly subscription, cash would be returned within an hour. I need not say that I never saw the cash in the transaction, and I have Mr. Rust's note by me, and was discussing the matter with Bro. Hyde Clarke recently. However, having done, however imprudently, an unwise thing in giving a receipt without having had the cash, I must, in honour make the amende and be content if needs be to lose the money, and blame my ownself only in the matter.

I am, &c., &c.

I am sorry to say, however, that I did not comply with "Crux's" request, as I find the said receipt folded up in his letter and my draft reply. For this omission I must apologise. I should have sent tickets to "Crux" in due course in April, but on account of Good Friday we had no meeting that month. In May, this year, I was obliged through unavoidable misfortunes to leave London for a time. I relied on my co-secretary to do duty for me, and really knew nothing of what has been done since.

I find in looking over my cash receipts and disbursements, that I have received from all sources the sum of £16 16s. 6d., and disbursed on behalf of the Association £22 12s. 8d., leaving me a creditor to the amount of £5 16s. 2d.; or deducting 10s. 6d., the amount of Crux's subscription, which I am entitled to lose, £5 5s. 8d. If "Crux" will intimate any wish in the matter, the money will be returned to him.

There is enough cash in hand of the bankers to discharge any outstanding accounts that may be against the Society, and I have written to Bro. Hyde Pullen to call a meeting of the Council for that purpose.

I have only dealt with that part of Crux's letter which concerns myself personally. That the letter which I wrote to "Crux" was posted I am certain; that I was careless in giving a receipt at all I freely admit.

Whether it is fraternal thus to rush into print to make attacks, I must leave for more experienced brothers than myself to decide. I can but reiterate that I am only dealing with that part of the letter which concerns myself personally, and I am willing that any brothers of the Craft shall determine whether I have deserved the hard remarks made in your issue.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM T. MARCHANT.

THE "ENCYCLOPEDIA METROPOLITANA."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Nothing, I am sure, would give me greater pleasure than to oblige Bro. Hughan with the article "Freemasonry" from the "Encyclopedia Metropolitana," but for the reason that as the work extends to twenty volumes, and the article in question covers about ten folio pages, I am afraid that not only Bro. Hughan but our worthy editor would be tired of the length of it; however, if it is generally desired that I should give it in extenso instead of of occasional notes, I will endeavour to do so. The manuscripts referred to are the "Harleian Manuscripts, 1942 and 2054," and seems to have been entirely overlooked by Masons. They contain copies of the Orders and Constitutions of the Fraternity, and are about the dates of the middle of the 17th century, and therefore probably the oldest Masonic manuscripts in existence. The latter belonged to a lodge at Chester (apparently of operative Masons), and contains a list of its members. The charges themselves are sensible and plain, and many of them, indeed, are retained to this day; but the short history at the commencement will satisfy the most eager Masonic antiquary:—

"If you ask me how this science was first invented, my answer is that before ye General Deluge, which is commonly called Noah's Flood, there was a man called Lemech, as you may read in the 4th of Genesis, whoe had twoe wives, the one called Adah, the other Zillah. By Adah he begot twoe sones, J(s)abell and Juball. By Zillah hee had a sonne called Tuball and a daughter named Naahmah. These fower children founded ye beginning of all ye craft in ye world. Jabell Found Geometry, and he divided flocks of sheep and lands. He first built a house of stone and timber. Juball found out the smyth's trade or Craft, asve of gold, silver, copper, iron, steel, &c."—MS. 1942.

From this clue respecting these old papers, it is not unlikely that some of our London brethren may find something worth their while in examining them. I dare say it is the same manuscript as the one referred to by Bro. Lupus, as the greater portion of his extracts are to be found in the work from which I am now quoting.

Bro. Buchan is rather harsh in dealing with his contemporaries, as they can hardly be called opponents. He reminds me of the old religious discussers: "Proofs, cried they, where are your proofs?" It is very easy to contradict, but where written authority is wanting, we must not throw tradition quite aside. Abler pens than mine I have no doubt will be able to give light to those who are in darkness.

I remain, yours fraternally,

CHAS. G. FORSYTH.

BREAKFAST. — EPPS'S COCOA. — Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Each packet is labelled—JAMES EPPS AND CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Also, makers of Epps's Cacaoine, a very light, thin, evening beverage.—[Adv.]

FESTIVAL of the EMULATION LODGE of IMPROVEMENT.

The annual festival of this lodge of improvement was held on Friday, the 25th ult. The brethren first assembled in the Temple, where the lodge was first opened, Bro. John Hervey presiding as W.M., supported by Bros. T. Fenn, S.W.; H. V. Crassweller, J.W.; C. A. Murton, Sec.; A. Green, S.D.; T. W. Boord, J.D.; and J. A. Rucker, I.G. The lodge was tyled by Bro. John Daly. There were some 160 brethren present, among them being Bros. Benj. Head, L. Evans, Joshua Nunn, Horace Lloyd, Q.C., James Mason, H. Browne, Rev. R. J. Simpson, R. Wentworth Little, W. Farnfield, H. Muggeridge, F. H. Gottlieb, Conrad C. Dumas, J. Glaisher, Henry Greene, Hyde Pullen, Major Finney, J. Symonds, and Dr. Jas. Self.

The following sections of the First Lecture were admirably worked:—The 1st, by Bro. T. W. Boord, J.W. 222; the 4th, by Bro. H. V. Crassweller, P.M. 7; the 5th, by Bro. A. Green, S.D. 7; the 6th, by Bro. H. W. Lindus, P.M. 1269; and the 7th, by Bro. J. A. Rucker, W.M. 66. A vote of thanks was passed to Bro. John Hervey and these brethren on the motion of Bro. L. Evans, seconded by Bro. H. Browne; and Bro. Hervey, in response, said it always gave him great pleasure if he could be of any service to brethren who aspired to distinction in Masonic working.

After the lodge was closed the brethren adjourned to Freemasons' Tavern, where they partook of supper under the chairmanship of Bro. Horace Lloyd, Q.C., S.G.D.

When the cloth was removed the usual Masonic toasts were proposed in excellent speeches, and when the toast of the evening came round, "Success to the Emulation Lodge of Improvement," the Chairman presented to Bro. C. A. Murton, the Secretary of the lodge, a massive silver centre-piece and a valuable Secretary's jewel, for the energy he had displayed in discharging the duties of Secretary to the lodge for seven years. In doing so,

The Chairman said: Brethren, I now ask your attention to what is, for more than one reason, the toast of the evening. On the list of toasts handed to me by our excellent and worthy brother, the Secretary of this lodge, I find placed before me the next toast in these words:—"Success to the Emulation Lodge of Improvement" (cheers); and if I had no other topic but that to dilate on, I know it is one which you will receive with enthusiasm. But there is a special reason why on this present occasion you will, I think, be glad to drink that toast—that I am about to couple it with the health of the Secretary of that lodge, our Bro. Murton, and to make the toast the occasion for uttering a few words—I am sure as the mouthpiece of all whom I address to Bro. Murton himself. That being so, I shall pass shortly over what I have to say about the Emulation Lodge itself. Why, we are all, or nearly all, members of the lodge. Those who are not, if I may judge from the immense number of cards of proposal handed in to-day, are ashamed of being not in it; and I have no right to praise yourselves to yourselves and to dilate on the merits of the lodge to which we all belong. But I may remark that the lodge originated in a very humble way fifty years ago, I believe working at that time under Lodge No. 7. We have no member who can quite trace back his memory to the first establishment of the lodge, but we have here present a member of the lodge who joined it in the year 1825, and who has therefore been a member of this lodge for forty-five years. Under any other circumstances I should, of course, associate his name with the toast of the lodge; but he would be the man who would least desire I should do so on the present occasion, to the exclusion of Brother Murton under the circumstances I am now about to state. Of course you know we do not now work under No. 7, but under No. 256, a lodge whose health I hope to have the pleasure later in the evening of proposing. Now let us turn to that which gives so much interest to our proceedings to-night. We take advantage of our being met here for the purpose, among other things, of presenting to Bro. Murton our thanks for his services as Secretary. Bro. Murton is a young man, and in the presence of the many older Masons whom I see around me in this hall, I think I may call him not only a young but a very young Mason, for he was initiated only in the month of November 1856. And when you consider what his present knowledge of Masonry is, and how much he has done for this lodge and Masonry in general, I would have you bear in mind that it is only fourteen years ago that he became a brother amongst us. Almost immediately he became a Master Mason he joined the Emulation Lodge. He distinguished himself from the first by the regularity of his attendance and the excellence of his work; and in the year 1863, when our Bro. Fenn, another very meritorious Mason, desired to retire, Bro. Murton was unanimously elected Secretary of this lodge, the duties of which office he has fulfilled ever since. We are all Master Masons, and members of other lodges besides the Lodge of Emulation, and we all know what the duties of Secretaries are in our own lodges—how much they take upon themselves of arduous and thankless work; but that does not in the least give one an idea of what are the duties of Secretary of the Emulation Lodge. Just imagine that instead of a lodge meeting five or six times in a year the Emulation meets every week, the dues have to be collected every time, and the minutes, in the most strictly accurate form, have to be written up for the ensuing week, and you will see that the ordinary duties of a lodge such as this impose upon a man who undertakes to fill the post of Secretary a task from which any but one desiring to serve Masonry for its own sake might well shrink. But I should be doing our Bro. Murton very little justice if I stopped there, and characterised him as one who had merely done his duty, however arduous that duty might be. He has done much more: he has felt it incumbent on him, it seems by the natural promptings of his heart, when he could assist a Mason, old or young, to give him his services in the kindest and handsomest way, often unasked and unsought. There are many in this hall who could bear me out in saying that much as they have learned within the walls of the Emulation Lodge of Improvement itself, they have been yet more instructed by Bro. Murton on private occasions. The Emulation Lodge felt this and recognised it, and their desire was to testify in some appropriate manner to our Brother Murton their sense of his worth and his services; and I am happy to say they have found the occasion of doing so. We have on the present occasion two testimonials which I hope he will consider worthy of his acceptance, which I venture to think he may consider a high honour to him as Secretary of the lodge and a Mason, and of which I shall now ask his acceptance. The first is the handsome piece of plate which stands on the pedestal in front of this table, which has been contributed by the voluntary subscriptions of members of the lodge. The lodge itself subscribes nothing from its funds towards it, but the whole is the product of the genuine desire of the members of the lodge to testify by their voluntary subscriptions their sense of the worth of Brother Murton. The other testimonial, which I hold in my hand, was voted from the funds of the lodge, and is a Secretary's jewel, presented by the members of the lodge to their Brother Murton, and which also I have now the very great pleasure of presenting to him. (Loud cheers.) Brethren, I should weaken what I have already said if I went on to dilate on this topic. Let me say in conclusion, for myself, that it will be a proud memory for me that it fell to my lot, by the private subscriptions of members of this lodge, to be the presenter of this testimonial; but I think it will be a prouder day for our Brother Murton that on it his services are so acknowledged. What I am especially proud of is that the presents come as our genuine feeling; there is no afterthought in the matter; it is an expression of what we feel we owe to him; it is not one of those things, as sometimes happens, that people cannot refuse to subscribe to; in this case they have rushed in to subscribe, and the difficulty has been to repress rather than to incite the brethren. I give you "Success to the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, and the health of Brother Murton, its Secretary."

The toast having been duly honoured, Bro. Murton said: Worshipful Master and Brethren, I can scarcely find words adequately to express my gratitude to you for the kind sentiments towards me which you have made use of in presenting me with this handsome testimonial and this jewel. If I cannot find eloquence to thank you, I am sure you will accept what I say as the best thanks I am able to give you. It is true I have been only fourteen years a Mason, and very nearly for fourteen years I have been a member of this lodge of improvement. For half that period I have been your Secretary, and have endeavoured during that time to discharge my duties in that position. It has been my aim to endeavour to assist to the best of my ability, in conjunction with several distinguished Masons, some of whom are present to-night, in promoting the correct working of our beautiful ceremonies as they were practised by our lamented brother Stephen Barton Wilson, and it has been my desire that we should work them with a true appreciation of their meaning, as I am persuaded that much scandal arises from the loose and imperfect way in which the offices are often performed. I think I owe the circumstance of my taking such an interest in Masonry to the effective way in which the ceremony of initiation was worked on my entering Masonry. I came into Masonry under very favourable auspices; and perhaps I should not have been in the position I am in but for that. Our excellent Brother Hervey passed, raised, and installed me. I can never forget the evening I was initiated. I feel convinced in my own mind that it was the impressive manner in which that ceremony was conducted that caused me to take such an interest and delight in the teachings of Masonry. I have said I have endeavoured to further this object, but in so doing I have simply done my duty. I have always been received by the brethren of this lodge with the greatest kindness and courtesy. I can never forget it. The brethren have always been most kind to me, and in their approbation I have my reward. I confess I did hope at some future period to be decorated with this jewel. I value it immensely, as connecting me with this great lodge of improvement. I call it great, as I think the benefit the Craft has derived from it, as well as from sister lodges of instruction, is incalculable. They do an immense amount of good to the Craft, if brethren will only attend to the instruction they receive at them. Brethren, I really cannot sufficiently thank you for your great kindness to me. You have decorated me with this jewel, but above all you have been so generous as to give me this other testimonial. Given so generously and spontaneously as it is, I cannot sufficiently thank you. I trust I shall wear it with pride, for it will testify to the good-will and esteem in which I have been held by the Emulation Lodge of Improvement. Brethren, I thank you heartily. (Cheers.)

Bro. L. Evans proposed "The health of the W.M.," a brother who though filling a high position in his profession found time to devote attention to the best interests of the Craft.

The Chairman responded, and proposed "The Lodge of Unions," coupling with it the name of Bro. Henry Greene, P.M.—Bro. H. Greene replied.

"The Sister Lodges of Instruction" was acknowledged by Bro. H. Muggeridge, who said that though the system he practised and taught differed in some respects from that taught in the Emulation, it was only in minor points it differed, and did not make it another system. He only knew one system of Masonry. At his lodge (Stability) of instruction the same system was practised. There was only a difference in carrying it out; the essentials were really the same.

Bro. Fenn replied for "The Officers of the Lodge."

Bro. John Hervey proposed "The Stewards," to which Bro. J. Glaisher responded, and the brethren separated.

THE FREEMASONS' LIFE BOAT.

The Committee held their usual monthly meeting at Bro. Forster's, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., on Thursday, the 1st inst. Present: Bros. H. M. Levy, P.M. 188, in the chair; S. Davis, 141; E. Gottheil, P.M. 141; C. C. Taylor, S.W. 141; A. E. Harris, P.M. 141; T. Mortlock, P.M. 186; N. Gluckstein, 141, P.M. 51, P.P.G.S.W. Essex.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, a variety of provincial correspondence was submitted to the committee for consideration.

Bros. Fred. Webb, W.M. 704, and John Coombe, P.M. 450 and 1272, P.G.S., P.G. Steward, and P.P. G.S.W. Cornwall, &c., were proposed and accepted as members of the committee.

Bro. H. M. Levy proposed, Bro. Davis seconded, and it was unanimously resolved that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Bro. James Wyld, 511, proprietor and editor of the Licensed Victuallers' Guardian, for his very valuable assistance in promoting the success of the Freemasons' Life-Boat, and also for his kindness in publishing the various notices of meetings and lists of subscriptions, entirely free of charge, in his valuable paper.

It was also resolved that a vote of thanks be recorded to Bro. Kelly, 186, for his kindness in presenting the committee with 1500 circulars and lists of subscriptions.

The following further subscriptions were then announced:—

After a vote of thanks to the chairman, the meeting was adjourned to the first Thursday in January, 1871, at 8 p.m.

Notice.—In the Circular which has just been issued by the Committee, the item in the list of subscriptions "Per S. Davis, £1 5s." should read "Per Bro. C. Davis, from the following brethren: A. Collins, 10s.; L. Marks, 5s.; Hoffwing, 5s.; Druffy, 5s."

SCOTLAND.

LAYING FOUNDATION-STONE OF A NEW HALL FOR LODGE JOURNEYMEN, EDINBURGH, No. 8.

The foundation-stone of the new hall of the Edinburgh Mason Lodge Journeymen, No. 8, in Blackfriars'-street, was laid on Thursday, the 30th ult., by Lord Dalhousie, Grand Master Mason of Scotland. The ceremony was taken part in by a large number of the brethren of Edinburgh, and by several deputations from lodges in other parts of the country. The Lodge Journeymen assembled in the Freemasons' Hall, George-street, at noon; and having been opened in the usual manner, the Grand Master was received with the usual honours. Among the members of the Grand Lodge present on the occasion were:—Bros. H. Inglis, of Torsonce, R.W.S.G.M.; Wm. Mann, S.G.W.; Col. Arch. A. Campbell, of Blythwood, J.G.W.; Wm. Officer, J.G.D.; Capt. Grant, A.G.S.B.; Alexander F. Stewart, G. Sec.; John Lawrie, G. Clerk; and Wm. Bryce, G. Tyler.

The Grand Master having taken his place on the dais,

Bro. Field, R.W.M., requested his Lordship's acceptance of a handsome mallet with which to assist in the work he had undertaken to perform. The mallet was mounted with silver, and bore an inscription which set forth that the implement was made out of a piece of oak-beam taken from Cardinal Beaton's palace, which formerly adjoined the old hall of Lodge Journeymen.

The Grand Master, in accepting the gift, expressed the satisfaction and honour he felt in being called upon to perform what would be his last official act as Grand Master Mason for Scotland. As to the mallet, he would prize it very much, and cause it to pass as an heirloom in his family. He cordially thanked the Lodge Journeymen for their presentation.

The representatives of the various lodges were shortly afterwards marshalled in George-street by the Grand Marshal, Bro. Murdoch Mackenzie. By this time a large crowd of onlookers had assembled in the street; and the windows of offices and private dwelling-houses were filled with spectators. Everything having been arranged, the procession moved off in the following order:—

A Body of Police.
A Band of the City Artillery Volunteers.
Lodge 8, Journeymen.
Lodge 482, Kirkliston Maitland, Kirkliston.
Lodge 405, Rifle, Edinburgh.
Lodge 281, Charleston of Aboyne.
Lodge 272, St. John, Mid-Calder.
Lodge 226, Portobello.
Lodge 223, Trafalgar, Leith.
Lodge 160, Roman Eagle, Edinburgh.
Lodge 151, Edinburgh Defensive Band.
Lodge 102, St. Mark, Glasgow.
Lodge 97, St. James Operative, Edinburgh.
Lodge 40, St. Thomas, Arbroath.
Lodge 31, St. Mary, Coltness.
Lodge 9, Dunblane.
Lodge 5, Canongate and Leith, Leith and Canongate.
Lodge 2, Canongate, Kilwinning.
Lodge 1, The Lodge of Edinburgh, Mary's Chapel.
The Band of the 90th Regiment.
Carriages containing the Earl of Dalhousie and Members of Grand Lodge.
Members of Journeymen Lodge carrying halberds, forming a Guard to Grand Lodge.

The procession started about one o'clock from the Freemasons' Hall, and marched along George-street, Hanover-street, the Mound, High-street, St. Mary's-street, and the Cowgate, to the site of the new building at the foot of Blackfriars-street. Crowds of people lined the route of procession; and some merriment was occasionally caused by the quaint get-up of the Tylers of certain lodges. Those in front of the procession having arrived at the foot of Toddick's Wynd, halted, opened out, thus allowing the Grand Officers to pass through to the spot where the ceremony was to be performed. The general body of the brethren then followed, and took up a position near the stone. Within a short distance from the stone a platform had been erected, which was set apart for ladies, and for members of the Improvement Trust. This accommodation was soon taken advantage of by those for whom it was intended; while scores of windows in the vicinity, and every available "coigne of vantage," were fully occupied.

The Rev. Bro. Fraser, of Leith, Acting Grand Chaplain, having offered up prayer, the stone was laid with the usual Masonic formalities.

The Grand Master then said: Right Worshipful Master of Lodge Journeymen, Senior and Junior Wardens, Brethren all, and ladies and gentlemen who have done us the honour of being spectators of this our ceremony, I have to announce to you that the corner stone of the new hall has now been truly laid, with all the Masonic honours. It has given me great satisfaction to comply with your request, to perform that duty. It is the last public act of the kind which will fall to my lot as Grand Master Mason of Scotland. You are aware that the Lodge Journeymen is a most ancient lodge; that it is an offshoot from Mary's Chapel; and that it has distinguished itself during its long existence by constant acts of Masonic charity and general benevolence. All Masons are aware, but this assembled company may not be aware, that amongst its other acts of Masonic charity it contributed free labour to the erection of that building, which is now about to be superseded by a new one, the old infirmary of Edinburgh—a building within the walls of which more blessing has accrued to the community of this fair city than from any other institution within its municipality. To obey the behests and to comply with the requests of such a lodge, is not only a pleasure to a Master Mason, but is an honour conferred upon him which he will not easily forget; and the manner in which the Lodge Journeymen have marked towards myself personally a sense of their grateful feeling for the work which I undertook, and which has been so unworthily performed by me, has been evinced by the presentation to me this day of a handsome mallet made from a beam of Cardinal Beaton's house, with which I completed the laying of the stone, and which I shall take care shall descend, with my other Masonic trophies, as long as things are permitted to descend from heir to heir. I will not detain you further than to express my thanks to the Lodge Journeymen for the honour conferred upon me, and to pray most earnestly that it may please the Great Architect of the Universe to permit the work which we have commenced to-day to be finished in due course of time without danger to life or limb, and that, when finished, the hall may be well fitted to receive so worthy a lodge, and one in which, in a fitting manner, those benevolent acts and that liberality may be shown which I know it is the pleasure of the Lodge Journeymen to exhibit to their fellow-men.

Bro. Field expressed to Lord Dalhousie the thanks of the lodge for his kindness in having laid the foundation stone of the new hall. It would ever be the earnest desire of the lodge to deserve the approbation which his lordship had expressed.

Bro. Kerr, P.M., had been directed to express cordial thanks to the members of the City Improvement Trust, who were present, for their attendance upon the occasion. The presence of those gentlemen showed the reciprocal feeling which existed between the governing powers and the Masons.

Hearty cheers having been given for the Queen, the Lodge Journeymen, the ladies, the Grand Master, and the Improvement Trustees, the brethren re-formed in procession and marched to Mary's Chapel Hall, where the Earl of Dalhousie closed the lodge in the usual form.

After closing the lodge, his lordship proceeded to one of the ante-rooms, where cake and wine were served.

Bro. Field proposed "The health of the Grand Master," which was cordially pledged.

The Grand Master, in responding, said: I give you my sincere thanks for your kind reception. I assure you I have derived great satisfaction in performing the duty which you placed in my hands; and I do not think I do wrong in anticipating that in the new hall the liberality and hospitality of the Lodge Journeymen will be fully maintained. Permit me to add that I have been extremely gratified by the order and precision with which everything has been gone through upon this occasion. The part that was performed by my officers was done to the very letter—everybody was in his right place and knew exactly what he had to do. I only wish that all foundation stones were laid with the same success as this one to-day.

Bro. Field gave "The health of the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of Edinburgh."

The Grand Master proposed "The health of the Worshipful Master, the Wardens, and Brethren of the Lodge Journeymen."

Bro. Field acknowledged the compliment. The lodge, he said, hoped to be able to do still more for the widows and the fatherless than it had done in the past.

The proceedings then terminated.

The new hall will be 45 feet long and 22 feet broad, and will be lighted by four large windows. On the floor above it, a keeper's house, a lodge library, and apartments for clothing, &c., will be situated; while two floors below will be occupied by a couple of small dwelling-houses, two shops, and cellars. Retiring and cloak rooms will, of course, be connected with the hall. The building will be of a substantial description, and will be treated externally in the Scotch style of architecture.

[We hope to give an account of this lodge, from its existence to the present time, in our columns at a future date.]

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF WIGTOWN AND KIRKCUDBRIGHT.

The Quarterly Communication of this Grand Lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, here, on Wednesday, the 30th ult. Bro. James Cranstoun, P.S.G.W., acting P.G.M., was in the chair, supported by Bros. Dr. Millman, P.S.G.D., acting P.S.G.W., and M'Gowan, Granite Union, Dalbeattie, acting P.J.G.W. As this was the day fixed for the election of office-bearers for the ensuing twelve months, a more than usual interest was manifested by the brethren. The office-bearers for the year are:—(Commissioned) the Right Hon. the Earl of Stair, K.T., R.W.P.G.M.; George R. Harriott, of Killiemore, (41), R.W.P.D.G.M.; W. Kennedy Laurie of Woodhall, (323), R.W.P.S.G.M.; James Cranstoun, P.M. 41, R.W.P.S.G.W.; J. T. Blackley, R.W.P.J.G.W.; Rev. Duncan Stewart, V.W.P.G.C.; David M'Lellan, of Marks, (41), R.W.P.G.S. (Elected) George Lennox, (499), W.P.G. Treas.; Alfred M'Kinlay Willman, V.W.P.S.G.D.; William Bell of Gribdae, (41), V.W.P.J.G.D.; James Clark, P.M. 41, W.P.G.I.G.; James Livingstone, P.G. Tyler. After the installation, the lodge was closed by the acting P.G.M. at the usual hour, in due form.

The festival of St. Andrew was celebrated, after the election of office-bearers by the brethren of St. Cuthbert's Lodge, No. 41, in the Commercial Hotel, Kirkcudbright, where a first-rate dinner was provided for the members of the Craft by Bro. Stewart.

GLASGOW.—An emergency meeting of the Union Lodge, No. 332, was held on the 29th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Glasgow. It was summoned to pass and raise two brethren who were about leaving Glasgow for Calcutta. Bro. M.W.M. Baker Robert Mitchel, gave the third ceremony and the other work in a solemn, impressive manner.

The annual meeting of the Shamrock and Thistle Lodge, No. 275, was held in their lodge-room, 22, Struthers-street, Calton, on Friday se'nnight, for the election and installation of office-bearers for the ensuing year. Bro. W. Phillips R.W.M. presided, and was supported by Bros. Foster, R.W.M. No. 354, Mathieson, R.W.M. No. 178, &c. The following brethren were unanimously elected and invested by Bro. Foster: Wm. Phillips, R.W.M.; Wm. Peden, D.M.; J. Cunningham, S.M.; P. Balfour, Sec.; J. Smith, Treas.; Rev. James Pullar, Chaplain; D. Rowan, S.W.; H. Mathieson, J.W.; D. Ronald, B.B.; Wm. Semple, S.D.; W. T. Watson, J.D.; J. Smith, S.S.; J. Millar, J.S.; R. Smith, I.G.; R. Lavery, Tyler; Clananchan, P.G.S. Thereafter the auditors (Bros. Guthrie and Parker) reported that they had examined the books of the lodge and found them in a very satisfactory state, and complimented the R.W.M. and the brethren for the prosperous condition of the lodge, for they were glad to see that, besides having an account to their credit in the Royal Bank, they had also a complete stock of paraphernalia for lodge purposes. The lodge was thereafter transferred to the care of the Junior Warden, when a very pleasant evening was spent till high twelve, when Bro. Phillips proposed the parting toast "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again." The lodge was then closed in due and ancient form. This lodge during the year has given away handsome sums of money to poor brethren, but more especially has it distinguished itself for the wounded of the Franco-Prussian War, concerts having been got up, and which were well attended by the brethren.

MASONIC ASSEMBLY AT ABERDEEN.

The annual assembly in connection with the Neptune Lodge, No. 370, was held in Bro. M'Donald's Rooms, Market-street, Aberdeen, on Friday evening last week. The attendance was numerous, and a limited number of friends of the brethren (not Masons) were present. Dancing commenced at nine and was continued till twelve, when the company to the number of 100, adjourned to Bro. M'Donald's large dining-room, and partook of an excellent supper prepared in that brother's best style, the R.W.M., Bro. Mitchell, presiding. The supper having been ample justice to, the R.W.M. intimated that but a very short programme had been prepared, as he had no doubt they were all anxious to get back to the ball-room again. However, on looking around on all the array of beauty, elegance and good taste, he could not refrain from congratulating the committee upon the great success that had attended their efforts to make this assembly worthy of Masonry in general, and the Neptune Lodge in particular, and as he intended to save them from the infliction of long speeches, he would merely (before proceeding to the few toasts he had to propose) return them the thanks of the lodge, for honouring them with their presence on this occasion. The first toast he had to propose was "The Queen," which was drank with all honours, Bro. McLauchlen leading the National Anthem. The next toast, "Bro. Edward Albert Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," Bro. McLauchlen again leading, "God bless the Prince of Wales." "The Army, Navy and Volunteers" was next proposed, and responded to by Bro. Capt. Gordon, of Craigmill. The R.W.M. here requested Miss McRay to favour them with a song, and with a voice of exquisite sweetness and purity, she gave a rendering of "John Anderson my Joe," which for taste and feeling could scarcely be surpassed, the assembly testifying their appreciation of it by loud and prolonged applause, on the subsiding of which the R.W.M. requested her to consider it as an encore, when she gave, "Shells of the Ocean" with equal acceptance. Bro. Gordon, R.W.M. of St. Viner Lodge, then proposed "The Prosperity of the Neptune Lodge," which was responded to by Bro. Mitchell, who next proposed "Prosperity to the Town and Trade of Aberdeen," which was responded to by Bro. Commissioner Smart. "The Ladies" was next given and responded to by Bro. McFarland. Bro. McLauchlen was then requested to sing a song, which he did in a very efficient manner, which brought that part of the proceedings to a close. The assembly then returned upstairs and finished the programme of dancing, the band—a most efficient one—was provided by Bro. Shanks. The assembly broke up about 4.30, all highly pleased with the whole proceedings.

ROYAL ARCH.

The Caledonian Unity R.A. Chapter, No. 73, was held on the 29th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Buchanan-street. The first work done was conferring the ancient degree of Most Excellent Master on Bro. Allison, who was duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry, both ceremonies being well and ably done. Comps. David Gilchrist, M.E.Z.; R. H. McCulloch, H.; T. Findler, J.; and the other officers distinguished themselves by their accurate and correct manner in which they performed their duties, which convinced all present that the chapter will lose none of its prestige by those who now hold office in this well established chapter. The necessary arrangements were made to hold the future meetings of the Royal Ark Mariners and Red Cross degrees in connection with this chapter.

Poetry.

IN MEMORIAM

Of a Brother Freemason, who died at the early age of 25 years, after a short illness.

(Written by his own Brother, also a Freemason.)

Cease, cease, ye falling tears,
Joy cometh not with years,
Nor holiness with hoary head and age.
Lament not for the dust
Of him, the pure, the just,
Nor for the death of one whose life was one unsullied page.

The flowers that sweetly bloom,
Above the sombre tomb,
Must die; but from their graves new beauties rise.

So, in the death of him,
We see, though faint and dim,
A greater and immortal glory in the skies.

What, though he was the joy
Of all who knew the boy?
What, though no frown o'er-cast the summer of his brow?

What, though his death has left
Heart's woes in those bereft?
A greater one than kings has called him—that we know.

No, mother, cease the sigh,
And, sister, dry the eye,
And, brothers, cease the bitter sombre tone;

God gives and takes away,
Submissive bear the sway
Of Him to whom our wants are better felt and known.

We mourn for those who die
In fell iniquity;
But with the good—in heaven we'll hold a tryst.

When from earth's griefs released,
And God for sin appeased,
We'll gather all together round our brother
Christ.

'Tis natural to mourn,
For those so sad, forlorn;
Yet joy on earth is but a shadow and a dream.

Bliss dwells with God alone;
On earth we must atone
The sins that from our fallen nature stream.

Nay, weep no more for one
Now gathered to the throne,
But think, perchance for us, he is pleading with our God;
That when life's stage is past,
To give us peace at last;
And thinking this, oh! let us calmly kiss
the rod.

LEWIS.

"Father, you speak of Masons wise,
Who seek by their mystic art to rise
From nethermost earth to highest skies:
Oh! where do those Masons dwell?"

"Live they in caverns dark and drear,
Where never doth ray of sun appear,
And Death seems ever lurking near?
Dear Father, I pray thee, tell.

"Do they walk on earth like other men,
Or hide themselves like cowards when
They wish to shun all human ken:
If so, oh! say, is it well?"

"Lewis, each Mason loves his art—
Enshrines it in his throbbing heart—
Till called by Death he doth depart
To the mansions of delight.

"He fears no prying mortal's sight,
Nor seeks he caverns dark as night;
But works in golden orient light,
Secure in his Master's might.

"Lewis, my son, thou'rt swift and strong,
Feebly thy father moves along;
'Twould cheer him couldst thou hear the song
We sing in the entrance rite.

"May the tools I use, my son, be thine,
Thy aid in failing age be mine
'Till I reach that mystic light divine
Which guides our footsteps right.

"Oh! son, be wise; short is the span
Granted by God the Great to man,
To seek those truths which only can
A Mason's soul delight.

LINES

WRITTEN ON HEARING OF THE LATE LAMENTED DEATH OF

BRO. J. UDALL, P.G.D., &c.

A Mason's Daughter, having heard with deep regret of the death of that kind-hearted and benevolent gentleman, Bro. Udall, ventures to crave a small space in the columns of THE FREEMASON (to the pages of which she has before contributed) for the insertion of the following little tribute to his memory.

One who recollects his kindness
Grieves that he is now no more,
Sympathizes with his loved ones
On the loss that all deplore.

Well the writer knows the suffering
Of that lonely hour of gloom,
When the orphan weeps in sorrow
O'er a cherished parent's tomb;

Yet the promise of re-union
In our last bright home on high,
Wipes the bitter tears of anguish
From the mourner's streaming eye.

Each dark cloud hath silver border,
And the hopes we fix above
Will, we trust, receive fulfilment
In the Saviour's realm of love.

FAITH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION. — The above
Lodge of Instruction is held every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the spacious and commodious rooms at Bro. Fisher's Restaurant, Metropolitan District Railway Station, Victoria, S.W. Ceremonies and lectures worked every Tuesday, except the third Tuesday in the month, when the ceremonies alone are rehearsed. The DOMATIC CHAPTER OF IN-STRUCTION is also held in the above rooms every Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, from October until April inclusive.

REPORT OF Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the "Lancet" Sanitary Commission, Author of "Food and its Adulterations," &c., &c., on Mayar's Semolina:
"I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country." —
(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London. —
Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids,
&c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Mange,
&c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar's Semolina.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS. — Damp Weather: Diseases of the Throat. — Whenever the atmosphere is saturated with moisture a vast number of throat affections arise which, when neglected, soon become complicated and serious.
Holloway's Ointment rubbed twice a day over the top of the chest and the glands of the neck, is admirably adapted to cure all such complaints; it penetrates the cutaneous pores, reduces inflammation, and cures without pain of swallowing medicine, which is a matter of momentous consideration in children, when mental irritation begets fever and increases the severity of every symptom. In quinsy, diphtheria, ulcerated sore throat, and scarlatina this Ointment rubbed on the skin will dissipate all dangerous indications. — [Adv't]

ANCIENT & ACCEPTED RITE.

CONSECRATION OF THE PALESTINE CHAPTER
ROSE CROIX H.R.D.M.

On Saturday, the 28th ult., this Chapter was consecrated at Freemasons' Tavern, by Ill. Bro. Hyde Pullen, 33°, in the presence of the following brethren:—Ill. Bros. C. J. Vigne, 33°, M.P.S.G.C.; Capt. N. G. Phillips, 33°, G.T.G.; Rev. Wentworth Bowyer, 33°, G.C.; Sir Michael Costa 33°, J.M.P. Montagu 33°, Prince Rhodocanakis 33°, S. Rosenthal 33°, R. Hamilton 32°, Col. F. Burdett 32°, Major E. H. Finney 31°, J. Hervey 30°, F. Binckes 30°, C. H. Cox 30°, J. Starkey 30°, G. A. Phayre 30°, C. J. B. Plestow 30°, D. M. Dewar, 18°, M.W.S. Mount Calvary Chapter; G. Kenning, 18°, Invicta Chapter; R. Wentworth Little, 18°, Mount Calvary Chapter; and E. C. Layard, 18°, Chapter "Good Hope," Cape Town.

The work was performed in the masterly manner characteristic of all Bro. Pullen's labours in the high grades, and the following brethren were afterwards admitted to the 18°:—Bros. H. C. Levander, T. Cubitt, T. L. Fox, Capt. J. Bertrand Payne, C. Hammerton, J. Coutts, W. B. Johnston, J. Dyer, J. T. Moss, E. Stanton Jones, J. W. Barrett, and T. B. Yeoman.

Bro. Hervey was then installed as M.W.S., and appointed as his officers, Bros. R. Wentworth Little, High Prelate, and Col. Burdett, 1st General, the other posts being left vacant. Bro. Kenning was unanimously elected a joining member, and the distinction of honorary member was awarded to Bro. Pullen, 33°, for his fraternal and efficient aid in consecrating the chapter.

After the protracted labours of the day, the brethren adjourned to a banquet, which was one of Bro. Francatelli's best efforts in a gastronomic sense.

Bournemouth Chapter.—The Advent meeting of the Chapter was held on Tuesday, the 29th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Bournemouth. The following members of the S.G.C. 33° were present: Ill. Bros. C. J. Vigne 33°, N. G. Phillips, 33°, J. P. M. Montagu 33°, the other visitors were, Bros. Thomas Combs 32°, and F. H. Woodforde, M.D., 30°. The S.G.C. 33° presented the warrant to the chapter. The M.W.S. for the year ensuing, Bro. P. H. Newnham 30°, was installed by his predecessor, Bro. J. T. Briant, 18°. The M.W.S. then appointed his officers as follows:—F. G. Horder 18°, H.P.; E. W. Rebbeck, 1st Gen.; M. Webb, 2nd Gen.; E. B. Kemp-Welch, R.; G. Gooch, G.M.; H. F. Brouncker, Herald; W. Reade, Capt. of Guard. Bro. Reade having been elected was then received, and after the M.W.S. had given him the intermediate degrees, was duly perfected according to the ancient rites and ceremonies. The Audit Committee read their report, and it was a subject of much congratulation from the S.G.C. 33°, that the Bournemouth Chapter entered on the second year of its existence, with a fair balance in the hands of its Treasurer. Votes of thanks was carried by acclamation to the S.G.C. 33°, to the Past M.W.S., to the Recorder, and to some kind ladies who had presented the Chapter with a kneeler and an alms-bag. The third point was then given, and the Chapter was declared closed.

INSTRUCTION.

Wellington Lodge of Instruction, No. 548.—This well-established lodge of instruction held its regular weekly meeting on Monday, the 28th ult., at the White Swan Tavern, Deptford. Bro. A. Pulley, S.W. 169, presided as W.M., assisted by Bros. Watkins, S.W.; Shaw, J.W.; Hill, S.D.; Lord, J.D.; C. Porter, I.G.; C. G. Dilley, W.M. 1155; and others were present. The ceremony of initiation was done in a satisfactory manner. The first section was worked by Bro. C. G. Dilley, and the second by Bro. Watkins, both being done in an able manner. The usual election of W.M. followed, and the lodge was adjourned. This lodge is one of the many lodges in this neighbourhood and in the London district where any Mason can procure good and sound knowledge which will enable him to carry out any officer's duties in a proficient manner. The hours of meeting are from seven to nine.

Star Lodge of Instruction, No. 1275.—This young and prosperous lodge, which has never failed to meet on every Saturday night since its formation (now more than a twelvemonth since), held its usual weekly meeting at the Marquis of Granby, New Cross Road. Bro. H. Keeble, J.W. 1275, occupied the chair as W.M., and was supported by Bros. Young, S.W.; W. Myatt, J.W.; C. J. Hogg, P.M., Treas.; C. G. Dilley, Sec.; A. Pulley, S.D.; Shaw, J.D.; Allwright, I.G.; F. Walters, P.M.; A. H. Tattershall, P.M.; T. Perridge, S. O. Lewin, and several others. The ceremony of initiation was worked in an admirable manner, and pleased all who were present. The sections were then given in a most faultless manner. Bro. Shaw worked the first, Bro. C. G. Dilley the second, and Bro. Comb the third section of the first degree. Notice was given by the Secretary, Bro. C. G. Dilley, that at the next meeting £1 will be given to the male and £1 to the female annuity funds from the lodge funds. One to be placed on Bro. Perridge's list and one on Bro. Keeble's, both representing their lodge as Stewards at the forthcoming Festival of the Royal Benevolent Institution.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA,

Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.

Guaranteed to contain NOTHING BUT PURE SOLUBLE COCOA of the finest quality. COCOATINA is the highest class of Cocoa or Chocolate that can possibly be produced. It has been celebrated many years for purity, flavour, strength, unvarying quality, and solubility.

The FACULTY pronounce it "the most nutritious and perfectly digestible Cocoa." It is absolutely free from sugar or any admixture, the "excess of fatty matter" being extracted without prejudice to flavour or nutritive quality, thus forming a soothing, invigorating, perfectly digestible, and delicious beverage.

Sold in air-tight Cylindrical Tin Packages only, at 1s. 6d., 3s., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d., and 20s. each, by all Chemists, Grocers, Italian Warehousemen, and Confectioners.

COCOATINA A LA VANILLE, at same prices, is superior to the best Vanilla Chocolates—much cheaper, perfectly digestible, and made instantaneously.

THE BEST PUDDING.MAYAR'S SEMOLINA.*NOTICE.

Read this with care and attention.)

THE MANUFACTORY OF MAYAR'S SEMOLINA was established in 1815. It is the oldest and the largest in the World, Twenty-five Million pounds being yearly produced. (25,000,000.)

Our SEMOLINA is the staple food in France, Russia, Spain, Italy, &c., and will soon be that of England. It has obtained in the Great Exhibitions for its superiority over all others, and is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical Profession, both in London and in Paris, to be far more Nutritious than Tapioca, Arrowroot, corn flour (which are only Starch), or any farinaceous food already introduced into this country. See Dr. Hassall's Analytical Report in the columns of this paper.

24 PRIZE MEDALS

N.B.—Being determined to maintain its reputation, we again CAUTION the Public, that an imitation, to which a false and ridiculous name has been given, introduced by a well known Firm, taking advantage of its name and publicity to sell a similar article of very inferior quality, to realise extra profits, and who advertise in favour of that article the qualities possessed by our Semolina.

As a proof of our assertion we challenge a comparison, by analysis, between our SEMOLINA and the so-called Pearlina.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is solely the heart of the very best Wheat.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is richer than any other farinaceous food in Azotic matter, indispensable in the muscular formation of the body.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Highly recommended by the Faculty for Children and Invalids

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is extremely nourishing and easily digested.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA makes delicious Puddings, Custards and Pastry

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA unequalled for thickening Soups, Beef Tea, and Gruels.

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA is the greatest delicacy for Breakfast and Supper

MAYAR'S SEMOLINA Is very economical. May be used with or without Milk. Recipes on each Package. 6d. lb. in Packet, 8d. in Canister.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, &c.

HOMINY.

MAYAR'S HOMINY, produced from the best Indian Maze, without any adulteration obtained by grinding, is far superior to the Maize Corn Flour already introduced in this country, which is only Starch obtained by a process of washing, which deteriorates entirely the quality, and is sold at a very high price.

Sold by all Chemists, Grocers, and Corn Dealers.

GRAND HARMONIUMS FOR MASONIC LODGES.THE "OBERON" HARMONIUM.

"A dwelling-place

For all sweet sounds and harmonies."—WORDSWORTH.

THE value of Musical Instruments lies in quality. These Harmoniums are delicately voiced, and will speak to the least breath of wind, giving their full harmonies as equally prompt as the lightest strains of melody; clearness of tone is rich and bright, yielding full, sustained, and sonorous harmonies.

The diapason character of the "Oberon" Harmonium is thoroughly in sympathy with the timbre of the English voice, and affords an admirable support both in solo and in choral singing.

Novel in style and construction, and elegant in design. Pedal Harmoniums built to specification.

Instruments specially prepared for India, with mahogany sound-boards, and every care in providing for the get-at-able-ness of all the interior arrangements.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it.

Obituary.

BROTHER WILLIAM FOX,

Of Batley, Yorkshire.

It is our painful duty to record the death of Bro. William Fox, an old member of the Nelson of the Nile Lodge, No. 264, Batley. The deceased was initiated on November 25th, 1849, and raised January 28th, 1850, and after having served several minor offices in the lodge, was eventually elected Treasurer, the duties of which office he honourably discharged for the long period of twelve years. He was a good Mason in every sense of the word, and was held in high esteem by his brethren, having been a member of the lodge in difficult times. He had of late suffered from a very severe illness, which proved too strong for his constitution, and after having passed through the heat and burden of his day with honour and credit, it pleased the Almighty to call him hence on the 8th inst., at the advanced age of 62. Having expressed a desire to be buried with Masonic honours, the brethren willingly complied with his request, and, for that purpose, a dispensation for the brethren to appear at the funeral in Masonic clothing was obtained from the W.D.P.G.M. of West Yorkshire, Bro. Bentley Shaw. A Lodge of Emergency was duly convened by circular to meet on the 11th inst., to enable the brethren to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased worthy brother. The lodge having been opened by the W.M., Bro. Benjamin P. Parker, and the dispensation read, the brethren, to the number of about seventy, formed in procession, under the directions of Bro. James Preston, D. of C., assisted by Bro. Joshua Gomersal, P.M., and proceeded to the residence of the departed brother to escort his remains to their last resting-place. The visitors present on the occasion included representatives from the following lodges:—De Warren (1302, Halifax), Saville (1231, Elland), Scarborough (1214, Sotherhill), Trafalgar (971, Batley), St. James's (448, Halifax), Integrity (380, Morley), and three Grand Principals (208, Dewsbury). The proceedings throughout were solemn and impressive. The remains of our departed brother having been deposited in the grave, the usual Masonic salutation was imposingly given by the brethren around, after which the procession re-formed, and the brethren returned to their rooms and subsequently closed the lodge with due solemnity, as the occasion required.

BROTHER J. ABRAHAMS.

It is with very great and deep regret we announce the death of Bro. J. Abrahams, P.M. 185, Lodge of Tranquility, which sad event took place on Tuesday, the 27th inst. He suffered from an attack of paralysis, which terminated his existence. He was beloved by all who knew him, and he has left a wife and family, who will mourn his loss.

FREEMASONRY IN BRIGHTON.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

The first month of the new year will find the Masons of Brighton active and well employed, both in and out of lodge. Of the thirty-one days which is January's share of the three hundred and sixty-five children of the year, at least seven, or to speak by the card, six (for two events fall on the same evening) will be taken up with Masonic engagements.

It is the growing conviction, based on long experience, that the four Craft lodges now working in the town are inadequate to the demands made by this large town for Masonic accommodation, a larger amount of which is needed, consequent on the many social and professional jealousies which always prevail in a provincial town. It is found as a rule that the Masonic gathering are well attended, especially when festive occasions permit the greater number of brethren to prove their competency to bear the "knife, fork, and spoon" decoration. Of these festive gatherings there will be four during the month. The first on Tuesday (1st Tuesday), January 3rd, on which day the Royal York Lodge, No. 315, will hold a business meeting, under the presidency of Bro. James Curtis, the much esteemed W.M. (who was two or three years since elected to the high and distinguished position of Grand Master of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows). He is a good working Mason, and held in high esteem by all his brother Masons, except by the select few who "rule and govern" the province of Sussex, who have not yet recognised his undoubted claim to the honours of Provincial Grand Lodge, many others of far inferior merit having been decorated while he is silently passed by.

The second, Thursday January 12th, the Royal Brunswick Lodge, No. 732, will meet, and the principal business will be to install a highly-respected brother, one who is esteemed both in and out of the Craft. We refer to Bro. Edward Carpenter, who for many years past has been the unwearied Secretary of the Flower Shows held in Brighton during the months of June and September. In this capacity he has won golden opinions from his fellow-townsmen. Doubtless, as head of his lodge he will justify the expectations formed of his efforts as a good worker in the subordinate offices of the lodge. It is rumoured that an ex-Mayor of Brighton will be selected as the S.W., and that the officers to be appointed will in every respect justify the expectation that after a year of good working, prosperity and progress will be before the lodge. After the installation, the brethren will banquet together, according to the custom which has prevailed in the lodge since its foundation.

On Friday, January 20th (third Friday), the Royal Clarence, No. 271, will meet for the purpose of Masonic business. The present W.M., Bro. Beard, is a physician of considerable eminence in his profession, and well-known in Sussex on account of his valuable services rendered for many years past to the Sussex County Hospital. The inhabitants of Brighton generally, and a large circle of personal friends particularly, have heard with regret that Bro. Beard is likely to leave Brighton for the north of England, he having accepted an official appointment of considerable importance.

The third Saturday, January 21st, will find the members of the Yarborough Lodge, No. 811, assembling; but on this occasion Bro. Edward Turner, 30°, the present W.M., will have little else to do, save with his usual genial manner and ready wit, to preside at the banquet table. The banquets of this lodge have always been given with a due and considerate regard for those who honour it with their presence. It has been well and truly said, that hospitality, good fellowship, and honest and hearty welcome are the distinguishing characteristics of the members of this lodge.

On Wednesday (4th Wednesday) January 25th, the installation meeting of the Royal Sussex Lodge of Mark Master Masons will take place. On this occasion, in addition to the expected advancement of several candidates, Bro. W. Hudson, P.M. 315 and J. Chapter 732, will be installed in the chair of Adonhiram. This brother, known among his more immediate and personal friends as "Household Removal" or "Ecosphveron," is very popular, and his unanimous election to the office of Master has given general satisfaction, and doubtless under his rule the lodge will continue to increase in prosperity and popularity, and in the same usefulness which has marked its career since its establishment a few years ago. After the lodge is closed, the brethren intend to banquet at the Terminus Hotel, Queen's-road (Bro. Pearson's), where past experience assures us that no disappointment will be likely to take place on account of either caterer or cook. Royal Arch Masonry in Brighton is not so active as all true Masons could desire. There are established in the town but two R.A. Chapters, one of which, the Royal Sussex, No. 732, will meet on the 26th of January. The same evening a ball, in aid of the Masonic Charities, will be held in the magnificent rooms of the Royal Pavilion. This ball is an annual one, and given under the auspices of the Royal York Lodge, No. 315. Forty-five stewards are on the list, and comprise the names of present and past Grand Officers of the province of Sussex. This ball under such circumstances, cannot fail to be what it has ever been, a most fashionable and attractive gathering. The balance of profit, and it should be a handsome one, is always paid over to one or other of the Masonic institutions. Bro. C. W. Hudson, of 71, Queen's road, is the acting and accommodating honorary secretary, who will gladly answer all inquiries addressed to him.

The Masonic sojourner tired of London, wearied of its attractions, bored with its tide of traffic, and used up with respect to its novelties, may, if he be so disposed, most advantageously spend the best part of the month of January in Brighton, where, during the day,

From morn till dewy eve,

he may revel in an almost endless round of entertainments so lavishly provided to amuse and delight the visitor; or he may seek health on or by the sea, or in the use of the luxurious Turkish Bath; and he may, in addition with the result of "pleasure and profit," indulge his Masonic tastes in at least three of the divisions of Freemasonry, and on one occasion at least he may couple enjoyment with benevolence.

This review of the coming month of January in Brighton must now be closed, and in doing so let us express a hope that all who join in the various engagements set forth will, at times during their enjoyment, remember the Tyler's words, "To all poor and distressed Masons," and let us add, "their sons and daughters," so many of whom require our aid to fit them for life's battle.

ANCIENT AND PRIMITIVE RITE OF MISRAIM.

An assembly of the Conservators General of the Rite of Misraim was held at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, on Wednesday, the 28th inst., for the purpose of opening the "Bective" Sanctuary of Levites, the 33° of the Rite, a Supreme Council General of the 90° having been regularly formed under the authority conveyed in a diploma granted to the Ill. Bro. Crémieux, 33° of the Rite Ecossais, and a member of the Grand College of Rites in France.

The sanctuary having been formally opened, between eighty and a hundred brethren were duly admitted by sevens at a time, and obligated as members of the 33°, and that number, large as it may appear, would doubtless have been still greater had it not been for the extreme inclemency of the weather, and the absence of many brethren from town for the Christmas holidays.

In our next we will furnish more particulars of this interesting meeting, merely adding that, although the Rite is now attached to the Red Cross Order for administrative purposes, and the thirty-seven conclaves on the roll are authorised to confer it, yet all non-Christian Master Masons are eligible for reception into the Order.

The Right Hon. the Earl of Bective is the Sovereign Grand Master (nominate), and the next two officers are also Provincial Grand Masters in the Craft, as well as distinguished members of other branches of Freemasonry. Under such auspices the Rite is destined to attain a very high position in the Masonic world, and we heartily wish it every success.

that privilege for the peace and harmony of the lodge, which ought to be consulted.

7th.—Three shillings and sixpence per quarter to be paid by each member.

8th.—To prevent any Master from acting tyrannically, a power shall be given to any six, every regular lodge night, to demand a ballot for his deposition, if good reason can be shown for the same.

26 Aug. 1756. A lottery ticket to be bought.

27 July 1758. It was agreed to meet at Brother Bond's, at Lowestoff, on Monday, Aug. 14, 1758, to hold a lodge.

29 Mar. 1759. Sister Hansby to be allowed 18d. a week.—No suppers to be got ready on account of the lodge, but each brother to sup at home, or by himself, and to have got that by 8 o'clock.

30 April, 1759.—Abstract of a letter from the Compté T at the initiation of his son at Brunswick, Lower Saxony, where Prince Ferdinand is Grand Master:—"I congratulate you on your admission with the most ancient and perhaps the most respectable Society in the universe. To you the mysteries of Masonry are about to be revealed, and so bright a light a sun never shewed lustre on your eyes. In this awful moment when prostrate at this holy altar, do you not shudder at every crime and have you not confidence in every virtue! May this reflection inspire you with noble sentiments; may you be penetrated with a religious abhorrence of every vice that degrades human nature; and may you feel the elevation of soul which scorns a dishonourable action, and ever invites to the practice of piety and virtue."

27 Nov. 1760. Bro. Mercier, a French prisoner, allowed 7d. a week towards lodging.

"By-Lodge held Aug. 16, 1763, at which time the following Bn. was made Excellent and Super Excellent Masons by Brother James Pomfrett, from Norwich, and Bro. Richd. Baxter, Assist., and Bro. King formed the lodge for the above."

29 Mar. 1764. Bro. Harmer paid 2s. for wearing E.A. jewel.

26 Dec. 1771. The lodge informed by letter from the Grand Lodge not to admit as Masons the M., W.'s and Sec. of Lodge Caledonian, No. 263, Half Moon Tavern, Cheapside.

24 Feb. 1774. One Guinea given towards building the Hall for the Grand Lodge.

1776. Charges on making, one guinea; jewel, 2s.; Grand Lodge, 2s. 6d.; passing, 4s.; raising, 4s.

8 Mar. 1780. A letter to be sent to the Prov. G. Sec. for Norfolk, that it is very inconvenient for any members of this lodge to attend at Norwich, that this lodge has sent all dues, but know of not more than two brethren of this lodge who have received charity from the Gr. Lodge (say £5 each) for more than 12 years.

25 Mar. 1795. The law of taking the chair by succession to be abolished, and to be taken by ballot.

ON Sunday, the Rev. E. Chalmer, junior, M.A., preached at Fulwood Church, Sheffield, on the occasion of celebrating the putting in of three new stained-glass windows in memory of the late Bro. White. These handsome windows have been subscribed for chiefly by the brethren of the district, by whom the deceased brother was very highly esteemed, not only for his high abilities, but also for his great kindness and the diligence with which he attended to the numerous responsibilities which he undertook for the benefit of the Order. The centre window contains a beautiful figure of King Solomon attired in his robes, with a sceptre in one hand and a scroll in the other, in which is supposed to be inscribed a plan of the temple. Surrounding the leading figure are a number of Masonic emblems. The tracery is also very beautifully designed, and the colouring is exquisite. The two lights next to the centre are very beautifully arranged tracery windows, and the whole memorial is carried out in a most satisfactory manner. Bro. Britain acted as Secretary to the fund. The reverend gentleman preached a most eloquent and highly appropriate discourse from the text contained in 2 Kings, 22nd chapter and 7th verse. In the course of his address he alluded to the Masonic Craft being founded on principles thoroughly in harmony with Scriptural truth, and based upon laws which induced morality and virtue of the highest order. He also referred to the exemplary character of his late worthy brother, in whose memory the windows with which the church had just been beautified had been designed, and he expressed a hope that his zeal in many good works would be emulated by many in the neighbourhood. A vast number of brethren from various parts were present at the service, which was listened to with wrapt attention.

"HAVING been cured of rheumatism by your Vegetable Pain Killer, I take pleasure in sending you this testimonial. I have used it also for colds, coughs, neuralgia, diarrhoea, &c., and consider it a most valuable family medicine, and would not willingly be without it.—JOHN NEASON, Farmer, Besley, June, 1869.—To P. Davis & Son."

Obituary.

THE R.W. BROTHER THOMAS HENRY HALL,

Provincial Grand Master for Cambridgeshire.

Another prominent member of our Order has succumbed to the King of Terrors. Bro. Hall, with the exception of Lord Zealand, the oldest Provincial Grand Master in England, died on the 14th inst., having attained the ripe age of 75 years. Our deceased brother was initiated more than forty years ago, namely, on the 22nd of March, 1827, in the Shakespeare Lodge, No. 99, and soon attained distinction in the Craft, having been appointed Grand Registrar by the then Grand Master, the Duke of Sussex, in 1841. He was promoted to the rank of Provincial Grand Master for Cambridgeshire on the 11th November, 1843, and retained that high position to the time of his decease. It will be within the recollection of our readers that Bro. Hall administered the oaths de fidele to the Earls de Grey and Carnarvon upon their installations as Grand Master and Deputy Grand Master respectively.

BROTHER CAPTAIN JOHN CARR CHAMBERS.

Last week we recorded the death of Bro. Captain Chambers, who departed this life on the 26th of May, 1870, at his residence, Birkbeck Cottage, Parton, Whitehaven, Cumberland. The deceased belonged to H.M. Hanoverian Regiment, Lucia, Jamaica. He was the eldest son of Alexander Chambers, of Rock Rinson, of that place, whose father and mother, John and Isabella Chambers (immediate descendants of the first family who settled on the beautiful Island of Jamaica, under a grant from the English Crown, 1640), were the first receivers and zealous promulgators of the doctrines of Emanuel Swedenborg in the Island, and indeed among the very earliest of his disciples in any part of the world. Through them the heavenly principles have been transmitted faithfully to a fourth generation.

The late lamented father and mother, Alexander and Lydia Chambers, of the venerated subject of this memorial being distinguished both for the active goodness and exceeding piety of their lives, accompanied with unfailing Christian faith and increasing endeavour to inculcate the same in the minds of all their family and household, and of all whom opportunity offered for influencing. But with none did they succeed in making so vivid an impression as on their son, John Carr Chambers, whose exemplary life has been so lately brought to a close, under the influence of the Divine doctrines, through a course of trying vicissitudes and severe family afflictions; and the ardent desire to benefit his fellow-creatures to the utmost of his power—to avoid giving them offence, alike in prosperity and adversity, by word or deed—in the former, ever referring success to the Great Dispenser of all; in the latter, bearing every trial with Christian meekness and firmness. Of the most perfect and unassuming piety; an utter abnegation of self, with most scrupulous exactness in all things; of solid judgment and immutable integrity; of the coolest bravery and the utmost sweetness of disposition, and loving kindness of manner—he won the esteem and friendship of all who knew him, and has left a chasm in the hearts of his sorrowing family never to be refilled in their passage through this transitory life. In his native country he filled many civic offices with honour and superior ability, besides the undaunted and devoted discharge of his military appointments during the last general insurrection of the negroes, when, among other exertions of his sterling talents, he trained a troop under his own directions, which enforced the admiration of the best officers of the British Army, and owing to its conduct and that of its youthful commander, confirmed the claim, long since accorded, of the Jamaica regiments to rank with those of the standard army of Great Britain. He passed from the office of Ensign to that of Captain with unprecedented rapidity, and was so much beloved by the unfortunate Blacks, that, when some of these poor, misguided people were on trial, they declared, "They had refused to fire when they had good aim at Massa John, because he had always been so good to them."

He also attained in proportionately brief space of time to the highest degrees conferred by the Honourable Fraternity of Freemasons, of which he had become a member at the age of one-and-twenty, and to which he was always sincerely attached on account of the esteem in which he held their principle of effecting good to mankind by brotherly love and union.

The changes which took place in his beloved Island about the year 1836, to the utter depression of all its best interests and the ruin of so many opulent and generous homes, determined Captain Chambers to accompany his father on a brief visit to this country, for the purpose of consulting an oculist. He then took up his abode here, which a series of family bereavements and pecuniary disappointments induced him to continue ever since.

During the last two years of his life he was confined almost entirely to the house by an extremely painful lameness, which he bore with an unflinching fortitude and a confiding resignation to the will of the Most High, united with the tenderest consideration for all who ministered to him. His mental faculties never being impaired in the slightest degree until within nine days of his lamented death, which took place on the day fortnight of the anniversary of his 71st year. Death was brought on by a sudden gastric derangement from recent affliction, which terminated in paralysis. The last night he was capable of distinct and coherent speech he made a pathetic appeal to the Lord and Saviour, concluding with a meek and unqualified submission to His divine will and ordinance. After that a few heartrending days and nights of intense suffering, borne in quiet patience, closed his innocent and benevolent life.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

PRESCOT.—The William de la More Encampment.—An assembly of this conclave was held at the New Court House, on Friday, the 9th inst., under the presidency of Sir Knt. W. H. Wright, V.E. D.P.G.C., supported by Sir Knts. G. P. Brockbank, Prov. Grand Chancellor; T. H. Winder, Prov. Grand Chancellor; J. N. Porter, Prelate; J. T. Hall, P.G., First Expert; W. H. Hopkins, Prov. Grand A.D.C.; S. Morris, P.E.; &c., &c., &c. The conclave having been duly opened and the minutes confirmed, the following approved candidates were regularly installed in due form as Knights of the Order, viz., Comps. George Turner, Reginald Young, Arthur Gield and Phillip Whittaker, Chapter of Lebanon, No. 86; also Comps. Jos. Kellet Smith, Temple Chapter, No. 1094. The conclave then proceeded to install the Eminent Commander-Elect, Sir Knt. James Turner Hall, after which the E.C. made the following appointments for the ensuing year: Sir Knts. J. W. J. Fowler, 1st Capt.; S. Morris, 2nd Capt.; G. Turner, Reg.; P. Whittaker, Almoner; R. Young, Expert; A. Field, Standard-Bearer; and J. K. Smith, Capt. of the Lines. The V.E. D.P.G.C. then stated, he had been instructed to inform Sir Knights, that the V.E. P.G.C., Albert Hudson Roysds, proposed presenting them with a complete set of books, and that he himself should at all times be most happy to do all in his power to forward the interests of the William de la More Encampment. Heartly congratulations for the prosperity of the conclave from various encampments having been given, the encampment was closed in due form and with prayer at six o'clock. The Sir Knights adjourned to the Royal Hotel, where a banquet was provided, which did great credit to the worthy host. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Enoch Lodge, No. 11.—The second meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall on Wednesday, the 14th inst. Bro. Edward John Lewis, W.M., presided, and opened the lodge, when the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. W. H. Stallard, of Lodge No. 463, was ballotted for and unanimously elected a joining member. The brethren present were H. Potter, Chas. Watson, P. Matthews, J. Dale, J. B. Ciabatta, W. Honey, and C. Montrie, P.M.'s; Medcalf, Young, Brown, Webb, McQueen, Taylor, Whittaker, and Palmer, S.W. The visitors were Bros. Kershaw, I. P.M. Confidence Lodge, No. 23; S. Stallard, John of Gaunt Lodge, Leicester; and Keene. Bro. Palmer, S.W., was unanimously elected the W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. Charles Watson, P.M., Treasurer; the Tyler was also elected. The brethren adjourned to a most excellent banquet. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, &c., the Tyler's toast concluding a delightful evening.

Lodge of Justice, No. 147.—This old lodge met on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at the White Swan Tavern, 217, High-street, Deptford. Bro. J. Percival, W.M., supported by his officers, P.M.'s, and a large number of members presided. The second degree was given in an efficient manner; the election for W.M. resulted in favour of J. Whiffen, S.W. The Treas. J. Lightfoot, P.M., was re-elected. The lodge was closed, refreshment followed labour.

St. James's Union Lodge, No. 180.—A meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 13th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. J. R. Stacey, W.M., presided, and the work was giving Bro. Hayes the 3rd degree, Bros. Henson and Francatelli the 2nd, and Messrs. W. C. Strickland and J. A. Runciman the 1st. Bros. A. Nish and C. H. May were admitted as joining members. The ballot for W.M. was declared to be in favour of Bro. Hers, S.W.; Bro. Robinson was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. J. Gilbert, Tyler. The usual P.M.'s jewel was voted to the retiring W.M. A banquet followed, served under the direction of Bro. Francatelli, which gave general satisfaction. The customary loyal and Masonic toasts were heartily honoured, and some good vocal and instrumental music were blended with them. "The Initiates" was responded to by all the newly-admitted brethren, and each of the visitors also returned thanks. "The health of the W.M.," was given by Bro. Cameron, P.M., in a capital speech, and elicited a telling reply. Other toasts followed, and a most agreeable evening was spent. Bro. Hart presided at the piano. The visitors were Bros. Kench (P.M. 538), Ascott (W.M. 733), Reed (P.M. and W.M.-elect 733), Powell (I.G. 22), Davis (S.W. 753), M. Richards (J.W. 733), R. G. Batt (P.M. 147), F. Walters (W.M. 1309), Wheeler, Lane, H. Melberg (W.M. 32, Holland), &c.

Confidence Lodge, No. 193.—On Monday, the 12th inst., the installation meeting of this lodge was held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street. Bro. R. Lee, W.M., occupied the chair, and was supported by Bros. Williams, S.W.; W. Thomas, J.W., W.M. elect; G. F. S. Warne, P.M., Treas.; J. Rogers, P.M., Sec.; W. Cutting, S.D.; J. Shackell, J.D.; J. King, I.G.; B. D. Kershaw, S. Webb, and J. W. Bentley, P.M.'s; C. G. Hill, A. A. Well, T. Sweetland, E. W. Fitica, A. Bishop, G. Brett, H. L. Miles, R. Scott, F. Bonney, G. Banks, C. W. Ansell, A. S. Godfrey, R. Howland, S. Hill, H. W. Thompson, J. Robert, T. Heath, W. B. Pringle, J. J. Griffith, and many others. A large number of visiting brethren were also present. The W.M., in his usual able manner, raised Bros. Sweetland and Wells to the 3rd degree, passed Bros. Ansell, Thompson, S. Hill, Howland, and Godfrey to the 2nd degree, and initiated Mr. E. J. Barker. Bro. S. Webb, P.M., having taken the chair, installed Bro. W. Thomas as W.M. for the ensuing year. The usual routine business closed the lodge, and banquet followed.

Lodge La Tolerance, No. 538.—A meeting of this distinguished lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, on the 1st inst. There were present Bros. Jas. Kench, W.M., in the chair; T. E. Hardy, S.W.; Lindus, J.W.; Sly, Sec.; Hart, S.D.; Steward, J.D.; Thicke, I.G.; and the following brethren:—E. Wilson and Burmeister, P.M.'s; W. L. Morrison, Funk, Leech, Flowers, A. C. Thicke, Watson, and Wick. Among the visitors were Bros. Luckie (Villiers Lodge), and Ellis (Stanhope Lodge, No. 1269). The lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the last lodge having been read and confirmed, the lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. W. L. Morrison, a candidate for raising, having passed a satisfactory examination, was entrusted and retired. The lodge was then opened in the third degree, and Bro. Morrison was duly raised to the sublime degree of a M.M. by the W.M. in a very effective and masterly manner. The lodge then proceeded to the election of W.M. and Treasurer, when the S.W. (Bro. T. E. Hardy) was unanimously elected to fill the chair for the ensuing year. The choice of the brethren for the office of Treasurer fell on the W.M., Bro. Kench, who was at once elected to that position. Bro. Woodstock was unanimously re-elected Tyler. The W.M. elect briefly returned thanks for his election, and the W.M. acknowledged the honour conferred upon him by the lodge in electing him to the office of Treasurer. The W.M. elect then, in a highly flattering speech, proposed that a P.M.'s jewel, of the value of £7 7s. should be presented to the W.M., as a slight testimony of his worth and the appreciation in which he was held by the lodge. This having been seconded by the J.W., was carried by acclamation. The W.M., in response, referred to his exertions in the interests of Freemasonry and of this lodge, and promised that whenever his services might be required they would at all times be at the command of the brethren. The Audit Committee having been appointed, and there being no further business, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. After the cloth was removed, the W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts in his happiest vein. In submitting the first toast, "The Queen and the Craft," he said it was one that all Englishmen were proud to drink, for it reminded them, when in distant climes, of home and its kindred ties. We ourselves did not simply invest it with all its happiest attributes, but endeavoured to honour it still further by coupling it with the Craft.—This toast having been received with the utmost cordiality, the W.M. proposed the next toast, "The Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, M.W.G.M.," in an effective speech, in the course of which he said one of the chief characteristics of an Englishman was obedience to lawfully-constituted authority. It was that quality which in no small degree had helped to raise England to the high position she held among nations. That quality pervaded all classes of society, but especially was it manifested among Freemasons. To it he was indebted for the harmony with which he had been permitted to discharge his duties to the lodge; and judging great things by small, he thought his lordship might be congratulated upon holding the high position of ruler of the Craft; and as he worthily filled that position, and was at all times zealous to promote the prosperity of the Craft, so the brethren were happy to render him that obedience which was his due.—This toast having been drunk with the usual honours, the W.M. then proposed "The Health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, P.G.M., and of the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, D.G.M.," in very felicitous terms, the toast being most cordially received.—The next toast, "The Health of the W.M.," was proposed by Bro. Burmeister in an effective manner, and having been received with loud acclamations, the W.M. responded in a very eloquent and exhaustive speech, in the course of which he reviewed the progress of the lodge for the past year, and predicted a happy and successful future.—To the toast of the P.M.'s, Bro. Burmeister replied in a characteristic speech.—The toast of the visitors having been proposed by the W.M., Bro. Luckie responded for himself and brother visitor.—The W.M. then proposed "The Health of the W.M.-elect (Bro. T. E. Hardy), and in doing so, paid a deserved tribute to his merits and his great qualifications for the office to which he had that evening been unanimously elected.—When the cheering with which this toast was received had subsided, Bro. Hardy, in reply, said: W.M., permit me to offer you my heartfelt thanks for the kind, but, I fear, too flattering, manner in which you have submitted to the brethren the toast of my health in connection with my having been elected to fill the office you now occupy. It is with mingled feelings of gratitude, happiness, pride, and fear that I acknowledge the great honour you have done me in electing me Master of this lodge for the ensuing year. It is the highest honour which you, my brethren, have it in your power to bestow, and for having conferred it upon me, I beg you to accept my sincerest thanks. I trust, W.M. and brethren, I may, without exposing myself to a charge of egotism, be permitted to assure you that my gratitude is equalled only by the happiness I experience in entertaining the belief that I have been made the object of your favours from a firm and honest conviction in your minds that I am qualified for the important, honourable, and at the same time responsible, position to which, by your votes, I have this evening been elected. The desire to occupy such a position in not only a pardonable but a laudable position; provided he who seeks it is actuated by no unworthy motive, but by a sincere and honest desire to render himself more extensively serviceable, and by firm resolve to uphold the dignity of the chair and to maintain and promulgate, in their integrity, the grand principles of the Order. Elected to occupy an office of which men enjoying the highest ranks in society have considered themselves honoured in having been made the recipients, it may be permitted to me to confess with how much pride I accept at your hands the great honour you have conferred upon me. Still, W.M. I cannot escape from the fear which possesses me that I may disappoint the expectations which some of the brethren at least are kind enough to indulge respecting my qualifications. And I fear too, brethren, I may fall far short of the excellent working it has been our privilege to witness here during the past year. I am encouraged, however, by the consciousness that I shall have the support and assistance of a very able and efficient P.M., and inspired by the hope that any failings of my own will meet with your kind and fraternal indulgence, I accept the trust you have reposed in me with a firm determination to maintain the dignity of the chair and to promote the interests of the lodge by discharging, to the best of my ability, the duties of the honourable and dignified office of which you have chosen me to become the possessor.—The next toast, "The Officers," was responded to by Bro. Lindus, J.W.—The Tyler's toast brought the banquet to an end, and the brethren separated at an early hour, after having spent a very enjoyable evening, which was enlivened by a selection of vocal and instrumental music.

Dalhousie Lodge, No. 860.—A meeting was held at Anderson's Hotel, on Thursday, the 8th inst. Present: J. W. Williams, W.M.; T. Hardy, S.W.; R. Thomson, J. C.; W. Bristo, P.M., Treas.; F. St. John Ingram, Sec.; H. Dalwood, J.D.; S. F. Littell, P.M.; F. Allen, R. Burr, M. Hermann, W. H. Wallington, C. F. Reed, W. H. Simpson, and others. Visitor, F. Walters, W.M. 1309. The work done was raising Bro. Allen to 3rd degree, and passing Bro. Guest to the second degree. The ballot taken for Bro. Dr. John Campbell White, Westminster Hospital, was unanimous in favour of his admission. He will be initiated at the next meeting. The lodge was closed; no banquet, the brethren separated when the business was ended.

MIDDLESEX.

Acacia Lodge, No. 1309.—This young lodge held its usual monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at the Railway Hotel, Potter's Bar. Bro. Frederick Walters, W.M., presided. He was supported by Bros. E. Sillifant, P.M., Treasurer, as S.W.; G. Cattel, P.M., Sec., as J.W.; West, as S.D.; C. F. Hall, I.G., as J.D.; J. R. Tustin, P.G.S. of Herts, D.C., as I.G.; and several other brethren, including, as visitors, Bros. Selby (157), S. Homewood, S.W. 749, and G. Johnston (5, I.C.). The minutes relating to the removal of the lodge to Potter's Bar were read and confirmed. Mr. Arthur Ovenden was initiated, and Bro. T. Dilkes passed to the second degree, both ceremonies being rendered in a very impressive manner. An appeal from the Steward, Bro. E. Sillifant, P.M., Treas., for the Royal Benevolent Institution, met with a handsome response. Some propositions for initiation were received, and the lodge was closed. Refreshment followed labour.

PROVINCIAL.

SUNDERLAND.—Palatine Lodge, No. 97.—The annual installation meeting of this lodge was held in the New Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland, on Thursday, the 8th inst. Bro. B. Levy, P.P.J.G.W., ably officiated as Installing Master. The following is a full list of the officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—Bros. W. Skelton, W.M.; M. Allison, I.P.M.; J. J. Clay, S.W., R. Humphrey, J.W.; B. Levy, P.M., Treas.; T. Younger, Sec.; S. P. Austin, S.D.; J. Crosby, J.D.; J. J. Saville, I.G.; W. M. Laws, Tyler; Denton, D.C.; Johnson and Chambers, Stewards; Coulson and Allan, Auditors. The attendance of members and visitors was large, among whom were Bros. R. Dixon, W.M.; 80; T. Henderson, W.M. 94; White, W.M. 240; R. Hudson, W.M. 949; W. H. Crookes, P.G.S.; J. Potts, P.P.G.J.G.; P. G. Hoistendalh, P.G.P.; &c.

RINGWOOD.—Lodge Unity, No. 132.—The election of W.M. for the ensuing year took place on the evening of the 8th inst., Bro. Fletcher, P.M. 622, acting as W.M. The choice of the brethren fell on Bro. Brouncker, whose zeal in promoting the resuscitation of this old lodge during the past year has been very praiseworthy. The treasurer-ship was allotted to Bro. E. Low. Two votes, one for each of the Schools, were unanimously ordered to be procured, and the balance of funds in hand was found to be satisfactory. When it is added, that at the beginning of the year the number of members was only sufficient to work the lodge, and now it has 16 members, with every sign of numerous additions, it will be seen there is matter for congratulation.

LEICESTER.—St. John's Lodge, No. 279.—A meeting of this lodge took place at the Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, Leicester, on Wednesday se'nnight, and was well attended. On the lodge being opened apologies were received for the unavoidable absence of Bro. Stretton, S.W. (who arrived at a later hour), and of Dr. Pearce, Sec. A ballot took place for Messrs. W. Pye and W. Beeton, who were duly elected and initiated into the Order. Bros. Shuttlewood and Statham were raised to the degree of M.M. During the ceremonies Bro. C. Johnson, P.P. G.O., presided at the organ, and, assisted by several of the brethren, added greatly to their effect by conducting the musical chants originally arranged by himself. A ballot was taken for the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, which resulted in favour of the S.W., Bro. Clement Stretton, P.P.G.Reg. It was resolved (as had been done at the previous meeting of the John of Gaunt Lodge) that a Masonic Ball should take place in Leicester in the course of the winter, and a committee of this lodge was appointed to act with a similar committee of the sister lodge in carrying out the arrangements. The annual festival of the lodge was fixed to be held on Tuesday the 27th inst., and the Prov. G.M. announced that the member of the Knights of Malta Lodge, No. 50, Hinckley, had arranged to celebrate their installation festival on the following day by a Masonic ball at the Town Hall. There being no further business the lodge was closed and the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude, No. 281.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday evening, the 14th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Atheneum. The W.M., Bro. John Hatch, presided, and was supported by W. Bro. Edward Storey, I.P.M.; Bros. Christopher Hartley, S.W.; John Barrow, J.W.; Edmund Simpson, P.M. and Sec.; James Hatch, Treasurer; W. Heald, S.D.; W. Fleming, J.D.; W. Hall, I.G. There were also present Past Masters Bagnall, Kelland, Fenton, Moore, Stanton, King, and Whimpray; Bros. W. Hall (W.M. 1051), Mercier (W.M.-elect 1051), and about 30 other brethren. The lodge was opened, minutes of last regular lodge and of a lodge of emergency were read and confirmed, and other business transacted. Bro. William Hayes was passed to the degree of F.C. by the W.M., the working tools being presented by the S.W. The next business was the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, for which office there were not less than 29 brethren eligible. The ballot resulted in the election of Bro. J. Daniel Moore, M.D., P.M., P.P.G.S. of Wks., and the installation and subsequent banquet were fixed for Thursday, 29th inst. The election of Treasurer and Tyler was next proceeded with, and resulted in the re-election of Bro. James Hatch, P.M., as Treasurer, and Bro. John Watson as Tyler. The Secretary reported that the Committee appointed to decide upon the votes for the Royal Albert Asylum had given them to a son of a member of the Craft at Southport, and to the local candidates, committee was appointed to audit the accounts of the lodge, and there being no other business before the lodge it was closed in due form.

SHEFFIELD.—Royal Brunswick Lodge, No. 296.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 12th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Surrey-street, Sheffield. Bro. C. M. Flocton, the W.M. for the ensuing year presiding. There was a goodly number of visitors and members present. The installation ceremony being concluded, the W.M. appointed his officers, as follows:—Bros. F. B. Edwards, S.W.; J. F. Moss, J.W.; H. W. Maleham, Sec.; H. W. Pawson, S.D.; Burrell, J.D.; Fletcher, I.G.; Suckley, Organist; Hessey, Tyler; Ward, Steward; Arnison, Charity-Steward; Garnett, Almoner. Bro. Ensor Drury was the Installing Master. An excellent banquet followed.

HAWORTH, W. YORKS.—Lodge of Three Graces, No. 408.—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 5th inst., at the private Masonic lodge rooms, Haworth. The following of the lodge were present:—Bros. J. Preston, W.M.; J. Laidler, S.W.; E. Pawson, J.W.; W. Hemmingway, S.D.; Clough, J.D.; and the other officers. There were also present Bros. J. Brown, Whitham, W. Brown, W. Wood, Charnock, E. Taylor, and Booth, P.M.'s; and other members. The visitors were Bros. Isaac Booth, P.M. 61, P. Prov. G.S. of W.; Summerscales, W.M. 265; Emmot, P.M. 265; Rev.—Room, and several other brethren of that lodge. There were also Bros. C. J. Walshaw and E. Walshaw, P.M.'s 448; and a large number of brethren from that lodge. The ceremony of installing Bro. Wm. Jas. Laidler, S.W. and W.M.-elect, took place at half-past three o'clock, and was most impressively performed by Bro. Isaac Booth, P.M., P. Prov. G.S. of W.; after which Bro. Laidler, the newly-installed W.M., appointed and invested his officers for the ensuing twelve months, who were as follows: Bros. Jas. Preston, I.P.M.; E. Pawson, S.W.; W. Hemmingway, J.W.; W. Brown, P.M., Sec.; W. Wood, Treas.; Clough, S.D.; Leach, J.D.; Whitham, I.G.; J. Brown, Tyler. The other officers of the lodge were also duly filled up. After two candidates for initiation, and a joining brother had been proposed and other business transacted, the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Black Bull Hotel, where an excellent banquet was served up in capital style, and at which about forty brethren sat down. The chair was occupied by the newly-installed W.M. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts having been appropriately given by the W.M., and received by the brethren with true loyal and Masonic enthusiasm, he next proposed "The health of M.W.G.M., Earl de Grey and Ripon, K.G., together with all the Officers of Grand Lodge Past and Present." The W.M. remarked that although his lordship had only recently been elevated to the high office of Grand Master, yet from his long experience, and the zeal and ability which he had always displayed in all Masonic matters with which he had been and is now connected, there could be no doubt that a very judicious selection had been made when his lordship was chosen to fill the dignified position of ruler over the Craft. (The toast was warmly received and duly honoured.)—The W.M. next proposed "The Health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Bentley Shaw, and the rest of the Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, Past and Present," which was responded to by Bro. Booth, of Keighley, in some well-chosen remarks.—Bro. E. Taylor, P.M., then proposed the toast of the evening, "The Health of Bro. Laidler, the newly-installed W.M.," which was received with great applause. Bro. Taylor spoke of the Masonic and other qualifications of Bro. Laidler in the highest terms, and congratulated the Lodge of Three Graces in having elected him as their chief for the ensuing year. (The toast was drunk with Masonic honours.)—Bro. Laidler, on rising to respond, was received with the greatest enthusiasm, after thanking the brethren in feeling the brethren in feeling terms, he said that ever since he had joined the Lodge of Three Graces he had taken the greatest interest in its welfare, and since they had now been pleased to confer upon him the honour of electing him as their W.M., that interest would, if possible, be increased. It would ever be his study both in the lodge and out of it to uphold the dignity and preserve the harmony of the Lodge of Three Graces, of which he was proud to be a member.—The W.M. next proposed "The Health of the Installing Officer, Bro. Isaac Booth, P. Prov. G.S. of W.," and paid a high compliment to Bro. Booth as an eminent and zealous Mason, an able professional man, and a thorough gentleman. (The toast was warmly received, and drunk with honours.)—Bro. Booth was unavoidably absent owing to an important engagement, but his brother from Keighley responded in an appropriate speech.—The "Officers" was next proposed by Bro. Charnock, P.M., and responded to in well-chosen remarks by Bros. Pawson and Hemmingway, Grand J. Wardens.—The "Visiting Brethren" was next proposed and eloquently responded to by Bro. Summerscales, W.M.; Emmot, P.M.; Rev. Room, 265, Keighley; C. J. Walshaw, P.M.; E. Walsh, P.M.; and a brother of 448, Halifax.—The toast "Speedy relief to all Poor and Distressed Masons" brought a most agreeable evening's entertainment to a close. The enjoyment during the evening was greatly enhanced by the excellent singing of Bros. Merrick, Summerscales, Schofield, and Davis. The well-rendered recitations of Bros. Room and E. Walshaw were also most pleasing. The masterly manner in which Bro. Hemmingway presided at the pianoforte was also a theme for admiration. Too much praise cannot be awarded to Mrs. Sugden for the excellent banquet which she had provided, and the faultless manner in which it was put upon the table.

CHESHIRE.—Combermere Lodge, No. 605.—This lodge held its regular monthly meeting at Bro. Stokes', St. James Hotel, on Thursday evening, 15th inst. The chair was occupied by the W.M., Bro. T. R. Shaw, and the officers and numerous visitors were in attendance. The lodge was opened in due form and solemn prayer, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed.

A ballot was then taken for Mr. William Gregory, which proving unanimous, and the candidate being in attendance, he was initiated in the first degree. The W.M. then proposed that Bro. Ward, of the Warren Lodge, should be elected as an honourable member in consideration of his undertaking the duties of Organist, which was seconded by Bro. Horbury, and he was elected unanimously. The election of the W. Master was then proceeded with, and the S.W., Bro. J. Sillitoe, was unanimously elected to fill the chair of K.S. for the ensuing year. The respected Treasurer, Bro. Walter Theobald, was re-elected by the unanimous consent of the lodge, having held that important office for several years. Nothing further being proposed for the good of Freemasonry, the lodge was closed in due form and harmony, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment, when the usual congratulatory toasts were given and responded to, after which the brethren separated at an early hour.

SCARBOROUGH.—Denison Lodge, No. 1248.—This lodge held its regular meeting in the lodge-room, Grand Hotel, on Thursday, the 8th inst., when the following were present: Bros. S. H. Armitage, M.D., W.M.; J. Groves, S.W.; J. Donner, J.W.; J. Kitchen, Treas.; J. E. Green, Hon. Sec.; H. W. Garnett, S.D.; A. Fricour, J.D.; R. Sloman, Mus. Dir., Org.; H. C. Martin, P.M., I.G.; J. Verity, Tyler; W. F. Rooke, P.M., P.P.G.J.W., the Worshipful the Mayor of Scarborough; J. W. Woodall, J.P., P.M., P.P.G.S.W.; and a goodly number of members. The lodge was opened at eight o'clock, when the minutes were read and confirmed. Mr. Campbell was balloted for, elected unanimously, and initiated by the W.M. in a very impressive manner. Bro. W. G. Knight passed an examination in the first degree and retired, when the lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Knight was re-admitted and passed to the second degree by Bro. Rooke, P.M., &c. The lodge was then worked down to the first degree and closed with solemn prayer, after which the brethren spent an hour at the refreshment-board.

BRIGG, LINCOLNSHIRE.—Ancholme Lodge, No. 1282.—The excellent Master of the above lodge (Bro. V. H. Carey Elwes) received a most substantial earnest of the esteem in which he is held by the members of the lodge at Brigg by a banquet given in his honour on Saturday last. The brethren present were: V. H. C. Elwes, W.M., P.S.G.W. Lincolnshire; G. Nelson, S.W.; D. M. Robbs, J.W.; H. H. Cave, Treas.; Thomas Fryer, Sec.; Thomas Marris, S.D.; Thomas Learey, J.D.; J. B. Kirkham, I.G.; Dr. Patterson, W. R. Gibbons, W. Swallow, W. Frankish, Henry Ashton, J. B. Swallow, J. Sherwood, J. R. Dudding, W. Pygott, W. A. Field, W. Hestletine, J. F. Waite (P.M. 712), W. Kirk (Gainsborough Lodge, Gainsborough), and J. Cawkwell, Tyler. Bro. Kirkham, of the Angel Hotel, provided a dinner fit to "set before a king," and with true English zest and appetite the good things provided disappeared like magic. Bro. G. Nelson, W.M.-elect, presided, on the right of whom sat the guest of the evening, Bro. Captain Elwes. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the chairman and duly acknowledged, that of "The P.G.M., the Duke of St. Albans, and his Deputy, Major Smyth," receiving special honour. On Bro. Nelson rising to propose the toast of the evening, there was quite an ovation, the name of Bro. Elwes being received with loud cheers, and on his rising to respond the applause was loud and long-continued.—Bro. Elwes congratulated the lodge upon the great success that had been achieved during the first year of its existence, and expressed an ardent wish that continued prosperity might attend it. With respect to the compliment which had been paid to himself, he was unable to express the extreme pleasure it had afforded him. The delicate manner in which it had, in the first instance, been suggested, and the gratifying way in which it had been carried out, called forth his warmest gratitude. What he had done for the Ancholme Lodge was indeed a labour of love, and his warmest affection would always be manifested towards the lodge of his adoption. The esteemed W.M. strongly urged the cause of the Masonic charities, and expressed his great delight that the brethren of the Ancholme had attained a high position (considering the short time the lodge had been established) in those most excellent Masonic and Christian virtues, brotherly love, relief and truth.—Bro. Waite, after observing that he had had the pleasure of initiating sixteen members into the Ancholme Lodge, congratulated the W. Master on the successful year which was then drawing to a close, and expressed a hope that increasing prosperity might attend the lodge.—"The Health of the Earl of Gainsborough" was proposed. Bro. Nelson, of the Lincolnshire Light Horse Volunteers (of which the Earl is Captain), responded. "Success to the Lindsey and Gainsborough Lodges" was warmly received by the brethren, and after Bro. Dudding had, in the toast of "The Ladies," proved that

"No mortal can more the ladies adore Than a Free and an Accepted Mason,"

the Tyler gave the parting toast, "All poor and distressed Masons," &c., and thus ended one of the most agreeable and fraternal meetings ever held in the little town on the banks of the river Ancholme.

MARKET HARBOUR.—St. Peter's Lodge, No. 1330.—A regular monthly meeting of this highly-flourishing young lodge was held at the Assembly Rooms, Three Swans Hotel, on Friday se'nnight. A telegram was received from the W.M., Bro. Kelly, R.W. Prov. G.M., expressing his regret for his unavoidable absence, and announcing that Bro. Toller, P.M. 523 and Prov. G. Sec., would kindly fill his place. Bro. Waite, P.M., and Treas., was also absent owing to severe indisposition. The brethren present were: Sir H. St. J. Halford, Bart., S.W.; Rev. J. F. Halford, J.W.; Marris, P.M., Sec.; Kemp, S.D.; Douglass, Macaulay (M.R.C.S.), Dr.

Grant, Freestone, Martin, Fuller, Whitehead, Lawrence, Symington, Newton, Platford; and Clarke and Bembridge, Tylers. Visitors: Bros. Toller, P.M. 523 and P.G. Sec.; Buzzard, W.M. 523; Crow, J.W. 279 and P.G.O.; Fentiman, No. 607; and Harrison, No. 712. A ballot was taken for the Rev. Francis Morgan Beaumont, M.A., Vicar of Farndon, who was duly elected, but was prevented attending on this occasion for initiation. Two candidates (Bros. Newton and Platford) were passed, and four out of twelve candidates were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. These were Bros. Douglass, Macaulay, Freestone, and Martin. The ceremonies were performed by Bro. Toller in that thoroughly efficient and impressive manner for which he is so well known in the province; and their effect was greatly increased by the addition of the musical service, conducted by Bro. Crow, P.G.O., on the harmonium. Bro. Joseph James Harrison, of the Lindsay Lodge, No. 712, having been proposed as a joining member, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Pythagorean Chapter, No. 79.—The regular meeting of this prosperous and well-established chapter was held at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, on Thursday, 15th inst. There were present: Comps. J. H. H. Doughney, M.E.Z.; R. Boncey, H.; W. W. Smith, J.; T. Peridge, S.E.; J. Griffin, S.N.; J. R. Nash, P.S.; R. Trill, 1st A.S.; E. J. B. Bumstead, 2nd A.S.; J. W. Halsey, P.Z.; R. Waterhouse, C. Young, W. Myatt, H. Roberts, and C. M. Munyard. Visitor: Bro. D. Rose, No. 73. The convocation was opened by the Principals, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. A ballot for Bro. T. J. H. Wilkins (73 and 79) was unanimous in his favour, and being in attendance, he was duly exalted. The ceremony was, as is usual here, most beautifully rendered, all the officers being most proficient in their duties. Bro. George Keene Lemann, J.D. 890, was proposed by Comp. W. W. Smith, J., and seconded by Comp. J. R. Nash, P.S., as a candidate for exaltation at the next meeting of the chapter. Apologies were received from the absent candidates for exaltation, who, in consequence of the inclemency of the weather, expressed their regret for not being in attendance. All business being ended, the chapter was closed, and banquet and dessert followed, when the usual toasts were given and received. Songs and recitations were given, and the usual happy evening was spent.

Andrew Chapter, No. 834.—This new chapter met on Thursday week, at Hammersmith, for the first time since its consecration, all its members, with one exception, being present. Three brethren were exalted to the R.A. Degree by Comp. Lines, the new M.E.Z., in a most admirable manner, ably assisted by his officers, amongst whom may be particularly mentioned Comp. Read, as P.S. It is not often that a new lodge or chapter is able to perform all its work; but the manner in which the ceremony was performed on this occasion proved how much may be accomplished by industry and perseverance. It was proposed by Comp. Worthington and carried, to establish a P.P. jewel to be awarded to those Past Principals who may discharge the duties of the chair. After some further propositions, the chapter adjourned.

PROVINCIAL.

SCARBOROUGH.—Old Globe Chapter, No. 200.—This chapter held its regular meeting in the Masonic Hall, Globe-street, on Wednesday, the 7th inst., when the following were present: Comps. J. F. Spurr, P.Z.; P.P.G.S., as Z.; H. A. Williamson, P.P.G.P.S., H.; S. H. Armitage, Z. 1248, as J.; W. F. Rooke, P.Z.; P.G.J., the Worshipful the Mayor of Scarborough; J. C. Brown, E.; H. C. Martin, N.; J. A. Chapman, Treas.; D. Fletcher, P.S.; H. Grover, 1st A.S.; R. H. Peacock, 2nd A.S.; J. Verity, Janitor; Green, Groves, and the Hon. Percy Stanhope. The chapter was opened at 8 p.m., and the minutes were read and confirmed. Comp. the Hon. Percy Stanhope was balloted for and elected unanimously as a joining member. Their being no further business before the chapter, the exaltation of a candidate was worked in a very correct manner, after which the chapter was closed in due form, and the brethren spent a pleasant hour at the refreshment board.

LIVERPOOL.—Chapter of Liverpool, No. 292.—The regular convocation of this chapter was held at The Temple, 22, Hope-street, on the evening of Monday, the 5th inst., under the presidency of Comp. the M.E.Z. Dr. J. Mercer Johnson, supported by Comps. R. Wylie, P.Z. as H.; James M'Keene, P.Z. 216, as J.; Thos. Wylie, P.Z., acting as P. Soj.; Laidlaw, P.Z., as S.N.; and Hurtwick, S.E. The chapter being duly opened and the companions admitted, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. A ballot was afterwards taken for Bro. William Hughes, of Lodge 292, and he was declared duly elected, and being then present, his exaltation was proceeded with by the M.E.Z. Owing to the lateness of the hour—caused by the unavoidable absence of some of the companions at a meeting in another part of the town—the mystic lecture alone, by Comp. Thomas Wylie, was given, the remainder being postponed till next meeting. Nothing more in the shape of work or discussion appearing, the chapter was closed in due and solemn form, and the companions adjourned to the committee-room for refreshment. Visitors present: Comps. M'Keene, P.Z. 216, and Shortis, 1094.

BREAKFAST.—EPSS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Each packet is labelled—JAMES EPSS AND CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Also, makers of Epps's Cacaoine, a very light, thin, evening beverage.—[Adv.]

MARK MASONRY.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW MARK LODGE AT HASLINGDEN.

On Monday, the 31st October, the "Blair" Lodge, No. 113, under the Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of England and Wales, &c., &c., was consecrated by the R.W. Bro. Romaine Callender, jun., Prov. G. Mark Master for Lancashire, at Haslingden. There were present: Bros. the Rev. George R. Portal, M.W.D.G.M.; F. Binckes, G. Sec.; and several Prov. G. Officers.

The lodge was opened at 2 p.m., in the National Schools, Haslingden, by Bro. Thomas Hargreaves, W.M., Prov. J.G.D. Lancashire.

Immediately after the opening of the lodge, Bro. Le Gendre Nicholas Starkie, Prov. G.M. (Craft) Designate for East Lancashire, was advanced to the degree by the W.M. During the ceremony of consecration Bro. Binckes, G. Sec., delivered an oration. He spoke of the many different ways in which the Mark Degree was worked in Lancashire, and said he looked forward to the time when all the time-immemorial Mark lodges, working without any authority but their own, would acknowledge the supremacy of the G. Lodge of M.M.M. of England and Wales, as at present constituted, so that there might be more unity in the brethren, more uniformity in the working, that visiting might be allowed and encouraged, and that there might be but one body and one supreme head.

The lodge was then closed, and a procession formed to the Commercial Hotel, where an excellent banquet had been provided.

METROPOLITAN.

Southwark Mark Lodge, No. 22.—The usual quarterly meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, the 17th inst., at Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. One brother from Lodge 700 was advanced, when the lodge was closed. Present: Bros. A. D. Loewenstark, W.M.; F. Walters, P.M.; T. J. Sabine, P.M.; H. Massey, P.M.; M. A. Loewenstark, Sec.; J. H. Butten, T. D. Barnard, T. J. Wilkins, and others.

PROVINCIAL.

NEWCHURCH.—Rectitude Lodge, No. 18.—This lodge, held under the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of England and Wales, &c., &c., was re-opened on Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 5 p.m., Bro. Thomas Hargreaves acting as W.M. Bro. Thomas Pilling was installed the W.M. for the next twelve months, and Bro. Thomas Hargreaves was invested as the Immediate P.M., the other officers also having been appointed and invested. Several brethren were afterwards advanced to the degree, and other business having been transacted, the lodge was closed. There are several little incidents connected with this lodge which are worthy of notice. The minute book dates back to 1784, 86 years ago, and was at that time working under the old style, and numbered a great many brethren. Soon after the formation of the Grand Mark Lodge a warrant of confirmation was applied for and granted; but the cost of inaugurating and opening was more than the members counted upon, and unfortunately the lodge fell into abeyance—from which it has just been resuscitated. It is now in a prosperous condition, numbering upwards of 35 members.

INSTRUCTION.

CONSECRATION OF THE ROYAL STANDARD LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.

The "Royal Standard Lodge," No. 1298, which was consecrated about six months ago, has gone on most prosperously under the guidance of that excellent Mason, Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Wigginton. and it now numbers about 30 members. Bros. Ballantine and Lee (of the Confidence Lodge) are the Wardens, and the attention and assiduity they have bestowed in their respective stations have in no small degree contributed to this satisfactory state of things. The meetings have been held at Bro. Jameson's, the Marquess Tavern, Canonbury, and the growing strength of the lodge and the absence of any convenient lodge of instruction, have induced the brethren to start a lodge of instruction of their own. The mother lodge readily gave the required consent, and on Friday, the 16th inst., the inaugural ceremony took place. It was originally intended that Bro. Younghusband, a Provincial Grand Officer of some note who consecrated the mother lodge, and inducted Bro. Wigginton into the chair, should be specially invited to perform the ceremonies of consecration and installation on this occasion also, but at the last moment a heavy domestic calamity deprived the brethren of the benefit of hearing him. Bro. James Terry, P.G.S.B. Herts., was appealed to, and at the solicitation of one or two brethren he consented to fill the place of Bro. Younghusband, and certainly from the most admirable way in which he carried out those duties, and his clear delivery, the brethren felt little or no regret, in one sense, at the absence of the esteemed Bro. Younghusband. In the performance of the interesting ceremonies Bro. Terry was ably assisted by Bro. Frederick Walters and Bro. Shackell, the courteous Secretary. At the close of the Masonic proceedings Bro. Terry was loudly applauded.

Amongst the brethren present we noticed Bros. Bilby (861), Rogers (902), F. Walters (P.M. 73), Revers (902), H. Price (657), Themans (141), Ballantine (1298), Barlow (667), Phillips (754), Wells (754), J. Terry (P.M. 228), Woodman (1298), Collins (1298), Catlin (1314), Butler (9), Jameson (1298), Rutterford (1298), Dupont (1298), J. Raworthy (205), Bowden (205), Jas. Wright (1298), Rafter (1298), Chas. E. Thompson (S.W. 1158, Masonic Reporter).

Several propositions were made for the next meeting night, and the brethren then adjourned to refresh the "inner-man," and when the cloth was drawn,

The W. Master proposed "The health of the Queen," coupled with that of the Craft, which needed, he observed, no preface, as the Queen reigned in the hearts of all true Masons.

The W.M. next proposed "The health of the Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, M.W.G.M." It had been his (the W.M.'s) lot many times to give the toast of the health of the Earl of Zetland—a well-trying and worthy Mason—as Grand Master, and now he was glad to say his successor was worthy of the post he occupied. As Deputy Grand Master, Earl de Grey, for many years, had the respect and esteem of the whole Craft, and he (the W.M.) was sure that as M.W.G.M. he would not only retain it, but would create in the hearts of the brethren a feeling which would last as long as his life, and much longer than he was likely to be in the Craft in his present high position. He (the W.M.) was in favour of the seven years' system; that question had not dropped, and he trusted it would not, until that end was attained. He was far from offering anything like disrespect to the M.W. Grand Master, but he thought the principle of life appointments was wrong. He hoped they would drink to the health of one who was not only "the head," but an ornament of the Order. (Applause.)

The W.M. called upon the brethren to drink "The health of the Earl of Carnarvon, D.G.M., and the other Grand Officers past and present," which they most cheerfully did.

The W.M. said there was one other toast which came under the denomination of "usual toasts," and that was "The health of our Brethren in the Army, Navy and Volunteers."

Bros. Chas. E. Thompson and Burgoyne severally responded to the toast.

Bro. Price proposed a toast which he said the brethren would be sure to receive with pleasure, and that was "The health of Bro. Wigginton, the W.M." He heartily congratulated them on having such a brother to preside over them, and from what he knew of him he was sure that under his judicious guidance the lodge would continue to prosper. He thought that they ought to be very proud of him—"So we are"—for he was a worthy man and a true Mason. (Hear, hear.) He trusted he would live many years to be amongst them. (The toast was received with every fraternal demonstration of approval.)

The W.M. (who was loudly cheered) returned thanks. He said for the kind manner in which the toast had been received he scarcely knew what to say, but he hoped that so long as he was connected with the lodge he should do his duty to their entire satisfaction. (Hear, hear.) He now had to propose the health of Bro. Terry, and in doing so any remarks upon that brother would be superfluous. He came at a very short notice to perform the ceremonies to-day, and certainly they would agree with him that he had worked those ceremonies in a most creditable manner—(applause)—in a manner not only creditable to himself, but of which the lodge might justly be proud. For the sake of the lodge, he hoped they might often see Bro. Terry amongst them, and be able to avail themselves of the instruction he was always so able and willing to impart. (Applause.)

Bro. Terry tendered his very hearty and sincere thanks for the kind way in which the brethren had responded to the toast, and as he had stated in lodge so he repeated—what little service he could render them he was always most happy to do, if it would in the slightest degree benefit any member of the lodge. He derived most of his information from one of the best Masons who ever lived—Bro. Stephen Barton Wilson; and as that brother had done before, so he (Bro. Terry) would do, and that was to impart all he knew to those who were anxious to learn. He trusted they would make this lodge of instruction one of a high-class character, and disassociate the pipe and the pot from their ceremonies. Nothing so disgusted him as to see a brother in the chair of K.S. in a lodge of instruction with an open Bible before him and a pewter pot by its side. (Hear, hear.) He suggested devoting two hours to the working of the ceremonies, and about an hour, after the business, to social chat and friendly intercourse as they might think fit. They would find a better class of persons attend, and it would be sure to work well, as it had done at the Emulation and Stability lodges of instruction. After stating how well an association for the purpose of contributing a shilling towards the Charities, of which he was the promoter, had progressed, and dilating at some length on its merits, he concluded by again thanking them most cordially.

The W.M. then proposed "Prosperity to the Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction," coupled with the name of Bro. R. Lee, the Preceptor. He assured Bro. Terry that all his remarks had met with his approval, and stated for his information that one of the propositions now before the lodge was a scheme by which the charities would be very greatly benefited, namely, "that out of the fee paid by initiates past and to come the sum of one guinea be paid to the charities," and if they were able to carry that they would soon be provided with Life-Governorships. (Cheers.) It augured well for a new lodge that before it had been established a year they were enabled to inaugurate a Lodge of Instruction, which would be a nursery for good officers for the mother lodge. (Cheers.)

Bro. R. Lee returned thanks and expressed his acknowledgments for the honour done him, and promised to give the most assiduous attention to his duties as Preceptor.

Other toasts followed and the brethren separated.

This Lodge of Instruction will henceforth hold its meetings every Friday, at the Marquess Tavern, Canonbury, when the brethren will be glad to welcome visitors.

The Confidence Lodge of Instruction, No. 193.—On Wednesday last week the Fifteen Sections were worked at this lodge, held at Bro. Forster's, Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., Bro. Austin, S.D. 933, in the chair. Bros. Barnes, P.M. 933, W.M. 554, S.W.; Hogard, J.D. 205 and 453, J.W.; Davis, 141, I.G.; Gottheil, P.M. 141, P.M.; Felton 186, Hon. Sec. After the usual preliminaries, they were ably worked by the following brethren:—Lecture 1: Section First, Bro. Ashburner, S.D. 1275; Second Section, Bro. Ragg, 781; Third Section, Adkin, S.W. 174; Fourth Section, Bro. M. Davis, 141; Fifth Section, Bro. J. Taylor, 903; Sixth Section, Bro. Gottheil, P.M. 141; Seventh Section, Bro. Barnes, P.M. 933, W.M. 554. Lecture 2: First Section, Bro. Newton, P.M. 174; Second Section, Bro. Lattreille, P.M. 1056; Third Section, Bro. Barnes, P.M. 933, W.M. 554; Fourth Section, Bro. Bowron, P.M. 933; Fifth Section, Bro. Barnes, P.M. 933, W.M. 554. Lecture 3: Section First, Bro. Hogard, J.D. 205 and 453; Second Section, Bro. Hogard, J.D. 295 and 453; Third Section, Bro. Barnes, P.M. 933, W.M. 554. A vote of thanks to be recorded on the minutes, for the excellent manner in which Bro. Austin had carried out the duties of the chair was proposed by Bro. Barnes, and seconded by Bro. Hogard, and carried unanimously. Bros. Matthews 185, and Rugg 781, were proposed as joining members, and unanimously elected; thus ended a very successful evening for the Confidence Lodge of Instruction. We may mention, that that we noticed several of the brethren leaving very early, which, we were sorry to see, as we consider that Bro. Austin really deserved to be supported to the end, but we suppose that they habitually keep such strict hours that even on that occasion they could not break through their established rules.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—The anniversary festival of this Lodge of Instruction was held on Tuesday night, the 6th inst., at the Royal Edward Tavern, Triangle, Hackney, Bro. W. Bristo, P.M. and Treas. 860, occupied the chair as the W.M.; supported by Bros. Hardy, S.W.; Senecal, J.W.; Ingram, Sec.; Pindar, S.D.; Sanders, I.G.; R. Wright, P.M.; F. Walters, P.M.; Gilchrist, P.M.; Rastrick, P.M.; Valee, Hyde, F. Allen, Stevens, Hammond, Dalwood, Crawley, Chillingworth, Balcombe, Thyton, King, Goddard, Rean, and some others were also present. The minutes of the meeting held on the previous Tuesday evening (when the Fifteen Sections had been worked), were read and confirmed. The report of the Audit Committee was also received and adopted. Bro. Wright, P.M., was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Bro. F. Allen, the new host, provided a good spread. On the removal of the cloth, grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," Bro. George Rean sang, "God save the Queen." The next toast was "The Earl de Grey and Ripon, M.W.G.M.," which was duly honoured. Then was given, "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, D.G.M.," "The P.G.M.'s," "The Past and Present Grand Lodge Officers," coupling with it the Provincial Officers who were present. Bro. Valee sang by desire and with great spirit, "The Marseillaise." Bros. Rastrick and Wright, returned thanks. "The Health of the W.M. and Officers of the parent lodge Dalhousie," was given. Bro. G. Rean sang "My Pretty Jane;" Hardy, S.W., responded. "The host Bro. F. Allen, and his wife, Mrs. Allen," was the next toast given; Bro. F. Allen responded. Bro. Pinder sang "Skipper and his Boy." "The Visitors" was the next toast, coupled with the name of Bro. Walters. The W.M., Bro. Bristo, sang in a faultless manner, "Red Cross Banner." Bro. Walters responded in an able and fluent manner. The health of the Secretary was drank; more songs followed, and altogether this was a most enjoyable evening, and the good singing contributed to the pleasures of the evening.

FAITH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.—The above Lodge of Instruction is held every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the spacious and commodious rooms at Bro. Fisher's Restaurant, Metropolitan District Railway Station, Victoria, S.W. Ceremonies and lectures worked every Tuesday, except the third Tuesday in the month, when the ceremonies alone are rehearsed. The DOMATIC CHAPTER OF INSTRUCTION is also held in the above rooms every Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, from October until April inclusive.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.—Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir, as the true remedy. Select Testimonials. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, Pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of pulmonary consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."—This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweat, of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d. and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.—[Adv't.]

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Exercise most wonderful power in promoting appetite, improving digestion, regulating the bowels, and removing nervousness and debility. The weakest will take no harm from the use of this alternative and tonic medicine, but will gradually regain their health. The strongest will preserve themselves from many of the mishaps into which their boasted strength and fearlessness of results often betray them. Long suffering invalids may look forward towards this rectifying and revivifying medicine with the certain hope of having their maladies mitigated, if not removed by its means. In short, for all ages, circumstances, and conditions Holloway points out the treatment which is competent to check the progress of disorder in, and expel its seeds from, the human frame.—[Adv't.]

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

"ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD-WILL TOWARD MEN."

"On earth peace, goodwill toward men." Such were the words of the Divine message announced to the shepherds more than eighteen centuries ago, and such are still, nominally at least, the precepts of that great religious system whose foundation was heralded by angelic rejoicings. But notwithstanding the teachings of sages, notwithstanding the experience acquired through countless cycles of time, man's nature remains unchanged, and the blessings of peace are seemingly as little valued as ever. At a time when Christian communities in every land are celebrating the nativity of the Founder of their Faith, two great Christian nations are engaged in a death-struggle, and the very horizon of Christendom is dark with blood and tears. What terrible principle of evil is abroad thus to render nugatory all the efforts of good men to promote peace and prosperity among the nations? How is it that our boasted civilisation produces such bitter fruits, and that the wisdom and science which we so loudly vaunt cannot stifle the rage of ambition or the cruel lust for war? On the one hand, there is France—a country which, with all its faults, has ever held on high the lamp of progress and freedom—on the other hand, we have Germany, transformed from a nation of dreamy philosophers into a nation of soldiers; and both these mighty peoples ignore all their traditions of greatness in the arts that adorn and dignify life for the accursed glory of warfare and strife. Is this in consonance—we will not say, merely with the doctrines of Christianity as enunciated so plainly and Divinely by the angelic host in days of old—but, to take a lower ground, is it in unison with any of the teachings promulgated by advanced thinkers and statesmen for many years past? Must all our hopes of creating a happy brotherhood amongst the children of men be considered but as Dead Sea fruit—beautiful as theories, but utterly hollow in practice? Must we really settle down to the conviction that Schiller is right when he says that the earth is glorious, and that man is the Abaddon amidst the gladsome harmony that should otherwise prevail? Surely this is not so; surely the mystery of bloodshed will pass away, and the world will recover its pristine beauty and glow with unwonted delight in the presence of a truer and nobler inspiration. It cannot be that man shall for ever be delivered over to the ineffable bondage of hatred and fear. It cannot be that man shall for ever suffer the cruel tortures, the rending pangs inflicted by the fiend of war. It cannot be that kings and ministers shall for ever have the power—as we fear they too often have the will—to plunge their fellow-creatures into the depths of unutterable horror and despair. The words of England's greatest living poet cannot be all a dream: the "parliament of man, the federation of the world," are as yet the unborn children of Time, but let us hope that the Future bears them in her breast; and if Freemasonry can only permeate the earth with its precepts, we shall yet see the poetic vision realised in the supremacy of Reason and the mastery of Thought. Viewed in this aspect by reflecting minds, Freemasonry is at once a beacon and a landmark; it not only serves to deter us from the gross materialism of battle-fields, but it is a landmark for all ages, a boundary of Wisdom from Folly, of Truth from Falsehood. No amount of sophistry can persuade an intelligent Mason that the horrid scenes now being enacted in unhappy France are part of the destiny of the human race—say rather that they are evidences of perverted powers and dishonoured talents. The gigantic might wielded by the Von Moltkes and Bismarcks of our age is darkened with shadows from the Plutonian shores—the terror of death clings to it and trails its glories in the dust. Better far the reputation of an honest man than the frail and bloody pomp of a conqueror; better far the triumph of one invention for the comfort of life than all the laurels of the Cæsars. At this season of the year, when the peoples of Europe bow down to worship the Holy One of Israel—at this season of the year, when all the civilised world record the close of a recognised period of time—may we not profitably consider these subjects, and lament that man is still so blind to his dearest and best interests? Now, we claim for Freemasonry a high place in the Pantheon of Intellect; we claim for it a mission which is as yet but partially interpreted and understood—one which the majority of us as yet see darkly, but which our children and our children's children will be able to perfect and to consummate. We claim for Freemasonry a high place in the world's regard, because it is the representative of peace; and we contend that its mission is identified with the cause of truth, honour, and civilisation.

It has been well said by an acknowledged teacher of man, that "Before us is the boundless Time which we—even we—have to conquer, to create." Let us each, therefore, thoroughly understand our position as soldiers in the army of progress; let us each labour within the sphere of our influence for the victory of our chosen principles. Without work—positive work—no great structure has ever been reared, and, unfortunately, Freemasons are somewhat inclined to be Sybarites in their ideas of duty. We must not expect our path to be strewn with rose leaves, or our steps to be supported by applauding crowds. Ours is the silent toil, whose usefulness is best shown in the happy results which it achieves. Ours is a philosophy, whose roots extend into the inmost soul; whose branches bear as fruits the divinest conceptions of the human intellect. Its outward and visible signs are exhibited in the vulgar form of material charity; but its hidden grace—its essential beauty—is the spirit of fraternity which pervades and harmonises and glorifies the whole. Within the circle of this spirit, war cannot exist; within the radius of its influence fierceness and malice are as nought. But let us ask the question in simple earnestness, are we all striving to cultivate and foster this idea of brotherhood? Are we all endeavouring to make our lodges temples of unity and friendship? Are we all showing to the outer world that garb of innocence and purity which should ever distinguish our lives as men and Masons? If not, how can we reason effectually with the men of Belial, whose hands are steeped in blood and fraud, and whose path is desolation and dismay?

Much as we may regret—and we all mourn it most sincerely—the terrible havoc and the atrocity of the present European war, we must not be oblivious of the fact that a great principle is now being asserted, and its fate must be decided by the issue of the struggle. So far, the proof is clear that retribution has fallen upon the aggressor; let us now hope that the victor will not press his triumph to the utmost verge of vengeance. Let the Divine message which found a ready echo in the ears of the Syrian shepherds be not forgotten now—"On earth peace, goodwill toward men."

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The usual monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 21st inst., at 7 p.m., under the presidency of Bro. Jno. M. Clabon, P.G.D., who was appointed to the office of President by the Grand Master at the last Grand Lodge. Bros. J. Nunn and James Brett were in their respective positions as Senior and Junior Vice-Presidents, and among the brethren present we noticed Bros. Joseph Smith, E. H. Patten, H. Garrod, Sam. May, C. A. Cottebrune, W. M. Bywater, Benjamin Head, Æ. J. McIntyre, J. Hervey, H. G. Buss, R. W. Little, J. Savage, W. Mann, Bentley Shaw, D.P.G.M. West Yorkshire; W. Smith, E. Vorley, John Boyd, F. Walters, G. H. Swan, R. Ridsen, J. Bellerby, R. W. Stewart, T. Meggy, G. King, W. Smeed, R. B. Newsome and W. Carter. The lodge was opened in due form, and the sums voted at previous meetings were unanimously carried.

Seventeen applications were made for relief. The sum of £275 was voted to relieve the distressed, as follows, viz., one £50, one £40, two £25, three £20, two £15, three £10 and three £5. Two were deferred until the next meeting. Notice of motion was given by Bro. Smith, P.G.P., to alter the hour of meeting to six o'clock by making the necessary application to carry out that object. The lodge was afterwards closed.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

BRO. W. P. BUCHAN ON FREEMASONRY.

I must confess to an utter inability to understand what Bro. Buchan really intends by objecting to the statements of Bros. "Lupus," "Rev. P. H. Newnham," and myself. I have not written in any mood to either give or receive "jokes," but solely to set at rest a disputed point with respect to the "History of Freemasonry," and therefore if our friend Bro. "Buchan" will say why he objects to our views of Freemasonry being revived A.D. 1717, and seek by facts to show why we should not accept the Freemasonry of that period as a continuation of the Operative and Speculative Masonry of former centuries, I will examine the evidence submitted on proof of such a negative position very carefully.

W. J. HUGHAN.

THE APRON AND THE 1717 THEORY.

I think in courtesy, I ought to reply to "A Masonic Student," although I do not propose to continue a discussion in which all evidence is utterly disregarded. "W. P. B.," in triumphant tones, challenges me to produce (in support of my statements) a public Act of Parliament referring to Masons alone. I at once produce such Act. What is the result? "W. P. B." "carefully reads the remarks," and then proceeds in the old strain, as if I had been utterly unable to prove what I had asserted; whilst, in fact, the very tone in which the challenge was given was an admission that if I produced such an Act "W. P. B.'s" statements must be very much qualified.

In reply to the "Student," I would explain that the "minute book of a Speculative," lodge referred to by me, is the book of the Warkworth and Alnwick Lodge, from which we have had an extract of 1708, and after which any more talk of 1717 appears mere waste of time and space. I am not aware that the meaning of the word "speculative" in the MS. published by Bro. Cooke is at all at issue; there was a strange suggestion that it meant "knowledge," but the context gives no room for the slightest pretension to this. The statute which "Student" cannot find is, 3 Edward VI., c. 15. Perhaps he has seen 34 Edward III., c. 9. I am unable to find 2 Henry VII., c. 3, 4. The second Parliament of Henry VII. appears to have been held in the third year of his reign, and C.'s 3 and 4 do not refer to Masons. There are other Acts more or less directly affecting Masons, but they are not to be found in all the copies.

I am aware that lodges were attached to the monastic institutions, but I have no doubt that many of your readers will find interest in the extract to which the "Student" alludes.

LUPUS.

THE TEMPLARS AND THE CRAFT.

I notice a communication from the respected Prov. G.M. for Leicestershire and Rutland, with the above "heading," and have already expressed my appreciation of the history of that flourishing province, which has been so ably written by R.W. Bro. William Kelly, and in which particulars are given in reference to the above subject. I write now to ask Bro. William Kelly if he will favour the numerous readers of THE FREEMASON with an explanation of the following statement made by him on concluding the interesting paragraph on the "Templars and the Craft."

"I may mention that I possess the seals of the old Athole Lodge, No. 91, formerly held in this town. They comprise seals for the Ark Mariners', Red Cross of Babylon, Royal Arch and Knight Templar Degrees, all of which, in like manner, were worked under the Craft Warrant."

It is very desirable to know what authority was given in the "Ancient" Craft Warrants to work these degrees. I have never been able to find any such an authority in any of the old "Ancient" Warrants which have been carefully perused by me, and therefore if Bro. Kelly has, I know he will gladly afford others the information which they have not been so fortunate as to discover.

W. JAMES HUGHAN.

MASONIC MSS.

As Bro. Forsyth seems to think that the MSS. he alludes to, are unknown to Masonic students, and are the earliest in the British Museum, I send you a few notes on the subject. These same MSS. have long been known to Masonic students, have been quoted frequently, and often alluded to in our Masonic periodicals. The MSS. to which our brother alludes so far from being the earliest, are nearly the latest in the Museum.

I append a list of all existing MSS. there, with their approximate dates:—

1. Bib. Reg. 17 a. 1, f. 32, 1370 to 1390.
2. Additional MSS. 23 198, 1460 to 1490.
3. Lansdowne 98, f. 276, 1590.
4. Sloane 3849, f. 213, 1646.
5. Sloane 3323, f. 195, 1659.
6. Harleian 2054, after 1660.
7. Harleian 1942, f. 1, after 1660.

But in addition to these MSS. Constitutions in the British Museum, there is the interesting transcript sent by Dowland to the Gentleman's Magazine in 1806, which is evidently an earlier MS. than the Lansdowne, and may be fixed at about 1550. There is the copy belonging to the Lodge of Antiquity which is fixed by them to be 1686, there is a copy at York 1693, and a second also there 1704, while Bro. W. Passworth is also in possession of a copy date, he says, 1720; Bro. Findel says 1714. There is also a copy in the possession of Lodge of Hope, Bradford, which is about the end of last century. These are all the existing copies at present known; they may no doubt be found in old libraries, and are hidden away, long forgotten amid the dusty papers of our English lodges.

Next week I will allude to copies which have, however, been in existence, and are said to have been lost or destroyed.

A MASONIC STUDENT.

A BATCH OF QUERIES.

Is it irregular to wear a P.M. jewel on the breast in a R.A. Chapter?—No.

2. Who should instal the W.M.-elect? Can the latter choose his own installing officer, or can the retiring W.M. claim the privilege of installing officer (if able) as his by right?—The retiring Master has a positive right to install his successor.

3. Can a lodge fix in its by-laws any time for the installation, or should all (English) lodges have it as near St. John's Day (27th December) as possible?—Any day can be fixed, provided it be stated in the by-laws.

4. Is it irregular to wear silver braid on the collars and on the ribbon of the apron of officers or members of private lodges?—Yes.

A PAST SENIOR WARDEN.

May I inquire, through your paper, whether any of the following lodges are now in existence; if so, I should be glad if I can communicate with the respective W.M.'s, through you:—

White Swan Lodge, Norwich	... 1789
Maid's Head Lodge, Norwich	... 1776
Castle and Lion Lodge, Norwich	... 1800

W. & A. GILBEY'S STORES.—The Standard of the 16th inst., in a long account of Messrs. W. & A. Gilbey's New Stores at Camden Town, gives some interesting details. It appears that the Stores in question have a cellarage and floorage space of upwards of five acres, and were formerly used as the principal Goods Station of the London and North Western Railway. Connected with these Stores by the canal are Bonded Cellars covering several acres, in which the various Wines and Spirits as they arrive from Xeres, Oporto, Bordeaux, Cognac, &c., are stored under bond. Upwards of 300 hands are employed, principally on piecwork, and an average of 3,000 dozens or about 100 tons weight of Wines and Spirits are sent out daily, in addition to which, every day, from 30,000 to 40,000 bottles are washed by steam. The business here carried on, according to the Government Returns, amounts to about one-twentieth part of the entire Wine trade; while from the fact of this firm having agents in almost every town and village in the United Kingdom, their goods can be obtained everywhere at the same price, and their position in the trade affords a guarantee of uniform quality and good commercial value. Thus, each one of their 1,500 agents, instead of supplying his customers from some two or three varieties bottled and purchased on his own judgment, holds in reality the key to a stock embracing more than 200 varieties.

The Standard points out that the position selected for these Stores combines the advantages very difficult to obtain in London, of road, rail, and water carriage, and concludes its remarks as follows:—

"Altogether this Establishment is well worth inspection; and to visitors to London, with whom a day at the Docks has always represented one of the standing sights, we can only say that they will find a visit to the Stores of perhaps greater interest, as here they will see all the various processes of bottling, packing, &c., on such a scale as certainly cannot be seen elsewhere, not even in the wine-producing countries."—Standard, 16th Dec., 1870

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF BOMBAY.

The half-yearly communication of the District Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 2nd November, at the Freemasons' Hall, Mazagon, at 6 p.m. The proceedings were of a very interesting nature. In the absence of the District Grand Master, R.W. Bro. the Hon. J. Gibbs, who was prevented by illness from attending, the chair was occupied by R.W. Bro. G. Taylor, Past District Grand Master, supported by W. Bros. Dr. T. Diver, Deputy D.G. Master; J. Dixon, D.S.G.W., C. E. Mitchell, D.J.G.W.; W. H. Hussey, D.G. Sec.; Bro. J. J. Winton, D.G. Treas.; W. Bro. Col. L. W. Penn, C.B., D.S.G. Deacon; Bros. H. Prescott, as D.J.G.D.; L. Morcom, as D.G. Org.; W. Bro. C. Beard, D.G. Sword-Bearer; Bros. T. Crawford, as D.G. Pur.; J. W. Seager, D.G. Tyler. Members: W. Bros. J. P. Cornforth, P.D.G. Warden; A. C. Gumper, P.D.G. Warden; J. P. Leith, P.D.G. Chaplain; H. H. Avron, P.D.G. Registrar; Capt. B. H. Mathew, P.D.G.W.; Bro. G. Bease, P.D.G. Dir. of Cer., &c., &c.

Lodges "St. George," "Concord," "Star of India," "Emulation," "Truth," and "Eastern Star" were represented.

The District Grand Lodge was opened with prayer. The minutes of the last three communications (having been printed and furnished to members) were taken as read and confirmed.

The District Grand Secretary reported that communications had been received from the D.G. Lodges of Bengal, Madras, and Punjaub, on the subject of jurisdiction. The latter concurred with the proposal of the D.G.L. of Bombay, but the two former could not agree. Read also a communication from the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of England, in reply to a memorial from the District Grand Lodge of Bombay, praying that lodges at outstations may be permitted to appoint representatives to attend on their behalf at the quarterly communications of D.G. Lodge. The Grand Master regretted that in the present state of the law he could not comply with the prayer of the petition, nor did he think it expedient to alter the law to meet the wishes of the petitioners; but that the District Grand Lodge could follow the example of the Provincial Grand Lodges in England, by paying periodical visits to the lodges under its jurisdiction.

The District Grand Master offered a few remarks on this matter. He thought that the Grand Master was not aware of the inconvenience that the members of the D.G. Lodge would be put to in visiting Mofussil lodges, which were scattered so far apart, and the impossibility of members leaving their business to go on these excursions, without incurring great expense. It was not as in England, where there was a network of railways, and the lodges in each province were within a few hours' communication with each other. He had no doubt that, when these points were fully explained to the Grand Master, the prayer of the petition would be complied with.

The Deputy District Grand Master then rose, and said he had a very pleasing duty to perform. He regretted that the District Grand Master was prevented by indisposition and absence from Bombay from being present to invest the Past District Grand Master with the apron, collar, and jewel voted to him by the District Grand Lodge, as a slight mark of the eminent services he had rendered to the Craft as a ruler during the last nine years.

The P.D.G.M. having handed the hiram to the Deputy D.G.M., the latter read the resolution proposed by the District Grand Lodge, and invested the P.D.G.M. with the clothing, amidst the plaudits of the assembled brethren.

Then followed the addresses from individual lodges, which were read and delivered to the P.D.G.M. by the representatives of lodges, all breathing the affectionate esteem and regard in which he was held by the brethren over whom he ruled. Some of the addresses were not quite completed in the style the donors hoped to have presented them; but those that were finished displayed the excellent workmanship of the Bombay Education Society's Press, and were greatly admired.

The Past D.G.M., who was deeply affected, rose and thanked the brethren in eloquent and feeling terms for this fresh proof of their kindness and approbation of the manner in which he had discharged his duties as D.G.M. during the last nine years. He would carefully treasure up these souvenirs of the happy years he had spent among the brethren, and hand them down as a heirloom to his children.

A donation of 100 rupees was unanimously voted to the widow of a deceased brother.

A donation of 500 rupees was voted to the Fund for the Relief of the Sick and Wounded during the war.

W. Bro. Gumpert alluded to the death of R.W. Bro. A. J. Greenlaw, District G. Master of British Burmah, and the eminent services rendered by him to the Craft in general. It was proposed and unanimously resolved that a letter of condolence be forwarded to the D.G. Lodge of British Burmah, sympathising with them in the great loss they have sustained.

W. Bro. Percy Leith brought to the notice of the D.G. Lodge that a project was on foot to construct a Masonic Hall in Bombay. He suggested that a meeting should be called, and that representatives from all lodges, &c. (English and Scotch), attend to discuss the matter. There was every hope of success attending their present attempt to give Bombay a commodious hall calculated for all Masonic purposes.

There being no further business, the D.G. Lodge was closed with prayer.—Masonic Record of Western India.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

The District Grand Lodge of South Australia held its Quarterly Communication at the Freemasons' Hall, Flinders-street, Adelaide, on the 5th October last. The R.W. Bro. Arthur Hardy, F.P., D.G.M., occupied the chair, supported by the W. Bros. Henry Edward Downer, S.M., D.D.G.M.; Macaulay, P.M., as S.D.G.W.; and the W. D.G. Secretary, as J.D.G.W.; Bro. the Rev. Canon Farr, M.A., D.G. Chaplain; W. Bros. Wicksteed, P.D.S.G.W., as D.G. Sec.; Letchford, D.G.S.D.; and Galley, as D.G.J.D.; Bros. John Cox Bray, D.G. Pursuivant; H. E. Bright, D.G. Steward; Magraith, P.M. 598; Senior Wardens of 583 and 598; Cox, W.M. 842; and the Junior Warden of 842. Visitors: Bros. Pudney, 598; Cunningham, 583; Stratton and Wilson, 842. W. Bros. the S.D.G.W., J.D.G.W., D.G. Treas., S.D.G.D., D.G. Supt. Works, D.G. Dir., Cers. D.G. Swordbearer, D.G. Organist, and D.G. Steward, were excused attendance. W. Bros. the D.G. Registrar, D.G. Asst. Dir. Cers., and Bro. Paltridge, D.G. Steward, were fined for non-attendance.

The District Grand Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The R.W. District Grand Master then proceeded to appoint the officers for the ensuing year:—

D.G.S.W.—His Honour Edward Castrass Gwynne, Primary Judge in Equity, P.D.G.S.W.
D.G.J.W.—J. F. Botting, P.D.G. Treas.

D.G. Chaplain—The Rev. George Henry Farr, M.A., Canon of the Dean and Chapter of the Diocese of Adelaide, P.D.G. Chaplain Scotch Constitution, Lodge of Friendship, No. 423.

D.G. Registrar—John R. Gurner, P.D.G. Asst. Dir. of Cers., P.G.D. Registrar.

D.G. Secretary—Ralph Everad Lucy, P.D.G. Sec. and P.M. MacDonnell Lodge, No. 842.

D.G.S.D.—Aulay Macaulay, P.D.G.S.D. and P.M. Lodge of Truth, 649.

D.G.J.G.—John Rudall, P.M. Lodge of Fidelity, No. 584.

D.G. Supt. of Works—The Hon. Thomas English, M.L.C., P.D. G. Dir. of Cers.

D.G. Dir. of Ceremonies—William Hill, P.M. Lodge of Harmony, No. 505, and P.D.G. Org.

D.G. Asst. Dir. of Ceremonies—William Henry Bean, P.M. United Tradesmen's Lodge, No. 583.

D.G. Pursuivant—John Cox Bray, P.G.D. Pursuivant.

D.G. Stewards—William Martin Letchford, W.M. Lodge of Harmony, No. 505; Henry Edward

Bright, M.P., Lodge of Fidelity, No. 584; Thomas Paltridge, W.M. Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 1172; Charles Francis Godfrey Ashwin, P.M. Lodge of Truth, No. 649; and Henry Hill, Lodge of Harmony, No. 505.

Bro. McIntyre, P.M. 583, was elected D.G. Treasurer, and Bro. John Monck, Tyler.

Report of General Committee.

"To the R.W. the D.G. Master and
"District Grand Lodge of South Australia.

"Your Committee report:—

"That they have ascertained that £45 was paid by the District Grand Lodge for furniture on the 14th day of August, 1866. They are, therefore, of opinion that the giving it up to the trustees of the Freemason's Hall ought to be a sufficient equivalent for the use of the hall to the end of the year, at which time they hope to be free from debt.

"They recommend that afterwards a reasonable rent be paid for the use of the hall, and that a liberal subscription be made annually towards paying off the principal for which the hall is mortgaged, provided that they are shown a reasonable prospect of the liquidation thereof in the course of a few years, and that a remainder is insured to the Benevolent Fund.

"They regret that the trustees have not put them into a position to make any more definite recommendation; but, if supplied with the requisite information, will endeavour in a supplementary report, to supply the deficiency.

"They report that during the past quarter, dispensations have been granted to the Duke of Edinburgh Lodge to walk in procession for the purpose of presenting an address to Bro. His Excellency Sir Jas. Fergusson, Bart.; and the United Tradesmen's Lodge to pass and raise Bro. Hyman at intervals less than four weeks.

"They regret to say that a very heavy list of brothers have had their names erased from the lodge, chiefly for non-payment of dues:—From the United Tradesmen's Lodge—Reuben Mills, Alex. McKenzie, B. C. De Lissa, Wm. Fowler, Richard Stephens, Samuel Lazar, Alex. Wearing, Carl Henning, Chas. White, and Robt. Symes. From the Lodge of St. John—George Lambert, Stephen Hall, George Knight, Hugh Matthisen, Charles Dean, James McDonald, W. Burley, James Perry, Donald McLean, Thomas Taylor, and William Rogers.

"They have satisfaction in reporting that the returns to June, 1870, show the addition of the names of thirty-six brothers as initiated into Masonry. They are also pleased to report that the returns were made very regularly, and dues paid, only one exception having been made; and that all dues to Grand Lodge have been remitted by August mail.

"As the October Quarterly Communication is the time for the R.W. the D.G.M. to appoint officers for the ensuing year, it will be your duty to elect Treasurer and Tyler.

"Also, to elect ten members of the General Committee. The following brothers have consented to act if elected:—W. Bros. Whittell, Wicksteed, Gurner, Hamlin, McIntyre, Hill, A. E. Davies, Crank, Macaulay, and Tuxford.

"Also, four members of the Board of Management of the Masonic Benevolent Fund, and three Auditors. Bros. Whittell, Botting, Gurner, and Haussen have consented to act, if elected, on the Board.

"F. J. BOTTING, Chairman.

FREDERIC WICKSTEED, Secretary.

"Adelaide, September 20th, 1870."

The consideration of the report was postponed until next meeting. A new General Committee and a Committee of the Masonic Benevolent Fund for the ensuing year were appointed; as also the Auditors.

The balance-sheet and return of the trustees of the Masonic Hall was then read, and it was decided that the whole matter be left in the hands of the General Committee, and that they be requested to prepare a report for submission to D.G. Lodge.

The balance of the South Australian Masonic Benevolent Fund is £116 1s. 2d.

There being no further business before the lodge, it was closed with solemn prayer.

HIS Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has kindly stated that it will afford him great satisfaction to preside at the Anniversary Festival of the Earlwood Asylum for Idiots in the ensuing year.

WE have great pleasure in stating that Bro. Jesse Owen, the Hon. Secretary to the "Tedder Fund," will be happy to receive subscriptions, and will gladly forward circulars with the names of the committee and the objects of the fund. Applications can be addressed to the editor.

KNIGHT TEMPLARY.

The half-yearly meeting of the Grand Conclave of Knights Templar was held on Friday, the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. The M.E. and S. Grand Master Sir Knt. W. Stuart, occupied the throne, supported Sir Knts. the Rev. J. Huyshe, the D.G.M.; Col. Vernon, Past D.G.M.; C. J. Vigne, P.G.C. Dorsetshire; Capt. Philips, P.G.C. Suffolk and Cambridge; the Right Hon. Lord Eliot, P.G.C. Cornwall; the Hon. A. W. A. N. Hood, M.P., P.G.C. Somerset; Major Harvey T. Duncan, P.G.C. British Burmah; Capt. Clerke, Past P.G.C. West Indies; A. C. Crookshank, Past P.G.C. Ceylon; S. Rawson, Past P.G.C. China; the Earl of Limerick, Grand Prior; R. J. Spiers, D.P.G.C. Oxford; Capt. Portlock Dodson, D.P.G.C. Kent; S. Rosenthal, F. Binckes, P.G. Officers, and a large number of frateres.

The Grand Conclave was opened in ample form, and the Grand Registrar called the muster roll.

The P.G.C. for Somerset, the Hon. A. W. A. N. Hood, and the P.G.C. for British Burmah, Major Harvey T. Duncan, attended and performed their homage. The minutes of the last Grand Conclave were read and confirmed. The following report of the Committee was then read:—

"Most Eminent and Supreme Grand Master:

"The Committee of Grand Conclave has the honour to report that the numerical force of the Order has steadily increased since the date of the last meeting.

"The change in the place of meeting is an important event, which has taken place since the last Conclave. The premises at Bedford-row having been sold, and it having been found impossible to come to any arrangement with the purchaser in any respect advantageous to, or within the means of the Order, the Committee appointed ad hoc was reluctantly obliged to recommend the abandonment of that locality. The Board of General Purposes of the Craft kindly offered the Order the use of the De Grey and Ripon Room, at Freemasons' Hall; but it being found not only too small, but so inconveniently situated with regard to those auxiliary rooms requisite for the performance of the ceremonies and the convenience of the officers, the Grand Director of Ceremonies, to whose discretion the Committee had remitted the matter, saw no other solution of the difficulty than to fix on the room we now occupy, and which, with those adjacent, offers great convenience. Your Committee will, however, not lose sight of the matter, should a more suitable arrangement be subsequently found possible.

"Since the Grand Conclave holden in May, a new warrant has been granted to the Moore Encampment, at Peterborough, Ontario, in the Dominion of Canada.

"The Very Eminent Dr. Falconer, the old and valued Grand Commander of Somersetshire, having, from the great increase of his professional business as a physician, found his time too fully occupied to allow him any longer to perform the office entrusted to him, resigned it into your hands, and you have been graciously pleased to appoint as his successor, the Honourable A. W. A. N. Hood, member for West Somerset, eldest son of Viscount Bridport, a captain in H.M. 25th Regiment. The Committee has to report that Captain Hood has accepted the appointment and announced his intention of presenting himself to perform his homage at this Conclave.

"A vacancy in the Committee having thus occurred, you have been pleased, in exercise of the power conferred by the Statutes, to appoint the Right Hon. the Lord Skelmersdale to supply his place during the remainder of the year.

"The Very Eminent Grand Commander, Colonel Greenlaw, having been removed, in the course of military duty, from British Burmah, he resigned his charge, and you have been pleased to appoint to the vacancy Major Harvey Tuckett Duncan, who has accepted the appointment, and signified his intention to attend and perform his homage at this Conclave. Your Committee regrets to report that Colonel Greenlaw, who was acting on behalf of the Grand Commander of Madras, the Very Eminent Sir Knt. Arthur Macdonald Ritchie, during his absence on leave, has since departed this life.

"The United Province of Northumberland and Berwick, and that of West Yorkshire, are still in commendam, no appropriate person having yet been found to assume their command.

"In consequence of a deputation from the Province of Lancashire, urging on your Committee the advisability of issuing an agenda paper a week previous to the meeting of the Grand Conclave, for the purpose of keeping the Order in general, and the absentees in particular, better informed as to the business to be brought before it, and of any change contemplated in the statutes, rules, or ordinances of the Order, your Committee decided in conformity with the above representation, to present and recommend for the consideration of Grand Conclave a motion to carry out the views expressed by the deputation, which will be formally moved, for altering the statute regulating the distribution of the agenda paper.

"Your Committee directed the Grand Vice-Chancellor to anticipate the decision of Grand Conclave by issuing the agenda paper of the business at the present meeting, according to the terms of the motion referred to, and before the same could be submitted to Grand Conclave for adoption; and such agenda paper has been distributed accordingly.

"Your Committee has decided to recommend the following grants from the Fund of Benevolence:—Sir Knight D—£10, and Sir Knight W—£25. The particulars of these cases will be stated to you orally by the Grand Treasurer, to whom they will be moved.

"At the suggestion of the Melita Encampment, subscriptions have been solicited for the sick and wounded in the present Continental war. Thus challenged to carry out one of the original objects of the Order of the Knights Hospitaller of St. John, those administrative officers with whom communication could be conveniently had at this season of the year, when the summoning of a Committee would have been futile, thought it would not be easy to reject such a suggestion; and, in consequence, issued a circular, which has produced no very considerable result.

"It is now suggested by your Committee that, inasmuch as the general fund subscribed for the sick and wounded amounts to so very large a sum, and in an indirect way may be considered as tending to nurture the war, the sum subscribed by members of the Order would be better applied to the relief of those unfortunate persons who have, by the calamity of war, been rendered destitute, without any fault of their own, and who will starve should they not receive a temporary assistance. Your Committee, therefore, recommends that the subscribers should be communicated with, with the view of obtaining their assent to the proposed change in the destination of the fund, and that its administration be entrusted to a Sub-Committee, especially appointed for such purpose.

"The Grand Treasurer reports the gross balance on the general account to be ... £404 12 10
Less to the credit of the Almoner's Fund ... 261 9 9

£143 3 1
which will be materially increased by May next, when the higher rate of fees granted by the Grand Conclave shall have come into the Exchequer.

"It is in contemplation to keep the general roll of members of the Order, in future, on parchment, to ensure greater durability.

(By order of the Committee of Grand Conclave),
"† P. MAC C. DE COLQUHOUN,
Grand Chancellor."

Sir Knt. C. Chandos Pole, Second Grand Captain, proposed, and Sir Knt. Chorlton seconded the following motion (which was carried nem. con.), for carrying out the recommendation of the Committee as to the future issue of the agenda paper:—

"At page 11 of the Statutes, paragraph 20, for the words 'given to each knight attending,' substitute the words, 'sent at least a week before the meeting of Grand Conclave to each Grand Officer, and to each private encampment in England and Wales, through the Grand Registrars of the respective provinces.'"

The following motion for authorising the change in the destination of the fund subscribed for the sick and wounded, was proposed by the D.G.M., the Rev. J. Huyshe, seconded by Sir Knts. Rawson, and agreed to, after explanation from Lord Eliot:—

"That on the subscribers being communicated with, and consenting thereto, the money collected in answer to an appeal from the Grand Chancellor of the Order be handed over to the Refugees' Benevolent Fund, through the Provincial Grand Commander for Cornwall, the Right Honourable Lord Eliot."

The motions for benevolences recommended in the report were then moved and seconded, and carried nem. con.

The report of the Committee was then received and adopted.

The Grand Almoner collected the alms, after which the Grand Conclave was closed in ample form.

A Grand Priory of the Order of Malta was then opened by the Grand Prior, the Rev. J. Huyshe.

The minutes of the last Grand Priory were read and confirmed.

The report of the Committee was read as follows:—

"Most Eminent and Supreme Grand Master,
"Your Committee has no special observations to make with respect to this Order on this occasion.

"The Grand Prior held in May last a Priory, under the Banner of the Observance Encampment, at which twelve members presented themselves, and were admitted into the Order; but inasmuch as, pursuant to the notice that he would hold a Priory, under the Banner of the St. George's Encampment (London), should a sufficient number of knights signify their desire to be received into the Order, and sufficient number of knights not having sent in their names, the Grand Prior has not thought it necessary to detain you for the somewhat lengthy ceremony on this occasion. The knights in question will, however, be able to receive the degree in May next.

"The stock of certificates on paper being exhausted, your Committee has ordered them to be printed for the future on parchment.

"By order of the Committee of Grand Priory.
"† P. MAC C. DE COLQUHOUN,
Grand Chancellor."

The report was received and adopted, and the Grand Priory was afterward closed in ample form.

The G.M., the D.G.M., the Rev. J. Huyshe, the Past D.G.M., Col. Vernon, with other knights, then adjourned to banquet.

THE WAR VICTIMS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—A few weeks since I obtained from you the favour of insertion of a communication in which I asked aid on behalf of the poor French peasants and others, who, through the devastating progress of the war in their country, have been reduced to a condition of poverty and extreme suffering. Alas! my pen was destitute of the power to touch the hearts of those to whom I addressed myself; and as is often the case, the inadequate handling of a subject mars the very object with which it is taken in hand. Would that I could write as fervently as I feel for those thousands of helpless ones—men, women, and children—whose homes have been destroyed, whose country has been devastated, and whose prospects are only of desolation and mourning. I should, in that case, be the means of bringing to their aid thousands of those who read THE FREEMASON and sympathise with human suffering. Trustworthy men tell us of travelling through what were some of the most fertile and fruitful tracts of country between Paris and the Rhine, in which the population is reduced to such a condition of destitution and suffering as to be literally stunned or stupified. A correspondent of one of the daily papers says:—"If I had the power to describe to you a tithe of the misery and desolation existing in the towns and villages I passed through, you would think me guilty of exaggeration. The sight of hamlet after hamlet, and small town after town, in which every shutter is closed, and the only sound to break the awful stillness in the chief thoroughfares is the clatter of our horses' hoof, is melancholy enough in itself. But when dismounting one comes from the general to the particular by entering house after house in the vain search for a small loaf or a cup of warm coffee, for which a handful of silver is offered, the real distress which reigns supreme is more nearly realised. It is not easy to carry much food on horseback; it is still harder to keep entirely to oneself the slender stock one does set out with when, at the first meal, hungry children come round and fight for the well-picked bones of a chicken, and women with infants at the breast almost faint with gratitude at the gift of a ha'porth of bread. I was consequently nearly famished upon arrival at Etampes. Have you anything left in England after all you have so generously given? I am ashamed to take up the cry of the horse-leech's daughter; but the weather is so hard and these poor people are so terribly hungry, I solemnly declare to you that their condition is desperate in the extreme. At Toury, a town of some two thousand inhabitants, the priest came into a house where I was—a baker's—and through a thin partition I heard him—shall I divulge it?—asking the baker to steal—no, to take a handful of meal from some entrusted to him by the Prussians to bake bread for them, and watched over by a sentry at the bakehouse-door—that he might take it to keep the soul in the body of a woman who had just brought a child into the world. I heard the baker crying like a baby as he declared that it was more than his life was worth to tamper with the stock which had been so carefully weighed out to him. In another house in the same town I found a respectable family which had been living for more than a week on onion broth—not made with meat, but simply onions and water!"

Others, and many writers with both the French and the German armies, but especially the former, give numerous proofs of similar and extreme suffering in other parts of the country through which the armies have advanced. Multitudes—women and children in particular—are thus reduced to the lowest ebb of poverty and distress; and the future is no brighter nor more endurable than the present—that is, if seasonable aid be not at once afforded them. Happily, there are some who, in view of their own happy Christmas, are thinking upon the desolate, and are sending their contributions to them. But the objects of relief are so many that the contributors need to be multiplied a hundred-fold.

My appeal has met with a response from a few of my brethren, and from the daughter of one; and what I now ask is, that you will permit me to acknowledge their contributions in the columns in which my appeal to them was made. Here is the list:—Bros. W. Bartell (177) 10s.; H. Chapman (177) 2s. 6d.; W. Carpenter (177), 5s.; W. Shearman, 2s. 6d.; G. Darcy (901), 5s. 6d.; W. G. Haylock (901), 5s.; collected by the latter in 901, 14s. 2d.; Miss Tilly Anderson, 10s.; smaller sums, 6s.

I propose to keep my list open for a week or two more, and then hand the sums I have received to the Daily News Fund.

Yours fraternally,
WILLIAM CARPENTER.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Faith, hope, and perseverance, in a good cause, will not fail to be rewarded in the one way or other; while on the other hand, rashness and want of consideration, is always unfortunate. I therefore trust that I have have not been too rash in sending you the following question, suggested to me by the communications of Bro. Hughan and a Masonic Student in last Saturday's number of THE FREEMASON, page 641:—Suppose that two or three "Good Templars" were to affirm that their Order was first founded or instituted by Jonadab, about A.M. 3128 (Jerm. 35-6, 2 Kings, chap. x.), or by any other worthy founder at any time prior to A.D. 1850, and suppose them to affirm that the Order as it not exists was but a revival of the ancient Order and re-instituted, with improvements, say about 1860, how could it be proved, say a hundred years after this, that Good Templarism did not exist before 1850, if they now, like "some too scrupulous brethren" in Masonry (in 1720), were to collect and destroy all the papers and parchment, evidences of their recent origin, for the benefit of the mystery? I submit that there would then be about as much evidence to prove the ancientness of the Good Templars as there is to prove the existence of Freemasonry prior to 1717 under the like circumstances.

Yours fraternally,
W. G. DORIC.

THE "RECTANGULAR REVIEW" ON "FREEMASONRY: ITS USE AND ABUSE."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—

"He who complies against his will,
Is of the same opinion still,"

and I presume such will be the case with our friend the "Editor R. R."

I would not attempt to occupy your space further on this subject, were it not that I am unwilling to be thought capable of shrinking from the acceptance of a direct challenge, and thereby subjecting myself to the imputation of cowardice. I therefore, as the shortest, clearest answer to the "Editor of R. R.'s" letter in your last, enclose you copy of balance-sheet for 1869, as circulated throughout the Craft, which will supply all the information called for by your correspondent, except that in connection with the "Stewards' Fund." For the management of that fund, which has nothing whatever to do with the funds of the Institution, the Board of Stewards for each Festival is solely responsible, and the Board for 1869, having, as a matter of course, been dissolved there is no one to call to account, and therefore I decline to republish its financial statement, contenting myself with simply stating that from the surplus of its fund the Board of Stewards very generously voted £131 5s. od. to the funds of the Institution.

In the statement enclosed, the item, "Ordinary Expenditure, £4,671 19s. 8d.," is the amount of the actual direct cost of the establishment at Wood Green. The other figures speak for themselves, and I flatter myself, that the balance-sheet is just evidence of that success which must inevitably be the object of envy and detraction. Very fortunately the achievement of the former enables one comfortably to endure the latter, and in perfect equanimity I commend myself and this "unmanaged," best-abused Institution to the tender mercies of "R. R." and his kindred spirits.

Faithfully and fraternally yours,
FRED. BINCKES, Secretary,
Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

THE PURPLE v. WEST LANCASHIRE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Every member of the Order must fully agree with "P.Z.," &c., that "the favouritism and abuses are too glaring in West Lancashire to be passed over;" but I would remind him that individual efforts are useless if the Prov. G.M. will not personally interest himself in these matters. I have heard that he is not likely to do this. That whilst it pleases your correspondents to write, it does the holders of office no harm; and that if no reply is given to the various objections urged, the subject will soon be exhausted and die out, leaving them still open to adopt their own course. This is also evident from the fact that the Prov. G.M. has not replied either to my letter to him direct (which I can assure "P.M., P.Z.," duly came to his hands), or to that inserted in your publication of the 29th October last.

A difficulty in carrying out the suggestion of "G. B. E.," that the province be divided, might soon be got over if lodges in the northern division would take the necessary steps; and I would advise members not to delay in taking the initiative. Such an arrangement is indeed very desirable.

I shall be glad to tabulate for publication, as suggested by "P.M., P.Z.," a list of brethren who for the last fifteen or twenty years, have been appointed Prov. G. Officers (if Secretaries of lodges will kindly furnish me with particulars, through you), also information as to the number of times we have, in our several lodges, had the advantage of their supervision and instruction.

Yours fraternally,
P.M., Liverpool.

December 20th, 1870.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR,—A great deal has been written upon the above subject, and appeared in your journal from time to time, and I quite agree with those who advance that many have just grounds for complaint; but all who may desire the coveted distinction cannot obtain it in so large and numerous a province. I know of instances where brethren have joined lodges in other provinces in order to get into Provincial Grand Lodge; and of many others in which brethren of education and position, who worked in every instance well and efficiently for the cause in lodge and chapter, as well as outside of both, who have been passed over, indifferent workers and young Masons being appointed to offices in the West Lancashire Prov. Grand Lodge.

This is sufficient to disgust and wean from us many of our best and most influential members. Now, what is the cause of this state of things? Simply the leaving of matters in other hands than the proper ones. If the Prov. G.M. would visit lodges and chapters in his own province, make himself acquainted with the manner in which each were worked, and seek for information from the various P.M.'s and P.Z.'s, such a state as the present one would not exist; but so long as the recommendation of two or three of the Prov. G.L. Officers are taken and acted upon, so long will unjust appointments be made, favouritism and cliques be in the ascendant, and those who would grace the Prov. G.L., and whose investment would be hailed with satisfaction by the brethren generally, kept in the background. A radical change is required; it must, and will, occur. The brethren are commencing to agitate for it: they ask that no unfair appointments be longer made, and say that the continuance in office year after year of those who can never expect to take higher rank, should be put a stop to; that these should resign upon their laurels, and make way for others who are worthy of any Prov. G.L. distinction, and whose name is legion.

Yours very truly, &c., A P.M. WHO PLEADS FOR OTHERS THAN HIMSELF.

Dec. 20th, 1870.

THE CITY MASONIC CLUB.

This club held its annual banquet at the Jamaica Coffee House, Cornhill, on the 12th inst., Bro. W. Carpenter, P.M. 177, in the chair, and Bro. W. E. Haycock, P.M. 901, in the vice-chair. There were also present amongst others: Bros. E. G. Rolls, W. Naylor, H. Chapman, F. Walters, J. Child, Ferguson, Darcy, W. Mann, D. D. Beck, W. Seaman, S. Homewood, J. Cox, T. Lawrence, R. Ord, T. Jackson, G. Carey, J. Lawrence, and J. T. Lucas.

The charities are well supported by this society, and about a month since a subscription was commenced for the "City of London Masonic Lifeboat," and already amounts to over £200; and we hope before the summer to see the object attained for which the members have so ably appealed.

After a good banquet had been discussed, the claims of the fund were ably advocated by

The Chairman, who rose and said he had now to propose what, on these occasions, was called the toast of the evening. It reminded him that we were living in the era of clubs. There were clubs of every conceivable description—clubs for eating and for drinking, and some for both. There were clubs for clothing, and building, and talking, and walking, and swimming, and dancing, and singing, and rowing, and yatching, and thieving. We had clubs of all grades, from the aristocratic Carlton to the Christmas gin and pudding clubs. (Laughter.) Of the value of these clubs it would be difficult to form a just estimate. He might say, however, that some were mischievous, some harmless, and some useful in various degrees; but they all testified to the fact that man was a gregarious animal, and understood something of the advantages derivable from association and co-operation. (Hear.) Might he not place the City of London Masonic Club—which was the subject of his toast—in the category of useful clubs? (Hear, hear.) He might, and he did so. (Cheers.) What was the object of the club? Some who had visited them for the first time that evening might think that their object was eating and drinking—(laughter)—but it was not so. Eating and drinking was with them but an accident. They ate and drank as a matter of duty, although they tried to make the duty, as they strove to make every duty, a pleasure. (Cheers and laughter.) But what was the primary object of the club? He would briefly tell them. It was to advance its members in a correct verbal knowledge and a just appreciation of the ritual of Freemasonry; in a correct verbal knowledge of their ritual, so that they might, as far as that went, become qualified to take office in their respective lodges; and in a just appreciation of the ritual, so that they might—clearly comprehending the meaning of its several parts—be able to deliver it with that propriety and due emphasis which were indispensable to render it instructive and impressive. (Hear.) A ritual was useful only as a means to one end. No ritual, whether Masonic or more directly religious, was other than that. Freemasonry was a system of morality—he could not say a peculiar system of morality—for he believed it to be based upon the only real foundation of morality—the Bible; but it was a system of morality veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols, and it was only as the allegories were explained and the symbols interpreted that the high moral truths and principles embodied in it were developed and made plain. (Hear.) He need not point out to them the great difference there was, for both instruction and devotion, between an imperfect and slovenly and a perfect and intelligent recital of their ritual, and a dignified and lucid explanation of the symbols introduced in it. In the one case, the ceremonial was irksome and valueless, sometimes degenerating into something little better than a solemn farce; in the other case, it was an instructive and impressive ceremony, stimulating the mind and the affections in the pursuit of our duty towards God and man. (Hear.) Well, then, they saw the object of the City of London Masonic Club, and if such as were not members of it would visit it on any Monday evening, he thought they would admit that the means employed were well adapted for the attainment of their object. They worked the ceremonies and they conversed—not debated—upon any point in the ritual that to them appeared obscure or diverted from the original, so that they might acquire a thorough understanding of its import or meaning. There was a notion in some quarters that Masonic clubs should not be encouraged, lest they should be productive of evil instead of good. No doubt they were liable to abuse; but what was not? There was no reason why a Masonic club should not be conducted with as much propriety as a lodge of instruction; and he could safely say that this club was so conducted. If any doubted, let them come and see. (Hear.) He had now told them what was their object, and he believed that in so far as that object was attained, the Craft would be improved and they would be benefited. The basis of Masonry was as wide as the world; it was the sacred volume—truth in its highest, purest, most comprehensive and most practical form; and upon that foundation rested the triad of their Masonic obligations—brotherly love, relief, and truth—a triad comprehending all human virtues and forming a constellation which, when undimmed by the clouds of vice or error, shone forth with such heavenly brilliancy that it commanded the admiration and approval of God and man; for as those virtues were exemplified, they were carrying forward the beneficent purposes of the Great Architect of the Universe, who made His sun to rise on the evil and the good and His rain to descend on the just and the unjust. (Hear.) He would not be so impertinent as to deliver them a homily on their Masonic obligations, but he might be permitted to say, that if Masons fully realised their obligations, and carried out their principles, the world would present a very different aspect to what it now did. In their families and in their social relations, and in all their transactions with the outside world, truth and brotherly love would be their characteristics, and others would become imbued with the like feelings and principles. (Hear, hear.) The demon of war would be checked in his course of death and desolation. The bloody harvest of the battle field would be stayed, and the bombarding of cities and the burning of villages, amidst the shrieks of helpless women and children would become things of the past, only to be adverted to with feelings of detestation and horror—(cheers)—never to recur. In proportion as Masons realised their obligations and felt the force of the principles they professed, they would labour for the mental, moral, and religious culture of mankind, feeling with the poet, that—“Were half the power that holds the world in terror,

Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts,
But used to raise the human mind from error
There’d be no need of arsenals and forts.”

(Cheers.) He concluded by proposing “Prosperity to the City of London Masonic Club,” which was heartily received and drank.

Bro. James Chapman in responding to the toast, said he had been asked to say something about the City Masonic Life Boat Fund, of which he was the Honorary Secretary. He would not occupy their time by saying anything upon the good and merciful object of providing life-boats, to surround the shores of our maritime island. The value of such vessels was well known and appreciated, the only thing to be regretted was, that they were not more numerous. (Hear, hear.) The whole number of life-boats floated and maintained on our extensive coast was only 223, a number greatly inadequate to the exigencies of the case, and he thought that the work these few boats did should stimulate them to try and increase the number. (Hear, hear.) In the course of last year, the National Life Boat Institution had been the means of saving 118 lives from various wrecks, of and saving 24 vessels from destruction. Altogether, the Institution had contributed, since its establishment, to the rescuing of 20,000 lives from shipwreck. (Hear, hear.) What would be the extent of their rescues if their fleet were half as large again? He believed that it was from want of consideration only, that life-boats were not more numerous, and he thought it a disgrace to Freemasons, that while the Odd Fellows, Foresters, and Licensed Victuallers had each their life-boat, the Craft was without one. (Hear, hear.) He and those who were working with him, wished to see that disgrace wiped away, and especially they wanted to see it wiped away from the City of London, which, though the richest city and the largest port in the world, had no life-boat identified with its name. (Shame.) He wished it to be well understood, that this Life Boat Fund had not been originated in rivalry to the other and older one that was intended to float a Masonic Life Boat. They rather hoped to stimulate the brethren who were on that committee to greater zeal and activity. He thought they required a little stimulus, for the fund raised by the City of London Committee amounted to as much in a month as the others did in, he believed, a couple of years. (Hear, hear.) But he again deprecated all ideas of rivalry. Let each committee do its best to enlarge its sphere of action, and to get as much money as it could, and he believed that before the close of the next year there would be two Masonic Life Boats afloat, under the direction of the National Life Boat Society. (Cheers.)

Several other toasts were given and good speeches made thereon (but we have not space to insert them), and the brethren separated, having enjoyed themselves much, and resolving to carry out the object they had undertaken—to establish the “City Masonic Lifeboat Fund.”

ANNUAL MASONIC BALL AT PENDLETON.

The annual grand soirée and ball of the Richmond Lodge, No. 1011, of Ancient and Accepted Masons was held on Thursday, December 15th, in the large room of the Pendleton Town Hall, and, as usual, was one of the most fashionable gatherings that has taken place in this district for some time past. There was a large attendance of the brethren and their friends. The decorations of the ball-room was this year entrusted to Mr. Williams, of Manchester, who for a long time was connected with the Messrs. Tyrer, Quay-street, and the manner in which he has carried out his design, both as regards comfort and elegance, reflect the highest credit upon him. Usually light and attractive the hall had undergone a complete metamorphosis; the entrance and outside corridors were completely carpeted, and the adjoining ante-rooms were tastefully furnished and upholstered. The ball-room was most elegant, and the scene was particularly attractive when the gay throng, robed in dresses of most exquisite taste and in every variety of colour, moved in the mazy dance. The walls were decorated with the various devices and emblems of the Craft, both of ancient and curious design. Trees and shrubs, placed in suitable positions, contributed much to the beauty of the room. These were also arranged at intervals of a few feet on the grand staircase. For those who did not dance, other amusements were provided, such as chess, cards, and stereoscopic slides.

The brethren appeared in their full Masonic clothing, and dancing, which commenced shortly after eight o'clock, was kept up with spirit until the small hours of morning, relieved at intervals by songs and recitations, the contributors of which were, amongst others, Bro. Cockshot, who gave “Dogberry and Verge’s Charge to the Watch,” and Bro. Brooks, who gave several songs. Shortly after midnight the company partook of an excellent supper, at which all the delicacies of the season were served up. After ample justice had been done to the varied and abundant repast,

Bro. Ellis, W.M., proposed “The Queen and Our Lady Friends,” whom, he observed, they seldom united together, but on this occasion, he had great pleasure in doing so.

Bro. Harrop responded on behalf of the ladies. He paid them a high compliment, and said the fact of associating themselves with Freemasons showed they were anxious to assist and further a good and noble cause, and therefore were entitled to the just esteem of the brethren. (Hear, hear.)

The toast having been drank,

Bro. Ellis, W.M., proposed “The Health of the Visitors,” and

Bro. Statham, in responding, said he felt almost incapable of doing justice to their toast. However, he would be but a poor Freemason were he wanting in gratitude, or unable to return his very hearty thanks for the compliment that this lodge had paid them in sending the invitation, on the virtue of which the visitors appeared on that occasion. The same spirit of hospitality did not always exist; the present move was a step in the right direction, and he was glad the Richmond Lodge were determined to wear away the stigma which so clung to the Order in this respect. (Hear, hear.) This would enable them to introduce their lady friends, and do much, he thought, in strengthening and developing that good feeling which was so characteristic of Masonic brethren. (Hear, hear.) The secrets of the Order he was not at liberty to explain to the visitors, but if the gentlemen were at all curious on the point, they might soon satisfy that curiosity by joining. He could not say so much to the ladies. (The toast was enthusiastically received.)

Bro. Lafosse proposed “The Health of Bro. Ellis, W.M.,” and referred at great length to the marked kindness with which their most Worshipful Master always treated those with whom he came in contact, but more especially visitors, no matter whether married or single, on every possible occasion.

Bro. Ellis, in responding, thanked them for the compliment they had paid him, and for such a flattering proof their goodwill and sympathy—feelings which he knew were genuine, and which he esteemed it an honour and a privilege to reciprocate. (The toast was drank with three times times.)

The party then returned to the ball-room. Bro. T. Ellis, the W.M., officiated as M.C., assisted by Bros. J. Dixon, P.M.; T. Wallis, S.W.; M. Fentem, J.W.; T. Preston, S.D.; J. Ellis, J.D.; and R. Johnson, I.G.

Amongst the company present were the following brethren:—Sir Knights J. Bowers, P.E.C.; Simpson, Dobell, Fentem, and Ellis; Bros. H. Holder, P.P.G.P.; U. Nicholls, P.P.G.P.; S. Statham, P.M.; Harrop, W.M. (Newall); Dickson, P.M.; Dodge, P.M.; Caldwell, P.M.; Brooks, Moore, Radcliffe, H. Ellis, &c.

REPORT of Dr. Arthur Hill Hassall, Analyst of the “Lancet” Sanitary Commission, Author of “Food and its Adulterations,” &c., &c., on Mayar’s Semolina: “I have carefully tested, chemically and microscopically, the samples of Semolina sent by Messrs. L. Mayar & Co., 36, Mark Lane, London, E.C. I find them to be perfectly genuine, of excellent quality, and eminently nutritious. They contain a very large percentage of nitrogenous matter, chiefly gluten, and are far more nutritious than any other food, such as Arrowroot, Tapioca, Sago, Corn Flour, Farinaceous Food, ordinary Wheat Flour, or any of the Cereals in use as food in this country.—(Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London.”—Highly recommended by the Faculty for Infants, Invalids, &c. Makes delicious Pudding, Custards, Blanc Mange, &c. After a trial no family will be without Mayar’s Semolina.

Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

APRIL ELECTION, 1871.

THE Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers are solicited for HARRY NAPOLEON TAYLER,
AGED 7 YEARS.

Son of the late WILLIAM TAYLER, who was a member of the Lodge of Peace and Harmony, No 359, Hants. He was upwards of twenty years Chief Steward in the P. and O. S. N. Company's service, and died suddenly at Suez on the 7th of June, 1869, leaving a Widow and Six Children for whose support her means are very inadequate.

Proxies received by Bro. F. HARE, St. Andrew's Lodge, Southampton.

Bro. RICHARD WEBB, Mineral Waterworks, Islington-green, London.
Bro. JOHN G. Webb, ditto.
Messrs. HALL and ROGERS, 15, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

APRIL ELECTION, 1871.

Third Application. Votes already recorded, 517.

THE Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers are earnestly solicited on behalf of ALFRED NUTT,
AGED 7½ YEARS.

Whose Father, the late Bro. JOHN NUTT, was a Coal Merchant, in Leicester, and became a bankrupt, owing to great losses sustained in a farm which he occupied, which circumstance so preyed upon his mind as to cause his death six weeks afterwards, leaving a Widow and Five Children totally unprovided for. He was a subscribing member of St. John's Lodge, No. 279, for seventeen years, up to his death. His widow is quite unable to provide a suitable education for her children; she therefore, implores the kind assistance of the Governors and Subscribers of her little boy.

The case is strongly recommended by Bro. WILLIAM KELLY, P.M. 279, R.W. Prov. G.M. Leicestershire and Rutland, and by numerous Officers of the Province; also by the W. Bro. W. J. HUGHAN, Truro, Prov. G. Secretary of Cornwall; by either of whom proxies will be received. Also by Bro. GEORGE TOLLER, jun., P.G. Secretary, Freemason's Hall, Leicester; and by Mrs. NUTT, 86, Rutland-street, Leicester.

Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

ELECTION, APRIL, 1871.

THE Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers are earnestly solicited on behalf of WILLIAM RAMSEY PARKER,
AGED 8 YEARS.

His Father, Bro. WM. RAMSEY PARKER, formerly Wine and Spirit Merchant, Workop, Notts., now out of business and in ill-health, was initiated in Peace and Unity Lodge, Preston, in 1861, and from that time up to the end of 1867 was a member of three lodges in Sheffield and Doncaster (West Yorkshire). He was the founder of the Pelham Lodge, Workop, and great credit is due to him in the way he accomplished it; a terwards W.M. of the same lodge. He was also a member of the Royal Arch Chapter of Paradise, Sheffield; a Knight Templar; and a member of the Rose Croix Encampment, Sheffield. He has a family of five children (eldest a girl under 12) and unable to earn a livelihood, or provide any education for the four boys.

The case is one deserving the sympathy of the Craft, and strongly recommended by the following Brethren:—

- Bro. THOS. CLOSE, 7.P., D.P.G.M. Notts: Nottingham.
- THOS. WEBSTER, P.M. 939, P.P.G. J.D.: Workop.
- H. HORNCastle, P.M. 939, P.G.P. Supt. Works, Notts.: Whitmoor, Ollerton.
- CHARLES W. WILSON, W.M. 939: Workop.
- EDWARD HAWLEY, Chaplain 939: Vicarage, Workop.
- C. FENDELOW, W.M. 526, P.M. 419, P.P.S.G.D. Staffordshire, 31 deg.
- Major WEBSTER, P.M., P.P.G.R. Sheffield.
- W. H. BRITAIN, P.M., W.M. 139: Sheffield.
- Lord WHARNCLEFFE, Wortley Hall, Rotherham.
- J. W. HAWKLEY, Brightside, Sheffield.
- R. ARNISON, P.M., P.G.S.: York House, Sheffield.
- Dr. BARTOLOME, P.M., P.P.G.W.: Eyre-street, Sheffield.
- W. LONGDEN, P.M., P.P.G.D.: Phoenix Foundry, Sheffield.
- JOSEPH RODGERS, P.M., Abbeydale, Sheffield.
- JOHN WALKER, P.M., P.P.G. Supt. Wks. N. & E. Yorkshire: Hull.

The Brethren marked thus * will be happy to receive voting papers.
